

LIBRARY
OF THE
UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA.
GIFT OF

U. S. War Department.

Received Mar. 1896.

Accessions No. 62207 Class No.

U. S. War Dept

THE WAR OF THE REBELLION:

A COMPILATION OF THE OFFICIAL RECORDS

OF THE
UNION AND CONFEDERATE ARMIES.

---

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF The Hon. DANIEL S. LAMONT, Secretary of War,

BY

MAJ. GEORGE B. DAVIS, U. S. A.,
MR. LESLIE J. PERRY,
MR. JOSEPH W. KIRKLEY,
Board of Publication.

A faint, circular purple stamp from the University of California is visible behind the text of the Board of Publication.
SERIES I—VOLUME XLVII—IN THREE PARTS.
PART II—CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.

---

WASHINGTON:
GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.
1895.

E465
1:47:10.

62207

PART II.—VOL. XLVII.

---

CORRESPONDENCE, ORDERS, AND RETURNS RELATING TO OPERATIONS IN NORTH CAROLINA (FROM FEBRU-ARY 1), SOUTH CAROLINA, SOUTHERN GEORGIA, AND EAST FLORIDA, FROM JANUARY 1, 1865, TO MARCH 23, 1865.*

UNION CORRESPONDENCE, ETC.

CITY POINT, VA., January 1, 1865—3.30 p. m.

(Received 5 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,
Chief of Staff:

I sent instructions to Sherman which advised that Foster should organize all the colored troops he could for his department. Negroes here would return white troops to their regiments, but you may direct General Meigs to send orders to Captain Strang to return without them. Please also instruct Sherman and Foster to retain all negroes South until the return of warm weather.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

(Copy by Halleck to Meigs.)

---

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
Washington, January 1, 1865. (Received 12th.)

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Savannah, Ga.:

MY DEAR GENERAL: Your letter of December 24 is received,† and I have just shown it to the Secretary of War, who expressed great pleasure and satisfaction in reading it. Your anticipations in regard to the Wilmington expedition have proved so correct that your reputation as a prophet may soon equal that as a general. Thank God, I had nothing to do with it, except to express the opinion that Butler's torpedo ship would have about as much effect on the forts as if he should — at them. I said about the same thing to the Secretary of War and General Grant before they consented to it. You ask me to criticise your plan of future operations. I fully agree with you that a central line on Brauchville and Columbia offers more advantages than one on either Augusta or Charleston. The destruction of railroads and supplies in South Carolina will do the enemy more harm than the capture of either or both of those cities. They can be left for a backhanded blow. I have no doubt that you can supply your army in the country from Savannah to Raleigh; but if you should have much fighting you may want ammunition. If so, you must make for the coast and notify us through Savannah or New Berne to meet you. We, however, shall probably first hear of your movements through the rebel newspapers, as before.

---

* For Correspondence, etc., from March 24, 1865, to June 30, 1865, see Part III. The Correspondence, etc., relating to operations in the State of North Carolina from January 1 to 31, 1865, is embraced in Vol. XLVI, Part II.

†See Vol. XLIV, p. 798.

Wilmington, in my opinion, would be a much greater prize than Charleston. If you can lay waste the interior of South Carolina and destroy the railroads Charleston must be abandoned by all except a small garrison. I hope you may be able to start early and move rapidly, for quick and rapid blows will now be most effective.

Thomas has done well against Hood, but he is too slow for an effective pursuit. Moreover, he will not live on the enemy. He himself is entirely opposed to a winter campaign, and is already speaking of recruiting his army for spring operations. I have, therefore, urged General Grant to send Schofield and A. J. Smith to re-enforce Canby at Mobile and move up the Alabama River to Selma and Montgomery, destroying all the enemy's manufactories and supplies on that line. Thomas, with the remainder of his forces, can easily defend Kentucky and Tennessee against any new raid that Jeff. Davis may plan in that direction.

It is useless talking about putting any of our armies into winter quarters. It is not necessary, and the financial condition of the country will not permit it. Those troops not required for defense must move into the enemy's country and live on it. There is no alternative; it must be done.

Wishing you a happy New Year and successful campaign, I am,

Yours, truly,

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 1, 1865.

Brig. Gen. L. C. EASTON,
Quartermaster, Savannah, Ga.:

GENERAL: The general-in-chief directs that hereafter transportation to Hilton Head and Beaufort be furnished without further orders to all colored men who desire to enlist in the regiments organizing at those points; care being taken, however, that none are so transported except at their own request.

I have the honor to be, general, respectfully, your obedient servant,

HENRY HITCHCOCK,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Savannah, Ga., January 1, 1865.

Brig. Gen. L. C. EASTON,
Chief Quartermaster, Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I regret exceedingly to trouble you, but I wish you to know the exact state of things. It is reported to me by Major-General Osterhaus that his artillery horses are dying at the picket rope of actual starvation, and other officers report that public and private horses of the command are without forage. Must this be allowed when forage is within six miles of us? Is there no possible expedient we can resort to in order to get a supply? Are there no inlets where we can land forage? Are there no flats nor small boats in which we can bring grain ashore? Be assured, general, that my officers and men, and myself, are at your service willing to work night and day. I am held responsible by my command for these things; my only alternative is to apply to you. I do not wish to oppose you, but to assist you in every way in my power.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 1, 1865.

Brig. Gen. W. T. WARD,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to say that the steamer Planter will be assigned for the transportation of your division to-morrow. He wishes the balance of your command pushed over in the boats to-morrow as rapidly as possible.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 2, 1865.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.

SIR: I have just received from Lieutenant-General Grant a copy of that part of your telegram* to him of 26th December, relating to cotton, a copy of which has been immediately furnished to General Easton, my chief quartermaster, who will be strictly governed by it. I had already been approached by all the consuls and half the people of Savannah on this cotton question, and my invariable answer has been that all the cotton in Savannah was prize of war and belonged to the United States, and nobody should recover a bale of it with my consent, and that as cotton had been one of the chief causes of this war it should help to pay its expenses; that all cotton became tainted with treason from the hour the first act of hostility was committed against the United States, some time in December, 1860, and that no bill of sale subsequent to that date could convey title. My orders were that an officer of the Quartermaster's Department, U. S. Army, might furnish the holder, agent, or attorney a mere certificate of the fact of seizure, with description of the bales, marks, &c., the cotton then to be turned over to the agent of the Treasury Department to be shipped to New York for sale. But since the receipt of your dispatch I have ordered General Easton to make the shipment himself to the quartermaster at New York, where you can dispose of it at pleasure. I do not think the Treasury Department ought to bother itself with the prizes or captures of war.

---

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 809.

Mr. Barclay, former consul at New York, representing Mr. Molineux, formerly consul here but absent since a long time, called on me in person with reference to cotton claimed by English subjects. He seemed amazed when I told him I should pay no respect to consular certificates, and that in no event would I treat an English subject with more favor than one of our own deluded citizens, and that for my part I was unwilling to fight for cotton for the benefit of Englishmen openly engaged in smuggling arms and instruments of war to kill us; that on the contrary it would afford me great satisfaction to conduct my army to Nassau and wipe out that nest of pirates. I explained to him, however, that I was not a diplomatic agent of the General Government of the United States, but that my opinion, so frankly expressed, was that of a soldier, which it would be well for him to heed. It appeared also that he owned a plantation on the line of investment of Savannah, which of course is destroyed, and for which he expected me to give him some certificate entitling him to indemnification, which I declined emphatically. I have adopted in Savannah rules concerning property, severe but just, founded upon the laws of nations and the practice of civilized governments; and am clearly of opinion that we should claim all the belligerent rights over conquered countries, that the people may realize the truth that war is no child's play. I embrace in this a copy of a letter dated December 31, 1864, in answer to one from Solomon Cohen, a rich lawyer, to General Blair, his personal friend, as follows.*

This letter was in answer to specific inquiries. It is clear and specific, and covers all the points, and should I leave before my orders are executed I will endeavor to impress upon my successor, General Foster, their wisdom and propriety. I hope the course I have taken in these matters will meet your approbation, and that the President will not refund to parties claiming cotton or other property without the strongest evidences of loyalty and friendship on the part of the claimant, or unless some other positive end is to be gained.

I am, with great respect, your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 2, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,
City Point:

GENERAL: I have received, by the hands of General Barnard, your note of 26th and letter of 27th December.† I herewith inclose to you a copy of a projet which I have this morning, in strict confidence, discussed with my immediate commanders. I shall need, however, larger supplies of stores, especially grain. I will inclose to you, with this, letters from General Easton, quartermaster, and Colonel Beckwith, commissary of subsistence, setting forth what will be required, and trust you will forward them with your sanction, so that the necessary steps may be taken at once to enable me to carry out this plan on time. I wrote you very fully on the 24th,‡ and have nothing to add to that. Everything here is quiet, and if I can get the necessary supplies in my wagons I shall be ready to start at the time indicated in my projet, but until those supplies are in hand I can do nothing; after they are I shall be ready to move with great rapidity. I have heard of the affair at Cape Fear; it has turned out as you will remember I expected. I have furnished General Easton a copy of the dispatch from the Secretary of War. He will retain possession of all cotton here and ship it, as fast as vessels can be had, to New York. I shall immediately send the Seventeenth Corps over to Port Royal by boats to be furnished by Admiral Dahlgren and General Foster, without interfering with General Easton's vessels, to make a lodgment on the railroad at Pocotaligo. General Barnard will remain with me a few days, and I shall send this by a staff officer, who can return on one of the vessels of the supply fleet. I suppose that now that General Butler has got through you can spare them to us.

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 846.

† See Vol. XLIV, pp 809, 820.

‡ See Vol. XLIV, p. 797.

My report of recent operations is nearly ready and will be sent on in a day or two, as soon as some further subordinate reports come in.

I am, with great respect, very truly, your friend,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

[Inclosure.]

Projet for January.—Extremely confidential.

Right Wing move men and artillery by transports to head of Broad River and Beaufort; get Port Royal Ferry and mass the wing at or in the neighborhood of Pocotaligo.

Left Wing and cavalry work slowly across the causeway toward Hardeeville to open a road by which wagons can reach their corps about Broad River; also by a rapid movement of the Left secure Sister's Ferry and out as far as the Augusta road—Robertsville.

In the meantime all guns, shot, shells, cotton, &c., to be got to a safe place, easy to guard, and provisions and wagons got ready for another swath, aiming to have our army in hand about the head of Broad River, say Pocotaligo, Robertsville, and Coosawhatchie by the 15th of January.

Second. Move with loaded wagons by the roads leading in the direction of Columbia, which afford the best chance of forage and provisions. Howard to be at Pocotaligo 15th of January, and Slocum to be at Robertsville and Kilpatrick at or near Coosawhatchie about same date.

General Foster's troops to occupy Savannah, and gun-boats to protect the rivers as soon as Howard gets Pocotaligo.

---

SAVANNAH, January 2, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT:

DEAR GENERAL: I found the California, which had brought Major Gray, at Fort Monroe, and sailed in her a few hours after my arrival (Tuesday evening, December 27). I had a tedious voyage, with a gale of wind dead ahead the whole way. Reached Hilton Head at 9 p. m. yesterday, and arrived here last evening at 4 p. m. General Sherman sends dispatches to day, and a liberal execution of your orders would require, or at least justify, me to return by the same steamer; but General Sherman prefers that I should stay long enough to see things for myself and for us to have some talk, and I believe it would meet the spirit of your orders to do so. I shall therefore remain for the Arago, which leaves Hilton Head next Monday, the 9th. I have already had an opportunity to meet Generals Slocum, Howard, and numerous other officers of rank, and am very much pleased with the spirit and feeling which seems to pervade with all. Every day the magnitude of results of Sherman's great march, combined with Hood's discomfiture, impresses itself more and more upon me. I think we shall see daylight this coming spring.

At the time I left City Point I was about renewing my examinations of the Fort Clifton lines in view of an enterprise upon them. I feel, however, as if matters were approaching a certain result with such strides that it is inexpedient to run risks, and perhaps lose men on uncertainties. Still, circumstances might occur which would render such an enterprise expedient. If Major Michie gets his pile bridge done in a week or ten days we shall have some fifty more available boats for such an operation. I presume I shall reach City Point on the 12th.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. BARNARD,
Brevet Major-General, &c.

---

HQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
Savannah, Ga., January 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. M. C. MEIGS,

Quartermaster-General U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I wrote you on the 30th ultimo* in regard to sending to this place sixty days' grain for 35,000 animals; also requesting you to send me six very light-draught steamers and twenty Schuylkill barges. I am now instructed by General Sherman to say that he contemplates a very important move, and desires the sixty days' grain and subsistence for 70,000 men for sixty days sent forward as rapidly as possible, one-half the grain and one-half the subsistence (thirty days') to be sent into Wassaw Sound in steamers drawing not over twelve feet of water, and the other half to Hilton Head in such vessels as can be procured, but the lighter they are the better. There is but thirteen feet water from Wassaw Sound to this place, at the highest tide. It is important in selecting the vessels that as many as possible be fixed upon that have capacity and conveniences for carrying animals, and I request that they may be selected with that view. Time is a very important consideration, and I suggest that such sail vessels as it may be necessary to use in this work be towed by the steamers in order to save as much time as possible. Send all grain and no hay. Hurry forward all the clothing and other stores I have asked for as soon as possible. The sixty days' grain will be required at the commencement of the move. In addition to this we must have grain to last us until that time, say fifteen days. The light steamers and barges asked for in my letter of the 30th ultimo I still require. The animals of this army are in great jeopardy at present for the want of grain, as but little has as yet arrived, and the animals have been without for several days. Grain should be pushed forward with the utmost dispatch.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

L. C. EASTON,
Brevet Brigadier-General and Chief Quartermaster.

---

*See Vol. XLIV, p. 837.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
FIELD ORDERS, } In the Field, Savannah, Ga.,
No. 1. } January 2, 1865.
* * * * *

V. Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard, commanding Army of the Tennessee, will move the Seventeenth Corps to Port Royal Island. All details and detachments from this corps will join their command at once.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Aide-de-Camp.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
FIELD ORDERS, } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 2. } Savannah, Ga., January 2, 1865.
* * * * *

X. Captain Reese, chief engineer, will immediately relieve the pioneers and details of the Seventeenth Army Corps from duty on the fortifications and instruct them to report to their commands. The Fifteenth Army Corps will furnish all details required in their place.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 2, 1865.

Brigadier-General HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: By direction of the general commanding I have the honor to inform you that Major-General Foster, with the co-operation of the Navy, has been instructed to dismantle the forts on the coast below this city now held by garrisons from this command, and to request that you will reduce your force so occupied to the smallest number that can safely be left in charge of the ammunition and material now in the works. The residue of the garrisons will be withdrawn as soon as the ammunition has been removed.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to General Corse.)

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Savannah, Ga., January 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. FRANK P. BLAIR, Jr.,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am instructed by the major-general commanding to direct you to prepare your command and have it in readiness to move by water from Fort Thunderbolt, the movement to commence to-morrow. The infantry will be moved first by boats furnished by the Navy, with such horses as belong to the field and staff. The mounted infantry, artillery, and transportation will follow by vessels furnished by the quartermaster's department, or remain to go by land. Three days' rations in haversacks will be taken, if so much can be obtained. The pioneer corps and details from your command at work on the fortifications will be relieved. The major-general commanding desires that you send one of your pioneer corps or a suitable detail to Thunderbolt to at once prepare a wharf or place of embarkation. About 4,000 men can be transported a day. You can commence with the division nearest to Thunderbolt and continue on until the whole of your infantry is taken.

Respectfully,

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
DEPARTMENT OF THE TENNESSEE,
Savannah, Ga., January 2, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. D. LEGGETT,
Commanding Third Division :

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say to you in forwarding the inclosed letter from department headquarters,* that your command will embark next after the First Division, and that you will embark from Thunderbolt. You will move on the 4th instant, and in making your preparations will give as little publicity to it as possible.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 2, 1865.

General J. W. GEARY,
Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: The general-in-chief directs that hereafter no passes for going outside our lines be given. If any persons desire to go out, and you should deem it proper to let them, pass them to the pickets by a guard. None can go out and return. If any go they must remain out.

I am, general, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY DIVISION,
Near Savannah, Ga., January 2, 1865.

Captain DAYTON,
Aide-de Camp to the General-in-Chief:

CAPTAIN: I have found corn just the other side of Taylor's Creek in great abundance. Had a slight skirmish with some of Wheeler's cavalry this morning. A large number of my wagons have just returned loaded down with forage and sweet potatoes. Shall send out heavy train in the morning. Can make the trip in two days. First * See Taggart to Blair, next, ante.

Alabama Cavalry and Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry can be fully supplied if they report to me to-morrow with their wagon trains. They can accompany my people. They should bring ammunition, as we expect to have a little fight. If you will send a few of your headquarters wagons I will have them loaded with forage, honey, sweet potatoes, &c. My picket-line alone will be left between the Ogeechee and the Savannah. It will answer every purpose, however. I can now bring up my convalescent stock of horses and mules in less than two weeks.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. KILPATRICK,

Brigadier-General, U. S. Volunteers.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. COAST DIV., DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
No. 24. } Devaux's Neck, S. C., January 2, 1865.

I. The Twenty-sixth U. S. Colored Troops will be relieved from duty with this division and proceed to Beaufort, S. C., as soon as transportation can be procured.

* * * * *

By order of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,

First Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
No. 1. } Nashville, Tenn., January 3, 1865.

I. Capt. William R. Tuttle, One hundred and fifth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, is announced as assistant provost-marshal-general, Military Division of the Mississippi, vice Stockdale, relieved, and will be respected accordingly.

II. Capt. E. L. Anderson, Fifty-second Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, is hereby assigned to duty as acting assistant adjutant-general at these headquarters. He will be respected accordingly.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

R. M. SAWYER,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
FIELD ORDERS, } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 3. } Savannah, Ga., January 3, 1865.

* * * * *

III. In accordance with paragraph 5, Special Field Orders, No. 1, headquarters Military Division of the Mississippi, January 2, 1865, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair, commanding Seventeenth Army Corps, will move his command by such vessels as may be provided for that purpose to the point already indicated to him. All details and detachments from his corps will join their commands at once. The Fifteenth Corps, Major General Osterhaus commanding, will furnish all details for guard, fatigue, &c., required from this army while in the city.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 3. } Savannah, Ga., January 3, 1865.

* * * * *

III. Capt. Charles D. Miller, Seventy-sixth Ohio Veteran Infantry, is hereby relieved from duty as acting assistant inspector-general, to date from December 27, 1864.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. P. Joseph Osterhaus:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Savannah, Ga., January 3, 1865.

Major-General BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding desires me to say that by his order to move by organizations he does not wish to be understood as desiring you to be particular about brigades and divisions, but simply regiments, which will be pushed forward as rapidly as transportation can be furnished.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
 No. 13. } Savannah, Ga., January 3, 1865.

I. Capt. John Rziha, Nineteenth U. S. Infantry, is, at his own request, relieved from duty with the Fourteenth Army Corps as acting topographical engineer, and will join his regiment without delay.

By command of Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTIETH CORPS,
Cheves' House, Four Miles from Savannah, January 3, 1865.

Lieutenant-Colonel PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

COLONEL: I have in person this morning reconnoitered several miles up the road toward Hardeeville. Trees have been felled in the road from the rice-fields to this place and for many miles beyond. I have removed them to this place and for one mile and a half beyond; the others I will not cut out until I have a more minute and extensive examination made farther up the road. The rebels have driven off everything that they could and killed and left dead on the road everything they could not drive away. Few rebels seen. Their camp-fires plainly seen (from a large post) last night, but are not to be seen this morning. The fort is built on the Hardee farm, about one mile from here. It covers about three acres, large enough to encamp 2,000 men; has embrasures for about fifteen or twenty guns. It is on the highest ground near the road. I think it the best place to encamp my division. I have now three parties out, examining the country, hunting rebels, &c. I think none will be found.

Respectfully, &c.,

W. T. WARD,
Brigadier-General.

[First indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 3, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded for the information of the major-general commanding Left Wing:

General Ward has been ordered to encamp his division on the high ground spoken of, and to send reconnoitering parties toward Hardeeville, which is understood to be occupied by but a small force of cavalry.

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

[Second indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING,
Savannah, Ga., January 4, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded for information of the general-in-chief.

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 3, 1865.

Brig. Gen. W. T. WARD,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: Your note of this afternoon is just received. In reply the general commanding directs me to say that he does not wish for the present for you to advance your troops beyond the fortifications where you are now encamped. He wishes you to hold that and all of the roads so as to completely cover the pontoon bridge. You can, however, send out small reconnoitering parties to gather information. The general wishes for the present to avoid any serious fighting on that side of the river.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

- H. W. PERKINS,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

KILPATRICK'S HEADQUARTERS,
January 3, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN:

My people are getting plenty of forage on the other side of Taylor's Creek, but are fighting for it. Colonel Atkins, with 1,500 men and two pieces of artillery, crossed this morning and will clean the rebels out. When may I expect to get some horses from the infantry? I can feed them now and am very anxious to get ready for the field.

Answer.

J. KILPATRICK,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Thunderbolt, January 3, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD:

GENERAL: Major-General Foster desires me to inform you that the following-named steamers are employed in transporting the Seventeenth Corps from this point to Beaufort, S. C.: General Sherman, 500 men; Louisburg, 1,000 men; Fannie, 500 men; Crescent, 1,200 men; Spaulding, 1,000 men; Mary A. Boardman, 500 men; Canonicus, 600 men; Delaware, 800 men; Cosmopolitan, teams and wagons; Golden Gate, teams and wagons; George Leary, teams and wagons; Wyoming, teams and wagons; Sylph, teams and wagons. These steamers will return as soon as they have landed their troops.

I am, general, yours, very respectfully,

EDWARD N. STRONG,

Major and Aide-de-Camp.

[Indorsement.]

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Savannah, Ga., January 3, 1865.

Respectfully referred to Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair, commanding Seventeenth Army Corps, for his information.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES, DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,

Beaufort, S. C., January 4, 1865.

[Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR, Jr.:]

GENERAL: I find that there is no transportation here and you must arrange to have a portion of yours brought. A hundred wagons at least must be sent forward while the troops are moving. There is forage, and I think the more animals you can get over the better. General Foster says the wharf is not built, and in consequence one boat with 1,200 men on board is stuck.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

7 A. M.

P. S.—Two boat loads have disembarked.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 4. }

HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,

Savannah, Ga., January 4, 1865.

* * * * *

III. This command will be prepared to move at once. The First Brigade, Brig. Gen. M. F. Force commanding, will have the advance, followed by the Second Brigade, Col. G. F. Wiles commanding. The artillery, Lieutenant Bailey commanding, will follow in rear of the infantry.

Trains in same order as the troops, followed by ordnance and headquarters trains. Ambulances will follow in rear of each brigade.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. D. Leggett:

J. C. DOUGLASS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
Cheves' House, S. C., January 4, 1865.

Lieutenant-Colonel PERKINS,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Twentieth Army Corps:

COLONEL: This evening I sent Major Clay with 175 men to Jonesville. He found no rebel encampment there. A brigade of cavalry was there last night and left a few stragglers there to-day; none to-night. On his way he took two prisoners, one belonging to Hampton's cavalry, one to the infantry; first sent home to get fresh horses. The infantryman knows nothing, the cavalryman very little, but says that he thinks the cavalry have a camp between Jonesville and Beech Hills, and a battery, but does not know that such is the case. The cavalry were a part of Wheeler's command, under the command of Anderson. Major Clay also brought in two contrabands from Jonesville, who report that all the cavalry pickets in the river bottom, after the skirmish with my men last evening, were drawn in and retreated full speed through Jonesville last night, up the roads toward Hardeeville, saying that the "Yankees were coming;" since which time they have seen no rebel soldiers near Jonesville, and that they think all of them have gone back to Hardeeville. Before they left they shot down all the hogs and cattle and took all that the "poor negroes" had to eat, stating that the Yankees would get it if they (the rebels) did not kill, destroy, and take it. I informed Colonel Robinson when here to-day that Beech Hills would do to encamp upon. I learn to-night that it is in the river bottom and not fit for encampment, but that Jonesville is a fine place for several regiments, but not for a division. I also sent a party to examine the Red Bluff Fort. They found the roads leading to it high, dry, and good. The fort good but small; the water ten feet deep at low tide; several roads leading from it up and down the river; fine ground for encampments. The fort is three miles from my troops. Captain Crawford and Lieutenant Tuttle, of my staff, think that my troops could be supplied by landing stores at that point.

Your humble servant,

W. T. WARD,
Brigadier-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 4, 1865.

Brig. Gen. R. SAXTON,

Commanding District of Beaufort:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that the shell road from Beaufort to Port Royal Ferry be put in good order immediately, using every precaution not to excite the curiosity of the enemy or the citizens in your command.

Respectfully,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 4, 1865.

SOLOMON COHEN, Esq., Savannah, Ga.:

SIR: I am directed by Major-General Sherman to reply to the inquiries contained in your note to him of 3d instant, as follows: The rules laid down by him in his note* to Major-General Blair are simply a statement of what General Sherman's own policy will be while he remains in command here. He will not undertake to declare or prescribe a policy for his successors. General Sherman is now waiting for the mayor of Savannah to furnish him a list of those who desire to go beyond our lines. Upon the receipt of this he will make arrangements for sending out all such by flag of truce, and of this twenty-four hours' notice will be given. All baggage, &c., taken from the city will, of course, be examined; by whom and in what manner will be regulated by Brig. Gen. J. W. Geary, commanding the post.

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

HENRY HITCHCOCK,

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT,

Washington City, January 5, 1865—2.50 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,

Fortress Monroe:

I think it would be useful if you would write to Sherman, urging him to give facilities to the organization of colored troops. He does not seem to appreciate the importance of this measure and appears indifferent if not hostile.

EDWIN M. STANTON,

Secretary of War.

FORTRESS MONROE, VA., January 5, 1865—8 a. m.

(Received 9 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,

Washington:

Please have everything called for by Sherman forwarded without delay. He cannot move until the forage and subsistence called for is received. A special messenger from Sherman has just left here with his requisitions.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

Savannah, Ga., January 5, 1865.

General H. W. HALLECK,

Chief of Staff, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: Connected with my report of the operations of this branch of my army, I beg leave to submit the names of certain officers that in my judgment merit promotion or the favor of the Government, in addition to those heretofore submitted through regular official channels. Col. A. Beckwith, commissary of subsistence, was assigned to me by the chief of his department in April last. He at once entered on his duties with an energy and intelligence that could not be surpassed. I have never seen a more industrious officer, and the result has been that he has fed an army of 100,000 men, operating from Nashville to Savannah, a task that one year ago was regarded an impossibility. His coadjutor in this work, General Easton, of the quartermaster's department, has properly been brevetted a brigadier-general, and I request that a similar reward be conferred on Colonel Beckwith. Capt. L. M. Dayton, aide-de-camp on my personal staff, has held the rank of captain and served near my person since the battle of Shiloh without an increase of rank. Since our leaving Nashville in April last he has acted as an assistant adjutant-general, and I recommend he be appointed assistant adjutant-general, with the rank of major, as reward for his constant services.

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 846.

I am, with great respect, your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 5.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Savannah, Ga., January 5, 1865.

* * * * *

VII. Maj. C. Landgraebler, Second Missouri Light Artillery, acting chief of artillery, Seventeenth Army Corps, is relieved from such duty and will forthwith report to the commanding officer of his regiment at Saint Louis, Mo. United States Government transports and quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 2.

HDQRS. 4TH DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 5, 1865.

The troops of this command will move to-morrow morning (January 6) to Thunderbolt, to embark on transports as follows:

I. The First Brigade, Col. B. F. Potts commanding, will be prepared to embark by daylight, or as soon as boats are in readiness.

II. The Third Brigade, Brig. Gen. W. W. Belknap commanding, will move at 8 a. m.

III. The First Minnesota Battery, Captain Clayton, will follow the Third Brigade.

IV. The division supply train will follow the battery.

By order of Brig. Gen. Giles A. Smith:

CHAS. H. BRUSH,
First Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 5, 1865.

Rear-Admiral JOHN A. DAHLGREN, U. S. Navy,
Commanding South Atlantic Blockading Squadron:

ADMIRAL: I desire through you to express my thanks to Acting Master Ogilvie, of the U. S. steamer John Griffith, for his promptness in coming to my assistance while aground in Wassaw Sound on the steamer W. W. Coit, and for his services in piloting the steamer into the Wilmington River.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

FORT MONROE, January 6, 1865—3 p. m.

General GRANT:

I arrived here an hour ago en route for Savannah, by way of Hilton Head, and shall remain until to-morrow. Have you any word you wish to send, or any military news? Quartermaster-General, Townsend, and Barnes are with me.

E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

FORT MONROE, January 6, 1865—5 p. m.

General GRANT:

Mrs. Foster wants the general to be sent to Baltimore for an operation on his leg. I am in favor of gratifying her. Is there any good man that can be assigned to that command? If there is I will relieve him while there and make the appointment.

E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, VA., January 6, 1865—5.30 p. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Fort Monroe, Va.:

I am just in receipt of a letter from Sherman, asking me to re-enforce Foster so that he will not be compelled to leave a division of his army there. Please say to Sherman that I will send the division now embarking at Baltimore. They probably will reach him two days after you do. I wrote to Sherman some time ago to direct Foster to organize negro troops to do garrison duty. Please say to Sherman that if Foster will go to work and organize colored troops they can garrison the forts and islands, leaving all of his white troops for Savannah and the camp at Pocotaligo, enabling the division which I now send to return in the spring, if necessary.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., January 6, 1865—8.30 p. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Fort Monroe:

General Logan or Ord, either, will be good men to relieve Foster.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 6, 1865.

His Excellency President LINCOLN,
Washington:

DEAR SIR: I am gratified at the receipt of your letter of December 26,* at the hands of General Logan, especially to observe that you appreciate the division I made of my army, and that each part was duly proportioned to its work. The motto, "Nothing venture, nothing win," which you refer to, is most appropriate, and should I venture too much and happen to lose I shall bespeak your charitable inference. I am ready for the "great next" as soon as I can complete certain preliminaries and learn of General Grant his and your preferences of intermediate "objectives."

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 809.

With great respect, your servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., January 6, 1865—11.30 a. m.

Major-General MEIGS,

Quartermaster-General, Washington, D. C. :

I wish you would push grain and such commissary stores as may be turned over to your department for transportation to Sherman with the least possible delay. His movements depend on the receipt of these articles. After about the 15th instant it is desirable that a large quantity of grain and commissary stores for Sherman's army be shipped on schooners, with a few propellers that could tow them in case of necessity. They should report to Admiral Porter, who will watch Sherman's movements and send supplies whenever needed.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

FORT MONROE, VA., January 6, 1865—2.30 p. m.

(Received 6.10 p. m.)

Bvt. Brig. Gen. D. C. McCALLUM,

Superintendent of Military Railroads :

The Secretary of War directs that you proceed without delay to report in person to General Sherman at Savannah, or wherever he may be found.

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

LOUISVILLE, January 6, 1865.

(Received 11 a. m. 7th.)

General D. C. McCALLUM:

I am here on my way to Baltimore. The division has arrived, and will go forward to-night.

W. W. WRIGHT,
Chief Engineer.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Savannah, January 6, 1865.

THE OFFICER COMDG. CONFEDERATE FORCES IN SOUTH CAROLINA:

GENERAL: I send you herewith, by the hand of Capt. J. C. Audenried, of my staff, a list of persons (about 200) who desire to leave our lines. I will send them by steamer under flag of truce to the Savannah River railroad bridge, or the Coosawhatchie Landing, at the head of Broad River, as soon as I learn which point will be most acceptable to you.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 3. } Savannah, Ga., January 6, 1865.

During the approaching campaign the following instructions will be observed:

1. Whenever the whole corps moves upon the same road the trees along the line of march will be blazed with a cross +.

2. If the respective divisions move on separate roads the trees will be blazed as follows: For the First Division, cross with straight dash over  $\mp$ ; for the Second Division, cross with straight dash under  $\pm$ ; for the Third Division, cross with straight dash on right-hand side  $\parallel$ ; for the Fourth Division, cross with straight dash on left-hand side  $\perp$ .

3. If more than one division, but not the whole corps, move upon the same road, the corps cross will be blazed on the trees, and the division mark, according to the divisions present will be added thereto. For instance, for the First and Fourth Divisions moving on the same road, a cross with a dash above and on left-hand side  $\mp$ . For Second, Third, and Fourth Divisions moving on same road, corps cross with dash on right and left hand side and under it  $\pm$ .

Division commanders are charged with the promulgation and execution of this order.

By order of Maj. Gen. P. Jos. Osterhaus:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 6, 1865.

Col. D. MILES,

Commanding Third Brig., First Div., Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: You will at once move with your brigade to Cherokee Hill, on the road leading to Ebenezer Church (and the same road on which our column marched until within five miles of Savannah), and on arriving there you will relieve a brigade of General Baird's division guarding the stock of the corps grazing in that vicinity. You will probably be relieved to-morrow.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

G. W. SMITH,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE MILITARY DIVISION,
January 6, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GROVER,

Commanding Second Division, Nineteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you proceed with your division at 10 o'clock to-day via the railroad to the city of Baltimore. On your arrival at the city of Baltimore you will without delay embark your troops on transports already there in readiness for you. After you have embarked your command you will proceed to Fortress Monroe and there rendezvous, telegraphing to Lieutenant-General Grant immediately on your arrival. You will have to use the utmost vigilance to guard against desertion, large bounties, and the numerous bounty brokers who will be at work.

I am, general, very respectfully, &c.,

JAS. W. FORSYTH,
Brevet Brigadier-General and Chief of Staff.

CITY POINT, VA., January 7, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Fortress Monroe:

Please say to General Sherman I do not regard the capture of Charleston as of any military importance. He can pass it by, unless in doing so he leaves a force in his rear which it will be dangerous to have there. It will be left entirely to his own discretion whether Charleston should be taken now.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

STEAMER NEVADA,
Off Fort Monroe, January 7, 1865—12.15 p. m.

General GRANT:

Have just received your telegram of this date and will communicate your views to General Sherman. Will be off in half an hour. With good wishes for you,

Yours, truly,

E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 7, 1865.

Admiral DAHLGREN,
Savannah River:

DEAR ADMIRAL: The letter you send me is from Admiral Porter, at Beaufort, N. C. I am not certain that there is a vessel in Port Royal from Admiral Porter or I would write him. If there be one to return to him I beg you to send this, with a request that I be advised as early as possible as to the condition of the railroad from Beaufort, N. C., back to New Berne, and so on toward Goldsborough; also all maps and information of the country above New Berne; how many cars and locomotives are available to us on that road; whether there is good navigation from Beaufort, N. C., via Pamlico Sound, up Neuse River, &c. I want Admiral Porter to know that I expect to be ready to move about the 15th; that I have one head of column across Savannah River at this point; will soon have another at Port Royal Ferry, and expect to make another crossing at Sister's Ferry. I still adhere to my plan submitted to General Grant, and only await provisions and forage. The more I think of the affair at Wilmington the more I feel ashamed of the army there; but Butler is at fault, and he alone. Admiral Porter fulfilled his share to admiration. I think the admiral will feel more confidence in my troops, as he saw us carry points on the Mississippi where he had silenced the fire. All will turn out for the best yet.

I am, with respect, yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 7, 1865.

MR. ISAAH BEASLEY and OTHERS:

GENTLEMEN: By direction of General Sherman I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of yours dated January 3. He has also had an interview with the bearer of the same, Mr. Rodgers. He wishes me to express his satisfaction at your earnestness and progress, and wishes you to go on quietly and secretly with your organization. Keep up constant communication with the commanding officer here, whoever he may be, and who will always assist you. You cannot depend on General Sherman always being here, but you will meet with encouragement from our officers. You had better send in at times some of those guerrillas and persons who give you trouble, and we will dispose of them as prisoners of war, or if they are guerrillas and bushwhackers will banish them from the country or punish them. General Kilpatrick will be informed of your society and intentions, and you can feel assured of his good will and influence. The pass you have proposed will be adopted, and General Kilpatrick's officers will be notified.

I am, gentlemen, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Aide-de-Camp.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 7.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Savannah, Ga., January 7, 1865.

* * * * *

II. 1. Capt. C. B. Reese, chief engineer, will direct the pontoon train, in charge of Lieutenant-Colonel Tweeddale, to at once proceed to Fort Thunderbolt, preparatory to embarkation to Beaufort, S. C., to which point it will follow the Seventeenth Corps as soon as transportation can be furnished.

2. Major General Osterhaus, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps, will hold his command in readiness to move to Beaufort, S. C., and will send one division to Fort Thunderbolt Monday morning, the 9th instant, preparatory to embarkation. The remainder of his command will follow as soon as transportation can be furnished. He will continue to furnish the necessary daily details for labor on the fortifications heretofore ordered, or so much thereof as the decreasing number of his troops present will admit, relieving each division when ready to embark from all details by details from remaining divisions.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 7, 1865.

Brig. Gen. CHARLES R. WOODS,
Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to inform you that orders have been received at these headquarters looking to an early embarkation of the corps. You will therefore hold your division in readiness for a movement by water, reducing by inspections the baggage of the command to a proper limit. Division quartermasters will confer with Lieutenant-Colonel Fort, chief quartermaster for the corps, with reference to transportation, and division commissaries with Lieutenant-Colonel Carpenter as to the amount of rations to be procured. When the order for the embarkation shall be issued it will be by divisions, and all details then absent will be drawn in, their place being supplied by others from the remaining divisions of the corps. These instructions will be considered as confidential.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Generals Hazen, Smith, and Corse.)

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inclose to you a late Charleston paper, and the report of a deserter from the Third South Carolina Cavalry. It appears that a force of militia, estimated by General Hatch at 5,000 men, is assembling at or near Grahamville. General Hatch estimated the force in his front at 6,000 men. He thinks preparations are in progress by the enemy for evacuating the country near the coast and as far north as the Ashepoo River. Reports from General Schimmelfennig, at Morris Island, state that the enemy on James Island is being re-enforced. I shall send one regiment to General Schimmelfennig at once. The proclamation of the governor of South Carolina and the official orders published in the paper show that the State is girding up her loins for the coming fight. "All persons capable of bearing arms between the ages of sixteen and sixty" is rather trenching on the "cradle and the grave."

Very respectfully and truly,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 7, 1865.

Brig. Gen. A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Commanding Northern District, Morris Island, S. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your official report of the 30th ultimo, inclosing copy of an intercepted dispatch in regard to Fort Fisher.* I am directed by the major-general commanding to state that he does not approve of the firing on the channel, as Lieutenant-General Grant has ordered all firing to cease except for important reasons. The naval battery can fire as much as they choose. A regiment of infantry will be sent to report to you for duty.

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 839.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 8, 1865.

Major-General HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, Washington, D. C. :

GENERAL: My report of the Savannah campaign is finished. In spite of my urgency the map is not yet compiled, and the report of General Slocum is not yet in, so I must let the Arago depart without sending them. But as you are in possession of all substantial facts I suppose there is less anxiety for specific details. I am now moving my troops slowly and quietly to the new points, from which I can converge rapidly to my intended place of concentration; but I must have more bread and oats, but hope to have them in the course of this week.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS,
In the Field, January 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Comdg. Military Division of the Mississippi, Savannah :

GENERAL: Your dispatches, per Captain Audenried, were received and forwarded to Lieutenant-General Hardee, at Charleston. To facilitate the matter the substance was also telegraphed him. I now transmit herewith his response to your communication, and also a dispatch to myself upon the same subject, which will explain themselves.

Respectfully, general, your obedient servant,

J. WHEELER,
Major-General, C. S. Army.

[Inclosure No. 1.]

CHARLESTON, January 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding U. S. Forces :
(Care of Major-General Wheeler.)

Your communication in relation to the point at which the citizens coming into our lines from Savannah shall be delivered is received. I request that, if practicable, they be sent to Charleston Harbor. If this shall not meet with your concurrence, then I suggest Purysburg, on the Savannah River, as the place, and Wednesday, 11th instant, as the time of delivery.

W. J. HARDEE,
Lieutenant-General.

[Inclosure No. 2.]

CHARLESTON, January 7, 1865.

Major-General WHEELER:

General Hardee desires you to inform General Sherman that, owing to the difficulty in transportation, he would be gratified by General Sherman delivering the citizens in Charleston Harbor.

H. W. FEILDEN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

[JANUARY 8, 1865.—For Special Field Orders, No. 6, Military Division of the Mississippi (Sherman's), announcing congratulatory letters from President Lincoln and General Grant for services rendered during the campaign resulting in the capture of Savannah and the defeat of Hood's army in Tennessee, &c., see Vol. XLIV, p. 16.]

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Savannah, Ga., January 8, 1865.

HON. E. M. STANTON,

Secretary of War:

DEAR SIR: Major-General Osterhaus, who has been commanding the Fifteenth Army Corps for the last three months during the temporary absence of General Logan, feeling a delicacy about displacing any one of the admirable division commanders of the corps, has concluded to take a leave of absence, now that General Logan has returned, and to apply for assignment elsewhere at the expiration of the leave. I wish to commend to you again Major-General Osterhaus for a brave, energetic, and faithful soldier. He has been of essential service to me during the last two campaigns, where he added new luster to a reputation already national. If you could assign him to a field of labor suited to his taste and talents, I feel sure that he would honor the Government and perform his trust with assiduity.

With high esteem, I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

PROVOST-MARSHAL-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,Savannah, January 8, 1865.

Statement of Joseph Houston, second lieutenant, Company F, Ninety-fifth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and Seth Wheaton, second lieutenant, Fifty-ninth Regiment U. S. Infantry (colored), [who] came into the lines the 7th instant:

We escaped from Columbia, S. C., about the 1st instant, struck the Savannah River eleven miles below Augusta, and came down in a dug-out. Passed two camps of deserters from Wheeler's command of about 100 men each; heard of another camp of 300 men; were informed by a free negro pilot, who furnished us a chart of the river, that about 3,000 men had crossed the river on their way home; after crossing most of them threw away their arms and sold their horses. Other negroes confirmed this. We were told of two gun-boats being at Augusta. These, and one transport we passed lying near Mathews' Bluff, were said to be all the boats now on the river. Reports came to us from citizens and negroes all along the river that when General Sherman advanced Charleston would be given up and a line formed from Branchville to Mathews' Bluff; an order had been issued by General Hardee conscripting 40,000 negroes to construct works, and calling upon citizens to remove their stock north of this line. All the troops in South Carolina were said to be concentrating at Branchville. Negroes told us that all the people with their stock were moving to the north of Branchville. We passed Mathews' Bluff in the night; saw camp-fires and heard voices; we were so near that we heard one man remark to another, "Colonel, I am under a thousand obligations to you." The distance from Mathews' Bluff to Branchville is called thirty-five miles. We judge the distance from Savannah to the Bluff by river to be 125 miles. We saw no obstructions in the river below the Bluff except at one point, perhaps thirty miles from there; these had been there some time and were easily passed. Above the river there is but one bad place, which is called "Little Hell."

Taken by—

D. W. WHITTLE,
Captain and Assistant Provost-Marshal-General, Department and Army of the Tennessee.

[Indorsement.]

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Savannah, January 8, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded for the information of the major-general commanding.

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 8.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Savannah, Ga., January 8, 1865.

* * * * *

IX. These headquarters will remove to Beaufort, S. C., to-morrow, the 9th instant. Lieut. Col. W. E. Strong, assistant inspector-general and chief of staff, will remain to superintend the embarkation of the Fifteenth Corps and perform all other business connected with the command, which completed, he will report to the major-general commanding. Captain Reese, chief engineer, will remain in charge of the fortifications until further orders. Captain Buel, chief ordnance officer; Captain Pearson, chief commissary of musters; Asst. Surg. D. L. Huntington, assistant medical director, and Lieutenants Taylor and Stickney, will also remain, performing the duties of their respective departments.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Savannah, Ga., January 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say to you that the movement of your command can be postponed for one day. As soon as the transportation of the Seventeenth Corps has been shipped the pontoon bridge will be transported. There will be no need of waiting until the entire bridge is transported, as some of the boats can carry nothing but troops.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. E. STRONG,
Assistant Inspector-General and Chief of Staff.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 4. } Savannah, Ga., January 8, 1865.

I hereby assume command of the Fifteenth Army Corps. All orders and instructions now in force will continue so until further orders.

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 6. } Savannah, Ga., January 8, 1865.

I. This division will move from its present camp to-morrow, the 9th instant, at 7 a. m., taking the main road to Thunderbolt, the First Brigade in advance, followed by the Second and Third Brigades, respectively. The brigade transportation will march in rear of its own brigade. The ambulance train will move in the rear of the division, followed by the division train, the latter under the direction of Captain Schenk, division quartermaster. The regiments from this command now doing duty in the city will be relieved by other troops to-day. All fatigue, guard, and other details that may be out from the different brigades will rejoin their commands to-morrow in town to march out with the troops at 7 a. m.

By order of Brig. Gen. C. R. Woods:

FRED. H. WILSON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 8, 1865. (Received 15th.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, Armies of the United States:

GENERAL: In order to be able to garrison all the posts in this department I find it necessary to make available every soldier I have. For this purpose I would respectfully ask permission to send North the rebel officers, prisoners of war, that were sent to this department for retaliation. These now number about 500, about 100 of them having been exchanged by Colonel Mulford as being sick and unfit for service.

As the rebel authorities have since removed our prisoners from under fire in the city of Charleston, and these rebel officers being accordingly removed from Morris Island to this post and Fort Pulaski, there seems no necessity of keeping them for the original purpose for which they were sent, as General Hardee has stated that it was not the intention to expose our prisoners to the fire on Charleston. The granting of the above request will liberate one of my best regiments from guard duty and make it available for service in the field or garrison. I respectfully request to be informed, if you see fit to grant this request, to what point they are to be shipped.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 8, 1865. (Received 15th.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Chief of Staff, Armies of the United States :

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter* of the 31st ultimo in regard to the organization of all the able-bodied negroes brought in by General Sherman's army to this department for service in this department, and beg leave to express my gratification at this decision, because I need troops for garrison duty very much, and I can soon make these men available for that duty. I have several officers whose military excellence and gallantry fully entitle them to promotion to be officers in the new regiments. I anticipate no difficulty whatever in organizing these regiments and in obtaining most excellent officers. I will report the appointments, as soon as made, for confirmation by the President. In obedience to your direction, as soon as the letter was received I submitted it to General Sherman, who desired that I might carry out the order as soon as he moved and the city was turned over to my command. Until such time he desired the services of all the negro men in the quartermaster's department in loading and unloading vessels and in other preparations for a forward movement.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 8, 1865. (Received 15th.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Chief of Staff, Armies of the United States :

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter† of the 31st ultimo relative to the removal of the families of rebel officers in Savannah beyond our lines. In obedience to your directions I at once showed the letter to General Sherman, who desired that I might execute the order myself, and do so as soon as his army had left and the city turned over to my command. I will accordingly execute the order as soon as I am placed in command and report the action at once.

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 847.

† See Vol. XLIV, p. 846.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
Savannah, January 9, 1865.

General L. C. EASTON,
Chief Quartermaster, Savannah :

GENERAL: I have undertaken to send the families from Savannah to Charleston, and have fixed Wednesday, the 11th instant, to take them on board at our wharves. Captain Audenried, of my staff, will conduct the business, and I will authorize any expense necessary to carry out the undertaking. Please give public notice that the families who choose to leave Savannah under existing orders will be transported to Charleston, and that a steamer will receive them at such a time at such a dock on Wednesday. Place the steamer at the disposal of Captain Audenried. I think the admiral would cheerfully give you the use of the Harvest Moon, and Captain Audenried can relieve you of all details by simply giving him the necessary means and authority.

I am, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 9, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. WHEELER, C. S. Army:

GENERAL: Yours of January 8, with dispatches inclosed, is received. I will send the families, as requested, to Charleston Harbor, and give public notice that a steamer will take them on board here on Wednesday, and suppose they can reach the anchorage off Charleston next day; but should any delay occur it will arise from the endless excuses made by ladies, which General Hardee will understand. I will order my quartermaster to have a steamer at the wharf all Wednesday, to transport families to Charleston, to carry a small guard and flag to our gun-boat anchorage, and thence to such point as the naval commander may suggest.

Very truly, yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 7.	}	HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI, In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 9, 1865.
------------------------------------	---	--

I. The First Regiment Alabama Cavalry Volunteers, Col. George E. Spencer commanding, is hereby relieved from duty with the Department and Army of the Tennessee, and is assigned to the cavalry division of Brig. Gen. J. Kilpatrick. Colonel Spencer will report to General Kilpatrick for instruction.

*       *       *       *       *

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Aide-de-Camp.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 4. } Savannah, Ga., January 9, 1865.

I. Capt. L. H. Everts, assistant adjutant-general, having returned from absent sick, will at once resume his duties as assistant adjutant-general of this division, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly. All reports, official communications, &c., will therefore hereafter be addressed to him.

By order of Brig. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Savannah, Ga., January 9, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I have directed the Ninth Illinois to remain here for the present and drive some cattle that belong to us, in company with the Left Wing. I find that General Sherman intends to give the First Alabama to Kilpatrick and possibly the Ninth Illinois. I have resisted the latter transfer.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 3. } Beaufort, S. C., January 9, 1865.

I. This command will be prepared to move at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning to the camp selected to-day, the First Brigade taking the left of the road and the Third the right.

II. The necessary wagons will be at these headquarters at 8.30 a. m., and will be called for by the brigade quartermaster.

III. Each regiment will fix up a comfortable camp and dig wells for water, instead of using the stagnant water in the swamp. Brigade commanders will send word by the bearer the smallest number of wagons that they will require, and leave a permanent detail of one commissioned officer, a suitable number of non-commissioned officers, and fifty men to report to Captain Moore, at these headquarters, to unload the transportation when it arrives.

By order of Brig. Gen. Giles A. Smith:

CHAS. H. BRUSH,
First Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. TWENTIETH CORPS, PROVOST-MARSHAL'S OFFICE,
Savannah, Ga., January 9, 1865.

Lieut. Col. H. W. PERKINS, Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: I have the honor to report the arrival through our lines of three citizens, employés of the Georgia Central Railroad Company, two from Macon and one from Augusta. They report the road in running order from Macon to Gordon, on the 1st of January, which was all to be repaired, for the time being, of this road. The authorities were preparing the Macon and Atlanta road for the purpose of opening communication with Augusta, and had, on the 25th ultimo, still thirty miles to repair. They were not repairing the West Point road. The line was to be via Columbus, Macon, and Atlanta to Augusta. Railroad iron was very scarce, and it was doubtful whether they had sufficient to complete their line. The bridge over the Oconee River, on the Atlanta and Augusta road, was not yet repaired, and the authorities were at great loss for sawed timber, their mills all having been burned. The road would not be in running order for a month or more. The Augusta papers of the 4th had in them a telegram, partly official, announcing the death of General Hood. It was not considered true. The latest telegrams received and published reported his army endeavoring to cross the Tennessee, but had been prevented by flood and loss of pontoons. Much anxiety was felt for this army. All kinds of rumors prevailed concerning Lee's army, as to evacuating Richmond, re enforcing the forces in South Carolina, &c. There seemed to be no authority for any. The garrison in and around Augusta seemed to number about 1,000. General Fry was commanding the post. Considerable force was reported at Branchville. Telegraph line was up from Augusta to Macon.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WARHAM PARKS,
Major and Provost-Marshal, Twentieth Army Corps.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 9, 1865. (Received 15th.)

Major-General HALLECK,

Chief of Staff, Armies of the United States:

GENERAL: The latest reports from deserters, refugees, flags of truce, and the rumors of the citizens of Savannah (whence I have just returned, having gone for General Sherman's mail), are to the effect that several counties of Georgia have, by meetings, declared their desire to join the Union, and forwarded copies of their proceedings to General Sherman; that one regiment of old troops, stationed at Grahamville, has thrown down its arms and returned to Georgia; that the governor of Georgia, Governor Brown, has testified his disposition to return to the Union, and that he is willing to submit the question to the vote of the people; and that the Georgia Reserves at Augusta have disbanded and gone home. There is no doubt about the holding of the Union meetings in several counties. In one of them, Thomas County, a fight took place and the Unionists whipped. The other reports are credible, but not fully confirmed. There is evidently a great struggle going on in the public sentiment of the Georgians, and the question seems to be how much they dare risk in declaring their sentiments in favor of reconstruction.

Very respectfully and truly, yours,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 9, 1865.

Rear-Admiral J. A. DAHLGREN,
Commanding South Atlantic Blockading Squadron:

ADMIRAL: I have the honor to request that you will furnish one or two armed tugs, in addition to the gun-boat at Tullifinny Landing, to cover the embarkation of General Hatch's force. This embarkation will take place between two and five days from this time.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

CITY POINT, January 10, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,
Washington:

The following items are found in to-day's Richmond papers:

THE FIRE AT CHARLOTTE.—ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.

CHARLOTTE, January 9.

The fire which occurred here Saturday morning was the result of accident. The paymaster's office, in which the fire originated, the Government warehouses, including the quartermaster's and commissary offices, and a portion of the North Carolina and Charlotte and South Carolina depot buildings were burned. The loss was at first estimated as high as $20,000,000 in present currency, but has since been greatly reduced by the quantity of grain, sugar, &c., saved from the ruins.

CHARLESTON, January 8.

A dispatch from Graham's, dated 12 p. m., says:

"No news from the enemy this morning. A gentleman just from Savannah reports that Sherman has sent the Seventeenth Army Corps round to Beaufort to co-operate with Foster's troops between Pocotaligo and Coosawhatchie."

CHARLESTON, January 9.

Nothing received from below to-day. A dispatch from Macon reports the enemy 1,000 or 2,000 strong, with wagons and artillery, on the Ochopee River, moving in the direction of Southwestern Georgia. General Joseph E. Johnston was in Columbia, S. C., on the 5th instant.

SUPPLIES AND RAILROADS.

A fire has occurred in a Government store-house at Charlotte, in North Carolina. It contained 40,000 bushels of corn, only 10,000 bushels of which was saved, and that in a parched condition; also some sugar, no meat. This is the loss. By what means it was caused, whether by the agency of a Yankee incendiary or simple negligence of a guard, is not yet ascertained. The public attention is much more engaged with the general facts that vast accumulations of supplies are made in that quarter which are not forwarded to the army with the diligence required by the present condition of affairs. The fault is evidently in the railroads between Richmond and Greensborough, and the blame has generally been laid on the Richmond and Danville Company.

LATEST FROM THE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST.

The following dispatch has been received at the War Department from Macon, Ga.: "General Hood reports from Tupelo, January 6, 1865, that Thomas appeared to be moving up the Tennessee River. Until 9 a. m. on the 5th scouts report six gun-boats and sixty transports had passed Savannah, going toward Eastport, loaded with troops and supplies.

"G. T. BEAUREGARD,
Major-General."

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
No. 8. } In the Field, Savannah, Ga.,
January 10, 1865.

* * * * *

IV. Capt. Platt M. Thorne, Company H, One hundred and fiftieth Regiment New York Infantry Volunteers, is hereby assigned as chief of ordnance for the Left Wing, and will report for duty to Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum, commanding.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Aide-de-Camp.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 10, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

SIR: I have allowed the corps commanders of this army to raise a colored regiment each for pioneer work. The Seventeenth Corps has succeeded in raising about 800 men. I respectfully request the same authority to appoint officers for these organizations as that received by the commanding general Department of the South. The regimental organization is superior to the ordinary pioneer force, commanded by detailed officers, and is much better in point of economy.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR, Jr.,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I feel surprised, after the precautions that have been taken by yourself and officers, to find that many depredations have been committed near this place, and certain things done that would disgrace us even in the enemy's country, e. g., the robbing of some negroes and abusing their women. Please ascertain, if possible, approximately, the amount of damage wantonly committed on the island, and have it assessed on the brigade or regiment guilty.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 10, 1865.

The attention of division and subordinate commanders in this corps is again called to the necessity of immediately putting their commands in readiness for another campaign. The men must be thoroughly clothed and equipped. Requisitions must be at once made on the quartermaster's and ordnance departments to put the command in condition for active service. This must be attended to immediately, as our stay here will probably be short, and when the time arrives the command will move, whether in readiness or not.

By command of Brig. Gen. A. S. Williams:

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

MCINTOSH COUNTY, January 11, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN,
Commanding U. S. Army:

The undersigned, justices of the Inferior Court for the county of McIntosh, have been expecting, since our county and its neighborhood are in the possession of your troops, to receive from you such a proclamation as would define our present position, in obedience to which we would receive protection in our destitute situation. Disappointed in our expectation, in compliance with sundry applications from the suffering families of our county, we have appointed one of our body, Justice O. C. Hopkins, together with any one or more of our citizens who may volunteer to accompany him, instructing them to wait on you, explain our situation and the object of their visit to you, respectfully asking of your kindness a friendly reception and protection in their behalf.

Be pleased to accept the assurance of our sincere consideration. In testimony whereof we have hereto affixed our official signatures and the seal of the Inferior Court of the county of McIntosh this 11th day of January, 1865.

P. DE L. CHARTIN, J. I. C.
O. C. HOPKINS, J. I. C.
W. MIDDLETON, J. I. C.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. —.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Savannah, Ga., January 11, 1865.

The medical purveying depot of the Department of the South will continue at Hilton Head, any previous orders to the contrary notwithstanding.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL }
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 3.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 11, 1865.

The officers and soldiers of this army are reminded that all the land on this island (Port Royal) either belongs to the United States or is owned by people loyal to our Government and friendly disposed toward its soldiers, and it is therefore incumbent on them to afford the inhabitants of the district the kindest personal treatment and protection for their property. Personal abuse of the people will be most severely punished, and the amount of damage wantonly and unlawfully done to their property will be assessed to and collected from the individuals guilty, if they can be ascertained, and from companies, regiments, brigades, divisions, and corps, as the case may be, if the parties responsible are not found and reported.

This order will be read to every regiment, battery, and detachment of this command at parade for three successive days.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 9.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 11, 1865.

I. Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair, commanding Seventeenth Army Corps, will make every preparation to cross the Whale Branch of Coosaw River at daylight on Friday morning, the 13th instant. The pontoons will be laid at Port Royal Ferry and the first troops that cross will construct a small bridge-head. Just as soon as his command can cross General Blair will push on and secure Pocotaligo. Such portion of the Fifteenth Corps as may have in the meantime arrived will follow the Seventeenth Corps and support the movement. The troops will carry three days' rations in haversack.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 8.

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Beaufort, S. C., January 11, 1865.

* * * * *

III. This command will be prepared to move at daylight on Friday morning (the 13th instant) with three days' rations in haversacks. The ordnance train will be taken with the command. The supply train will remain in its present position until further orders.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 10.

HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
*In the Field, Savannah, Ga.,
January 12, 1865.*

I. Bvt. Brig. Gen. L. C. Easton, chief quartermaster, will turn over to Simeon Draper, esq., agent of the U. S. Treasury Department, all cotton now in the city of Savannah, prize of war, taking his receipt for the same in gross for quantity and returning for it to the Quartermaster-General. He will also afford Mr. Draper all the facilities in his power in the way of transportation, labor, &c., to enable him to handle the cotton with expedition.

II. General Easton will also turn over to Mr. Draper the custom-house, and such other buildings in the city of Savannah as he may need in the execution of his office.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Aide-de-Camp.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 12, 1865.

Major-General HALLECK:

MY DEAR FRIEND: I received yours of January 1* about the "negro." Since Mr. Stanton got here we have talked over all matters freely, and I deeply regret that I am threatened with that curse to all peace and comfort—popularity; but I trust to bad luck enough in the future to cure that, for I know enough of "the people" to feel that a single mistake made by some of my subordinates will tumble down my fame into infamy.

But the nigger? Why, in God's name, can't sensible men let him alone? When the people of the South tried to rule us through the negro, and became insolent, we cast them down, and on that question we are strong and unanimous. Neither cotton, the negro, nor any single interest or class should govern us.

But I fear, if you be right that that power behind the throne is growing, somebody must meet it or we are again involved in war with another class of fanatics. Mr. Lincoln has boldly and well met the one attack, now let him meet the other.

If it be insisted that I shall so conduct my operations that the negro alone is consulted, of course I will be defeated, and then where will be Sambo?

Don't military success imply the safety of Sambo and vice versa? Of course that cock-and-bull story of my turning back negroes that Wheeler might kill them is all humbug. I turned nobody back. Jeff. C. Davis did at Ebenezer Creek forbid certain plantation slaves—old men, women, and children—to follow his column; but they would come along and he took up his pontoon bridge, not because he wanted to leave them, but because he wanted his bridge.

He and Slocum both tell me that they don't believe Wheeler killed one of them. Slocum's column (30,000) reports 17,000 negroes. Now, with 1,200 wagons and the necessary impedimenta of an army, overloaded with two-thirds negroes, five-sixths of whom are helpless, and a large proportion of them babies and small children, had I encountered an enemy of respectable strength defeat would have been certain.

Tell the President that in such an event defeat would have cost him ten thousand times the effort to overcome that it now will to meet this new and growing pressure.

I know the fact that all natural emotions swing as the pendulum. These southrons pulled Sambo's pendulum so far over that the danger is it will on its return jump off its pivot. There are certain people who will find fault, and they can always get the pretext; but, thank God, I am not running for an office, and am not concerned because the rising generation will believe that I burned 500 niggers at one pop in * General Halleck's copy is dated December 30, 1864; see Vol. XLIV, p. 836.

Atlanta, or any such nonsense. I profess to be the best kind of a friend to Sambo, and think that on such a question Sambo should be consulted.

They gather round me in crowds, and I can't find out whether I am Moses or Aaron, or which of the prophets; but surely I am rated as one of the congregation, and it is hard to tell in what sense I am most appreciated by Sambo—in saving him from his master, or the new master that threatens him with a new species of slavery. I mean State recruiting agents. Poor negro—Lo, the poor Indian! Of course, sensible men understand such humbug, but some power must be invested in our Government to check these wild oscillations of public opinion.

The South deserves all she has got for her injustice to the negro, but that is no reason why we should go to the other extreme.

I do and will do the best I can for negroes, and feel sure that the problem is solving itself slowly and naturally. It needs nothing more than our fostering care. I thank you for the kind hint and will heed it so far as mere appearances go, but, not being dependent on votes, I can afford to act, as far as my influence goes, as a fly wheel instead of a mainspring.

With respect, &c., yours,

W. T. SHERMAN.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Savannah, Ga., January 12, 1865.

Brevet Major-General MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General:

SIR: The Secretary of War directs that you assume the charge of the captured cotton in this city and provide for its proper care and preservation until further orders. You will consider yourself charged with the duty of having sufficient guards and precautions for its security, and will apply to the commanding general for any force required. You will also detail a competent quartermaster for the special duty of seeing to its being turned over and receipted for by agents of the Treasury Department.

I am, sir, &c.,

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Minutes of an interview between the colored ministers and church officers at Savannah with the Secretary of War and Major-General Sherman.

HEADQUARTERS OF MAJOR-GENERAL SHERMAN,
*In the City of Savannah, Ga., Thursday evening,
January 12, 1865—8 p. m.*

On the evening of Thursday, the 12th day of January, 1865, the following persons of African descent met, by appointment, to hold an interview with Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War, and Major-General Sherman, to have a conference upon matters relating to the freedmen of the State of Georgia, to wit:

1. William J. Campbell, aged fifty-one years, born in Savannah; slave until 1849, and then liberated by will of his mistress, Mrs. Mary Maxwell; for ten years pastor of the First Baptist Church of Savannah, numbering about 1,800 members; average congregation, 1,900; the church property, belonging to the congregation (trustees white), worth $18,000.

2. John Cox, aged fifty-eight years, born in Savannah; slave until 1849, when he bought his freedom for $1,100; pastor of the Second African Baptist Church; in the ministry fifteen years; congregation, 1,222 persons; church property, worth $10,000, belonging to the congregation.

3. Ulysses L. Houston, aged forty-one years, born in Grahamville, S. C.; slave "until the Union army entered Savannah;" owned by Moses Henderson, Savannah, and pastor of Third African Baptist Church, congregation numbering 400; church property, worth $5,000, belongs to congregation; in the ministry about eight years.

4. William Bentley, aged seventy-two years, born in Savannah; slave until twenty-five years of age, when his master, John Waters, emancipated him by will; pastor of Andrew's Chapel, Methodist Episcopal Church (only one of that denomination in Savannah), congregation numbering 360 members; church property worth about $20,000, and is owned by the congregation; been in the ministry about twenty years; a member of Georgia conference.

5. Charles Bradwell, aged forty years, born in Liberty County, Ga.; slave until 1851; emancipated by will of his master, J. L. Bradwell; local preacher, in charge of the Methodist Episcopal congregation (Andrew's Chapel) in the absence of the minister; in the ministry ten years.

6. William Gaines, aged forty-one years, born in Wills County, Ga.; slave "until the Union forces freed me;" owned by Robert Toombs, formerly U. S. Senator, and his brother, Gabriel Toombs; local preacher of the Methodist Episcopal Church (Andrew's Chapel); in the ministry sixteen years.

7. James Hill, aged fifty-two years, born in Bryan County, Ga.; slave "up to the time the Union army come in;" owned by H. F. Willings, of Savannah; in the ministry sixteen years.

8. Glasgow Taylor, aged seventy-two years, born in Wilkes County, Ga.; slave "until the Union army come;" owned by A. P. Wetter; is a local preacher of the Methodist Episcopal Church (Andrew's Chapel); in the ministry thirty-five years.

9. Garrison Frazier, aged sixty-seven years, born in Granville County, N. C.; slave until eight years ago, when he bought himself and wife, paying $1,000 in gold and silver; is an ordained minister in the Baptist Church, but, his health failing, has now charge of no congregation; has been in the ministry thirty-five years.

10. James Mills, aged fifty-six years, born in Savannah; freeborn, and is a licensed preacher of the First Baptist Church; has been eight years in the ministry.

11. Abraham Burke, aged forty-eight years, born in Bryan County, Ga.; slave until twenty years ago, when he bought himself for $800; has been in the ministry about ten years.

12. Arthur Wardell, aged forty-four years, born in Liberty County, Ga.; slave until "freed by the Union army;" owned by A. A. Solomons, Savannah, and is a licensed minister in the Baptist Church; has been in the ministry six years.

13. Alexander Harris, aged forty-seven years, born in Savannah; freeborn; licensed minister of Third African Baptist Church; licensed about one month ago.

14. Andrew Neal, aged sixty-one years, born in Savannah; slave "until the Union army liberated me;" owned by Mr. William Gibbons, and has been deacon in the Third Baptist Church for ten years.

15. James Porter, aged thirty-nine years, born in Charleston, S. C.; freeborn, his mother having purchased her freedom; is lay reader and president of the board of wardens and vestry of Saint Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Colored Church in Savannah; has been in communion nine years; the congregation numbers about 200 persons; the church property is worth about $10,000, and is owned by the congregation.

16. Adolphus Delmotte, aged twenty-eight years, born in Savannah; freeborn; is a licensed minister of the Missionary Baptist Church of Milledgeville, congregation numbering about 300 or 400 persons; has been in the ministry about two years.

17. Jacob Godfrey, aged fifty-seven years, born in Marion, S. C.; slave "until the Union army freed me;" owned by James E. Godfrey, Methodist preacher, now in the rebel army; is a class leader and steward of Andrew's Chapel since 1836.

18. John Johnson, aged fifty-one years, born in Bryan County, Ga.; slave "up to the time the Union army came here;" owned by W. W. Lincoln, of Savannah; is class leader and treasurer of Andrew's Chapel for sixteen years.

19. Robert N. Taylor, aged fifty-one years, born in Wilkes County, Ga.; slave "to the time the Union army come;" was owned by Augustus P. Wetter, Savannah, and is class leader in Andrew's Chapel for nine years.

20. James Lynch, aged twenty-six years, born in Baltimore, Md.; freeborn; is presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and missionary to the Department of the South; has been seven years in the ministry and two years in the South.

Garrison Frazier, being chosen by the persons present to express their common sentiments upon the matters of inquiry, makes answers to inquiries as follows:

First. State what your understanding is in regard to the acts of Congress and President Lincoln's proclamation touching the condition of the colored people in the rebel States.

Answer. So far as I understand President Lincoln's proclamation to the rebellious States, it is, that if they would lay down their arms and submit to the laws of the United States before the 1st of January, 1863, all should be well, but if they did not, then all the slaves in the rebel States should be free, henceforth and forever. That is what I understood.

Second. State what you understand by slavery, and the freedom that was to be given by the President's proclamation.

Answer. Slavery is receiving by irresistible power the work of another man, and not by his consent. The freedom, as I understand it, promised by the proclamation is taking us from under the yoke of bondage and placing us where we could reap the fruit of our own labor and take care of ourselves and assist the Government in maintaining our freedom.

Third. State in what manner you think you can take care of yourselves, and how can you best assist the Government in maintaining your freedom.

Answer. The way we can best take care of ourselves is to have land, and turn in and till it by our labor—that is, by the labor of the women, and children, and old men—and we can soon maintain ourselves and have something to spare; and to assist the Government the young men should enlist in the service of the Government, and serve in such manner as they may be wanted. (The rebels told us that they piled them up and made batteries of them, and sold them to Cuba, but we don't believe that.) We want to be placed on land until we are able to buy it and make it our own.

Fourth. State in what manner you would rather live, whether scattered among the whites or in colonies by yourselves?

Answer. I would prefer to live by ourselves, for there is a prejudice against us in the South that will take years to get over, but I do not know that I can answer for my brethren.

(Mr. Lynch says he thinks they should not be separated, but live together. All the other persons present being questioned, one by one, answer that they agree with "Brother Frazier.")

Fifth. Do you think that there is intelligence enough among the slaves of the South to maintain themselves under the Government of the United States, and the equal protection of its laws, and maintain good and peaceable relations among yourselves and with your neighbors?

Answer. I think there is sufficient intelligence among us to do so.

Sixth. State what is the feeling of the black population of the South toward the Government of the United States; what is the understanding in respect to the present war, its causes and object, and their disposition to aid either side. State fully your views.

Answer. I think you will find there is thousands that are willing to make any sacrifice to assist the Government of the United States, while there is also many that are not willing to take up arms. I do not suppose there is a dozen men that is opposed to the Government. I understand as to the war that the South is the aggressor. President Lincoln was elected President by a majority of the United States, which guaranteed him the right of holding the office and exercising that right over the whole United States. The South, without knowing what he would do, rebelled. The war was commenced by the rebels before he came into the office. The object of the war was not, at first, to give the slaves their freedom, but the sole object of the war was, at first, to bring the rebellious States back into the Union and their loyalty to the laws of the United States. Afterward, knowing the value that was set on the slaves by the rebels, the President thought that his proclamation would stimulate them to lay down their arms, reduce them to obedience, and help to bring back the rebel States, and their not doing so has now made the freedom of the slaves a part of the war. It is my opinion that there is not a man in this city that could be started to help the rebels one inch, for that would be suicide. There was two black men left with the rebels, because they had taken an active part for the rebels, and thought something might befall them if they staid behind, but there is not another man. If the prayers that have gone up for the Union army could be read out you would not get through them these two weeks.

Seventh. State whether the sentiments you now express are those only of the colored people in the city, or do they extend to the colored population through the country, and what are your means of knowing the sentiments of those living in the country.

Answer. I think the sentiments are the same among the colored people of the State. My opinion is formed by personal communication in the course of my ministry, and also from the thousands that followed the Union army, leaving their homes and undergoing suffering. I did not think there would be so many; the number surpassed my expectation.

Eighth. If the rebel leaders were to arm the slaves what would be its effect?

Answer. I think they would fight as long as they were before the bayonet, and just as soon as they could get away they would desert, in my opinion.

Ninth. What, in your opinion, is the feeling of the colored people about enlisting and serving as soldiers of the United States, and what kind of military service do they prefer?

Answer. A large number have gone as soldiers to Port Royal to be drilled and put in the service, and I think there is thousands of the young men that will enlist; there is something about them that, perhaps, is wrong; they have suffered so long from the rebels that they want to meet and have a chance with them in the field. Some of them want to shoulder the musket, others want to go into the quartermaster or the commissary's service.

Tenth. Do you understand the mode of enlistment of colored persons in the rebel States, by State agents, under the act of Congress? If yea, state what your understanding is.

Answer. My understanding is that colored persons enlisted by State agents are enlisted as substitutes, and give credit to the States, and do not swell the army, because every black man enlisted by a State agent leaves a white man at home; and also, that larger bounties are given or promised by the State agents than are given by the States. The great object should be to push through this rebellion the shortest way, and there seems to be something wanting in the enlistment by State agents, for it don't strengthen the army, but takes one away for every colored man enlisted.

Eleventh. State what, in your opinion, is the best way to enlist colored men for soldiers.

Answer. I think, sir, that all compulsory operations should be put a stop to. The ministers would talk to them, and the young men would enlist. It is my opinion that it would be far better for the State agents to stay at home, and the enlistments to be made for the United States under the direction of General Sherman.

In the absence of General Sherman the following question was asked:

Twelfth. State what is the feeling of the colored people in regard to General Sherman, and how far do they regard his sentiments and actions as friendly to their rights and interests, or otherwise.

Answer. We looked upon General Sherman, prior to his arrival, as a man, in the providence of God, specially set apart to accomplish this work, and we unanimously felt inexpressible gratitude to him, looking upon him as a man that should be honored for the faithful performance of his duty. Some of us called upon him immediately upon his arrival, and it is probable he did not meet the Secretary with more courtesy than he met us. His conduct and deportment toward us characterized him as a friend and a gentleman. We have confidence in General Sherman, and think that what concerns us could not be under better hands. This is our opinion now from the short acquaintance and intercourse we have had.

(Mr. Lynch states that, with his limited acquaintance with General Sherman, he is unwilling to express an opinion. All others present declare their agreement with Mr. Frazier about General Sherman.)

Some conversation upon general subjects relating to General Sherman's march then ensued, of which no note was taken.

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, February 1, 1865.

I do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and faithful report of the questions and answers made by the colored ministers and church members of Savannah in my presence and hearing at the chambers of Major-General Sherman, on the evening of Thursday, the 12th day of January, 1865. The questions of General Sherman and the Secretary of War were reduced to writing and read to the persons present. The answers were made by the reverend Garrison Frazier, who was selected by the other ministers and church members to answer for them. The answers were written down in his exact words, and read over to the others, who, one by one, expressed his concurrence or dissent, as above set forth.

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. —.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Savannah, Ga., January 12, 1865.

The following officers are, by direction of the President, hereby assigned to duty according to their brevet rank:

Bvt. Maj. Gen. Charles R. Woods, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Maj. Gen. Giles A. Smith, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Maj. Gen. M. D. Leggett, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Maj. Gen. Judson Kilpatrick, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Maj. Gen. John E. Smith, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Maj. Gen. Absalom Baird, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Brig. Gen. W. T. Clark, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Brig. Gen. William B. Woods, U. S. Volunteers (colonel Seventy-sixth Ohio Volunteers); Bvt. Brig. Gen. Ario Pardee, jr., U. S. Volunteers (colonel One hundred and forty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers); Bvt. Brig. Gen. Henry A. Barnum, U. S. Volunteers (colonel One hundred and forty-ninth New York Volunteers); Bvt. Brig. Gen. George P. Buell, U. S. Volunteers (colonel Fifty-eighth Indiana Volunteers); Bvt. Brig. Gen. John H. Ketcham, U. S. Volunteers (colonel One hundred and fiftieth New York Volunteers); Bvt. Brig. Gen. William Cogswell, U. S. Volunteers (colonel Second Massachusetts Volunteers); Bvt. Brig. Gen. H. C. Hobart, U. S. Volunteers (colonel Twenty-first Wisconsin Volunteers); Bvt. Brig. Gen. B. D. Fearing, U. S. Volunteers (colonel Ninety-second Ohio Volunteers); Bvt. Brig. Gen. Smith D. Atkins, U. S. Volunteers (colonel Ninety-second Illinois Mounted Infantry).

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL }
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 4.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 12, 1865.

Capt. P. A. Taylor, Signal Corps, U. S. Army, having reported to the major-general commanding, in accordance with Special Orders, No. 343, War Department, October 12, 1864, will immediately assume command and direction of the signal detachment of this army, relieving Capt. J. M. McClintock, acting chief signal officer, therefrom. The major-general commanding desires to express to Captain McClintock his appreciation of the services rendered by him during the late campaign in Georgia.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL }
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 5.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 12, 1865.

The general commanding the Army of the Tennessee takes great pleasure in promulgating the following congratulatory order of Major-General Sherman, and in connection with it he wishes to renew the expressions of grateful acknowledgment due the officers and soldiers of this command for the prominent part they have so successfully borne in the extensive and important operations referred to by the commander-in-chief.*

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 10.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 12, 1865.

* * * * *

III. The movement of the Seventeenth Army Corps, as ordered by Special Field Orders, No. 9, from these headquarters, is postponed one day.

Major-General Blair will cause his command to be moved to the vicinity of Port Royal Ferry to-morrow and the preparations for crossing will be completed by the day after.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

THUNDERBOLT, January 12, 1865—1 p. m.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that there still remains here ready for embarkation of the Seventeenth Army Corps about as follows: General Blair's headquarters, 25 wagons, 250 animals; Fourth Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, 16 wagons, 1,150 animals, 50 ambulances, six-gun battery (equal to 12 wagons), 100 animals; department headquarters, 110 animals; signal corps, 25 animals; pontoon train, 110 animals; total, 103 wagons, 1,745 animals. I am advised by officers of the Seventeenth Army Corps, now here, that at the average rate of shipment they will not all embark before to-morrow night or next day morning, after which we can commence on the transportation of the First Division of our corps. About one-third of General Woods' troops are gone and others embarking with the Seventeenth Corps transportation, some without taking their regimental wagons; others do not get even it on board. The troops of the First Division can all go at once if directed, and commence on the troops of the Second Division to-morrow afternoon, if necessary. Hardly any of these vessels but would carry a brigade of men after all transportation is on board. The great trouble is to store the animals on these little boats. I do not believe we can ship any of the Second Division transportation before Sunday afternoon or Monday, if then. Please advise the general that I will be in Savannah again to-night, and may be able to give him more satisfactory information then.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

G. L. FORT,

Lieut. Col. and Chief Quartermaster, Fifteenth Army Corps.

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 16.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Beaufort, S. C., January 12, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. D. LEGGETT,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say to you that the movement for to-morrow is countermanded, and will not be made until to-morrow night.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Brig. Gen. Giles A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division.)

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 8. } Beaufort, S. C., January 12, 1865.

* * * * *

IV. The troops of this command will be held in readiness to move at any time during the night at twenty minutes' notice. The Second Brigade, Col. G. F. Wiles commanding, will have the advance. The regiments of this brigade will be held in readiness to move at ten minutes' notice.

The Fifteenth Ohio Battery, Lieutenant Bailey commanding, will follow the Second Brigade.

The First Brigade, Brig. Gen. M. F. Force commanding, will follow the Fifteenth Ohio Battery. Ambulances and two ammunition wagons will follow each brigade.

The transportation will follow in same order as the troops.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. D. Leggett:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPARTMENT,
 No. 7. } Savannah, Ga., January 12, 1865.

The limits of the Department of the South are extended so as to embrace the State of North Carolina. The headquarters will remain at Hilton Head. The department will, until further instructions, be subject to the orders and control of Major-General Sherman.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
 No. 10. } Hilton Head, S. C., January 12, 1865.

I. Lieut. Col. Charles B. Fox, commanding Fifty-fifth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers, is hereby ordered to proceed to Thunderbolt Battery, near Savannah, Ga., with his command and disembark at that place without delay. The quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster:

THORNDIKE D. HODGES,
Capt., 35th U. S. Colored Troops, and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,*Morris Island, S. C., January 12, 1865.*Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: I would respectfully make the following report of the facts relative to the flag of truce which took place in Charleston Harbor this day:

At 9 a. m. I received a signal dispatch from Captain Scott, the commanding officer of the fleet, stating that a Captain Audenried was at the fleet with some citizens of Savannah to be sent through our lines by a flag of truce at Cole's Island. I immediately sent one of my aides to Captain Scott to obtain more particular information of the matter. He reported to me that my signal sergeant had made an error in the dispatch, which should have read Charleston Harbor instead of Cole's Island; that Captain Audenried represented himself as being one of General Sherman's staff, and that he was sent here for the above-mentioned business by the order of General Sherman. Captain Scott was unable to inform me whether the officer had any written authority or instructions, but suffered the steamer to pass the picket monitor to the rendezvous of exchange. As I had received no instructions from Major-General Foster in regard to the truce I acted upon my previous orders, and at once stopped the steamer in its progress before it had communicated with the rebel tug. I then dispatched my aide to confer with Captain Audenried, and to discover whether he was clothed with any written authority. If he were not my orders were to suspend the flag of truce. Not having such credentials, Captain Audenried came ashore to me at Fort Strong, and stated that his orders were verbal from General Sherman to transfer the parties. Upon such authority I told him I could not permit it, but while conversing with him I unexpectedly received the desired instructions from Major-General Foster, and at once allowed him to proceed. I regret to say that the dispatch referred to was culpably delayed in being forwarded to me by some now unknown parties, who, when discovered, will be severely punished. The unfortunate delay caused by this neglect of the quartermaster or captain of the steamer lasted about one hour.

I have the honor to be, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
*Brigadier-General, Commanding.*HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
*Morris Island, S. C., January 12, 1865.*Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the South:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a communication of the 11th instant from Major Anderson, aide-de-camp, containing information relative to a flag-of-truce boat sent here by order of General Sherman, and also apprising me of the intended visit of the honorable the Secretary of War to this island. The instructions therein contained will be fully carried out. I have also the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 7th instant, disapproving of the firing in the channel, and also announcing the fact that a regiment of infantry will be sent to report to me before the expiration of many days. With regard to the firing, I have to report that during two nights twenty shots were fired by my batteries since my last communication. During the remaining nights the moon was so bright that the enemy's movements could be fully perceived, and as they attempted nothing there was no further firing. Regarding the arrival of the regiment, I have to say that, in my opinion, it is much needed; not from the fact that I apprehend an attack from the enemy, but on account of the necessity by which I am compelled to maintain a long outpost line. My men are often on duty for several nights in succession without sleep. This hard duty accounts for the increase in my sick list.

I have the honor to be, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 13, 1865.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD,
Commanding Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general-in-chief to acknowledge the receipt of yours in reference to promotions and your movement. He also directs me to say he wishes you to move on Pocotaligo as soon as you can be well prepared, and that success may be assured he does not wish you to hurry matters to the expense or endangering of success.

I am, general, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Aide-de-Camp.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 11. } HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga.,
January 13, 1865.

I. Surg. W. C. Bennett, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby relieved from duty as medical inspector of Twentieth Army Corps, and is assigned to the charge of hospitals of the Left Wing, Army of Georgia, in and around the city of Savannah.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Aide-de-Camp.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 11. } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 13, 1865.

I. Col. M. C. Garber, senior chief quartermaster, Department and Army of the Tennessee, is relieved from such duty, and will forthwith proceed to Washington, D. C., and report to the Quartermaster-General U. S. Army.

* * * * *

IX. A force equal to a brigade, from the troops present of the First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, in command of Col. Thomas Curly, Twenty-seventh Missouri Infantry, will proceed to-morrow morning, the 14th instant, following the Seventeenth Corps, to Port Royal Ferry, at which point they will receive further orders from the major-general commanding.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

OFFICE CHIEF QUARTERMASTER, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 13, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: I have no alteration to make in my statements to you last night in relation to the embarkation of the First Division. I do not think that the Seventeenth Army Corps will complete its embarkation before some time to-morrow, but will advise you as soon as I can find out. I do not think any of the Second Division can be embarked before Monday morning, unless you desire to send the troops before the transportation. I will see you to-night, and may know more about it then.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

G. L. FORT,
Lieut. Col. and Chief Quartermaster, Fifteenth Army Corps.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Thunderbolt, Ga., January 13, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Fifteenth Army Corps, Savannah, Ga.:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that I sent off three regiments this morning. I have now left one small regiment from each brigade which I have retained for the purpose of furnishing details to load the wagons. If the Second Division comes down to-morrow morning they will be able to commence sending troops off. I have two additional wharves built which will facilitate the shipment of the corps very much.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHAS. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Beaufort, S. C., January 13, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. A. MOWER,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say to you, in sending the inclosed order, that as soon as the bridge is laid the command will commence crossing. Colonel Kirby will make his movement for the capture of the pickets as soon as it is dark, and when he succeeds in driving the enemy away the bridge will be laid. The forward movement on Pocotaligo will commence at daylight to-morrow.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant.

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[Inclosure.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 10. } Beaufort, S. C., January 13, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The following are the orders for the movement to-day:

1. At 3 o'clock this p. m. Brig. Gen. M. D. Leggett, commanding Third Division, will move his command to a point to be designated by Lieutenant-Colonel Kirby, picket officer, near the Port Royal Ferry.

2. At 4 p. m. Brig. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will move his command to a position in rear of General Leggett.

3. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will move forward at 5 p. m. and encamp near the river.

4. The pontoon train, Major Hill commanding, will move out at 1 o'clock this p. m. on the Port Royal Ferry road.

Brig. Gen. M. D. Leggett will detail from his command one regiment as guard to the pontoon train. This regiment will be prepared to move when the train passes the camp.

Brigadier-General Leggett will furnish such details as Lieutenant-Colonel Kirby may wish to effect a crossing. As soon as the crossing has been secured Brigadier-General Leggett will throw over the river in boats two regiments, who will at once throw up a bridge-head at the proper point to protect the bridge. The bridge will then be laid and the command crossed over and placed in camp until daylight to-morrow morning, when the forward movement on Pocotaligo will be commenced.

The command will be provided with three days' rations from to-morrow morning.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., January 13, 1865.

Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the South:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that according to information received from deserters, the observations of my outposts, and the enemy's intercepted signal dispatches, there is now in my front about the same force of the enemy as was reported by me in a communication dated August 16, 1864, and of which a copy is herewith inclosed.\* As far as changes have taken place to my knowledge I have marked them in red ink. Not only is the strength the same, but the identical regiments and companies are here now. The only troops reported last August of which I have lost track are the Fifth Georgia Infantry and some companies of the Thirty-second Georgia Infantry. More recent and specific information having been received with regard to the batteries, garrisons, &c., of Sullivan's Island, Mount Pleasant, and Fort Sumter, I herewith inclose the reports of Captain Luttwitz, of my staff, on these three points. I also inclose the report of Colonel Kozlay, commanding post of Folly Island, on the new batteries erected on John's Island, near Stono River. These latter have all been armed since Colonel Kozlay's report. From intercepted signal messages I have the following given as the armament of the city batteries: Battery Ramsey, one 12 $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch Blakely gun, one 11-inch Dahlgren, three 10-inch columbiads, one 42-pounder rifle, one 11-inch Brooke; Battery Waring, two 10-inch columbiads; Calhoun Street Battery, one 8-inch rifle; Lawrence Street Battery, one 10-inch columbiad; Blakely Gun Battery, one 12 $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch Blakely gun; Vanderhorst's Wharf Battery, one 42-pounder rifle, one 10-inch columbiad; Castle Pinckney, three 10-inch columbiads, one 8-inch Brooke rifle. Another message states that 1,100 Austrian rifles have been drawn for the Second South Carolina Artillery. Another message speaks of 500 Enfield rifles and 150 Springfield rifle muskets being drawn for the First South Carolina Artillery.

I have the honor to be, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
New Berne, N. C., January 13, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Savannah, Ga.:

MY DEAR GENERAL: I have just sent a letter to Admiral Porter, giving him the information you ask for in your letter to Admiral Dahlgren of the 7th instant. When you get into this State, where I think you will be joyfully received by the mass of the population, I hope to be able to assist in some way. My force in this district is some 9,000, and of these scarcely more than 6,000 effective. Everything that could be spared was sent to Virginia. I can worry the rebels on the railroad between Wilmington and Goldsborough, if you think that advisable. Do you wish that road destroyed? I have 1,000,000 rounds of small ammunition and a good supply of other. When you get near me I can furnish you supplies. Please suggest to me, if you have time to do so, what you would like to have me do and what preparations you would like to have me make here for you. If you wish the railroad put in order I must have iron and workmen, &c. If you are going to need supplies I must prepare for that, and if more cars or engines, or more river transportation, &c., is to be needed I would like to know it. I hope you will find time to write to me. We are all throwing up our hats for Sherman and his army, and the whole country is rubbing its hands over you.

Ever sincerely yours,

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
No. 12. } *In the Field, Savannah, Ga.,
January 14, 1865.*

It being represented that the Confederate army and armed bands of robbers, acting professedly under the authority of the Confederate Government, are harassing the people of Georgia and endeavoring to intimidate them in the efforts they are making to secure to themselves provisions, clothing, security to life and property, and the restoration of law and good government in the State, it is hereby ordered and made public:

I. That the farmers of Georgia may bring into Savannah, Fernandina, or Jacksonville, Fla., marketing such as beef, pork, mutton, vegetables of any kind, fish, &c., as well as cotton in small quantities, and sell the same in open market, except the cotton, which must be sold by or through the Treasury agents, and may invest the proceeds in family stores, such as bacon and flour in reasonable quantities, groceries, shoes, and clothing, and articles not contraband of war, and carry the same back to their families. No trade stores will be attempted in the interior, or stocks of goods sold for them, but families may club together for mutual assistance and protection in coming and going.

II. The people are encouraged to meet together in peaceful assemblage to discuss measures looking to their safety and good government and the restoration of State and National authority, and will be protected by the National army when so doing, and all peaceable inhabitants who satisfy the commanding officers that they are earnestly laboring to that end must not only be left undisturbed in property and person, but must be protected as far as possible, consistent with the military operations. If any farmer or peaceable inhabitant is molested by the enemy, viz, the Confederate army or guerrillas, because of his friendship for the National Government, the perpetrator, if caught, will be summarily punished or his family made to suffer for the outrage; but if the crime cannot be traced to the actual party then retaliation will be made on the adherents to the cause of the rebellion. Should a Union man be murdered then a rebel selected by lot will be shot, or if a Union family be persecuted on account of the cause a rebel family will be banished to a foreign land. In aggravated cases retaliation will be extended as high as five for one. All commanding officers will act promptly in such cases and report their action after the retaliation is done.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

[JANUARY 14, 1865.—For Howard to Sherman, reporting advance to Pocatoligo, &c., see Part I, p. 192.]

---

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
No. 12. } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 14, 1865.

* * * * *

VII. The following movement of the army is directed for to-morrow: Major-General Blair will intrench a division strongly confronting

Pocotaligo, and with the other two divisions make a detour to turn the enemy's left. The brigade of the Fifteenth Corps now near Garden's Corners will move to near Stony Creek and be ready to support the division in front of Pocotaligo. In case the enemy is gone in the morning General Blair will secure some point on the railroad and communicate with General Hatch on the Coosawhatchie. Rations and forage will be brought forward for the troops this side of Port Royal as fast as they can be procured at Beaufort and transported.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 11. } Near Pocotaligo, S. C., January 14, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. D. Leggett, commanding Third Division, will at once proceed to intrench the position he now occupies and to-morrow will attract the attention of the enemy and annoy him as much as possible.

At 7 a. m. to-morrow General G. A. Smith will move his command out on the road just in rear of the Third Division, running in a north-east direction.

Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will follow the Fourth Division. The intention of the movement is to strike the railroad north of Pocotaligo, and further directions will be given for the movement to-morrow.

Ten ordnance teams and ambulance train will accompany each division; the remainder of the train will be parked in rear of the Third Division.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS.
No. 10. } Port Royal Island, January 14, 1865.

I. This command will move across the river promptly at daylight (6.30 a. m.), moving in same order as before.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. D. Leggett:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 14, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General, U. S. Armies, present:

GENERAL: I have the honor to request respectfully that the following-named officers may be brevetted for gallant conduct on the field of battle, viz: Col. A. S. Hartwell, Fifty-fifth Massachusetts Volunteers (colored), to be brevetted brigadier-general for gallant conduct at the engagement of Honey Hill, S. C., December 30, 1864. Capt. George E. Gouraud, aide-de camp, to be brevetted major for gallantry in the engagement of Honey Hill, S. C., December 30, 1864. Colonel Hartwell gallantly led his brigade against the enemy's works and fell pierced with three wounds, his horse being shot under him. Captain Gouraud was much exposed and very efficient during the engagement, and upon the fall of Colonel Hartwell rallied and reformed his regiment. Both are earnestly recommended for the above promotion as an act of justice to their merit and a reward for their gallant conduct.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,

Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 11, 1865.

Major STRONG:

(Of General Foster's staff.)

MAJOR: My bridge is laid and the forces are crossing, but the canvas is rotten. I want your bridge, boats and all, sent me by water as soon as possible by Broad River and Whale Branch to Port Royal Ferry.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 14, 1865.

Brig. Gen. JOHN P. HATCH,

Commanding Coast Division:

GENERAL: The following dispatch has just been received from the major-general commanding, dated Savannah, Ga., January 13, 1865:

Send word to General Hatch at once that he will keep all his force with him and prepare to move on the offensive in co-operation with General Howard as soon as a forward movement is made. It is not the present purpose to withdraw General Hatch and his forces from their present position. If the regiment that was to go to Florida has not gone detain it where it is.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS,
No. 13.

} HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga.,
January 15, 1865.

The Department of the South having been placed within the sphere of this command, and it being highly desirable that one uniform policy prevail touching commerce and intercourse with the inhabitants of the South, the following general rules and principles will be adhered to unless modified by law or the orders of the War Department.

I. Commerce with foreign nations or in an enlarged sense cannot be permitted or undertaken until the National authority is established to an extent that will give the necessary courts and offices to control and manage such matters. Trade will be confined to a limited barter and sale proportioned to the necessary wants of the army and of the inhabitants dependent on it for the necessities of life, and even that trade must be kept subject to strict military control or surveillance.

II. Trade stores will be permitted at Beaufort, Hilton Head, Savannah, Fernandina, Saint Augustine, and Jacksonville, in all articles of clothing and food, groceries, ladies' and children's goods generally, and articles not contraband of war.

III. To trade is a privilege, and no person will be allowed to buy and sell for profit unless he be a citizen of the United States, and subscribe to any legal oath or obligation that is or may be prescribed by law, and at points threatened by an enemy the officer commanding may further exact as a condition that the trader shall himself engage to serve in some military capacity to aid in defense of the place.

IV. Persons desiring to trade will apply to the commanding officer of the post and obtain his written consent, specifying the kind, nature, and extent of the trade, and when he requires importations from Northern cities he will in like manner apply for his permit. The commanding officer of the post may appoint some good officer to supervise these matters, who will frequently inspect the stores, and when there is not sufficient competition will fix the prices of sale. These stores will in like manner be subject to the supervision of the commanding general of the Department of the South by himself or an inspector-general.

V. In order that purchases may be made with economy the commanding officer of each post will make reports of his action in regard to trade, with the names of traders, amounts of goods desired for sale, &c., to the commanding general of the department, who will in like manner make full report to the Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, to the end that he may instruct the collectors of ports from which shipments are expected as to the necessary permits and clearances. It being utterly impracticable that a general commanding military operations should give his personal attention to such matters, it is desirable that as much power as possible should be delegated to post commanders, and they should be held to the strictest account that no trade is permitted injurious to the military interests of the United States.

VI. Sales of cotton will be restricted absolutely to the U. S. Treasury agents, and no title in cotton or bill of sale will be respected until after the cotton is sold at New York. Country people having small lots of cotton are permitted to bring the same in to be exchanged for food and clothing for their families. The quartermaster will set aside a store or warehouse to which each wagon bearing cotton will, after entering the military lines, proceed direct, where an agent of the Treasury Department will receive and weigh the same and pay for it the price fixed in the eighth section of the act of Congress, approved July 2, 1864, viz:

Three-fourths the value of cotton as quoted in the New York market; and the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby requested to make appointments of agents to carry out the provisions of said act at the posts of Hilton Head, Savannah, Fernandina, and Jacksonville.

VII. In order that the duties hereby imposed on commanding officers of posts may not be neglected or slighted by the changes incident to rank and changes of troops, the commanding general of the Department of the South will appoint a special officer to command at each of said posts, with a small garrison, not to be changed without his order; and when other troops, commanded by a senior are added or arrive the command of the post will not change, but the additional troops will be encamped near by and act according to special instructions.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 15, 1865—5.15 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: The enemy abandoned the strong works in our front during the night. General Blair's corps occupies a strong position across the railroad, covering all the approaches eastward to Pocotaligo.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

(Same to General Slocum.)

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 15, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

GENERAL: The enemy continued a heavy artillery fire last night until it was quite dark. This morning at daybreak we found he had abandoned the works in our front and gone. I was very much obliged, for the position was a very strong one to carry and thoroughly fortified. The main fort had twenty-four embrasures and the marsh was impassable. Again I had tried to avoid fighting on Sunday, but last night did not see how it could well be avoided. Three pieces of artillery were found newly buried at Garden's Corners. All information goes to show that the enemy has gone to Salkehatchie. General Blair is strongly posted on high ground across the railroad and covering all approaches to Pocotaligo. He has as many as eight days' rations and considerable forage with him and en route. I directed him to reconnoiter toward Salkehatchie and toward Robertsville, in order to communicate with Slocum, and also to open communication with General Foster's troops, and feel the way back along the Union Causeway. By combining different escorts of headquarters he will be able to do this without using infantry. Not much is left in the country in that vicinity. We have a few large stacks of rice and a good mill. The boats of General Foster's bridge have reached the Port Royal Ferry, but not the other material. As soon as communication is open along Union Causeway I will have our remaining animals at least sent that way. I inclose you some late rebel papers.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

P. S.—I neglected to state that the enemy destroyed three bridges and partially destroyed a fourth in front of General Blair yesterday, but he quickly repaired them by using abandoned buildings.

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

[Indorsement.]

General SLOCUM:

From Howard. Push Ward's division up to Hardeeville and meet any of Howard's people coming from the direction of Coosawhatchie; also let another division of the Twentieth cross on to Ward's rear.

SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 15, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The movement on Pocotaligo has been completely successful. I have just returned from the railroad station near that place. I only used one brigade (Colonel Smith's) of your corps, and kept that in reserve. It is now at Garden's Corners. The road from here to Pocotaligo is quite good. I have directed General Blair to reconnoiter back toward Savannah via Hardeeville and the Union Causeway. As soon as you get this dispatch please order your mounted infantry and general officers' headquarters escorts, that they don't need, to push out and see if they cannot push through to Pocotaligo, sending word back to you as to the practicability of that route for transportation or animals. The steamers are slower in bringing animals than anything else. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will be ordered forward at the same time.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 15, 1865.

Capt. S. L. TAGGART,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: There is a good road, and I think two of them, from this point to the mouth of the Tullifinny River, on Broad River. The distance is twelve miles. If supplies can be brought up in steamers to that point my command can be supplied much easier than by Port Royal Ferry, besides leaving that road for the Fifteenth Army Corps. My command is in good position and can withstand any force in the State or out of it. I will send you a sketch of the position as soon as it can be made. I have sent a small force toward Salkehatchie to ascertain the position of the enemy.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

P. S.—I forward report of the reconnaissance to Salkehatchie just received.

[Inclosure.]

MASON'S BRIDGE, January 15, 1865.

Major-General BLAIR:

SIR: I have the honor to report that I reached this bridge at 3 p. m. and found General Hatch here. The bridge is destroyed and cannot cross until repaired. The engineers say it will be completed by morning, when I will proceed as directed.

Very respectfully,

J. A. McQUEEN,
Lieutenant, Company K, Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo Station, January 15, 1865.

Captain CADLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: By advice of my surgeon, and with the consent of Major-General Blair, I have temporarily turned over my command to General M. F. Force, hoping that a few days' entire rest may refit me for duty. I am feeling very poorly to-day.

Very respectfully,

M. D. LEGGETT,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIV., SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 15, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE, Jr.,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Seventeenth Army Corps:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that the reconnaissance I sent out this p. m. found a good road leading to the landing on the Tullifinny—on the opposite side, however, from where the fleet lands supplies for General Foster's command. The landing is seven miles from this place; needs a wharf to enable supplies to be landed. The road is the first left hand one after crossing the Pocotaligo bridge on the Coosawhatchie road.

I am, captain, very truly yours,

M. F. FORCE,
Brigadier-General.

[Indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 15, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded for the information of the major-general commanding.

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 1. } Savannah, Ga., January 15, 1865.

Division commanders making all necessary preparations for a new campaign will hold their commands in readiness to march from Savannah on Wednesday next, the 18th instant. Ten days' rations of hard bread, coffee, sugar, and salt, and four days' rations of salt meat will be carried, each wagon being loaded with from 1,800 to 2,000 pounds. All surplus wagons must be loaded with forage. One wagon only will be allowed to division commissaries for scales, measures, paulins, broken packages, &c., and all wagons appropriated to the commissary department above this number will be counted as loaded with rations for the men. Regimental, brigade, and division headquarters wagons and ordnance and ambulance trains will haul at least three days' rations of forage for their animals; the batteries four days'. The ordnance trains will be loaded with the same complement of infantry and artillery ammunition as they carried upon leaving Atlanta. The trains will be apportioned and loaded under the supervision of the corps and division quartermasters.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 15, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,
Hilton Head:

GENERAL: Your letters of the 8th and 9th instant are just received. The Secretary of War must have reached Savannah by the 9th or 10th, and I presume has decided all questions asked in your communications.

Very respectfully, your-obedient servant,

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

HILTON HEAD, January 15, 1865.

General SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

Howard, with the Seventeenth Army Corps, crossed at Port Royal night before last without opposition. He had a skirmish a few miles out from the ferry. He expected to encamp at Pocotaligo last night. No news from him this morning. The Secretary is here and thinks he will start for Morris Island and the North this evening. I will go as far as Morris Island. The Fifty-fifth Massachusetts Colored were sent to Thunderbolt before the order to remain at Pocotaligo reached General Hatch. Shall I send and bring them back or suffer it to remain at Thunderbolt for the present?

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 15, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,
Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: The enemy abandoned his strong works in our front during the night. General Blair's corps now occupies a strong position across the railroad and covering all approaches to Pocotaligo. He has been directed to communicate with your forces. The boats had arrived at Port Royal Ferry when I passed, but not the rest of the bridge.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

NEW YORK, January 15, 1865.

Major-General FOSTER,

Commanding Department of the South:

DEAR SIR: During General Gillmore's command of the department you now control I was instrumental in sending, through the influence of the President, some 500 of Berney's Greek-fire shells for the 200-pounder Parrotts. I do know that three of those shells were thrown from the Swamp Angel into Charleston on the first night of the bombardment. Those three shells caused Beauregard to squeal like a stuck pig. Those shells were confounded with a worthless shell known as the short shell, which I predicted a failure in advance. Berney's shells were known as the green-top shell down there, and, with proper fuses, I will guarantee seven out of ten. From some unaccountable reason the incendiary shell used, or attempted to be used on Charleston, with the exception of the three first thrown, have been failures, yet I do know that the Berney incendiary shell, when properly prepared and fitted with proper fuses, is certain to accomplish all that is claimed for it.

Having lately given a series of experiments to Generals Grant, Butler, Meade, and others, which were entirely successful; having with 100-pounder shells burned every house struck with a single shell, and knowing that you can burn Charleston whenever you please with these shells, and, having learned that a large number of the 200 pounders still remain with your command, I have taken the liberty of writing directly to you to say that if it be true that any number of those shells are on hand, and it be desired, I will come, or send Mr. Berney, examine the shell, where necessary refill them, insert proper fuses, and guarantee seven out of ten shall explode and set fire to any combustible matter in Charleston, provided your guns will throw them there. If the general will be kind enough to let his chief of ordnance ascertain how many of the 200 green-top shells remain, and, if agreeable, will say that an opportunity such as indicated will be given to Mr. Berney or myself, one or both, I will undertake to demonstrate the practicability of burning Charleston or any other city which can be reached by any gun yet in service. Nothing would suit the people so entirely just now as to hear that General Foster had burned that hot bed of rebeldom—Charleston. Nothing would so certainly immortalize General Foster as such a desired result so accomplished.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. S. HALSTED, JR.,
Willard's Hotel, Washington, D. C.

[Memoranda.]

Write. Answer that none of the shells are here. If he will send or bring some we will fire them on Charleston with pleasure.

J. G. FOSTER.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 16, 1865.

General U. S. GRANT:

DEAR GENERAL: I have written you less than I had designed; but I have had visits from many, including General Barnard and Mr. Stanton, who will tell you all matters of interest. General Barnard staid over one steamer, at my request, to study the relation of the parts of this coast, and will explain things clearly. I don't want to assume the control of matters here further than to give uniformity of action, though it was well to place the Department of the South subject to my command. This (Monday) is the day for Howard to put his Right Wing at Pocotaligo and fortify. He was across Port Royal with the Seventeenth Corps and out some four miles when I last heard. The Fifteenth Corps is now passing from Thunderbolt to Port Royal. The Twentieth Corps is across the Union Causeway, and Davis and Kilpatrick will move up to Sister's Ferry, and I will get all my army in hand on a line from Sister's Ferry to Pocotaligo. I have not heard from you since Colonel Ewing went up, but suppose the route indicated will be the best. I now take it. Some, if not all, of Hood's army will be worked over this way, and Thomas should be pressed down to Selma. If Thomas would prefer to watch Tennessee, order him to send a small force from Chattanooga down toward Rome, and detach Schofield, with 35,000 men, including Wilson, to Selma, via Tuscaloosa, and to return via Talladega and Rome. That circuit would be easy to make, and would tear out the heart of Alabama and prevent the farmers planting corn, because all rails would be burned, horses and mules taken, and corn eaten up. I would risk that march with just enough wagons to carry the command across Sand Mountain. I think the farmers of Georgia are organizing against Jeff. Davis, but don't build any castles on that hope.

Truly, yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 16, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,
Citij Point:

GENERAL: Since my letter of this morning I have official reports from General Howard, commanding Right Wing. He crossed from Beaufort Island on Saturday, the 14th, by Port Royal Ferry to the mainland with the Seventeenth Corps, General Blair, and marched for Pocotaligo. They encountered the enemy near Garden's Corners, but soon outflanked him, and followed, dislodging him from position to position, till he took refuge in a strong fort at Pocotaligo. This is described as a well-constructed, inclosed work, pierced for twenty-four guns, and the approaches covered by the peculiar salt marsh points that guard this coast. Night overtook the command there, and Sunday morning the enemy was gone. Howard expresses great satisfaction thereat, as it was Sunday, and it saved him an assault which might have cost him some valuable lives. As it was, he lost Lieutenant Chandler, of General Leggett's staff, killed, and Captain Kellogg, of General Giles A. Smith's staff, wounded. He writes that 8 or 10 will cover his loss. He reports three guns captured at Garden's Corners. We are therefore now in possession of good high ground on the railroad at Pocotaligo, with a good road back twenty-five miles to Beaufort. I will order Howard to forage toward Charleston, but proceed to get my army and trains across, and can start north the moment I can get my wagons loaded. The weather at sea has been so stormy that vessels are behind, and it has been touch and go to get daily food. I have ordered Slocum to push a division up to Hardeeville and Puyres-burg, and think I can use the Savannah River up to that point. We are hard at work corduroying the roads across the rice fields by the Union Causeway. The Secretary told me I would surely receive 4,000 men from Baltimore to garrison Savannah. They are not heard of here yet.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January [13-16], 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

SIR: As our mail facilities form an important link in the chain of events now transpiring, it gives me pleasure to note the peculiar energy which characterizes the agents of the department under the charge of Col. A. H. Markland. Colonel Markland has managed this department in connection with my army to my entire satisfaction, and with a kindly interest that shows a devotion to our cause that takes him with the advance of our army, has won its respect and my confidence.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
FIELD ORDERS, } In the Field, Savannah, Ga.,
No. 14. } January 16, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Surg. J. C. Morgan, Twenty-ninth Regiment Missouri Infantry Volunteers, is relieved from duty with his regiment and assigned to duty as health officer of the city of Savannah. It will be his duty to see to the prompt removal to the proper hospital of all contagious diseases, and also that the carcasses of dead animals and all offal or other matter either offensive or detrimental to health be removed with as little delay as possible. To facilitate the execution of these duties he will at once put himself in communication with the general commanding the post.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
FIELD ORDERS, } In the Field, Savannah, Ga.,
No. 15. } January 16, 1865.

I. The islands from Charleston south, the abandoned rice-fields along the rivers for thirty miles back from the sea, and the country bordering the Saint John's River, Fla., are reserved and set apart for the settlement of the negroes now made free by the acts of war and the proclamation of the President of the United States.

II. At Beaufort, Hilton Head, Savannah, Fernandina, Saint Augustine, and Jacksonville the blacks may remain in their chosen or accustomed vocations; but on the islands, and in the settlements hereafter to be established, no white person whatever, unless military officers and soldiers detailed for duty, will be permitted to reside; and the sole and exclusive management of affairs will be left to the freed people themselves, subject only to the United States military authority and the acts of Congress. By the laws of war and orders of the President of the United States the negro is free, and must be dealt with as such. He cannot be subjected to conscription or forced military service, save by the written orders of the highest military authority of the Department, under such regulations as the President or Congress may prescribe; domestic servants, blacksmiths, carpenters, and other mechanics will be free to select their own work and residence, but the young and able-bodied negroes must be encouraged to enlist as soldiers in the service of the United States, to contribute their share toward maintaining their own freedom and securing their rights as citizens of the United States. Negroes so enlisted will be organized into companies, battalions, and regiments, under the orders of the United States military authorities, and will be paid, fed, and clothed according to law. The bounties paid on enlistment may, with the consent of the recruit, go to assist his family and settlement in procuring agricultural implements, seed, tools, boats, clothing, and other articles necessary for their livelihood.

III. Whenever three respectable negroes, heads of families, shall desire to settle on land, and shall have selected for that purpose an island, or a locality clearly defined within the limits above designated, the inspector of settlements and plantations will himself, or by such subordinate officer as he may appoint, give them a license to settle such island or district, and afford them such assistance as he can to enable them to establish a peaceable agricultural settlement. The three parties named will subdivide the land, under the supervision of the inspector, among themselves and such others as may choose to settle near them, so that each family shall have a plot of not more than forty acres of tillable ground, and when it borders on some water channel with not more than 800 feet water front, in the possession of which land the military authorities will afford them protection until such time as they can protect themselves or until Congress shall regulate their title. The quartermaster may, on the requisition of the inspector of settlements and plantations, place at the disposal of the inspector one or more of the captured steamers to ply between the settlements and one or more of the commercial points, heretofore named in orders, to afford the settlers the opportunity to supply their necessary wants and to sell the products of their land and labor.

IV. Whenever a negro has enlisted in the military service of the United States he may locate his family in any one of the settlements at pleasure and acquire a homestead and all other rights and privileges of a settler as though present in person. In like manner negroes may settle their families and engage on board the gun-boats, or in fishing, or in the navigation of the inland waters, without losing any claim to land or other advantages derived from this system. But no one, unless an actual settler as above defined, or unless absent on Government service, will be entitled to claim any right to land or property in any settlement by virtue of these orders.

V. In order to carry out this system of settlement a general officer will be detailed as inspector of settlements and plantations, whose duty it shall be to visit the settlements, to regulate their police and general management, and who will furnish personally to each head of a family, subject to the approval of the President of the United States, a possessory title in writing, giving as near as possible the description of boundaries, and who shall adjust all claims or conflicts that may arise under the same, subject to the like approval, treating such titles altogether as possessory. The same general officer will also be charged with the enlistment and organization of the negro recruits and protecting their interests while absent from their settlements, and will be governed by the rules and regulations prescribed by the War Department for such purpose.

VI. Brig. Gen. R. Saxton is hereby appointed inspector of settlements and plantations and will at once enter on the performance of his duties. No change is intended or desired in the settlement now on Beaufort Island, nor will any rights to property heretofore acquired be affected thereby.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 16, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD,

Commanding Right Wing, Beaufort:

GENERAL: I have your reports of Saturday and yesterday, and am glad you got the position of Pocotaligo so cheaply. It is of great value to us in the future, and I wish you to have it thoroughly strengthened, and all water channels to its south and east reconnoitered. Don't seem to feel up the peninsula, but rather toward the Salkehatchie. Go on and accumulate supplies and stores, and get ready as soon as possible to sally forth with your whole wing supplied as well as possible.

I have ordered Slocum to push one division to Hardeeville and Puyrsburg, and to open up communication with you. I will try and get Davis started by Wednesday, but cannot hear of the troops from Baltimore to relieve Geary here. I will not move from Pocotaligo till we get a good supply in our wagons, as that is the great point.

Truly, yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

(Copy by General Howard to General Blair.)

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 14.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 16, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Leave of absence for thirty days under provisions of Section II, act published in General Orders, No. 216, War Department, series 1864, is hereby granted Bvt. Brig. Gen. Green B. Raum, Second Brigade, Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, with permission to proceed North.

* * * * *

VI. The major-general commanding not desiring to displace any of his present division or brigade commanders, Brig. Gen. William Vandever, U. S. Volunteers, who has reported to these headquarters for assignment, will report to Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman, commanding Military Division of the Mississippi, for orders.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, January 16, 1865.

Captain TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: General Blair requests me to acknowledge the receipt of a communication from General Howard in reference to a base for supplies for this corps, and to say that he has already sent detachments under charge of Lieutenant McQueen and Captain Henley to open communication with the Left Wing. A report will be forwarded as soon as they return. The general has positive information that a good wharf can be built, with nine or ten feet of water at low tide. There is also a good landing at or near Jenkins' plantation, on the Tullifinny River, about five miles above its mouth, where boats can land and discharge during four hours each tide. General Hatch has also tendered the use of his wharf, situated near the mouth of the Tullifinny, where boats can and do land and discharge during high tide. The distance from this point to General Hatch's wharf is about ten miles, about eight miles to Mackay's Point, and about six miles to Jenkins' Landing. As the distance to Beaufort is about twenty-two miles, only one bridge over the Whale Branch, and the road liable to become impassable by heavy rains, and at the same time it being necessary for the use of the Fifteenth Army Corps, the general would most respectfully request permission to build a wharf or dock at Mackay's Point, and have the supplies for his command landed there. While this work is being built boats can land and discharge at the other wharf and landing on the Tullifinny.

I inclose a sketch of the position of the different wharves, &c.* I also inclose a letter which General Hatch requested the general to send to General Howard.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. HICKENLOOPER,
Lieut. Col. and Asst. Insp. Gen., Seventeenth Army Corps.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 16, 1865.

Major-General BLAIR:

GENERAL: Your dispatches are just received, and I am pleased at the state of things there, but am anxious to open communication with Savannah. With reference to supplies, General Easton says that there is but four feet of water in the mouth of the Tullifinny River, and as the boats would be continually running on sand-bars I think for the present we had better make the depot of supplies here, at least till the roads are badly cut up. If the wagons would not run always in the same ruts, but take different tracks in the road, they would not be so quickly cut up. Please have your brigade commanders order the wagon masters accordingly.

Very respectfully, yours,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
No. 17. } Savannah, Ga., January 16, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The following officers assigned, by brevet rank, to duty by the President, will report for duty to Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis, commanding Fourteenth Army Corps: Bvt. Maj. Gen. Absalom Baird, U. S. Volunteers; Bvt. Brig. Gen. George P. Buell, U. S. Volunteers, colonel Fifty-eighth Indiana Volunteers; Bvt. Brig. Gen. H. C. Hobart, U. S. Volunteers, colonel Twenty-first Wisconsin Volunteers; Bvt. Brig. Gen. B. D. Fearing, U. S. Volunteers, colonel Ninety-second Ohio Volunteers.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 16, 1865.

Commanders of divisions and the chief of artillery of the corps will order an inspection of the wagon trains of their commands with the view of excluding from the wagons all unauthorized baggage. They will see that the trains of the headquarters of their commands are not in excess of allowance made by existing orders.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 16, 1865. (Received 1.40 p. m.)

Brigadier-General JACKSON,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you move your division across the river to-morrow morning and occupy the ground now held by the Third Division. You will call in all details for fatigue duty except those at work corduroying the road across the islands and the regiments with General Easton. Your men should start with three days' rations and what forage you can get. The wagons at work on the road must continue on that duty till it is completed. In crossing the river by your troops and trains the work on the road should be hindered as little as possible.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 16, 1865.

Brig. Gen. W. T. WARD,
Commanding Third Division :

GENERAL: The general commanding the corps directs that you move your command to-day if it is in readiness, if not, at an early hour to-morrow morning, and occupy Hardeeville and Puyrsburg. Take with you all of your loaded wagons, leaving the empty ones to follow as soon as stores can be obtained to fill them. A guard of at least two regiments should be left for the trains left behind. Your commissary ought also to remain to forward the supplies. You will want with you two days' forage, which, with what you can get from the country, should be made to last four days. General Howard's troops are marching down the railroad and will make connection with you. You should take with you three days' rations. Lieutenant-Colonel Asmussen will accompany you. Application has been made to have your regiment now with General Easton relieved.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SIGNAL DEPARTMENT, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Hilton Head, January 16, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi :

Telegram received. Will hurry up the steamers. Did not go to Morris Island with the Secretary. General Howard telegraphed last night that General Blair's corps was on the railroad, and thus cut off Fort Pocotaligo from re-enforcements from toward Charleston. I immediately sent orders to General Hatch to advance and attack from his side, and in every way co-operate with General Howard, with whom he is in communication. I will send a boat for your mail to-night.

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 16, 1865.

Rear-Admiral JOHN A. DAHLGREN,
Commanding South Atlantic Blockading Squadron :

ADMIRAL: I have the honor to inclose a copy of a statement* of Steinborn Fritz, a deserter from the rebel iron-clad Palmetto State in Charleston Harbor. The latest information received from General Hatch states on the authority of deserters that three of the iron-clads in Charleston Harbor have disappeared, and one supposed to have been sunk in the Cooper River.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

* Not found.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 4. } Hilton Head, S. C., January 16, 1865.

The State of North Carolina having been attached to this department, the undersigned hereby assumes command of the same. It will in future be designated the District of North Carolina, Department of the South.

The commanding officer of the District of North Carolina will make the usual returns and reports required by regulations to these headquarters.

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 16, 1865.

Brig. Gen. JOHN P. HATCH,
Commanding Coast Division :

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to acknowledge the receipt of your two communications of the 15th instant, reporting the evacuation of the enemy from your front; also your recommendations in regard to the movement of the troops composing your division. The following disposition of your command will be made by you as soon as you have the order to leave your present locality for operations elsewhere: The Thirty-third U. S. Colored Troops to remain at Beaufort, the Twenty-sixth U. S. Colored Troops to be sent to Morris Island, the Thirty-second U. S. Colored Troops to be ordered to report to General Saxton for duty on Edisto Island. The detachment of the One hundred and second U. S. Colored Troops, now at Beaufort, will be ordered to report to you at once for duty in the field. Orders will be issued for the detachments of the other regiments to join their respective commands. Your whole force will be re-embarked at Beaufort when it moves.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 16, 1865.

Lieut. Col. CHARLES B. FOX,
Commanding Fifty-fifth Massachusetts Volunteers :

COLONEL: The major-general commanding directs that, in compliance with instructions from General Sherman, you will leave Thunderbolt Battery with your command, and relieve the garrisons at Forts Jackson and Bartow at once, showing these instructions to the commanding officer at each of the above-named forts.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

STEAMER S. R. SPAULDING, January 16, 1865.

Rear-Admiral D. D. PORTER, U. S. Navy,
Commanding, &c. :

SIR: Maj. Gen. William T. Sherman, commanding U. S. forces, now at Savannah, Ga., desires the inclosed important dispatches to be delivered to you, with the request that you have them forwarded immediately to the general commanding our forces in North Carolina, and his reply forwarded by you to General Sherman at Savannah. The Secretary of War, now on board this ship, adds his request that you will cause the dispatches to be sent, and also facilitate, if in your power, the forwarding of the reply. Inclosed is an order placing the State of North Carolina under the orders of Major-General Sherman, with a view to future military operations. A portion of General Sherman's forces have moved from Savannah against the enemy at Pocatigo, and yesterday occupied the railroad at that place. The residue of the command will move speedily, leaving a force to occupy Savannah.

I am, sir, &c.,

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[Inclosure.]

ON BOARD STEAMER S. R. SPAULDING,
At Sea, January 16, 1865.

Brig. Gen. I. N. PALMER, U. S. Volunteers, or COMMANDING OFFICER U. S. FORCES IN NORTH CAROLINA,
New Berne, N. C.:

SIR: The Secretary of War is just returning North from Savannah on board this ship. I inclose herewith his general orders* of January 12, annexing the State of North Carolina to the Department of the South, and placing that department under the orders of Major-General Sherman. I have also to communicate to you the following instructions from Major-General Sherman, to which you will please give immediate attention: Send at once by return to General Sherman at Savannah all data concerning the command in North Carolina; numbers and stations of troops, names of commanders, and how far out your line extends. General Sherman also directs that you now, at once, secure the crossing of the Neuse, near Kinston.

I am, sir, &c.,

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

[JANUARY 17, 1865.—For Stanton to Lincoln and Stanton to Grant, referring to Sherman's operations in Georgia and South Carolina, &c., see Vol. XLVI, Part II, pp. 155, 157.]

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 17, 1865.

Admiral J. A. DAHLGREN,
Commanding South Atlantic Squadron, off Charleston:

DEAR ADMIRAL: I have this moment received your note of the 16th instant, with the letter and roll of charts from Admiral Porter. I send you herewith a letter to Admiral Porter, which I beg you will send him at your earliest convenience, but it is not of enough importance to detach a ship. I regret exceedingly the loss of the monitor Patapsco, especially that she carried down so many valuable lives. Admiral Porter thinks he and General Terry can take Fort Fisher, or at all events occupy the peninsula above it and cut it off from Wilmington. Of this we shall hear soon, as he proposed to renew the attack on the 13th or 14th, and in case of taking Fort Fisher he would send to Charleston all his fleet, save enough to blockade Wilmington and keep up communications for the troops on shore. Otherwise he could hold on there to engage the attention of the enemy about there, to keep them from me. You will have heard that we took Pocotaligo on the 15th, according to my plans, and we now have the Seventeenth Corps, General Blair, strongly entrenched on the railroad. I would by this time also have had my Left Wing at Sister's Ferry, but have been, and still am, delayed by the non-arrival of our stores necessary to fill our wagons. I will get all the army in motion. The first installment of General Grover's division, which is to garrison Savannah, has just arrived and all will be in to-morrow. I would prefer you should run no risk at all. When we are known to be in rear of Charleston, about Branchville and Orangeburg, it will be well to watch if the enemy lets go of Charleston, in which case Foster will occupy it, otherwise the feint should be about Bull's Bay. We will need no cover about Port Royal; nothing but the usual guard ships. I think you will concur with me that, in anticipation of the movement of my army to the rear of the coast, it will be unwise to subject your ships to the heavy artillery of the enemy or his sunken torpedoes. I will instruct Foster, when he knows I have got near Branchville, to make a landing of a small force at Bull's Bay, to threaten, and it may be occupy, the road from Mount Pleasant to Georgetown. This will make the enemy believe I design to turn down against Charleston and give me a good offing for Wilmington. I will write you again fully on the eve of starting in person.

---

* See p. 44.

Your friend,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

[Inclosure.]

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 17, 1865.

Admiral D. D. PORTER,

Commanding North Atlantic Squadron, off Wilmington:

DEAR ADMIRAL: I am this moment in receipt of your letter of January 12, with the roll of maps, for which I am much obliged. I hope you will succeed at Fisher, as it will set free much of your fleet for other purposes; but if Terry does not assault he should occupy the peninsula at the narrow neck represented on the map, about four miles north of Fisher, with a strong line looking to the rear, and a battery of 20-pounder Parrotts commanding the channel of Cape Fear River. I know that the enemy would not naturally keep in Fort Fisher to exceed 500 or 600 men, and they could be held there. Still, if he takes it, it settles that matter, and the majority of his troops could return to Grant or re-enforce New Berne and work out toward Kinston. I will send my railroad man, W. W. Wright, up to New Berne, and can send any number of cars and locomotives, so that we can use that road back to Kinston and Goldsborough. We have also a good deal of railroad iron. Pursuant to my plan, the Seventeenth Corps got Pocotaligo and railroad on the 15th, and I would now be in motion for Branchville and Orangeburg, only stores have been delayed by the storms of the past month. But the possession of Pocotaligo and road back to Beaufort, and also from here forward to Hardeeville, gives me a clear start and I will be off as soon as I can get bread enough to load my wagons. The division of Grover, sent by Grant to hold Savannah, has begun to arrive, so I can take with me my entire army.

I have studied the maps well and like the appearance of New Berne and Goldsborough and would like New Berne held with all tenacity. If Lee sees the points he may try to checkmate me there, and if you have anything to do with it hold fast to New Berne with the tenacity of life. I explained its importance to the Secretary of War, who promised to run in there and attend to it. I am rejoiced that the current of events has carried Butler to Lowell, where he should have stayed and confined his bellicose operations to the factory girls. He always struck me as a mighty man of words but little in deeds of personal valor. We will be along soon and the braggart Carolinians will find in our Western boys a different kind of metal. See how easy we took McAllister and Pocotaligo, that have defied the East. The latter cost us less than ten lives. I will make a good ready, and then stand from under. I shall account it a happy day if I stand once more on your deck. The world shall not be grieved at little jealousies, for we feel a just pride in the pure courage and patriotism of each other. I will write you again before I again dive out of sight and hearing.

Very truly, your friend,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
OFFICE SUPERINTENDENT MILITARY TELEGRAPH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 17, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,

Asst. Adj. Gen., Mil. Dir. of the Mississippi, Savannah, Ga.:

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following facts for your information and to request that measures be taken to remedy the evil referred to without delay, or it will be impossible for me to render the telegraph lines serviceable to the staff departments of the army. At the request of Major-General Howard a line of from fifteen to twenty miles in length was repaired and extended and communication opened with Rosedew. This line was cut down repeatedly during the few days that General Howard required service from it and the labor expended upon it thrown away. By order of the major-general commanding another line was in like manner repaired and extended to headquarters of the cavalry division, a distance of nine miles. This line also has been repeatedly cut down and rendered useless; on one occasion two miles being utterly destroyed, the soldiers using the poles for fuel. The engineer corps destroyed one mile and a half of the same line, evincing gross carelessness on the part of the officer having the business in charge. The chiefs of the quartermaster's and commissary departments have urgently requested that telegraphic communication be established with this point. With infinite labor a line was built between Savannah and Fort Pulaski, which, with our other connections, enabled us to transmit dispatches between General Howard's army and headquarters in ten or fifteen minutes. Within forty-eight hours this line has been twice cut down. The nature of the country renders it almost impossible to build these lines and equally difficult to repair them. I will have the line to Pulaski repaired as speedily as possible, but, as the services of my constructing party are required elsewhere, other means of communication must be resorted to if the line is again destroyed.

I am, major, very respectfully, &c.,

JAMES R. GILMORE,

Capt., Asst. Quartermaster, and Supt. Mil. Tel., Dept. of the South.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Beaufort, S. C., January 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi :

GENERAL: I inclose you reports of reconnaissances made from Pocotaligo. If Slocum is at Robertsville, as proposed, will he not feel forward toward my troops or Foster's? You will notice Blair's requests regarding supplies. I have directed him to build a wharf, as he desired, but cannot well throw up supplies there till we get through transporting the Fifteenth Corps.

From some information I have received I am inclined to the belief that the enemy will draw off from Charleston. One road is pretty good from here to Pocotaligo, but likely to rut badly in places and break through the crust if it rains. I have sent you Vandever and Harrow. I do not wish to displace our young officers who have "borne the burden and heat of the day." I think they had better retire from the service, in order that these young men may have their places. Harrow is a brave man, but he left us. Sweeny has been cleared, but I don't want him or Veatch. They, too, might be mustered out, with a view to the interest of the service, and in order to promote efficient, true, and hard-working men.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 15.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 17, 1865.

* * * * *

III. The major-general commanding, not desiring to displace any of his present division or brigade commanders, Brig. Gen. William Harrow, U. S. Volunteers, who has reported to these headquarters for assignment, will report to Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman, commanding Military Division of the Mississippi, at Savannah, Ga., for orders.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Savannah, Ga., January 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,

Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say to you that the embarkation of your command will cease to-day. You will please move the balance of your command by slow and easy marches to Pocotaligo, S. C., via the Union Causeway turnpike, crossing New River bridge, and taking the old Charleston road, passing through or near Grahamville and Coosawhatchie. You will, if practicable, move your command on Thursday, the 19th instant, the hour of starting to be designated by you, and will cause all the wagons of your command to be lightly loaded with rations and forage, not taking more than 1,000 pounds in each wagon. On your arrival at Pocotaligo you will take up a defensive position and report to the major-general commanding for further orders. The Engineer Regiment, with its transportation, and the cattle belonging to this army, in charge of the chief commissary of the Fifteenth Army Corps, will follow your command.

By command of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

WM. E. STRONG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 17. }

HDQRS. FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 17, 1865.

* * * * *

III. All details from the Third and Fourth Divisions of this corps are hereby relieved, and will rejoin their commands preparatory to an early movement from this city.

By order of Maj. Gen. John A. Logan:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 17, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. M. CORSE,

Commanding Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to request you to prepare your division to move at an early moment. You will take in your wagons as much forage and as many days' rations as you can obtain, but not to load them too heavily. The men will carry three days' rations in their haversacks. Orders have been issued relieving details from your division; they will rejoin their commands at once.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 17, 1865.

Capt. S. L. TAGGART,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: The enemy are reported to have abandoned their position at Salkehatchie bridge. I have sent a force there to ascertain. As soon as they return I will forward their report.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 17, 1865.

Capt. S. L. TAGGART,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: Lieutenant McQueen has returned, and reports that he met Colonel Gage, with the Twenty-ninth Missouri and Seventh Illinois Mounted Infantry, at New River bridge, about ten miles from Savannah, and that the bridge was destroyed so that he could not cross. Colonel Gage reports that a portion of the Twentieth Corps were in camp about five miles this side of Savannah, and that they had orders to move at 8 o'clock this a. m., but had not moved when he left them. Two divisions of the Fifteenth Army Corps were ordered to move by the same route, but had not yet started. They had heard of the taking of Pocotaligo through General Howard's dispatch. The bridges on the road from Grahamville to New River bridge are all destroyed. Lieutenant McQueen reports that General Hatch's command are destroying the railroad.

I forward a note received from Colonel Gage.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

[Inclosure.]

HDQRS. TWENTY-NINTH MISSOURI VOLUNTEERS MOUNTED,
New River Bridge.

Major-General BLAIR:

GENERAL: I have the honor to report that I met the bearer at the New River bridge. I have a command of all the detachments of mounted men from the Fifteenth Army Corps. This is the only bridge of any importance on the road. It has been burned, but I shall be able to cross by 2 p. m. January 17, 1865.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOS. S. GAGE.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 17, 1865.

Capt. S. L. TAGGART,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to make the following report of my attempt to open communication with General Slocum via Robertsville:

Capt. William Henley, of my staff, started yesterday morning with about seventy-five mounted men on the Coosawhatchie road reaching a point about six miles beyond Gillisonville. He found there a strong force of artillery and cavalry and was obliged to return to Coosawhatchie, capturing, however, a lieutenant, a surgeon, and ten men of the enemy. He then went, via Grahamville and Bradham's, to within eight miles of Robertsville, where he found the enemy's pickets. He had captured a man of the Third South Carolina Cavalry at Bradham's, who reported that one division of Wheeler's cavalry and Kanaux's battery of seven pieces were at Robertsville. The people along the road confirmed this statement. He was, therefore, obliged to return. Citizens on the road report our force at Purysville and Harrisonville, on the Savannah River. Wheeler's command left Grahamville on Sunday morning, moving toward Robertsville. Lieutenant McQueen passed through Grahamville about noon yesterday and his road was reported free from obstructions.

If you think best I will send a force of infantry adequate to open the road to Robertsville. The force I sent this p. m. to Salkehatchie have returned and report the enemy still there with seven pieces of artillery in sight from the road and they strengthening their works.

Respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 17, 1865.

[Lieut. Col. H. C. RODGERS:]

COLONEL: I have the honor to report that in compliance with previous instructions my command has been preparing for the coming campaign, with the following success: All the divisions are wanting in ammunition, which they will be able to procure probably by to-morrow evening. All the divisions are still deficient in clothing, but expecting it daily. My quartermaster reports but two days' forage in the corps, and is informed that the forage intended to fill up our trains cannot be gotten to-night; that it is on transports on the river and may be expected at any time. The corps cannot move to-morrow as expected, without great inconvenience arising from leaving these things behind. Please lay this report without delay before the general commanding the wing for his information and instructions.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JEF. C. DAVIS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
January 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. C. DAVIS,

Commanding Fourteenth Corps:

The major-general commanding directs that you unload sixty wagons and send them to report at General Williams' headquarters at 8 o'clock this evening. The wagons ordered from you this morning did not report. You can delay your movement until Thursday morning (the 19th), and in the meantime do what you can to complete your supplies. It is very important that these wagons report promptly this evening to aid in repairing the road across the river.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION, FOURTEENTH CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 17, 1865.

Col. A. C. McCLURG,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Headquarters Fourteenth Corps:

COLONEL: In reply to your circular, asking whether my division will be ready to move to-morrow morning, I have to state that everything has been done that I or my officers can do, and that with the exception of certain very necessary supplies we are ready. I have on hand forage for to-morrow and the next day. More, it is said, will arrive during the night. My ammunition is short about 80,000 rounds or one-fourth the amount we can carry. This, we are told, is expected momentarily. I also lack several articles of clothing, particularly stockings and pants, but these are also on their way and may arrive at any moment.

Most respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. BAIRD,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding Division.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 17, 1865.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. E. D. TOWNSEND,

Assistant Adjutant-General, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C. :

GENERAL: I have the honor most respectfully to request that brevets may be given to the following-named officers of my command for gallant and distinguished services in the field, viz, Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch, U. S. Volunteers, to be brevet major-general for long and continued services in this department, uniform bravery, and gallant conduct, particularly at the action of Honey Hill, on 30th of November, 1864, and for valuable and efficient services from that battle up to his occupation of the Charleston and Savannah Railroad, and the works at Coosawhatchie, Tullifinny, Dawson's Bluff, and Bee's Creek; Brig. Gen. Edward E. Potter, U. S. Volunteers, to be brevet major-general for long and efficient service in North Carolina; also for his bravery, gallant conduct, and valuable services rendered at the action of Honey Hill, and in all the operations of the Coast Division, under Brigadier-General Hatch, to the occupation of the Charleston and Savannah Railroad and the batteries above-named; Col. A. S. Hartwell, Fifty-fifth Massachusetts Volunteers, to be brevet brigadier-general for distinguished and valuable service at the action of Honey Hill, where he received three severe wounds.

I earnestly recommend that the above-named officers may be brevetted to date from November 30, 1864, the date of the action at Honey Hill, S. C., as a mark of reward to these gallant officers and a compliment to the brave men they command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HILTON HEAD, January 17, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN :

Fort Fisher was taken at 10 p. m. on the 15th by assault; 1,780 well prisoners and 72 guns. Have dispatches for you. I will start with them at once.

FOSTER,
General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD,

Comdg. Dept. and Army of the Tennessee, Beaufort, S. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inclose herewith, for your information, a condensed report made up from the statements of rebel deserters, refugees, and escaped Union officers of the enemy's defensive works, &c., on the Charleston and Savannah Railroad, from the Edisto River to Savannah.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

[Inclosure.]

Report of rebel defensive works on the Charleston and Savannah Railroad from the Edisto to the marshes on the Savannah River.

Edisto.—At the crossing of the Edisto, no works known; bridge, 350 feet in length; no troops near the river above the bridge, and no manned batteries believed to be below it. November, 1864.

Ashepoo.—Bridge, 300 feet long; country open; earth-work at railroad station north of the river. On the right bank of the river, a short distance above the bridge, is a slight epaulement without guns. Between Ashepoo and Pocotaligo lives a man named Butler, who, in November, 1864, had captured more than seventy escaped Union officers by dogs.

Sulkehatchie.—Bridge, 200 feet long; no works there or between there and Pocotaligo.

Combahee.—Battery at Combahee Ferry, behind a creek and between the creek and road, made to run earth-works into. The ferry is three miles from the railroad, and in September an infantry company was stationed there. Small battery with one iron gun on Tar Bluff; another battery, not large, on Field's Point, at the mouth of the Combahee; small work with one large iron gun at the near side of the ferry on Williman's (Williams'?) Island. Bull River navigable. The creek running by Kean's Neck (sometimes called Summer House Island) is not for steam-boats. Four miles from Combahee Ferry, on a creek running into Combahee River, are salt-works at which fifty men are employed.

Pocotaligo.—No troops at Pocotaligo, except at the station; two cavalry companies at New Station; five men at Pocotaligo Station in September, 1864; militia regiment under Major Sorwin at Pocotaligo Station; three companies South Carolina cavalry at Pocotaligo in September, 1864. The depot for troops is at Pocotaligo and all stores were issued thence in July, 1864. The station is a mile and a half from Pocotaligo. The railroad bridge is only ten yards long. An inclosed work at the old bridge with three large guns, the ditch about five feet deep; no force stationed at the battery; very heavy works. At Pocotaligo, to the right of the main-road bridge, are works with seven guns. The works extend from the bridge all the way down to the Union road. At Pocotaligo and Port Royal Ferry in July, 1864, were part of Fourth Georgia Cavalry (500), two companies Third South Carolina Cavalry (150), Bachman's and Stuart's batteries (250).

McPhersonville.—Not fortified; two batteries of light artillery there, but no infantry, in September, 1864.

From Pocotaligo to Port Royal Ferry.—The country is open with back water for rice plantations; it is easy to go through; but few troops on the road. When you pass Garden's Corners to the left (going from the ferry to Pocotaligo) on the Union road there are obstructions and a field-work commanding the main road; and still farther to the left near Bridge Church is another work. On the Union road above Sheldon Church are more obstructions (abatis), but no works. Above where Stony Creek crosses the Pocotaligo road there is an earth-work. Stony Creek is not fordable below the road, but is above, where there are rice fields with water standing about knee deep. Seven miles from the ferry is a mud fort with two guns (apparently same captured by Captain Gouraud December 5, 1864); cannon broken and lying by road about a mile and a quarter from ferry. From the cannon on a line toward the creek in open woods, a negro says, there were torpedoes, kind unknown, in August, 1864.

Port Royal Ferry.—Picket of lieutenant and five men in September, 1864; picket relieved from Pocotaligo; slight earth-works, fallen to decay; about 100 yards from causeway, west of road, in the brush on heavy, hard ground, about thirty yards from marsh, nearly opposite where the ambulance wagon stops is a heavy mine, got at by a trap-door; it is close to the major's quarters. An extra guard is stationed ten or fifteen yards beyond it, evidently intended to watch it. Nothing of the kind was seen by the reconnaissance of December 5, 1864.

Coupon's Bluff.—Below Page's Point; a good landing, and no works on the road till you reach Stony Creek Church.

From Pocotaligo to Mackay's Bluff.—Breast-works at Heuston's place with places for light guns; also at the bridge at Causton's, and at the bridge near Frampton's. Both these creeks can be forded above the bridge, but not below.

From Pocotaligo to Tullifinny River.—No works either on the railroad or the dirt road, except works facing Mackay's Point. (See above.)

Tullifinny River.—Railroad bridge, 150 yards long; dirt-road (?) bridge, 75 to 100 yards long; no works at railroad bridge. On dirt road at Mason's Bridge, on Pocotaligo side of the creek, is a battery for field pieces. The existence of such battery is denied.

Peninsula between Tullifinny and Coosachatchie Rivers.—Intrenchments along line of road alleged to exist do not exist. From lower landing to cross-roads, four miles, and from upper landing to cross-roads, three miles and three-quarters; from cross-road to railroad, one-quarter of a mile (this is wrong; it is at least half a mile, probably more); from cross-roads to either bridge on the dirt road, three-quarters of a mile. No works on road leading up the peninsula; country mostly open, with some belts of woods till reaching cross-roads, thence thick wood with some openings, but no beaten road to railroad; rivers fringed by woods; sixteen men from Kanapaux's company on picket at Gregory's.

Coosachatchie River.—Railroad bridge on trestles fifty feet (?) long; fifty yards long, no trestle-work; in three sections, 200, 150, and 100 yards long, respectively. Dirt road runs along railroad; bridge is the same (wrong); two planks run along middle of railroad bridge; dirt road bridge, 75 or 100 yards long. On December 6 regiment of Georgia Reserves (300 or 400) near bridge; artillery said to be there. Country between railroad and dirt road open, with woods in a bend of river on north side, houses on south side. On south side of Coosawhatchie are heavy works for six guns, with rifle-pits; works not closed (?). The railroad runs through the batteries; one large and one small battery on either side of the railroad; they look south and down the river.

Dawson's Landing.—Good landing; open, hard ground; no woods or marsh; two bridges of about fifteen feet each not far from landing. You can go round the bridges. The bottom is hard. Battery with two guns, one a 32-pounder, near the house.

From Coosawhatchie to Grahamville.—No batteries on railroad.

From Boyd's Neck to Coosawhatchie and Grahamville.—From landing to cross-roads, two and a quarter miles; on Coosawhatchie road, from cross-road to Newhall Church, about one mile and a half; two small earth-works across the road, one on either side of the Newhall Church; from Newhall Church to the swamp, Bee Creek, a mile and a half. Two hundred yards from swamp, Bee Creek, toward the cross-roads, is a battery covering also the Grahamville and Coosawhatchie road. On the 5th of December there were in this battery two 6-pounders and one 12-pounder. There is a cross-road from the Boyd's Neck to the Grahamville road before reaching this battery. The road leading from the cross-roads to Grahamville is disused and partly overgrown. From battery at fork of the roads to Grahamville is five miles. On Coosawhatchie and Grahamville road, two miles from Grahamville, is a stout little battery. From cross-roads to the church where the road turns to Grahamville is one mile (rather more). From church to Honey Hill is three miles. At Honey Hill is battery with no guns permanently in it; infantry intrenchments in woods on either side of battery; battery 500 yards from sharp turn of the road in densely wooded country (Captain Gouraud, aide-de-camp); 200 yards (Colonel Gurney, One hundred and twenty-seventh New York); battery on thirty feet rise of ground (Brig. Gen. E. E. Potter, U. S. Volunteers, Colonel Gurney); from battery at Honey Hill to Grahamville two miles; no battery between Honey Hill and Grahamville.

Grahamville.—In September no work at Grahamville; in July eight companies of cavalry and battery of artillery; in September Captains Peeples' and Howard's companies of cavalry and Lieutenant Johnson's section of rifled brass guns, the same which were used at Chimney Point.

From Grahamville to Savannah River.—No batteries between Grahamville and Ferebeeville. On the road leading from Ferebeeville to the Coosawhatchie and Bluffton road are two works, one on each side of the road, about three miles from Ferebeeville. At New River is a good railroad bridge 150 yards long. At Hardeeville in August, 1864, was a battery of artillery. At Bluffton in September, 1864, was Captain Kirkland's cavalry company and some artillery.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 5. } Hilton Head, S. C., January 17, 1865.

A military tax of one per cent will be levied on all goods brought into this department, except the District of North Carolina, for the purpose of trade, on and after this date. The value of such goods will be determined by the invoices passed through the custom-house at Hilton Head. The fund accruing from this tax shall be used for the purpose of providing steam and other fire engines, repairing wharves, roads, public buildings, and other necessary civil expenses for the several cities and towns within the limits of this department. Lieut. Col. James H. Strong, First North Carolina Union Volunteers, is hereby detailed to attend to the collection and disbursement of this fund, under the direction of the major-general commanding. Lieut. Col. S.

L. Woodford, One hundred and twenty-seventh New York Volunteers, will act for Lieutenant-Colonel Strong until the arrival of that officer from North Carolina.

By command of Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster:

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 6. } Hilton Head, S. C., January 17, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Capt. James R. Gilmore, assistant quartermaster, having reported to these headquarters in accordance with instructions from the War Department, is hereby announced as superintendent of military telegraphs in this department, and will be respected accordingly.

By command of Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster:

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. COAST DIV., DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
No. 35. } Dereaux's Neck, S. C., January 17, 1865.

The Thirty-second U. S. Colored Troops are hereby relieved from duty with this division, and will proceed as soon as transportation can be furnished to Beaufort, S. C., and there report to Brevet Major-General Saxton for duty.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 17, 1865.

General SCAMMON,
Commanding, &c., Florida:

GENERAL: Now that Fort Fisher is captured and General Sherman moving, I think it a good time to get together all of your available men and advance into the country on a sort of Union march, as far as you judge safe and prudent or desirable. Select your point of attack and route. Stimulate the Union sentiment in the manner of General Sherman at Savannah. The news is glorious.

Truly, yours,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
New Berne, N. C., January 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Savannah, Ga.:

GENERAL: I have just received a letter from Brig. Gen. E. D. Townsend, assistant adjutant-general, written on the 16th instant, from on board the steamer S. R. Spaulding, and inclosing to me the order annexing the District of North Carolina to the Department of the South, and directing me to furnish you certain information concerning the command in North Carolina.

In a communication to Rear-Admiral Porter, and in a private letter written to you on the 13th instant, both of which you have doubtless ere this received, I gave you in general terms the information called for in the letter of General Townsend. I shall, however, inclose herewith reports from my own headquarters, together with those in detail from the sub-districts and stations under my command up to the 10th instant. I believe they explain themselves. Since that date no material changes have taken place. I shall also inclose a report of the ordnance and ordnance stores on hand in the arsenal here, together with a statement of the armament of the various works in this command, since the date of which no particular changes have taken place. I will also state that we keep constantly on hand at least ninety days' rations for all the troops in the district.

For fear that you may not have received the communication already referred to as having been sent you by Admiral Porter, I will state:

1. The railroad.—This is in tolerable running order from Morehead City to Batchelder's Creek, which is our extreme outpost on the railroad toward Kinston, and with little trouble I can place it in order as far as Core Creek, ten miles farther. From Core Creek to Kinston, a distance of about eighteen miles, the road has been in a great measure destroyed, but, as the grade is still preserved, it could be easily relaid. I have, however, no iron here to do this. There are now on the road four engines, two passenger cars, about ten each of box-cars and crates, and twenty platform-cars in order, and twenty which can be repaired.

2. Water transportation.—This consists of eight small steamers, fit only for the rivers and sounds, and two tugs. None of these are in very good order, and barely sufficient to transact business about the sounds.

3. Outposts.—These extend in a line toward Kinston, from the Trent to the Neuse River, a distance of about twelve miles; all the points of this line being about eight miles from New Berne.

The number of troops at the different stations, as shown by the returns inclosed, are barely sufficient to hold them. All the troops that could possibly be spared from this district were sent to Virginia early in the spring of 1864. I have, however, been able from time to time to send off various expeditions into the interior, which I flatter myself had the effect to hold no inconsiderable force of the enemy in this State, and away from other scenes of active operations.

4. Fortifications.—The different fortifications and field-works are in good condition, well armed and supplied, but weakly garrisoned.

In General Townsend's letter he informs me that you direct that the crossing of the Neuse at Kinston be at once secured. With regard to this, I would state that the Neuse River can be forded at one or more points a few miles above and below Kinston at the ordinary stage of the river. To secure the railroad crossing of the Neuse River at Kinston it will be necessary to capture and hold securely that place. Two of my scouts have this morning returned from near Kinston, and I am satisfied from the information I have obtained from them that there is only a small force, not to exceed two or three regiments, with from twelve to sixteen pieces of light artillery, in and about Kinston. But the bridge on the south and east side of the Neuse is defended by field-works with some heavy guns. Now, while I think it possible, with the force which I can collect, to capture Kinston, it is very doubtful whether it could be held, and I was just on the point of making a visit to Lieutenant-General Grant for the purpose of obtaining a small additional force, say four regiments of infantry, for the purpose of capturing and holding that town until I could put the railroad in order from that place to this, as I have calculated that you would certainly very soon send a force through North Carolina, when it will be all important for you to have your communication with the coast complete.

Now, general, I take it for granted that you will approve of my sending direct to General Grant to ask for this additional force, and to beg of him to send here as soon as possible the necessary material and men to finish the road from here to Kinston; consequently I shall do so.

In the meantime, however, I shall organize as quietly as possible as strong a force as I can, for the purpose of capturing Kinston, and if you think the attempt had better be made whether we can hold it or not, it shall be done.

I do not know whether the rebels can spare any troops to re-enforce Kinston at this time, but in all former expeditions to that place we have found that they could quickly pour down from Goldsborough a force far superior in numbers to any we could bring against them.

I have no means of ascertaining what is now in Goldsborough, but it is my impression that all the force they could possibly spare has been sent toward Wilmington. As our army and fleet will in all probability capture Wilmington in a few days, if they have not already done so, it will have the effect to liberate a large number of their troops that can readily move up the railroad toward Kinston, and not only drive out any small force I might have there, but also menace New Berne itself. I only mention this matter as something to consider in my calculations. I hope that some regular means of communication with you will be established without delay. Will you please recollect that I have no boats that I can send, and I am entirely dependent upon the Navy for means of communication.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 18, 1865.

Hon. SIMEON DRAPER,

Special Agent of the Treasury Department, Savannah, Ga.:

SIR: I am directed by Major-General Sherman to acknowledge your letter of the 17th instant, inclosing a communication from the mayor of the city with reference to the rice captured in this city. General Sherman desires me to say that the subject of your letter will be at once referred to General Beckwith, his chief commissary, who has charge of this whole matter. He thinks it probable, however, that it will be found necessary to retain all the rice in the hands of the army, in order to supply the wants of the soldiers and other persons dependent on us for subsistence, and therefore he prefers that no part of it should be taken possession of by the Treasury Department.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. HITCHCOCK,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
FIELD ORDERS, } In the Field, Savannah, Ga.,
No. 17. } January 18, 1865.

I. Brig. Gen. William Harrow, U. S. Volunteers, reporting to the general commanding, by order of Major-General Howard, commanding Department and Army of the Tennessee, will report in person to the Adjutant-General U. S. Army, Washington, D. C., for assignment. The quartermaster's department will furnish transportation.

II. Brig. Gen. William Vandever, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby transferred from the Department of the Tennessee to the Department of the Cumberland, and will report in person to Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis for assignment to duty.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
FIELD ORDERS, } In the Field, Savannah, Ga.,
No. 18. } January 18, 1865.

I. Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum, commanding Left Wing, will to-morrow, January 19, turn over to Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster, commanding Department of the South, the command and charge of the city of Savannah, Ga.

II. Major-General Foster will thereon relieve the guards, patrols, and fatigue parties belonging to General Geary's command and assign a commander for the post and city of Savannah, to be governed by existing orders and instructions from these headquarters.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 18, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of 16th instant relative to movements, &c. I had already directed a scouting party to reconnoiter toward Gillisonville. General Blair reports that the party found the enemy (artillery and cavalry) about six miles beyond Gillisonville. They were obliged to return to Coosawhatchie, capturing, however, a surgeon, lieutenant, and ten men of the enemy. The officer in command then struck off via Grahamville toward Robertsville. When within eight miles of that point they ran upon the enemy's picket. They learned from a prisoner captured from the Third South Carolina Cavalry that one division of Wheeler's cavalry, with seven pieces of artillery, was at Robertsville. Citizens on the road confirm this statement. General Blair further reports that a party sent last evening (17th) to Salkehatchie found the enemy still there, with seven pieces of artillery in sight from the road, and strengthening their works. I have directed General Blair to keep up his reconnaissances toward Salkehatchie.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 18, 1865.

General HOWARD:

DEAR GENERAL: Your note of January 17, with inclosures, is received. It is best that all the Fifteenth Corps not yet off should march, and that you get your whole command in the neighborhood of Pocotaligo and Coosawhatchie and make as many wharves as possible, that you may accumulate stores in your wagons. Slocum has two divisions at Hardeeville and Puryburg, and to-day a gun-boat and two transports move up to that point, and it will be five days before Slocum can have Sister's Ferry and Robertsville. The division of Cuvier Grover is now arriving and will occupy Savannah. This will relieve Geary's division. Davis will start to-morrow for Sister's Ferry on the west bank of Savannah, with Kilpatrick's cavalry. I now have official notice that General Terry carried Fort Fisher by assault, capturing 72 guns and 1,780 prisoners. This closes up Cape Fear River and helps us. I want them also to strengthen New Berne, and work out the railroad toward Goldsborough. Get your command so as to move north as soon as possible, and get all the bread and forage accumulated you can. As soon as possible we will cast off, and then for another cruise that will, in my judgment, do more to bring matters to a crisis than the last. Choose the best points you can find to land stores for Pocotaligo. Don't cross the Salkehatchie, but hold all the ground up to it, as though we intended to break across. The next movement I want the enemy to feel is from the left flank. Puryburg is reported as a fine point, with deep river and a good bluff.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
January 18, 1865. (Via Hilton Head.)

General SHERMAN:

Lieutenant McQueen, of my escort, has just returned from a reconnaissance. He communicated with a regiment of General Logan's mounted infantry at New River bridge yesterday a. m. The small bridges are destroyed; the road otherwise good. He brings from General Blair fifteen prisoners, including two commissioned officers. Do you wish the railroad destroyed?

HOWARD,
General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

January 18, 1865. (Via Hilton Head.)

General SHERMAN:

General Blair finds the enemy's camp at Robertsville. Was not Slocum to occupy that place on the 15th?

O. O. HOWARD,
General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Savannah, January 18, 1865. (Via Hilton Head.)

General HOWARD:

Slocum is not yet up at Robertsville but is at Hardeeville. It will be four days before he gets to Robertsville.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

CIRCULAR.] HDQRS. DEPT. AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Beaufort, S. C., January 18, 1865.

The major-general commanding with great pleasure publishes to the command the following telegram:

HILTON HEAD, January 17, 1865.

General MEIGS:

The steamer Russia has just arrived from Wilmington with dispatches which will be forwarded immediately. Fort Fisher was captured last Sunday evening by General Terry. Our loss about 500 men; 1 major-general, 2,000 prisoners, and 75 guns captured.

C. W. THOMAS.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 16.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 18, 1865.

* * * * *

III. So much of Special Field Orders, No. 11, of date January 13, 1865, from these headquarters, as relieves Col. M. C. Garber as chief quartermaster, Department of the Tennessee, being inconsistent with orders from the War Department, is hereby revoked and made void.

IV. The necessities of the service require that the negroes employed in the engineer, commissary, and quartermaster's departments of this army should not be molested by recruiting parties for colored organizations. Recruiting parties are, therefore, expressly prohibited from recruiting any such employé in this army. If taken in violation of these orders he will be reclaimed, and the person recruiting him arrested and dealt with accordingly. To prevent mistakes officers employing negroes will furnish them with certificates showing by whom and how employed.

V. The Seventieth Regiment Ohio Infantry Volunteers will for the present remain in town for the purpose of furnishing details for guard and fatigue duty, relieving the Thirty-first Iowa and Twenty-sixth Illinois Infantry therefrom, which regiments, on being relieved, will report to their respective brigade commanders. The commanding officers Seventieth Ohio will at once ascertain from Captain Bogert, provost-marshal of the district, the detail required for provost duty and furnish the same, holding the balance of his command subject to detail from these headquarters, or Captain Woodward, acting assistant quartermaster, for fatigue duty.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
Thunderbolt, Ga., January 18, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

In obedience to instructions embarkation of my division has been stopped, excepting my headquarters. The supply train and De Gress' battery, with the division pioneer corps and two regiments for guard, is all of the division left to go by land. This, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Black, One hundred and eleventh Illinois, is already on its way. I have directed Colonel Black to report at your headquarters, and also if possible to pass the causeway to-night.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 13. } Savannah, Ga., January 18, 1865.

* * * * *

X. This command will move out from its present camp at 8.30 a. m. to-morrow (the 19th instant) in the following order on the road leading into the city, viz:

1. First Brigade Infantry, Brigadier-General Rice commanding, with Battery H. First Missouri Light Artillery, in the center of his command or following the first two regiments.

2. Second Brigade Infantry, Colonel Adams commanding.

3. All trains of the division as follows: First, ordnance train followed by ambulance train; second, brigade trains in order of their respective brigades; third, division supply trains, well closed up.

4. Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut commanding. Colonel Hurlbut will keep out a sufficient rear guard, and will see that no straggling is permitted, arresting all men straying from their commands without proper authority.

* * * * *

By order of Bvt. Mai. Gen. John M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 18, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR, Jr.,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Your dispatches of last night respecting reconnaissances have just been received. I think from General Sherman's letter that General Slocum has not pushed any force to Robertsville yet, and probably the Fourteenth Corps will start for that place from Savannah to-day. Your reconnaissances toward Salkehatchie are useful, and had better be kept up with a view to keeping the enemy in that vicinity. It would be well to make him destroy his bridges, pontoons, &c., if possible. Please send me word as to the state of your rations and forage frequently.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

P. S.—It is best not to push an infantry reconnaissance toward Robertsville at present.

O. O. H.,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 18, 1865.

Col. H. C. RODGERS,
Chief of Staff, Left Wing:

COLONEL: My quartermaster reports great doubt as to his being able to procure the forage required to fill his trains by to-morrow morning. The forage is down the river on transports, and tug-boats have gone to tow them up, but when they will be up he is unable to report. To-morrow night our animals are out again.

I am, very respectfully,

JEF. C. DAVIS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 18, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: As soon as the troops of your division now on post duty are relieved you will rejoin the corps at Puryburg, or wherever they may be, marching by the same route taken by the other divisions. The headquarters of the corps will be moved to Puryburg to-morrow morning.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., THIRD DIV., 20TH ARMY CORPS,
Purysburg, S. C., January 18, 1865.

Capt. JOHN SPEED,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Third Division :

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report for the information of the general commanding:

At an early hour this morning I started out two scouting parties, each attended by a staff officer, to explore the country, examine woods, bridges, communications, &c., in our front, and have the honor to submit the following information, which they report:

One of these parties, under charge of Lieutenant Brown, from my headquarters, moved out upon a road running nearly east from Purysburg and crossing the Charleston and Savannah Railroad. At the point of crossing he left this road, moving nearly directly north through the swamp, there being no road near that point, striking the Grahamville road about three or three miles and a half from Purysburg; moving out upon that road toward Grahamville about two miles, and to within ten miles of Grahamville and two of Great Swamp bridge, about five miles from Purysburg, on the Grahamville road, he found a low, swampy piece of road, considerably obstructed by fallen timber; besides clearing out this timber, the road, for perhaps a quarter of a mile, will have to be corduroyed to make it passable for trains. Besides this, there are no serious obstructions in the road, except an occasional fallen tree or small bridge torn away, except within half a mile of Purysburg, where the road is impassable in its present condition, being flooded with about three feet of water and intersected by an uncovered ditch. There was a family living at the point on the Grahamville road where Lieutenant Brown stopped, but none between that point and Purysburg. At this house Lieutenant Brown was told that a party of five rebels had passed there about two hours before, which would have been about 11 a. m. They said they belonged to Wheeler's cavalry. The country through which he passed is a low pine swamp; there are no plantations and no forage.

The other party, with Captain Easton, started upon the Augusta road, but, on account of the water covering it, he was obliged to leave all of his party not mounted, and went forward to Rushing's, about three miles from Purysburg. The entire length of this road is covered with water, and Captain Easton reports it at present impassable for trains. I propose to send a party out as far as Great Swamp bridge to-morrow. No steam-boat has yet come up the river as far as this place. The water in the river is still rising.

I am, captain, your obedient servant,

DANL. DUSTIN,
Colonel, Commanding Second Brigade.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 18, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,
Commanding Department of the South :

GENERAL: I understand that General Hatch is destroying the railroad. I had not done so because I thought we might want to use it. Had you given orders to that effect?

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 18, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. R. SEXTON,
Commanding District of Beaufort :

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that the detachment of the One hundred and second U. S. Colored Troops, now at Beaufort, be directed to report at once to the headquarters of their regiment, now serving with the Coast Division under Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch. The necessary pickets for your district will be taken from the regiments and detachments in your command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. COAST DIV., DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
 No. 36. } Deveau's Neck, S. C., January 18, 1865.

* * * * *

VII. Lieut. Col. William Ames is hereby relieved from duty as chief of artillery, Coast Division, Department of the South, and ordered to report to Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster, headquarters Department of the South, Hilton Head, S. C.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 19, 1865.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

SIR: When you left Savannah a few days ago you forgot the map which General Geary had prepared for you, showing the route by which his division entered the city of Savannah, being the first troops to occupy that city. I now send it to you. I avail myself of the opportunity also to inclose you copies of all my official orders touching trade and intercourse with the people of Georgia, as well as for the establishment of the negro settlements. Delegations of the people of Georgia continue to come in and I am satisfied that, with a little judicious handling and by a little respect being paid to their prejudices we can create a schism in Jeff. Davis' dominions. All that I have conversed with realize the truth that slavery as an institution is defunct, and the only question that remains is, what disposition shall be made of the negroes themselves. I confess myself unable to offer a complete solution of this question, and prefer to leave it to the slower operations of time. We have given an initiative and can afford to await the working of the experiment. As to trade matters, I also think that it is to our interest to keep the people somewhat dependent upon the articles of commerce to which they have been hitherto accustomed.

General Grover is now here and will, I think, be able to manage this matter judiciously, and may gradually relax and invite cotton to come in in larger quantities. But at first we should manifest no undue anxiety on that score, for the rebels would at once make use of it as a power against us. We should assume a tone of perfect contempt for cotton and everything else in comparison with the great object of the war—the restoration of the Union with all its rights and power. If the rebels burn cotton as a war measure, they simply play into our hands by taking away the only product of value they now have to exchange in foreign ports for war ships and munitions. By such a course, also, they alienate the feelings of the large class of small farmers that look to their little parcels of cotton to exchange for food and clothing for their families. I hope the Government will not manifest too much anxiety to obtain cotton in large quantities, and especially that the President will not indorse the contracts for the purchase of large quantities of cotton. Several contracts, involving from 6,000 to 10,000 bales, indorsed by Mr. Lincoln, have been shown me, but were not in such a form as to amount to an order for me to facilitate their execution. As to Treasury trade agents and agents to take charge of confiscated and abandoned property, whose salaries depend upon their fees, I can only say, that as a general rule they are mischievous and disturbing elements to a military government. And it is almost impossible for us to study the law and regulations so as to understand fully their powers and duties. I rather think the Quartermaster's Department of the Army could better fulfill all their duties and accomplish all that is aimed at by the law. Yet on this subject I will leave General Foster and General Grover to do the best they can.

I am, with great respect, your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 19, 1865.

Hon. W. P. FESSENDEN,
Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, D. C.:

SIR: I have the honor herewith to inclose you copies of my Special Field Orders, Nos. 12 and 13,* the only ones I have issued touching matters of trade in this part of the country. I beg to invite your attention to them. I desire to pay every possible respect to the regulations of your Department and to carry out the policy of the Government to the furthest extent; but I know that we can derive but little revenue from the South, because no one will buy confiscated lands, and if we strip the inhabitants of all personal property they at once fall back upon us with claims of humanity which cannot be disregarded. I think that both General Grant and myself are as severe to secessionists as men could be, but each of us has been forced to feed the inhabitants of the conquered country after they have fallen helpless in our power. Without any clearly-defined rule, our practice has been harsh enough as long as resistance lasted; but the moment resistance ceased we could not see people round our camps perish of hunger. Immense quantities of provisions were issued by the commissary department round about Vicksburg and in East Tennessee; but I have forbidden my commissary to issue provisions to the people direct, but have set aside captured rice to be converted, under the direction of my commissary, into food for the inhabitants.

---

* See pp. 50, 52.

In like manner I propose to invite the people to bring into Savannah for exchange such things as cotton, cattle, sheep, hogs, &c., which had not fallen into our hands before Savannah surrendered. I think, also, that cotton may be brought into Savannah, Fernandina, and Jacksonville in some considerable quantities; but it is very important that we keep away the sharks and rascals that hang round an army like birds of prey, and, therefore, I shall insist that in no event shall private citizens be allowed to purchase cotton anywhere in this neighborhood. It is impossible for you in Washington to know the rascalities they perpetrate to get hold of cotton cheap, utterly regardless of honesty or the military interests of our country. As to shipments to Savannah and elsewhere of innocent goods, I am perfectly willing to leave this to the discretion of the collectors of Northern ports, with the simple military check which post commanders can readily apply under my orders. When it is well understood that every trader in our lines engages to do military service, we will be rid of the worst class of characters. Also, so far as I am concerned, I have no objection to the collector in New York or elsewhere clearing for Port Royal any cargo of goods not contraband, when post commanders can regulate the amounts to be brought to other points indicated in my orders. I expect, in a day or two, to take my departure hence, after which General Foster will have supreme control.

I am, with great respect, your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HILTON HEAD, January 19, 1865—11.30 a. m.

Major-General SHERMAN:

The following dispatch has just been received from the senior naval officer here:

Wilmington is in our possession. Will send the news in detail as soon as I can get it from the gun-boat that has just arrived.

ANDERSON,
Major and Aide-de-Camp.

[Indorsement.]

SLOCUM:

Order a salute of thirty-four guns.

SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 19, 1865.

Major ANDERSON,
Aide-de-Camp, Hilton Head:

In reporting us in possession of Wilmington did you refer to the news brought by the gun-boat Monticello? My dispatches by her merely refer to the taking of Fort Fisher.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

CONFIDENTIAL.]

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 19.	}	HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI, In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 19, 1865.
-------------------------------------	---	---

I. Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster, commanding Department of the South, will occupy in force the city of Savannah and river defenses and maintain a good, strong picket in connection with the gun-boats at or near Purysburg. He will also establish an intrenched camp at or near Pocotaligo, covering Port Royal Ferry and the road back to Broad River.

II. Major-General Howard, commanding Right Wing, Army in the Field, will group his army in front of Coosawhatchie and Pocotaligo, prepared to move inland with his wagons containing five days' forage and provisions and ammunition to the full capacity of his wagons in about the same proportion as when the army left Atlanta. He will continue to draw supplies from the head of Broad River up to the last moment before departure.

III. Major-General Slocum, commanding Left Wing, Army in the Field, will in like manner conduct his wing to convenient camps in the neighborhood of Robertsville, extending toward Coosawhatchie, loading his wagons in the manner prescribed for the Right Wing and drawing his supplies up to the last moment from Purysburg and Sister's Ferry on the Savannah River.

IV. Brevet Major-General Kilpatrick will move his cavalry in concert with the Left Wing, cross the Savannah River at Sister's Ferry and picket the roads in front of the Left Wing and open communication with Coosawhatchie, drawing his supplies also from the depot at Sister's Ferry.

V. Headquarters of the army will be established first at Coosawhatchie, to which point army commanders will report all matters of interest and the earliest moment possible that they will be ready to move inland.

The Right Wing will establish a depot for sick and property at Hilton Head; the Left Wing and cavalry corps the same at Savannah, and each corps will leave behind all unnecessary servants and non-combatants, all tents save one for headquarters of brigade and upwards, flies to shelter from the weather, and tents necessary for hospital purposes; also all chests for office papers and other baggage not necessary for use in battle, with orders for their office papers and necessary baggage to follow them by water.

VI. The chief quartermaster and commissary of the Army in the Field will use all possible exertion to push forward supplies to the points named in this order, and will be prepared to follow the movements of the army by water, with the provisions, forage, and stores necessary for a resupply.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
Savannah, January 19, 1865. (Via Hilton Head.)

Major-General HOWARD:

Dispatch received. Break up railroad at leisure and either send away the iron or disable it absolutely. General Grover arrived yesterday and to-day I install him in command. Accumulate food and forage at Pocotaligo and establish a depot at Hilton Head for your suite and the baggage and officers to be left behind. It will be some days before Jeff. Davis gets up to Robertsville or Logan gets to Pocotaligo, but I will push matters as fast as possible.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 17.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 19, 1865.

* * * * *

VII. To facilitate the supplying of this command with quartermaster's and commissary stores, the following depots will be established under the direction of the chief quartermaster and the chief commissary of subsistence.

1. For the Seventeenth Corps at Mackay's Point and the landing at Tullifunny.

2. For the First and Second Divisions, Fifteenth Army Corps, at Beaufort, S. C.; for the Third and Fourth Divisions, Fifteenth Army Corps, at General Hatch's wharf.

3. Colonel Conklin, chief quartermaster, will accumulate supplies at the points above named, making Beaufort, however, the principal depot. Lieutenant-Colonel Remick, chief commissary of subsistence, will supply the command with at least thirty days' rations of small stores and all the hard bread and other stores which the transportation of the army will admit of. He will also accumulate at the points above mentioned, especially at Beaufort, all the stores possible.

4. Whenever supplies can be accumulated more rapidly by any change in the points herein indicated the chief quartermaster will act accordingly, and notify the command to be affected by the change, the object being to secure to the army the largest possible amount of supplies.

VIII. So much of Special Field Orders, No. 207, extract 5, series 1864, and No. 3, extract 1, current series, as relieves Capt. Fred. F. Whitehead, assistant adjutant-general, U. S. Volunteers, from further duty in this army, is hereby revoked. Captain Whitehead will report to Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps, for assignment to duty.

IX. Lieut. Col. R. R. Townes, assistant adjutant-general, Fifteenth Army Corps, having returned to duty, Maj. Maxwell Woodhull, assistant adjutant-general, U. S. Volunteers, is relieved from further duty in the Fifteenth Army Corps and will forthwith report in person to the major-general commanding for assignment.

X. Major-General Blair, commanding Seventeenth Army Corps, will break up the railroad from Pocotaligo to the Salkehatchie, destroying it absolutely, sending away the iron or rendering it worthless to the road.

XI. 1. The sick and wounded of this army will, under the direction of the medical director, be taken to Beaufort, S. C., and there provided for.

2. All unnecessary baggage and articles not absolutely required in the present campaign will be taken to the depot at Beaufort, S. C., and there stored in charge of proper officers.

* * * * *

XV. Capt. C. B. Reese, chief engineer, will proceed to Hilton Head, S. C., to procure material for the pontoon train. The quartermaster's department will furnish without delay the necessary transportation for such material as Captain Reese may procure.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 19, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR, Jr.,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Major-General Howard directs me to say that upon reflection he does not deem it advisable to destroy the rails upon the road as required in the order to-day, provided you can procure cars with which to take them down to Pocotaligo and there pile them up for future use. Should you be unable, however, to get the cars, you will please go on and destroy the road as indicated in the order.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. T. CLARK,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 19, 1865.

Capt. S. L. TAGGART,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Dept. and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: Colonel Gage, Twenty-ninth Missouri Mounted Infantry, reached here with his command this morning. He found no enemy on the road, and heard that a part of the Twentieth Corps were at Hardecville.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 19, 1865.

Capt. S. L. TAGGART,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Dept. and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I need my pioneers at this point very much for repairing roads, building works, &c. They can be much better cared for and worked to better advantage than where they now are. Besides, I hear that recruiting agents from the States are tampering with them at every opportunity and persuading them to desert. I desire to have the organization near enough to me to be able to make an example of any of these gentlemen I might chance to catch enticing my men away.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 19, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. A. MOWER,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding instructs me to say to you that General Force, commanding Third Division, has been directed to place two regiments in the position occupied by the brigade of your command on his left and to relieve your pickets as soon as you move out to-morrow morning.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 19, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. A. MOWER,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say to you that he has directed two regiments from the Fourth Division to move out after you to-morrow and take position to cover the roads as you desire. Captain Henley, of the general's staff, will accompany them and post them as you may direct. General Blair has examined the two deserters brought in by Colonel Gage, but considers their knowledge of the position of the enemy very indefinite. He directs me to say that if any large body of the enemy oppose your movements you will use your own discretion in regard to attacking them.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 19, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. SMITH,
Commanding Fourth Division:

GENERAL: I am instructed by the major-general commanding to direct you to extend your picket-line on your left until it connects with the right of the Third Division line. This will be done at daylight to-morrow.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
No. 5. } Savannah, Ga., January 19, 1865.

Capt. Robert P. Dechert, Twenty-ninth Pennsylvania Volunteers, is hereby announced on the staff of the major-general commanding as acting assistant adjutant-general. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By command of Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.]

HDQRS. LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,

Savannah, Ga., January 19, 1865.

The following movements are ordered and will take place at the earliest moment practicable: The Fourteenth Corps, Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis commanding, will move via Springfield, cross the river at or near Sister's Ferry, and concentrate at that point. The Twentieth Corps, Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams commanding, will cross the river at Savannah and concentrate at Purysburg. The corps will be prepared to move from the above points with five days' forage and provisions, and ammunition to the full capacity of the wagons, in about the same proportion as when the army left Atlanta. To accomplish this, each corps commander will leave at Savannah a competent officer of the quartermaster's and commissary departments to forward the supplies by river to the above points of concentration, and they will see that supplies are promptly forwarded in sufficient quantities to meet the wants of the command while there, and at the same time enable them to start with a full supply of both rations and forage. All surplus baggage, servants, and non-combatants, and all tents, save one for headquarters of brigades and superior commands, will be left behind, with orders for the necessary baggage, office papers, and furniture to follow by water.

By command of Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum:

H. C. RODGERS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }

HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., FIRST DIV.,

No. 1. }

FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Savannah, Ga., January 19, 1865.

I. In pursuance with Special Orders, No. 10, extract, paragraph I, dated headquarters First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, January 17, 1865, I hereby assume command of the Second Brigade.

GEO. P. BUELL,

Brevet Brigadier-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, }

HDQRS. SECOND DIV., 14TH ARMY CORPS,

No. 6. }

Savannah, Ga., January [19], 1865.

This division will move promptly at 7 a. m., January 20, 1865, in the following order of march: First Brigade, battery, division headquarters wagons, Second Brigade, Third Brigade, ambulances, ordnance and general supply train, rear guard; regimental and brigade headquarters wagons and pack animals in rear of their respective brigades in the order of march. Brigades will alternate daily (when marching) from right to left. The brigade marching in rear will be responsible for the safety of the train. From two to three regiments must march on the flanks of the train and not only protect it, but assist wagons over bad roads. Brigade quartermasters will see that their trains are always well closed up while on the march. By 11 a. m. each day, when marching, a staff officer from each brigade, a sergeant from the battery, and a lieutenant from the general supply train will report at the head of the column to Captain Wiseman, assistant adjutant-general, as a camping party. Brigade commanders will see that the pioneer parties in their commands are properly organized in charge of a subaltern or good, efficient sergeant. The party will be provided with tools sufficient to repair bad roads or bridges and march on the right of their respective brigades. No foraging parties will be sent out till ordered from division or corps headquarters.

By order of Brig. Gen. James D. Morgan:

T. WISEMAN,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Cheres' House, S. C., January 19, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: The rain of to-day has made the roads so bad that I respectfully request that Geary's division and the headquarters supply trains of this corps may be permitted to march with General Davis' column. All of the roads on this side of the river, including the causeway, are almost impassable, and if the rain continues will be entirely so. The most of the trains of the Fifteenth Corps are still behind here in the road.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
Gartsway's Plantation, January 19, 1865.

Capt. E. K. BUTTRICK,
First Division:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that I moved the division forward yesterday to a point four miles from Hardeeville and seven miles from Purysburg. On last evening I ordered the brigade commanders to issue to their regiments three days' rations from this morning and directed that all the wagons thus emptied be sent back to Screven's Ferry for additional supplies. Having learned that the road was bad in the vicinity of the ferry, I ordered a detail of 150 men from the Fifth Connecticut Volunteers to repair it. I have sent to this detail the intrenching tools necessary for doing the work and have directed that Captain Livezey, commissary of subsistence of division, furnish the detail with rations. Upon consultation with Major Francis this morning I have concluded to move the division forward to Purysburg in order to be out of the way of the troops coming up in the rear.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. S. ROBINSON,
Brigadier-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 1.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION,
TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 19, 1865.

This command will be in readiness to move by to-morrow morning. The hour will be designated as soon as it is ascertained that the road is clear of other troops.

* * * * *

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., THIRD DIV., 20TH ARMY CORPS,
Purysburg, S. C., January 19, 1865.

Captain SPEED,

Asst. Adj. Gen., Third Div., Twentieth Army Corps:

I have the honor to submit the following report for the information of the general commanding:

Early this morning a party of eighteen mounted men under charge of Captains Easton and Kellam, of my staff, started out to examine the Grahamville road; they returned this evening and furnished the following information: Meeting with no resistance they moved out as far as Grahamville, fifteen or sixteen miles from this place. There are no troops stationed there, though Colonel Bennett with a detachment from General Hatch's command was there temporarily and returned to General Hatch's headquarters at Dubois Neck, eight miles from Grahamville, while my scouting party was there. As appeared by my report of last evening, there is a low place a quarter of a mile in length, about five miles from this place, which will need to be corduroyed before the trains can pass. There are also two or three small bridges torn away still farther on, but which the pioneer corps can easily replace. About a mile this side of Ferebeeville, where the railroad crosses the Grahamville road, there is nearly a mile of road entirely impassable for trains in its present condition, and will require much thorough work to make serviceable. The steamer General Lee, with 100,000 rations for the corps, convoyed by gun-boat Pontiac, arrived this evening.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

DANL. DUSTIN,

Colonel, Commanding Second Brigade.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 19, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,

Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: At my suggestion your command has been re-enforced by the troops serving in North Carolina and a division under command of Major-General Grover. I have also turned over to you the city of Savannah and forts dependent, and beg now to indicate in general terms the course which I propose to pursue, and your share of the undertaking. I propose to march, as soon as my wagons are loaded with forage and provisions, to the railroad leading from Augusta to Charleston, striking it to the west of Branchville, breaking up that road effectually. I will then move in compact order and occupy that space of country lying in the triangle formed by Kinston, Columbia, and Camden. There I propose to devote some attention to Columbia and the railroads in that neighborhood. If I find sufficient forage and subsistence for my army and meet with no reverse, I may move with rapidity to Florence, S. C., in hopes to rescue some 10,000 prisoners confined there. At all events, breaking up the road there, I will move direct for Smithland [Smithville], at the mouth of Cape Fear River, or to New Berne, N. C., according to the condition of my army at the time. When you hear of our being in motion about Coosawhatchie, toward Barnwell, I want a diversion created at Bull's Bay, against the Mount Pleasant and Georgetown road, about the Twenty-four Mile Post, to create the impression that my purpose is to swing down against Charleston by the peninsula between the Ashley and Cooper. I think 1,000 men, with the co-operation of the navy, will be sufficient to accomplish that end. At the same time, the command at Morris Island should feel the forces on James Island, either to detect the diminution of the enemy's forces there, or to compel the enemy to keep as many troops there as possible.

I regard any attempt to enter Charleston Harbor by its direct channel or to carry it by storm or James Island as too hazardous to warrant the attempt. Therefore, any demonstrations in that quarter should be merely diversions, or to take advantage of anything they may neglect by reason of my appearance in their rear. After I have passed the Santee similar diversions should be made about Georgetown, and if the opportunity presents itself the fort there might be carried and dismantled; and I would like to have a good lookout kept by the navy for any boat or message I might send down the Santee or Pedee with a cipher dispatch. I have already furnished Admiral Dahlgren with the key, which is the same used by our telegraphic operators, a copy of which you had better procure at once from Washington through the War Department. In whatever you may do to aid me along the coast by diversions, I must leave you in a great measure to be guided by such information as reaches you from sources controlled by the enemy, of which you must be duly suspicious. But bearing in mind the foregoing, and knowing the strength and temper of my army, you can arrive at a pretty fair conclusion. I take it for granted that Fort Fisher and Macon, on the North Carolina coast, will be held secure; and it would be well that you [give] to each commanding officer from time to time such instructions as will make them co-operate with the general movement to the extent of their power. I attach great importance to the point at New Berne, and think you had better send to that point an inspector-general.

Notify the commanding officer of the importance of the position, and if need be re-enforce him. Notify him further that the railroad from Morehead City to New Berne must be looked to with great care. I propose to send to New Berne an officer in whom I have great confidence, Col. W. W. Wright, to examine the railroad, to ascertain the quantity of rolling-stock, and to convey there by the time I can arrive increased railroad stock and iron, with the necessary operatives to extend the road to Kinston and Goldsborough. But, as a matter of course, these preliminary preparations should be made so as to attract as little attention as possible. In this connection I would caution you and beg you to caution others against the mischievous newspaper men, who would sacrifice the whole army for a little personal notoriety. If any of them are about and likely to divulge so important a secret don't risk them, but imprison them till the time is past. At this moment we have learned the capture of Wilmington, which may modify matters somewhat, but the general principles above indicated will be still applicable and sufficient for your guidance. I would like to have you confer frequently with Admirals Dahlgren and Porter, apprise them of all movements, and call upon them for any assistance in the way of gun-boats, &c.

I am, with respect, your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
 No. 3. } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 20, 1865.

Col. James Wilson, Thirteenth Regiment Iowa Infantry Volunteers, is announced as provost-marshal-general of this department and army. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 20, 1865.

Capt. SAMUEL L. TAGGART,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: The dikes along the Union Causeway turnpike have been broken during the late storm, and the road is several feet under water and totally impassable for wagons or troops. The movement will therefore be delayed until other arrangements for the transportation of this column can be made. General Logan is now absent from the city, seeking some other route. Unless the road indicated in your order for the movement of the Third and Fourth Divisions of this corps can be made passable for wagons, or some other route to Pocotaligo be discovered, the rest of the corps, with its transportation, will have to be shipped by sea to Beaufort.

General Logan has put himself in communication with General Sherman, and is now acting in pursuance of instructions received from him.

These headquarters will remain in Savannah for several days, until arrangements are completed for the movement of the Third and Fourth Divisions.

Major Houghtaling, who carries this dispatch, will be able to give the general commanding all additional information he may desire.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—I will try and keep the general posted as to our movements.

M. W.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR, } HDQRS. SECOND DIV., FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 8. } Beaufort, S. C., January 20, 1865.

Commanding officers are directed to make all necessary preparations for an immediate campaign. The division will remain at or near its present position till the army moves, which will not be for several days. The same allowance of transportation as on the last campaign, viz. 1 wagon per regiment, 2 per brigade, and 3 per division, will probably be given. No negro women or children will be permitted to leave this point with the troops. Commanders will see that on leaving here each of their enlisted men carry one shelter-tent. While lying at this point, the weather permitting, each regiment will be exercised in the drill of battalion from 9.20 to 11 a. m. each day, and in evolutions of the line from 2.30 to 4 p. m. each day.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. B. Hazen:

G. LOFLAND,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 20, 1865.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD,

Commanding Department and Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: I have addressed an official note to Captain Taggart requesting that my negro pioneers, under Captain Davis and Lieutenant Dixon, be relieved from duty at Beaufort and ordered to join this command. I have fatigue duty enough to occupy them here in making roads, wharves, &c., in which I am now compelled to employ my troops. But I wish to say candidly to you that I have other very strong motives to desire to get these men out of the hands of the recruiting agents of the different States, who are tampering with the men and officers, offering them bribes to enlist for particular States. The result, if this should succeed, would be to deprive me and my corps of a good body of pioneers and encumber the Government with another regiment of idle negroes to lay around in barracks. It would also be credited to the quota of some Northern State, and we should lose a regiment of white soldiers whose place it would take. It is not necessary that General Littlefield or anybody else should muster them into the service and give credit to this or that State. The men can continue to perform the services for which they were recruited until authority comes from Washington to muster them into service without losing by the operation 1,000 good white soldiers and without any bounty or pay except that which will properly come to them on the contract under which they have already engaged to serve. A large number have already been inveigled and seduced away by promises and bounties held out to them, and I desire to relieve myself and officers of all further contact with those people.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

F. P. BLAIR, JR.,

Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 20, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,

Commanding Third Division.

GENERAL: General Mower has moved out this morning with the intention of crossing the Salkehatchie River, about three miles above the bridge, and coming down behind the enemy if possible.

The major-general commanding desires you to send a regiment out on the road to the bridge at once, with instructions not to expose themselves too much to the enemy's fire, but to make a demonstration to attract their attention. Send your mounted infantry with the regiment, and let them bring back reports of any movements of the enemy or anything of importance that the commanding officer may learn from time to time. Let the regiment remain out during the day or until something definite is heard from General Mower.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 20, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say that you may withdraw the regiment sent to Salkehatchie bridge this morning, General Mower having found it impossible to cross the river.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 20, 1865.

Col. WAGER SWAYNE,
Forty-third Ohio Volunteers:

COLONEL: The major-general commanding directs me to say to you, in forwarding the inclosed order for the destruction of the railroad, that he wishes it done in the most perfect manner, every tie burned and every rail warped and bent. It is five miles to the river, but I hardly suppose you can quite reach the river on account of the enemy. You will continue your work from day to day until finished.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., FOURTH DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 20, 1865.

Captain WARE,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: I have just returned from the front with my command. Lieutenant-Colonel Hibbets reports that his regiment was attacked by about 300 cavalry, Colonel Colecock, Third South Carolina. Three rebels are known to be killed and probably more. The Thirty-second Ohio Infantry lost 1 lieutenant captured, and 1 man slightly wounded. Major-General Mower is still out, but will return to-night. He could not effect a crossing of the river on account of the rain raising the stream. The First Division met no enemy. The ambulances and ammunition returned with me.

I am, captain, your obedient servant,

B. F. POTTS,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Savannah, Ga., January 20, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say that you had better arrest the movement of your corps for the present until the storm subsides. He will send you further orders should he desire you to resume the march.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
On the Causeway, Three Miles from Scriven's Ferry,
January 20, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. SLOCUM,

Commanding Left Wing, Army of Georgia:

GENERAL: The whole country on this side of the river is entirely submerged by the freshet in the river. I attempted to get back to my headquarters trains, but found it impossible. The water has broken away the dikes and washed away the corduroy. It is utterly impossible for the trains now on the island to come through this way. The causeway is not as yet flooded, but from this point to the river is worn out, and impassable even for empty wagons. I shall put on men and pull through the wagons between here and the ferry (thirty-eight wagons), but the supplies now at the ferry I shall be obliged to leave there to be taken from there by boat. The water is rising rapidly, and the negroes here say that the causeway also will be flooded. I shall go on at once to Purysburg and make headquarters there.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 21, 1865.

(Received 29th.)

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

Your letters brought by General Barnard were received at City Point and read with interest. Not having them with me, however, I cannot say that in this I will be able to satisfy you on all points of recommendation. As I arrived here at 1 p. m. and must leave at 6 p. m., having in the meantime spent over three hours with the Secretary and General Halleck, I must be brief. Before your last request to have Thomas make a campaign into the heart of Alabama, I had ordered Schofield to Annapolis, Md., with his corps. The advance, 6,000, will reach seaboard by the 23d, the remainder following as rapidly as railroad transportation can be procured from Cincinnati. The corps numbers over 21,000 men. I was induced to do this because I did not believe Thomas could possibly be got off before spring. His pursuit of Hood indicated a sluggishness that satisfied me that he would never do to conduct one of your campaigns. The command of the advance of the pursuit was left to the subordinates, whilst Thomas followed far behind. When Hood had crossed the Tennessee, and those in pursuit had reached it, Thomas had not much more than half crossed the State, from whence he returned to Nashville to take steamer for Eastport. He is possessed of excellent judgment, great coolness, and honesty, but he is not good on a pursuit. He also reported his troops fagged, and that it was necessary to equip up.

This report and a determination to give the enemy no rest determined me to use his surplus troops elsewhere. Thomas is still left with sufficient force, surplus, to go to Selma under an energetic leader. He has been telegraphed to to know whether he could go, and, if so, by which of the several routes he would select. No reply is yet received. Canby has been ordered to act offensively from the sea coast to the interior toward Montgomery and Selma. Thomas' forces will move from the north at an early day, or some of his troops will be sent to Canby. Without further re-enforcement Canby will have a moving column of 20,000 men. Fort Fisher, you are aware, has been captured. We have a force there of 8,000 effective. At New Berne about half that number. It is rumored through deserters that Wilmington also has fallen. I am inclined to believe the rumor, because on the 17th we knew the enemy were blowing up their works about Fort Caswell, and that on the 18th Terry moved on Wilmington. If Wilmington is captured Schofield will go there. If not, he will be sent to New Berne. In either event all the surplus force at the two points will move to the interior toward Goldsborough in co-operation with your movement. From either point railroad communication can be run out, there being here abundance of rolling-stock suited to the gauge of those roads.

There have been about 16,000 men sent from Lee's army south. Of these you will have against you, if Wilmington is not held by the enemy, about 14,000, casualties at Fort Fisher having overtaken about 2,000. All these troops are subject to your orders as you come in communication with them. They will be so instructed. From about Richmond I will watch Lee closely, and if he detaches much more or attempts to evacuate, will pitch in. In the meantime should you be brought to a halt anywhere, I can send two corps of 30,000 effective men to your support from the troops about Richmond.

To résumé: Canby is ordered to operate to the interior from the gulf. A. J. Smith may go from the north, but I think it doubtful. A force of 28,000 or 30,000 men will co-operate with you from New Berne or Wilmington, or both. You can call for re-enforcements. This will be handed to you by Captain Hudson of my staff, who will return with any message you may have for me. If there is anything I can do for you in the way of having supplies on shipboard at any point on the sea coast ready for you let me know it.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 21, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,
City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: In fulfillment of my project* General Howard moved the Seventeenth Corps, General Blair, from Thunderbolt to Beaufort, S. C., and on the 14th by a rapid movement secured the Port Royal Ferry and moved against Pocotaligo, which he gained on the 15th, the day appointed. By that course he secured the use of the ground in South Carolina up to the Salkehatchie (Salukatcher), and General Slocum was ordered in like manner to get his wing up about Robertsville by the way of the Savannah River and the Union Causeway. The transfer of men, animals, and wagons by steamer is a very slow process, and on the 19th General Slocum had only two divisions of the Twentieth at Puryburg and Hardeeville with open communications with Howard. John E. Smith crossed by the Union Causeway, on which Slocum had put ten days' hard work, but the hard rains had raised the Savannah River so that the whole country was under water, and the corduroy road on the Union Causeway was carried away, cutting off one brigade of John E. Smith, one division of the Fifteenth Corps (Corse's), and all of the Fourteenth Corps, General Davis. All were ordered to move up the west bank of the Savannah to cross at Sister's Ferry, but the rains have so flooded the country that we have been brought to a standstill: but I will persevere and get the army as soon as possible up to the line from Sister's Ferry to Pocotaligo, where we will have terra firma to work on. Our supplies have come daily, that is, we have never had four days' forage ahead, but I will depend on enough coming to get me out to the neighborhood of Barnwell, where we will find some.

---

* See Sherman to Grant, January 2, p. 7.

General Grover's division now occupies Savannah, which I had refortified, and I have turned over everything to General Foster, so that nothing now hinders me but water. I rather think the heavy rains in January will give us good weather in February and March. You cannot do much in Virginia till April or May, and when I am at Goldsborough and move against Raleigh, Lee will be forced to divide his command or give up Richmond.

I am rejoiced that Terry took Fisher, because it silences Butler, who was to you a dangerous man. His address* to his troops on being relieved was a direct, mean, and malicious attack on you, and I admired the patience and skill by which you relieved yourself and the country of him. If you want some new and fresh men, able to handle large armies, I will offer you Charles R. Woods, Hazen, and Mower, all good and capable officers for an army of any size. Of course, I prefer to have them myself, but would give them up if you can do better by them.

As soon as possible, if I were in your place, I would break up the Department of the James, make the Richmond army one: then when I get to Goldsborough you will have a force to watch Lee, and I can be directed to gradually close in, cutting all communications. In the meantime Thomas' army should not be reduced too much, but he should hold Chattanooga, Decatur, and Eastport, collect supplies, and in all February and March move on Tuscaloosa, Selma, Montgomery, and back to Rome, Ga., when he could be met from Chattanooga.

I take it for granted that Beauregard will bring, as fast as he can, such part of Hood's army as can be moved over to Augusta to hit me in flank as I swing round Charleston. To cover the withdrawal Forrest will be left in Mississippi and West Tennessee, to divert attention by threatening the boats on the Mississippi and Tennessee Rivers. This should be disregarded and Thomas should break through the shell, expose the trick, and prevent the planting of corn this spring in Middle Alabama. The people of Georgia, like those of Mississippi, are worn out with care, but they are so afraid of their own leaders that they fear to organize for positive resistance. Their motives of "honor" and "fair play" are, that by abandoning the cause now they would be construed as "mean" for leaving their commands in the scrape. I have met the overtures of the people frankly, and given them the best advice I knew how.

I inclose copies of orders issued for the guidance of General Foster and other officers on this coast.† These orders are made on conference with the Secretary of War.

I have been told that Congress meditates a bill to make another lieutenant-general for me. I have written to John Sherman to stop it, if it is designed for me. It would be mischievous, for there are enough rascals who would try to sow differences between us, whereas you and I now are in perfect understanding. I would rather have you in command than anybody else, for you are fair, honest, and have at heart the same purpose that should animate all. I should emphatically decline any commission calculated to bring us into rivalry, and I ask you to advise all your friends in Congress to this effect, especially Mr. Washburne. I doubt if men in Congress fully realize that you and I are honest in our professions of want of ambition. I know I feel none, and to-day will gladly surrender my position and influence to any other who is better able to wield the power. The flurry attending my recent success will soon blow over, and give place to new developments.

---

* See Vol. XLVI, Part II, p. 70.

† See Special Field Orders, Nos. 13, 15, 18 and 19, pp. 52, 60, 81, 90.

I inclose a letter of general instructions to General Thomas,* which I beg you to revise and indorse or modify.

I am, truly, yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 21, 1865.

Admiral D. D. PORTER,
Wilmington:

DEAR ADMIRAL: I wrote you yesterday by Captain Ammen, and have this moment received a package, giving me very full reports from General Palmer of matters in North Carolina, which I am very glad to have received.

The weather has been villainous, and all the country is under water, and retards me much. It may be some days yet before I can cast off, as the roads are under water, and my men are not exactly amphibious yet, nor the mules either. I shall spare no efforts to be off, and the foul weather of January may be a guarantee for better in February and March. In the present attitude of things I would not deem it wise to push your gun-boats up to Wilmington, unless it could be done quick, for they will surely remove everything of value. You already have all that is of any value to you. As to the town, the land forces should watch it close, and slip in when it is discovered that I am approaching. I have been much embarrassed by the want of shoal-water craft, five or six feet draft, and would ask to borrow some of you, but suppose all of yours are deep-sea craft, but if you have any short and shallow boats to spare for a few days it would help me much, both in Broad River and the Savannah. The deep boats get aground all the time, and the long ones cannot make the bends. You know, of course, that I am going to load up finally at Pocotaligo and Sister's Ferry, on the Savannah. I have turned over everything to General Foster and General Grover, the latter commands the city and former the department, made to extend up the coast to the Chesapeake. It would be well if the Navy Department would unite yours and Dahlgren's jurisdiction, or shove the line of demarkation.

The admiral here is very kind, indeed, and does for me everything possible.

The best part of the taking of Fort Fisher was the killing of Butler. He has no blood on his skirts, and, judging from the past, it will be long before his blood stains anything. His solicitude for the blood of his men is all moonshine, and his whole bombastic order was designed as a fling at Grant. The latter has quietly and completely laid him low forever. Even the nigger cannot resurrect him. I may write you again from camp about Coosawhatchie, but I now consider myself afloat.

* See Vol. XLV, Part II, p. 621.

With sincere respect, as ever, your friend,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
OFFICE OF PROVOST-MARSHAL-GENERAL,
Beaufort, January 21, 1865.

Statement of two negroes who escaped from Charleston on the morning of the 19th of January, 1865.

Alfred, belonging to Dr. Francis Willis, of Savannah, and Tom, belonging to George H. Waring, of Savannah, were employed on the telegraph lines in and about Charleston, the former in the office of Willie Willis, telegraph operator at Charleston. They escaped from Charleston before daylight on the 19th, and state that General Hardee is in command of Charleston, General Johnston in command of the district. There is one division (General Wright's) in and about Charleston, two brigades being inside the works at Charleston, one brigade at Adams' Run, about twenty-seven miles from Charleston, between here and there, and one brigade at John's Island. There are two brigades one mile and a half beyond the ferry across the Combahee River and a masked battery of field artillery on the left of the road three-fourths of a mile beyond the ferry. At Rantowles the road forks, one road leading to John's Island. It is ten miles by the dirt road and twelve miles by the railroad from Rantowles to Charleston. There are two small forts on the dirt road (the Charleston and Savannah State road) two miles beyond Rantowles, near where two large factory chimneys are left standing, the building being burned. There were no guns in them when these men passed. Toward Charleston from this place is the Five-Mile Fort, being two works, one on each side of the road, each mounting about four guns. The guns are black and they think are not field pieces. There are no rifle-pits near these forts. They both cover the dirt road, the one on the right going to Charleston also covering the railroad. Two miles and a half from Charleston there are rifle-pits crossing the dirt road, extending on the right going from here about half a mile to a marsh, and on the left about half a mile, inclosing a plantation house, but do not know where they terminate. They can be seen distinctly for some distance, being on high ground.

Beyond this, near the new bridge, going into town, are two large forts, having no guns with the exception of one very large one. The guns for the defense of the place are all on the other side toward the bay. The troops mentioned are all Browne's Georgia Reserves. All the old troops that were there before the fall of Savannah have been sent to Branchville; also troops from Augusta and those that escaped from Savannah. There are about ten warehouses filled with cotton at Charleston. The people wish to get it away, but General Hardee says he cannot give them transportation. All the engines and cars have been sent off excepting just enough for the use of the troops on the Savannah railroad. The people expect Charleston to be evacuated.

Colonel Roy, General Hardee's adjutant-general, told Mr. Willis that they expected to have to evacuate and make a stand at Branchville. Colonel Roy also said that General Lee could not spare any troops from Richmond, as he had barely enough to hold it. Some troops were sent down to Branchville from Richmond, but afterward ordered back.

JAMES WILSON,

Col. and Provost-Marshal-General, Dept. and Army of the Tenn.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 33. } Washington, January 21, 1865.

* * * * *

29. The telegraphic order dated Fortress Monroe, Va., January 6, 1865, directing Bvt. Brig. Gen. D. C. McCallum, superintendent military railroads, to proceed without delay to report in person to Major-General Sherman, at Savannah, or wherever he might be found, is hereby confirmed.

* * * * *

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
FIELD ORDERS. } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 19. } Beaufort, S. C., January 21, 1865.

I. The pioneer battalion (colored) of the Seventeenth Army Corps, Capt. J. H. Davis commanding, is relieved from further duty at this point and will forthwith join the corps at or near Pocotaligo.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 5. } Beaufort, S. C., January 21, 1865.

I. Bvt. Brig. Gen. William B. Woods, having, by direction of the major-general commanding the army, reported for duty in accordance with his brevet rank, is hereby assigned to command of the First Brigade of this division. He will at once assume command accordingly.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. Woods:

FRED. H. WILSON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 21, 1865.

Capt. S. L. TAGGART,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: In accordance with instructions to make demonstrations toward the Salkehatchie River, I sent General Mower, with his entire command, yesterday morning to endeavor to cross about three miles above the bridge and get in rear of the force stationed there. He reached the river without difficulty, finding no pickets on either side. During dry weather the river is fordable, and in this way General Mower expected to cross, but the recent rains had so swollen the stream that he found it impossible to get over without boats. He was therefore obliged to return. In order to protect General Mower's rear I sent in the morning to the forks of the road, about six miles from here, two regiments from the Fourth Division. They took up a position covering the roads as soon as General Mower had passed. During the morning they were attacked by a force of cavalry, supposed to be one South Carolina regiment. After a lively skirmish they repulsed them, leaving three rebels dead on the field and as many wounded. Our loss was 1 captured and 1 wounded. I am convinced that if General Mower had had the means of crossing he would at least have captured their artillery.

Respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

P. S.—General Mower thinks that he withdrew without the enemy being aware of his presence.

F. P. B.,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 21, 1865.

Major-General BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Corps:

GENERAL: I shall be at Pocotaligo myself shortly, and until I arrive I would prefer that you remain there. General Sherman particularly requested me not to reconnoiter beyond the Salkehatchie, and I am glad that General Mower did not cross the river.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, January 21, 1865.

General KILPATRICK:

Move in conformity with General Davis' column, letting him get one day's start of you. The advance of his column is about seven miles from the city, stuck fast in the mud. This will delay your moving till Monday morning at best.

L. M. DAYTON,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 7. } Hilton Head, S. C., January 21, 1865.

The command and charge of the city of Savannah and dependencies having, by the order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman, commanding Military Division of the Mississippi, been assigned to me as a portion of the Department of the South, I hereby assume command thereof.

This district of the department will be designated the District of Savannah, and will embrace the city of Savannah, with its forts, lines of defense and communication, Fort Pulaski, and the islands and country adjacent, to the extent of the military control of the garrison.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. Cuvier Grover, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby assigned to the command of the District of Savannah.

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 8. } Hilton Head, S. C., January 21, 1865.

Brig. Gen. R. Saxton, having been assigned by the major-general commanding the Military Division of the Mississippi, in Special Field Orders, No. 15, current series, dated, "In the field, Savannah, Ga., January 16, 1865," to the duties of providing for the well being of the negroes, and their location upon the plantations, as "inspector of settlements and plantations," is hereby announced as such, and will be respected accordingly.

District commanders are hereby directed to afford the necessary military protection, in accordance with the above-named special field orders, copies of which are furnished.

The limits of the districts, within which this protection is to be afforded, are defined as follows:

The commandant of the Northern District, to settlements on the islands and coast, as far south as the North Edisto River.

The commandant of the District of Beaufort, from the North Edisto River to Broad River.

The commandant of the District of Hilton Head, to the islands lying between Broad and the Savannah Rivers.

The commandant of the District of Savannah, to the islands between the Savannah River and Saint Mary's Sound.

The commandant of the District of Florida, to the settlements from Saint Mary's Sound, southward to Jupiter Inlet, including those upon the Saint John's River.

The points at which the negro settlers will have the opportunity of supplying their necessary wants and selling the products of their lands and labor, as prescribed in the above-mentioned special field orders, will be Hilton Head, S. C., Fernandina, Fla., and such other points as may hereafter be designated.

Brig. Gen. E. E. Potter will relieve Brigadier-General Saxton of the military command of the District of Beaufort, which is hereby enlarged to include the intrenched camp near Pocotaligo, S. C.

By command of Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster:

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 21, 1865.

COMDG. OFFICER DETACH. 32D U. S. COLORED TROOPS,
Hilton Head, S. C.:

SIR: The major-general commanding directs that you rejoin your regiment immediately with your command and with the camp equipage of the regiment. General Saxton will send a steamer to Seabrook for your command. You will hold your men in readiness to embark with rations, &c., and see that you are immediately informed of the arrival of the steamer.

I have the honor to be, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
THORNDIKE D. HODGES,
Capt., Thirty-fifth U. S. Colored Troops, and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 21, 1865.

Brig. Gen. A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Comdg. Northern Dist., Dept. of the South, Morris Island, S. C. :

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your reports of the 12th and 13th instant, giving information in regard to the enemy's force, operations, and garrisons, and of the operations in your own district. I am directed by the major-general commanding to state that all such information is very valuable to him, and he requests that you will keep him fully posted from time to time on all such information. Active operations will soon take place in your district.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
January 21, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. R. SAXTON,
Commanding District of Beaufort :

GENERAL: The general commanding has granted your request. The detachment of the Thirty-second U. S. Colored Troops, with camp equipage, has been ordered to hold itself in readiness to embark on the steamer at Seabrook and rejoin its regiment.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
THORNDIKE D. HODGES,
Capt., Thirty-fifth U. S. Colored Troops, and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 21, 1865.

Brigadier-General HATCH,
Commanding Coast Division, Deceaux's Neck :

GENERAL: I have the orders of General Sherman to establish an intrenched camp at or near Pocotaligo, to cover the roads to Port Royal Ferry and also to the head of Broad River. This camp is to be a position where there can be room for 5,000 men to maneuver and fight, but capable of being held by from 500 to 1,000 men in a citadel or small field work. It is also to be such a position as to enable troops to debouch from it in various directions for operations in the country when desirable. It strikes me that the fort at Pocotaligo is just the position desired, and that its present condition gives us the advantage of having a work constructed to our hands. I have sent Captain

Suter to consult with you about this, and to carefully reconnoiter all other positions. As soon as you have decided upon the point, let me have your recommendation at once, so as to be able to decide. I have assigned Brigadier-General Potter to the military command of the District of Beaufort. He will, however, be subject to your orders as long as you are in his vicinity. It is intended to move your division to the Northern District after General Sherman moves, and to operate as hereafter directed. General Schimmelfennig and his force will, while you are there, be under your orders. A portion of Admiral Porter's fleet has already arrived at Charleston bar. Please push the work on the landings at Whale Branch and Mackay's Point; also the arrangements for the intrenched position as soon as selected.

Respectfully, yours,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
CHIEF ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
Savannah, Ga., January 21, 1865.

Major-General GROVER,
Commanding U. S. Forces, Savannah :

In accordance with your request I have the honor of submitting the following memoranda with reference to the defense of the city of Savannah:

First. The defense of the city itself: This is accomplished by the line of works now in process of construction after the plan indicated in my letter to Major-General Sherman, dated December 26, 1864.* These works are now ready to receive sixty guns, partly siege and partly field artillery, and, in my opinion, are in a condition which would warrant their defense by the garrison estimated for. Captain Suter, U. S. Engineers, and chief engineer, Department of the South, has been furnished with a trace of this line on which the several positions of the guns, composing the complete armament, are indicated. Captain Suter has also been furnished with those maps, captured at this city, which relate to the defense. Opposite the city on the main Carolina shore two small works should be built to command the Union Causeway and the Huger Causeway.

The above contemplates an attack by a much larger force than the garrison, and, in my opinion, will never be made.

Second. The defense of the approaches: Three main roads lead into the city from inland, viz, the Ogeechee plank road (Darien), the Louisville stage road, the Augusta stage road. The last two join within one mile and a half of the city. The points where the enemy's late lines crossed these roads furnish the best defense. When taken in conjunction with the obstacles formed by opening the sluice gates at high tide the positions are strong. If the bridge across the Ogeechee at King's is destroyed it effectually cuts off direct approach by that road, and it can only be reached by crossing the river above and getting to it by some of the numerous cross-roads. An enemy would not be likely to do this unless he were in largely superior force, since he would necessarily put himself in a "pocket."

Third. The defense of the river navigation: This is best accomplished by a force stationed at this city large enough to go out and fight any enemy that would be likely to approach. In order that our opponents might reach any of the points where they could injure us much, they would be compelled to thrust themselves some miles beyond us, leaving whatever garrison there might be in Savannah on their flank and in rear. They could not interrupt navigation without establishing themselves in inclosed works upon the bank of Saint Augustine Creek (we hold Fort Jackson), and very short time would suffice for the capture of any enemy having temerity enough to do this. With all our great resources of water transportation I regard it impossible for our enemy to make a successful lodgment on Saint Augustine Creek.

---

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 811.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. M. POE,

*Captain of Engineers, Brevet Colonel, U. S. Army,
Chief Engineer Military Division of the Mississippi.*

A map is in course of preparation and under my direction, which will clearly show the topography of Savannah and vicinity, the works of attack and defense, the new lines constructed during our occupation of the city, and the lines of 1814. As soon as completed it will be forwarded to the Engineer Department.*

---

HQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Savannah, Ga., January 21, 1865.

General INNIS N. PALMER,

Commanding District of North Carolina, New Berne:

DEAR GENERAL: I have this moment received your letter of the 17th, inclosing the very full and complete returns which give me all the data, save only the gauge of your railroad, of which we are in doubt. One of my charts represent the gauge as four feet ten inches and the other at five feet. I shall send up my principal railroad man, Col. W. W. Wright, to look at it and accumulate at Morehead City and New Berne iron and cars ready for use when the time comes. We can supply all these, if of the five-foot gauge, out of captured stock. I don't want you to risk New Berne or Morehead City, and to take Kinston now would attract attention and lengthen your line too much to be held with any degree of security. Therefore don't attempt to hold more than you now have until you know I am near at hand, and you can discover the effect of my approach.

I shall aim to reach Goldsborough, the effect of which will be three-fold: First. With my army at Goldsborough the enemy could not remain at Wilmington. Second. I would have two railroads to the coast for supplies, viz, to Morehead City and Wilmington. Third. Goldsborough is the point from which to strike Raleigh.

If my army can fight its way across South Carolina and reach Goldsborough these results will be certain.

I have already secured Pocotaligo and am moving my army into position on a line from Sister's Ferry, on the Savannah, across to Pocotaligo, whence I will move around Charleston and across the country to Fayetteville and Goldsborough or Wilmington according to the supplies I find. General Foster will hold Savannah, &c., and will have a small force in hand to take advantage of any let-go the enemy may venture to make. I would have been off before this, but I am delayed by the rains, which have flooded the whole country. Don't attract attention, but hold New Berne and Morehead City (Fort Macon) secure as points for me to depend on. Don't risk anything; let me run the risk, but stand prepared to aid me as I approach. I leave my chief quartermaster and commissary here to follow me up with boats and supplies.

---

* See Plate LXX, Map 2 of the Atlas.

I do not think Grant will spare you any more men, nor do I suppose them necessary for the simply defensive position you should maintain. As I approach you I may aim for the railroad, near where it crosses the Neuse near Kinston, as I suppose there the enemy will oppose me, and it may be prudent to open communication with you before I cross and attack the position at Kinston or Goldsborough, but Goldsborough is the strategic point I shall aim to secure in North Carolina.

I am, with respect, your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 21, 1865.

Brig. Gen. I. N. PALMER, or
COMMANDING OFFICER DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA:

The District of North Carolina having been added to my command by the Secretary of War, at the request of General Sherman, in order to concentrate more effectually the resources of the seaboard in co-operating with the movements of his army inland, I have the honor to inclose you confidential instructions for your guidance. It is possible that I may not be present at the time your services are needed, in which case you will be prepared to act with promptitude in obedience to any orders which you may receive from General Sherman. General Sherman, as you will see by the inclosed orders,* has command over this department as well as those within his Military Division of the West.

Your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

[Inclosure.]

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 21, 1865.

Brigadier-General PALMER, or
COMMANDING OFFICER DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA:

The present plans of General Sherman contemplate a devastating march through South Carolina and into North Carolina. Upon arriving in North Carolina he will draw his supplies from New Berne by striking the railroad at Goldsborough. He may also before reaching Goldsborough obtain supplies by striking the coast at Wilmington. There is more certainty, however, of his striking the railroad at Goldsborough. You will, therefore, make every preparation, not only to aid promptly and efficiently the forwarding of supplies when General Sherman reaches that point, but also to have your position perfectly secure against any attempts that may possibly be made against you, by detachments from Lee's army, for the purpose of preventing the attainment of the very purpose sought to be secured by these orders. In the first place be sure and watch the enemy, and prevent any attempt to destroy the railroad within the limits of your extreme outer pickets, and as much beyond as you possibly can defend. Secondly. Prepare for landing and forwarding, either from New Berne or Beaufort, principally from Beaufort, supplies for 70,000 men and 40,000 animals. (These supplies are to come from here in transports). The wharves at Beaufort must be put in order, and all the facilities for landing supplies made perfect. Accurate information must also be obtained of the extent of railroad between Batchelder's Creek and Kinston, which it will be necessary to rebuild. Also the condition of the bridge over the Trent at Kinston. Lieutenant-Colonel Wright, of General Sherman's army, will be sent up to ascertain all the wants of the railroad, rolling-stock, construction, &c. General McCallum, the railroad constructor, is here and at the proper time will be there ready for immediate work.

* See Special Field Orders, No. 13, January 15, p. 52.

What I want to know from you is, exactly what is wanted, so that it may be provided and brought there at the moment for operations. The object is not to divulge the important fact that a new base is to be made at that point until the last moment. I want also to know how much of the railroad from Beaufort to Goldsborough you can protect after General Sherman has reached Goldsborough, and the exact force you can concentrate for this or any other purpose. Of course no movement of any description will be made until you receive orders from General Sherman or myself. General Sherman will probably be at Goldsborough, or in communication with you, by the 22d of February. The greatest secrecy must be observed by yourself to prevent the enemy ascertaining the fact that General Sherman will draw his supplies over the railroad to Goldsborough. If they penetrate the secret they will, of course, destroy the railroad. You will divulge the information contained in this confidential letter to no one, but make all the preparations ordered.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 21, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. H. TERRY, or COMMANDING OFFICER U. S. FORCES,
Wilmington, N. C.:

The District of North Carolina having been added to my department by the honorable Secretary of War, at the request of Major-General Sherman, in order to facilitate concentration of resources to supply his army while marching inland, I inclose to you the following confidential instructions, which you will carry out if you are to remain there, and if you are removed you will turn over to your successor, with the proper cautions as to secrecy. I may not be present at the time for action, in which case you will depend upon instructions from Brigadier-General Hatch or General Sherman direct. General Sherman, as you will see from general orders inclosed,* has entire command of this as well as the departments forming the Military Division of the Mississippi.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

* See Special Field Orders, No. 13, January 15, p. 52.

[Inclosure.]

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 21, 1865.

Confidential instructions to Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry, or the Commanding Officer U. S. Forces, Wilmington, N. C.

General Sherman's plans contemplate a devastating march through South Carolina and into North Carolina. He will draw his supplies from the coast, receiving them by different rivers in South Carolina, and when he arrives in North Carolina, from Wilmington and from New Berne. His army has now commenced moving. Full and definite instructions have been given to General Palmer, at New Berne. Less definite instructions are given to you, because it is not certain that Wilmington may be taken at the time General Sherman arrives in North Carolina, and also that you be prepared to take efficient independent action. What I wish attained by this information is a vigilant watch for General Sherman's appearance in your vicinity about the 15th of February, and as great a preparation on your part for the purpose of aiding him. The supplies for his army will come from here in transports loaded for the purpose. There are many things, however, which you can do to facilitate the transmission of these supplies to his army when it arrives. These preparations should have in view the fact that his army numbers 70,000 men and 40,000 animals. If Wilmington be taken you will occupy as much of the railroad toward Manchester as possible, and guard as many of the bridges in that direction as you can. In fact, the same order holds good in regard to the Goldsborough railroad and the railroad through Lumberton and Rockingham toward Charlotte. If Wilmington be not taken of course you can do nothing of this kind, but must be on the watch and ready to act when required. The utmost secrecy must be observed in regard to this. The enemy may suspect the locality of General Sherman's route, but nothing should transpire to lead them to any conclusion as to his real objects or the points at which he is to get supplies.

Relying upon your discretion in this matter, I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HILTON HEAD, January 22, 1865.

General HOWARD:

I am at Hilton Head. Will be up to-morrow. My staff and horses on the steamer Coit will be up in an hour. Let some officer look out for their comfort, as I want the boat to return to Savannah early to-morrow to bring another load. I have ordered the balance of John E. Smith's division and Logan's headquarters to come to you by water. Corse will come by Sister's Ferry. I will be up to-morrow.

SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HILTON HEAD, January 22, 1865.

General HOWARD:

I ordered all mules whose wagons had come to Beaufort to be sent; also the remaining wagons and mules of John E. Smith's. I had a long talk with Logan and arranged for three complete divisions of his corps to come to Pocotaligo, leaving only Corse to come by Sister's Ferry. The present storms will delay us much. I wanted the boat Coit to discharge, so as not to lose to-morrow's tide, but as the rain will delay us there is no need of such hurry.

SHERMAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 16. } Savannah, Ga., January 22, 1865.

Col. J. B. McCown, commanding First Brigade, Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, will move with his command and the transportation of his division to Beaufort, S. C., by water, without delay, reporting to Bvt. Maj. Gen. John E. Smith, commanding Third Division.

Colonel McCown will report in person to Lieut. Col. G. L. Fort, chief quartermaster Fifteenth Army Corps, who will furnish the necessary transportation.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. M. Corse:

A. W. EDWARDS,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 22, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. R. SAXTON, U. S. Volunteers,
Beaufort, S. C.:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to inclose you Major-General Sherman's Special Field Orders, No. 15,* appointing you inspector of negro settlements and plantations in this department; also General Orders, No. 8,† current series, from these headquarters, placing Brig. Gen. E. E. Potter in command of the District of Beaufort. Major-General Sherman has placed at the disposal of General Foster a large number of animals, partially broken down, that will be loaned to the negroes to be used by them on the plantations until they are sufficiently recuperated for active service, when they will be called for. Please send word to these headquarters about how many of these animals you desire, and they will be sent at once.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CITY POINT, January 23, 1865—2 p. m.
(Received 3.30 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,
Washington:

Please have all transports collected for the transportation of Schofield's command coaled and watered and rations loaded. The troops should start with five days' issued, and from 200,000 to 250,000 rations stored in the holds of the vessels. This will give a supply that will last until more could be got to them. As soon as transports for a division are ready they might be sent to Fortress Monroe to report by telegraph for orders.

* See p. 52.

† See p. 108.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 23, 1865—3.50 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,
City Point:

Some time since orders were sent to General Thomas to forward to Savannah, via New York, all fractions of regiments, &c., belonging to the corps under General Sherman. General Meagher telegraphs to-day from Pittsburg that he has 7,000 men and wants transports ready in New York, but General Van Vliet says that he cannot furnish them if he sends transports here to meet Schofield's corps. To which shall the transports be given first? If Meagher's command stops in New York it is feared that very many will desert, and there are no quarters for them on Governor's Island. Please reply immediately.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

CITY POINT, January 23, 1865—7 p. m.
(Received 7.30 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,
Washington:

Order Meagher to Alexandria. We will send Schofield's corps first, and add this detachment to it until such time as it can be got to Sherman. It is too late now for it to reach Sherman from Pocotaligo.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Beaufort, S. C., January 23, 1865.

Colonel POE,
Chief Engineer, Savannah:

General Sherman directs that you join him via this place and order the First Michigan Engineer Regiment to follow you in like manner. Apply to General Easton for such transportation as may be required.

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Beaufort, S. C., January 23, 1865.

Bvt. Col. O. M. POE,
Chief Engineer, Military Division of the Mississippi:

COLONEL: By direction of Major-General Sherman I have telegraphed you to join him via this place, and now repeat the instructions, as also the further instructions for you to direct the engineer regiment (First Michigan Engineers) to come this way also. Apply to General Easton, chief quartermaster, for such transportation as you may require in conforming to this order.

I am, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Beaufort, S. C., January 23, 1865.

General EASTON,
Savannah:

Transport to Beaufort, by boats, all of Howard's troops, wagons, and mules, except Corse's division, which can move with the Left Wing. I have sent you every boat available from this quarter and would like you to push this job at one trip.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 21.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 23, 1865.

I. The First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, having the most transportation, the quartermaster thereof, in accordance with the directions of the chief quartermaster of the army, will turn over to Lieutenant Brown, acting assistant quartermaster, pontoon train, five six-mule teams with harness and wagons complete for the use of that organization. As good teams are required the present ones in the division will not be selected for this purpose.

II. As directed by Major-General Sherman, upon the advance of this army all unnecessary servants and non-combatants will be left behind. All chests for office papers and baggage not strictly necessary in the field, and all tents save one for headquarters of each brigade, division, corps, or army, and such as may be necessary for hospital purposes, will be sent to Beaufort or Hilton Head and left in charge of proper persons until such time as they can follow by water. Flies only will be used for shelter. The inspector-general's department is charged with the requirements of this order.

* * * * *

VII. Brig. Gen. W. T. Clark, U. S. Volunteers, will report to Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps, for assignment to the command of the First Brigade, Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 23, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to send you the inclosed copy of telegram from General Sherman to General Easton,* and to say that you will give orders to General Corse to move his division (entire) with the Left Wing of the army, sending the remainder of your command to this point as rapidly as possible.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
 SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 23, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: General Sherman says he cannot possibly spare the steamers from carrying supplies to Purysburg and Pocotaligo, in order to transport General Corse's division. Please direct General Corse to move back over the route he came, between the Big and Little Ogeechee Rivers, keeping up as high as, or higher, than the Twenty-Mile Station. Perhaps it would be better to take General Blair's old route from Station No. 2 back to Guyton, or No. 3, and thence via Springfield to Sister's Ferry. He should proceed thence by some route parallel to Davis' line of march to Hickory Hill. At that point you will be able to unite your corps. This march General Corse can make easily in seven days, but he will have to be exceedingly careful of forage until he crosses the Savannah. If General Corse should happen to fall one or even two days in rear of your other divisions at Hickory Hill it will not matter.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

P. S.—I do not make the order imperative as to the route, but rather suggestive.

O. O. H.,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 23, 1865.

Capt. SAMUEL L. TAGGART,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee :

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report my arrival at this point at 12 m. to-day. I left Savannah at 6 a. m. on the 19th instant, in compliance with orders from headquarters Fifteenth Army Corps (the Fourth Division and animals of Second Division were to follow). The road across Hutchinson's Island and the levees between the island and the Union Causeway, although badly cut up, were passable up to 12 m. of the 19th, when the rain and sudden rise of water made them impassable. I had gone forward to New River bridge, fourteen miles from Savannah, to see if it was in readiness to cross, but, finding it would not be completed until about 4 p. m., I made my arrangements to camp at the junction of the Hardeeville and Charleston roads. At about 2 p. m. the head of my column arrived, and the ammunition and part of the supply trains following closely. I expected the remainder of my division would arrive without serious difficulty. About this time I received a communication from Major-General Logan directing me to assume command of the Third and Fourth Divisions, when the orderly informed me that the balance of the troops were on the island and could not come forward, owing to the condition of the roads.

* See p. 117.

I sent a staff officer to communicate with General Corse, and on the morning of the 20th sent the pioneer corps of the Third and Fourth Divisions, but they found it impossible to join the troops on the island, the road between the rice fields and them being covered with water to the depth of four feet. I rode back, intending to reach Savannah by Screven's Ferry, but found it impossible to get nearer than two miles. I had, however, upon learning the situation of the troops on the island, ordered Colonel McCown, commanding First Brigade, that if he could not get the wagons out to abandon them and return with the men and animals as speedily as possible.

Upon my return from my attempt to communicate by way of Screven's Ferry I met Captain Wellman, whom I had sent to General Corse. He informed me that the troops had been ordered to return to Savannah by Major-General Logan, and that he thought but few wagons would have to be abandoned. He also brought directions from Major-General Logan to push through to this place the best I could. I accordingly broke camp at 7 a. m. on the 21st instant, marching through water not deep enough for navigation, but too deep to say we came by land.

It has rained incessantly from 12 m. of the 19th to 10 a. m. this date.

The officers and men were very patient; to be cheerful was beyond human nature. I have with me the Second Brigade, composed of three regiments: Battery B, First Michigan Artillery, and all of supply trains except twenty-seven wagons.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,

Brevet Major-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 23, 1865—9.10 p. m.

General MEAGHER,

Pittsburg, Pa.:

Bring all your command to Washington, instead of New York, and report to General Augur for transports and orders.

H. W. HALLECK,

Major-General and Chief of Staff.

(Copies to General Augur and General Charles Thomas.)

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Beaufort, S. C., January 23, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. W. B. HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say that he wishes you to detail about 400 men to work on the road between this point and the bridge at Port Royal Ferry. He also wishes you to send in a quartermaster to receipt for and take out some 200 axes, to be used by a portion of your detail in cutting material for corduroying the road, the axes to be returned to the depot quartermaster when the work shall have been done. The road is in very bad condition, and the general is anxious to have it put in as good repair as possible. Should you not have sufficient teams with your command to enable you to push the work rapidly, you can borrow from General Woods' division. Please place the detail in charge of a driving officer.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 23, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say that in accordance with General Sherman's desire to threaten Charleston, he wishes your demonstration of the 20th instant to the Salkehatchie repeated and, if possible, a lodgment effected on the other side. He suggests that you make a trestle or floating bridge out of such material as may be most convenient for crossing infantry only. The general also directs me to say you had better not attempt to send in any more wagons than you can possibly help for the present, as the road is bad enough now and trains passing over it would cut it up so much as to render it impassable for some time to come. General Hazen and General Woods are at work corduroying and repairing it from here to Garden's Corners. You must make it good the rest of the way.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 7. }

HDQRS. 2D DIV., 14TH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Ga., January 23, 1865.

The following-named officers are announced to serve on the staff of the general commanding: Capt. Robert B. Stinson, Sixtieth Illinois Veteran Volunteer Infantry, acting assistant inspector-general; Capt. Hiram Craft, Ninety-eighth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, provost-marshal. They will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By command of Brig. Gen. James D. Morgan:

T. WISEMAN,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., THIRD DIV., 20TH ARMY CORPS,
Purysburg, S. C., January 23, 1865.

Captain SPEED,

Assistant Adjutant-General :

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following suggestions for the information of the general commanding, received from Captain Webber from General Sherman's headquarters: About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the gun-boat Pontiac and transport General Lee moved up the river from this point nearly to Ebenezer Church, on the Georgia side of the river, where the gun-boat halted, and the General Lee went on two or three miles farther and, in the opinion of Captain Webber, ten miles this side of Sister's Ferry. At Ebenezer Church he saw a number of rebel cavalry and indications which led him to believe there was quite a force in that vicinity. Captain Webber thinks it is forty miles from this point to Sister's Ferry by the river.

I am, captain, your obedient servant,

DANL. DUSTIN,
Colonel, Commanding Second Brigade.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. COAST DIV., DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
No. 3. } Dereaux's Neck, S. C., January 23, 1865.

I. Brig. Gen. E. E. Potter, having been assigned to the command of the District of Beaufort, is hereby relieved from duty with this division.

II. Col. Charles H. Van Wyck, Fifty-sixth New York Volunteers, will relieve Brigadier-General Potter of the command of the First Brigade of this division.

III. The two companies of the Fifty-fourth New York Volunteers now on duty with this division are hereby relieved, and will proceed to, as soon as transportation can be furnished, the Northern District, Department of the South.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen.

---

CITY POINT, January 24, 1865—9.30 a. m.
(Received 11 a. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Washington, D. C.:

I shall probably leave here by 12 noon to-morrow for Fort Fisher. All the troops of Schofield's command may be forwarded directly to that point. Meagher's command will go in the same way in the absence of further directions. If Schofield reaches Washington in time I would like to have him accompany me.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 24, 1865—12 m.
Lieutenant-General GRANT,
City Point:

If General Schofield does not arrive in time to join you I will send him forward on the first transport.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

CITY POINT, VA., January 24, 1865.

Brigadier-General INGALLS,
Chief Quartermaster :

As rapidly as it can be sent in addition to previous calls, I want fifteen miles of railroad iron sent from Norfolk or elsewhere to Beaufort, N. C. Men will also be required to lay the track from New Berne to Kingston. The steamer Escort, or one of like draught and capacity, will be wanted at Beaufort for permanent use.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Beaufort, S. C., January 24, 1865.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,
City Point, Va. :

GENERAL: I was directed this morning by General Sherman to write you by steamer Arago, as follows: He reached here yesterday from Savannah and this morning went up to Pocotaligo to look to matters in person, and proposes to-morrow to secure Salkehatchie bridge as a demonstration, and also to then reconnoiter until Slocum gets out to high ground from Sister's Ferry. The storm has been severe and continuous for several days, delaying movements by bad roads, but now it is clear; the roads are improving rapidly and it bids fair for good weather. I may hear from the general during the night and will then dispatch you further.

I am, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Beaufort, S. C., January 24, 1865.

Admiral DAHLGREN:

DEAR ADMIRAL: Weather is now fine and promises us dry land. I will go to-day to Pocotaligo and Coosawhatchie. To-morrow will demonstrate on Salkehatchie, and would be obliged if you would feel up Edisto or Stono, just to make the enemy uneasy on that flank, and to develop if he intends to hold fast to Charleston and Columbia both. It will take five days for Slocum to get out of the savannas of Savannah, and during that time I will keep Howard seemingly moving direct on Charleston, though with no purpose of going beyond the Salkehatchie.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

HILTON HEAD, January 24, 1865—4 p. m.

Major-General SHERMAN:

This northwest wind will dry up the roads and drain the swamps. The Sonoma is in the North Edisto; the Dai Ching in the Combahee, with orders to annoy the rebels as much as possible; to land and drive in their pickets. The Pawnee is just leaving for the South Edisto. I hear that a battery and obstructions have been felt on the Ashepoo, and much alarm at our reconnaissance. The Pawnee will go there and try to knock it down. It is said to be twenty miles up the Ashepoo. If General Howard's men feel that way it might prove of interest.

J. A. DAHLGREN,

Rear-Admiral, U. S. Navy.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Beaufort, S. C., January 24, 1865.

General EASTON, Savannah:

You may employ any vessels suitable for deep water, carrying soldiers, wagons, or ammunition of the Right Wing as long as General Logan wants you, but do not relax your efforts to get food and forage up to Sister's Ferry by the time Davis gets there. Weather is now fine, and if it lasts will make our roads fine in a very short while. On this clear spell we must reach Barnwell and the Augusta road. Keep things moving night and day. I go to Pocotaligo to-day.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,

Major-General.

SAVANNAH, GA., January 24, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN:

Your telegram received. The Fifteenth Corps still have here, to go by water, about 3,400 men, 2,400 animals, 280 wagons, and 16 ambulances. I will get them off as soon as possible.

L. C. EASTON,

Chief Quartermaster.

SAVANNAH, GA., January 24, 1865.

Major DAYTON,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

In the absence of any orders or instructions I directed the Michigan Engineers to accompany the Fourteenth Corps, which column seemed to need their services. They marched yesterday about 1 o'clock. Shall I recall them?

O. M. POE,

Capt., and Chief Engineer Military Division of the Mississippi.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Beaufort, S. C., January 24, 1865—10 a. m.

Col. O. M. POE,

Chief Engineer, Savannah, Ga.:

Your dispatch is received. The general has gone to Pocotaligo an hour since, but I will overtake him with courier for answer.

L. M. DAYTON,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Beaufort, S. C., January 24, 1865.

Col. O. M. POE,
Chief Engineer, Savannah:

Let the Michigan Engineers go as you have ordered them. They will not be needed here.

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, )	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
No. 4. )	ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
	Beaufort, S. C., January 24, 1865.

The following awards of medals of honor have been made to the enlisted men herein mentioned for distinguished service in the field and other soldier-like qualities:

To August Stehr, sergeant, Company F, Fifty-eighth Regiment, Illinois Infantry Volunteers, medal of silver inscribed: "Faithful and efficient service in the Adjutant-General's Office, Department and Army of the Tennessee." To Oliver E. Slusser, private, Company E, Forty-eighth Indiana Infantry Volunteers, medal of silver inscribed: "Siege of Corinth, battles of Corinth, Iuka, Raymond, Jackson, Champion's Hill, Vicksburg (July 4, 1863). Faithful and efficient service in the Adjutant-General's Office, Department and Army of the Tennessee." To William H. Pritchard, private, Tenth Ohio Battery, medal of silver inscribed: "Kenesaw Mountain, Atlanta. Faithful and efficient service in the Adjutant-General's Office, Department and Army of the Tennessee." To Albert B. Wilcox, private, Battery A, First Illinois Light Artillery, medal of silver inscribed: "Chickasaw Bayou, Arkansas Post, Champion's Hill, Vicksburg (July 4, 1863), Mission Ridge, Resaca, Dallas. Faithful and efficient service in the Adjutant-General's Office, Department and Army of the Tennessee." To Isaac A. Bemis, private, Company E, Sixteenth Wisconsin Infantry Volunteers, medal of silver inscribed: "Atlanta, Savannah. Faithful and efficient service in Adjutant-General's Office, Department and Army of the Tennessee." To James R. Reniff, private, Company H, Seventy-second Regiment Illinois Infantry Volunteers, medal of silver inscribed: "Vicksburg (July 4, 1863). Atlanta, Savannah. Faithful and efficient service in Adjutant-Generals Office, Department and Army of the Tennessee."

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 24, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division, Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The work of destroying the railroad is completed. No more details will report to Colonel Swayne.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Beaufort, S. C., January 24, 1865.

General SLOCUM,
Left Wing:

DEAR GENERAL: Weather is now magnificent, and we must take all advantage possible of it. The roads here cut deep also, and your best plan is to move rapidly to Robertsville via Sister's Ferry, and don't lose an hour of time. See Easton, that he gets boats to that point also, and we must get up on the Charleston and Augusta road in this spell of good weather. I go to Pocotaligo to-day, and will secure the Salkehatchie bridge, and make Hardee believe I am coming straight for Charleston. I shall expect to hear of you about Sister's Ferry in four days—say 29th.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 1. } Savannah, Ga., January 24, 1865.

The following officers are hereby announced upon the staff of the major-general commanding: Lieut. Col. H. G. Litchfield, assistant inspector-general; Capt. G. W. Smith, Eighteenth U. S. Infantry, aide-de-camp.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Beaufort, S. C., January 24, 1865.

Major-General FOSTER,
Hilton Head:

General Sherman desires that you complete the telegraph line from this place to Pocotaligo.

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HILTON HEAD, January 24, 1865—11.40 a. m.

Major-General SHERMAN:

The steamer brings dates of the 20th from New York with recruits which I send up on the Louise. I will at once get the men at work on the telegraph line to Pocotaligo.

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
 No. 11. } Hilton Head, S. C., January 24, 1865.

During the temporary absence of Lieut. Col. James F. Hall, First New York Volunteer Engineers, provost-marshal-general of this department, Lieut. Col. Stewart L. Woodford, One hundred and twenty-seventh New York Volunteers, will perform the duties of that office, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By command of Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster:

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 24, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,
Commanding, &c., Savannah, Ga.:

GENERAL: In regard to the stores to be assigned to traders, as well as other buildings and other property to be rented, I wish to state to you that in order to carry out the idea of General Sherman, of everything being captures of war and belonging as such to the United States, you will collect rents from all traders and others allowed to occupy vacant stores or buildings until such times as the presumed owners thereof satisfy you of their loyalty, and also of their title to the property. No oaths of allegiance must be required or even received until you are satisfied of the entire faithfulness of the person wishing to take the oath. After you are satisfied, and have allowed the person to take the oath of allegiance, you must also allow him to receive the rents of his property. Whatever quartermaster you direct to receive rents or other moneys must be required to keep a separate account of the same as a civil fund and have said account audited monthly by you. The proper expenses to be charged to this fund are repairs of wharves, roads, streets, cleaning streets, steam fire engine, extra clerks, &c. It must not become known that the taking the oath will weigh in favor of the claimants to property, although it will in reality as soon as you are satisfied of the purity of intention of the persons desiring to take it.

Respectfully, yours,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

NEW YORK, January 24, 1865.
(Received 2.55 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, U. S. Army:

Arrived here last night from Pittsburg to make arrangements for proceeding with all practicable speed to Savannah. This moment received your dispatch. My division, close upon 6,500 strong, coming up by river to Pittsburg, cannot reach there before Thursday, owing to the ice and deficiency of water transportation at Nashville on arrival of the troops from Chattanooga last Sunday week. First Brigade at Louisville before I left for Pittsburg. Have telegraphed my quartermaster at Pittsburg to secure the necessary transportation to Washington via Harrisburg and Baltimore, instead of to New York, as previously ordered, subject to your instructions. I shall proceed without delay to Baltimore and await the division there.

THOMAS FRANCIS MEAGHER,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Division.

PITTSBURG, January 24, 1865—11.30 a. m.

(Received 2.20 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK, Chief of Staff:

Your telegram to General Meagher has been shown to me.* He left here yesterday. Orders have been given as directed by you. Troops have not arrived and I am unable to say where they are.

O. CROSS,
Colonel and Deputy Quartermaster-General.

CITY POINT, VA., *January 25, 1865—12 noon.*Brevet Major-General MEIGS, Quartermaster-General:

I have received orders to furnish transportation to North Carolina for some 1,500 troops, 300 artillery horses, a pontoon train of 30 boats, including 44 teams—making about 500 animals—and also 350 employés of the railroad, with iron, &c. You will observe that we shall require all the transportation of a suitable character that is here now or that will arrive to-day. I am expecting the Neptune and Warrior, both of which will be required. Should the construction corps at Alexandria call on you for transportation to New Berne for men and material I request you will furnish it.

R. INGALLS,
Brigadier-General and Chief Quartermaster.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Pocotaligo, S. C., January 25, 1865.

Col. J. T. CONKLIN,

Chief Quartermaster, Army of the Tennessee:

COLONEL: I have ordered General Logan to move Friday morning, with the wagons loaded, from Beaufort with the portion of his corps there, viz, Hazen's, Woods', and a brigade of John E. Smith's; also Engineer Regiment. Now, if they don't have enough supplies there they can send their supply wagons to Blair's landing and fill up. General Smith (John E.) will draw from Hatch's landing. Don't fear to send up too large a quantity, for Hatch will stay here and can live on what they leave. Thirty days' sugar, coffee, and salt, from fifteen to twenty days' hard bread, what meat we can get in, five days' forage. I mean either that or the nearest approximation. My headquarters will be at Blair's landing. We must leave here all right Monday next (this sub rosa).

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No 5. }

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 25, 1865.

The following are the instructions of the major-general commanding relative to his staff and headquarters, in view of the coming campaign, viz:

I. The headquarters for the field will be stripped of every article not strictly necessary in the field. Officers' baggage and office furniture will be reduced as much as possible, and so arranged as to occupy but little room. Flys will be used for shelter, one tent for office purposes only being allowed. All surplus baggage, boxes, and office furniture will remain with the established headquarters in charge of a proper officer, ready for shipment to a new base, when orders to such effect shall be given. Maj. E. Whittlesey, judge-advocate, is announced as commandant of headquarters in the field, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly. The following-named officers of the staff will accompany and be with the major-general commanding in the field: Col. James Wilson, provost-marshal-general; Col. J. T. Conklin, chief quartermaster; Lieut. Col. William E. Strong, assistant inspector-general; Lieut. Col. D. Remick, chief commissary; Maj. Max. Woodhull, assistant adjutant-general; Maj. T. W. Osborn, chief of artillery; Maj. E. Whittlesey, judge-advocate; Capt. C. B. Reese, chief engineer; Capt. D. H. Buel, chief ordnance officer; Capt. E. P. Pearson, jr., chief commissary of musters; Capt. F. W. Gilbreth, aide-de-camp; Capt. P. A. Taylor, chief signal officer; First Lieut. J. P. Sampson, Signal Corps, U. S. Army; First Lieut. William N. Taylor, First Illinois Light Artillery, acting aide-de-camp; First Lieut. Amos Stickney, Engineer Corps, U. S. Army; First Lieut. John A. Mills, acting assistant quartermaster; Lieut. Joseph A. Sladen, acting assistant adjutant-general; Asst. Surg. D. L. Huntington, U. S. Army, assistant medical director; Actg. Asst. Surg. E. A. Duncan, U. S. Army, staff and escort surgeon.

* See p. 119.

II. The following-named will remain at the established headquarters: Capt. Samuel L. Taggart, assistant adjutant-general, in charge of office and headquarters; Lieut. Col. W. H. Ross, First Michigan Artillery, in charge of artillery department; Capt. W. C. Ide, Thirteenth Infantry, assistant chief commissary of musters; Actg. Asst. Surg. I. L. Hoover, U. S. Army; First Lieut. L. T. Wilms, Thirty-seventh Ohio Infantry, acting assistant quartermaster.

III. Capt. Samuel L. Taggart, assistant adjutant-general, is authorized to perform all duties pertaining to his office, and to act and sign by order of the major-general commanding in his absence, the same as if he were present.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 23.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Beaufort, S. C., January 25, 1865.

* * * * *

III. The Twenty-ninth Missouri Mounted Infantry and detachment of the Seventh Illinois Mounted Infantry, now in camp near this point, will forthwith proceed to Pocotaligo and report to Major-General Blair, commanding Seventeenth Army Corps, for duty until the corps to which they belong joins the army in the field.

* * * * *

IX. Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps, will on Friday morning, the 27th instant, move such portion of his command as may then be at this point, with wagons loaded with as much forage and subsistence as can be obtained, to Garden's Corners, where he will report to the major-general commanding for further orders.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Pocotaligo Landing, S. C., January 25, 1865.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. W. B. WOODS,
Commanding Brigade, Garden's Corners:

GENERAL: Reconnaissances are being made toward Salkehatchie, and it is important that you should keep up the movement from Garden's Corners. Continue it until further orders. If you can procure boats you will make an effort to cross at or near Combahee Ferry, but the general does not wish it done at the loss of life. It is merely to attract the enemy's attention.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

JOS. A. SLADEN,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 25, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division, Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you cause two regiments from your command to report at the railroad depot at daylight to-morrow. Captain Henley, aide-de-camp, will take them to the point they are expected to occupy. General Mower will endeavor to cross the Salkehatchie above the bridge, and these regiments are intended to cover certain roads in his rear. Send with them one wagon of ammunition.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 25, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. SMITH,
Commanding Fourth Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you send one brigade from your command to Salkehatchie bridge, starting at 7 a. m. to-morrow, with instructions to make a demonstration against the enemy at that point and feign an attempt to force a crossing, so as to draw their attention from General Mower's attempt at crossing above. The general wishes the skirmish line pushed up as close to the river as possible, but care must be taken to prevent loss. He wishes the position taken intrenched and held until your brigade is relieved by forces from General Hatch's command. Should General Mower's movements cause the enemy to evacuate, your brigade will push across and occupy the works.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING,
Savannah, Ga., January 25, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

DEAR GENERAL: Your letter of yesterday has just come to hand. I ordered Davis yesterday to resume his march this morning at daylight, and directed Williams to push a division, if possible, from Purysburg toward the ferry. These orders are now being executed. Davis has gone with Morgan's division. I shall order Geary forward to-morrow, and shall advise Corse to move at the same time on one of the other roads. I shall send my headquarters teams with Geary's division and go up the river on one of the transports. This will give me an opportunity to stop at Purysburg and give whatever new orders may be necessary; also to see the gun-boat and send it above the ferry. I shall probably arrive at Sister's Ferry as soon as the head of Davis' column can reach there. I shall hear from Davis this evening as to the progress made to-day, and will write you again before leaving here.

Very respectfully, &c.,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 25, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. W. GEARY,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding the corps directs that you move with your command, to-morrow morning, for Sister's Ferry, following the Fourteenth Corps. You can march on either of the roads, selecting the best. The general directs that you take charge of all the trains of the corps now on this side of the river, and march them with your column. The Fourteenth Corps starts to-day, and will march on three roads. Upon arriving at Sister's Ferry you will cross your command and rejoin the corps.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 2.	HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION, TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS, Savannah, Ga., January 25, 1865.
--------------------------------------	--

This command will move to-morrow at 8 a. m. Further instructions will be issued this afternoon.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 25, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,
Commanding, &c., Savannah, Ga.:

GENERAL: The provisions, &c., sent on the Greyhound and Daniel Webster should be received and turned over to the mayor, Mr. Arnold, and facilities, &c., afforded in getting the vessels to the dock. There are some private goods on both these vessels which I am willing to have landed and sold at Savannah. The persons owning them have given the freight of the provisions for the poor of Savannah.

Respectfully, yours,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
Washington, January 25, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,
Willard's Hotel:

GENERAL: Your corps will embark at Alexandria as rapidly as transports can be prepared. The first division will proceed to the vicinity of Wilmington, N. C., landing at Federal Point or up Cape Fear River, as may be deemed best on their arrival. The second division will proceed to Beaufort, landing at that place, unless orders to the contrary are received there. The remainder will touch at Fort Monroe for orders, and are expected to land near Wilmington or Beaufort, as General Grant may direct. General Meagher's provisional division will be ordered to report to you till it can join General Sherman.

Very respectfully,

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 25, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. D. COX,
Warren, Ohio:

The commanding-general directs that you report in person without delay for duty with your command.

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD DEPOT,
Washington, D. C., January 25, 1865. (Received 10.16 a. m.)

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

First train of troops arrived about 3 this a. m. and was run direct to Alexandria. The cars have been returned, and are now on the way west. Two trains are east of Monocacy, one having passed that point at 7.35 and one at 8.08 this a. m.

GEO. S. KOONTZ.

---

BALTIMORE AND OHIO DEPOT,
Washington, D. C., January 25, 1865. (Received 10.35 p. m.)

Hon. E. M. STANTON:

Second train of troops arrived at 7.15, third train at 7.20, and fourth at 7.30. They have been started for Alexandria.

G. S. KOONTZ.

NEW YORK, January 25, 1865.

(Received 10.25 a. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK:

I arrived here last evening.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
*Major-General.*NEW YORK, January 26, 1865.

(Received 12 m.)

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

Just arrived after a rough passage on steamer Monterey. Could not land at Cape Fear. Left Savannah 19th, Port Royal 22d. Wet and stormy weather. General Sherman still at Savannah. Cotton being shipped at rate of 800 to 1,000 bales per day. Treasury and War Departments working smoothly and harmoniously.

M. C. MEIGS,
*Quartermaster-General.*HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
*In the Field, Pocotaligo, S. C., January 26, 1865.*Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD,
Commanding Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: General Mower is still maneuvering against the Salkehatchie bridge and it is important the movement from Garden's Corners should be kept up. Continue it until you receive further orders. If boats can be obtained, let an effort be made to cross, but I do not wish it done at the risk of loss of life—merely to attract the enemy's attention.

Your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
*Major-General, Commanding.*SPECIAL ORDERS, ( HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 17. ) Beaufort, S. C., January 26, 1865.

* * * * *

III. The Second and Third Brigades of this division will move from their present camp toward Garden's Corners at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning, the brigade and regimental teams following in rear of their respective brigades. The division train, under direction of the officers in the quartermaster's and ordnance departments, will follow the division to Garden's Corners, the wagons loaded with all the forage and supplies that can be taken.

IV. Brigade commanders will send into Beaufort forthwith all baggage, boxes, &c., to be left in accordance with orders from department headquarters to be stored with the post quartermaster, who is ready to give memorandum receipts for such property as may be left under his control.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. Woods:

FRED. H. WILSON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., THIRD DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
Near Beaufort, S. C., January 26, 1865.

Capt. S. M. BUDLONG,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps :

CAPTAIN: I am here with my command under orders from Major-General Logan to report to Brevet Major-General Smith, at Pocotaligo. Have wagons and baggage of brigade, also ambulances and wagons left behind of Third Division, but no teams. Transportation could not be furnished for them when I came. Lieutenant Gorgas is behind with detail to bring them forward as soon as possible. Lieutenant Gorgas will endeavor also to bring up the wagons of train that were abandoned in the march at Savannah.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. B. McCOWN,
Colonel, Commanding Brigade.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 26, 1865.

Col. F. J. HURLBUT,
Commanding Third Brigade :

COLONEL: The major-general commanding directs that you move out with your entire command on the road designated and in accordance with the instructions sent you yesterday. The general desires that you inspect and thoroughly repair the road as far as you move, so that the supply trains can move without impediment. You will move eight or not to exceed ten miles and await there the arrival of the division, when you will take the advance, with such instructions as will be given you hereafter. The general wishes you to move by 8 a. m. to-morrow, the 27th instant, irrespective of the Twentieth Corps. A staff officer from these headquarters will accompany you to designate the route.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
L. H. EVERTS,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 23. } Pocotaligo, S. C., January 26, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The extra baggage, tents, &c., of this command will be sent to the wharf on Pocotaligo River to-morrow, for shipment to Hilton Head, instead of being taken to Beaufort, as ordered in Special Orders, No. 23, of this date. Lieut. William E. Ware, acting assistant adjutant-general, Seventeenth Army Corps, will have charge of the storing and direction of the future movements of the baggage.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SAVANNAH, GA., January 26, 1865—8 p. m.

Major-General SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi :

DEAR GENERAL: Davis made a good march yesterday and found the roads in fair condition. I have heard nothing from Williams. I leave here on transport to-morrow morning and shall stop at Purysburg. I think we shall be at Sister's Ferry on the day mentioned in your letter—the 29th.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Springfield, Ga., January 26, 1865—11.15 a. m.

Lieut. Col. A. C. McCLURG,

Asst. Adjt. Gen. and Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: The head of my division passing through Springfield. I shall move about a mile to the first good camping ground. I hear nothing from General Baird. Iverson's cavalry are said to be seven miles from here. A few of the enemy's pickets have been struck. I await further orders. Road about Ebenezer Creek is bad; from there to this point, good.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Savannah, Ga., January 26, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY,

Commanding Second Division, Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you start your command to-morrow morning to Sister's Ferry. He directs that you take charge of and conduct to that place all trains of the Twentieth Corps now here. Captain Whittelsey, acting chief quartermaster, will be instructed to report to you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 3.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION,
TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 26, 1865.

This command will move at 8 a. m. to-morrow. Order of brigades: First, Second, Third. Knap's battery will follow the Second Brigade.

* * * * *

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

POCOTALIGO RIVER, January 26, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: I went over the defenses at Pocotaligo to-day, and waited as long as I could on account of the falling tide in hopes of seeing you. I wished to ask you if you would not consider the advisability of vacating the intrenched camp that you have ordered to be established after you have passed so far on your march as to have entirely cut loose from any connection by the way of Pocotaligo. The force to hold such a camp will require to be larger than I at first supposed—say 3,000 men—while if the object be to secure debouching avenues it will be defeated, probably, by the enemy by his blocking the roads at defiles or other good defensible points. I would respectfully suggest that the force be retained in such a position only until a positive result has been obtained from your march and you are entirely beyond Columbia. Then, if Charleston be taken, to allow the force to guard the railroad for our future use; but if that city does not fall, to have this force destroy this road as far as possible and then retire to Port Royal Island, to be used in attacks, as at Bull's Bay and Georgetown, or other places that have to be assailed as demonstrations. I beg that you will pardon me for my suggestions. I only desire to make myself as useful as possible, and therefore to have available as large a force as possible.

With great respect, very truly, yours,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General of Volunteers.

P. S.—We found only seven inches in Pocotaligo Creek at low tide.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Washington, D. C., January 26, 1865.

The corps will embark at Alexandria as soon as practicable and move as follows, viz, the Third Division, Major-General Cox commanding, will embark first and move at once to the vicinity of Wilmington, N. C., landing at Federal Point or higher up the river, as may be found expedient. The Second Division, Major-General Couch commanding, will move to Beaufort and land there unless contrary orders be received at that place. The First Division, Brigadier-General Ruger commanding, will touch at Fortress Monroe for orders from the major-general commanding or Lieutenant-General Grant. It is expected the division will go to Beaufort or Wilmington. Lieutenant-Colonel Boyd, chief quartermaster, will confer with Brigadier-General Rucker, assistant chief quartermaster, in reference to transportation, and inform the division commanders, who are charged with the execution of this order.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO DEPOT,
January 26, 1865. (Received 8.20 p. m.)

Hon. E. M. STANTON:

Fifth train of troops arrived at 5 o'clock, and the sixth train at 7 o'clock this p. m. Troops unloaded and put in barracks.

G. S. KOONTZ.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, S. C., January 27, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: We had heavy and continuous rains up to and including the 24th instant, causing all the rivers, the Savannah included, to overflow their banks, and making the roads simply impassable. I came up to this point on the 25th, and with the troops here, Seventeenth Corps, have been demonstrating against the Salkehatchie, but that stream is out of its banks and we cannot cross. I only aim to drive the enemy over toward Edisto, a little farther from our flank, when I move against the Charleston and Augusta road. I have in person reconnoitered the ground from Salkehatchie bridge back to Coosawhatchie, and find the country very low and intersected by creeks and points of salt marsh, making roads very bad, but I am pushing to get the Right Wing here, and have official notice from General Slocum that he had the Twentieth Corps, General Williams, on this side the Savannah at Purysburg, and on the 25th the Fourteenth Corps, General Davis, would resume his march from Cherokee Hill, ten miles out of Savannah, where he was caught by the rain-storm, so that I expect to hear of the Left Wing and cavalry reaching Sister's Ferry to-morrow. A gun-boat and fleet of transports will attend the Left Wing up the Savannah River, and General Slocum is ordered to replenish his wagons, rendezvous at Robertsville, and report his readiness to me.

I expect on Monday or Tuesday next, viz, February 1, to be all ready, when I will move rapidly up toward Barnwell and wheel to the right on the railroad at Midway, leaving Branchville to the right; after destroying that road I will move on Orangeburg, and so on to Columbia, avoiding any works the enemy may construct in my path, and forcing him to fight me in open ground, if he risk battle. I will use Hatch's division, of Foster's command (4,000), to cover my movement by posting it between this and Salkehatchie bridge. You will note that our position is now nearer Branchville than from Charleston. I get a few deserters and have made some prisoners, who report cavalry only between me and Barnwell and infantry between me and Charleston.

Of course, I shall keep up the delusion of an attack on Charleston always, and have instructed General Foster to watch the harbor close from Morris Island, and when he hears of my being on the railroad near Branchville to make a landing at Bull's Bay, and occupy the Georgetown road, twenty-four miles east of Charleston. Admiral Dahlgren will also keep up the demonstration on Charleston. My chief difficulty will be to supply my army, but on this point I must risk a good deal, based upon the idea that where other people live we can, even if they have to starve or move away.

Weather is now cold and clear. I will write again.

I am, with respect, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, S. C., January 27, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK.

Chief of Staff, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: In making up our list for brevets in Savannah I am satisfied we did an act of injustice to a most worthy brigade commander, Colonel Este, of an Ohio regiment, whose name and credentials you will find in the list accompanying the official reports. I would respectfully urge that he be brevetted brigadier-general on a perfect footing with those made by the Secretary of War at Savannah. I am afraid the lists are made so extensive that the Army will be over-burdened with brevets, and would infinitely prefer that vacancies be created by mustering out absentees and giving the real rank to the worthy men actually present on duty.

I am, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, January 27, 1865. (Received 29th.)

Admiral DAHLGREN, Commanding South Atlantic Squadron:

DEAR ADMIRAL: I have now reconnoitered all the country from the Salkehatchie bridge back to and including Coosawhatchie. The enemy had fortified every path leading from the various landings to the railroad, and could have bothered us a good deal had we not got Pocotaligo in the way we did by the several diversions and the quick, prompt attack. From here we will find no trouble in getting an offing.

I have official reports that Slocum got off for Sister's Ferry on the 25th, and he should be there to-morrow.

It will take him till Monday or Tuesday to cross over, load his wagons, and rendezvous at Robertsville, when we will be off. I hope this cold, clear weather will last for that time, as the roads here would cut to the hub after an hour's rain.

I have been feeling the Combahee Ferry and also at the bridge, but the river is over its banks and fills the swamps for a mile back, too deep at points to wade and too shallow at others to use boats. I can only see a few rebels on the other bank, but a prisoner captured says there is a brigade back a short distance and a considerable force about Green Pond, ten miles east of this. We find no enemy this side of the Salkehatchie, except cavalry, which is simply watching us, but I will clear it away in a hurry when we are ready to move. I will be sure to let you know the moment we are off, and will leave Hatch's division, of Foster's command, here to cover our movement.

I am, with great respect, yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Pocotaligo, S. C., January 27, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: General Logan moved one division (Hazen's) to the vicinity of Port Royal Ferry and another (General Woods') to Garden's Corners. Supplies had not arrived at Beaufort in sufficient quantity to fill the wagons when the divisions left. Hazen's transportation, however, is still at Beaufort, and I understand that supplies have arrived, so that he will be able to fill up. General Logan says that General Easton would not allow him boats, so that there are some 600 mules not yet over. General Slocum had not left Savannah yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Corse will follow Geary's division. I perceive by General Foster's note that we will have plenty of supplies now. General Logan was here in person this afternoon.

Very respectfully, yours,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. AND ARMY OF THE TENN.,
 No. 2. } Beaufort, S. C., January 27, 1865.

* * * * *

III. The First Regiment Engineers Missouri Volunteers, Lieut. Col. William Tweeddale commanding, having arrived at this point, will, as soon as its transportation can be made ready, proceed to Blair's landing on Pocotaligo River, and encamp as near thereto as practicable, reporting arrival to Capt. C. B. Reese, chief engineer.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 27. } Beaufort, S. C., January 27, 1865.

* * * * *

V. Headquarters Fifteenth Army Corps is hereby established at Beaufort, S. C. Capt. H. N. Wheeler, assistant adjutant-general, U. S. Volunteers, is assigned as in charge. All office desks and records not taken with the command in the field will be left in his charge. Captain Wheeler with headquarters will rejoin the corps at such points as may be hereafter designated.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. John A. Logan:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., THIRD DIV.,
 No. 1. } FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Beaufort, S. C., January 27, 1865.

In compliance with Special Orders, No. 26, of date January 26, 1865, from headquarters Fifteenth Army Corps, the undersigned hereby assumes command of the First Brigade, Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps. Your general congratulates himself on his assignment to troops whose discipline is so marked, whose valor has been so well tried, and who have won by heroic deeds so brilliant a name in the history of this war. Your career is well known to him. He was an eyewitness to your proud achievements at Jackson, Champion's Hill, and Vicksburg. At Mission Ridge, Allatoona, and Resaca you nobly sustained your title as heroes of the Army of the Tennessee. It was our division, which, under its gallant commander, by sleepless vigilance and determined bravery, preserved intact our long line of communication during the tedious, bloody, but at last triumphant campaign of Atlanta. Let us not abate our ardor. The end of the conflict is near. Let us be found at the final victory in the foremost ranks of the friends of truth, justice, and constitutional liberty, the champions and vindicators of an American nationality.

WM. T. CLARK,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 1.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Savannah, Ga., January 27, 1865.

The First and Second Brigades of this division will march at 7 a. m. to-morrow, the 28th instant, the men carrying three days' rations in haversacks, in the following order, taking the Louisville pike, viz:

I. First Brigade Infantry, Brigadier-General Rice commanding, with Battery H, First Missouri Light Artillery, in the center of his command and throwing one regiment in rear of the ordnance train.

II. Trains in following order: First, ambulance; second, ordnance; third, brigade trains; fourth, division supply trains.

III. Second Brigade Infantry, Colonel Adams commanding, which will form the rear of the column and keep well closed up. In setting forth on another long and arduous campaign the general commanding desires to impress upon all commanding officers the necessity of husbanding and using the utmost economy in regard to supplies, as the country through which we are to pass will afford but little if any of the necessities of an army, either provisions or animals, and he trusts that the experience of the veteran and tried troops of this command, who have become so familiar with the marches and fatigues of the field, will be sufficient to restrain them from a wanton waste of anything which may be necessary to secure their comfort and ultimate success.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Springfield, Ga., January 27, 1865.

Brig. Gen. J. D. MORGAN,

Commanding Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Colonel Moore, commanding the pontoniers, is now at work bridging Ebenezer Creek. He expects to have it finished so that your remaining wagons can cross soon after daylight. The general commanding directs that you delay your column until you can close up these wagons and then at once push forward to the ferry. He desires you to encamp upon the Augusta road, on the first favorable ground, at least one mile above Sister's Ferry, establishing your line facing northward, your right resting on or near the Savannah River.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
January 27, 1865—3 p. m.

Lient. Col. A. C. McCLURG,

Asst. Adjt. Gen. and Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: My division in camp five miles from Sister's Ferry. Road first rate from the creek to this point and two miles beyond, having been out that far, and said to be good to the river. One of our gunboats at the ferry.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,
Brigadier-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION,
                                       } TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
                                       } Monteith Station, Ga., January 27, 1865.

No. 4.

This command will march at 6 a. m. to-morrow. Order of brigades: Second, Third, First. Sloan's battery will follow the Second Brigade in line. * * *

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Purysburg, S. C., January 27, 1865.

Brig. Gen. W. T. WARD, Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding the corps directs that you move your command day after to-morrow morning as early as possible up the causeway as far as Bradham's house, halting there unless you receive further orders. He also directs that you leave all surplus stores, after loading all your wagons at this place, and also that you leave one regiment to guard the surplus commissary stores that will be left here in charge of Lieutenant Harbert, acting commissary. The general directs that you start from here with your wagons filled with stores and with three days' full rations in the men's haversacks.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 27, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi, Pocotaligo:

GENERAL: I have the honor to report that Admiral Dahlgren informs me that in obedience to your request, by telegram, he has sent the following vessels to make the demonstrations requested by you, viz: To the Combahee River, the gun-boat Dai Ching and one armed tug; to the South Edisto, the Pawnee and one armed tug; to the North Edisto, the Sonoma; to the Stono, the Wissahickon, the McDonough, and two mortar schooners. In addition, I have directed General Potter to proceed to Edisto Island, and with the Thirty-second U. S. Colored Troops, already landed there, to make a strong demonstration toward Willstown, on the South Edisto River, co-operating with the navy. I will, if required, re-enforce him as far as necessary. The enemy have always kept a force at Willstown guarding the roads to Adams' Run and Jacksonborough.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General of Volunteers.

HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN DISTRICT,
 DEPT. OF THE SOUTH, FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., January 27, 1865.

Capt. G. H. SCOTT, Comdg. Blockading Fleet off Charleston:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to inform you that eight deserters from the Confederate navy came in last night from Charleston Harbor.

They possess valuable information regarding the laying down of torpedoes, and connected with the sinking of the monitor Patapsco. They are at your disposal when it suits your convenience.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 27, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. E. POTTER,
Commanding District of Beaufort:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to put in writing the verbal instructions given to you by him in person. You will proceed at once to Edisto Island, and with the military force there demonstrate strongly against the enemy in co-operation with the navy.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 44. }

HEADQUARTERS COAST DIVISION,
DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Devaux's Neck, S. C., January 27, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The Second Brigade, Col. E. N. Hallowell, will move to-morrow as soon after daylight as possible to a new position near Pocotaligo. The men will carry in their knapsacks and haversacks five days' rations. All property belonging to the brigade that cannot be readily carried by the troops will be left in camp under a small guard and will be shipped to Hilton Head, S. C., for storage. Two wagons will report to Colonel Hallowell for transportation of the necessary baggage of the brigade and headquarters to its new camp.

III. The Artillery Brigade will move to-morrow morning in rear of the Second Brigade to a new position near Pocotaligo, which will be designated. Five days' rations and as much forage as can be carried on the carriages will be taken. Cannoneers will march. One wagon will be ordered to report for transportation of the actually necessary baggage and forage. A small guard will be left to move and ship to Hilton Head, S. C., such property as cannot be transported.

IV. The First Brigade, with the exception of the Fifty-sixth New York Volunteers, stationed at Coosawhatchie, will move as early as possible on the morning of the 29th to a position to be designated near Pocotaligo. Five days' rations will be carried by the men in their haversacks and knapsacks. Two wagons will report to brigade headquarters to-morrow evening for transportation of the necessary baggage. All heavy baggage will be sent to-morrow to the landing to be shipped to Hilton Head for storage.

V. The cavalry will move to-morrow at an early hour. Three days' rations and forage will be carried. One wagon will report to the cavalry for transportation of forage and necessary heavy baggage.

VI. In the new movement brigade commanders will be allowed to transport two wall tents each. No other tents except shelter-tents will be allowed in the command.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen.

HDQRS. DIST. OF FLORIDA, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FOURTH SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Jacksonville, Fla., January 27, 1865.

Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant General, Department of the South :

CAPTAIN: Yesterday I went up the Saint John's fifteen miles on the steamer Hale. On my return I was informed that a small party, some forty men, were sent out by Colonel Tilghman to bring in a family and household goods, and hoping to capture a rebel soldier lurking about the neighborhood of the house to which the party was sent. Colonel Tilghman's report is forwarded with the report of the officer commanding the party. Probably more of the squad will come in, but still there is enough of the disaster to give some force to the application made for cavalry in this district. As such application was approved by the general commanding the department, I trust they may be sent without delay. There are so many facilities for giving information of our slightest movements to the enemy, that, without horses to make rapid movements possible, we are subject to such petty disgraces at any time.

I visited Saint Augustine on Sunday last. I found the command in as good condition as I expected, but that was anything but satisfactory.

Colonel Wilcoxson's report will exhibit the necessity for additional force. I can only renew my application for more troops. Two regiments of cavalry and one of infantry, with a light battery, ought to be sent here as soon as practicable. With such a force I could, I believe, clean this part of Florida of all rebel forces immediately.

Very respectfully, &c.,

E. P. SCAMMON,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

WASHINGTON DEPOT, January 27, 1865.

(Received 11.55 a. m.)

Hon. E. M. STANTON:

Seventh train of troops arrived at 7 this a. m.

GEO. S. KOONTZ.

WASHINGTON DEPOT, January 27, 1865.

(Received 4 p. m.)

Hon. E. M. STANTON:

Eighth train of troops arrived at 2, and ninth at 2.30, this p. m.

G. S. KOONTZ.

FLAG-SHIP MALVERN,
Cape Fear River, N. C., January 28, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi :

DEAR GENERAL: I don't know that this will reach you for some time, but I write at a venture. We have settled down at Fort Fisher and have almost forgotten that it ever belonged to the rebels. We don't propose to do anything more, but hold on for you to come here and bag these fellows. They are working like beavers at their forts on the river. They hold some heavy positions and have some fifty guns at different points to keep us out. I have no doubt I could go up when I please, but there is no object in doing so. The rebels would only burn and destroy everything, and after their panic is over they may think it best to save the cotton until your coming, which at present they know nothing about. In the meantime I am maneuvering to make them believe we are going to attack them, and keep them on the alert, adding to present works and building others. We have a strong double line of defense across the neck, where stands Fort Fisher. This line is three miles from the fort and protected by about thirty gun-boats, with heavy guns. Bragg talks of retaking the fort. I hope he may try it. I have made arrangements for your transports, when they come here, to go to Smithville and await your coming in. In case the Cape Fear River is obstructed (which it is) you can immediately get supplies from Smithville. There is a good road leading out to about where you will come in. General Grant said he would send provisions for you to Beaufort, N. C. I keep vessels there, and have directed the officer in command to have them ready to send here at a moment's notice. They can be here in twenty-four hours from the time I send for them. There will be enough here for a small portion of your troops. I have dispatch-boats along the coast to bring tidings of your approach, and there is one at Georgetown, where I suppose some of your folks will drop in to tea.

I think the rebels are fortifying between this and Wilmington, thinking that Terry is going to advance, and they have assembled here, all told, about 10,000 men, all of whom you will gobble up (together with their artillery) when you come. The chart, on tracing paper, which I sent you, is correct up to the 1st of this month. We are having dreadful cold weather here. I hope you don't feel it, although your boys don't mind it much.

Hoping soon to see you along this way, when I will stop to shake hands with you, and then take a run home for a few days, I remain, sincerely and truly yours,

DAVID D. PORTER.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 45. } Washington, January 28, 1865.

* * * * *

32. By direction of the President, Bvt. Col. O. M. Poe, U. S. Army, is hereby assigned to duty, with pay and emoluments according to his brevet rank, from January 13, 1865.

* * * * *

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, January 28, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: Yours of yesterday came at night. If Easton did not give vessels to carry Logan's mules it was for a most excellent reason—that he did not have them. Slocum reports that he had ordered Davis to move on the 25th, and he should reach Sister's Ferry to-day; the rear can close on him whilst he lays his bridge. Slocum was to go by river so as to meet Davis and Williams there. I confide in his energy and judgment to get his command across by Monday. You may now let Foster's troops occupy the old fort at Pocotaligo bridge, where the Charleston and Savannah turnpike road crosses. They will also hold Coosawhatchie fort, but the main body moves to-day to a camp covering the Salkehatchie bridge, prepared to fall back on Pocotaligo fort and the works at the depot now occupied by Mower and Leggett. You may now move your two corps to points in front, north of the railroad, and be ready to march by all the roads leading north between the Coosawhatchie and Salkehatchie, with your wagons to close up the moment they are loaded. Roads are now comparatively good. Giles Smith's division should make room for Hatch, but Mower and Leggett can start from their present camps.

The Fifteenth Corps should take position to the left or right front, according to your intention of giving one or the other the right of your movement. You will have to get nearly up to Barnwell before turning toward Midway. The point marked Heywardsville looks like a good point for the Fifteenth Corps and could be reached from the position of John E. Smith's camp. Giles Smith could move to the point about four miles north and west of the Salkehatchie bridge, when you would have your two corps all ready to move by separate roads, viz, one following substantially the Salkehatchie and the other the Coosawhatchie, leaving Corse to make his junction as arranged at Hickory Hill. Hatch can supply his command by boats altogether, so as not to occupy our road at all. You had better begin this movement to-morrow.

I am, sir,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Pocotaligo, January 28, 1865—12 m.

Major-General SHERMAN:

GENERAL: Your note just received. I have given all my officers to understand that they would not move till Monday, and there is some little shortness of clothing that I was hoping to get distributed in the present camps. If you will permit me I think I can accomplish your wishes, limiting the movement simply to General Giles A. Smith's division. General John E. Smith's brigade at Beaufort, I think, will get closed up to-day, but I fear not before to-morrow night. I had intended, with your sanction, to move the Seventeenth Corps by the right-hand road, and the Fifteenth by roads to the left of it. Will it be practicable to cross the Salkehatchie before reaching Walker's or Rivers' Bridge? I mean by the right corps.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, January 28, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: The modifications you suggest in my general directions are approved, and the movements ordered for to-morrow will be deferred to Monday, provided the weather does not change. You should push matters now that weather is fair, and better leave behind those who are not ready, as do what you may some will not be ready. You cannot count on crossing Salkehatchie till you are in Barnwell District, nor is it advisable. Your right flank should aim for Midway and Columbia.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. AND ARMY OF THE TENN.,
No. 3. } Beaufort, S. C., January 28, 1865.

I. Maj. C. J. Stolbrand, Second Regiment Illinois Light Artillery Volunteers, is at his own request relieved from further duty as chief of artillery, Fifteenth Army Corps, and his term of service (three years in present grade) having expired he will forthwith proceed to Springfield, Ill., to arrange and close his business with the Government, preparatory to muster out of the service. Quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation.

* * * * *

VI. Lieut. Col. William H. Ross, First Michigan Light Artillery, is relieved from further duty at these headquarters, and assigned as chief of artillery, Fifteenth Army Corps, vice Major Stolbrand relieved, and will forthwith report to Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, commanding corps.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
FIELD ORDERS, } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 25. } Near Pocotaligo, S. C., January 28, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The following preliminary movements will take place to-morrow:

1. The division of General Giles A. Smith will move toward the road which runs along the west bank of the Salkehatchie and encamp preparatory to a forward movement on that road Monday morning. All wagons of the Seventeenth Corps will be so moved and parked as to leave the road from Pocotaligo to McPhersonville clear for the Fifteenth Army Corps by 9 a. m. Monday. The bridge train will move to-morrow, following General Giles A. Smith, and encamp in rear of him.

2. Movement for Monday: The Seventeenth Corps, Major-General Blair, will commence the forward movement by 7 a. m., ascending the Salkehatchie on the west bank, making if possible fifteen miles from Pocotaligo. The Fifteenth Corps, Maj. Gen. J. A. Logan, will move forward to Heywardsville, moving General John E. Smith's division by the Ridge road between the Pocotaligo and the Tullifinny, if practicable. Department headquarters will follow the leading division of the Seventeenth Army Corps. Whenever it is practicable corps commanders will subdivide their column, moving on parallel roads, particularly when not in the presence of a large force; and after the leading division on a road has taken up a strong position for the night the succeeding divisions need not close up to nearer than two miles interval for each. The corps commanders will deviate from this whenever the presence of a large force or other apparent necessity may require it. Particular pains will be taken to organize foraging parties for each brigade, battery, headquarters, and detachment, not to exceed in numbers an absolute necessity. A more uniform system of distribution of forage and rations than was had during the last campaign must be secured, and every possible economy in the issue of hard bread is demanded. The Engineer Regiment, after reaching Garden's Corners, will take right-hand road and will follow the Seventeenth Corps. The bridge train will be kept with the Seventeenth Corps for the present.

*                      *                      *                      *                      *                      *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

JOS. A. SLADEN,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS,      HDQRS. FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 9.                      )      Garden's Corners, S. C., January 28, 1865.

The following-named officers are hereby announced as on the staff of the major-general commanding, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly: Lieut. Col. L. E. Yorke, assistant inspector-general and chief of staff; Maj. Max. Woodhull, assistant adjutant-general; Lieut. Col. G. L. Fort, chief quartermaster; Lieut. Col. C. C. Carpenter, chief commissary of subsistence; Maj. R. Niccolls, medical director; Maj. J. M. Woodworth, medical inspector; Maj. F. C. Gillette, provost-marshal; Capt. J. S. Hoover, senior aide-de-camp; Capt. William B. Pratt, aide-de-camp; Lieut. L. B. Mitchell, aide-de-camp and chief ordnance officer; Maj. A. C. Perry, acting aide-de-camp; Capt. F. F. Whitehead, assistant adjutant-general, U. S. Volunteers, aide-de-camp; Capt. H. Klostermann, chief engineer.

By command of Maj. Gen. John A. Logan:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Port Royal Ferry, January 28, 1865—3 p. m.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS:

I inclose a note just received from Colonel Remick, chief commissary of subsistence of department. My reconnoitering party on the roads leading to Blair's landing reports that before a loaded train can be taken over it as much work will be necessary as has been done between this point and Beaufort. My own opinion coincides with Colonel Remick's, that my trains should be loaded at Beaufort, both on the score of economy of time and availability of roads, which are now perfectly serviceable for loaded trains from Beaufort to Garden's Corners. Not a moment shall be lost in loading the stores. Could anything be gained in already commencing the repairs of the roads beyond that point?

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

[Inclosure.]

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
OFFICE OF CHIEF COMMISSARY,
Pocotaligo, January 28, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

DEAR GENERAL: Captain Galvin was here to know how many stores, &c., you can get from this landing. I intend to have enough here for all. I have now 150,000 rations for the Fifteenth Army Corps, and will probably have more this afternoon, but at the same time if I were in your place I would load up my train to its full capacity at Beaufort, as follows: Thirty days' sugar and coffee, twelve to twenty days' hard bread, two to four days' salt meat, thirty to forty days' salt, and all beef-cattle that can be obtained at Beaufort, and then if you have empty wagons (made so by issue) when you get up here I will load them here for you. A large lot of stores went to Beaufort yesterday with orders to furnish your troops all they wanted.

I have the honor to be, yours, truly, &amp;c.,

D. REMICK,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief Commissary of Subsistence.

Please say to Colonel Carpenter to do the same with all the trains of the Fifteenth Army Corps at or near Beaufort, as this letter advises you to do, and oblige,

D. R.

Copy sent to Colonel Carpenter.

W. B. H[AZEN].

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS,
No. 2.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Old Eden, Ga., January 28, 1865.

I. This command will march at 6 a. m. to-morrow, the 29th instant, on the Springfield road, via Springfield, in the following order:

First. Second Brigade Infantry, Colonel Adams commanding, with Battery H, First Missouri Light Artillery, following his second regiment.

Second. Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut commanding.

Third. Trains as follows: First, ambulance; second, ordnance; third, brigade trains in the order of their brigades, respectively; fourth, supply trains of the division.

Fourth. First Brigade Infantry, General Rice commanding.

Colonel Adams will supply one of his regiments with spades and axes and push it forward to prepare the roads for trains. Colonel Hurlbut will throw one regiment in rear of the ordnance train. The command will move out promptly at the hour designated.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS,
No. 25.

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 28, 1865.

In accordance with Special Field Orders, No. 25, extract II, department headquarters, this date, Bvt. Maj. Gen. Giles A. Smith will move his command at 11 a. m. to-morrow to a point on the north side of the railroad on the road running along the west bank of the Salkehatchie River.

Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Mower and Brig. Gen. M. F. Force will to-morrow cause their trains to be parked on the north side of the railroad and east side of the McPhersonville road so as to leave the last-named road clear for the Fifteenth Corps on Monday morning.

Further directions for the movements of this command will be given to-morrow.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 9. { Pocotaligo, S. C., January 28, 1865.

I. The movement contemplated for Monday, the 30th instant, will commence to-morrow. This division will move at 1 p. m. Sunday, the 29th instant, about five miles on the road running parallel to and west of the Salkehatchie River.

II. Brig. Gen. W. W. Belknap, commanding Third Brigade, will have the advance. He will move up the Eleventh and Thirteenth [Iowa] Regiments in the forenoon. The Sixteenth [Iowa] has already been ordered to report in the morning.

III. Until further orders regimental and headquarters trains will follow their respective brigades, ambulances their regiments, and division headquarters train the headquarters train of the leading brigade; the pioneer train between the brigades; the supply train in the rear of the division; the First Minnesota Battery in advance of the rear regiment of the leading brigade.

By order of Brig. Gen. Giles A. Smith:

AD. WARE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo Depot, January 28, 1865.

Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding Right [Left] Wing:

GENERAL: General Williams reports to me to-day from Purysburg that you have passed up the Savannah River to Sister's Ferry and therefore I infer you will be there, and that Davis can get out to Robertsville by Monday. On that day Howard will have the Fifteenth Corps at McPhersonville and the Seventeenth at a point north of the Salkehatchie bridge ready to start the moment you are ready. Remember that every day's delay takes away one day's rations from Howard, and, if possible, be all ready to start on Tuesday from Robertsville.

The Fifteenth Corps will keep along the east of Coosawhatchie, the Seventeenth along the Salkehatchie, and will cross it at Rivers' Bridge, in Barnwell District.

The order of march and general orders will be the same as on the Georgia march. Until we reach the Charleston and Augusta road I want the most rapid possible movement—Kilpatrick to keep to your left front. Corse should cross to your rear to Hickory Hill and fall in with his corps there. Work hard to load your wagons, and report to me here at Pocotaligo Depot your readiness to move on Tuesday if possible. I think you can find two or more good roads and these will improve as we go north, unless the weather changes. It is very important that we hurry to our first point before Hood gets across and makes junction about Columbia.

If you are all ready on Tuesday you may act on the supposition that Howard is equally so.

Let Kilpatrick see this letter. I will shift over to see you, up about the edge of Barnwell District.

I am, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Purysburg, S. C., January 28, 1865.

Major DAYTON,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Army of Georgia:

MAJOR: In compliance with request of Major-General Slocum, I have the honor to report that two divisions of the Twentieth Corps on this side of the river have reached, with the head of the column, the crossing of Cypress Swamp, where a bridge about seventy-five feet long has been destroyed. This will be repaired to-day and we shall reach Sister's Ferry to-morrow. We find as yet nothing but scouting parties of the enemy. The roads are all obstructed by felled timber. The Fourteenth Corps night before last were twenty miles out from Savannah and getting along well. Geary's division of my corps is with it. General Slocum went up from this point on steamer to Sister's Ferry at daylight this morning. The roads require much repairing, but we shall get over them very well.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brerret Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, Saturday, January 28, 1865.

General WILLIAMS,

Commanding Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: Your note of to-day is received. I inclose you an open letter,* which please read and forward to General Slocum. We are all well on this flank and anxious for you to get all things in shape for a fair start.

Truly, yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

* See second, ante.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION,
FIELD ORDERS, } TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
No. 5. } In the Field, Ga., January 28, 1865.

This command will move to-morrow at 6.30 a. m. Order of brigades: Third, First, Second. Sloan's battery will march as usual behind the second brigade in line.

Colonel Mindil with his brigade will bring the trains through. The pioneer corps of the First Brigade will report to him for duty.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Bradham's House, January 28, 1865.

Brigadier-General WARD,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say that he finds the road from this place to Sister's Ferry entirely impracticable, and that he has directed the First Division to push on as far as possible to-night toward Robertsville. It will get probably about four miles from here to-night. He desires that you will start your command at daylight to-morrow morning, following the First Division on the road to Robertsville, and push on as near that place as possible. The citizens here state that the river is again rising, and the direct road from here to Sister's Ferry is flooded. The general, therefore, desires to have you come on as rapidly as possible, so that in case the road between here and Purysburg should be flooded your command will not be cut off. He desires that you will have all of your wagons loaded at Purysburg before starting. The wagons we borrowed to move corps headquarters will be sent back to-night to Purysburg, where they can be loaded with supplies. Forage is scarce, and after leaving Purysburg you will have to feed light. The general wishes that you would have Lieutenant Harbert send by you a report of the subsistence stores left at Purysburg after your command is furnished and wagons loaded. You will leave one regiment behind to guard the surplus stores.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, S. C., January 28, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,
Commanding Department of the South, Hilton Head:

GENERAL: Yours of the 27th is received and I am pushing my efforts to secure a departure by Monday or Tuesday next. I have in person reconnoitered the country from Salkehatchie bridge to Coosawhatchie. The country is very low and swampy and impassable save by the roads marked on our maps. I have no doubt this whole belt of land once formed the sea coast with its sound islands and marsh, which by the progress seaward of the beach is left inland, but still possessing its character of sound islands, surrounded by fresh-water marsh. This is the first point of terra firma, and has better connections inland. As near as I can learn Gillisonville, on the south of Coosawhatchie, is a corresponding point of the mainland and Robertsville of course. Therefore, until I am surely between Augusta and Charleston, it would be imprudent to let go this point. I have ordered General Hatch to move to a camp between this place (which is near Pocotaligo Depot) and Salkehatchie bridge, and to picket Coosawhatchie fort and the fort back at Pocotaligo bridge. The latter is the key point for defense, but for offense the line of the railroad is the proper one. I would, therefore, not reduce Hatch's force here till you have ascertained the effect on Charleston, by my appearance west of Branchville. All Salkehatchie is under water for a mile on either side of the regular bed, and it is almost impossible to get to it. The bridges have been burned by the enemy, who seems to occupy the opposite bank, but his force, if amounting to anything, is kept well back. I could see a few men at the railroad bank, and what seemed a gun in embrasure, but it was not fired, although our men stood in tempting groups on the railroad bank, this side, in easy six-pounder range. We find cavalry to our front toward Barnwell, and hear of some infantry, but I suppose the enemy simply is watching me and keeps his main force where it can be thrown rapidly on exposed points. Your demonstration on Willstown is right, but should not be more than a demonstration, that is a lodgment seemingly to cover the disembarkation of a large body. The admiral's feeling up the Edisto and Stono is well, but my movement to the rear of Charleston is the principal, and all others should be accessory—merely to take advantage of any let-go. Try and keep me well advised of Slocum's progress. He reports that Davis would move on the 25th, and he should be at Sister's Ferry to-day. I shall cause him to be felt for to-morrow.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 28, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Grand Army, Pocotaligo:

GENERAL: I send you the only two late papers brought by the Baltic, which arrived this a. m. Major Strong, whom I sent with a letter to Admiral Dahlgren, reports that the admiral has gone to the northward, probably to the Combahee or Edisto Rivers. He reports that the Dai Ching was sunk in the Combahee River on the 26th. She grounded in consequence of the very low water in the river caused by the strong westerly winds, and a rebel battery situated below the ferry riddled her with shot. She was finally abandoned and burned. The crew escaped across the land, and en route captured a schooner with seventy bales of cotton. Her captain says he has not been in Charleston for nearly one month, and knows little of the military situation. The Thirty-second U. S. Colored Troops has landed at Edisto Island since the loss of the Dai Ching, which will induce the belief that a flank movement on the position at Combahee is designed, particularly as General Potter will push up to Jehossee Island and make a show of crossing. If you desire I will run up there and make a tremendous stir and show of intention to land and cut the railroad and retreat of the troops from the Combahee. I can take a few hundred men from here and a regiment or two from Savannah. I have sent 100 men to King's Bridge, Ogeechee River, from here, to get the machinery of a mill there. The steamer first sent without guard reported small bodies of Wheeler's cavalry in the vicinity.

Be so kind as to direct General Hatch in his movements so that he may be able to carry out your wishes in case I may have to go to the northward to look after matters at the Combahee, Edisto, and Stono Rivers, and at Morris Island. He has already reported that he is to move to the Combahee, and I have made arrangements to supply his wants of wagons, scows, &c.

General Schimmelfennig reports from the Northern District that the enemy are making continued preparations to take the field. Their force is still strong in his front, and some new troops have arrived. The enemy's working parties are discontinued on all the works except Castle Pinckney, where they are at work on the earth covering the scarp, at low water. The light guns have been moved from Fort Sumter and apparently most of the light guns from John's and James Islands. The enemy exhibits nervousness, but not so much of a panic as existed after the fall of Savannah.

Very respectfully and truly, yours,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General of Volunteers.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 28, 1865.

Brig. Gen. JOHN P. HATCH,
Commanding Coast Division:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th instant relative to the movement of your command in accordance with instructions received by you from Major-General Sherman. I have referred your letter to Major Thomas, chief quartermaster, with instructions to render you all the assistance necessary.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 28, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that Captain Hudson, aide-de-camp on the staff of Lieutenant-General Grant, arrived here this evening on the Fulton with dispatches for you, and that I forward him at once to you under the escort of Major Anderson. I also send you the paper of the 25th. Brig. Gen. Henry Prince also arrived on the Fulton and is coming up to report to you.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General of Volunteers.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 28, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,
Commanding District of Savannah, Department of the South:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to inclose to you a copy of a letter to Mr. T. C. Severance, assistant Treasury agent at Hilton Head, relative to trade permits. Also a form that he requests may be put upon all permits for traders to bring goods to Savannah on private vessels, after you have approved of said permits.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[Inclosure.]

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 28, 1865.

MR. T. C. SEVERANCE,

Assistant Treasury Agent, Hilton Head, S. C. :

SIR: Referring to the conversation of yesterday on matters concerning trade, I have to state in writing the substance thereof in order that there may be no misunderstanding. I desire that all permits to take goods into the different districts of this command, signed by myself as a military necessity, may, after the payment of the proper charges, be cleared at once for their destination and that goods may not be cleared under any other circumstances. Whenever lists of trade stores allowed in either of the districts are made out, approved by me, and submitted to you, with the amount of trade per month to be allowed each store, I request that you may allow this amount to be introduced monthly without further permits being required, but not to allow the parties to exceed the limit prescribed. Anything beyond this limit must have a separate permit approved by me. It is understood that the trade stores in Beaufort and Hilton Head are to have the limit of $6,000 per month for January and February. Thereafter they will be restricted to the old limit. The limit for the trade stores at Savannah is yet to be established, and until this is done goods are to be admitted on special permits. With regard to the vessels for conveying goods to the different blockading points in the department, as the Treasury Department requires me to certify that the shipments are to be on the same footing as Government stores on Government transports (see Form A), I desire that whenever such a certificate is made by me the vessel be cleared without delay, and that if there be any infraction of the Treasury regulations which makes it necessary for you to inflict proper punishment in the way of seizure, this may be done without interfering with the passage of such vessels or the conveyance of the necessary supplies. Whenever I sign a permit for goods to be sent to any part of the department as a military necessity I expect such permit to be respected and the goods to be cleared without unnecessary delay.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

BALTIMORE, MD., January 28, 1865—8.30 p. m.

(Received 9.15 p. m.)

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War :

Since my telegram of the 25th, furnishing particulars of shipments of troops from Benwood, including train No. 17, we have forwarded from that point, prior to 10 last p. m., additional trains with an aggregate of 247 cars troops, horses, baggage, and artillery. The weather is still intensely cold, materially affecting and damaging machinery, but the movement has continued, on the whole, exceedingly successful, in view of the surrounding difficulties, and with favorable prospects of the entire transportation being accomplished without delay.

J. W. GARRETT,
President.

CITY POINT, VA., January 28, 1865—1.30 p. m.

Brig. Gen. D. H. RUCKER,
Chief Quartermaster:

We require transports to send to North Carolina. Those already sent are not promptly returned. There are two vessels now at Fort Monroe, which you had ordered to Washington. As the Potomac is closed may these vessels be ordered here? If so, please telegraph Colonel Webster or Captain James at Fort Monroe. Try and keep Annapolis open at all hazards. There is only some six days' cattle on hand, but, if necessary, they will last a longer time. It is colder than yesterday, though this river is free of ice to-day. We have some eleven days' grain and one and a half of hay and plenty of subsistence.

R. INGALLS,
Brigadier-General and Chief Quartermaster.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,
City Point, Va.:

DEAR GENERAL: Captain Hudson has this moment arrived with your letter of January 21, which I have read with interest. The capture of Fort Fisher has a most important bearing on my campaign and I rejoice in it for many reasons, because of its intrinsic importance and because it gives me another point of security on the sea-board. I hope General Terry will follow it up by the capture of Wilmington, although I do not look for it from Admiral Porter's dispatch to me. I rejoiced that Terry was not a West Pointer, that he belonged to your army, and that he had the same troops with which Butler feared to make the attempt. Porter is in high glee.

Admiral Dahlgren, whose fleet is re-enforced by some more iron-clads, wants to make an assault a la Fisher on Fort Moultrie, but I withhold my consent for the reason that the capture of all Sullivan's Island is not conclusive as to Charleston. The capture of James Island would be, but all pronounce that impossible at this time; therefore, I am moving, as hitherto designed, for the railroad west of Branchville; then swing across to Orangeburg, which will interpose my army between Charleston and the interior. Contemporaneous with this Foster will demonstrate up the Edisto and afterward make a lodgment at Bull's Bay and occupy the common road which leads from Mount Pleasant toward Georgetown. When I get to Columbia I think I shall move straight for Goldsborough, via Fayetteville. By this circuit I cut all roads and devastate the land, and the forces along the coast, commanded by Foster, will follow my movement, taking anything the enemy lets go, or so occupies his attention that he cannot detach all his forces against me. I feel sure of getting Wilmington and may be Charleston, and being at Goldsborough, with its railroads finished back to Morehead City and Wilmington, I can easily take Raleigh, when it seems that Lee must come out of his trenches or allow his army to be absolutely invested. If Schofield comes to Beaufort he should be pushed out to Kinston on the Neuse, and may be Goldsborough, or rather a point on the Wilmington road south of Goldsborough. It is not necessary to storm Goldsborough, because it is in a distant region of no importance in itself, and if its garrison is forced to draw supplies from its north it will be eating up the same stores on which Lee depends for his command. I have no doubt Hood will bring his army to Augusta, and Canby and Thomas should penetrate Alabama as far as possible to keep employed, at least, a part of Hood's army, or what would accomplish the same thing, Thomas might reoccupy the railroad from Chattanooga forward to the Etowah, viz, Rome, Kingston, and Allatoona, thereby threatening Georgia. I know that the Georgia troops are disaffected. At Savannah I met delegates from several counties to the southwest that manifested a decidedly hostile spirit to the Confederate cause. I nursed it along as far as possible and instructed Grover to keep it up. My Left Wing must now be at Sister's Ferry, crossing the Savannah River to the east bank. Slocum has orders to be at Robertsville to-morrow, prepared to move on Barnwell. Howard is here, all ready to start for the Augusta railroad at Midway.

We find the enemy on the east side of the Salkehatchie and cavalry in our front, but all give ground on our approach, and seem to be merely watching us. If I start on Tuesday, in one week I will be near Orangeburg, having broken up the Augusta road, from the Edisto westward twenty or twenty-five miles. I will be sure that every rail is twisted. Should I encounter too much opposition near Orangeburg, then I will for a time neglect that branch and rapidly move on Columbia and fill up the triangle formed by the Congaree and Wateree, tributaries of the Santee, breaking up that great center of the Carolina roads. Up to that point I feel full confidence, but from there I may have to maneuver some, and will be guided by the questions of weather and supplies. You remember I had fine weather all February for my Meridian trip, and my memory of the weather at Charleston is that February is usually a fine month. Before the March storms come I should be within striking distance of the coast. The months of April and May will be the best for operations from Goldsborough to Raleigh and the Roanoke. You may rest assured that I will keep my troops well in hand, and if I get worsted will aim to make the enemy pay so dearly that you will have less to do. I know this trip is necessary to the war. It must be made sooner or later, and I am on time and in the right position for it. My army is large enough for the purpose, and I ask no re-enforcement, but simply wish the utmost activity at all other points, so that concentration against me may not be universal.

I expect Davis will move Heaven and earth to catch me, for success to my column is fatal to his dream of empire. Richmond is not more vital to his cause than Columbia and the heart of South Carolina. If Thomas will not move on Selma, order him to occupy Rome, Kingston, and Allatoona, and again threaten Georgia in the direction of Athens. I think the poor white trash of the South are falling out of their ranks by sickness, desertion, and every available means; but there is a large class of vindictive Southerners who will fight to the last. The squabbles in Richmond, the howls in Charleston, and the disintegration elsewhere are all good omens to us, but we must not relax one iota, but on the contrary pile up our efforts.

I would ere this have been off, but we had terrific rains which caught me in motion and nearly drowned some of my columns in the rice fields of the Savannah, swept away our causeway, which had been carefully corduroyed, and made the swamps hereabout mere lakes of slimy mud, but the weather is now good and I have my army on terra firma. Supplies, too, came for a long time by daily dribblets instead of in bulk; but this is now all remedied, and I hope to start on Tuesday.

I will issue instructions to Foster, based on the re-enforcements of North Carolina, and if Schofield comes you had better relieve Foster, who cannot take the field, and needs an operation on his leg, and let Schofield take command with headquarters at Beaufort, N. C., and orders to secure, if possible, Goldsborough, with railroad connections back to Beaufort and Wilmington. If Lee lets us get that position he is gone up.

I will start with my Atlanta army, 60,000; supplied as before and depending on the country for all in excess of thirty days. I will have less cattle on the hoof, but I hear of hogs, cows and calves in Barnwell and the Columbia Districts; even here we found some forage. Of course the enemy will carry off and destroy some forage but I will burn the houses where the people burn forage and they will get tired of that.

I must risk Hood, and trust to you to hold Lee, or be on his heels if he comes south. I observe that the enemy has some respect for my men, for they gave up Pocotaligo quick when they heard that the attacking force belonged to me. I will try and keep up that feeling, which is a real power.

With respect, your friend.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

I leave my chief quartermaster and commissary behind to follow coastwise.

---

FLAG-SHIP HARVEST MOON,
Port Royal, January 29, 1865.

General SHERMAN, Commanding, &c.:

DEAR GENERAL: I was very glad to hear by your note of the 27th, just received, that everything was going so much to your satisfaction. I wish I could say so for myself, but first the Patapsco would be blown up by a torpedo, and now the Dai Ching gets foul of a battery, gets aground, can't get off, and is destroyed. One thing was right, she was defended for seven hours and abandoned to the flames only when her pivot gun was disabled by a shot. All the officers and men brought off but four captured in a boat by pickets, so the rebels did not gain much. A contraband from Charleston says they have drawn off nearly all the troops from about the city toward Branchville, where they look for "Mr. Sherman." I had no gun-boat to replace the Dai Ching in the Combahee, and sent the Pawnee from the Ashepoo to North Edisto, because I understood General Foster that he was sending a detachment there for a diversion. The Sonoma was there already. Very sorry, general, that I cannot do any more for you, but the consolation is that you do not need it. The cipher is all right, and its chief merit seems to me that when once written it may be inscrutable to everybody.

With my heartiest wishes, dear general, I am, most truly, yours,
J. A. DAHLGREN.

P. S.—When you get to Richmond I wish to be there, for I have yet to bury my boy.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, January 29, 1865.

General McCALLUM,
Railroad Department, Savannah :
 (In his absence, Col. W. W. Wright.)

GENERAL: I have well reconnoitered the country hereabouts, and am satisfied that it is not to our interest to reconstruct, at this time, any of the railroads out of Savannah. After securing all the property there, I wish you to transfer your men and tools to North Carolina—New Berne, unless Wilmington should fall into our possession—and prepare to make railroad communication to Goldsborough by the middle of March. You need not build the bridge over Port Royal, which I requested of you at Savannah; that can be done by Foster's command. General Grant advises me of heavy re-enforcements being sent to North Carolina. You may, therefore, at once, transport Colonel Wright and his operatives to New Berne, or Wilmington, if that place be in our possession, and prepare timber, irons, cars and locomotives adapted to the road of North Carolina, enough to build out to Goldsborough, when you can get possession of the road. Let Colonel Wright report to General Schofield, or other commanding officer he may find, who, on presenting this letter, will furnish all aid. General Easton will furnish the necessary transportation.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL / HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
 FIELD ORDERS, / In the Field, Pocotaligo, S. C.,
 No. 23. / January 29, 1865.

I. Brig. Gen. Henry Prince, U. S. Volunteers, having reported pursuant to Special Field Orders, No. 327, headquarters Department of the Cumberland, series 1864, will report to Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster, commanding Department of the South, for special assignment to duty.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Pocotaligo, January 29, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN:

GENERAL: General John E. Smith made a reconnaissance to McPhersonville to-day; reports a good road from his camp to that place. McPhersonville is deserted. Heard of two or three scouting parties, but no force. I have received your message by Colonel Strong, and will arrest the movement to-morrow night, as you desire, and not push forward farther till ordered. To-morrow's move, if we should not push farther, might convey the idea of turning on Charleston, particularly if I seek a good point for crossing the Salkehatchie, and act as if intending to throw a bridge.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

Col. J. T. CONKLIN,

Chief Quartermaster, Department and Army of the Tennessee:

COLONEL: The major-general commanding desires me to say that after to-day's march this army will probably delay further movements for a day or two to await the moving up of General Slocum's column. Do not, therefore, send back any stores you may have on hand or coming up, as in any event the forces of General Hatch will remain in this vicinity.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOS. A. SLADEN,

Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 6. } Near Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

Capt. A. M. Van Dyke, assistant adjutant-general, is hereby announced as assistant adjutant-general at these headquarters, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

JOS. A. SLADEN,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. AND ARMY OF THE TENN.,
No. 4. } Beaufort, S. C., January 29, 1865.

* * * * *

IV. The steamer Savannah having, in accordance with orders, arrived at this post with several hundred recruits, &c., for the army under General Sherman, is ordered to proceed with same to Blair's landing, on the Pocotaligo River, where they will, under the direction of Captain Lomax, First Alabama Cavalry, in charge, be disembarked and turned over for distribution to their several commands. Captain Low, assistant quartermaster, will give the commander of the Savannah orders to this effect.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

SAM'L. L. TAGGART,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL }
FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 26. } Near Pocotaligo, S. C.,
January 29, 1865.

* * * * *

IV. The major-general commanding Fifteenth Corps, having expressed a desire to retain Maj. Max. Woodhull, assistant adjutant-general, as his adjutant, so much of extract IX, Special Field Orders, No. 17, as relieves him from duty with the Fifteenth Corps and ordering him to report to the major-general commanding Department and Army of the Tennessee, is hereby revoked.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

JOS. A. SLADEN,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Captain Cadle, of General Blair's staff, informed me that everything belonging to the Seventeenth Corps would be out of the way to-day, so I will be glad if you will start your leading division as early as 6 a. m., so as to reach Pocotaligo Station by 8 o'clock. I will inform General Sherman that he may have his headquarters enter your column wherever you or he may wish. I am sorry that Clark has not closed up. He probably will be able to do so in the morning. If you find it practicable you can push your column as far beyond Heywardsville as you can, communicating with me from that place by any cross roads leading to the river. I will draw up an order for Tuesday so soon as I can learn the place of your halting. I shall look to you, general, daily for any information of the whereabouts or intentions of the enemy.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. 1ST BRIG., 3D DIV., FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp, Six Miles from Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. JOHN E. SMITH,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: I have the honor to report my arrival at this point with my brigade at 6.30 p. m. this day. Under Major-General Logan's directions I encamped here with instructions to move at 5.30 a. m. to-morrow to join the division. I received this morning for my brigade ninety-eight recruits assigned to Forty-eighth Indiana Infantry, only about ten of whom are armed with muskets left by sick men sent to Beaufort under existing orders. I expect to reach the command by 8 o'clock or 8.30 to-morrow morning. Your quartermaster, Captain Skinner, has doubtless already informed you of the difficulties in the way of my arriving before with my command. Colonel Tourtellotte, of Fourth Minnesota, has been left in charge of all transportation, detachments, &c., belonging to this corps, with instructions to come up at the earliest possible moment. From all the information I could obtain he will be able to leave to-morrow morning and, by a forced march, join us to-morrow night.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
WM. T. CLARK,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, near Springfield, Ga., January 29, 1865.

Col. R. N. ADAMS,
Commanding Second Brigade:

You will move your command into Springfield to-morrow, starting at 7 a. m. prompt. You will make a detail from your brigade sufficient to carry all your spades and axes and prepare the road as you march. Colonel Huribut will make a similar detail and prepare the roads as much as possible and keep out of your way. It is desirable that you complete the road for the passage of the trains. The battery and your own train to accompany you, the former in position in rear of your first regiment. The working detail will have their knapsacks carried in the wagons from which the tools were taken. Upon arriving at Springfield you will halt until the remainder of the division shall have passed, when you will take position in rear and follow the First Brigade, the battery being transferred to the same. After leaving Springfield the trains will move the same as to-day, brigade trains in the order of their respective brigades, &c.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, near Springfield, Ga., January 29, 1865.

Col. F. J. HURLBUT,

Commanding Third Brigade, in the Field:

You will move your command into the village of Springfield, starting at 6 a. m. to-morrow, the 30th instant. Before starting you will make a detail from your command, sufficient to use all your spades and axes, who will prepare the road sufficient for the passage of your own command and its trains, and, in fact, preparing the roads as well as you can, and keep out of the way of the troops to follow. The men detailed to prepare roads will have their knapsacks deposited in the wagons from which the tools are taken, as much delay is occasioned by the men having to unsling them at every halt for work. Upon arriving at Springfield you will halt your command and wait until the remainder of the division has passed, when you will take your position in rear of the column during the remainder of the day.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 26. }

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

* * * * *

XII. The following are the orders for to-morrow:

1. Brig. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will move forward at 8 a. m. on the road designated in Special Field Orders, No. 25, extract II, from department headquarters.

2. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will move his command at 7 a. m. out on the road taken by him in his demonstrations against the Salkehatchie River, taking care to keep to the right so as not to interfere with the Fifteenth Corps.

3. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will follow the First Division.

4. The pontoon train now encamped near the Fourth Division will follow the Fourth Division.

5. The train of the Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will follow the train of the First Division.

The train of department headquarters and of these headquarters will move after the advance brigade of the First Division.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS. / HIGHERS, THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS.

No. 22.

Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

* * * * *

VIII. This command will march to-morrow in the following order: First, Second Brigade; second, Battery Fifteenth Ohio; third, First Brigade.

Two ammunition wagons will follow immediately in rear of troops of each brigade. Ambulances for brigades following in rear of same.

Division, brigade, and regimental wagons will follow the ambulances of the rear brigade. The hospital train (six wagons) will follow regimental wagons. The ordnance trains will follow the hospital trains. The supply trains will follow the ordnance train. The pioneer corps with its tool-teams will habitually precede the command. The other pioneer wagons, Twentieth Illinois wagons, and ambulance wagon will follow immediately in rear of division headquarters train.

This order of march for trains will be observed during the campaign unless otherwise ordered.

The hour of starting will be indicated hereafter.

* * * * *

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

CAMP FOURTH DIVISION.

Five Miles from Pocotaligo, January 29, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE.

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I am encamped about four miles from the railroad where the road forks, the left-hand one going to McPhersonville, and the other along the Salkehatchie River. The proper route for the First and Third Divisions is the road General Mower took the day he came out here to cross the river. We are now where he made some rail barricades at or near the forks of the road. A citizen here says that will not interfere with the column on the McPhersonville road. The road we came on is badly cut up and is two miles farther. The road General Mower came out comes into this about one mile back. The enemy are reported by the negroes to be intrenching at Kadesh Church, six miles from here, but from what I learn about the country around there it can be approached from any direction. According to a very reliable-looking white man who lives here McPhersonville is only three miles from here, and it is the same distance from the station where the other divisions are encamped. This point is five miles from the station the way General Mower came, and about seven the way we came. I shall send this the road we came up, as I do not consider the other safe for single horsemen. Colonel Hibbets just informed me that the works I spoke of were thrown up by his regiment and the Twenty-third Indiana the first day General Mower was out, so Captain Henley will know just where we are, and the road to come on.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GILES A. SMITH,
Brigadier-General.

---

HQDQS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, January 29, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,
Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: I have your letter of yesterday. Tell Admiral Dahlgren I regret the loss of the Dai Ching, but can quote Admiral Porter, who told me once that ships were made to be "lost." Your movement by Edisto is good, but understand me as of opinion that if the enemy mans his works facing the sea you cannot gain them save at a disadvantage, but by demonstrating at points of land from which troops can move against the railroad by a rapid, quick march, you compel him to keep the entire railroad guarded from Charleston to Salkehatchie, but I don't care about the road being actually broken until the latter part of next week. If you know that the enemy falls behind the Edisto you should break the railroad anywhere this side of him and then you could reduce Hatch's command here to the number you calculated, viz, 1,000 men, but so long as McLaws (rebel) has the railroad by which he can handle 4,000 or 5,000 men rapidly it will be imprudent to leave Hatch too weak. There is no use in a force here at all, unless it is on the railroad. This point, Pocotaligo, is most salient, and therefore best, but if deemed unsafe at any time the fort at Coosawhatchie would fulfill the same conditions, and its river is deeper and better. I have no doubt a steam-boat could work up to the Coosawhatchie fort at high tide. Flats drawn by barges could certainly. I merely want a point of security here till I am surely beyond the Santee, and by a force here you better cover your island and the Savannah River than by any other disposition of your troops.

I expect from Tennessee a force of some 5,000 to 8,000 men belonging to the four corps with me here. Stop them at Hilton Head and use them unless they get there in time to reach me, which is very improbable. Out of them you can make up a good command to demonstrate on Charleston, Georgetown, and from Smithville, Cape Fear River as I progress, aiming to join their respective commands when we touch the sea-board. If I break the railroad to Augusta and Columbia, it will be well to strike that to Wilmington unless Wilmington in the meantime be taken by Terry. The easiest point to reach that railroad will be from Cape Fear River to the south and west of Wilmington.

You may make as much display on Edisto, and about Stono, next Wednesday and Thursday, as possible, and cause the troops at Morris Island to make a lodgment on James Island if possible. That is the vital part of Charleston.

I am, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Pocotaligo, January 29, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,

Commanding Department of the South :

GENERAL: I have just received dispatches from General Grant stating that Schofield's corps, the Twenty-third, 21,000 strong, is ordered east from Tennessee, and will be sent to Beaufort, N. C. That is well. I want that force to secure a point on the railroad about Goldsborough and then to build the road out to that point. If Goldsborough be too strong to carry by a rapid movement, then a point near the Neuse, south of Goldsborough, but holding the bridge and position about Kinston and fortify strong. The movement should be masked by the troops already at New Berne. Please notify General Palmer that these troops are coming and for him to prepare to receive them. Major-General Schofield will command them in person, and is admirably adapted for the work. If it is possible I want him to secure Goldsborough with the railroad back to Morehead City and Wilmington. As soon as General Schofield reaches Fort Macon, have him to meet some one of your staff to explain in full detail the situation of affairs with me, and you can give him chief command of all troops at Cape Fear and in North Carolina. If he finds the enemy has all turned south against me he need not follow, but turn his attention against Raleigh. But if he can secure Goldsborough and Wilmington it will be as much as I expect before I have passed the Santee. Send him all detachments of men that have come to join my army. They can be so organized and officered as to be more efficient, for they are nearly all old soldiers who have been detached or on furlough. Until I pass the Santee you can better use these detachments at Bull's Bay, Georgetown, &c.

I will instruct General McCallum, of the railroad department, to take his men up to Beaufort, N. C., and use them on the road out. I do not know that he can employ them on any road here. I did instruct him, whilst waiting information from North Carolina, to employ them in building a good trestle bridge across Port Royal Ferry, but I now suppose the pontoon bridge will do. If you move the pontoons be sure to make a good road out to Garden's Corners and mark it with sign board, obstructing the old road so that should I send back any detachments they will not be misled. I prefer that Hatch's forces hereabout should not be materially weakened until I am near Columbia, when you may be governed by the situation of affairs about Charleston. If you can break the railroad between this and Charleston then this force could be reduced.

I am, with respect,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Pocotaligo, January 29, 1865.

General HATCH,

Commanding Division :

GENERAL: I wish you to-morrow to send a detachment to the forks of the road this side of the Salkehatchie, and then make demonstrations as though preparatory to cross over to the east side. Try and make a pathway of fallen timber through the swamp, so as to enable skirmishers to appear near the river-bank at the railroad and wagon road bridges. Also, if possible, let one or more horsemen try to pass through the water along the wagon road. I think the water must have subsided enough for this. Also let a party take tools and prepare on the railroad causeway a place (countersunk) for two guns in embrasure. Report to me what is seen by night. I will remain here till I hear from General Slocum about Robertsville, when the whole army will move north, leaving you to cover this point. I deem it important to hold the position on the railroad for some time, say ten days, after I leave, and during that time to feel across the Salkehatchie in the direction of Charleston, so as to destroy the railroad as far toward the Edisto as possible. As long as the railroad is intact up to Salkehatchie you will see an enemy may rapidly interpose between here and Port Royal, which might incommode us. At the same time General Foster will try and cut the road between this and Charleston, the effect of which will be to make the enemy guard the road in its whole length. After I have reached the Augusta road I do not think this road will be of much use to the enemy.

I am, with respect,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Near Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

Col. C. H. VAN WYCK,
Commanding First Brigade :

COLONEL: The brigadier-general commanding directs that the Twenty-fifth Ohio Volunteers be ready to march to-morrow morning in light-marching order at 8.30 o'clock.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Near Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

Captain HAMNER,
Commanding Artillery Brigade :

CAPTAIN: You will move your command and take position in the fort on this side of the Pocotaligo bridge to-morrow morning.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:
LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Near Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER THIRTY-THIRD U. S. COLORED TROOPS:

The Thirty-third U. S. Colored Troops will take position inside of the fort at Pocotaligo to-morrow morning. One company will be sent to guard stores at Blair's landing early in the morning.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:
LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 29, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. P. SCAMMON,

Commanding District of Florida, Jacksonville, Fla.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 27th instant giving details of an engagement of a small party of the Seventy-fifth Ohio Volunteer Infantry with a cavalry force of the enemy. The major-general commanding directs me to say that he regrets exceedingly that so small a force should have been sent. He requests that hereafter no party be sent out less than 1,000 strong, except when scouts are sent to ascertain the position of the enemy. The general also regrets that Colonel Tilghman should have sent out such a small force so far into the country for purposes not strictly military. The Thirty-fourth U. S. Colored Troops will be sent to your district as soon as possible. They will have to be taken from active duty with the Coast Division for this purpose. No more cavalry can be sent to your district, as we have none in the department that can be spared. The general desires that as soon as the Thirty-fourth U. S. Colored Troops arrive in your district they be put immediately at work, or a sufficient number of them, on the defenses of the inland cut between Fernandina and the Saint John's River.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

NEW BERNE, N. C., January 29, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER:

DEAR FOSTER: Major Gouraud will take the papers, which will show exactly how we stand here. In a letter written to me by Townsend on the 16th he directed me to send all this information to General Sherman, and I did so. Sherman writes me that he has received them, and that they are very complete, the only thing not mentioned being the gauge of our railroad. This gauge is four feet eight and one-half inches, as the superintendent tells me. Major Gouraud will examine this very carefully to-day. Things in North Carolina are in a very snug shape. Last spring Butler ordered everything that could be spared from here to go to Virginia. Large quantities of ordnance, or rather small ammunition, is coming here, and we will have to work like beavers to get everything in order for movements from here. It is "in the air" that Sherman is coming through North Carolina. The people generally seem to think this is so, and they are making their preparations accordingly. I shall deceive them as to the programme as far as I can. General Grant has just arrived at Morehead, and he has telegraphed me to come down, and I go down with Gouraud.*

Hastily, yours,

I. N. PALMER.

UNOFFICIAL.]

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C.,
Sunday, January 29, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER:

MY DEAR FOSTER: I came here this a. m. to see General Grant. Schofield and General Rawlins, likewise Fox (Navy Department), were with him. Grant told me to write to you and say to you that since your last letter was written to me some considerable changes have taken place in the programme. Schofield's corps comes to the Department of the South, and one division of it is to be left here with me, so when you have anything for me to do you may calculate upon my being somewhat stronger than we are now here. You will probably hear from General Grant very soon. I think he went only as far as Wilmington. I hope and believe that we will be in good condition here to help the cause. When you get Charleston can't you write me to come and see the town before it is burned up?

---

* Some strictly personal matter here omitted.

Sincerely, yours,

I. N. PALMER.

---

WASHINGTON, January 29, 1865—12:50 p. m.

Major-General GILLMORE:

(Care of D. Van Nostrand, 192 Broadway, New York.)

When will you be ready for assignment to a command?

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

BROOKLYN, N. Y., January 29, 1865.

(Received 6.20 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK:

Your dispatch is received. I am ready for assignment to command now. I write by this mail.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General.

---

SAVANNAH, January 30, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN, U. S. Army,

Commanding the Military Department of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I have the honor to transmit to you an official copy of the proceedings of a meeting of the citizens of Savannah held on the 25th instant. They so fully explain themselves that it would be tautology in me to add anything more, a hearty participant as I was in them.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. D. ARNOLD,
Mayor of Savannah.

[Inclosure.]

Proceedings of a public meeting held in the Council Chamber, Savannah, January 25, 1865.

In response to a call made in pursuance to the following resolution of the city council, viz—

Resolved, That his honor Mayor Arnold be requested to convene a meeting of our citizens at the Exchange at 12 o'clock on the 25th instant, for the purpose of giving expression to their heartfelt thanks to the citizens of New York and Boston for the very large, valuable, and timely contributions of provisions and other necessities of life which have been received and are now on their way to this city, and that his honor the mayor invite the several committees from New York and Boston, including the owners and the commander of the Rebecca Clyde, with Captain Veale, of General Geary's staff, and Lieutenant Charlot, U. S. Army, all of whom have co-operated with us in the good work, to attend the meeting—

A large meeting of the citizens met this day at the Exchange. On motion of Mr. H. Brigham, his honor Mayor Arnold was called to the chair, and Mr. John Gammell was requested to act as secretary. The mayor on taking the chair made the following remarks:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: For the second time since the capture of our city it has been my duty to summon you to meet together in public assembly. The occasion which brings you together to-day is one which will be ever remarkable, even in the annals of the last few weeks, so pregnant as they have been with events which make epochs in history, and which almost condense a lifetime in a day. A brief review of the circumstances under which we were placed will be necessary for a clearer understanding of our present condition. The capture of Savannah on the 21st of December, 1864, produced greater alterations in our condition than mere military possession and military government. The Confederate currency, already inflated to an almost nominal value, was still the medium of exchange while Savannah was in the Confederacy, but the moment the United States regained Savannah Confederate money was literally not worth the paper on which it was printed, and all, all of us, individuals and the city government, were reduced to a dead level of poverty. Cut off from all communication with the external world, with no means to purchase provisions and no provisions to purchase, I did not exaggerate your condition in my opening remarks on the 28th of December. The want of fuel was supplied as far as practicable by the direction of the noble Geary, and I am happy to state that at the earliest practicable period his successor, Major-General Grover, will take measures to furnish wood to our inhabitants. The statements made at the meeting of the citizens, and the observations of eye-witnesses from the North, struck a sympathetic cord in the breasts of many generous citizens of New York and Boston, and recollecting the time-honored adage, bis dat qui cito dat (he gives doubly who gives quickly), in the shortest possible time, and at the most inclement season of the year, behold the noble steam-ships wending their way southward freighted with provisions, accompanied by the committees, whose whole-souled philanthropy has been their only guide. These ships, this acceptable freight, these philanthropic gentlemen of the committees of New York and Boston are here, and it is to give you an opportunity of expressing your heartfelt gratitude that you have met together this day. I do not envy the man who is not willing to join heartily and sincerely in this expression of feeling, but I do not believe there is any such within the sound of my voice. I hope that this day will prove that the citizens of Savannah justly appreciate the generosity of New York and Boston, and that they will further show that they look upon the action as the olive branch of peace, and that they will meet it on their part by the fairest, frankest acceptance of it as such. Such, from what I have seen, I believe to be the prevalent sentiment of our people. War stirs up the very foundations of society. We are now in the midst of jarring elements, but a ray of light is dawning. We may expect that it will lead to a more perfect day, and we must in the meantime endeavor to profit by the words of Saint Paul: "Tribulation worketh patience, and patience experience, and experience hope."

He then introduced to the meeting the following gentlemen: Messrs. Archibald Baxter, C. H. P. Babcock, Frank Lathrop, representatives of the city of New York; Messrs. H. O. Briggs, W. H. Baldwin, H. D. Hyde, representatives of the city of Boston; Mr. L. E. Chittenden, one of the owners of the steamer Rebecca Clyde; Mr. John M. Glidden, one of the owners of the steamer Greyhound; Captain Veale, U. S. Army, and Lieutenant Charlot, U. S. Army, acting with the relief committee on part of the military authorities.

On motion, the chair appointed the following committee of thirteen gentlemen to report resolutions, viz: Wylly Woodbridge, N. B. Knapp, T. R. Mills, William Hunter, G. W. Wylly, E. Padelford, A. Champion, A. A. Solomons, John McMahon, Isaac Cohen, T. J. Walsh, John R. Wilder, H. A. Crane.

During the absence of the committee, by invitation of the chairman, the meeting was eloquently and appropriately addressed by the following gentlemen, viz: Messrs. Baxter, Chittenden, Briggs, Baldwin, and

Hyde, and Captain Veale, U. S. Army. The committee having returned, reported, through their chairman, Wylly Woodbridge, esq., the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

The spontaneous and unsolicited liberality and benevolence of the citizens of New York and Boston, in raising contributions and purchasing and forwarding provisions for the use of the destitute of the city of Savannah, call for no ordinary expression on the part of its citizens. Deprived for years of all external trade, cut off from the commercial world by a rigid blockade, the resources of the town were gradually wasted away, until we had reached the point of almost positive starvation when the occupation by the army of General Sherman took place. This transition state of society complicates our situation. The military power must obtain, so long as any portion of the Southern States maintain an armed resistance to the Union. Civil government cannot be established nor the channels of ordinary intercourse be opened. While this lasts the people are comparatively helpless. Such is the situation of Savannah, and such, in succession, will be the condition of the various portions of the country as they again fall into possession of the National Government. The hand of sympathy and fellowship so generously extended to us by the citizens of New York and Boston, affords the most gratifying evidence that a large portion of our Northern fellow-citizens are desirous of re-establishing the amicable relations which formerly existed between the various sections of our widespread Republic, and ought to carry conviction to every unprejudiced mind that there is but one course to pursue, and that is to aim at a speedy termination of the unfortunate strife which has been devastating the country for nearly four years. Having appealed to arms to decide the question, the weaker party in such a contest must abide the issue of events and cannot dictate terms. But the proclamation of President Lincoln has pointed out the only way in which the United States, with their unexhausted and inexhaustible materials of war, will consent to peace, and one of the largest meetings ever held in this city, on the 28th of December, placed the people of Savannah in the category presented by the Chief Magistrate. The meeting called to-day to convey the thanks of our citizens to the generous donors of the provisions which are to be distributed gratuitously to the needy is the direct fruit of this action, dictated as it was by the reasonable hope of retrieving the mistakes of the past and re-establishing as far as possible the prosperity which once blessed our land. Whatever may be the action of the United States Government in the future, this meeting has to-day a duty to perform to the citizens of New York and Boston in giving expression to the sentiment of the town in relation to the munificent bounty of which it is the grateful recipient. The city is in the same condition as it was when the meeting of the 28th of December was held. The great difficulty is in the fact that the people are without remunerative industrial occupation, which the early opening of our port would speedily relieve. Let us hope that this may be remedied in reasonable time. Meanwhile the contributions of our generous donors are literally a Godsend, for, as the scanty resources of living which were in the city when captured have been gradually consumed, literal starvation stared us in the face. We are now relieved from any immediate fear of this calamity, and have at least respite until the present chaotic elements of our situation shall subside into order. Be it, therefore,

Resolved, That the citizens of Savannah tender their heartfelt gratitude to the Chamber of Commerce of New York, to the New York Commercial Association of the Produce Exchange, and all the liberal citizens of the city of New York, who contributed means to purchase provisions, and also to the New York and Washington Steamship Company, which so generously placed the steam-ship Rebecca Clyde at the service of the committee for the transportation of the provisions hither.

Resolved, That the same acknowledgment is due to the citizens of Boston for their prompt and liberal action in raising contributions and sending out provisions for the relief of our citizens, and also to the owners of the steam-ship Greyhound for their generosity in furnishing transportation for the provisions; and that the place of their meeting in Faneuil Hall, the cradle of American Liberty in the days of our common struggle for independence, was an appropriate one for the renewal of those ties which then bound Massachusetts and Georgia in a common bond. The eloquent and touching letter of the Boston Relief Committee to an unfortunate people is treasured for the children of many a family.

Resolved, That these expressions are not alone an offering from those whose necessities may induce them to accept the bounty so liberally bestowed, but are the wide utterance of a grateful community.

Resolved, That the thanks of the citizens of Savannah are eminently due, and are hereby gratefully returned, to Col. Julian Allen, of New York, for his kindness in offering to advance the funds and to make purchases for the corporate authorities of the city of Savannah, until he could be reimbursed by shipments of rice, and also for his philanthropic exertions in bringing to the notice of the citizens of New York and Boston the destitute condition of our people, of which he became personally cognizant while among us.

Resolved, That our most cordial thanks are due, and are hereby returned, to Messrs. Archibald Baxter, H. P. Babcock, and Frank Lathrop, the committee on the part of the New York contributors, and to Mr. L. E. Chittenden, and the other owners of the Rebecca Clyde; and to Messrs. H. O. Briggs, W. H. Baldwin, and Henry D. Hyde, committee on the part of the citizens of Boston, who at this inclement season of the year have sacrificed the comforts of home and braved the privations of a winter voyage to fulfill their mission of mercy, and also to Mr. Glidden, and the other owners of the steamer Greyhound, for her gratuitous use in conveying the provisions.

Resolved, That the citizens of Savannah heard with profound regret of the death of the Hon. Edward Everett. His name and fame are the common pride of the country, but the city of Savannah will claim to hold in especial remembrance the fact that the last public act of his life was in behalf of her suffering people, and under circumstances which evinced that the kindness of his heart was not even exceeded by the brilliancy of his intellect. They knew he was great, they feel he was good.

On motion of Mr. A. Wilbur, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That special copies of the proceedings of this meeting be forwarded to his honor the mayor; to the President of the United States; the president of the Chamber of Commerce of the city of New York; the president of the Produce Exchange of New York; to General W. T. Sherman; to Albert G. Browne, esq., Treasury agent; to Col. Julian Allen, of New York; to his honor the mayor of the city of Boston, and the president of the Board of Trade of Boston.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

R. D. ARNOLD,
Mayor of Savannah.
JOHN GAMMELL,
Secretary.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

January 30, 1865—11 a. m.

Major-General SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: My headquarters are out five miles from yours. I find the road excellent, for the most part high and sandy, very much like the road you traveled from Millen to Station No. 2. The road was obstructed about a mile ahead, and about four miles farther on the milldam (McTier's) was cut and the road said to be flooded. Just in my rear is the cross-road to McPhersonville. We have picked up about forty head of cattle; scarcely any forage, however. General Blair's corps is now going into camp.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

In the Field, S. C., January 30, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I have the honor to state that a party of rebels, some twenty in number, have been seen on the road between this place and Pocotaligo or Salkehatchie. One man was fired upon and his horse shot, and I fear an ambulance captured. If you send me any dispatches please send them well escorted. I shall patrol and picket well to the rear.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
In the Field, S. C., January 30, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi :

GENERAL: General Logan has gone into camp, his head of column being in McPhersonville. General Blair's escort in reconnoitering the country came upon some forty rebels at Tennant's Branch, drove them off and crossed the creek. The report I made to you concerning the breaking of the dam was a mistake. The rebels made an attempt to break it but failed. The rebels are reported in force at Broxton's Bridge (the next this side of Rivers' Post-Office Bridge), with some works beyond the Salkehatchie. Inclosed please find the Charleston Mercury for January 23, 1865.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, S. C., January 30, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Army of the Tennessee :

GENERAL: The general-in-chief desires me to say that he is waiting anxiously to hear from Major-General Slocum, in order that he may know that all is ready, and will then make orders for moving. General Slocum has orders to report his readiness. The general wishes you to hold your command in readiness and prepared to reach Hickory Hill Post-Office the next march; also to have General Blair reconnoiter, with a view of learning if there be a practicable road for communication and marching from McPhersonville to Robertsville. There are a lot of recruits, &c., here that will report to you to-night or in the morning. The general says if you have arms you may put them to duty, but if not and cannot make good use of them, you may return them to Beaufort if you wish. The general does not wish you to move beyond your present position until all are ready and orders made.

I am, general, with respect, &c.,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 30, 1865.

Capt. SAMUEL L. TAGGART,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee :

CAPTAIN: Inclosed please find recommendation concerning Captain Bedford. I like your General Orders, No. 5, except the last paragraph, to which I am afraid the War Department will make some objections.

It would have been better to have stopped with the word absence. I have, however, such confidence in you, captain, as to believe you will in no case exceed the authority necessary to the public service. I have recommended Captain Bedford to be mustered out of service, because he did not come straight to me, and I understand has intimated his wish to leave the service sooner than come in the field. From what I have heard, I presume General Meagher will be down with about 8,000 men belonging to our army. Please consult with General Foster as to a place for encamping them, and hold them ready to join me at the first opportunity. Ask General Meagher to look particularly as to completeness in equipment, discipline, and drill. Please write me a note whenever you send any papers, communicating with me freely and confidentially as you choose.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

[Inclosure.]

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 29, 1865.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to recommend that Capt. Wimer Bedford, assistant adjutant-general, be mustered out of the U. S. service. Captain Bedford has done his duty well, but now, I understand, prefers some other than field service. There is no necessity for his services in my adjutant's office, except in the field.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

GENERAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 7.	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE, In the Field, S. C., January 30, 1865.
--------------------------------------	--

Corps commanders will issue stringent orders with reference to foraging during the campaign, a copy of which will be sent to these headquarters, limiting the number of foragers and reporting daily the name of the officer in charge of the foraging party of each brigade, who will be held strictly accountable for all abuses of his authority or improper conduct of the men under his command. All firing by foraging parties other than that against the enemy must be prohibited, as it would be impossible to determine whether it was occasioned by skirmishing with the enemy or the shooting of hogs, cattle, &c.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., January 30, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: A man just reports that the rebels are on our road in the rear near the forks of the road leading to McPhersonville; they captured a wagon and killed the horse of this man; they are dressed in our uniform. I have sent General Smith's mounted men after them. My understanding was that John E. Smith's division was at McPhersonville; he certainly cannot be, or the rebels could not be on this road

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

In the Field, January 30, 1865.

[Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:]

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say that General Logan's headquarters are at McPhersonville. Several communications have been received from there this afternoon. He suggests that these depredations may have been committed by some of our own men.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, S. C., January 30, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE.

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: General Force reports that he sent two regiments to the Salkehatchie, which they succeeded in reaching by wading through a swamp four feet deep. They built fires and chopped timber, making as much noise as possible to attract the enemy's attention, but failed to see any of them.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

January 30, 1865.

Lieut. Col. WILLIAM E. STRONG,

Assistant Inspector-General and Chief of Staff:

COLONEL: General Blair requests me to give you the result of the reconnaissance sent to McTier's Mill, about three miles in advance of our present position. The advance (cavalry) first struck the enemy about half a mile this side of the mill, and drove them without any trouble beyond the stream and swamp. As near as I could determine from information given by citizens there were less than 100 rebels all told; we did not see more than twenty or thirty. There has been a force of about 100 encamped near that place for some time, consisting of three companies of South Carolina cavalry and one company of Wheeler's scouts, under Captains Smart, Lowry, and Campbell; all under Colonel Colcock. They were under orders to cross the river at Broxton's Bridge, about twenty miles above this point, and move down the river toward Salkehatchie bridge, whenever we attempted to cross at that point. This citizen is now under the impression they will cross at this bridge and attempt to hold it. They had two pieces of artillery with them, but it was sent away some days ago. He has not heard of any infantry on this side of the river; thinks Wheeler is over to our front and left. He says they all talked as though they expected us to cross the river and attack Charleston. A small bridge across the creek was burned, but will be repaired before morning. We have two regiments out there to hold the position. The general sent two regiments to make a demonstration at the river, but we have not received any report from them yet.

A. HICKENLOOPER,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Inspector-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
January 30, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: Major-General Blair directs that you picket well down the road leading to the Salkehatchie River, a short distance beyond your camp. About twenty rebels are lurking round the forks of that road and you may be able to catch some of them in the morning.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 23. } In the Field, S. C., January 30, 1865.
* * * * *

III. This command will move forward at — o'clock to-morrow in the following order: First, First Brigade; second, Battery Fifteenth Ohio; third, Second Brigade; ambulances and trains in usual order.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 10. } In the Field, January 30, 1865.

I. During the present campaign all orders regulating the march from Atlanta to Savannah, Ga., will remain in force. Foraging parties will be at once organized by brigade commanders, but greater precaution will be necessary for their safety. They will receive their instructions each morning from brigade commanders, to whom they must report on their return at night with their whole number of men. Rations will be issued in proportion to the amount brought in by the foragers.

II. The idea that the people of South Carolina are any different or any more hostile to our Government than those of any other State is, I have no doubt, by this time dispelled. We find here about the same class of people as in Georgia, and I am sure all good soldiers who have wives, sisters, and mothers at home will leave a fair share of provisions for their maintenance.

III. The firing of guns must at once be stopped. A general court-martial will be convened and will be called together nightly, or as often as necessary, and men found firing guns, straggling, entering houses, pillaging, or committing any other misdemeanors will be summarily punished. The importance of carefully husbanding our rations cannot be too strongly impressed upon the minds of all. Better to go a little short all the time than be entirely without at the close. All orders issued on the march in which the troops are interested should be read, either at halts or, which is preferable, before starting on the morning after their reception.

By order of Brig. Gen. Giles A. Smith:

AD. WARE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Robertsville, S. C., January 30, 1865.

Brig. Gen. N. J. JACKSON:

The major-general commanding the corps directs that you send at daylight to-morrow morning the whole of Colonel Selfridge's brigade to assist in repairing the road from the upper landing, on the Savannah River, to the bridge (along the river).

* * * * *

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }	HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
No. 2. }	DEPT. OF THE SOUTH, 1ST SEP. BRIG.,
	Morris Island, S. C., January 30, 1865.

Brigadier-general commanding thanks Capt. John A. Hennessy, Fifty-second Pennsylvania Volunteers, and the officers and men of his command for their energetic and efficient service in Charleston Harbor during the past two months. The brigadier-general especially commends the bold and spirited enterprise of the night of January 19, by which rebel steamer was driven aground near Fort Sumter, in a position which enabled our batteries to destroy her.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Capt., 21st U. S. Colored Troops and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Savannah, Ga., January 30, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,

Commanding District of Savannah, Department of the South:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to state that he desires the recruiting of negroes in this city to be vigorously pushed forward, and that you offer every facility to Brevet Brigadier-General Littlefield, general superintendent volunteer recruiting service of the department, in the establishment of recruiting offices here for that purpose. General Littlefield has been instructed to take no men from any of the departments of the army, those connected with the fire department of this city, nor those now engaged in the forwarding of supplies for General Sherman's army, left behind by him; but he is not to refuse to receive any who present themselves and desire to be enlisted. If any trouble arises from men so presenting themselves for enlistment, in consequence of their services being required in the department where employed, their places must be supplied by able-bodied negroes who are now in the city, apparently idle. If necessary these men must be pressed into the service as laborers, &c.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant.

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Savannah, Ga., January 30, 1865.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. M. S. LITTLEFIELD,
General Superintendent Volunteer Recruiting Service, Department of the South, Savannah, Ga. :

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to state that, having come to this city on his verbal orders for the purpose of enlisting negroes for the new regiments now being organized in this department, you will limit the enlistment somewhat until the supplies for Major-General Sherman's army, left behind by him, are all forwarded, merely making preliminary arrangements for the purpose of opening recruiting offices in the city, when the enlistments will be vigorously pushed forward. You have authority to go so far at present as to enlist all able-bodied negroes that are not in the employ of any of the departments of the army or connected with the fire department of this city. You are not, however, to refuse any who come forward and request to be enlisted.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Savannah, Ga., January 30, 1865.

Brig. Gen. I. N. PALMER,
Commanding District of North Carolina, New Berne, N. C. :

GENERAL: Major-General Schofield, with the whole of the Twenty-third Corps, has been ordered east from Tennessee to operate in North Carolina, and is now on his way to Beaufort, N. C. His force consists of 21,000 effectives; you will at once prepare to receive them. General Schofield while operating in North Carolina is to have command of all the troops in that State. His operations will be directed up the railroad toward Goldsborough and Raleigh, and also probably toward Wilmington. I wish you to have as full and complete information as you can procure in respect to the enemy's force, condition of the roads toward Goldsborough, and the best way to get possession of the railroad without affording the enemy a chance to destroy it. A construction corps, under General McCallum, will be ordered from here to put the railroad in perfect order, to change the gauge to five feet, and to supply it with locomotives and cars. It will be necessary for you to have all your force ready to take the field immediately on General Schofield's arrival. I send fuller instructions for General Schofield, which I desire you will deliver as soon as you arrive at Beaufort.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Savannah, Ga., January 30, 1865.

COMMANDING GENERAL U. S. FORCES,
Mouth of Cape Fear River, N. C. :

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that Major-General Schofield, with the whole of the Twenty-third Corps, has been ordered east from Tennessee, and is now on his way for Beaufort, N. C. He will operate in North Carolina. This is to inform you of this fact, and that Major-General Schofield is to have command of all the forces in North Carolina, operating in connection with General Sherman's movements, and in obedience to his orders. Until such times as you receive orders from General Schofield you will act upon your present orders, and in case any new circumstances arise to vary them you will act according to your best judgment.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General of Volunteers, Comdg. Department of the South.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Savannah, Ga., January 30, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN M. SCHOFIELD,
Commanding Twenty-third Army Corps :

GENERAL: I have the honor to inclose to you a copy of a letter of instruction from Major-General Sherman to me.* By it you will see that you are to operate in North Carolina, in connection with the movements of General Sherman through South Carolina, and to be prepared to receive him at Goldsborough, N. C., having the railroad from Beaufort up in perfect order, so that his army may be quickly supplied while operating in North Carolina. You are to have command of all the troops in the State. These include General Palmer's forces, originally in the District of North Carolina, and General Terry's force, at the mouth of Cape Fear River. General Palmer has been ordered to prepare for the reception of your force, and to obtain all the necessary information respecting the enemy's force, the condition of the roads toward Goldsborough and the best way to get possession of the railroad without giving the enemy a chance to destroy it. When I marched to Goldsborough to destroy the railroad there in December, 1863 [1862], my force consisted of 12,000 men, and I succeeded in accomplishing the object against superior forces by deceiving the enemy as to the route. I marched about half the way to Kinston upon the direct road, then throwing forward a cavalry force directly toward Kinston to conceal the movement, I struck off to the left, and succeeded in reaching the passage of the Southwest Creek, at what is called the fourth crossing, before the enemy could concentrate to oppose it. Southwest Creek has four crossings, one between the main road and the mouth of the creek. The creek here has firm banks, and is favorable for throwing a bridge across and forcing a passage. The second crossing is where the main road to Kinston crosses, and is very unfavorable, as the enemy can hold the narrow causeway, which is a milldam, along which the road passes, with a comparatively small force. In forcing a passage in this vicinity the crossing should be made below the dam, between that and the mouth of the creek. The crossings, three and four, higher up the stream, are more unfavorable, unless secured by surprise, on account of the marshy nature of the banks on one side or the other.

---

* See 29th, p. 163.

We fought the battle of Kinston between the creek and the river, and pursued so rapidly after breaking the enemy as to secure the bridge crossing the river into the town of Kinston. I then made a feint to advance up the road to Goldsborough, on the north side of the river. This, however, is a difficult route to take if the enemy be in strong force, as the road crosses three or four creeks, behind which the enemy had, even at that time, provided strong defenses. After feinting, therefore, toward Goldsborough, on the north side, I recrossed the bridge and advanced rapidly up the south bank. The road here is higher, sandier, and altogether better than that on the north bank. There are no bridges on the river until between Kinston and Goldsborough, and only one ford at extreme low water a few miles below White Hall. There are no defiles on the road that cannot readily be forced. The country is open and good. Upon arriving at Goldsborough the river can be crossed either on the railroad bridge, to be in possession of the town, or by the country bridge, which is about half a mile above the railroad bridge. I have ascertained since that time the enemy have erected stronger works at Kinston, and they may also have erected works to defend the bridges at Goldsborough. Both, however, can be turned by taking a more circuitous march in attacking either place. The railroad bridge at Kinston was partially destroyed by the rebels, and about two miles and a half of the railroad between it and Core Creek was taken up. The bridge at Core Creek was destroyed by our troops, but General Palmer ought to be able to rebuild it by the time you get there. General McCallum, with a corps of several hundred railroad constructionists, has been ordered to North Carolina to put the road from Beaufort to Goldsborough in perfect repair, to change the gauge to five feet, and to provide new locomotives and cars. While engaged in this work he must have the whole control of the management of the road and of the shops from which he will have to depend for the necessary repairs. If General McCallum be absent, Colonel Wright, his assistant, will exercise a like control, under your orders. The object is to have the road repaired and fitted in every respect, so as to convey rapidly sufficient supplies to Goldsborough for General Sherman's army when it arrives there. The extension will eventually be made to Raleigh, also toward Wilmington and Weldon.

General Sherman expects you to get possession of the railroad to Goldsborough as soon as possible, and have its reconstruction commenced and completed. If you cannot occupy the whole road, by reason of the enemy's strength, you must occupy as high up as possible—at any rate, to get possession of it as far as Kinston. If the enemy's force has moved down in South Carolina to meet General Sherman you will not follow, but take advantage of the opportunity afforded to seize both Raleigh and Wilmington. General Sherman has moved to-day from Pocotaligo with the Right Wing of his army. The Left Wing also marches to-day from the vicinity of Sister's Ferry, on the Savannah River. His army is as strong in every way and in as good spirits as when it left Savannah. He will move toward Columbia, turning Branchville, and cut all the railroad around about Columbia and Camden. He may or may not attack Branchville. After devastating the State as much as he intends he will strike for Goldsborough or Raleigh if you succeed in getting them. I hardly think he will come in at Wilmington, although circumstances may induce him to do so. He may also possibly touch sea coast at Georgetown before going into North Carolina. He will probably be at Goldsborough or in communication with you between the 5th and 15th of March. While he is moving in the interior I shall operate with all the movable force that I have along the coast in the form of demonstrations, and if the enemy are fools enough to leave any point unguarded we hope to be wise enough to profit by it. My force, however, is very small, only 15,000 effectives, nearly all of which is absorbed in garrisons. I can only move a small division of 3,000 men, under Brigadier-General Hatch, in his co operating movements along the coast. I send Major Anderson, of my staff, who will explain to you any details that I have omitted to write with respect to your movements, my own force, General Sherman's intended movements, and my own.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,

Major-General of Volunteers, Comdg. Department of the South.

---

BROOKLYN, N. Y., January 30, 1865.

(Received 10 a. m.)

Major-General HALLECK:

Your dispatch of yesterday came too late for reply by mail. I wished to say that the board I am on has nothing to do now, as Ames' guns will not be ready for some weeks. I would like to be relieved from it for more important duty.

Q. A. GILLMORE,

Major-General.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 30, 1865—11.50 a. m.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,

Brooklyn, N. Y.:

The Secretary of War directs that you repair to Hilton Head and relieve General Foster in command of the Department of the South. General Foster has a leave of absence.

H. W. HALLECK,

Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

BROOKLYN, N. Y., January 30, 1865.

(Received 2.46 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK:

Your dispatch ordering me to the Department of the South is received.

Q. A. GILLMORE,

Major-General.

CITY POINT, VA., January 31, 1865—7 a. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington:

Please inform General Schofield that since my absence Mahone's division, about 5,000 strong, has gone south. My opinion is, however, they will not stop at Wilmington. It is important that Schofield should move without delay.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., January 31, 1865—11.30 a. m.

(Received 1.20 p. m.)

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

Please constitute North Carolina a department for present purposes, Major-General Schofield in command, subject to Sherman's orders. It is impossible for Foster to give orders from Hilton Head as well as I can from here. I will give General Schofield all his orders and instructions until Sherman gets in reach of him.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

WASHINGTON, January 31, 1865—5.30 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,
City Point:

The Department of North Carolina, with Schofield in command, has been ordered as you requested.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

GENERAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
 No. 12. } Washington, January 31, 1865.

The Military Department of North Carolina is hereby constituted to consist of the State of North Carolina, which is detached from the Department of the South. Major-General Schofield is assigned to the command. The department will, until further instructions, be subject to the orders and control of Major-General Sherman.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
 No. 49. } Washington, January 31, 1865.

* * * * *

47. The telegraphic order of January 30, 1865, from this Department, directing Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore, U. S. Volunteers, to repair to Hilton Head, S. C., and relieve Major-General Foster, U. S. Volunteers, in command of the Department of the South, is hereby confirmed.

* * * * *

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington City, January 31, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN, Savannah, Ga.:

GENERAL: The arrival of your army on the Atlantic coast increases very considerably the water transportation required of this department, and in view of this fact I beg to suggest that your chief quartermaster be reminded of the importance of ordering to New York all sea steamers at the earliest moment they can be spared. I am satisfied that vessels are detained at different points, unloading and from other causes, longer than they should be. I would also respectfully call your attention to the great saving that could be made on freights if a reasonable notice could be given to the department of the stores required to be shipped. The commissary department should give thirty days' notice of the amount of subsistence stores required for your army, when they could be sent in sailing vessels at half the expense. At present nearly every requisition is accompanied by an urgent request that the stores or troops be sent forward with the utmost dispatch, when, of course, steamers have to be employed. Very large coastwise movements of troops during the past month and at the present time absorb nearly every sea-going steamer of the Northern ports. No sooner is a steamer built by private enterprise for a particular line than, under urgent demand, it is taken up by the Quartermaster's Department.

As an instance of the great expenditures arising from these sudden movements I refer to the steamer Monterey, which was ordered to the Department of the South with cargo of commissary stores. She is of 1,030 tons burden, and was absent over fifty days at an expense of about $25,000, besides the cost of the coal she consumed. She lay many days idle in the harbors and rivers of the coast of South Carolina and Georgia, made one or two trips from Savannah to Beaufort with wagons and ambulances, and cost the United States for her service some $25,000. Every idle day cost $463.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster and Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, January 31, 1865.

General HOWARD:

General Slocum has not yet reported. I don't see how any of the enemy can be to your rear. If so, they should be caught; for there is no escape for them except into swamps, where our men can follow on foot. The commanding officer at Coosawhatchie says negroes just from Barnwell report that our troops engaged the enemy over about Lawtonville and were driving them rapidly beyond. We will start to-morrow, anyhow.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
In the Field, January 31, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN, Comdg. Mil. Div. of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: General Force has been continuing a reconnaissance with two regiments to my right rear, along the Salkehatchie. By cutting trees and other demonstrations he has succeeded in drawing the fire of a rebel battery, which will account for the occasional firing. General Logan finds his road badly obstructed. He has cleared out about five miles of it to-day. He finds a road leading to the left from Brailsfordville, but it is swampy and bad. A road to the left of General Blair's front has a bridge destroyed. I have concluded to keep the detachment of recruits, mostly for Kilpatrick, though but few of them have arms. I will use them for fatigue duty, clearing away obstructions, &c.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

GENERAL FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 8. } In the Field, S. C., January 31, 1865.

General Orders, No. 4, dated from headquarters at Beaufort, S. C., January 24, 1865, was issued under a misapprehension of the wishes of the commanding general. While he entertains a high regard for the young men to whom the medals of honor are awarded, and believes they deserve substantial reward, yet, as there is no established method of extending the same principle of distribution from his own headquarters to the entire army, the said order is suspended until the matter has been further considered.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
FIELD ORDERS, } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 27. } In the Field, January 31, 1865.

I. The following will be the order of march to-morrow, commencing at 7 a. m.: The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. J. A. Logan commanding, will march to Hickory Hill Post-Office, the head of his column reaching to the intersection of the road leading to Whippy Swamp Post-Office. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will move along the Salkehatchie road, crossing Whippy Swamp with at least one division. The wagon train of these headquarters will follow the leading division of General Blair's corps. The bridge train will follow the division second in column of General Blair's corps. In case anything should interrupt communication with Major-General Logan's command, he will endeavor to reach Angley's Post-Office in the next day's march, to which there are two routes open to him, one by the way of Whippy Swamp Post-Office and the Whippy Swamp road, the other by the Coosawhatchie Swamp road and the road leading from Duck Branch Post-Office to Angley's Post-Office.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 22. } McPhersonville, S. C., January 31, 1865.

* * * * *

V. The march will be resumed by this division in the direction of Hickory Hill Post-Office at 7 a. m. to-morrow, February 1, the Second Brigade having the advance. Brevet Brigadier-General Woods (whose brigade marches in rear) will detail a rear guard and escort for the trains as required by Special Orders, No. 20, January 29, from these headquarters. Lieutenant MacCahill will move five of his ordnance wagons immediately in rear of the troops, four to be loaded with infantry ammunition, the remaining one with artillery.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. Woods:

FRED. H. WILSON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., January 31, 1865.

Brig. Gen. WILLIAM T. CLARK,
Commanding First Brigade:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that you hold one regiment infantry in readiness to move, at a moment's notice, out on road with pioneer corps, under direction of Captain Klostermann, chief engineer Fifteenth Army Corps.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
S. M. BUDLONG,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., THIRD DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
Near McPhersonville, S. C., January 31, 1865.

Capt. S. M. BUDLONG,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report the arrival of Colonel Tourtelotte, in charge of all transportation, detachments, &c., left at Beaufort, S. C.

I am, very respectfully, &c.,
WM. T. CLARK,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
In the Field, January 31, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR, Jr.,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Some recruits belonging to the cavalry, Twentieth and Fourteenth Corps, have just arrived. I will assign officers to command them, and wish you would assign them to one of your divisions until we can turn them over to their respective commands. You can draw on them for fatigue duty, &c.

Respectfully,
O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 28. } In the Field, S. C., January 31, 1865.

* * * * *

III. The following are the orders for the movement to-morrow: First. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move in advance, starting at 7 a. m. Second. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will move his command forward at 7 a. m. on the direct road. Third. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will follow General Mower, being prepared to move at 8 o'clock. Fourth. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will follow General Force, being prepared to move at 9 o'clock. Fifth. The bridge train will move in rear of the Third Division. Sixth. The train of these headquarters and of department headquarters will follow the First Division.

IV. The train of the Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will until further orders move with the train of the First Division.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
January 31, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that I took at noon two regiments to make a demonstration before the rebel works guarding the crossing at the burnt pontoons. The work appears to stand nearly 700 yards beyond the river. The space between it and the river, and for 100 yards on this side, has been cleared by felling timber. Going in advance with a staff officer and half a dozen of the Twentieth Illinois into this open space we drew their fire, and found they had one gun and apparently less than 100 men. I then pushed forward two companies of sharpshooters (one each from Sixteenth and Seventeenth Wisconsin) to the bank of the river. The rebels promptly re-enforced the fort with another gun and a regiment with its colors. Silencing their fire, I set forty axmen to work felling large trees on the edge of the open space, but out of sight of the work. At the sound of the axes the rebels opened again with their two guns and extended their musketry farther down the river. Their aim, however, was made uncertain by our skirmish fire. At 3.30 I recalled the skirmishers and sent them and the axmen back to camp, as they had to wade up to their hips to get to the river. The regiments meanwhile, remaining on the bank in an open field, nearly a mile from the river, had made two piles of rails in lines to represent a division camp in two lines. I sent a company down to the river to prevent the rebels from crossing over and learning the deception. I then returned to camp at sunset, leaving instructions to light the fires at dark, to move back to camp at 6.30, and as the troops move to sound tattoo with bugles and field music disposed along the lines so as to represent the position of such music in a division camp. I left Captain Adams of my staff with the two regiments. No one was hurt.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
M. F. FORCE,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Division.

HEADQUARTERS MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Pocotaligo, January 31, 1865—9 a. m.

Major-General SLOCUM,
Sister's Ferry:

Howard moves Wednesday morning via Hickory Hill and Rivers' Bridge. Communicate with me at Hickory Hill and follow as rapidly as possible by the old Orangeburg road, by Lawtonville, Duck Branch Post-Office, and Buford's Bridge. Let Kilpatrick's cavalry keep on your left front. I have not heard of your crossing the Savannah yet, but negroes report you pushing the enemy through Lawtonville. Make the most possible of this fine weather.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Robertsville, S. C., January 31, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: My command, excepting Geary's division with the Fourteenth Corps, arrived at this place day before yesterday. Your dispatch was received the same night, and by much effort I got it through to General Slocum, who happened to be at the bluff on the river five miles below. I found the road from this to the river under water from one to three feet deep for one mile and a half, with four bridges gone. The point where the road from the Georgia side reaches the river is about three miles below the point where the road from this side strikes the river, and from that down the road is through low ground, now overflowed the whole distance, and for three-eighths of a mile at least four to six feet deep. The pontoon bridge is laid below, and parties on both ends are at work on the road. It cannot be made passable, in the opinion of General Slocum, within four days. The river is under a second freshet, which has been very high, but is subsiding. I was at General Slocum's headquarters yesterday. All the troops had reached the high ground on the south side of the river in good condition, and the transports were up with abundant supplies.

I found a portion of Wheeler's cavalry here, but drove them out without difficulty. Prisoners and deserters report that he has three divisions near us, above, with his headquarters at Lawtonville. I attempted to communicate with you on Sunday, but my messenger could not get through.

This dispatch is sent at the instance of General Slocum.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Robertsville, S. C., January 31, 1865.

The indiscriminate pillage of houses is disgraceful and demoralizing to this army. The houses in this vicinity, of free negroes even, have been stripped of the necessary bedclothes and of family apparel. Brigade commanders will at once take measures to put a stop to these infamous practices. No foraging or other parties will be permitted to leave camp, except in charge of a commissioned officer, who will be held responsible for the good conduct of the men under his charge.

To secure the observance of this order the regular daily company roll calls will be rigidly enforced and every man absent without permission will be reported through regimental and brigade commanders to division commanders, and will be placed in arrest by his regimental commander for punishment. No department staff officer will permit an enlisted man or employé in his department to leave camp without a pass countersigned by the brigade or division commander. All stragglers without written permits will be turned over to the provost-marshal for immediate punishment.

The brevet major-general commanding the corps expects the hearty co-operation of all officers to put a stop to practices disgraceful to our arms and shocking to humanity.

This order will be communicated not only to the troops of the line, but all quartermasters, commissaries, ordnance, ambulance, and all other officers, and to all men under their charge, whether civilians or enlisted men, and they will be held responsible that not a man of their commands leaves camp without the permits of their respective military commanders.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, January 31, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER,

Chosachatchie:

SIR: I send you four cipher dispatches* for General Slocum. Send one via Purysburg, another by some other route, and keep two, one of which to be sent back to him by the first courier who comes from him, and the last by another who may follow. Slocum should now be at Robertsville. His troops left Savannah on the 25th, and two divisions were then on this side, at Purysburg. I may move to-morrow for Hickory Hill Post-Office.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Hilton Head, S. C., January 31, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that I have just returned from Savannah, where I saw an officer just from Sister's Ferry and obtained from him the following report:

The bridge across the Savannah River at Sister's Ferry was completed on the night of the 30th and a few men crossed over it. A new approach had to be made, the old approach having been much washed by the water, and the causeway filled with torpedoes. On the north side of the river the marsh extended for a mile and three-quarters, which will have to be corduroyed. This General Slocum expected to accomplish to-day, and hoped to be able to cross General Kilpatrick's cavalry to the north side to-morrow (February 1). He had communicated with General Williams on the 30th instant in the direction of Robertsville, and obtained the report that the enemy was in slight force in that direction, only small bodies of Wheeler's cavalry being encountered. General Slocum had encountered on the south side of the river only Iverson's brigade of cavalry. General Slocum proposed to advance to-morrow, Kilpatrick's cavalry leading, provided the causeway on the north side of the marsh could be completed in time. I learned that the supplies were reaching Sister's Ferry, but, owing to bad management somewhere, rather slowly. General Easton complains that it is owing to his lack of boats. I immediately sent the Naushon, and also gave him the Golden Gate, although at serious inconvenience. Brevet Major Gouraud has just returned from North Carolina. He met Generals Grant, Schofield, and Rawlins at Morehead City. None of General Schofield's corps had yet arrived. Several hundred of the construction corps had arrived. I shall also, in obedience to your orders, send forward the construction corps from here immediately. I will also carry out your directions with regard to demonstrations as completely as possible. I do not propose to withdraw any of General Hatch's command at present, but to send the Fifty-fifth Massachusetts Volunteers and a few hundred men from this place under General Potter to do all he can in demonstrations toward the railroad, and also, finally, to advance on James Island. I send also a paper of the 26th instant, one of the latest received. General Hatch will give any details I may have omitted to write.

* See Sherman to Slocum, p. 184.

Very respectfully, yours,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General of Volunteers.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 31, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division, &c.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to present for your consideration the orders and instructions received from the War Department with respect to the colored recruiting rendezvous in this department, and to ask respectfully that you may change paragraph 5, Special Field Orders, No. 15, current series, &c., so as to leave the duties of enlistments and organization of negro troops as they were established by the above orders and instructions. The reasons for the above are as follows:

First. The orders from the War Department, copies of which are inclosed, from Nos. 1 to 6,* show that Brevet Brigadier-General Littlefield is regularly appointed as general superintendent of volunteer recruiting service for this department, and has his rendezvous established at Hilton Head, in accordance with above orders from the War Department.

Second. That by said orders and by the letter of Major-General Halleck, of December 21, 1864, a copy of which is inclosed,* the power is conferred upon me to organize all the colored men in the department into regiments, and to appoint their officers for confirmation by the President, and to have them carefully drilled and exercised.

---

* Omitted.

Third. Acting under your Special Field Orders, No. 15, Brevet Major-General Saxton has assumed control of all the recruiting, and is disposed to question the power delegated to me by the above orders. He has taken action in the calling of a mass-meeting of the colored men in Savannah antagonistic to the wishes that I understood you to express with regard to delaying such action until after all the quartermaster's and commissary's work necessary to the forwarding of your supplies had been completed. By haranguing said meeting, in company with the Rev. Mr. French, and informing the blacks that he intended establishing a camp of instruction for negro regiments in Savannah, he has tended to produce confusion, excitement, and an erroneous impression upon the colored people and upon the white inhabitants of the city which is prejudicial to the good order and well-being of the city. General Grover objects to it as tending to confusion and affording opportunities, under cover of which incendiary attempts of secret spies may be made.

In addition to the above, General Saxton, also in opposition to General Grover's wishes, has appointed another mass-meeting of the negroes in Savannah on Thursday next. One consequence of this ill-judged action on General Saxton's part is, that the negroes generally prefer idleness to either work or enlisting, and only about 450 recruits have presented themselves thus far. It is reported that in private conversation General Saxton expressed a determination to carry out fully his ill-judged course, and that he could have the head cut off of any officer who opposed him. I would earnestly and respectfully urge upon the major-general commanding, the necessity of changing paragraph 5 in Special Field Orders, No. 15, by omitting the last sentence, so as to leave the whole subject of recruiting where it was placed by the orders and instructions inclosed.

I cannot avoid expressing the conviction that this course is absolutely necessary to prevent serious interference on the part of General Saxton with the duties and prerogatives both of myself and the general officers under me.

Again earnestly soliciting your favorable attention to the above request, at your earliest convenience,

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. G. FOSTER,

Major-General, Commanding Department of the South.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 31, 1865.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. M. S. LITTLEFIELD,
Commanding Hilton Head District :

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you will order 300 men of the One hundred and forty-fourth New York Volunteers to be in readiness to embark at a moment's notice with ten days' rations, blankets, overcoats, and sixty rounds of ammunition on the person of each soldier, and forty rounds extra in cartridge-boxes.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., January 31, 1865.

Lieut. Col. CHARLES B. FOX,

Commanding Fifty-fifth Massachusetts Vols., Fort Jackson:

COLONEL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to state that a steamer will be sent for your entire command to-morrow. You will have your command in readiness to embark without delay. You are to proceed to Morris Island and will be required to participate at once in active operations.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 31, 1865.

Col. C. H. VAN WYCK,

Commanding First Brigade:

COLONEL: You will break up camp and move within the intrenchments near General Sherman's headquarters this morning. The left regiment will rest near the road leading to Barnwell, the right regiment at a point designated this morning. You will picket the road leading toward Barnwell, the railroad, and the high ground near the right regiment. You will establish your headquarters at General Sherman's headquarters.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 31, 1865.

Maj. M. F. WEBSTER,

Commanding Battalion Fourth Massachusetts Cavalry:

MAJOR: You will establish your camp near the Pocotaligo railroad station.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., January 31, 1865.

Lieut. E. H. TITUS:

LIEUTENANT: You will establish the camp of your battery at the intrenchments made by General Sherman's army, between Colonel Hallowell's present headquarters, near Pocotaligo.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Savannah, Ga., January 31, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,

Commanding District of Savannah, Department of the South:

GENERAL: In order to carry out the orders of the War Department of December 29, 1864, a copy of which will be sent you from Hilton Head, I desire that you make arrangements to send beyond the lines the families of rebel officers and soldiers now in this city. You will actually commence to send them as soon as you can make it convenient to do so and a proper understanding has been had as to where they may be delivered. I shall write to General Hardee and request his decision upon the latter point. I shall suggest to him some point on the Savannah River, near Sister's Ferry, or as high up as the boats can go with safety.

You will also make arrangements to send over the lines, whenever it becomes necessary, any person who by word or act displays a treasonable disposition or any intention to insult the officers, soldiers, or the Government of the United States. I prefer in all cases, after making arrangements for sending parties beyond the lines, that before actually doing so you submit for my approval a list of all such persons, with the reasons for their being sent beyond the lines. These reasons should be stated in full, so that the papers and files of my office shall give a complete history of the whole transaction.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,

Major-General, Commanding.

---

CITY POINT, VA., January 31, 1865.

Major-General HALLECK,

Washington:

Please inform me when General Schofield will leave Washington. I want to send his instructions to Fort Monroe by a staff officer to deliver them as the general passes.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 31, 1865—8.30 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,

City Point:

General Schofield will leave with first detachment from Alexandria. We shall attempt to open passage to-morrow. Will telegraph in time to have dispatches reach Schofield at Fort Monroe.

H. W. HALLECK,

Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

CITY POINT, VA., January 31, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Commanding Army of the Ohio:

I have requested by telegraph that for present purposes North Carolina be erected into a department, and that you be placed in command of it, subject to Major-General Sherman's orders. Of course you will receive orders from me direct until such time as General Sherman gets within communicating distance of you. This obviates the necessity of my publishing the order which I informed you would meet you at Fortress Monroe. If the order referred to should not be published from the Adjutant-General's Office, you will regard these instructions as your authority to assume command of all the troops in North Carolina, dating all official communications "Headquarters Army of the Ohio." Your headquarters will be in the field and with the portion of the army where you feel yourself most needed. In the first move you will go to Cape Fear River. Your movements are intended as co-operative with Sherman through the States of South and North Carolina. The first point to be attained is to secure Wilmington. Goldsborough will then be your objective point, moving either from Wilmington or New Berne, or both, as you deem best. Should you not be able to reach Goldsborough, you will advance on the line or lines of railway connecting that place with the sea coast, as near to it as you can, building the road behind you.

The enterprise under you has two objects. The first is to give General Sherman material aid, if needed, in his march north; the second, to open a base of supplies for him on his line of march. As soon, therefore, as you can determine which of the two points, Wilmington or New Berne, you can best use for throwing supplies from, to the interior, you will commence the accumulation of twenty days' rations and forage for 60,000 men and 20,000 animals. You will get of these as many as you can house and protect to such point in the interior as you may be able to occupy. I believe General Palmer has received some instructions directly from General Sherman on the subject of securing supplies for his army. You can learn what steps he has taken and be governed in your requisitions accordingly. A supply of ordnance stores will also be necessary. Make all of your requisitions upon the chiefs of their respective departments in the field with me at City Point. Communicate with me by every opportunity, and, should you deem it necessary at any time, send a special boat to Fortress Monroe, from which point you can communicate by telegraph. The supplies referred to in these instructions are exclusive of those required by your own command. The movements of the enemy may justify you, or even make it your imperative duty, to cut loose from your base and strike for the interior to aid Sherman. In such case you will act on your own judgment, without waiting for instructions. You will report, however, what you propose doing. The details for carrying out these instructions are necessarily left to you. I would urge, however, if I did not know that you are already fully alive to the importance of it, prompt action. Sherman may be looked for in the neighborhood of Goldsborough any time from the 22d to the 28th of February. This limits your time very materially. If rolling-stock is not secured in the capture of Wilmington it can be supplied from Washington. A large force of railroad men have already been sent to Beaufort, and other mechanics will go to Fort Fisher in a day or two. On this point I have informed you by telegraph.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., January 31, 1865—11.30 a. m.

(Received 1.20 p. m.)

Major-General SCHOFIELD, Washington:

There are about 5,000 troops here belonging to Terry's command, which will be forwarded as rapidly as possible. Mechanics have already gone to Beaufort. They can be transferred to Fort Fisher if you deem it advisable. A pile driver will leave Annapolis on Thursday for Fort Fisher, with a sufficient force to work it. The pontoon train left here on Sunday.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Washington, D. C., January 31, 1865—1.20 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT, City Point, Va.:

I have received your dispatch of 10 a. m. to the Secretary of War.* General Rucker thinks it will be impossible to get out of the Potomac before Friday or Saturday, but will try to break the ice to-morrow. General Meagher's detachment, about 5,500 strong, is ordered to Annapolis, where there will be transports enough for it. I propose to send all of General Meagher's troops to New Berne and take the Twenty-third Corps to Cape Fear River. Meagher will probably get down first, but will, I presume, not be strong enough for the move against Wilmington. Please inform me if you approve of this arrangement.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

CITY POINT, VA., January 31, 1865—7 p. m.

(Received 7.50 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. J. M. SCHOFIELD, Washington, D. C.:

The arrangement you have made to send Meagher's command to New Berne is satisfactory.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 16. }

HDQRS. ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Washington, D. C., January 31, 1865.

* * * * *

III. The One hundred and eightieth Ohio Infantry is hereby assigned to the First Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, and the commanding officer will report for orders to Brig. Gen. Thomas H. Ruger commanding.

IV. The Twenty-eighth Michigan Infantry is hereby assigned to the First Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, and the commanding officer will report for orders to Brig. Gen. Thomas H. Ruger commanding.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

* See Grant to Stanton, 7 a. m., p. 179.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 31, 1865.

Major-General AUGUR:

Send General Meagher's division to Annapolis to embark for Fort Fisher, calling at Fort Monroe to inquire for orders from General Grant.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

BENWOOD, January 31, 1865.

(Received 5.10 p. m.)

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War:

The last car is loaded and on the way over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. I am just leaving for Washington. There is not a word of truth in any report relative to the freezing of soldiers in Ohio, as far as the Twenty-third Army Corps is concerned. If at all it only applies to some 2,000 or 3,000 arriving some days after from Nashville and going to New York via Pittsburg.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel, in Charge.

Abstract from returns of the U. S. Forces under the immediate command of Maj. Gen. William F. Sherman, U. S. Army, for January 31, 1865.

Command.	Present for duty.		Aggregate present.	Aggregate present and absent.	Pieces of artillery.
	Officers.	Men.			Heavy.	Field.
General and staff .....	16	.....	16	17	.....	.....
7th Company Ohio Sharpshooters .....	2	68	78	98	.....	.....
1st Michigan Engineers (ten companies) .....	36	897	1,141	1,444	.....	.....
1st Missouri Engineers (five companies) .....	14	371	529	618	.....	.....
Army of the Tennessee:
General and staff .....	21	.....	21	27	.....	.....
Escort .....	3	62	115	143	.....	.....
Signal detachment .....	3	24	27	31	.....	.....
Fifteenth Army Corps (Logan) .....	760	15,330	18,405	28,472	.....	18
Seventeenth Army Corps (Blair) .....	459	11,851	13,642	25,302	.....	14
Total Right Wing (Howard) .....	1,246	27,268	32,210	53,975	.....	32
Army of Georgia:
General and staff .....	5	.....	5	7	.....	.....
Pontoniers (Downey) .....	25	459	730	910	.....	.....
Fourteenth Army Corps (Davis) .....	578	14,150	16,255	27,653	.....	16
Twentieth Army Corps (Williams) .....	638	12,432	15,778	28,546	.....	16
Total Left Wing (Slocum) .....	1,246	28,041	32,768	57,116	.....	32
Cavalry (Kilpatrick) .....	184	4,289	5,204	9,314	.....	6
Grand total .....	2,744	60,934	71,946	122,582	.....	70

* For the effective strength, see Part I, p. 42.

Abstract from returns of the Department of the South, Maj. Gen. John G. Foster, U. S. Army, commanding, for January 31, 1865.

[Compiled mainly from subordinate returns.]

Command.	Present for duty.		Aggregate present.	Aggregate present and absent.	Pieces of artillery.
	Officers.	Men.			Heavy.	Field.
General headquarters . . . . .	64	80	125	151	.....	.....
1st New York Engineers (battalion, Place) . . . . .	7	557	585	600	.....	.....
First Separate Brigade (Schimmelfennig) . . . . .	59	2,340	3,374	6,543	12	12
Second Separate Brigade (Potter) . . . . .	28	946	1,244	1,947	.....	2
Third Separate Brigade (Brown) . . . . .	69	2,024	2,711	3,285	.....	.....
Fourth Separate Brigade (Stammon) . . . . .	40	1,330	1,680	3,999	.....	.....
District of Savannah (Grover) . . . . .	135	3,981	4,832	9,038	.....	.....
District of North Carolina (Palmer) . . . . .	239	6,423	8,356	12,387	101	68
Total* . . . . .	641	17,681	22,907	37,950	113	82

CITY POINT, VA., February 1, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

Without much expectation of its reaching you in time to be of any service, I have mailed to you copies of instructions to Schofield and Thomas.† I have informed Schofield by telegraph of the departure of Mahone's division south from the Petersburg front. The troops marched down the Weldon road, and as they apparently went without baggage, it is doubtful whether they have not returned. I was absent from here when they left. Just returned yesterday morning from Cape Fear River. I went there to determine where Schofield's corps had better go to operate against Wilmington and Goldsborough. The instructions with this will inform you of the conclusion arrived at. Schofield was with me and the plan of the movement against Wilmington fully determined before we started back; hence the absence of more detailed instructions to him. He will land one division at Smithville and move rapidly up the south side of the river and secure the Wilmington and Goldsborough Railroad, and with his pontoon train cross into the island south of the city if he can. With the aid of the gunboats there is no doubt but this move will drive the enemy from their position, eight miles east of the city, either back to their inner line or away altogether. There will be a large force on the north bank of Cape Fear ready to follow up and resist the garrison if they should go inside. The railroads of North Carolina are four feet eight inches and a half gauge. I have sent large parties of railroad men there to build them up, and have ordered stock to run them. We have abundance of it idle from the non-use of the Virginia roads. I have taken every precaution to have supplies ready for you wherever you may turn up. I did this before, when you left Atlanta, and regret that they did not reach you promptly when you arrived at salt-water. The fact is, Foster, from physical disability, is entirely unfit for his command. I would like to change him for a man who can get about and see for himself. Alexander H. Stephens, R. M. T. Hunter, and Judge Campbell are now at my headquarters very desirous of going to Washington to see Mr. Lincoln informally on the subject of peace. The peace feeling within the rebel lines is gaining ground rapidly. This, however, should not relax our energies in the least, but should stimulate us to greater activity. I have received your very kind letter* in which you say you would decline, or are opposed to, promotion. No one would be more pleased at your advancement than I, and if you should be placed in my position, and I put subordinate, it would not change our relations in the least. I would make the same exertions to support you that you have ever done to support me, and I would do all in my power to make our cause win.

*Of the present for duty, here reported, 195 officers and 3,866 men constituted the Coast Division, commanded by Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch.

†For Grant to Schofield, January 31, 1865, see p. 189, and for Grant to Thomas, January 31, 1865, see Vol. XLIX, Part I.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 51. } Washington, February 1, 1865.

* * * * *

63. By direction of the President, Bvt. Lieut. Col. Thomas G. Baylor, U. S. Army, is hereby assigned to duty according to his brevet rank, from December 21, 1864.

* * * * *

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Hickory Hill, February 1, 1865—5 p. m.

General HOWARD:

Slocum is a little behind. I don't want Logan to get farther to-morrow than the place marked "Store" near Duck Branch Post-Office. I want to make slow marches till Slocum gets up, or nearly so. Please make your orders accordingly.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Whippy Swamp, S. C., February 1, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

DEAR GENERAL: Your dispatch is just received. The road has been badly obstructed, but we cleared it out without difficulty till we came to Whippy Swamp Creek. The road here for a quarter of a mile was filled with felled trees and six bridges destroyed. The obstructions have been cleared, the bridges rebuilt, the swamp corduroyed in part, and one division (Mower's) on the other side with all its material.

I think if you were here and saw the country and the difficulties in clearing away the obstructions across Whippy Swamp, that [you] would prefer me to push on to Rivers' Bridge by this route. I expected General Logan would send two divisions via Whippy Swamp Post-Office and two by the lower route, all to meet at Angley's Post-Office, crossing Whippy Swamp at that place. I can push one division of the Seventeenth Corps by the route you suggest, and not be obliged to return; otherwise I shall have to march back some distance and take the other route.

* See January 21, p. 102.

I will inclose you a copy of my order of march as issued, and will send you an officer that you may modify my instructions and let me know.

Lieutenant Taylor was wounded in the skirmish to-day quite severely, but I think not dangerously. The enemy had about 600 cavalry in our front. They took the route to Whippy Swamp Post-Office. We found some forty guarding the crossing here.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

[Inclosure.]

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 28.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
In the Field, S. C., February 1, 1865.

The following will be the order of march for to-morrow, commencing at 7 a. m.: The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. J. A. Logan commanding, will move to Angley's Post-Office, as indicated in Special Field Orders, No. 27. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will march to Rivers' Bridge, and if possible effect a lodgment on the other side of the river. The wagon train of these headquarters will move in rear of the leading division of General Blair's corps. The bridge train will move in rear of the division second in column of General Blair's corps. These headquarters will be established at or near Rivers' Bridge.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Whippy Swamp, S. C., February 1, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: In accordance with instructions from General Sherman, you will take the lower route by the way of Duck Creek, and halt at the place marked "Store," instead of proceeding to Angley's Post-Office as directed.

With the general's consent, you may push a division up to Rice's house, a point some two miles short of Whippy Swamp Creek.

I will send a division of General Blair along the west bank of the creek to form a junction with your division, and move the other two divisions on to the same road, east of the creek, and open communication across.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 32. } Hickory Hill Post-Office, S. C., February 1, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Whenever practicable, division commanders will move their troops alongside of their trains, studying always to give the road to their wagons. The column in marching must be kept closed up, and no division should occupy more than its legitimate space in the road when everything is well closed up. A detachment of the pioneer corps will precede the infantry column and clear away a road for its passage alongside of that on which the wagon train is moving. Division commanders will invariably march their commands in four-rank formation; moving in column of twos will only be allowed when necessary to pass a defile or to turn temporary obstructions.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. John A. Logan:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Hickory Hill Post-Office, S. C., February 1, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that during the skirmishing at Hickory Hill Post-Office to-day, one man of the Ninth Iowa Veteran Infantry (Third Brigade), Sergt. Marshall House, Company F, was severely wounded in the thigh; leg since amputated. No other casualties in this division.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
 FRED. H. WILSON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Sand Hill Church, S. C., February 1, 1865—8 p. m.

Major WOODHULL, &c.:

I have the honor to report that, night overtaking me here with the division in my front still passing, I encamped my division at this point, five miles from Hickory Hill Post-Office. I must ask pardon for referring to the method of marching the foot troops on the flanks of the artillery and trains. My own division was marched by this method all the distance, excepting one day from Atlanta to the Ogeechee River, and found it at all times entirely practicable, by so doing shortening the column by one-half. Thirty men with axes and fifteen without in front of the leading troops can always prepare the roads as fast as troops will march. The infantry in my front to-day was marched, with the exception of a few regiments, in two ranks with long intervals, at same time prolonging the column of one division to five miles, all of which would not interfere with the progress of the troops in rear if this method was used. It also adds greatly to the protection of the trains.

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,
 W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 29. } In the Field, S. C., February 1, 1865.

The following are the orders for the movement to-morrow:

1. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry, Lieutenant-Colonel Hughes commanding, will move forward at 7 a. m. on the road they are now on to Whippy [Swamp] Post-Office, there taking the road leading to the road the column is now on.

2. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will move his train across the swamp at 6 a. m., and will move his command forward at 7 a. m., having the advance.

3. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will move forward at 7 a. m., following the First Division.

4. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will move forward at 7 a. m., following the Third Division.

5. The bridge train will follow the Third Division, being prepared to move at 7 o'clock.

The train of department headquarters and of these headquarters will follow the First Division.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Harrison's Plantation, S. C., February 1, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Seventeenth Army Corps:

SIR: I have endeavored to obtain information since coming over here with regard to the enemy's position on the northeast bank of the Salkehatchie. I have seen but one man who has any knowledge of their position. He states that the rebels have twelve pieces of artillery at Broxton's Bridge, and are fortified there. He also says that ten miles beyond, at Buford's Bridge, they have two pieces of artillery. I will do all I can to obtain further information.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOS. A. MOWER,
Major-General, U. S. Army, Commanding Division.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Whippy Swamp, S. C., February 1, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division, Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say to you that you will bring the brigade of your command that is on the Whippy Swamp Post-Office road across to this road at a sufficiently early hour to-morrow to enable them to march with the command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, on Whippy Swamp, S. C., February 1, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE, Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: I am instructed by Major-General Blair to inform you that the brigade from your command ordered up with the mounted infantry on the left-hand road will continue on that road to-morrow to Whippy Swamp Post-Office, and from there strike across to our road.

Instructions will be sent them to-night for their movement. Please inform me which brigade it is.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SISTER'S FERRY, February 1, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN:

Your communication of yesterday received. I directed Williams to communicate to you our situation. The Savannah River is ten feet above its usual depth. The country on each bank is flooded. I have a bridge across the river and a large force at work on bridges, but have not yet been able to cross even a cavalryman to the high land. I can now reach within half a mile of it, and river is falling. I hope to get Kilpatrick over this evening. My efforts shall be made to push as rapidly as possible. Our road from the ferry is lined with torpedoes as far as we have gone. Two men were killed yesterday, and over thirty torpedoes were dug up yesterday by working party.

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Hickory Hill, S. C., February 1, 1865—5 p. m.

Maj. Gen. H. W. SLOCUM, Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: I have a letter from General Williams detailing your difficulties. I think you had better dispatch Williams with his two divisions and Kilpatrick's cavalry, by the road leading through Duck Branch Post-Office, to Buford's Bridge, and overtake us and follow as soon as possible with the balance. I deem it important to get on the railroad as soon as possible.

We will march slowly, say ten or twelve miles a day, toward Midway, and I want you to come up on our left, say at Blackville or Graham's.

You will find some meat and forage. We have already found some.

Wheeler had a division of cavalry here, but they ran; they had obstructed the roads, but they were cleaned out without delay. Tell Corse he may come by Hickory Hill or Duck Branch, as he finds most convenient. You might occupy roads to the left for convenience.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Camp at Pocotaligo, February 1, 1865—3.30 p. m.

Major-General SLOCUM, Comdg. Army of the Cumberland:

GENERAL: I have just received a note from General Sherman, written at a point four miles south of Hickory Hill, at 1 p. m. to-day. The following is an extract:

All right. Get word over to Slocum that I have started and will be opposite Rivers' Bridge to-morrow. I may await him there, or go on to the railroad about Midway. He should push cavalry first, and cross by corps as fast as ready. * * * Roads are very fair; obstructed at the swamps, but we cut a way about as fast as a column marches. We find some hogs, bacon, and corn, but much has been carried off by Wheeler, who is ahead. Open communication with Slocum to-night from Coosawhatchie to Robertsville.

I send this as soon after its receipt as my cavalry can saddle. The commander has orders to deliver it to General Williams, if you are not at Robertsville, and return.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Sister's Ferry, Ga., February 1, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you send details from your command as usual to-morrow morning to resume work on the road in South Carolina.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
February 1, 1865.

Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing, &c.:

GENERAL: Captain Luce, of steamer Pontiac, suggests that he can ferry the troops of this corps to the bluff, where his ship now lies. He can bring over the wagons, but not the horses. The other transports could easily take the horses. Or if this cannot be done the two regiments of First Division might be sent forward (Sixty-first Ohio and Thirteenth New Jersey). I shall move short of forage, but I think we shall find enough. My men are very short of stockings, especially. If they can be got forward it will save a great many disabled feet. I left a regiment of Ward's division at Puryburg to come up with the transport which was to bring the supplies. My command is now reduced to about a division and a half. If I can get the scattering regiments over it will be an important acquisition to our train guard. I leave Selfridge at the river, and hope to be in Lawtonville to-morrow night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General.

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Robertsville, S. C., February 1, 1865.

No buildings or other property will be burned without orders from these or superior headquarters. Quartermasters, commissaries, ambulance and ordnance officers, and all other officers will see that this order is communicated to the enlisted men and civilians under their charge, and they will be held responsible for the good conduct of their respective commands. Department staff officers will remain with their proper commands and will see that straggling is prohibited. They will have regular roll-calls and inspections after every halt. Unauthorized absentees will be reported for punishment. All animals taken on the march will be reported through regular channels to the proper chief departmental staff officer of the corps. All cotton and other property destroyed will be reported to the provost-marshal of the corps. The prompt publication of this order by line and staff officers is required.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,

Robertsville, S. C., February 1, 1865.

That portion of this corps now on this side of the Savannah River, except the First Brigade of the First Division, will move to-morrow toward Lawtonville as follows: The Third Division at 7 a. m., the First Division at 8 a. m. One battery of artillery will march with the Third Division, one immediately in rear of it, and one with the First Division. General Ward will march one unencumbered brigade in advance of the trains, and General Jackson one in the rear. The balance of the troops will be distributed along the trains so as to afford the most ready protection and assistance. The trains of the First Brigade, First Division, will be left with that brigade, which is to remain in its present position, subject to the orders of Major-General Slocum.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

H. W. PERKINS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,

Robertsville, S. C., February 1, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding the corps directs me to inform you that that portion of the Twentieth Corps now on this side of the river (except one brigade) will march to-morrow morning, and that probably we shall not keep communication with you. He therefore directs that you report to Major-General Slocum for orders for the movement of your command until you rejoin the corps again. He also desires that you will assume the control of all the troops and trains of this corps now on that side of the river, and bring them on with you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,

Washington, D. C., February 1, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War:

SIR: I have the honor to recommend Brig. Gen. Thomas H. Ruger, commanding First Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, for the appointment of brevet major-general for gallant and meritorious services in the battle of Franklin, Tenn., November 30, 1864. Also, Col. Thomas J. Henderson, One hundred and twelfth Illinois Volunteer Infantry, commanding Third Brigade, Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, for the appointment of brevet brigadier-general for gallant and meritorious services during the late campaigns in Georgia and Tennessee, and especially at the battle of Franklin, November 30, 1864.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 5. }

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Fort Fisher, N. C., February 1, 1865.

I. Until further orders no commissioned officer or enlisted man of this command will leave Federal Point to visit any vessel of the Navy, or any other point occupied by our troops, without permission from these headquarters.

II. The major-general commanding regrets that he finds it necessary to call the attention of commanding officers to the unauthorized discharge of firearms in the command, which have of late been so frequent as to imperil the lives of both officers and men. No firearms will hereafter be discharged, except in action, without permission from these headquarters.

By command of Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry:

A. TERRY,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Four Miles south of Hickory Hill,
February 1, 1865—1 p. m.

General FOSTER,

Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: Your letters of January 31 are received. I cannot modify my orders relative to General Saxton having the charge of recruiting blacks. The Secretary made that a point.

I think the impression at Washington is that both you and I are inimical to the policy of arming negroes, and all know that Saxton is not, and his appointment reconciles that difficulty. If anything serious occurs correspond directly with Mr. Stanton and make your points. Let Grant know that I am in motion, and telegraph to Easton that if Slocum has to wait for provisions it will be dead loss, as we are eating up ours. Let Hatch continually feel the Salkelatchie, and the moment the enemy lets go get the railroad broken back to the Edisto.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 1, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I regret to learn that reports have been made to you by General Easton to the effect that the cause of non-arrival of supplies for the Left Wing of the army was my failing to supply him with steamers. I desire to place myself in the proper light in this matter, for I have earnestly striven to do all that I could to aid in supplies reaching the army. I therefore inclose a report of the occupation of every steamer in the department. By it it will be seen that sixteen steamers are under General Easton's orders, besides others that have at various times been under his orders, while to convey General Howard's army to Beaufort, to supply it there, to supply General Hatch's division, and to do all the work of the whole department, twenty-one steamers only are in use. I inclose a late paper, the 27th, brought by a steamer just in from the North. Major Gray takes both the paper and this letter to you.

Very respectfully and truly, yours,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General of Volunteers.

[Inclosure.]

Report of Steamers in the Department of the South, February 1, 1865.

Under orders of General Easton, at Savannah, Ga.—Canonicus, Golden Gate, Planter, Mayflower, Guide, Mary Benton, Philadelphia, Crescent, Standish, Sylph, Naushon, Fountain, General Lee, Beauregard, Jeff. Davis, and Starlight (tug), 16. Northern District—Charles Houghton and Frazier, 2. Coast Division—General Hooker, 1. Dispatch boat—W. W. Coit, 1. Towing schooners to dismantled Forts Beaulieu and Rosedew—Plato (tug), 1. Used by engineers—Wyoming, 1. Used by telegraph operators laying and repairing cable—Edwin Lewis, 1. Supplying Edisto Island—Anna Maria, 1. Transporting troops to Folly Island—Cosmopolitan and Nellie Baker, 2. Sent to North Carolina and Fortress Monroe, Va.—George Leary, 1. Employed in transporting General Howard's army, now awaiting orders—Louisburg, Matagorda, Delaware, Boardman, and Fannie, 5. Under orders of Colonel Conklin, chief quartermaster, Army of the Tennessee—Louise, 1. Under orders of General Saxton—Enoch Dean, 1. Loading with supplies for Savannah, Ga.—Loyalist, 1. Towing in harbor at Hilton Head, S. C.—Rescue and Relief (tugs), 2. Repairing at machine-shop—Achilles (tug), Savannah, Augusta, Hudson, Croton, Resolute, Island City, and Neptune, 8. Unfit for service—Nantasket, Oneoto, and John Adams, 3.

C. W. THOMAS,
Major and Chief Quartermaster, Department of the South.

---

CAMP AT INTRENCHMENTS,
February 1, 1865.

Items for General Sherman:

General Foster just arrived from Savannah. All up on the south side of the river Slocum found torpedoes in the road and road damaged by water; was obliged to make a new road. Bridge was completed and some men thrown over on the night of the 30th.

Has one mile and three-quarters to corduroy on this side; expects to complete it on the 31st. Kilpatrick will probably cross on the 1st February. Iverson's cavalry, one brigade, is on the south side of the Savannah River.

General Foster requests that paragraph 5, Special Field Orders, No. 15, the last sentence, be annulled, so that General Saxton shall have nothing to do with recruiting. General Hardee writes General Saxton that he has authority to allow cotton to be sold and cross the lines.

Major Gouraud arrived from North Carolina. Generals Grant, Schofield, and Rawlins were at Morehead City on the 29th; returned to Fort Monroe on that day.

On the 30th a dense black smoke arose from Wilmington; occasional explosions heard.

General Terry's advance line is about four miles from Fisher, his original line.

Newspaper of the 26th sent by General Foster.

JNO. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General.

I left General Foster at 2 a. m.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, February 1, 1865—1 p. m.

(Received 3.30 p. m.)

Brig. Gen. JOHN P. HATCH,

Commanding Coast Division:

GENERAL: Your note of this morning is received. All right. Get word over to Slocum that I have started and will be opposite Rivers' Bridge to-morrow. I may await him there, or go on to the railroad about Midway. He should push cavalry first, and cross by corps as fast as ready. Keep feeling at the Salkehatchie bridge and the ferry, and if the enemy lets go follow up as far as Edisto. Let's coop him in Charleston close. Foster will demonstrate about Edisto Island.

Roads are very fair; obstructed at the swamps, but we cut a way about as fast as a column marches. We find some hogs, bacon, and corn, but much has been carried off by Wheeler, who is ahead. Open communication with Slocum to-night from Coosawhatchie to Roberts-ville.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Pocotaligo, S. C., February 1, 1865.

Col. E. N. HALLOWELL,

Commanding Second Brigade:

COLONEL: The brigadier-general commanding directs that you take one regiment of your command (the one now on Heyward's road), and two pieces of artillery (Napoleons) and proceed to Garden's Corners, where you will take all but two companies of the One hundred and seventh Ohio Volunteers and proceed down the Combahee Ferry road and make a reconnaissance of the enemy's position on this side of the river. If you are confident that you can carry the work without serious loss you will do so.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen.

NEW BERNE, February 1, 1865.

Major SLOSSON:

(Care of Captain Wheeler, Morehead City.)

General Grant directed that the pontoon train should not be disembarked here at present. He said let it remain on the vessels in the harbor at Beaufort until the arrival of General Schofield, who is expected very soon. If it is necessary to put the animals ashore a place must be provided for them. The probability is that the train will go on to Wilmington, to return here, perhaps, after awhile.

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 1, 1865—12 m.

Brig. Gen. T. F. MEAGHER,

Commanding Provisional Division,

Armies of the Tennessee and Cumberland, Annapolis, Md.:

You will please move your command to New Berne, N. C., instead of Fort Fisher, as heretofore ordered. Your troops will debark at Beaufort and move thence by rail to New Berne. You will report for further orders to Brig. Gen. I. N. Palmer, at New Berne.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

BALTIMORE, MD., February 1, 1865.
(Received 9.20 p. m.)

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War:

Since my telegram of the 28th ultimo, reporting the progress of troops from Benwood, we have forwarded from that point, up to 1.25 p. m. yesterday, twenty additional trains, with an aggregate of 226 cars, troops, &c. We have succeeded, surrounded by unusual difficulties and through a season of unprecedentedly severe weather, in transporting promptly and with regularity this great movement, which required from the river, and over each division of the road, 54 locomotives and 750 cars.

J. W. GARRETT,
President of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

CITY POINT, VA., February 2, 1865—9.30 p. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,

Secretary of War, Washington:

I am in receipt of a letter from General Sherman.* He expected to move from Pocotaligo on Tuesday last. He asks to have Foster relieved and Schofield succeed him; headquarters at Beaufort, N. C. He was not aware of North Carolina being taken from Foster's command, however. I would favor the removal of Foster on the ground of physical disability. We want a man who is not confined to his quarters. Terry would suit me for that command, now that Schofield goes to North Carolina. Two of his division commanders rank Terry.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

* See January 29, p. 154.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. ARMIES OF THE UNITED STATES,
 No. 24. } City Point, Va., February 2, 1865.

I. Brig. Gen. S. Williams, acting inspector-general, Armies of the United States, will proceed without delay to the Department of the South, and make a thorough inspection of military affairs in that department. All military authorities are required to afford him every facility in the execution of this order.

On the completion of said inspection General Williams will report in person to these headquarters.

* * * * *

By command of Lieutenant-General Grant:

T. S. BOWERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE JAMES,
February 2, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War :

Richmond Sentinel, of February 2, contains the following:

The attention of all is called to the appeal of General Lee, in another column, urging the delivery to Confederate States officers of all arms and cavalry equipments in the hands of citizens.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

The news from Charleston of the enemy's movements indicates that Augusta and Branchville are the points aimed at. The Twentieth Army Corps is at Robertsville, fifty miles above Savannah, and five miles from the river. A heavy force of infantry, artillery, and cavalry, believed to be composed of the Fifteenth and Sixteenth [Seventeenth] Army Corps, is said to be encamped near the junction of the Salkehatchie and old Union road. On the 30th the enemy, with artillery and infantry, advanced from White Point and drove in our skirmish line three miles, to King's Creek. Our infantry afterward advanced and drove the enemy back to White Point, re-establishing the picket-line. On the 31st the enemy made a demonstration on the position defending the pontoon bridge over the Salkehatchie, but without result. It is reported that they burned the village of McPhersonville, five miles southwest of Pocotaligo, on the night of the 30th.

E. O. C. ORD,
Major-General.

FORT MONROE, VA., February 2, 1865—1 p. m.
 (Received 2.15 p. m.)

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War :

Steamer George Leary just arrived from Savannah. Major Anderson, bearer of dispatches from General Sherman to General Schofield, leaves for Annapolis on mail-boat Webster this p. m. No news of importance beyond dispatches. Captain Hudson, of General Grant's staff, also arrived by same boat, with detailed dispatch for General Grant.

T. T. ECKERT.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Hickory Post-Office, February 2, 1865—3.45 a. m.

General HOWARD:

I have just received your dispatch. You may go on with two divisions and secure, if possible, Rivers' Bridge. Let one division keep [on] to Angley's Post-Office by the south of Whippy. Logan will move so as to get his head of column on the road leading from Duck Branch Post-Office to Angley's. That road, the old Orangeburg road, is supposed to be on good, firm ground, and is an old road leading to Buford's Bridge, which is the one I expect to use. Wheeler's cavalry is mostly to our left. At Rivers' you will find infantry and artillery in position. Slocum is unable to cross the Savannah by reason of water over the banks; will have to bridge three-quarters of a mile from four to six feet of water. We may have to go to the railroad without him. I have a cipher dispatch from him, the contents of which, when translated, I will tell the bearer of this.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: General Blair crossed his Fourth Division to this side of Whippy Swamp and pushed on, skirmishing constantly with some 300 rebel cavalry. General Mower had the advance. On reaching the road leading to Broxton's Bridge he pushed a reconnaissance to the river and found the bridge thoroughly destroyed.

The enemy had a long line of skirmishers on the other side, who wounded two or three of our men. We left a regiment to continue the demonstration, and moved on rapidly to Rivers' Bridge. General Mower succeeded in preventing the rebels from destroying it, but discovered an earth-work upon the other shore with two pieces of artillery bearing on the road; the rebels opened fire as soon as our men appeared. Colonel Swayne, of the Forty-third Ohio, commanding brigade, lost his leg, and the adjutant of the Twenty-fifth Wisconsin, Lieutenant Fitzgerald, was killed.* Several (five or six) were wounded by the shelling. The skirmish line got through the swamp as far as the Salkehatchie River, and at dark the pioneers were felling trees across the river for foot bridges. General Force, with the Third Division, Seventeenth Corps, was three or four miles from Angley's Post-Office when last heard from.

The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry led the skirmish line during part of the day; they made several gallant charges, in one of which Lieutenant-Colonel Kirby, of General Blair's staff, was wounded and had his horse killed.

I send you copy of my order for to-morrow.

I am anxious to have more force here so as to control Buford's Bridge.

The enemy seem to have considerable force opposite us at this point, enough to furnish quite an extended skirmish line.

* A mistake.

In case you wish to detain General Logan longer for the Left Wing, I hope you will allow one division at least to move up to Angley's Post-Office to-morrow.

Broxton's Bridge is near Williams' (marked on the map), and Rivers' Bridge is five miles above.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

[Inclosure.]

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 29.	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE, Near Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 2, 1865.
---------------------------------------	---

The following disposition of troops will be made for to-morrow: The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move to Angley's Post Office, and sending forward a reconnaissance will endeavor to take and hold possession of Buford's Bridge. Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair, commanding Seventeenth Army Corps, will cause his Third Division to close in with the corps and reconnoiter the line of the river, with a view of turning the enemy's position at Rivers' Bridge in case it is not turned during the night.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Snyder's Store, February 2, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs me to request you to send a couple of regiments up the road leading to Angley's Post-Office about one mile. Let them take position covering the approaches from that direction and intrench.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—General Sherman requests that the officer in command may look out for couriers from General Howard.

M. W.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
February 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I don't feel quite satisfied about our north face. I think you had better have General Giles Smith move up his smallest brigade entire, and extend your line to the left, facing north; and as soon as it is dark bring back the main line of General Mower to the high ground, and cover the north front by a good skirmish line.

Please have the Ninth Illinois send out good road pickets.

Should the enemy be able to comprehend our position, and had he force enough, he might give us annoyance by turning our left by the way of Buford's Bridge.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 30. } Near Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 2, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will move his command at 7 a. m. to-morrow on the Angley's Post-Office and Rivers' Bridge road to a camp on the left of the line of the First Division.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Whippy Swamp Post-Office, February 2, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that instead of moving on this road you will move your entire command on the road the First Brigade is on, and proceed via Whippy Swamp Post-Office to Angley's Post-Office, crossing Whippy Swamp at the latter place and remaining there until you receive orders. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move in your advance up to Whippy Swamp Post-Office, when they will leave that road and cross over to this one. Move at 7 o'clock.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.] HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Launtonville, S. C., February 2, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Duck Branch Post-Office, as follows: The First Division at 6.30 a. m.; Third Division at 7.30 a. m. The immediate presence of the enemy requires that two unencumbered brigades with one battery of artillery should precede the trains. General Jackson will, therefore, march his two brigades in front of all the trains. General Ward will distribute his troops along the whole train, so as to assist and protect them. A rear guard of two regiments will be sufficient.

The artillery will march, one battery with the advanced brigades, one immediately in rear of the First Division trains, and one with the Third Division.

General Jackson will have as strong a pioneer force as possible at the head of the column.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 2, 1865.

HON. EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

SIR: I have the honor to inclose my letter to General Sherman of the 31st ultimo,* with his indorsement thereon; also copies of the orders and instructions referred to in such letter, with copy of Brevet Brigadier-General Littlefield's letter to me, dated 30th of January. These inclosures are marked, respectively, 1, 2, 3, &c., to No. 9. I would respectfully ask that the last sentence of paragraph V, of Special Field Orders, No. 15, from General Sherman's headquarters, may be annulled, so as to leave the recruiting and organization of colored men in my hands and those of Brevet Brigadier-General Littlefield, where it was left by previous instructions of the War Department. I respectfully submit that the proposed change would disorganize the machinery now established, and would produce confusion and consequently necessary delay. By the orders inclosed you will see that I am directed to appoint officers provisionally. Numbers have been assigned to the new regiments by the bureau of which Colonel Foster is chief, to wit, the One hundred and third, the One hundred and fourth, the One hundred and fifth, and the One hundred and twenty-eighth. I have appointed officers in the One hundred and third, and the regiment is being efficiently organized. I am pushing this matter of enlistments, and shall, in any event, do all in my power to further the wishes of the Department. I would also suggest that to place this matter of organizing these regiments in other hands than those of the department commander might produce unnecessary complications. General Saxton's important duties as inspector under General Sherman's order will of necessity occupy much time and demand his constant care. In them he will receive my thorough support. The interests at stake are so great that they should be furthered by a hearty and soldierly co-operation between us. I ask this respectfully, as General Sherman informs me that the change specified in the above-mentioned paragraph of his order was made by your directions. I regret that there should seem to be any doubt of my interest in the arming of the colored race. I have since the first order on this subject was issued by the War Department been one of the most active in encouraging and enforcing the enlistment of these men. Every officer who has served with me will bear testimony to this. Among the earliest colored regiments organized were the First and Second North Carolina regiments; you will remember that they were raised under my personal supervision by Brigadier-General Wild. As a soldier, I wish to see our armies strengthened; as a citizen, to do that which will most benefit this unfortunate race, and fit them to rightly use that liberty with which the war has blessed them. Regarding the discipline which they will receive in the army as the greatest and most widely spread educational influence which can be brought to bear upon them, the policy of the Government in making soldiers of them commends itself alike to my judgment and my humanity. I need not say that whatever may be your decision, it will receive from me a soldier's acquiescence.

I have the honor to be, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

* See p. 186.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 2, 1865.

(Via Fort Monroe 6th, 3.30 p. m.)

Lient. Gen. U. S. GRANT,

Commanding Armies of the United States :

GENERAL: I have received dispatch from General Sherman, who was at a point four miles south of Hickory Springs last night (1st). He expected to be at Rivers' Bridge to-night (2d), and at a point midway between Branchville and Augusta to-morrow night. The roads were fair. General Hatch's division is demonstrating toward Combahee and feigning to attempt forcing a crossing. General E. E. Potter with three regiments is demonstrating from Edisto Island toward Wills-town. In two days this force will be added to that on Folly Island to demonstrate against James Island. I shall keep things active and strive to aid General Sherman in every way in my power.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,

Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK, U. S. Army,

Chief of Staff, U. S. Armies :

GENERAL: The experience of the past few weeks has shown that volunteering among the colored men in this department is very slow and may not for a long time furnish the number so much needed for garrison and other duties. These men, just freed from long servitude, are, of necessity, ignorant and improvident. Their idea of liberty is exemption alike from work and care. The streets of Savannah are full of them, lying in the sun and waiting for bread without labor. Needing their services as soldiers, I respectfully ask that the Department will fix a quota for the States of South Carolina and Georgia, and allow me to fill it by conscripting the able-bodied young colored men, under such restrictions and exemptions as may be deemed most wise by the Department. Such as are imposed by the existing U. S. conscription law might be designated with an order that one-half or one-third of the number liable should be drafted. I have consulted with colored pastors on this subject and they agree with me in advising the proposed course. The future of the race is a matter of serious moment. Education is necessary to make freedom truly beneficial. The training of the army will do more to educate these men than any other scheme which can be devised; it will make them self-reliant and will develop their manhood. The camp is to-day the school-house of this race; it may be that in the future the soldierly training of these people will be their protection against local injustice, while the habits of care and economy so learned will make them self-supporting.

Alike, therefore, upon military and humane grounds, I ask the careful attention of the Department to the suggestions of this letter, and am, general,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,

Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

In the Field, at a point 2½ Miles north of Duck Branch Post-Office, 3½ Miles from Pocotaligo, February 2, 1865—7 p. m.

General J. G. FOSTER,

Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: I wrote you on the road yesterday touching the matter of General Saxton, and gave you my reasons for not changing my orders. I still adhere to that conclusion, but have no objection whatever that you should apply to the Secretary of War direct and leave him to judge. But as to military discipline, I decide that General Saxton cannot go to a military post and do anything which in the judgment of its commander is calculated to produce confusion or disorder. The commanding officer of a post is the proper person to see that it does not become encumbered with idle or worthless vagabonds of any color, sex, or kind. You may sustain General Grover in anything he may do as to maintaining good order and government at Savannah.

The Secretary of War is charged by Congress with the administration of the war policy, and we are bound to respect his authority and wishes, and these are contained in my orders. If General Saxton presumes on any special influence let him alone and he will commit some breach of military propriety, when you will take action. I consider he has no more control over organizations of colored troops after they are mustered and paid than the superintendent of the general recruiting service for white troops. During the inchoate existence of a regiment or company he may use it about his rendezvous for guard and police; but after troops are organized as companies, battalions, or regiments, mustered in and paid by the United States, they at once become, like any other part of your command, subject to your orders and detail. Indeed, were I in your place, I would prefer this disposition, as it relieves you of all the details of organization. As to Littlefield's duties, you can put him subject to Saxton, or you can give him the detail of any other officers and men of your command at your own option. You may require him to apply for such details as he wants, and you can make them just as you would for the quartermaster.

As to the nomination of officers for negro regiments, that purely belongs to the appointing power, the President, who may delegate it to whom he sees fit.

As to steam-boats, I don't think General Easton has any feeling as to you; but I think he has an idea that Major Thomas, much his junior, is left to judge. If he knows that you give the subject your personal attention, he will be content. It would be well for you to confer with him, for I have given him carte blanche and hold him accountable as to my immediate army.

My movements now will depend for a day or so on Slocum; but you had better be all ready for the steps I indicated.

We find a good deal of cavalry on all the roads, but they do not delay our march.

The infantry is behind the Salkehatchie, which is a swampy, ugly stream all the way up to Barnwell.

I am much obliged for the papers. All well.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Pocotaligo, February 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I neglected to mention in the items sent you yesterday that General Foster wished me to say to you that he considers it absolutely necessary that General Saxton shall be relieved from superintending the recruiting colored troops. He is crazy on the subject, has harangued meetings, and had an appointment for a mass-meeting in Savannah yesterday. It is, however, probable that General Grover yesterday forbid the mass-meeting. The negroes misunderstand their recently acquired freedom, and will neither work nor enlist. General Saxton's course is thought to encourage them in their opinions. General Littlefield is considered capable of managing and organizing the recruiting of blacks.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. P. HATCH,

Brigadier-General of Volunteers, Commanding.

I shall cross at Combahee Ferry as soon as I can get boats to that point.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Pocotaligo, S. C., February 2, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER ENGINEERS AT PORT ROYAL FERRY:

SIR: The brigadier-general commanding directs that you move your command to the mainland on this side of the causeway, and erect there a tête-de-pont arranged for two or more guns. He also directs you to send word as to the number of pontoon boats you have at that point.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEONARD B. PERRY,

First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

New Berne, N. C., February 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. M. C. MEIGS,

Quartermaster-General U. S. Army, Washington:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inclose direct to you a letter written by the acting chief quartermaster of this district to the chief quartermaster at Fort Monroe, concerning some transportation.

To send this requisition through the ordinary channels would occupy too much time, and for this reason it is sent direct to you.

I have received letters (confidential) from both General Sherman and General Foster informing me of General Sherman's plans, and I am preparing everything here for the advance of Sherman's army into this State. The force for placing the railroad in order from our outposts to Kinston has arrived, and a portion of Schofield's corps is hourly expected here. This additional force will probably arrive without wagons, and I wish to place them in immediate condition to march, with twenty days' supply of provisions and ammunition, to Goldsborough, where I expect to join General Sherman by the latter part of this month.

Our wagons now here are barely sufficient to perform the labor here. In May last every wagon, horse, and mule that could be spared from this district was sent to Virginia, and none of them have ever been returned.

If this requisition can be filled I think I will be able to co-operate with General Sherman in the manner directed by him.

As I have said, the plans for future operations have been given to me confidentially, and I therefore send this to you in the same way. It is my impression, however, that it is the general belief in all this region that Sherman is coming through this State, and it appears to be spoken of as a matter of course.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

CITY POINT, February 2, 1865—11 a. m.

(Received 11.30 a. m.)

General SCHOFIELD :

Mahone's division, which was reported to have gone south, has returned to Petersburg. They did go south near or quite to Weldon, probably to meet a raid sent by General Palmer to destroy the ram which is being built in the Roanoke.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE OHIO,

February 2, 1865—2.30 p. m.

Lient. Gen. U. S. GRANT,
City Point, Va.:

I expect to get off to-morrow with one division besides General Meagher's command. I will go with the advance and will stop at Fort Monroe for your orders. I will telegraph you when I start.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

FORT MONROE, VA., February 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Washington, D. C.:

I arrived here to-day with dispatches for you from Major-General Sherman. Will be in Annapolis to-morrow morning (Friday).

JOHN F. ANDERSON,
Major and Aide-de-Camp.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
No. 18. } Washington, D. C., February 2, 1865.

I. The Special Orders of January 26, 1865, from these headquarters, for embarking the troops of this command, is hereby modified as follows: The First and Third Brigades, Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, will embark at Alexandria to-morrow morning and move without delay to Fort Fisher, N. C. The Second Brigade, Third Division (Colonel Casement's), will move by rail to Annapolis, Md., and embark at that point, and move without delay to Fort Fisher. This brigade will take precedence of all other troops in embarking at Annapolis, it being important that it reach its destination as soon as practicable. Brig. Gen. T. F. Meagher's Provisional Division will embark at Annapolis without unnecessary delay (giving precedence to Colonel Casement's brigade), and move to Beaufort, and thence by rail to New Berne, N. C., and join the command of Brig. Gen. I. N. Palmer, to whom General Meagher will report on his arrival at Beaufort for further orders. The Second and First Divisions, Twenty-third Army Corps, will embark at Alexandria or Annapolis, as may be directed by Brigadier-General Rucker, quartermaster, as soon as transports shall be provided, and will move without delay to Fort Fisher, N. C. One battery will move with each division, if practicable, without delaying the movement of the infantry. The remaining artillery wagons and animals will follow the troops as soon as suitable transports can be provided. Headquarters will move with the Third Division from Alexandria to-morrow.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,
No. 8. } Alexandria, Va., February 2, 1865.

I. Capt. Hobart Ford, One hundred and fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, is hereby detailed for duty as aide-de-camp on the personal staff of the general commanding, and will report without delay to these headquarters.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., February 2, 1865—10 p. m.
(Received 11.30 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff:

About 1,000 of General Meagher's division have arrived and are on board transports. Boats ordered to Baltimore to-day for troops have failed to reach that city. Another attempt will be made at daylight to-morrow. Great difficulty is experienced in coaling vessels at this point and in supplying them with water. In addition to steamers named in your memoranda the Alliance and Hermann Livingstone have arrived. The first will carry 200 men and the other 800.

ROBT. N. SCOTT,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., February 2, 1865.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that, in accordance with your orders, the Twenty-third Army Corps, Major-General Schofield commanding, has been transferred from Clifton, on the Tennessee, to the Potomac. Under the instructions of the Hon. C. A. Dana, Assistant Secretary of War, I left this city on the 11th ultimo to take the general supervision of the movement. Anxious, if possible, to comply with the wishes of the Department and those of the lieutenant-general in making it to Parkersburg by water, yet knowing by experience the extreme uncertainties of winter navigation upon the Ohio, I telegraphed on my departure to several trustworthy gentlemen intimately connected with the management of Western railroads, who met me while en route to Louisville, and with whom I arranged for a quiet concentration of machinery, so that if necessary there could be, on twelve to twenty-four hours' notice, at either Cairo, Evansville, Louisville, or Cincinnati, sufficient to move the corps as it should arrive at either of those points, and yet in such manner as not to prove detrimental to the interests of the different roads in case the machinery was not required.

Arrangements were also made through the commissary department, by which the comfort of the troops should be cared for by supplying, as often as once in each hundred miles of railroad transportation, in addition to their rations an abundance of hot coffee.

On arriving at Louisville and not finding dispatches from Generals Thomas or Schofield, as was anticipated, advising me as to the amount of transportation required, or the time when the troops would be ready to move, on consultation with General Allen it was deemed best to order without delay the assembling at Paducah, the mouth of the Tennessee River, of transports amply sufficient to make the required movement. This being done by telegraph, I left Louisville the same evening (14th) and reached Paducah the following night, where learning that Major-General Schofield had but a few hours previously passed down the river I proceeded at once to Cairo, and the next day learning from him by telegraph that only transportation for 10,000 men would be required, in addition to the boats already up the river, I returned to Paducah that night, ordered the boats, with convoy, to be in readiness as soon as possible, and started the next morning at daylight up the Tennessee.

At about 5 o'clock the same evening (17th) meeting General McLean with a division of the Twenty-third Army Corps coming down on transports greatly overloaded, on communication with him it was deemed best that I should return to Paducah, sending up the river the transports accompanying me, under care of Capt. Arthur Edwards, assistant quartermaster.

After largely increasing at Paducah the transportation for General McLean's command, rendering the condition of the troops entirely comfortable for a long trip, this portion of the corps proceeded up the Ohio on the following morning (18th) and on the evening of the same day, having completed all necessary arrangements for the remainder of the troops as they should reach that place, I left via Cairo for Louisville by rail, and arrived there on the morning of the 20th in advance of any of the transports.

During the previous night the weather suddenly changed from the mild and genial temperature with which we had hitherto been favored, and the morning brought the coldest weather as yet experienced during the winter, so that on arriving at the Ohio I found the river so full of floating ice as to give serious apprehensions of our ability to proceed by boats even to Cincinnati.

On consultation, however, with Major-General Schofield, General Allen, and the best advised river men, I ordered forward the boats to

Cincinnati, and telegraphed as previously arranged for the collection at that place of the necessary cars and machinery to be ready on the following morning to receive the troops as they arrived.

The river having rapidly fallen over twenty feet rendered it impossible for our larger boats to pass above the falls, producing thereby considerable detention, as we were obliged to transfer the troops to a smaller class of boats which could pass through the canal.

Everything progressing satisfactorily I again took the cars on the evening of the 20th and reached Cincinnati the following morning, in advance of the transports, where I found all necessary preparations made to receive the troops on their arrival. During the same day (21st) about 3,000 men were disembarked, loaded on the cars of the Little Miami Railroad, and started eastward.

In the afternoon a fog arose, so dense as for more than thirty hours to entirely prevent any movement of boats, and resulting in the detention of a large part of the fleet for that length of time.

On the 22d about 4,000 more troops were transferred from the boats to the cars of the Hamilton and Dayton Railroad, and left for their destination. During the evening of this day the weather again greatly moderated, and being advised by telegraph from Wheeling and Parkersburg of the probabilities of an immediate resumption of navigation, I directed, on the morning of the 23d, that boats containing from 6,000 to 8,000 troops should take on board as soon as possible an ample supply of fuel and be ready to move up the river.

This completed, it was arranged with General Couch, commanding, that the transports should start early in the evening (23d), and one had already departed when there was again so rapid a change in the weather as to render it [an] unsafe proceeding, and a boat was immediately dispatched to bring back the transport which was on its way to Parkersburg, and all were ordered to remain until morning.

During the 23d the movement by land was continued, and about 4,000 additional troops had been disembarked and transferred to the cars of the Little Miami Railroad. On the morning of the 24th, the weather having greatly increased in severity, and my dispatches from Parkersburg advising me that the river was so full of ice as to render navigation impracticable, I ordered the remainder of the troops to disembark and proceed via the Little Miami Railroad, which, excepting some of the artillery and animals, was effected on that and the following day.

Owing to the embarrassments and delays on the Ohio Central, resulting from broken rails and machinery, caused by the uncommon severities of the weather, and by which cars were repeatedly thrown from the track, and several narrow escapes from serious disaster encountered, as well as from the difficulties of crossing the Ohio, I remained on the line from Columbus to Bellaire until the 31st, taking personal supervision of the transfer of the troops until the last car was loaded on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and on its way over the mountains, when at 12 m. I took the train and reached this city on the night of the 1st instant, where, on the following day, I found upon the banks of the Potomac the Twenty-third Army Corps safely encamped.

The distance transported is nearly 1,400 miles, about equally divided between land and water. The average time of transportation, from the embarkation on the Tennessee to the arrival on the banks of the Potomac, was not exceeding eleven days; and what is still more important, is the fact that during the whole movement not a single accident has happened causing loss of life, limbs, or property, except in the single instance of a soldier improperly jumping from the car under apprehension of danger, by which he lost his life, when, had he remained quiet, he would have been as safe as were his comrades of the same car.

After so many days of anxiety and suspense—a suspense and anxiety I know fully shared by yourself and many others—may I not congratulate you upon the complete and entire success of a movement the like of which I think has neither its parallel in this eventful war, nor, indeed, in the history of warfare, the only similar movement being that of the transfer of the Twelfth and Thirteenth [Eleventh] Army Corps of 22,000 men, General Hooker commanding, from the Potomac to Chattanooga, 200 miles less in distance, and effected in the mildest autumn weather in about the same time, with days, if not weeks, of preparation, and in which case the route was distinctly understood before the movement commenced. The difference between a movement under such circumstances and one under which the Twenty-third Army Corps has been transported, with greatly multiplied dangers and difficulties attending it, are thoroughly understood by all familiar with winter navigation and land transportation.

The transfer of so large an army, with ample time and preparation, for so great a distance, even in summer weather, would of itself be a marked event. But when it is understood that not beyond four or five days had elapsed after the movement was decided upon in Washington before the embarkation of the troops had actually commenced upon the banks of the Tennessee, nearly 1,400 miles distant, and that within an average of eleven days from the time of its embarkation so large an army, with its artillery and animals, was quietly encamped upon the banks of the Potomac, and that the transfer has been made along rivers obstructed by fog and ice, and over mountains, during violent snow-storms, and amid the unusual severities of midwinter in a northern climate, with all the doubts, constant uncertainties, and changes herein mentioned as to routes and points of transfer, at a period of the year, too, when accidents upon railroads arising from the breaking of machinery or rails in ordinary transportation are of frequent occurrence, many of a serious and fatal character having occurred during this time on other roads, and when it is known that the comfort of the troops has been so carefully provided for, and the police of the different roads so thoroughly organized that during the whole movement not the least injury of person or loss of property occurred, with the exception of the soldier above alluded to, and that the condition of the troops is to-day in all respects as good for meeting the enemies of their country as it was on the day of their departure from the banks of the Tennessee; under such circumstances, am I not justified in characterizing this movement as an event remarkable in design and successful in execution, the like of which has never before occurred, and as being most illustrative of the great physical advancement and resources of our country, even in its present desolated and distracted condition, and showing its resistless power when harmonious and united?

I should be failing in justice not to record and call special attention to the means by which your orders have been so successfully executed. I refer to the managers of our railroad and river transportation.

The earnest efforts of those controlling the different lines of railroads used in making this movement have been most conspicuous.

How many valuable officers and soldiers have been furnished to our army from this department of business is well known to yourself; a business commanding as it does a greater number in proportion than any other of the most energetic and enterprising portion of our citizens, men well adapted to military service by habits of command and prompt obedience, hardened by exposure, fertile in resources, vigorous and energetic in action, and accustomed to danger where prompt decision is required.

It is to this class of men that the Government is largely indebted for many of its brilliant triumphs and without whose services your order for the movement of the Twenty-third Army Corps could not have been executed. Few persons are aware of the superior ability, energy, and unceasing watchfulness necessary even on ordinary occasions to secure the movement of so large a force over a long line of railroad, and fewer still appreciate the great increase of difficulties and dangers during such extraordinary severe weather as we have had for the last month, to insure safety from accident and disaster; and while nothing that I can say will add to the reputation of gentlemen so well known to the community as are most of those who have been engaged in this movement, yet it is but just to place upon record the fact that these private citizens have spared no labor and omitted no efforts to accomplish the desired object; that from the highest official to the lowest employé days of anxious toil and nights of sleepless vigilance have conclusively proved that all were fully awake to the importance of the duty devolving upon them, and felt that intense interest which men alone feel who are thoroughly conscious of their personal responsibility for the lives of thousands and the success of an important enterprise.

The gentlemen to whom I allude are William H. Clement, president, and E. W. Woodward, superintendent of the Little Miami Railroad; D. McLauren, superintendent of the Hamilton and Dayton Railroad; Thomas Lough, superintendent Steubenville and Indiana Railroad; Hon. H. J. Jewett, president, and D. W. Caldwell, superintendent Ohio Central Railroad; John W. Garrett, president, and W. Prescott Smith, master of transportation, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, all of whom, I think, are justly entitled to the thanks of the Government for the services they have rendered. The circumstances, I think, render it not invidious that I should especially refer to the management of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, where indomitable will, energy, and superior ability have been so often and so conspicuously manifested, and where such invaluable services have been rendered to the Government, a road nearly 400 miles in length, so often broken and apparently destroyed, so constantly subjected to rebel incursions, that had it been under ordinary management, it would long since have ceased operations; yet, notwithstanding all the difficulties of the severe winter season, the great disorganization of employées necessarily incident to a road thus situated, its most extraordinary curves, grades, bridges, tunnels, and the mountain heights it scales, it has moved this large force in the shortest possible time with almost the exactness and regularity of ordinary passenger trains, and with a freedom from accident that, I think, has seldom, if ever, been paralleled.

Much credit is also due to the boatmen of the West, who with scarcely a day's notice promptly and cheerfully furnished over forty transports for this service, and who have so often and so patiently submitted to the seizure of their transports, and effectively assisted in securing the success of our armies. During the last four years it has often fallen to my lot to witness the cool bravery and acts of daring of this class of men in the passage of batteries, or the sudden and unexpected attack of bands of guerrillas while navigating our Western rivers; and Generals Grant and Sherman, with many others, will bear witness that none have shown greater firmness and resolution in danger, or more reckless daring and disregard of personal safety, and I doubt not many of their deeds will live in history and tradition along the lines of our Western rivers, as have the stories and deeds of partisan chiefs of former times.

It was by the services of such men that the Government was enabled so rapidly to concentrate re-enforcements at Donelson and Shiloh; that with seven days' notice it was enabled to embark 40,000 men under Sherman in mid-winter for the movement against Vicksburg, and subsequently to precipitate the same force upon, and capture, the Post of Arkansas. It was their courage that piloted our transports past the batteries of Island No. 10, Vicksburg, and numberless other places along our Western waters; and all who have seen the unblanched cheek and steady arm by which the pilot at the wheel or the captain on the hurricane roof have discharged their duties in hours of danger, cannot fail to acknowledge that they justly deserved a page in the history of the events of the war.

I also acknowledge with pleasure the services of Capt. J. V. Lewis, assistant quartermaster, an able officer, recently in charge of transportation at Cincinnati, who, at my solicitation, though he had tendered his resignation and was relieved from duty, again resumed his former position and labored incessantly, and rendered most valuable assistance in effecting the transfer at Cincinnati in the movement by rail.

I would also acknowledge the very valuable assistance rendered by Capt. Arthur Edwards, assistant quartermaster; Capt. J. H. Wilson, assistant quartermaster; Capt. A. C. Woolfolk, assistant quartermaster, and Capt. Gus. Artsman, assistant quartermaster, at their respective posts of duty.

Herewith I transmit copies of all orders, instructions, communications, and reports of the superintendents of the several roads, forming a complete record of the movement.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

[Inclosures.]

Copies of orders, letters, and telegrams.

WAR DEPARTMENT,

January 11, 1865.

1.]

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Chief of Rail and River Transportation, Washington, D. C.:

COLONEL: It having been decided that the Twenty-third Army Corps, Major-General Schofield commanding, shall be transferred from the Tennessee to the Chesapeake, you will immediately proceed westward, and take the general supervision and management of its transportation.

If the navigation of the Ohio will admit, it is deemed best that the transportation shall be by boats to Parkersburg, W. Va., thence by rail over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Should this not be practicable, the troops should be transported by rail from Cairo, Evansville, Jeffersonville, or Cincinnati, as navigation of the Ohio will permit, then by rail to Bellaire, and over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War.

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

Washington, January 11, 1865.

2.]

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

SIR: In accordance with your instructions I will leave here so as to connect with the first train from Baltimore to Wheeling. I should arrive at Wheeling about 5 o'clock to-morrow evening, and at Cincinnati via Columbus early the next morning, and Louisville the next afternoon.

Would it not be well to advise General Allen of the contemplated movement, so that in case he learns General Thomas is in readiness to move, he could be gathering the necessary boats at Louisville, and also direct him to open any dispatches to me.

Very respectfully,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

Washington, January 11, 1865.

3.]

Col. J. A. POTTER,

Assistant Quartermaster, Chicago, Ill.:

We may want 200 or 300 cars at Cairo within three or four days.

See the Illinois Central that they may have it in view, as we could not probably give more than twelve to twenty-four hours' notice. I go direct to Louisville; answer to Wheeling, care of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

By order of Quartermaster-General:

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

4.]

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Chief of Rail and River Transportation:

CHICAGO, January 12, 1865.

The Illinois Central says everything depends on the speedy unloading of the 150 cars already en route to Cairo, as they would have to be relied on to fill the requisitions.

J. A. POTTER,

Colonel and Quartermaster.

5.]

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Master Transpt. Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Md.:

FAIRMONT, VA., January 12, 1865—3 p. m.

Cannot you consent that Mr. Coffran should come to Louisville to-morrow in case I telegraph back for him? He is willing to go if you think proper. I think it might be very useful to your road by giving you early and correct information.

Have you no reply from Gray or Lough?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

6.] BALTIMORE, MD., January 12, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS:

Gray says he and Lough will meet you at Columbus or Cincinnati. Coffran can go with you, if desired.

W. P. SMITH.

7.] RAILROAD NEAR BENWOOD, January 12, 1865.

Capt. ARTHUR EDWARDS,
Assistant Quartermaster, or

Capt. L. S. METCALF,
Assistant Quartermaster, Saint Louis, Mo.:

Can Captain Edwards, with Mr. Downs and Hendricks, meet me at Louisville day after to-morrow in case I telegraph for them to do so? Answer care of General Allen, Louisville, and Captain Lewis, of Cincinnati.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

8.] SAINT LOUIS, MO., January 13, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Quartermaster:

(Care of General R. Allen, chief quartermaster.)

We can meet you any place you may direct.

ARTHUR EDWARDS,
Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

Received at Louisville, Ky., 10 a. m. January 14, 1865.

9.] RAILROAD NEAR CAMERON, VA., January 12, 1865.

Mr. JEWETT,
President Ohio Central Railroad, or

Mr. CALDWELL,
Superintendent, Zanesville, Ohio:

Could not Mr. Caldwell come out a few miles on this evening's train to consult with me about a matter of importance to the Government and your road?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

10.] ZANESVILLE, OHIO, January 12, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS:

Your dispatch received too late for me to meet you on the road. If you wish I can see you here, when train arrives.

D. W. CALDWELL.

Received at Bellaire 8 p. m. January 12.

11.] RAILROAD NEAR BENWOOD, January 12, 1865.

Col. MCKIM, or

J. V. LEWIS, Quartermasters, Cincinnati, Ohio :

I desire to see Captain Lewis and some representative of the Little Miami Railroad, on important business, on my arrival at Cincinnati to-morrow morning on my way direct to Louisville.

By order of Quartermaster-General:

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

12.] CINCINNATI, OHIO, January 13, 1865.

Capt. A. C. WOOLFOLK,

Assistant Quartermaster, Cairo, Ill. :

How many and what boats could you furnish on from twelve to twenty-four hours' notice, with ten days' stores, fuel for 500 or 600 miles? What boats are in the Tennessee or Cumberland? Answer, Louisville, care General Allen, as particularly as practicable. How many cars could you furnish at Cairo on the same notice if necessary?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

13.] CAIRO, ILL., January 14, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS:

(Care General Allen.)

I can furnish transportation for the 10,000 men asked for by General Allen, without material damage to freighting up Cumberland. The Kennett, Brilliant, Marmora, Decatur, Des Moines, and some others in Cumberland. Izetta and others in Tennessee. I am assured by railroad agent that there will be no trouble about cars. Let me know in time. Is this the same as General Allen's?

WOOLFOLK.

14.] CINCINNATI, OHIO, January 13, 1865.

Capt. L. S. METCALF,

Assistant Quartermaster, Saint Louis, Mo. :

Is the river open to Cairo? If so, how many, and what boats could you furnish, on from twelve to twenty-four hours' notice, with ten days' stores and fuel for 600 miles to be sent to Cairo?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

15.] CINCINNATI, OHIO, January 13, 1865.

Brig. Gen. ROBERT ALLEN,

Louisville, Ky. :

I have just arrived, and leave on mail-boat for Louisville. Please request Captain Ernst to ascertain the names of all boats on the Tennessee and Cumberland, as far as practicable.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

16.]

CINCINNATI, OHIO, January 13, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C. :

Missed connection. Leave for Louisville at noon. River at Pittsburg sixteen feet, falling; Cincinnati thirty-seven feet, rising.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

17.]

LOUISVILLE, January 14, 1865.

THOMAS LOUGH, Esq.,

Columbus, Ohio :

No assistance required for some days at least.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

18.]

LOUISVILLE, January 14, 1865.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Master Transportation, Baltimore, Md. :

Shall not require Mr. Coffran at present. Everything looks well so far.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

19.]

LOUISVILLE, KY., January 14, 1865—2 p. m.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C. :

Arrived here last night. Nothing here from General Thomas or Schofield. The telegraph will not be open beyond Nashville till to-morrow. The necessary boats are ordered to rendezvous at Paducah. I go to Paducah to-night. Will be there to-morrow night, and move up Tuesday, unless counter orders come. Is it decided about moving artillery? The horses can be moved so far as the boats go without much difficulty. Rivers all high, and still rising slowly. Present prospects good. Telegraph can reach me at Paducah.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

20.]

LOUISVILLE, January 14, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C. :

SIR: I inclose herewith copy of dispatch sent you this day.* I am disappointed in finding nothing from General Thomas, but learn from two of General Schofield's staff that he is expecting to move, and on consultation with General Allen it is deemed best for me to proceed at once to Paducah. We have ordered boats from Cairo and all points sufficient for the movement, and have satisfactory replies. I hope to leave Paducah by Tuesday and be at General Schofield's headquarters by Wednesday night or Thursday morning. Everything now looks favorable. Will telegraph you from Paducah.

---

* Probably next, ante.

Very respectfully,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

21.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 12, 1865.

Brig. Gen. ROBERT ALLEN,

Chief Quartermaster, Louisville, Ky.:

Col. L. B. Parsons left here last night for Louisville, to take general direction of the transportation of Major-General Schofield's corps from the Tennessee River to Chesapeake Bay, just ordered by Lieutenant-General Grant. The movement will be made as far as possible by boats from Eastport. If the state of navigation will allow, the troops will not be debarked till they reach Parkersburg; but if necessary, they will take the railroad, either at Cairo, Evansville, Jeffersonville, or Cincinnati. Colonel Parsons cannot reach Louisville before Friday night; meanwhile please open any dispatches that may be addressed to him, and make all such arrangements respecting steam-boats as, in your judgment, will expedite and facilitate the movement. The troops only will be moved, leaving their transportation behind.

C. A. DANA,
Assistant Secretary of War.

22.]

LOUISVILLE, January 13, 1865.

General J. L. DONALDSON,

Nashville:

General Schofield's corps is ordered East. Instruct all boats returning from Nashville to go to Paducah, and there wait further orders. Let me know how many steamers you can send from Nashville within two days. Answer immediately. What is the strength of General Schofield's corps?

ROBERT ALLEN,
Brigadier-General.

23.]

NASHVILLE, January 12 [14?], 1865.

Brigadier-General ALLEN:

Telegram of 12.40 received. I am not positive as to the strength of Major-General Schofield's command, but suppose it is about 15,000 men. No means of knowing any more certainly here. There are but two steamers at Nashville, and they are now loading for Eastport. Everything else gone to Eastport since changed to that base, and nothing returned here. Have sent twenty-six steamers from here in all and none have yet returned, except my dispatch boats, which are not included in the above. All of them ought to be either at Eastport or down Tennessee within reach. Will instruct all returning steamers from here to repair to Paducah and wait orders as you request. You will remember, of course, that General Schofield's transportation remains at Eastport.

J. L. DONALDSON,
Brigadier-General.

---

24.]

NASHVILLE, January 14, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Chief of Rail and River Transportation :

Generals Thomas and Schofield are at Eastport. The telegraph will be open to Johnsonville to-day and the road by the 1st of February. There is no coal at Johnsonville; some ought to be sent. I send Captain Johnson, assistant quartermaster, to take charge there, by boat this afternoon. You can reach General Thomas by telegram to Paducah. I send boats from here tri-weekly and you can go from here if you please.

J. L. DONALDSON,
Bvt. Brig. Gen., Chief Quartermaster Dept. of the Cumberland.

---

25.]

LOUISVILLE, January 13, 1865.

Col. W. W. MCKIM,

Cincinnati :

General Schofield's corps is ordered to Chesapeake Bay. It is to embark from Eastport, Tenn., and will, if practicable, go up the Ohio to Parkersburg. All of the steamers at Cincinnati may be required as soon as they can be got ready. Colonel Parsons is on his way from Washington to superintend the movement. He will probably stop to see you. I do not know the strength of General Schofield's corps. How many boats can you furnish? Have boats here for about 5,000 men. Answer immediately.

ROBERT ALLEN,
Brigadier-General.

---

26.]

CINCINNATI, January 14, 1865.

Brig. Gen. ROBERT ALLEN:

Telegram received. Can furnish transports for 5,000 to 7,000 men, if required, by impressing some boats.

WM. W. MCKIM,
Colonel and Chief Quartermaster.

---

27.]

LOUISVILLE, January 13, 1865.

Capt. H. RASIN,

Assistant Quartermaster, Smithland :

Stop all steamers returning from Nashville, and send them to Paducah to wait further orders. They are wanted to go up the Tennessee to Eastport, to bring down General Schofield's corps.

ROBERT ALLEN,
Brigadier-General.

28.]

LOUISVILLE, KY., January 13, 1865.

Capt. A. C. WOOLFOLK,

Assistant Quartermaster, Cairo:

I want steamers to transport 10,000 men from Eastport, Tenn., to this place. Can I obtain them from Cairo without stopping the transportation of forage? Answer immediately.

ROBERT ALLEN,
Brigadier-General.

---

29.]

CAIRO, January 13, 1865.

General ALLEN:

I can furnish boats for the troops required. It may take a little time to get their crews together.

A. C. WOOLFOLK.

---

30.]

LOUISVILLE, January 13, 1865.

Capt. J. H. WILSON,

Assistant Quartermaster, Paducah:

I am sending all the hay we can spare direct to Eastport. You require hay only for your own use. The steamers returning from Nashville I am sending to Paducah to wait there for further orders. Stop all steamers returning from Eastport, and keep them there for the present. We want boats sufficient to bring down from Eastport General Schofield's corps. Will give further instructions in time.

ROBERT ALLEN,
Brigadier-General.

---

31.]

LOUISVILLE, January 14, 1865—12 m.

Capt. A. C. WOOLFOLK,

Assistant Quartermaster, Cairo, Ill.:

Send all the boats you can to Paducah by Monday morning early; have an abundance of fuel on board; will require but small crew. Colonel Parsons will be at Paducah to-morrow night. Advise me immediately the boats you send and the number of troops they will carry. No animals, wagons, or artillery to be moved.

ROBERT ALLEN,
Brigadier-General.

---

32.]

LOUISVILLE, January 14, 1865.

Capt. J. H. WILSON,

Assistant Quartermaster, Paducah, Ky.:

Col. L. B. Parsons will be at Paducah to-morrow night. Have a full supply of fuel on board of all the boats to make the trip to Eastport and return, as I have before directed to stop all steamers returning from Eastport and all that come to you from Nashville, and hold them in readiness to go to Eastport.

ROBERT ALLEN,
Brigadier-General.

33.]

LOUISVILLE, January 14, 1865.

General J. L. DONALDSON,

Nashville :

Colonel Parsons is here, sent out from Washington, to superintend the transportation of General Schofield's command. He will leave for Paducah this afternoon. Transports sufficient will assemble at Paducah from Cincinnati, this place, and Cairo in three or four days, and will proceed to Eastport. If practicable, communicate this to General Thomas and General Schofield as soon as possible.

ROBERT ALLEN,

Brigadier-General.

34.]

LOUISVILLE, January 14, 1865.

Col. W. W. McKIM,

Cincinnati :

Send to report to me six good transports as soon as possible, with good supply of coal and ten days' stores. Only a small crew will be needed. Telegraph the names and when I may expect them.

ROBERT ALLEN,

Brigadier-General.

35.]

LOUISVILLE, January 14, 1865.

General DONALDSON,

Nashville :

Do you know where Major-Generals Thomas and Schofield are? Can you reach them or Johnsonville by telegraph? Is the railroad working to Johnsonville? Is there any coal there?*

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

36.]

LOUISVILLE, January 14, 1865.

Capt. ARTHUR EDWARDS,

Assistant Quartermaster, or

Capt. L. S. METCALF,

Assistant Quartermaster, Saint Louis, Mo. :

Come to Cairo and Paducah with Hendricks and Downs, or any other assistant as soon as you can. You must come on train this afternoon if possible. I expect to be there to-morrow.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

37.]

CAIRO, January 16, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

(On train for Saint Louis—sent to Centralia, Ill.)

I am out by orders of the Assistant Secretary of War to assist in moving your army. He said that I should find dispatches from General Thomas at Louisville. Finding nothing I came to Paducah and here. What arrangements are made? How soon will the troops be ready to embark? Is there an ample number of boats up the Tennessee? About twenty-five more are at Paducah and here orders to be ready to go up if required, and can start to-night if necessary. Do you take all your artillery, horses and guns? Please reply as fully as consistent. Say where another dispatch can reach you. It is best to take enough boats to make the troops comfortable.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

38.]

CAIRO, ILL., January 16, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Chief of Rail and River Transportation, Cairo, Ill.:

Major-General Schofield directs me to inform you that boats now at Clifton, Tenn., can bring down not over half of his command. He wishes boats enough sent up to accommodate 10,000 more. There are five mounted batteries to be embarked. Dispatches will reach me here until 7 p. m.; after that at Louisville. I am on my way to Louisville to make arrangements for the transportation of the troops from that point east.

WM. J. TWINING,

Captain and Aide-de-Camp.

39.]

LOUISVILLE, January 14, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS:

Please telegraph me the decision in regard to taking mules and horses.

G. W. SCHOFIELD,

Lieutenant-Colonel, &c.

40.]

WASHINGTON, January 15, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS:

Major-General Thomas telegraphed on the 11th that he would have Major-General Schofield's corps assembled at Eastport by yesterday. Of the artillery, the men alone are to be moved.

C. A. DANA.

41.]

PADUCAH, January 16, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS:

I am directed, by command of Secretary of War, to send a cipher operator with you up the river. Please furnish him such accommodations as you can.

S. BRUCH,

*Captain and Assistant Quartermaster,
Asst. Supt. U. S. Mil. Tel., Division of the Mississippi.*

42.]

CAIRO, ILL., January 16, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Quartermaster, Cairo, Ill. :

COLONEL: By telegram from Captain Bruch, assistant quartermaster and assistant superintendent military telegraph, I am ordered to report to you as "cipher" clerk and wait your further instructions.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. CASSELL,

United States Military Telegraph Operator.

43.]

CAIRO, ILL., January 16, 1865—11.30 a. m.

Commodore LIVINGSTON, Commanding,

Mound City, Ill. :

Can I have a convoy for fifteen transports from Paducah to Eastport this evening? Time is important.

By order of the Quartermaster-General:

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

44.]

MOUND CITY, January 16, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Chief of Rail and River Transportation, Cairo, Ill. :

Have no vessel here fit to convoy. Apply to Lieutenant Saltonstall, U. S. S. Black Hawk, at Paducah.

J. W. LIVINGSTON,

Commodore and Commandant Naval Station.

45.]

CAIRO, January 16, 1865—3 p. m.

Capt. WILLIAM J. TWINING,

Aide-de-Camp, Odin, Ill. :

Your dispatch is received. I start for Paducah immediately. Expect to leave there in the morning. Everything looks well for compliance with your dispatch.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

46.]

CAIRO, January 16, 1865.

General ROBERT ALLEN,

Supervising Quartermaster, Louisville, Ky. :

Yours of this date received. I do not think we shall require all the Cincinnati boats, but for perfect safety they had best come down at once. I hope to leave Paducah to-night.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

47.]

CAIRO, January 16, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C. :

Arrived here this morning. Start for Paducah immediately. Will have boats enough there in the morning for the movement, and start early unless detained for convoy. Hope to be at Clifton early Wednesday and start back on Thursday. Weather and river favorable. A cipher telegraph operator accompanies me, according to your order.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

48.]

CAIRO, January 16, 1865.

Capt. J. H. WILSON,

Assistant Quartermaster, Paducah, Ky. :

Have all the boats take on board at least three days' fuel, and be ready to start on an hour's notice after 10 o'clock to-night, if convoy arrive. Request convoy as soon as possible, as time is important. Will be up this evening.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

49.]

CAIRO, January 16, 1865—3 p. m.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Master Transportation, Baltimore, Md. :

Everything looks well. You will not probably hear from me again for three days.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

50.]

CAIRO, January 16, 1865.

Capt. J. H. WILSON,

Assistant Quartermaster, Paducah, Ky. :

I leave here at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

51.]

CAIRO, January 16, 1865.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH, Esq.,

Master Transpt., Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Md. :

DEAR SIR : I arrived at Paducah last night. Expect to proceed up the Tennessee to-night. Hope to leave Eastport by Thursday. All will probably be embarked on the same day; hence, I fear if we succeed in going up the Ohio they will all reach Parkersburg or Wheeling within two days. I have endeavored to avoid this in accordance with your request, but with the present views of officers, it cannot be done. Hence, in case we reach you by water, it will be of importance to have the largest preparation practicable. As soon as we get out of the mouth I will keep you advised by telegraph of our progress and prospects. Would it not be well to prepare for drawing on the Northern Central, and other roads, for additional machinery, if required? I trust all due preparation will be made to make the troops as comfortable as possible, as I found going over the mountains it was very cold, and without fires it would have been extremely uncomfortable. The certified report to me is 3,000 more than was supposed by the Assistant Secretary.

Very truly, yours,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

52.]

CAIRO, January 16, 1865.

THOMAS LOUGH, Esq.,
Columbus, Ohio:

I expect to start up the Tennessee to-morrow. Shall be absent about three days, unless there is great change in the weather. Shall not require assistance at present. Please advise Gray and Woodward.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

53.]

PADUCAH, January 16, 1865.

Capt. J. H. WILSON, Assistant Quartermaster, or

Capt. H. L. DOWNS:

You will please notify all the boats connected with the fleet to be moved up the Tennessee River that they are expected to be in readiness to leave promptly on a signal from the gun-boat at the hour of 6 o'clock in the morning, and to proceed in the order and with the vessels to which they have severally been assigned.

Very respectfully,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

54.]

PADUCAH, January 17, 1865—2 a. m.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary, Washington City:

All ready to start at daylight. An iron-clad is in the convoy and it will take two days to reach Clifton.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

55.]

LOUISVILLE, January 16, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Cairo, Ill. (thence to Paducah):

I received the following dispatch from General Schofield: "Please send to Clifton boats for 10,000 men. The boats up the river will bring down the balance." Two boats have just arrived from Cincinnati. No dispatch from the quartermaster.

ROBERT ALLEN,
Brigadier-General.

[Confidential.]

56.]

COLUMBUS, OHIO, January 15, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS:

The Messrs. Jewett have consented to my absence. If desired I will therefore be at your service.

T. LOUGH.

57.]

ON BOARD STEAM-BOAT BERTHA,
Tennessee River, January 17, 1865.

Major-General COUCH,

Commanding Twenty-third Corps:

GENERAL: I am commanded by the Assistant Secretary of War to come out and provide for the transportation of the Twenty-third Army Corps. Receiving no definite information at Louisville from General Thomas, as the Assistant Secretary thought would certainly be the case, I have provided such boats as seemed necessary, and have now with me twenty boats moving up. Of them say six or seven are loaded in full or part with troops or stores. If they can be unloaded at Clifton you will have, I think, ample transportation. If they cannot be unloaded, you can, I think, ship all the balance of your army as far as Paducah, where I will prepare an ample number of boats, of which you can take what you require to make your army comfortable. I think Captain Edwards, assistant quartermaster, can render all the assistance necessary up the river and that I had best go to prepare for you on the Ohio.

I am, very respectfully,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

P. S.—If this meets General Couch on the river, would it not be well to send it forward to the commanding officer at Clifton?

58.]

ON BOARD STEAM-BOAT BERTHA,
Tennessee River, January 17, 1865.

Capt. ARTHUR EDWARDS,

Assistant Quartermaster:

You will immediately proceed in charge of the fleet now moving up the river for the transportation of the remaining portion of General Schofield's army corps, now at Clifton. You will have unloaded at Clifton as far as possible the five or six boats now in part loaded with cattle and stores, with all the dispatch possible, and immediately embark the troops thereon, or on as many as shall be necessary. The boats will then proceed to the mouth of the river, where, or on the way up, they will meet with five to seven additional transports which will receive such portions of the corps as it shall be thought best to embark thereon. Having embarked all these troops you will immediately proceed up the Ohio until the commanding general shall give orders for disembarkation. You will take great care to guard against accident by fire and otherwise. You will advise me by telegraph from Johnsonville, Padueah, Louisville, and Cincinnati, using great care in your communication by cipher or otherwise. Should you find it necessary on your arrival you can press five or six boats into the service.

Very respectfully,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

P. S.—You will take with you Captains Hendricks and Downs, to render you such assistance as you may require, who had best proceed as far as Louisville at least.

L. B. P.

59.]

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF QUARTERMASTER,
Louisville, January 16, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS:

COLONEL: I inclose you a copy of a dispatch just received from General Schofield. It is dated, you perceive, at Cairo, but I presume it was sent there from Clifton, as General Schofield cannot be in Cairo. This is about as we expected, that there were boats enough up or on the river to transport 5,000 or 6,000 men. At the time I am now writing (11 o'clock) only two boats have arrived from Cincinnati, and I have not heard from Colonel McKim either by letter or dispatch, although I telegraphed him a second time yesterday. A copy of the dispatch I inclose. I telegraphed you this morning to Paducah and also Cairo. Although you have ordered boats from Cairo to transport 10,000 men, I think it best to send you also the Cincinnati boats. It is better to have a surplus than a deficiency, and the surplus need not go farther than Paducah if you think proper.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBERT ALLEN,
Brigadier-General.

[Inclosure.]

60.]

CAIRO, January 15, 1865.

General R. ALLEN,

Chief Quartermaster, Louisville, Ky.:

Please send to Clifton transportation for 10,000 men. The boats now up the river will bring down the balance.

SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

61.]

PADUCAH, January 18, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

Your two dispatches of yesterday are received. In accordance with my last dispatch we left yesterday morning. Last night we met the entire Second Division and two brigades of the Third, General McLean commanding, 9,000 strong and much overloaded. Ascertaining that I had provided transportation ample for the remainder and deeming it more important that I should return here, I detailed a very competent officer, Capt. Arthur Edwards, to proceed and supervise the embarkation at Clifton. General McLean's command, with additional boats, left this morning at 8 o'clock, and should reach Louisville on Friday morning. After perfecting arrangements here I shall take rail to-night at Cairo and be at Louisville to-morrow. With the present very high water, transports come from Eastport to Paducah in sixteen to twenty hours, from Clifton in twelve to sixteen hours, from Paducah to Louisville in two days, Cincinnati three days, Parkersburg and Wheeling five to six days.

The remainder of the corps from Clifton should be here between this and morning. Transportation is required for 18,000 to 20,000, with five batteries of mounted artillery.

Dispatches will reach me at Cairo until midnight. Please advise the Baltimore and Ohio.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

62.]

CAIRO, January 18, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS:

I send you the Florence for towing purposes. Will send you the Lockwood as soon as I can get her ready, and others as rapidly as possible. The Emperor will be at Paducah this a. m., I think, out of the Cumberland and possibly some others. I will report from time to time.

WOOLFOLK,
Assistant Quartermaster.

63.]

PADUCAH, KY., January 18, 1865.

Brig. Gen. ROBERT ALLEN,
Louisville, Ky.:

Started by daylight yesterday with twenty boats. Met about half the corps coming down last night much overloaded. Ascertaining I had sufficient transportation for balance, I detailed Captain Edwards to proceed and supervise transportation from Clifton. Provided additional boats for and started the fleet for Louisville at 8 o'clock this morning. Transportation is required for nearly 20,000. I shall perfect arrangements here to-day and leave Cairo for Louisville to-night by rail. Only two boats in from Cincinnati. Everything looks well so far.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

64.]

SMITHLAND, January 18, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Chief of Rail and River Transportation:

Five or six boats at this place. The last indorsement on their orders is to proceed to Smithland and coal. General McLean has gone ahead without leaving further orders. Shall I order the boats to follow him?

H. RASIN,
Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

65.]

PADUCAH, KY., January 18, 1865.

Capt. H. RASIN,

Assistant Quartermaster, Smithland, Ky. :

All boats connected with the Twenty-third Army Corps should be ordered to follow the corps up the river as rapidly as possible. You will direct the captains of the transports to make no delays not absolutely necessary.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

P. S.—Will you please direct Captain Johnson to send back boat immediately?

L. B. P.

—

66.]

PADUCAH, KY., January 18, 1865.

Capt. H. RASIN,

Assistant Quartermaster, Smithland, Ky. :

I shall send five or six boats for coal this morning. We are almost out here. Shall also send you fifteen or twenty again within two days. Send word by any opportunity to the miners to get out all the coal they can.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

67.]

SMITHLAND, January 18, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Chief Quartermaster, Paducah, Ky. :

Your dispatch received. Will provide coal for such boats as you may send. Have sent an agent to the mines to have coal in readiness for the vessels as they pass.

H. RASIN,

Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

—

68.]

CAIRO, ILL., January 18, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS,

Paducah :

The Denning, Lockwood, and Julia are the only boats that are in port that can be gotten out with any kind of dispatch. I think I can get them to you by midnight. If any other boats get in from below I will send you one or two more there. There should be boats out of the Cumberland, as the Emperor was reported to have left Nashville yesterday morning. The Decatur, Kennett, and others are due. If possible let the Emperor and barge come on, as General Allen seems to be hurrying forage to Eastport, and she has another barge waiting her here. The Pringle is also to be at Paducah going up loaded and may possibly be used to return troops from above. Please let me know precisely how you are fixed and what is the best you can do with.

WOOLFOLK,

Assistant Quartermaster.

69.] PADUCAH, January 18, 1865.

Capt. A. C. WOOLFOLK,
Assistant Quartermaster, Cairo, Ill.:

I have ordered the Emperor to Cairo as you desire, though she has part of a load for Eastport. Load her as soon and as fully as you can. She leaves at once. Can't you take the Florence for Eastport? The Pringle has gone up the river.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

70.] CAIRO, ILL., January 18, 1865—10 a. m.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS:

The Julia, Lockwood, and Maria Denning are getting ready, but cannot possibly be at Paducah before to-morrow morning. The Florence will leave in half an hour.

A. C. WOOLFOLK,
Assistant Quartermaster.

---

71.] PADUCAH, January 18, 1865.

CAPTAIN OF STEAMER EMPEROR,
Paducah, Ky.:

Owing to the large number of boats necessarily taken to move the Twenty-third Army Corps and to the urgent demands of General Allen for the transportation of forage from Cairo to Eastport, you will proceed from this point to Cairo, and there take as soon as possible a load of forage and proceed at once to Eastport, on your regular trips between Nashville and Eastport. This diversion to Cairo, if due diligence is used, should not interfere with your weekly trips as required by General Donaldson. Captain Woolfolk will delay you as little as possible in obtaining your load.

By order of Quartermaster-General:

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

72.] PADUCAH, January 18, 1865.

Capt. ARTHUR EDWARDS,
Assistant Quartermaster:

I find that General Couch passed you last night without you seeing him and is here this morning. He advises me there are not exceeding 7,000 men, at the outside, left, and that there will be two or three large boats from Eastport in addition to those you have. This being true, you are provided amply for transportation. Of the six boats ordered from Cincinnati I have given one to General McLean and two to General Couch, leaving three that will be here to-night, which will be taken by you to furnish additional transportation, or you can discharge other boats, and take these in place of them. The following is a list of the boats which came down with me connected with General McLean's command: Bertha, Swallow, Minnehaha, Cora S., Clara Poe, Charmer, Financier, Leni Leoti, Burd Levi, Marmora, A. Baker, Havana, Echo, Mercury, Baldwin, Tyrone.

General McLean being very much overcrowded, at his request I gave him the following boats in addition: Navigator, Omaha, Brilliant, Alex. Speer, and Fannie Brandies, five in number, making twenty-one boats attached to his fleet, and one barge loaded with artillery. The boats which came down with General Couch are the Izetta, Palestine, Huntsman, Science No. 2, in addition to which I have given him here the W. F. Curtis and Kate Robinson. This will leave for you here the Blackford, Majestic, and Iron City. It does not seem possible that there can be any deficiency in transportation. Should I be mistaken, you can take any other boat you think proper. You will take the general control of all the above boats, should you overtake any of them, as well as those coming down with you subject, of course, to the orders of commanding generals. I fear some of them may lag behind; if so you will give such imperative orders as shall press them forward. I expect to be in Louisville to-morrow (Thursday) night, and leave there some time the next day. On arriving here you will telegraph me fully, to be sent in cipher, to care of General Allen, at Louisville and again to Cincinnati, from Evansville and Louisville. If I am gone they will be forwarded. I may telegraph you at Evansville and Louisville through the quartermaster. Would it not be well to keep Captains Hendricks and Downs with you as far as you go? I leave it for your discretion. When you cannot telegraph in cipher, telegraph as fully as you can safely. Be sure to take boats enough to make the troops comfortable.

Hoping for your entire success, I am sincerely, yours,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

73.] WASHINGTON, D. C., January 17, 1865—11 a. m.

Colonel PARSONS:

Schofield's corps is to be taken to Alexandria, Va., instead of Annapolis, Md.

C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War.

---

74.] WASHINGTON, D. C., January 17, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS:

C. A. Dana directs me to inquire the length of time it takes loaded transports to come from Eastport to Paducah and from Paducah to Cincinnati. Please answer.

OPERATOR.

---

75.] ODIN, ILL., January 19, 1865.

Capt. J. H. WILSON,

Assistant Quartermaster, Paducah, Ky.:

Please see they get boats enough to be comfortable, and advise me here if Edwards arrives before 8 o'clock.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

76.]      PADUCAH, KY., January 19, 1865—2.30 p. m.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Assistant Quartermaster, Odin, Ill.:

Balance of the corps just arrived in five boats under General Ruger. Boats are now coaling. Captain Edwards not with them.

J. H. WILSON,

Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

—

77.]      ODIN, January 19, 1865.

QUARTERMASTER AT EVANSVILLE, ILL.:

Please inform at 4 o'clock this evening whether the Brilliant has passed up, and, if so, the hour. Also give me the name of all boats having passed up since 10 o'clock last night. Reply here.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

78.]      EVANSVILLE, January 19, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Chief of Rail and River Transportation:

The Brilliant passed up about 6 o'clock this morning. The following boats have passed this point up to 3 p. m., as near as can be ascertained: Minnehaha, Burd Levi, Cora S., Charmer, Bertha, Leni Leoti, Tyrone, Fannie Brandies, Kate Robinson, Swallow, J. H. Baldwin, Clara Poe, Marmora, Alex. Speer, Omaha, Navigator, Havana, Palestine, Echo No. 2, A. Baker, Mercury, Financier, and W. F. Curtis. Will telegraph the remaining this evening.

I. W. HART,

Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

—

79.]      ODIN, January 19, 1865.

General ROBERT ALLEN,

Louisville, Ky.:

Missed connection; cannot get to Louisville before morning. Dispatches will reach me here until 8 o'clock. Had I best push on to Cincinnati or go to L.? All right at midnight when I left.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

79½.]      LOUISVILLE, January 19, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

On No. 1, Odin, Ill.:

No transports have yet arrived. I think you had better come this way. You will be in time to go up with the troops.

R. ALLEN,

Brigadier-General.

80.]

ODIN, January 19, 1865.

Capt. A. C. WOOLFOLK,

Assistant Quartermaster, Cairo, Ill.:

Missed connection. Advise Captain Wilson and request him to send me all the news here until 8 o'clock to-night.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

81.]

SMITHLAND, January 18, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Chief Quartermaster, &c.:

Ali boats left here soon after I telegraphed you.

H. RASIN,

Assistant Quartermaster.

82.]

ODIN, January 19, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

Missed connection here. Will be in Louisville in the morning. Dispatches just received showing about half the corps had passed Louisville by 3 o'clock to-day, and all the balance in the Ohio at that hour.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

83.]

ODIN, January 19, 1865.

General ROBERT ALLEN,

Louisville, Ky.:

Balance all reached Paducah about 3 o'clock this afternoon. I telegraphed you this noon. Did you get it?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

84.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

Colonel MCKIM,

Chief Quartermaster, Cincinnati, Ohio:

Please see Mr. W. H. Clement, president, or E. W. Woodward, superintendent, of Little Miami Railroad, as soon as possible and arrange for transportation of 10,000 to-morrow and 10,000 Sunday. The utmost energy and prompt attention are necessary. They are arriving here now. Obtain military orders for taking cars at all points necessary. See that as many cars as possible have stoves in and a large supply of straw or hay, and one tier of seats around the inside of the car. Mr. Woodward, the superintendent, assured me he would make all arrangements required. Acknowledge the receipt of this and telegraph me hourly the progress. All other trains on the road must necessarily yield to this movement. Say to these gentlemen that I earnestly solicit their every effort to make the movement a success. Lough and Gray at Columbus will give every assistance they can. What is the condition of navigation as to ice at Cincinnati?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

85.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

THOMAS LOUGH, or

D. S. GRAY,

Columbus, Ohio:

Now arriving here; do not think will be at Cincinnati to-morrow before noon; balance next day. I have telegraphed Clement that you will do everything you can. Please act with your accustomed energy and promptness, and see that all cars are as comfortable as possible, supplied with stoves, straw, and seats around the inside. Telegraph Clement or Woodward. I suppose all trains should be stopped going from the East. I go to Cincinnati to-night by rail. Telegraph Caldwell at Zanesville and reply here. Answer soon.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

86.]

LOUISVILLE, January 19, 1865.

W. H. CLEMENT, or

WOODWARD,

Little Miami Railroad, Cincinnati, Ohio:

Have telegraphed Colonel McKim fully. See him as soon as possible. Half are now arriving here. Will be at Cincinnati to-morrow morning. Please do not have an hour's delay. I ask your accustomed energy in making the movement a success.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

87.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

Capt. I. W. HART,

Assistant Quartermaster, Evansville, Ind.:

Telegraph at 4 o'clock all boats that have passed up since your dispatch of 3 o'clock yesterday, and telegraph Sunday morning to Cincinnati, care of Colonel McKim, all that have passed up to that time.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

88.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

Colonel MCKIM,

Chief Quartermaster, Cincinnati, Ohio:

There will be about 20,000 troops and 800 animals. Two thousand will arrive at Cincinnati in the morning.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

89.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA.

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

Fleet now arriving here. Weather cold. Ice forming in the river. Navigation below Pittsburg reported unsafe by ice. All well advised boatmen agree that it would be entirely unsafe attempting to go above Cincinnati until a change of weather for several days. Hence, on consultation with General Schofield and General Allen, have ordered transportation by rail from Cincinnati. They will begin to leave from Cincinnati to-morrow, and arrive there as fast as the roads can transport them.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

90.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH, Esq.,

Master of Transpt., Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Md.:

Now arriving here. Owing to ice in the river will be compelled to take cars at Cincinnati. About one-third to-morrow noon and the balance the two following days. The number is about one-third more than was supposed when I left W. Will you see that coffee is provided every six or eight hours in large quantities? I go to Cincinnati to-night. Let me hear from you. Cannot you get machinery from the Pennsylvania Central and the Northern Cross [Central?] Railroad, so as to move more than you suggested? Please see cars are thoroughly provided with hay or straw and stoves, as the weather threatens to be very cold. I would suggest one tier of seats around the inside of the car.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

91.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

QUARTERMASTER, or

AGENT OF BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD,

Parkersburg, Va.:

Please tell me the condition and the prospects of the river for the next three days as to ice and navigation.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

92.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

QUARTERMASTER, or

AGENT OF BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD,

Wheeling, Va.:

Please tell me the condition and prospects of the river for the next three days as to ice and navigation.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

93.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

Capt. FRANK. ERNST,

Assistant Quartermaster, Louisville, Ky.:

CAPTAIN: You are instructed to detain the steamers (connected with the mail line between Cincinnati and Louisville) at Louisville until detachments of troops can be concentrated and taken on board.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

94.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

Capt. FRANK. ERNST,

Assistant Quartermaster, Louisville, Ky.:

CAPTAIN: You are hereby authorized and instructed to take possession of the Louisville and Portland Canal for such a period of time as is required to pass the fleet of transports bearing troops to this city and to points above.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

95.]

LOUISVILLE, KY., January 20, 1865.

Capt. FRANK. ERNST,

Assistant Quartermaster, Louisville, Ky.:

CAPTAIN: You will require the assistance of Captain Varble and Capt. B. C. Levi to assist in receiving and reshipping troops to this post. You are hereby authorized to employ the above-named parties.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

96.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

General SCHOFIELD,

Louisville, Ky.:

The Cora S. came up here with sick, who have been taken off and put into the hospital here. I desire to put 300 or 400 troops on her and send to Cincinnati to-night. The physician in charge desires some order before, he says, he can properly surrender the boat for such purposes. He says he sees no reason why it could not be so used. Will you not please indorse on this authority for me to use this boat for this purpose?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

[Indorsement.]

97.]

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE OHIO,

Louisville, January 20, 1865.

Colonel Parsons is hereby authorized to take possession of the steamer Cora S. and use her for the purpose named within.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

98.]

BALTIMORE, January 20, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS:

(Care Colonel McKim, chief quartermaster, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

Your dispatch from Odin received 12 noon Friday. River said to be closed in part. How will you send to us? Answer.

W. P. SMITH.

99.]

CINCINNATI, January 20, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS:

(Care of General Allen, Louisville, Ky.)

Telegram received. Mr. Clement is absent. Mr. Woodward will be here this evening. Present indications are not more than 3,000 men can be moved to-morrow. If any additional transportation can be had will advise you. Weather is moderating, but can't calculate on safe navigation for next three or four days even if thaw ensues. Boats can come to Cincinnati. Will telegraph you again to-night. I have a dispatch from W. P. Smith, Baltimore, concerning the river, and have telegraphed him that first shipment by rail to Bellaire will start in the morning.

W. W. MCKIM,
Colonel, &c.

100.]

EVANSVILLE, January 20, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Chief of Rail and River Transportation, Louisville, Ky.:

The following boats have passed this point since 3 o'clock p. m. yesterday: St. Patrick, Huntsman, Science, Nashville, Sherman, Victory, Tarascon, Morning Star, Imperial, Emerald, Nora, Fanny Gilbert, Norman; some passed up during the night without stopping.

I. W. HART,
Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

101.]

EVANSVILLE, January 20, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Louisville, Ky.:

The Stephen Decatur and Champion have passed up since my last dispatch at 2 p. m.

I. W. HART,
Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

102.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

About one-half are here or have passed up. I go to Cincinnati by rail.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

103.]

LOUISVILLE, KY., January 20, 1865.

Colonel MCKIM,

Chief Quartermaster, Cincinnati, Ohio :

I regret to hear progress is so slow. Can you not put on force and assist? More than one-third have passed up. Advise the roads that if they cannot move them promptly I will stop a part to-morrow and send by Indianapolis.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

104.]

LOUISVILLE, January 20, 1865.

E. W. WOODWARD,

Superintendent Little Miami Railroad, Cincinnati, Ohio :

I am sorry to hear so few can be moved to-morrow. If you cannot move them promptly I will stop a part and send by Indianapolis. More than one-third have passed up.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

105.]

CINCINNATI, *January 21, 1865.*Colonel CROSS, Quartermaster, or

AGENT BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD,

Pittsburg, Pa. :

Please advise me immediately the condition of the river as to ice and navigation.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

106.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

THOMAS LOUGH, or

D. S. GRAY,

Columbus, Ohio :

It is reported you are lacking in facilities and ability to make the large transportation desired, and as you thought when I saw you you would be able to do. Please advise me definitely and as early as practicable. I will give any orders you may desire for taking machinery at any point for the use of your road. I know there are no difficulties not insuperable which you will not conquer. Pray give every instruction and use every means to secure the most perfect safety in passing from Columbus to Wheeling; also keep the agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad advised of your progress.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

107.]

COLUMBUS, OHIO, *January 21, 1865.*LEWIS B. PARSONS, Colonel, &c., Cincinnati, Ohio :

We are prepared to move all the trains brought us promptly to Wheeling. Will exercise all imaginable care for safety and comfort of the soldiers. We have a large force now at work unloading cars to send to Cincinnati.

T. LOUGH,

108.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

QUARTERMASTER, or

AGENT BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD,

Parkersburg, Va.:

Please advise me immediately the condition of the river as to ice and navigation. I telegraphed you yesterday and got no reply.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

109.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

One train started last night. We hope to get off from 5,000 to 6,000 to-day and 4,000 to 5,000 to-morrow. It is reported there is difficulty on the Baltimore and Ohio road preventing a rapid transportation. Please ascertain the facts from Mr. Garrett. Would it not be well to direct the military officers commanding along that road to use extraordinary care in guarding bridges, &c.? Time from here to Wheeling will be about twenty hours. I shall remain here to-day and to-morrow.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

110.]

WASHINGTON, January 21, 1865—8 p. m.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

Mr. Garrett informs me that there is nothing to cause delay on any part of his road.

C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War.

—

111.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

QUARTERMASTER, or

AGENT BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD,

Wheeling, Va.:

Please advise me immediately the condition of the river as to ice and navigation. I telegraphed you yesterday and got no reply.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

112.]

WHEELING, VA., January 21, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Chief of Rail and River Transportation:(Care Colonel McKim, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

Five feet of water in the channel. Navigation is entirely suspended by floating ice.

GUS. ARTSMAN,

Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

113.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

Lieutenant-Colonel MACFEELEY,

Cincinnati, Ohio :

In the present movement of troops it is of great importance that ample preparation be made in the way of commissaries, especially in preparing as often as once in six to eight hours an abundant supply of hot coffee to be given to each train as it passes. The arrangement should be made as perfect, not only in the way of supply, but in facilities for furnishing it as rapidly as is practicable. I have therefore to request that you will as promptly as possible make such arrangements by telegraph and otherwise as will secure the end desired and prevent all possibility of failure in so important a matter.

By order of Secretary of War :

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

114.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Master Transpt., Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Md. :

To whom shall I telegraph to Wheeling and Parkersburg? I do not get replies from there. One-third left to-day. Can I not take 2,000 or 3,000 daily via Marietta road?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

115.]

BALTIMORE, January 21, 1865—5.30 p. m.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio :

Telegraph J. B. Ford, Wheeling, or S. C. Gale, Parkersburg. Take 1,000 per day at least, via Marietta road, if river will permit their transfer at Parkersburg. We are pressing equipment to river from this end, and coffee and other arrangements fully understood. Advise me every five hours.

W. P. SMITH.

116.]

LOUISVILLE, January 21, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS :

(Care Colonel McKim, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

The following-named boats have passed through canal since you left : Charmer, Financier, Marmora, Alex. Speer, Mercury, Havana, Navigator, Palestine, Huntsman, Kate Robinson, W. F. Curtis, Nightingale. As soon as coaled will proceed immediately.

FRANK. ERNST,

Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

117.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Master Transpt., Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Md.:

The weather is changing rapidly; rain is commencing. It may be safe in the morning to start boats for Parkersburg. If so, I shall send more than one-half that way. Will keep you advised. Has there been any arrangement for coffee on your road?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

(See answer, 144.)

118.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

The weather is becoming much warmer; rain commencing. If it is deemed safe in the morning I shall start more than one-half for Parkersburg.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

119.]

WASHINGTON, January 21, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

Cannot you use the Marietta road? A great deal of transportation was accumulated for you at Parkersburg.

C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War.

120.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

Your dispatch of this day just received. I can send 2,000 or 3,000 to-morrow over the Marietta road; but yesterday it was reported that even a ferry-boat could not cross there. I have also just received dispatch from the agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Parkersburg as follows: "Navigation suspended at this point. Prospects are that it will continue for three or four days." I think the safest way is to send 5,000 or 6,000 to-day and to-morrow to Wheeling and the balance up the river. if to-morrow it appears safe to do so.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

121.]

CINCINNATI. OHIO, January 20, 1865—5.15 p. m.

W. P. SMITH,

Master of Transpt., Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Md.:

Your message to Colonel Parsons received. Troops will go from here by rail; expect to start first train of about 4,000 to Bellaire to-morrow morning.

W. W. McKIM,

Colone. and Chief Quartermaster.

122.]

CINCINNATI, OHIO, January 21, 1865.

Capt. R. BURR, or

ARMY QUARTERMASTER,

Columbus, Ohio:

The necessities of the Government require several hundred cars to move troops immediately. You will therefore make requisitions at once on such roads as can soonest furnish them for at least 200 good, safe cars, suitable for moving troops, and if any road fails or refuses to deliver them promptly you will immediately take possession of the cars and deliver them to Thomas Lough or D. S. Gray and J. W. Doherty, with whom you will at once consult before further action.

By order of Secretary of War:

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

123.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

H. J. JEWETT,

President Central Ohio Railroad, Zanesville, Ohio:

We expect to send over 400 cars to you in the next three days. Say 200 to-morrow morning. It seems to me necessary to stop all other trains after to-night. Do you not concur for safety? I would suggest that all trains be limited to ten to twelve miles per hour.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

124.]

COLUMBUS, OHIO, January 21, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

We have suspended all but our through passenger trains and will have power here sufficient to move the trains as they arrive from Cincinnati. We have reduced the rate of speed to the maximum of ten miles per hour. If power is needed will also suspend passenger trains.

H. J. JEWETT.

125.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS:

(Care General R. Allen, Louisville, Ky.)

COLONEL: The following is a copy of telegram sent you this a. m. in reply to your dispatch of this date, viz:

I shall probably have cars enough for the troops as they arrive; shall know positively in a few hours.

If the rain now falling and moderate weather continue, as appearances indicate, the boats can proceed to Parkersburg by to-morrow night, which will be safer and better for the men.

Will you authorize me to order the boats to proceed, if deemed judicious?

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. W. McKIM,

Colonel and Chief Quartermaster.

126.] PADUCAH, January 20, 1865—5 a. m.

Col. L. B. PARSONS.

(Care General Allen, chief quartermaster, Louisville, Ky.)

The troops are all on their way up the Ohio River. We leave with some 300 at 4 a. m. this morning and will overtake them to-day.

ARTHUR EDWARDS,
Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

127.] COLUMBUS, OHIO, January 21, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

The trains which left here this a. m. for Bellaire are stopped at Zanesville to cook their rations. Cannot this be avoided by providing cooked rations at those places by the military authorities? It will avoid great delay.

T. LOUGH.

128.] CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

THOMAS LOUGH,

Columbus, Ohio:

The trains leaving to-day and hereafter will all have five days' cooked rations. The commissary has assured me that arrangements should be made for hot coffee at Columbus and Bellaire.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

129.] CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

SAMUEL C. GALE,

Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Parkersburg, Va.:

Please telegraph me as early in the morning as consistent whether there is any change in the prospect for navigation, and also to-morrow evening.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

130.] PARKERSBURG, January 21, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

Navigation suspended at this point. Prospects are that it will continue for some three or four days.

SAMUEL C. GALE.

131.] BALTIMORE, January 21, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

I have your dispatch from Louisville,* and your letter from Paducah.† Increase of numbers with five sets of vehicles is a surprise to us, but will make every effort. I fear provision of coffee not within our possibility, as a commissary officer should make such arrangement. I will, however, telegraph.

* See 20th, p. 241.

† See 16th, p. 230.

W. P. SMITH.

132.]

EVANSVILLE, January 21, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS:

(Care of Colonel McKim, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

The following have passed up since Thursday morning, as near as can be ascertained, some having passed up during the night without stopping: Brilliant, Kate Robinson, Palestine, Charmer, Marmora, Fannie Brandies, Havana, Cora S., Clara Poe, Mercury, Navigator, Minnehaha, Burd Levi, Swallow, J. H. Baldwin, Echo No. 2, A. Baker, Bertha, Leni Leoti, Alex. Speer, W. F. Curtis, Huntsman, Nashville, Tarascon, Nora, Stephen Decatur, Tyrone, Science, Nightingale, Morning Star, Fanny Gilbert, Caroline, Omaha, Izetta, Sherman, Imperial, Norman, Financier, St. Patrick, Victory, Emerald, Champion.

I. W. HART,

Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

133.]

COLUMBUS, January 21, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

How many men do you propose to move each day positively? I understand you not to exceed 4,000, as that would be the limit of the Baltimore and Ohio facilities. This can be done without large demand from other roads; while 200 cars, which would carry 8,000 men, will require a great number of extra engines. I would suggest that no more men be started from Cincinnati each day than can be disposed of by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad daily at Bellaire. Please answer.

T. LOUGH.

134.]

BALTIMORE, January 21, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

Am I to understand that whole movement will be made by Benwood, or are part to come by Marietta road, and what part?

W. P. SMITH.

135.]

PARKERSBURG, January 21, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

Your dispatch just received. Did not receive dispatch of 20th instant. The weather is moderating, and ice thawing very rapidly. Boats left here for Cincinnati and Wheeling this p. m.

B. F. KELLEY, JR.,

Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

136.]

BALTIMORE, January 21, 1865—8.30 p. m.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Cincinnati, Ohio:

Your dispatch of 2 p. m. received 8 p. m. I note what you say about expected change in river. Please keep us advised. Coffee matters all arranged. I have telegraphed you three times to-day.

W. P. SMITH.

137.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Master Transpt., Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Md.:

From 4,000 to 5,000 left to-day by rail via Columbus. About the same number will probably leave to-morrow, and the same next day. If ice will admit some 5,000 to 7,000 will start for Parkersburg on boat to-morrow, or next day. If not, they will go the same as the balance, unless you direct by rail to Marietta. Your agent at Parkersburg telegraphed me this morning that navigation was entirely suspended at Parkersburg, and likely to be for three or four days. Captain Kelley reports late this evening that it is thawing rapidly. Do not blame me for sending troops so fast, or that there are so many. I could not change it. General Schofield expects there will be some detention, but is anxious to get them along as fast as he can. He does not expect anything unreasonable from you. Arrangements for coffee have been made at Wheeling and Columbus.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

138.]

CINCINNATI, January 21, 1865.

General ROBERT ALLEN,

Quartermaster, Louisville, Ky.:

Boats detained somewhat by fog last night, but are now arriving rapidly. We have arrangements for sending 7,000 to 8,000 a day. Navigation at Parkersburg reported as suspended and not likely to be open for two or three days.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation

139.]

CINCINNATI, January 22, 1865.

AGENT BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD,

Wheeling, Va.:

General Schofield and staff and about 200 guard left here at 8 a. m. via Columbus for Wheeling to proceed over Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to-night by your regular train or otherwise. Be prepared and telegraph to General Schofield stating your arrangements by my request, and answer here.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

140.]      WHEELING, January 22, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Chief of Rail and River Transportation, Cincinnati, Ohio:

We will have transportation ready for General Schofield on arrival at Bellaire.

J. B. FORD,
Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

141.]      CINCINNATI, OHIO, January 22, 1865.

Captain KELLEY, or
 SAMUEL C. GALE,
Parkersburg, Va.:

I telegraphed you Saturday night without reply asking in reference to navigation and ice this morning. Please advise me immediately and also to-morrow morning early.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

142.]      CINCINNATI, January 22, 1865.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,
Baltimore, Md.:

Your three dispatches of yesterday received. I telegraphed you fully late last night. A dense fog for the last thirty hours suspended navigation entirely, hence we have only forwarded to 6 p. m. this day about 6,000; are now loading and expect to get off to-night 2,000 more. Shall probably send 3,000 to 4,000 more to-morrow, all by Columbus. If it is certainly safe to send by river shall probably send 6,000 to 7,000 to Parkersburg by boat to-morrow evening or next day. Will advise you in the morning. I am confident we are acting most prudently in the course we are pursuing—have been surrounded by doubt and uncertainty. Will reserve most of the animals and artillery for the last.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

143.]      CINCINNATI, January 22, 1865.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,
Baltimore, Md.:

I suppose you are advised that the destination has been changed to Alexandria. Some of the troops have orders for Annapolis. Please immediately give such orders as will prevent going to Annapolis and send them directly to Alexandria. Columbus is instructed to promptly notify your agent at Wheeling of the force of all trains passing. Answer.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

144.]

BALTIMORE, January 23, 1865.

(Received 9 a. m. 24th.)

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

Your dispatches of 8 and 10 p. m. Sunday received, three in number. Commissary-General has now fixed about coffee matter. I understand about change of destination to Alexandria. Weather is very bad in this longitude from sleet, snow, and rain, but we are on the alert and hope to do the thing effectively. Please keep Wheeling and Parkersburg constantly advised from Cincinnati and Columbus.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH.

145.]

CINCINNATI, January 22, 1865—8 p. m.

Hon. C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War:

Your dispatch of yesterday received. Owing to the dense fog entirely suspending navigation for thirty hours boats have not arrived as fast as was expected. Have sent up to 6 p. m., via Columbus, about 6,000. Are loading and expect to send over 2,000 to-night and about 4,000 to-morrow. If the river is certainly safe shall probably send balance on boats to Parkersburg, to arrive by the time the others are moved from Wheeling. Have been surrounded by uncertainties and taken the safest course.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

146.]

CINCINNATI, January 22, 1865—8 p. m.

THOMAS LOUGH,

Columbus, Ohio:

Please be sure and promptly notify the agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Wheeling of the number of troops and animals in each train as they pass Columbus. Has coffee been provided for all trains by the commissary? Woodward answered your dispatch to me last night. Are all trains going well on the Central?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

147.]

COLUMBUS, OHIO, January 23, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Transportation Quartermaster, Cincinnati, Ohio:

I notify J. B. Ford, agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Wheeling, immediately upon the departure from here of the number of cars, animals, cars of baggage, and cars of troops on each train, in order that they may furnish the same facilities. Our trains are moving very nicely at their limited speed of ten miles per hour. Coffee is prepared here and delivered at each car at the same moment. Captain Goodrich is here watching every movement, and so far everything has gone well.

T. LOUGH,

Superintendent.

148.]

CINCINNATI, OHIO, January 22, 1865.

J. B. FORD,

Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Wheeling, Va.:

Did you get my dispatch of this morning, stating General Schofield would be in Wheeling to-night with 200 troops to go immediately east? Has the commissary provided abundance of coffee for troops at Bellaire? Do you receive prompt information from Columbus of the force of trains passing there? How are you getting on?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

149.]

WHEELING, January 23, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

Yes; to all your inquiries. We telegraphed you and General Schofield. We have special trains in waiting for general, staff, and guards. Dispatched east, from the river, the first trains at 5.10 a. m. Our arrangements are perfected for prompt movement. We have suspended one of our passenger trains, and will suspend both if necessary.

J. B. FORD.

150.]

CINCINNATI, OHIO, January 22, 1865.

General J. M. SCHOFIELD:

(Care J. B. Ford, agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Wheeling, Va.)

I telegraphed the agent at Wheeling early this morning of your coming. Do you find everything satisfactory? A dense fog has prevailed all day, preventing arrival of boats. We will, however, come nearly up to my dispatch of last night. How about the river?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

151.]

BENWOOD, W. VA., January 23, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS,

Chief of Transportation, Cincinnati, Ohio:

Your dispatch of yesterday is received. All arrangements seem very satisfactory, and I think the troops will go through all right. I start east at 12 o'clock, and expect to go through on passenger time. I think delay on Columbus road was not due to any fault of the superintendent, but to that of the conductors and local agents.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

152.]

BALTIMORE, January 22, 1865—3.30 p. m.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

We are providing rapidly to meet exigency both at Benwood and Wheeling. Coffee will be ready at Benwood, but have had to telegraph Commissary-General at Washington to give specific orders to Grafton, Cumberland, Martinsburg, and Sandy Hook. Won't you send some by Marietta road?

W. P. SMITH,
Master Transportation.

---

153.]

CINCINNATI, January 22, 1865—10 p. m.

W. P. SMITH,

Baltimore, Md.:

Your dispatch of this day received. I regret you have had so much trouble about coffee. It should not have been so. I have advised you fully to-night at 8 o'clock as to sending to Parkersburg. I may conclude in the morning to send some by the Marietta road.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

154.]

PARKERSBURG, January 23, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

Navigation has been resumed this morning; boats leaving here for Wheeling and Pittsburg.

SAML. C. GALE,
Agent.

---

155.]

EVANSVILLE, January 23, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS:

(Care Colonel McKim, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

Steamers Emma Floyd, Naugatuck, and Argyle have passed up since my dispatch of yesterday.

I. W. HART,
Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

---

156.]

PARKERSBURG, January 23, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

When may I expect the troops here? Please answer quick.

SAM. C. GALE.

157.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865—11.30 a. m.

SAMUEL C. GALE,

Agent, Parkersburg, Va.:

About 3,000 will start this evening and reach you in from two to two and a half days. Will advise you when others start.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

158.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865—10 a. m.

SAMUEL C. GALE,

Agent, Parkersburg, Va.:

Six hundred to 1,000 troops left Louisville for Parkersburg nearly a week ago. I can hear nothing from them. Have they arrived? If so, they are to proceed immediately with the Twenty-third Army Corps. Let me hear from you as soon as possible. What is the condition of the river? I have telegraphed several times without any reply.

LEWIS B. PARSONS.

—

159.]

PARKERSBURG, January 23, 1865

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio:

No troops have arrived here yet. River full of floating ice and but few boats running. Your dispatches have been answered daily.

SAML. C. GALE,

Agent.

—

159½.]

EVANSVILLE, January 23, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS:

(Care Colonel McKim, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

The Des Moines passed up at 2 p. m. Said to be the last of the fleet.

I. W. HART,

Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

—

160.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Baltimore, Md.:

Over 8,000 had left by 12 o'clock last night via Columbus. Twenty-five hundred more are now loading by the same route. Three thousand will start this evening for Parkersburg on boats, and reach there in from fifty to sixty hours. Probably about 1,500 more will start to-day by Columbus. Do not think I shall send any by the Marietta railroad.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

161.]

LOUISVILLE, January 23, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS:

(Care Colonel McKim, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

Captain Edwards here. The last of the boats are now passing through the canal.

FRANK. ERNST,

Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

162.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865.

Major MACFEELY,
Chief Commissary :

DEAR SIR: I regret to be obliged to advise you that there are about 1,000 men again delayed for a lack of rations at the Little Miami Railroad depot. Is it not possible to put an end to the recurrence of these detentions? Will you not give such orders as will prevent further delay? There are some eight or ten boats ordered up to Parkersburg with troops, and will leave as soon as they get their rations and fuel.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

163.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865.

CAPTAIN OF STEAMER:

SIR: In proceeding to Parkersburg in accordance with the orders of Captain Lewis, assistant quartermaster, you will move as rapidly as possible consistent with the utmost safety in regard to the troops on your boat. Should a change of the weather occur whereby it should become dangerous to proceed owing to ice, you will, unless otherwise ordered by the military officers in command, immediately return to this city. It is hoped and believed, however, by promptness you will be able to reach Parkersburg without difficulty. General Couch will proceed in command of all boats proceeding up the river, his headquarters being on board the Major Anderson.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

(The above order was sent to the following boats, viz: Marmora, Huntsman, Alex. Speer, Baltimore, Rose Hite, Nashville, Norman, Navigator, and Havana.)

164.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865.

SAMUEL C. GALE,

Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Parkersburg :

Your dispatch and one from Captain Kelley (184) just received, in consequence of which I have ordered boats not to leave till further news from you to-morrow. Telegraph me as early in the morning as possible as to ice and navigation.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

165.]

PARKERSBURG, January 24, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati, Ohio :

Weather very cold. River rising. A great deal of ice passing. Steamer Telegraph arrived this p.m. with colored troops from Catlettsburg.

S. C. GALE.

166.]

PARKERSBURG, January 23, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,
Cincinnati, Ohio :

Ice running heavy; quite a snow-storm; no boats running to-day.

B. F. KELLEY, JR.

167.]

CINCINNATI, January 24, 1865—12 m.

D. W. CALDWELL,
Superintendent, Zanesville, Ohio :

Are all trains proceeding safely without accident, and to your satisfaction? Please answer definitely.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

168.]

ZANESVILLE, January 24, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,
Columbus, Ohio :

The movement thus far has been very satisfactory. Trains are being run slowly and carefully, but with entire freedom from accident.

D. W. CALDWELL.

169.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865.

Col. W. W. McKIM,
Cincinnati, Ohio :

DEAR COLONEL : Captain Lewis has just shown me your note to him. Owing to the arrival of a large number of boats during the night, and constant arrival this morning, together with the presence of Generals Cooper, Couch, and Ruger, all pressing to get their troops forward as fast as possible, Captain Lewis and myself have been incessantly occupied in arranging the troops—a portion to go by water and a portion by rail—giving orders for their fuel, rations, &c., so that it has been absolutely impossible for the captain to do anything else.

Feeling assured that if everything was going well you would not desire so many boats and men should be delayed to make a formal report, we have simply confined ourselves to pushing forward the troops. Be assured there has been no intentional lack of compliance with your wishes in giving you a prompt report, on the part of Captain Lewis, and it is only from the circumstances above mentioned that it has been done. As soon as the present pressing requisitions are complied with, the captain will send you up a statement of everything that has been done. Under such circumstances may I not ask that you will temporarily waive his reporting to you in person.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

P. S.—As soon as report can be made up I will bring it up myself.

170.]

CINCINNATI, January 22, 1865.

Capt. J. V. LEWIS,

Assistant Quartermaster, Cincinnati, Ohio :

Colonel McKim having expressed a desire that you should take supervision of the movement of the Twenty-third Army Corps from this place, and also a desire that proper authority should be given, you are hereby instructed to take general supervision, and see that the troops are properly and safely shipped on cars of the Hamilton and Dayton or Little Miami Railroad, via Columbus, and the Central Ohio to Bellaire. You will use great care in seeing that the proper orders for transportation are given, and that the Government receipts for no more transportation than is received. As soon as the entire transportation is completed you will please make a report to me at Washington of the number of troops and time moved, and everything of interest pertaining to the expedition.

By order of Quartermaster-General:

Very respectfully,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

171.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865—6 p. m.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Baltimore, Md. :

Following dispatch received from Captain Kelley at 2 o'clock: "Ice running heavy; quite a snow-storm; no boats running to-day." In consequence of which I have ordered boats not to start till further news from Parkersburg. Shall get off 4,000 to-day by rail, and probably send as many more to-morrow. Coming at this rate I presume you can move them without trouble.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

172.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865—6 p. m.

C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C. :

Four thousand men gone by rail to-day, making over 12,000. The following dispatch received from Captain Kelley, assistant quartermaster at Parkersburg, to-day: "Ice running heavy; quite a snow-storm; no boats running to-day." In consequence of which I have ordered boats not to leave till further orders. I shall keep shipping by rail to-morrow. Trains all moving well through Ohio.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

173.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865—7 p. m.

J. B. FORD,

Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Wheeling, Va. :

The ice is so bad I think we shall keep shipping to-morrow and next day by Wheeling. How many trains have arrived? Telegraph me every twelve hours how matters progress.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

174.]

WHEELING, January 23, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Chief of Rail and River Transportation, Cincinnati, Ohio:

We have dispatched seven trains to destination, all that had arrived at Bellaire to 9 p. m. Power and cars in waiting to take troops, &c., as fast as they arrive. Twenty-six hundred men have gone forward.

J. B. FORD.

175.] LITTLE MIAMI AND COLUMBUS AND XENIA R. R. Co.,
SUPERINTENDENT'S DEPARTMENT,

Cincinnati, January 24, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS:

DEAR SIR: The Central Ohio road is probably short of power. Had you not best telegraph to Lough, or quartermaster at Columbus, authority to take if necessary two engines of the Piqua railroad and two of the Cleveland, Columbus, and Cincinnati Railroad. Trains are going very slowly east for safety. We cleared out the yesterday's lot at 2 a. m. this morning. My impression is that we can take the troops to Columbus as fast as they can be taken away from there.

E. W. WOODWARD.

176.]

CINCINNATI, January 24, 1865—10 a. m.

THOMAS LOUGH,

Superintendent, Columbus, Ohio:

Please advise me why it is trains are moving so slowly over the Central Ohio. Report from Wheeling shows the arrival of a much less number of troops than I had expected, and that the Baltimore and Ohio was waiting. Are you short of engines? If so, the quartermaster at Columbus will give you authority to make requisition or take possession of as many as are necessary. We send 4,000 more to-day, and the same to-morrow, making about 20,000 in all. Pray act promptly, and advise me fully. Cannot the Piqua furnish you engines if required?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

176½.]

OFFICE DEPOT COMMISSARY OF SUBSISTENCE,

[January 23, 1865.]

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Chief of Rail and River Transportation,Burnet House, Cincinnati, Ohio:

COLONEL: I am in receipt of your communication of this date* informing me that there are about 1,000 men again delayed for lack of rations at the Little Miami Railroad depot. In reply I have to inform you that I found but one regiment, about 400 men, at the Little Miami depot; that rations had been drawn for this regiment by the division commissary of subsistence this forenoon. I have kept an agent at the depot since yesterday to ascertain what rations are required, immediately on the arrival of each detachment, and to have them supplied without a moment's delay. I have plenty of cooked rations, and can supply the troops as rapidly as I can ascertain what they require. I assure you that the delay cannot be attributed to any failure or neglect of the subsistence department of this place.

* See No. 162, p. 257.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
R. MACFEELY,
Major and Commissary of Subsistence, U. S. Army.

176½.]

WHEELING, January 25, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Zanesville, Ohio :

Just received the following from our agent at Benwood :

We have been ready two hours to start train No. 20. Now 5.40 p. m., but the men won't let us do it because White, the officer in charge, is across the river at Bellaire. They are nearly all drunk, and threaten to shoot us. We are providing the cars with straw; very many of them have stoves. No troops laying over for want of transportation. We will get provost-marshal-general to remedy the difficulty if possible at Benwood.

Troops are coming through promptly and abundance of coffee is supplied at Benwood and on the line, and in case there should be a temporary delay at Bellaire the officers should be requested to have the men leave the cars, so they can be returned to Cincinnati. We answered your message last night.

J. B. FORD.

177.]

CINCINNATI, January 24, 1865.

Hon. C. A. DANA,
Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C. :

I shall get off 16,000 by midnight. There will be about 3,000 or 4,000 who will go to-morrow. I shall be at Columbus to-morrow, Wheeling next day.

LEWIS B. PARSONS.

177½.]

CINCINNATI, January 24, 1865—3 p. m.

W. P. SMITH,
Baltimore, Md. :

It is so cold I fear there will be suffering going over the mountains unless there is great care in the preparation of stoves, &c. I go to Columbus to-night, remain one day, and then to Wheeling. Everything works well so far as I can learn.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

178.]

CINCINNATI, January 24, 1865.

General ROBERT ALLEN,
Louisville, Ky. :

At least 16,000 will have left by dark to-night. Balance go to-morrow. I go to Columbus and Wheeling, to remain one or two days. All go by rail, and everything works admirably. Please request provost-marshal to send stragglers to report to Captain Lewis as soon as possible.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

178½.]      XENIA, January 24, 1865.
J. B. FORD,
Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Wheeling, Va. :

It is so severely cold I fear troops may suffer in going over the mountains. I hope you will provide stoves, straw, and coffee, and make them as comfortable as possible. I am on my way to Columbus. Telegraph me there to-night how many trains have gone east and how many are waiting to go.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

179.]      COLUMBUS, January 24, 1865—10 p. m.
W. PRESCOTT SMITH,
Baltimore, Md. :

I find trains are arriving so fast at Bellaire that I have ordered the trains of to-morrow not to leave Cincinnati till evening.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

179½.]      COLUMBUS, January 25, 1865.
J. B. FORD,
Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Wheeling, Va. :

Major-General Couch, commanding the Twenty-third Army Corps, has issued the following order, which please promptly furnish by copy to the commanding officer of every train, and send to such other places as you think proper.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

180.]      HEADQUARTERS TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
ORDER.]      Columbus, Ohio, January 25, 1865.

All commanding officers of trains will have company officers in the trains with their men. All commanding officers of trains will have established guards at stopping places, and see that no depredations are committed by the troops, and that all liquor shops are closed. Railroad officers are expected to report to me the regiment guilty of depredation.

D. N. COUCH,
Major-General.

180½.]

COLUMBUS, January 25, 1865.

J. B. FORD,

Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Wheeling, Va. :

I telegraphed you last night; no reply. Please let me hear as soon as possible how many cars have started over your road, and how they progress. Also how many are waiting at Bellaire. Major-General Couch, commanding, is here, and anxious to know before he goes on. Do you put large quantities of straw, or hay, in every car? This is very important. You can't put in too much. How about coffee?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

181.]

COLUMBUS, January 24, 1865—10 p. m.

E. W. WOODWARD,

Superintendent, Cincinnati, Ohio :

Please direct that no troops leave Cincinnati before to-morrow evening. They are accumulating too rapidly at Bellaire. It is better that they remain on the boats a few hours, than at that place. Advise Captain Lewis of this. All goes well here.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

181½.]

ZANESVILLE, OHIO, January 24, 1865—11 p. m.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Columbus, Ohio :

We found it necessary to unload a large amount of freight at Columbus and other points to give you the use of the cars. I regret to say the soldiers are disposing of a considerable amount of it. Can't you protect us?

H. J. JEWETT.

—

181¾.]

COLUMBUS, January 25, 1865.

H. J. JEWETT,

Zanesville, Ohio :

A guard has been detailed to protect property here. General Hooker has given stringent orders. I have requested him to give like orders at Bellaire, and to close all liquor shops on the line. Is all going well at Bellaire?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

182.]

COLUMBUS, January 25, 1865—12 p. m.

H. J. JEWETT,

Zanesville, Ohio :

Major-General Couch, commanding the Twenty-third Army Corps, has issued the following order*, which please furnish by copy to the commanding officer of every passing train, and also send it to such places as you think best. I will send a copy to Bellaire. The general will go up this afternoon.

* See No. 180, p. 262.

By order of Major-General Couch:

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

182 $\frac{1}{2}$ .]

COLUMBUS, January 25, 1865.

H. J. JEWETT,

Zanesville:

Your dispatch received. Mr. Lough is doing all that can be done here. Are there other points where damage is being done?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

183.]

CINCINNATI, January 23, 1865—6.15 p. m.

THOMAS M. LOWE,

Maysville, Ky.:

The Major Anderson left here in pursuit of the steamer Rose Hite. Please hail her and say that the Rose Hite is here.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

183 $\frac{1}{2}$ .]

CINCINNATI, January 24, 1865—10 a. m.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Baltimore:

Your two dispatches of 1 and 8 p. m. yesterday just received. I sent you two dispatches yesterday. Weather entirely forbidding sending troops up by boat. Have sent to this hour 12,000 by Columbus. Have about 8,000 here. Shall only send, say, 4,000 to-day in order not to cumber you too much at Wheeling. Balance to-morrow. As we have coffee and everything arranged and running well by Columbus, it does not seem best to send any to Parkersburg by rail. I hope this will not disappoint you. Lough has been instructed and informs me he does constantly advise Wheeling of the movement of every train passing Columbus. I hear no complaint from Mr. Ford of any lack of information. Considering weather and everything, we are getting along wonderfully well.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

184.]

CINCINNATI, January 24, 1865—10.30 a. m.

E. W. WOODWARD,

Superintendent, Cincinnati, Ohio:

Please instruct one of your agents to telegraph Wheeling of the departure of every train with the number of cars with men and horses.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

1844½.]

CINCINNATI, January 24, 1865—10.30 a. m.

SAMUEL C. GALE,

Parkersburg:

The ice and weather are so bad I have ordered troops to disembark and proceed to Bellaire by rail. No troops will be sent to Parkersburg except one or two boats that left some days since, and where they are I cannot learn. They contain about 600 troops. If they have not arrived you need not keep cars waiting for them, provided they are wanting cars at Wheeling.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

185.]

CINCINNATI, January 24, 1865—10.30 a. m.

J. B. FORD,

Wheeling:

Ice and weather so bad have ordered troops to disembark and all proceed by rail via Columbus. About 12,000 have left to this hour, 4,000 more to-day, and the balance, 3,000 to 4,000, to-morrow. Do you get full information from Columbus of passing of all trains at that point? I hope an abundance of coffee is provided on arrival of troops. How are you getting on?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

185½.]

ZANESVILLE, January 25, 1865.

THOMAS LOUGH,

Columbus, Ohio:

Do you think it policy to allow trains to be detained so long on the road? Would it not be better to detain them at Columbus until you can send them directly through? Why not take engines from other roads, as I have requested you should do, while you are so short? It seems to me it would be better to entirely stop all returning trains, the engines only coming back. I think this is absolutely necessary. Things go very slowly now.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

186.]

COLUMBUS, OHIO, January 25, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Zanesville, Ohio:

The detentions to trains at Union to-day has not been for want of power, but on account of the number collected at that station and meeting the trains eastward [westward?] bound. It would certainly be easier for us to have had the trains a little slower, but as it was desired we should push them along, we have made our best efforts to secure safety by running slow and be diligent. We would have called on other companies for power, but the bad weather has broken up their engines and every road centering here is very short, and, as you determined last night, I have thought we could fill the bill at Wheeling without calling upon our neighbors, but if you say drive them along I will make the requisition. Answer me after you see Caldwell and Jewett at Zanesville. I will telegraph you the time of departure from Cincinnati and Columbus and arrival of the rest of the trains at Bellaire.

THOS. LOUGH.

1862.]

BALTIMORE, January 23, 1865—8 p. m.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Cincinnati :

Yours of 11.30 received 7.40 p. m. First 3,000 left Benwood for Washington from 5 to 10 this m. with officers by passenger train, and all baggage and effects very promptly. We have cars there for 4,000 men and other cars in good reach for 6,000 additional.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Master of Transportation.

187.]

ZANESVILLE, January 26, 1865—12.15 a. m.

THOMAS LOUGH,

Columbus :

I have received your dispatch. I think it obviously best to stop all westbound trains, except the regular passenger trains, until all the troops have passed, and Mr. Caldwell will so stop them by my request. You have more cars than are necessary to move all the troops, and I do not think it right to have trains detained all along the line for so many hours. If you require the engines they can go back by several going together. Ford says there are no troops waiting at Bellaire. Tell Woodward to start all troops, animals, and artillery as soon as possible. Of course I only desire them to go as fast as is consistent with perfect safety, but I do not see how eight or ten hours' detention by trains going west adds to safety. Please advise me of all trains leaving Cincinnati and Columbus. You will also require that all trains bound east shall have preference over all trains over the Steubenville road.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

187½.]

COLUMBUS, January 26, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS,

Zanesville :

Your dispatch 12.15 a. m. was received. I had deferred answering till I should know what the morning would bring forth. I can imagine your anxiety to know that a slow ride to Zanesville on a passenger train would make you feel that everything else was moving in the same way. But the fact is the delay to passenger trains is intended, as we are giving the soldiers' trains the preference. The state of the case this morning is as follows:

No. 17 has unloaded at Bellaire and transferred. Nos. 18, 19, and 20 were within eighteen miles of Bellaire at 9 a. m. Mr. Caldwell can tell you where 21, 22, 23, and 24 are. No. 25 engine failed at Union, but would be pushed into Newark by passenger train, by which time the repairs would be made, as the stem of the plunger to the pump only had to be strengthened. Nos. 27 and 28 are ready to leave here and we have four engines here which are being made ready and crew rested. I see no difficulty in keeping up to the Baltimore and Ohio facilities, and, compared with the movement of trains on the other road east of Columbus, the percentage is much in our favor. When we consider the number of trains and all irregular, as to accidents we have escaped beyond my anticipations and with present extraordinary care.

THOMAS LOUGH.

---

188.]

ZANESVILLE, January 26, 1865.

THOMAS LOUGH,

Columbus, Ohio:

Your dispatch received. I do not mean to find fault; on the contrary I am most gratified we have got along so well, and without accident; but I can but think it would have been still better if all west-bound trains had been stopped yesterday morning, and only engines gone west, and in this I think Mr. Jewett concurs. However, let this pass, and if we can only get all along safely and without delay, and the soldiers have coffee and plenty of straw, we will all agree that the job has been well done. The Baltimore and Ohio have been waiting since last evening at 7 o'clock. Let me hear when the last train has left Cincinnati and Columbus.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

188½.]

BELLAIRE, January 26, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS,

Zanesville:

Have just got in. Some men will have to lie over to-night. I think this will be the place for you.

D. N. COUCH,

Major-General.

---

189.]

ZANESVILLE, January 26, 1865—12 m.

Mr. CRONAN,

Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Bellaire:

There will be seven trains in very soon, and nearly at the same time. I hope the commissary will have a great abundance of coffee, as the soldiers have been long out. Please push the trains off as fast as possible with safety. Major-General Couch will remain with you for a day or more.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

190.]

ZANESVILLE, January 26, 1865—12.30 a. m.

J. B. FORD,

Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Bellaire:

Please take the names of all officers behaving improperly, and say that Major-General Couch is on the train east and will soon be in Bellaire and investigate the difficulties.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

191.]

ZANESVILLE, January 26, 1865—2 p. m.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Zanesville:

Track clear and all trains moving. Two trains from the west due here in two hours. I have ordered coffee for their men.

D. W. CALDWELL.

—

192.]

WHEELING, January 26, 1865—10 p. m.

Colonel PARSONS,

Zanesville, Ohio:

Our company have ordered that all other business be postponed, which has been done, for the speedy movement of your men. I will do myself the honor to call on you in the a. m., and have a comfortable car provided for your passage east. Our trains arrive this p. m., bringing us additional means for your army transportation. With plenty of hay in the cars and good warm coffee on the road, we trust your noble men may suffer but little from the very inclement weather. Have just received the following from our master of transportation, which will doubtless interest you:

[J. B. FORD.]

[Inclosure.]

BALTIMORE, January 26, 1865.

J. B. FORD:

Advise General Couch and Colonel Parsons that up to present writing there has arrived in Washington, not including General Schofield and party, in all 121 cars, troops, baggage, &c., and another train reported on Washington Branch expected to make in shortly. Other trains working satisfactorily, as well as could have been anticipated, considering severe weather. Advise them further that empty cars of leaving trains have been turned back, and doubtless have reached or passed Cumberland, west bound.

W. P. SMITH.

—

193.]

WHEELING, January 26, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS,

Zanesville:

Our troop trains have all passed to destination without the slightest interruption or delay, except one train, which was detained a short time by the breaking of tender axle, without damage to cars or men. We are working most effectually and have plenty of cars and power for the remainder of your corps.

J. B. FORD.

194.] ZANESVILLE, January 26, 1865—9 p. m.

C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

All goes well in Ohio and also east, so far as I can hear. Nearly everything will be at Bellaire in the morning. I go on to-night.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

195.] BELLAIRE, January 27, 1865—9 a. m.

Mr. CALDWELL,

Superintendent, Zanesville, Ohio:

Nearly everything has gone east from here. All you can send will be taken at once on its arrival. Send me as soon as possible the position of all trains en route from Cincinnati, with number of cars and troops and animals, and advise me when they all leave Cincinnati.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

196.] ZANESVILLE, January 27, 1865—8.20 p. m.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Bellaire, Ohio:

Numbers 27, 28, and 29 are moving. Numbers 30, 31, 32, and 33 are detained west of Newark by No. 30 being off track. I expect every minute to hear they are all right. There is no one injured.

D. W. CALDWELL.

197.] BENWOOD, January 27, 1865—7 a. m.

Mr. CALDWELL,

Superintendent, Zanesville, Ohio:

Can't you do something at once to prevent the delay of soldier trains on side tracks? It is very cold and I fear they must suffer.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

198.] ZANESVILLE, January 27, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,

Bellaire:

There was some delay last night because of one train getting off the track and delaying them. No damage done and everything will be right soon. There are nine trains now on the road, and I understand from Mr. Lough he expects five more from Cincinnati by noon, which will close the movement. Excuse me for again calling your attention to the Newark soldiers. We have no interest in the movement, but business on the Steubenville and Indiana road has been virtually suspended during their movement on ours. Almost their entire car equipment has been in the service, and if at all compatible with the public interest I would be glad to have you favor them and to have the opportunity of reciprocating to them by giving them the use of our power.

H. J. JEWETT.

199.]

BELLAIRE, January 27, 1865—6 p. m.

H. J. JEWETT,

President, Zanesville, Ohio:

No. 26 has not arrived. What is the cause of the delay? Is there any trouble anywhere now? Your dispatch as to delay last night is received. I would be very glad to oblige the Steubenville and Indiana and to comply with your wishes, but with the little actual knowledge I possess at this distance, would not think it judicious for me to interfere and give express preference over other roads possessing perhaps equal advantages. In this I am confident your judgment would concur. Please keep me fully advised as to the progress of all trains, whether the news be good or bad. It is very important I know all the facts and when to expect trains. Please answer immediately.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

200.]

BELMONT, January 27, 1865—7 a. m.

Capt. J. B. FORD, and also

AGENT BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD AT

BELLAIRE AND BENWOOD:

I hope you are sending out no trains without stoves during this cold weather. See General Couch before doing so. You can get stoves from trains from the west if you have not enough.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

201.]

BELLAIRE, January 27, 1865—9.30 a. m.

D. W. CALDWELL,

Zanesville, Ohio:

I just arrived. All trains but one have passed over the river. I think every car you can send will be very promptly taken over. Ask Lough if all have left Cincinnati.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

202.]

BENWOOD, January 27, 1865—11 a. m.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Baltimore, Md.:

Do you not think it imprudent to allow cars to go east without stoves in them? How are the cars arriving? In what condition, and what is their contents? I remain here for a day or two. Please keep me advised of progress.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

203.]

BELLAIRE, January 27, 1865—5 p. m.

Captain FORD,
Wheeling :

There are 153 cars east of Columbus which should be here by morning. I fear you will be lacking in cars.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

204.]

WHEELING, January 27, 1865.

Colonel PARSONS,
Bellaire :

Be so kind as to inform me the number of troops yet to arrive at Bellaire, and the number of cars of artillery and horses, and when we may expect the latter at Bridgeport, opposite Wheeling.

J. B. FORD.

---

205.]

BELLAIRE, January 27, 1865.

Capt. J. B. FORD,
Wheeling, Va. :

Train No. 27 will be in about midnight. Contains eleven cars of horses, nine of artillery and baggage, and seven of troops. I will send the entire train to Bridgeport early in the morning. I suppose it will require two trains on your road. Please have all in readiness early to load promptly. Some forage to be required of Captain Artsman. Pray do not forget an abundance of straw and hay for the troops. Answer. No. 33 will also go to Bridgeport to-morrow as it contains eleven cars of horses and artillery, and only three of troops.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

206.]

WHEELING, January 27, 1865—8 p. m.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Bellaire, Ohio :

We have ample cars for the artillery and horses that may arrive to-morrow. Will give special attention to making men comfortable.

J. B. FORD.

---

207.]

BELLAIRE, January 28, 1865.

Capt. J. H. MYERS,
*Twenty-third Indiana Battery (Battery D, First Ohio),
Bellaire, Ohio :*

Your horses having been so long on boat and cars as to require a change, you will be transshipped at Wheeling instead of Bellaire, where you will secure sufficient necessary rations for your men and horses, loading and being ready to move as soon thereafter as possible. You will report to Capt. Gus. Artsman, assistant quartermaster; also to Capt. J. B. Ford, agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, for transshipment. Report to Captain Artsman for what is necessary in way of forage and supplies.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

208.]      ZANESVILLE, *January 28, 1865.*Col. L. B. PARSONS,
Bellaire:

Trains are all right now and have orders to move.

D. W. CALDWELL.

209.]      BELLAIRE, *January 28, 1865.*Capt. J. B. FORD,
Wheeling, Va.:

The batteries won't be able to start before to-morrow, and perhaps not until Monday morning, owing to causes officers will explain. I hope they will be duly cared for, and go as soon as consistent. I shall want all the stoves, army and all others, to put in cars, as I cannot think it right to send off troops without them.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

210.]      GRAFTON, *January 27, 1865—10 a. m.*Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Bellaire:

The trains are running very well. There is some complaining of the cold, and if the weather continues as it is I fear there will be more. I think it will be best, unless the weather moderates, to order the Sibley stoves from Wheeling.

D. N. COUCH,
Major-General.

(NOTE.—Ordered before received.)

211.]      WHEELING, *January 28, 1865.*Major-General COUCH:
(On passenger train bound east from Wheeling.)

Yesterday noon your two dispatches received. I had already ordered stoves and fuel for all cars. There is a great delay on the Ohio Central. Only two trains arrived since you left. They are off the track again west of Zanesville. I shan't get away before Monday. Please answer.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

212.]      CUMBERLAND, *January 28, 1865.*Col. L. B. PARSONS,
Wheeling:

No trains have passed here since 12 noon yesterday with troops. They were reported to be in good condition. Three more are expected before noon to-day. There are three at Piedmont. Weather continues very cold.

D. N. COUCH,
Major-General.

213.]

WHEELING, January 28, 1865—11.30 a. m.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,
Baltimore, Md.:

I feel anxious to know the progress east. Have telegraphed you there, with no reply. They are getting on very slowly on the Ohio Central.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

214.]

ZANESVILLE, January 27, 1865—4.20 p. m.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Bellaire:

No. 26 just leaving Belmont. No. 27 just leaving Spencer's. No. 28 now at Spencer's. No. 29 due at Concord soon. These are all the trains east of Newark. There is some delay west of Newark, the cause of which I will give you as soon as I get it. In the matter of the movement via Steubenville and Indiana road, I of course yield to your better judgment.

H. J. JEWETT.

---

215.]

BELLAIRE, January 28, 1865.

THOMAS LOUGH,
Columbus, Ohio:

In Heaven's name can't something be at once done to put an end to such extraordinary delay? It is most unfortunate, and the responsibility of the cause very great. What is the matter? Let me know the facts. Where are all the trains? Everything else must at once give way to move these troops. Please answer immediately.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

216.]

COLUMBUS, January 28, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS,
Bellaire, Ohio:

The delay to the trains yesterday caused by breaking of driver on engine on one train, which set the tender and twelve cars off the rail; another broken rail set two cars off the rail on a bridge and broke the cross-ties in bridge for about thirty feet. This caused a delay of twelve hours, but the trains now moved from Columbus as fast as power could be returned here, and passenger trains suspended to do it. Last night another broken rail and one truck of car, broken-down car off the track, detained train from here, but all right again and train moving. No. 36 left here at 4 a. m., and we will have the two remaining trains, which make all of your command, to-day. Other troops are now arriving for New York, via Crestline and Steubenville. I need not assure you that everything that can be done is done to keep them going, but we cannot avoid the breaking of rails and engines. Pease says there will be about 4,000 stragglers to come along, and if they can get them together will send on one train.

T. LOUGH.

217.]      BELLAIRE, January 28, 1865—9 a. m.

Capt. J. B. FORD,

Agent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Wheeling:

I must again call the attention of your company to furnishing stoves in the cars moving troops. I am not willing to allow the movement of troops without further protection for this cold weather on the mountains. If you cannot get others Captain Artsman will let you have all he has. Answer as soon as possible by telegraph. How many stoves has Captain Artsman?

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

218.]      WHEELING, January 28, 1865—10 a. m.

Capt. J. B. FORD,

Wheeling:

We have only full reports of seven more trains, being from 27 to 33, both inclusive. These contain forty-four cars of horses, artillery, and baggage, and eighty-seven cars of soldiers. There are five or six trains more at least behind them. No. 27 has gone to Bridgeport and will not be able to move before to-morrow evening. I have dispatch from General Couch sustaining what I have already telegraphed you in regard to stoves. I cannot consent that cars leave here without being provided therewith.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

219.]      ASSISTANT QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE, U. S. ARMY,
Wheeling, W. Va., January 28, 1865.

Capt. GUS. ARTSMAN,

Assistant Quartermaster:

You will please immediately deliver to Capt. J. B. Ford, agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, as many good Sibley tent stoves as he may require for warming cars transporting troops east, taking the receipt of said company therefor and reporting the same to me at Washington City at an early day.

By order Quartermaster-General:

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

220.]      BELLAIRE, January 28, 1865—1 p. m.

D. W. CALDWELL,

Zanesville:

Will you please send me, to care of Mr. Morris, a full report of the transportation of the Twenty-third Army Corps, showing number of cars of troops, horses, &c., with time of leaving Newark and arrival at Bellaire. Also the reason for the several delays on which I can base my report to the Secretary of War. I shall not leave here before Monday.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

221.]

BELLAIRE, January 28, 1865—4 p. m.

THOMAS LOUGH,

Superintendent, Columbus, Ohio :

Will you please send me to-morrow to this place, care of the Ohio Central, a full report of the transportation of the Twenty-third Corps, showing the number of cars of troops, horses, &c., with time of leaving Columbus and arrival at Newark; also the reason for the several delays, on which I can make report to the Secretary of War.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

222.]

COLUMBUS, OHIO, January 28, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Bellaire :

I will send you a full report.

THOS. LOUGH.

—

223.]

BELLAIRE, January 28, 1865.

E. W. WOODWARD,

Superintendent Little Miami Railroad, Cincinnati :

Will you please send me at once to Washington a full report of the transportation of the Twenty-third Corps, showing the number of cars of troops, &c., and the time of leaving Cincinnati and arrival at Columbus. I remain here until Monday. Answer here.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

224.]

CINCINNATI, January 28, 1865.

Col. L. B. PARSONS.

Bellaire :

Will forward at once to Washington the report you wish.

E. W. WOODWARD,

Superintendent.

—

225.]

BELLAIRE, January 28, 1865—3.30 p. m.

C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington, D. C. :

We have had great detentions and a hard time on the Ohio Central arising from broken rails, cars off the track, and the cold weather, but as yet no injury to a single person, so far as I can learn. There are still over 200 cars between here and Columbus, but the track is now reported all clear, and I hope all will be in very speedily. I am putting stoves and large quantities of straw or hay in every car and furnishing an abundance of hot coffee. We have had a very severe time for three days, and if we get through all safe I shall be most thankful. I can't get away from here before Monday.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

226.]      BALTIMORE, January 28, 1865.
Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,
    Bellaire, Ohio :

We found it impossible to get the 550 stoves necessary for cars. We have enough for 300, but to close up the movement properly we are hurrying out to the west 100 more cars that have stoves, being the first hundred that left river for east. We have heard of no suffering, the cars being full of straw or hay and the men regaled at intervals with hot coffee plentifully. Movement going on very successfully, we think, and especially so considering weather and other difficulties.

W. P. SMITH.

—

227.]      WHEELING, January 29, 1865.
Col. L. B. PARSONS,
    Bellaire :

We have the first battery, guns, &c., loaded. The captain informs me his horses, all of them, only arrived last night, and will not be fit to start until to-morrow, and we are ready in cars and power any moment. Will carry out your views with great pleasure. Before you leave make an order on me to push forward the batteries with all dispatch, and I will use it in discretion with the officers which may aid us. Do you leave this a. m.? If I had known it would have gone down to see you. How many cars of troops yet to come?

J. B. FORD.

—

228.]      BENWOOD, January 29, 1865—12.25 p. m.
J. B. FORD,
    Agent, Wheeling :

Your dispatch received. It seems to me the first battery might and ought to get off at once. There will be three more artillery trains up to day, and if they do not proceed promptly there will be delay and confusion. Captain Artsman will please examine into each case and direct that they proceed just as soon and as fast as he thinks they can properly do so, and you can lead them. I shall not go till all are off. If there is unavoidable delay telegraph me and I will come up if you and Captain Artsman desire. I have requested Captain Goodrich, assistant quartermaster, to go up and to consult with you. We are getting on well here.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
    Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

229.]      BELLAIRE, January 29, 1865—10 a. m.
THOMAS LOUGH,
    Columbus, Ohio :

Your two dispatches of yesterday received. I am glad to know that our work is so near done. I hope Pease will send the stragglers along in a body (see 216) as soon as possible, showing the number coming. In your report please make similar full explanations in regard to the cause of detentions, so as to avoid misapprehension.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
    Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

230.]

BENWOOD, January 29, 1865—10.40 a. m.

Capt. J. B. FORD,

Wheeling:

I have telegraphed Prescott Smith fully as to loading cars, and am sure you and he both will concur with me even as a matter of policy. If any package comes for me after I leave please send it to me at Washington, care of Quartermaster-General, and oblige,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

231.]

BENWOOD, January 29, 1865—10.45 a. m.

Capt. GUS. ARTSMAN,

Wheeling:

Four more trains of artillery go up to Bridgeport at once. Please see them well cared for and aid Captain Ford in loading them.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

232.]

BENWOOD, January 29, 1865—10.45 a. m.

J. B. FORD,

Agent, Wheeling:

Two more trains of artillery are in and go to Bridgeport at once. Two more will be in soon and also go up. I would like one or two cars of infantry to go with each artillery train as a guard. How soon will the first train be ready to start? I would like to get all off to-morrow if consistent.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

233.]

BALTIMORE, January 28, 1865.

Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Benwood:

I telegraphed you an answer to your dispatch last night. You have my message now. Secretary of War, Halleck, Dana, and Schofield all greatly pleased with the movement, and think highly of your efforts. Mr. Garrett saw them yesterday and they were full of praise. Indeed they have good cause to feel well considering the condition before us and the difficulties overcome.

W. P. SMITH.

—

234.]

BENWOOD, January 29, 1865—11.20 a. m.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Baltimore, Md.:

Your dispatch of yesterday received. It gives me great pleasure to know the difficulties of our movement are appreciated at Washington. You and I know full well what they are. I venture the assertion such long movement of so large a force in severe midwinter was never so rapidly and successfully made as this has been so far, and if we can escape all accident I shall feel most thankful and relieved of an almost fearful responsibility. These brave fellows have had a hard time over the Ohio Central for two to three days, and all officers and men complain of being too close pressed for room, though Clement only put thirty to thirty-five in his large cars. I feel it but just and good policy to put twenty-six to twenty-eight in your small and thirty in your large cars. This much delights all and makes them pleased with your road and everybody. It only takes a few more cars, and I feel sure you will concur, at least I hope you won't disapprove my action. Nearly all will be in to-day, and I hope to clear out to-morrow.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

235.]

BELLAIRE, January 30, 1865.

E. W. WOODWARD, Esq.,

Superintendent Little Miami Railroad, Cincinnati, Ohio :

DEAR SIR: I congratulate you on the completion of the transportation of the Twenty-third Army Corps so far as your road is concerned, and it gives me great pleasure to state that it has been done with a remarkable degree of success and satisfaction to the Government, considering the severity of the weather and the short notice I was able to give you. According to my experience, which has been, as you know, pretty extensive, everything considered there has been no large movement so successful. The completion of the transportation of 20,000 troops with all its artillery from the Tennessee to the Potomac, a distance of nearly 1,500 miles, over rivers and mountains in the midst of a severe winter, is no ordinary occurrence, and I venture the assertion that nothing equal to it has ever occurred either in Europe or America, and its success will certainly be a subject for pleasant future recollection. I am delighted to know that from Eastport to Washington, as far as heard from, there have been no accidents causing injury to life or limb of any person. I expect to leave here for Washington to-morrow, where I trust I shall find your full reports, in which I hope you will state all the circumstances, and the sudden change and condition of the weather, affecting the movement.

By order of Quartermaster-General:

I remain, sir, very truly, yours,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

P. S.—In case there are any complaints or misapprehension, would it not be well for you to see your city papers and have corrections made and the facts understood. The stories about freezing of men are pure fiction. I have inquired fully and cannot learn a single case, though it would not have been strange if some drunken man had exposed himself and had his feet frozen. Don't let this movement get mixed up with that from Nashville. After all my intense anxieties and efforts I should be sorry to have unjust complaints made when I know the success has been wonderful, all things considered; but it would not be the first time I have been blamed when the contrary was justly due. The average time of movement from the upper Tennessee will not exceed ten days.

236.]

BELLAIRE, January 30, 1865.

THOMAS LOUGH, Esq.,

Superintendent Central Ohio Railroad:

DEAR SIR: I am glad to learn the transportation of the Twenty-third Army Corps is completed, as far as your road is concerned, and that, while accident and delays have occurred, there has been, as far as I can learn, no injury to life or limb of any person, which is certainly a cause for sincere congratulation. While I have felt and may have expressed momentary annoyance at some of the delays arising, as you advise me, from unavoidable circumstances, as broken rails and the like, resulting from the intense cold weather, I beg to assure you that I fully appreciate the energy, earnest labor, and efforts you have made to cause the movement to be a perfect success. I should be extremely sorry to have any one suppose I would make the least unnecessary complaint. I think that perhaps you have erred a little in your unwillingness to incommode other roads by taking their machinery in accordance with my request and instructions; but as I may not be fully advised of the facts I should hesitate in deciding, without further knowledge and until I receive your report, that you had not acted best under the circumstances. The completion of the transportation of 20,000 men, with all their artillery, from the Tennessee to the Potomac, a distance of nearly 1,500 miles, over rivers and mountains, in the midst of a severe winter, is no ordinary occurrence, and I venture the assertion that nothing equal to it has ever occurred either in Europe or America, and its success will be a subject for future pleasant recollection.

Wishing you every success in your new position in the way of developing your road to the full extent of its metal, I am, very truly, yours,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

P. S.—The average time of movement will not exceed ten days.

---

237.]

BELLAIRE, January 30, 1865—11 a. m.

C. A. DANA,

Assistant Secretary of War, Washington:

Ten trains left yesterday. I think we shall get off everything to-day. We have had a very severe time over the Ohio Central, and in crossing the Ohio; been off the track on the Ohio Central several times by broken rails or axles, and had some very narrow escapes from great disaster. But so far, thank Heaven, there has been no injury or loss to life, limb, or property, and the troops are very cheerful and comfortable. Weather has been very severe, but is moderating a little to-day. Since my arrival here I have had stoves and straw put in every car.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

238.]

BELLAIRE, January 30, 1865—11.30 a. m.

W. PRESCOTT SMITH,

Baltimore, Md.:

Thank God, nearly everything is here safe. Ten trains left yesterday; hope to get off the balance to-day. Your employes have worked splendidly; we have been off the track on the Ohio Central several times by broken rails or axles, arising from severe cold weather, occasioning much delay, and had some narrow escapes from great disaster, but so far there has been no injury or loss of life, limb, or property. Stories about men being frozen to death are pure fiction. I have inquired carefully and cannot find a single case of even a frozen limb. Troops are cheerful and happy in being sent East in cars not overcrowded and having stoves.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

239.]

BELLAIRE, January 30, 1865.

J. W. GARRETT, Esq.,

President,

W. PRESCOTT SMITH, Esq.,

Master of Transportation, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad:

GENTLEMEN: I am happy to inform you that the transfer of the Twenty-third Army Corps across the Ohio from Beilaire to your cars at Benwood is completed. In closing it, I should feel that I were lacking in justice not to especially acknowledge the services rendered by the employés of your road.

As you are aware, before our arrival here the weather suddenly changed and became and has continued intensely cold, by which, all railroad men know, the difficulties and dangers of such a movement become trebled and quadrupled. It is gratifying to know that, owing in a great extent to the untiring energy and perseverance of your employés, the work has been completed rapidly, and without injury or loss to person or property. The accomplishment of the work so successfully is mainly owing to the service of Mr. John Cronan, your agent here, and Mr. James R. Shroder, assistant supervisor of trains, who for eight days have been ever at their posts, and at times without sleep or rest for two and three days; also to the assistance of Mr. McMurphy, superintendent of transfer, who exerted himself with like energy until he became ill; as also to the aid given by Mr. Harvey, temporarily assisting Mr. Cronan, and to Captain Snyder, in charge of the transfer-boat W. H. Harrison, to the watchful care of whom, by night and day, is owing the fact that we have been able to cross at all through the ice. The value of these men, I doubt not, is well known to you, yet I cannot but think for their services in this case they are worthy of special commendation, and that with such employés your road will continue to maintain its unsurpassed reputation for safety and good management.

I am, very respectfully,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

240.]

BELLAIRE, January 30, 1865.

Colonel McKIM,

Chief Quartermaster, and

Capt. J. V. LEWIS,

Assistant Quartermaster, Cincinnati, Ohio:

GENTLEMEN: I am glad to inform you that all the Twenty-third Army Corps have arrived here, been transferred, and that a large proportion of them have already arrived at their destination. I have not seen a Cincinnati paper for some days, but a gentleman casually informed me that there had been some complaint in reference to neglect on the part of the commissary department, though we thought the complaint only applied to the small force under General Meagher proceeding east by Pittsburg. That there may be no misapprehension, would it not be well for one of you to see the editors of your papers in regard to the movement of the Twenty-third Army Corps, letting it be known that the small force moving from Nashville have no connection with it, and was moving without your own or my authority or instructions. As you are aware, the movement of the Twenty-third Army Corps was very hastily decided upon, and that until my arrival at the mouth of the Tennessee I had no express instructions in regard to the same, further than to report and await orders; and that after receiving such orders the whole force within three days was embarked at Clifton, and the most of it proceeding up the Ohio. The transportation until we arrived at Cincinnati was every way satisfactory, the weather being comparatively mild and pleasant. At Cincinnati I heard of no complaint, unless it was owing to a few hours delay in proceeding for lack of rations, and of which in moving so large a force it would be hardly just to complain of the commissary. The cars were all amply provided with straw, and many of them with stoves, though the latter were not deemed necessary for the short trip to Bellaire, in weather no colder than it was when most of them left Cincinnati. Unfortunately, trains being thrown off the track several times on the Ohio Central, there have been very considerable detentions in getting them through to this point. At Columbus and this place a most ample supply of coffee was furnished to all the regiments immediately on arrival, as also at four different points on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and I never saw a body of men more satisfied or merry than were these troops on reaching this point. On arriving here I immediately took steps to secure an ample supply of stoves and straw to make the troops comfortable in passing over the mountains. Most of the corps have already arrived at Washington, and I am in receipt of dispatch informing me that the Secretary of War, Generals Halleck, Schofield, and Couch express themselves in the highest degree satisfied and pleased with the rapidity and great success of the movement in all respects.

There have been some reports of injury to persons by freezing and otherwise, but after the most careful inquiry in every direction I have not been able to ascertain that a single man has suffered in life or limb in any respect, and I believe such statements are pure fiction. When it is considered that this movement was so suddenly decided and so promptly acted upon, and that 20,000 men will have been transported nearly 1,500 miles by river and rail, amid the constant changes and severities of midwinter, I know there is no one of the gentlemen controlling your papers who will not regard it in its true light, as one of the remarkable events of this most remarkable war; the like of which, everything considered, has not been before accomplished. The movement of the Twenty-second [Eleventh and Twelfth] Army Corps of 22,000 men from the East to the West was effected in delightful autumn weather, and with ample time for previous preparation, and the route distinctly fixed upon. One thing is certain, so far as I am concerned, that no consideration will again induce me voluntarily to assume the general supervision and fearful responsibility of such a movement in such a period of the year, and I am sure that no man would care to endure the painful anxieties and difficulties through which I have passed for the last fifteen days. The average time of movement with all the change and difficulties encountered will not exceed ten days from the time troops leave the upper Tennessee to their arrival at their destination. To yourselves I beg leave again to express my obligations for the great promptness, energy, and efficiency of your services in so rapidly providing the necessary cars and in making the transfer at Cincinnati. Please let me hear from you at Washington, and advise me if anything is said anywhere relative to the movement or injury to troops.

I am, very truly, yours,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

241.]

BELLAIRE, January 30, 1865.

Hon. H. J. JEWETT, President, and
D. W. CALDWELL, Superintendent:

GENTLEMEN: I know you will rejoice with me in the completion of the transportation of the Twenty-third Army Corps so far as your road is concerned. Owing to the sudden change and severity of this mid-winter weather it has only been accomplished with untiring and persevering efforts, and while some accidents and detentions have occurred, I am highly pleased to know that there has been no injury to life or limb of any person; and while I may have expressed some annoyance at these detentions, I beg to assure you that I fully appreciate the energy and efforts displayed by yourselves in making the movement a complete success. Indeed, I think no similar movement of the war, considering the distance moved, the short notice given, and the severity of the season, has been so successful, notwithstanding all the delays and accidents to which I have alluded. Under such circumstances I should be very sorry to make complaint, at least until I received your report, and had more full and definite information. The transportation of 20,000 men with all their artillery from the upper Tennessee to the Potomac, a distance of nearly 1,500 miles, over rivers and mountains in the midst of a severe winter is no ordinary occurrence, and I venture the assertion that nothing equal to it has ever occurred, either in Europe or America. Its success will be a subject for future pleasant recollection.

I remain, very truly, yours,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

---

242.]

BENWOOD, VA., January 30, 1865.

Lieut. Col. J. R. BRUNER,
Commanding 130th Indiana:

COLONEL: Major-General Couch directed that an infantry escort should accompany and protect the artillery of the Twenty-third Army Corps. I have therefore to request that you will, with the 420 under your orders, take charge of the three battery trains now ready to leave for Washington City, and safely escort them in such manner as you shall deem best.

Very respectfully,

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

243.]

BENWOOD, January 30, 1865.

Capt. GUS. ARTSMAN,

Assistant Quartermaster, Wheeling, Va. :

Please see the editor of the Wheeling Register and inform him some one has given him false information and led him to state in paper this morning that nine soldiers were frozen to death in the cars on the Ohio Central. It is entirely untrue. I have made and caused to be made the most careful inquiry for days past, and assure him not a man has been frozen, nor even a limb. Indeed, with the close cars so full of straw and stoves such a thing was impossible unless a man was intoxicated and exposed outside. I am sure the editor will correct the error, as it is calculated to prejudice our cause. Please consult with Captain Ford, and answer. Some twelve or fifteen cars more of horses arrived; two of artillery will be up to-day. Please prepare to ship them as soon as possible.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

244.]

BELLAIKE, January 29, 1865.

Capt. J. B. FORD,

Wheeling, Va. :

The soldiers and officers all say they have been too much crowded in coming from Cincinnati, and Mr. Clement only put thirty-five in their large cars. Bear in mind the services of these brave men, the severity of this weather, the fact that most of your cars are smaller than those in Ohio, and thus one or two more cars to a train make all satisfied and pleased with your road; and I am sure you will yield to my wishes, and I will agree to stand between you and all blame, as I cannot, while seeing the facts, think it right or policy to put over twenty-six or twenty-eight in your small cars and thirty in the large ones. Again, the transportation is almost complete, and only a few extra cars will be required.

LEWIS B. PARSONS,

Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.

—

245.]

WHEELING, January 29, 1865—9 p. m.

Colonel PARSONS,

Benwood :

We have just succeeded in getting the forage, and everything will leave immediately.

J. B. FORD.

—

246.]

WHEELING, January 30, 1865—12.25 p. m.

Colonel PARSONS,

Benwood :

Please stop the cars which are loaded with guns of Fifteenth Indiana Battery, Nos. 278, 238, 2256, 2283, 2342, and 2871; the horses will be loaded as soon as the Third Division battery get out of the way.

ALONZO D. HARVEY,

Captain and Chief of Artillery, Second Division.

247.]                      ZANESVILLE, OHIO, *January 30, 1865—6.30 p. m.*Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS, Bellaire:

The last train is about leaving Barnesville. We will send it forward as fast as possible. I am glad the thing is about over. Good-bye.

D. W. CALDWELL.

248.]

ORDERS.]      ASSISTANT QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE, U. S. A.,
Wheeling, W. Va., January 30, 1865—6.30 p. m.

To officers in charge of troops or animals belonging to the Twenty-third Army Corps now at Bridgeport or Wheeling.

All animals must be unloaded to-night and placed in the corral, where they must be fed, watered, and ready to load on the cars by 7 o'clock in the morning. All troops will be provided with four days' rations before leaving Columbus or Benwood. All troops and horses will be in the cars and leave here for Benwood by 9 o'clock to-morrow morning. At Benwood the trains will be made up and accompanied by infantry escort, now in readiness on cars at that place.

By order Major-General Couch:

LEWIS B. PARSONS,
*Colonel and Chief of Rail and River Transportation.*249.]                      BALTIMORE, MD., *January 30, 1865—9 p. m.*Col. LEWIS B. PARSONS, Bellaire, Ohio:

Yours of 11.30 a. m., from Bellaire, received 9 p. m. Glad to hear favorably from you. Two-thirds of the entire movement now in Washington, and remainder moving successfully over line. Many of our train men and others have been frost-bitten, and several killed by accident and exhaustion, but no soldier frozen, and only one killed by breakage of a United States car, thirty miles from Baltimore, that threw three cars off the track. We have had great trouble in many ways with the Government cars. They are not adapted to our curves and grades. Weather is rapidly moderating here, and we all feel relieved as our heavy and responsible contract draws nigh its triumphant fulfillment. I want to shake hands with you over it when you return.

W. P. SMITH.

250.]

WHEELING, *January 31, 1865.*Col. L. B. PARSONS, Grafton:

We dispatched the last of the troops and horses from Benwood at 1.35 p. m., all in good order.

J. R. SHRODER.

CITY POINT, VA., February 3, 1865—2 p. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,

Secretary of War, Washington:

I think it advisable to request the Navy to keep two or three vessels patrolling between Cape Henry and Cape Fear during the transit of Schofield's troops. It is barely possible for one of the enemy's privates to get on that route and do us great injury. If you agree with me will you please request this?

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 3, 1865.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

The Richmond Whig to-day has the following dispatch:

CHARLESTON, February 1.

There has been no movement of importance to-day. Prisoners taken vary in their statements of Sherman's destination. The enemy, it is reported, are burning all the good houses along the route of their march.

The latest accounts from Wilmington represent all quiet there. It is generally believed that Mobile is soon to be attacked.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, February 3, 1865—5 p. m.

General HOWARD:

Your note and orders of last night were not received till a few moments ago. General Logan got here last night, and to-day drove the enemy from a position the other side of Duck Creek. General Williams brought up five brigades of Slocum's troops, but no late news of Slocum. Thinks he will have a hard time to get across Savannah River at all. I ordered Woods' division this morning to Angley's Post-Office, and John E. Smith is between. To-morrow the Fifteenth Corps will move on Buford's Bridge, which is also strongly defended, and I will order Williams toward Barnwell to the point marked Hayes. I will myself stop at Angley's Post-Office till I hear what progress is made to effect a lodgment across the Salkehatchie. General Woods is now at Angley's, and will lead to Buford's to-morrow. If Slocum were up I would move him to Barnwell at once, but can use Williams to produce the same effect.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Rivers' Bridge, February 3, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Your dispatch just received. I was just on the point of starting one of my officers to you. Your disposition of the Fifteenth Corps is just as I desired it. Prisoners report that Stephen D. Lee's corps was with the forces over against us to-day, but it lacks confirmation.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN, Comdg. Mil. Dir. of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Major-General Mower, under General Blair's direction, after most extraordinary exertion, opening two parallel roads, laying foot bridges a mile and a half in extent, crossing sixteen streams, succeeded in turning the position of the enemy with two brigades, while he made a strong demonstration on their direct front. He carried the position, taking a few prisoners. Meanwhile General Giles A. Smith crossed the swamp and the Salkehatchie two miles south of this point, creating a diversion and preventing the forces at Broxton's Bridge from coming up.

I visited the field this evening immediately after Mower had carried the works. It is the strongest position I ever saw in my life, and I think was defended by about 2,000 men. Some eight regimental flags, accompanying troops in motion below Giles Smith, moving down the river, where seen by our men just before dark. I took them to be reinforcements cut off by General Smith's movement. Buford's Bridge is reported destroyed, and was abandoned about the time Rivers' Bridge was carried, so that the movement of to-day has given us the line of the Salkehatchie, and as the people of Barnwell District have taken all their provisions over this river we probably shall not suffer. General Blair has found sufficient forage thus far. I have concluded to send back my empty wagons under a small escort, and have them return to us following General Logan's column. It is a great pity the Left Wing is not so posted as to enable us to push at once for the railroad. It is twenty-two miles from here to Midway. I will spend the time till you say go ahead in preparing the bridges at this point and at Buford's Crossing. General Mower's loss, the doctor says, is 10 or 12 killed and at least 70 wounded. I shall send back all the wounded I can with the returned trains.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 3, 1865.

General LOGAN, Commanding Fifteenth Corps:

GENERAL: Move your command to-morrow, two divisions to Buford's Bridge and one to Angley's Post-Office. Better pursue the same order as now and let all march, say, at 6 a. m. That will bring the divisions of Woods and John E. Smith at Buford's, and Hazen's at Angley's. I will move Williams by our left rear around to Arnold Church and Hayes'.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Loper's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to inform you, for the information of the general commanding, that the three divisions of this corps are encamped as follows: The Second Division, with headquarters of the corps, at Loper's Cross-Roads; the Third Division at Owens' Cross-Roads; the First Division at or near Angley's Post-Office, covering the bridge over Jackson's Branch, which General Woods is instructed to rebuild. The divisions, it will be seen, are all encamped in position along the road running from Duck Branch Post-Office to Angley's Post-Office, between Coosawhatchie Swamp and Jackson's Branch.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say that General Blair's empty wagons will leave here at daylight to-morrow morning for Pocotaligo Landing, to load with subsistence stores. He has directed General Woods to send all his empty wagons for the same purpose at Whippy Swamp or Crockettville. He wishes you to send all the empty wagons of the other divisions of your command for the same purpose. One regiment from General Hazen's division, with the one from General Woods' division, will be sufficient guard. General Mower succeeded in driving the enemy from Rivers' Bridge this evening, and now occupies their position. It is reported that Buford's Bridge was burned this evening, and the enemy evacuated the position. The general wishes you to send two brigades of General Woods' division to that point to-morrow morning to occupy that point and rebuild the bridge, leaving one brigade at Angley's Post-Office until you come up, when it will follow. Angley's Post-Office is the same as Barker's Mill.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

OFFICE CHIEF QUARTERMASTER, FIFTEENTH CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Major WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following statement of transportation belonging to this corps and its distribution, in compliance with your request of the 2d instant: Corps headquarters, 10 wagons, 2 ambulances; detachment supply train, 34 wagons; First Division, 199 wagons, 38 ambulances; Second Division, 146 wagons, 32 ambulances; Third Division, 153 wagons, 30 ambulances; Fourth Division, 190 wagons, 49 ambulances; Twenty-ninth Missouri Mounted Infantry, 2 wagons, 1 ambulance; signal corps, 2 wagons; Artillery Brigade, 58 wagons, 1 ambulance. Total, 794 wagons, 144 ambulances. Captain Lynch, assistant quartermaster, has been ordered to transfer the wagons of the ordnance train of the Artillery Brigade to the several divisions, and the ambulance to the ambulance corps.

I am, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

G. L. FORT,
Lieut. Col. and Chief Quartermaster, Fifteenth Army Corps.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. WOODS,
Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you send all your empty wagons back to Pocotaligo Landing, to load with subsistence stores. General Blair's train will leave here to-morrow a. m. at daylight, by the way of Crockettville and Hickory Hill Post-Office. If your train arrives first it will wait for General Blair. If his arrives first it will wait for yours, and the two proceed together. You will send one regiment as a guard for the train.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. WOODS,
Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: The general commanding wishes you to move to Buford's Bridge to-morrow with two brigades, leaving the other at Angley's Post-Office to follow as other troops arrive. Secure that bridge and put it and the causeway in good repair. General Mower carried the works in our front this evening, so that, should you meet with any resistance at Buford's Bridge, simply make a demonstration, and we will turn the position from here.

Very respectfully,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Duck Creek, February 3, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to state that troops of my command have taken possession of opposite bank of Duck Creek without opposition. I have established my camp near the swamp on Allendale road.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., THIRD DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
Camp in the Field, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Capt. S. M. BUDLONG,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Third Division :

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that the scouting party sent out by Colonel Tourtellotte succeeded in forming a junction with General Hazen, and learned that he has one regiment over the river.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. T. CLARK,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Major-General BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say that when he was down toward the front this morning he observed that the main road to the river was in very bad condition. As he feels confident that we will use the road soon, he wishes you to send the pioneers of General Force's division and have it corduroyed wherever it needs.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you have all your empty wagons ready at daylight to-morrow to return to Pocotaligo Landing and load with subsistence stores, and rejoin the command as soon as possible. You will send the Ninth Regiment Illinois Mounted Infantry as a guard.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 31. } Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 3, 1865.

* * * * *

IV. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will move his command along the north bank of the Salkehatchie River to-morrow morning and join on to the right of the First Division now in position at Rivers' Bridge.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you place your command under arms, ready to move at a moment's notice.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,

Two Miles from Lawtonville, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. SLOCUM,

Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: I send by the bearer some dispatches that arrived in the night by the messenger sent by me to General Sherman. We reached this point last night, had a smart skirmish with about a brigade of Wheeler's cavalry, and a battery of artillery. They were driven away with a loss to us of 1 killed and 7 wounded. My advance occupied Lawtonville last night. We found the roads yesterday in fair condition, but the rain of to-day may make them worse. We shall get to Duck Branch Post-Office to-day, from whence I shall communicate with General Sherman.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Cross-Roads, February 3, 1865.

Brevet Major-General WILLIAMS,

Commanding Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by General Sherman to say that he desires you to halt in the vicinity, or at Duck Branch Post-Office, and to reconnoiter to your left, awaiting further orders.

With respect,

L. M. DAYTON,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, February 3, 1865—5 p. m.

General WILLIAMS,

Commanding Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: You may move your command by Allendale Post-Office to a position about Hayes', depending on two divisions Fifteenth Corps being at Buford's Bridge, Seventeenth Corps at Rivers' Bridge, and one division Fifteenth Corps at Angley's Post-Office. I will be at Angley's. I want you to seem to be moving on Barnwell. Report to me as often as possible your progress, and you would do well to march your men on the flanks of your train, especially when abreast of Erwinton.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,

Major-General, Commanding.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,

Duck Branch Post-Office, S. C., February 3, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow via Smyrna and Allendale, as follows: Third Division at 7 a. m.; First Division at 8 a. m. The artillery will occupy the same position in the column as in the march of to-day.

General Ward and General Jackson will each send out at daylight all of their pioneers to repair the road.

General Jackson will dispose of his troops along the column, so as to cover the trains of one of General Ward's brigades. General Ward will march two unencumbered brigades in the advance.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Sister's Ferry, Ga., February 3, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY,

Commanding Second Division, Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you move your command immediately in rear of the cavalry train, and that you rejoin the Twentieth Corps, marching steadily night and day, by way of Lawtonville and Duck Branch Post-Office. The cavalry is now crossing the pontoon bridge.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,

Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Duck Branch Post-Office, February 3, 1865.

Brigadier-General WARD,

Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: In consideration of the bad weather, the general has sent word to your pioneers that they need not break up their camp to-night unless they have already done so, telling them at the same time to be here by daylight in the morning, when the general desires to have them report to Major Stephenson, Thirty-first Wisconsin Volunteers, who has been placed in charge of all the pioneers for the day. They will report at the cross-roads just back from these headquarters, the one General Robinson went out on.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Rivers' Bridge, February 3, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,

Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: I send you some seventy or eighty wounded. We carried this evening the works in our front at this place, and have effected a lodgment on the other bank of the Salkehatchie. The work was done by two divisions of General Blair's corps. I think the enemy's position at this bridge the strongest I ever saw. Mower and his men have shown indomitable energy as well as confident gallantry. Giles A.

Smith also led his division across the swamp and the river at another place, creating a diversion that enabled Mower to succeed without the enemy being re-enforced. Please do what you can for our poor fellows.

Very truly, yours,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 3, 1865.

Rear-Admiral J. A. DAHLGREN,
Commanding South Atlantic Blockading Squadron:

ADMIRAL: General Potter has handed me a letter received by him relative to the withdrawal of the Naval Brigade from this command, in which Commander Preble is censured for withdrawing without orders from these headquarters. In a letter from department headquarters dated December 13, 1864, I was informed that the brigade would be called for for other service and directed to send it whenever you expressed a desire for its return. I only regretted that by leaving during my absence I was deprived of the opportunity of informing them of the high estimation in which they were held, not only by myself but the entire command. You will confer on me a favor by announcing to the brigade that its gallantry in action and good conduct during the irksome life in camp won from all the land forces with which it served the highest praise. The officers, for their gentlemanly bearing and strict attention to duty, received from all the credit justly their due. The harmony that prevailed throughout the command proved that it any jealousy had previously existed between the different branches of the service all that was wanting to efface it was a better knowledge of each other. To Commander Preble, Captains Matthews, O'Kane, and Crosman and Lieutenant Stoddard, with whom I was myself more immediately brought in contact, I give my warmest thanks for the support rendered me.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Division.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 29. } Hilton Head, S. C., February 3, 1865.
* * * * *

VI. The detachment of the Fourth Massachusetts Cavalry now on duty at this post will proceed at once to Pocotaligo, with five days' rations, and report to General Hatch for duty in the field. The quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation.

By command of Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster:

THORNDIKE D. HODGES,
Capt., 35th U. S. Colored Troops, and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 3, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER, BEAUFORT DISTRICT,
Department of the South:

SIR: The brigadier-general commanding directs me to say that he desires you to place, with as little delay as possible, one regiment of troops on the mainland at the end of the causeway at Port Royal Ferry. They will take with them intrenching tools, to be used in constructing a bridge-head. You will please return by bearer an answer to this communication, stating at what time the troops will be at the point designated. The brigadier-general commanding also directs me to say that if you doubt his authority for giving these instructions you will please communicate with department headquarters on the subject. Please, also, to furnish these headquarters with the number of effective men of your command, not including those actually serving on Edisto Island.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
LEONARD B. PERRY,

First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,

Washington, D. C., February 3, 1865.

Brig. Gen. S. P. CARTER,

Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: You will please proceed without delay to Annapolis, Md., and report for duty to Brig. Gen. T. F. Meagher, commanding Provisional Division of the Armies of the Tennessee and Cumberland. If General Meagher be not at Annapolis you will assume command of all the troops at that place belonging to his division and conduct them to New Berne, N. C., reporting on arrival at Beaufort to Brig. Gen. I. N. Palmer for further orders.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,

No. 6. } Steamship Atlantic, February 3, 1865.

1. The several steamers containing the portions of the Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, now lying at Alexandria, will sail to-morrow morning, 4th instant, at daylight. The commanding officer of senior rank will be responsible for all the troops on board each vessel respectively, and after entering Chesapeake Bay will instruct the master of the vessel to make the best of his way to Cape Fear Inlet, N. C., where the fleet will rendezvous and await further orders. The destination of the command will be kept secret by the several commanding officers until communicated to the masters of vessels as above ordered.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., February 3, 1865—2.30 p. m.

(Received 4.30 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Chief of Staff:

According to the estimate of Captain Blodgett, assistant quartermaster, there is now transportation at this point for 7,400 men in all, 1,855 of this number being now on board. A steamer that left Baltimore at noon yesterday with 450 men put back on account of ice. General Meagher went to Baltimore yesterday. If troops are coming here by rail I think that the Government should take entire control of the road from Annapolis Junction.

ROBT. N. SCOTT,

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., February 3, 1865.

(Received 9 a. m. 4th.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Chief of Staff:

One of General Schofield's brigades arrived at 5.30 p. m., and is being embarked. I understand from here that this command was to be shipped separate from any of Meagher's troops, and I so informed Captain Blodgett. Many of these transports have no bunks, and I do not think they can carry the number of men estimated; for example, the Creole and Nevada, estimated to carry 1,000 men each, are very much crowded with 700 men each. These ships were selected for Schofield's troops. The steamer John Rice has not arrived. Colonel Casement, commanding brigade of Schofield's corps, expects orders as to his movements after embarkation. His troops will be on board by 12 o'clock to-night.

ROBT. N. SCOTT,

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 4, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,

Secretary of War:

The following dispatch is taken from to-day's Richmond Whig.

CHARLESTON, February 2, 1865.

A dispatch from Broxton's Bridge, dated 7.40 last night, says the enemy advanced to-day across Whippy Swamp, driving in our cavalry on our left, six miles from this place. They are supposed to be in heavy force. There is a column of cavalry on the Augusta road moving rapidly for some unknown point. Whippy Swamp is about thirty miles northwest of Pocotaligo, and about the same distance southwest of Branchville. Before reaching the latter place Sherman's troops will have to cross several tributaries of the Combahee as well as the Edisto River.

Later.—The enemy have possession of McBride's Bridge, and skirmishing is going on in front of Broxton's Bridge. The enemy are certainly moving on Branchville.

A dispatch from Adams' Run says that the enemy came up in two barges to Young's Island yesterday about noon, and drove in our pickets. They fired several bridges on plantations, and retired this morning.

Three steamers are off White Point, and a landing is threatened.

Adams' Run is about twenty miles southwest of Charleston.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS,
No. 31.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 4, 1865.

* * * * *

III. The following will be the order of march for to-morrow: The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, and the Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will cross the Salkehatchie, the former at Buford's Bridge and the latter at Rivers' Bridge, and go into camp on each side of the road on the first favorable ground, with the exception of one division of each corps, which will move out and encamp at a distance of three or four miles from the river. The movement will be made as early as possible, so as to enable the men to wash and that those regiments that desire it may have divine service.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CIRCULAR, } HDQRS. SECOND DIV., FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 12. } Angle's Post-Office, S. C., February 4, 1865.

This campaign will bring the troops of the army in constant proximity to the light troops of the enemy, and the utmost caution is enjoined upon the entire command at all times. Whenever any party of any size is on or off picket the utmost precaution of a regular advance should be observed, and arms ready for use always carried, and to this end the riding in vehicles, excepting the sick, is prohibited. A strict observance of the above by every officer and soldier of the command will save the division many valuable men.

To be read to every regiment and detachment.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. B. Hazen:

G. LOFLAND,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Ga., February 4, 1865.

Capt. H. R. BENJAMIN,
Acting Assistant Quartermaster:

You will immediately hitch up your trains preparatory to moving across the river, and will move without further orders as soon as General Geary's command, now passing, has crossed, following directly in his rear. It will therefore be necessary to either go yourself or send one of your officers to ascertain when his command is out of your way.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Ga., February 4, 1865.

Col. R. N. ADAMS,
Commanding Second Brigade:

You will instruct the commanding officer of the Twelfth Illinois Infantry Volunteers to hold his regiment in readiness to move to the front at 3 o'clock this p. m., armed and equipped, and supplied with fifty axes and twenty-five spades.

It is the intention to throw him in advance of the trains.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 4, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by General Howard to request you to send back or leave one small brigade to guard the supplies left on this side of the river. If you desire to move General Force's division to the front a brigade of General Mower's division may be sent back after that movement is completed. Department headquarters will remain here till Monday morning.

Very respectfully,

E. WHITTLESEY,

*Major and Judge-Advocate.*SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 32. }

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 4, 1865.

* * * * *

III. In order to comply with Special Field Orders, No. 31, Extract III, headquarters Department and Army of the Tennessee (copy inclosed*), Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will move his command across Rivers' Bridge to a point about four miles from the river. He will cause the road he moves on to be placed in good condition.

Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, and Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will remain in their present positions to-morrow, and as soon as General Force has moved his command across the river will move over such portions of their trains as may be on this side.

* * * * *

VI. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will send one brigade from his command to this side of the river to-morrow morning as soon as General Force's command has crossed. They will be placed in position to protect the stores remaining on this side, and the commanding officer will report at these headquarters for instructions.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 4, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE.

Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to inform you that he has sent a staff officer to move your brigade (Colonel Wiles), now near Broxton's Bridge, back to the position occupied by the Fourth Division yesterday, with instructions to intrench. The point they occupy is about two miles from these headquarters on the river road. Your mounted men are instructed to watch the roads beyond Colonel Wiles.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 27. } Near Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 4, 1865.

* * * * *

IV. This command will move at 8 a. m. to-morrow in the following order: First, Second Brigade; second, Battery Fifteenth Ohio; third, First Brigade, excepting one regiment, which will report to Capt. J. B. Pearce, commissary of subsistence, Third Division, for the purpose of guarding stores. Ambulances and trains as heretofore.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Sister's Ferry, February 4, 1865.

Col. M. C. HUNTER,

Commanding First Brigade, Third Division, 14th Army Corps:

COLONEL: I am directed by General Baird, commanding division, to inform you that the division will probably cross the river to-morrow morning at 9 or 10 o'clock.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. W. ACHESON,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. 14TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 5. } Sister's Ferry, Ga., February 4, 1865.

The corps will cross the Savannah River in the following order:

General Carlin will cross his division (the wagon trains in advance) to-morrow as soon after dawn as he can get possession of the bridge. He will encamp in a favorable position near the upper landing on the South Carolina shore.

General Baird will cross his division (trains in advance) immediately in rear of General Carlin, encamping near the upper landing.

Lieutenant-Colonel Moore with his trains, followed by the reserve artillery and corps headquarters, will cross in rear of General Baird.

General Morgan will cross his command (trains in advance) in rear of corps headquarters and encamp as he will hereafter be directed.

Each division commander will cause his trains to be loaded with commissary and quartermaster stores with the least delay possible after his wagons or any of them have reached the upper landing.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 4, 1865—3 a. m.

Brevet Major-General WILLIAMS,

Commanding Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: Inclosed I send you a copy of report* just received from Major General Howard, his operations giving full possession of the Salkehatchie. General Sherman desires you will move slowly to the point indicated in the instructions sent this p. m., these operations giving you probably a clear road. It is reported that Wheeler has passed around our front across the Salkehatchie. Please communicate with General Slocum the progress made, and our present situation, and the fact of our being in possession of the Salkehatchie, given by Mower's assault to-day; also such other items as will be of information for him. We will move as indicated.

* See Howard to Sherman, February 3, p. 286.

I am, general, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—Send substance of this to Slocum. I think you had better send the bulk of your train under small escort by the direct road to Buford's Bridge, to which point you may conduct your command around by Allendale Post-Office and Arnold Church, making as much display as possible. Take enough wagons and artillery with you to forage good, and try and be at Buford's Bridge to-morrow night, so as you can pass the Salkehatchie then without fail. There, probably, we shall move without waiting for Slocum, though I want Kilpatrick up as quick as possible, but he should swing around to Barnwell, but not farther west without orders.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN.
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Duck Branch Post-Office, February 4, 1865—6 a. m.

Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: I send herewith copies of two dispatches just received from General Sherman.* They give the orders for the movements of my command. We arrived at this place at 2 p. m. yesterday, and immediately communicated with General Sherman, who had reached this road on the north side of the Coosawhatchie. I send with these dispatches Lieutenant Mickle, acting assistant adjutant-general of the Artillery Brigade, who will give you any information regarding the roads, &c., to this place. We found them better than expected, and have repaired all the bad places. We have no ammunition for artillery, except that in the chests, our train being all with Geary's division. I particularly desire that you will have a sufficient number of wagons of the artillery ammunition train crossed to supply the three batteries now with me, and send it under a strong escort of the Twentieth Corps troops to join me, via Buford's Bridge. I would like to have my headquarters train sent forward also. Geary's division, I suppose, will rejoin the command as soon as he can be crossed over the Savannah.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Breret Major-General, Commanding.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Allendale, S. C., February 4, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow via Arnold Church, toward Buford's Bridge, as follows: First Division at 7 a. m. Third Division at 7.30 a. m. The artillery in the same place in the column as in the march of to-day. The two brigades of the First Division will march unencumbered as the advance. General Ward will make such disposition of his troops as to protect and assist the whole train.

* See Howard to Sherman, February 3, p. 286, and Dayton to Williams, next, ante.

Notwithstanding the numerous orders already published to the command, in the march of to-day stragglers and foraging parties were found scattered over the whole country far in advance of the head of the column.

Commanders of divisions are requested to adopt such measures as will in future prevent this disobedience of orders.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SELFIDGE'S HEADQUARTERS,

Sister's Ferry, February 4, 1865.

[General GEARY?:]

GENERAL: I wish to have Kilpatrick's train move with you, and when you reach the corps tell General Williams to divide it among his three divisions. I am very anxious to get your division, Selfridge's brigade, and Kilpatrick's train out to Robertsville to-night, so as to give room for the trains of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Corps to move to this point and load. Please take charge of matters at this point, and see that the trains here do not block up the road and that no time is lost in loading. Selfridge reports one bad piece of road between this point and Robertsville.

H. W. SLOCUM,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Hilton Head, S. C., February 4, 1865.

Lient. Gen. U. S. GRANT,

Commanding Armies of the United States, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: Major Gray, of my staff, returned last night from General Sherman's headquarters with the latest information. He left General Sherman at a place called "The Store," at the cross-roads near Duck Bridge, over Coosawhatchie River, thirty-one miles and a half from Pocotaligo Station, on the evening of February 2. He had with him at that point three divisions of the Fifteenth Corps, which corps had moved out from Pocotaligo on the 1st, marching to Hickory Hill, eighteen miles, on that day, and twelve miles to "The Store" on the second day. General Howard, with the Seventeenth Corps, was, on the evening of the 2d, near Whippy Swamp, near the Salkehatchie River. He had also marched from near Pocotaligo on the 1st instant, taking the right hand road lying near the Salkehatchie River. General Slocum, with the main body of the Left Wing, which had marched up the south bank of the Savannah River, has been at Sister's Ferry several days constructing a pontoon bridge across the river. Two divisions of the Twentieth Corps, which had crossed the river opposite Savannah, marched up the north bank and were at Robertsville. The crossing of the river at Sister's Ferry has been found to be more difficult than was expected, on account of the long distance to be cordu-royed on each side, and I learned at Savannah this morning that General Slocum will hardly be able to get his troops well over the river ready for a start before to-morrow (the 5th). This will delay General Sherman a little. Major Gray reports the roads fair and all the wagons of the Right Wing up. There were no stragglers, and the troops found in the country forage enough for the animals, and cattle and hogs for the army. The inhabitants generally, with their slaves and movables, had moved higher up the country. The troops burned all buildings and fences on the route. There was nothing but cavalry encountered thus far. General Sherman intended breaking the railroad near Midway, to the west of Branchville, and thought after that he might find opposition in crossing the Edisto River. It is possible that the troops in his front may receive re-enforcements from Hood. General Sherman wished me to press upon General Schofield the necessity of his advance, which I have done.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,

Major-General, Commanding.

(Copy to Maj. Gen. H. W. Halleck, Washington, D. C.)

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 4, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. RUFUS SAXTON,

Inspector of Settlements and Plantations, Dept. of the South:

GENERAL: I left Savannah at 11.30 this a. m., at which time I had not received the official statement of the requests made by you in our conversation of yesterday morning, which I then asked you to present to me in writing. I have now to again request that you will indicate to me in writing what action you desire me to take in order to enable you to discharge your duties under General Sherman's Special Field Orders, No. 15, current series, and am,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,

Major-General, Commanding.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 30. } Hilton Head, S. C., February 4, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Brig. Gen. Henry Prince, U. S. Volunteers, having reported to these headquarters, in compliance with Special Field Orders, No. 23, from headquarters Military Division of the Mississippi, dated January 29, 1865, is hereby ordered to take charge of all officers and men arriving at this port for General Sherman's army, and place them in camp between Beaufort and Pocotaligo, S. C. The quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation.

By command of Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster:

THORNDIKE D. HODGES,

Capt., 35th U. S. Colored Troops, and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 4, 1865.

Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the South:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to repeat my former statement with regard to the reduced number of the garrison of this district. I have at present to protect an exposed outpost line from twelve to fifteen miles in length with a force of less than 2,500 men for duty, and that in front of an enemy at least three times as strong as myself. My men are entirely worn out, and I can now hardly hold them responsible for the exact performance of their duty. Frequently they are on duty two nights out of three. It is evidently to the interest of the enemy to destroy my communication on Cole's Island. This he is enabled to do, if enterprising, from the fact that they consist of a number of bridges and extended plank walks, which I cannot properly guard with my present force. Four men have deserted yesterday from the mortar schooner stationed at the White House, and they will doubtless furnish the enemy with all the information which he may require for such an enterprise. I therefore respectfully beg that the 200 men of the Fifty-fourth New York Volunteers, and the 300 men of the Thirty-third U. S. Colored Troops, now absent with the Coast Division, may be ordered back to this district.

I have the honor to be, captain, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 4, 1865.

Capt. WILLIAM L. M. BURGER,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the South:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor respectfully to suggest that it may be desirable in the course of the next few weeks to send spies into Charleston. If this should be desired, it would be necessary to hold out inducements in the way of a reward, and also to fit out any such persons with gold and silver currency. As I have no funds at my disposal that could be thus appropriated, I ask for the instructions of the major-general commanding on the subject. If the general approves the measure, I beg to be informed what inducements may be offered, and also to be supplied with a certain amount of specie for this purpose.

I have the honor to be, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS COAST DIVISION,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 4, 1865.

Capt. W. L. M. BURGER, Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: In the absence of the brigadier general commanding I have the honor to state that the Thirty-fourth U. S. Colored Troops are at present absent on an expedition to the Combahee River. The steamer Louise has arrived for the purpose of transferring it to Florida, and as the regiment will be near Port Royal Ferry, the brigadier-general commanding thought best to use the steamer Louise to transfer the wounded who have arrived from General Sherman's front to the hospital at Beaufort, there being no suitable accommodations here. The Thirty-fourth U. S. Colored Troops will be ordered to march to Beaufort.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEONARD B. PERRY,

First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Hilton Head, S. C., February 4, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER,

District of Beaufort, S. C.:

SIR: The major-general commanding directs that you furnish from the force under your command to Brigadier-General Hatch, commanding Coast Division, such companies as he may need for military operations.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

T. D. HODGES,

Capt., 35th U. S. Colored Troops, and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Hilton Head, S. C., February 4, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN M. SCHOFIELD,

Commanding Twenty-third Army Corps, Beaufort, N. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that General Sherman, with the Right Wing of his army, moved from Pocotaligo on the morning of the 1st instant, the Seventeenth Corps taking the road to the right, nearest the Salkehatchie, and the Fifteenth Corps the road to the left. This wing made thirty-two miles in two days, and on the evening of the 2d instant General Sherman's headquarters were at The Store, at the cross-roads near Duck Bridge, over the Coosawhatchie. General Slocum, who had marched from Savannah with the Left Wing, had not, up to yesterday (the 3d), succeeded in completing his bridge across the Savannah River at Sister's Ferry, for the purpose of advancing by the way of Robertsville and Duck Bridge. This may delay General Sherman somewhat. He will, however, in a day or two strike the railroad west of Branchville, and after destroying it will cross the Edisto. There he will probably meet with opposition, and it is possible that he may find a portion of Hood's army in his front. General Sherman desires me to press upon you again the necessity of carrying out your part of the programme as soon as you can do so effectively. He wants you to take Goldsborough and hold it if possible. If you cannot do this, to hold Kinston and as much of the railroad beyond as possible. Circumstances favoring you, he hopes you may be also able to take Raleigh and Wilmington. He does not want you to wait for his movements in your advance, but to commence your movements as soon as you can get ready. General Sherman attaches great importance to the effect that your advance will produce.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,

Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO.
No. 19. ) Steamship Atlantic, February 4, 1865.

II. Maj. T. J. Milholland, One hundred and seventh Illinois Volunteer Infantry, is hereby relieved from duty as acting assistant inspector-general, Second Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, and will report to his regimental commander for duty. This order to date January 13, 1865.

III. Capt. L. A. Burke, Ninety-first Indiana Volunteer Infantry, is hereby appointed acting assistant inspector-general, Second Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, to date from January 13, 1865.

IV. Capt. John Corbin, Ninety-first Indiana Volunteer Infantry, is hereby appointed acting assistant inspector-general, Third Brigade, Second Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, to date from January 13, 1865.

VII. Lieut. Col. G. W. Schofield, chief of artillery, Army of the Ohio, will establish his office in the city of Washington, D. C., for the purpose of reorganizing and refitting the field artillery of the Twenty-third Army Corps and will remain there until further orders. This order to date from January 24, 1865.

VIII. Lieut. Col. G. W. Schofield, chief of artillery, Army of the Ohio, will proceed to Baltimore, Md., and the city of New York on business connected with the artillery of the Twenty-third Army Corps, on the completion of which he will return to Washington City. This order to date from February 2, 1865.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,
No. 9. ) Steamship Atlantic, February 4, 1865.

The following regulations will be strictly observed by the officers and men of this command during the present voyage:

1. No open lights will be allowed in any part of the ship occupied by troops. The ship's lanterns will be arranged by the officers of the vessel in such way as to light the decks during the night, and must not be opened or interfered with by the men.

2. No smoking will be allowed in any part of the vessel used for sleeping, except the open decks. The men may smoke in the open air upon the upper decks, and the brigade commander will provide for giving proper airing and opportunity to smoke to the men quartered below. Officers will smoke either upon deck or in the smoking-room, near the water-closets.

3. The division and brigade commissaries will make arrangements with the steward of the ship for cooking the men's coffee and doing other necessary cooking for the command, and for serving the same out at regular hours.

4. The canteens of the men may be filled with drinking water once each day, the men being marched by companies under their proper officers to the pump in the fore part of the ship for that purpose.

5. The brigade commander, in consultation with the commander of the ship, will arrange for the perfect and regular policing of the quarters, sinks, &c.

6. The starboard side of the upper and main decks, abaft the engine, will be kept clear of men and reserved for the use of officers, both of the command and of the ship, during the day, and such portion of this space as may necessarily be occupied by the men for sleeping at night will have a passage kept entirely clear for the use of the officers and crew of the vessel in working her at night. No men will at any time be allowed to go upon the roofs of the houses on the upper deck.

7. Proper roll-calls will be established, and the line officers will be strictly required to attend them and to make close personal inspections daily of the condition of their men, and to be personally in command of them when marched out for water or coffee, or when on duty.

8. An officer of the day will be daily appointed by the brigade commanders, and shall have full charge of the execution of this order and supervision of all the police arrangements of the command. Proper line officers will be detailed on guard duty, and sentries will be regularly posted at the bulkhead of the ship store-room on the forward lower deck, at the sinks, over the lights at night, and on the middle line of the decks reserved under paragraph 6.

9. The officer of the day, after reporting at brigade headquarters each day, will report to the captain of the ship, in order that the ship's officers may know to whom to apply for any enforcement of these regulations.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 4, 1865—11.30 a. m.
Colonel CASEMENT,
Annapolis, Md.:

Your brigade will go to Fort Fisher or Cape Fear River, land, and send back the transports.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., February 4, 1865.
Major-General SCHOFIELD:

The brigade is embarked. I have no further instructions. What shall I do?

J. S. CASEMENT,
Colonel, Commanding.

ALEXANDRIA, February 4, 1865.
Col. J. S. CASEMENT,
Commanding Brigade, Annapolis:

Written orders were given Captain Rhodes. If you have not them report with your command at mouth of Potomac for further orders, steamer Atlantic.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 4, 1865—12 m.

Maj. R. N. SCOTT,
Annapolis, Md.:

If the commanders of troops and transports have not received General Schofield's orders give them in my name. Each transport must start as soon as it is loaded. Those of the Twenty-third Corps will go to Fort Fisher or Cape Fear River. Meagher's Provisional Division will go to Beaufort, N. C., reporting to General Palmer, at New Berne. The troops must not be mixed. As soon as transports are discharged they will return to Point Lookout and report by telegram to General Rucker. Orders to this effect were issued several days ago by General Schofield, but there may have been some neglect in distributing them.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

ANNAPOLIS, MD., February 4, 1865.

(Received 3.30 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff:

General Meagher expects to come here to-morrow, and to leave here with his command on Monday, 6th instant. Colonel Casement has received your order of to-day. No one here knows just how many men Meagher expects to take with him.

ROBT. N. SCOTT,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 4, 1865—6 p. m.

Maj. R. N. SCOTT,
Annapolis, Md.:

Order Meagher's troops aboard transports as fast as they are ready and the troops arrive. And as fast as transports are loaded order them to sea as directed. They will not wait for him, nor orders from him.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

ANNAPOLIS, MD., February 4, 1865—9.30 p. m.

(Received 10.30 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff:

Under authority of your telegram of to-day, I have sent off one load of Meagher's troops, and have informed him that I should send the other vessels as soon as they were loaded. I understand that he proposed to have them wait till all were loaded, and that he proposes to come down by steamer from Baltimore to-morrow afternoon. Under that arrangement three steamers have been lying here partially loaded, when one or two of them might have been filled and started. Meagher has failed to notify the quartermaster of the number of men he sends from Baltimore, or when they leave there. I had suggested to him the propriety of furnishing this information. He has selected a steamer for his headquarters, and directed her to be kept empty till certain troops arrive. I will disregard this arrangement.

ROBT. N. SCOTT,

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 5, 1865—3.30 p. m.

(Received 4.10 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Chief of Staff:

Please inform me what portion of General Schofield's command, if any, has sailed.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 5, 1865—6.30 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,

City Point:

One division of the Twenty-third Corps sailed yesterday, numbering 5,000 or 6,000. Also over 2,000 of Meagher's division are off. The remainder of his force will embark as soon as they can be collected. They are in utter confusion, and he seems to be ignorant of what troops he has, or where they are. It is strange that General Thomas should have intrusted men to such an officer.

H. W. HALLECK,

Major-General and Chief of Staff.

FORT FISHER, February 5, 1865.

(Via Fort Monroe, 9.30 a. m., 7th.)

Lieutenant-General GRANT:

A dispatch from one of General Foster's staff to Schofield, dated February 2, states that Sherman with his troops started February 1 to move rapidly into the interior of South Carolina. Other information is that he had previously been at Pocotaligo. None of Schofield's troops have yet arrived, and all quiet except that the navy occasionally shell Fort Anderson. Loud cheering last night along the rebel line was thought by General Paine to indicate re-enforcements. All quiet, and warm weather.

C. B. COMSTOCK.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Rivers' Bridge, S. C. February 5, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I have delayed issuing an order, hoping to hear from you, but thinking you might have depended on what you said to me yesterday, I have now issued it. In case you wish to suspend or modify, please do so to General Logan and send me word by my staff officer.

Lieutenant McQueen found the bridges burned across the Little Salkehatchie and swamps, and the enemy on the other side. It was this information that determined me only to attempt the Little Salkehatchie to-morrow.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

P. S.—General Blair moved over to-day as directed.
Respectfully,

O. O. H.,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Buford's Bridge, S. C., February 5, 1865.

General HOWARD,
Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: General Kilpatrick is now up to Allendale Post-Office, and will move to-morrow on Barnwell, and thence to join us about Bamberg. I wish your wing to move now with all expedition consistent with due caution and make a strong lodgment on the South Carolina road anywhere from Graham's to the Edisto. I will instruct General Williams to cross here and move four miles toward Barnwell, and thence follow cross-roads in the direction of Graham's Station. I suppose you will move the Seventeenth Corps direct on Midway and the Fifteenth on Bamberg. I will attend the Fifteenth Corps.

I am, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 32.	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE, Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 5, 1865.
---------------------------------------	--

I. There being an insufficient number of maps of the State of South Carolina for distribution to the army, all captured maps of the State, or any part of it, or those that may be hereafter captured, will be turned over to division commanders, and by them forwarded to the chief engineer of the department at these headquarters, unless absolutely required for their own use, that they may be properly distributed.

II. The object of to-morrow's movement, which will commence at 7 a. m., will be to secure the line of the Little Salkehatchie River. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move on the Buford's Bridge and Lowry's Station or Bamberg road, the head of column reaching to the cross-roads at Duncanville, securing, if possible, the crossings of both branches of the Little Salkehatchie. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Major-General Blair commanding, will move on the road on which the command is now encamped, cross the Little Salkehatchie, and take up a strong position beyond. It will be well to move to the river by two routes, one division, followed by department headquarters and bridge train, by the direct route, and the other two divisions by a cross-road to the right, to the Broxton's Bridge and Midway road. The two routes come together at the Little Salke-hatchie bridge. The bridge or bridges above referred to have been destroyed by the enemy, and he has some force on the other side of the river. The headquarters of the department will be near the head of column of the Seventeenth Corps, probably at Millersville Post-Office. The First Regiment Engineers Missouri Volunteers, Lieut. Col. W. Tweeddale commanding, will move as rear guard behind the bridge train.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Buford's Bridge, February 5, 1865.

Major-General LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Corps:

GENERAL: I have instructed General Howard to move the Right Wing and make a lodgment on the South Carolina Railroad in the neighborhood of Bamberg. You may therefore, in anticipation of the movement, make orders for the Fifteenth Corps to take the direct road by Duncanville. Kilpatrick will move by Barnwell, and I have ordered General Williams to cross the Big Salkehatchie by this bridge, then take the Barnwell road out as far as Ayers', where a road branches to Blackville. He will follow that to about Nimmons', trusting to find some road leading up to Graham's or Duncanville. I would like, if possible, that Hazen should be on the north side of the Barnwell [road] by 8 o'clock, so that Williams can pass him, and that the two armies should not get mixed at the place where Hazen's camp now is.

I am, yours, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Dickinson's Plantation, S. C., February 5, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Department and Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: My corps is encamped at the points indicated by your order of yesterday: First Division at Chitty's, Third at Moye's, and Second at Dr. Hayes'. I sent out to-day to Little Salkehatchie fifty mounted men. Found the bridge burned and the swamp, some 300 yards, badly obstructed, with the enemy posted on the opposite side, said to be one brigade. There is an abundance of meat, forage, &c., in the country.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 8.	HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS, In the Field, S. C., February 5, 1865.
--------------------------------------	---

I. The troops of this division will march at 7 a. m. to-morrow, sharp, in the following order, viz:

First. Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut commanding, with the battery moving in rear of its second regiment,

Second. First Brigade Infantry, General Rice commanding.

Third. Trains in the same order as to-day.

Fourth. Second Brigade Infantry, Colonel Adams commanding. Brigadier-General Rice will throw one regiment directly in rear of the ordnance train.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 5, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Dept. and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report the following as the casualties in this command on the 2d and 3d instant, all of which are in the First Division: One officer and 17 enlisted men killed; 3 officers and 103 men wounded. General Mower estimates the losses of the enemy at about 200. There were 16 of their dead on the field and a hospital with 17 wounded found in rear of their position. The number of prisoners taken is 10, and of deserters 17.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

[Indorsement.]

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Rivers' Bridge, S. C., February 5, 1865.

I have the honor to forward the within report. It will be noticed that the number of wounded differs from estimate, but I understand that not more than seventy were sent back; the rest, being slightly wounded, have joined their regiments. The number engaged, as near as we can ascertain, defending the works was 2,700, composed, as near as can be learned, of the Fifth Georgia Reserves, Thirty-second and Forty-seventh Georgia Regiments, two companies Texas Cavalry, Twenty-second South Carolina Cavalry, and Third Arkansas Cavalry.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

[FEBRUARY 5, 1865.—For complimentary letter from Howard to Blair, see Part I, p. 385.]

SPECIAL ORDERS, {
No. 33. }

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 5, 1865.

* * * * *

VIII. The following are the orders for to-morrow:

1. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will move his command at 7 a. m., taking the right-hand road at his camp and marching on the Broxton's Bridge and Midway road.

2. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will move his command forward at 7 a. m. on the direct Rivers' Bridge and Midway road. The train of department headquarters and the bridge train will follow the Fourth Division.

3. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will be prepared to move at 8 a. m. and will follow the Fourth Division to the point where the Third Division is now encamped, where he will take the right-hand road and follow that division. A staff officer will be left at this point to direct him.

4. The train of these headquarters will follow the troops of the Third Division.

5. The detachment of the Ninth Illinois Cavalry,* now in camp, will move in advance of the Third Division, scouting well down all roads leading to the right.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 28. } In the Field, S. C., February 5, 1865.

This command will march at 7 a. m. to-morrow in the following order: First, First Brigade; second, Battery Fifteenth Ohio; third, Second Brigade. Ambulances and trains as usual.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 14TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 9. } In the Field, S. C., February 5, 1865.

I. The attention of brigade commanders is called to the fact that many of their men indulge in the unmilitary and disgraceful habit of straggling. We are now entering upon another campaign into the enemy's country, where our own safety and that of the whole army depends upon the men being kept together and under their proper officers. When forage details are sent out they must be in charge of competent commissioned officers, and in no case will forage details be sent from any regiment or brigade of this command without such officer in command. Brigade commanders will take the necessary steps to prevent straggling, enforce obedience to this order, and will be held strictly responsible for every man lost through neglect of its provisions.

By order of Brig. Gen. W. P. Carlin:

J. E. EDMONDS,

Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Buford's Bridge, S. C., February 5, 1865.

General A. S. WILLIAMS,

Commanding Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: The Right Wing of the army will move early to-morrow against the South Carolina Railroad in the neighborhood of Bamberg.

* Mounted infantry.

I wish you to cross the Salkehatchie and move toward the same point, but for convenience of movement suggest you take the Barnwell road to Ayers', where a road leads to Blackville, which intersects one coming into the direct Bamberg road from here at Little Salkehatchie. As you approach the Little Salkehatchie I think you can find some road to Bamberg without coming into collision with the Fifteenth Corps that will occupy ten miles of that road.

I think such a road will be found from Simmons' to Duncanville, crossing Little Salkehatchie above or at Dowling's Mill. I will be near the leading division of the Fifteenth Corps. Kilpatrick will be about Barnwell to-morrow night and will strike the railroad next day between Blackville and Graham's. If you can find any other road than the one I suggest, which is nearly parallel with the road traveled by the Fifteenth Corps, and not more than six or seven miles off, you can take it, always sending me word, and in case of hearing the sound of serious battle change your course toward it.

I am yours, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Salkehatchie River, S. C., February 5, 1865.

This command will move to-morrow toward the South Carolina Railroad as follows: The Third Division at 7 a. m.; the First Division at 8 a. m. Each division will protect and assist its own trains. General Ward will march one unencumbered brigade in advance. Two batteries of artillery will march immediately in rear of the advanced brigade, and one battery will march with the First Division. General Ward will send his pioneers in advance of his column to repair the road across the swamp, in our immediate front.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Buford's Bridge, February 5, 1865.

General KILPATRICK,

Commanding Cavalry, Allendale:

GENERAL: Captain Newton has just arrived, and I am glad you are up. The enemy is all in the mist as to our movement, save they think Slocum's command has gone up to Augusta, and that I am moving on Branchville. We carried the position at Rivers' yesterday, and to-day have passed both corps across—Seventeenth at Rivers' and Fifteenth here at Buford's. I sent Williams round by Allendale to make a feint on Barnwell. To-morrow the Seventeenth Corps will move rapidly on Midway and the Fifteenth on Bamberg. Williams will follow in reserve. The enemy intended to defend the line of Salkehatchie, but are now falling back to the Edisto. Presuming you get to-day to Allendale Post-Office, I want you to-morrow to move rapidly on Barnwell, keeping up any feint you may please in the direction of Augusta. Next day strike the railroad where you please from Blackville to Lowry's. If you can, get and destroy cars, locomotives, and depots, but don't delay long, but effectually destroy some piece of the track, enough to cut communication, and then turn to us about Duncanville and Bamberg. You will find plenty of corn and bacon. I think Wheeler's forces are scattered, and he has no idea where you are up to this moment, so you can act with a rush. Some cavalry retreated before General Williams to the northwest toward Augusta and other parts across the bridges of Salkehatchie. I don't care about your going into Barnwell, and only refer to it as the point where you will likely find cleared roads across the swamp. The bridges amount to nothing; the swamp is the worst, and you may cross it wherever you please. I shall expect to hear from you on the night of February 7 or morning of the 8th, when I will be with the Fifteenth Corps, not far from Duncanville or Bamberg. On this side the Salkehatchie we find the roads fine, with farms and abundance of forage. None has been destroyed. The farmers west of Salkehatchie were ordered to move their forage and stock to the east of Salkehatchie, expecting to hold that line. Mystify the enemy all you can, but break that road whilst I move straight on it about Lowry's.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Hilton Head, S. C., February 5, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN,
Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: I have to thank you very much for your kind letter of instructions, and also the good advice it contained. I am almost ashamed of myself for having troubled you with such matters while your attention is occupied with things of so much greater importance. I shall try to keep things straight as far as possible. I have made a respectful request of the Secretary of War to have the recruiting and organizing of negroes left in the hands where it previously rested by orders and instructions of the War Department. I have backed the request by copies of orders, &c. I have also respectfully asked that General William Birney may be detailed to relieve General Saxton of his duties in this department. If both or either of these be granted there will be no further trouble, and everything will go on smoothly. The enemy having left General Hatch's front, that officer is preparing to cross the Combahee. I have sent two companies to build a tête-de-pont at Port Royal Ferry. General Prince is ordered to form a camp at Blair's landing on the Pocotaligo River (he has several hundred men already arrived from the North). He is to do all he can to forward supplies, and to aid in communicating with your army, and to support General Hatch, if needed. I am going to start this morning for Morris Island to do all I can in the way of demonstrations, and to land in Bull's Bay, as you requested, at the time specified to Major Gray. I forwarded intelligence of your movement to General Grant and General Halleck. I also sent further information yesterday of your arrival at "The Store," and wrote again in full to General Schofield, telling him of the importance you attached to his movement, and that he was to go ahead and take Goldsborough as soon as he was ready, and to take and hold all he could. I returned from Savannah yesterday. It was reported that the bridge at Sister's Ferry would not be ready for crossing the main body before to-day. I sent information to General Slocum through General Easton this morning of the taking of Rivers' Bridge by Blair's corps.

With great respect, and kindest regards, ever yours, most truly,
J. G. FOSTER.

---

BEAUFORT, S. C., February 5, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,

Commanding Department of the South :

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 4th instant. In reply I have to say that I understood you to refuse all the verbal requests I made of you during our interview. As they are all I have to make at present, I could see no object in placing them before you in writing, and I had decided not to do so. As you request them in writing, I respectfully submit them:

First. I have the honor to request the detail of two officers to assist me in the colonization of the freedmen. Second. That an order may be issued to the district commanders in the department instructing them to honor my passes to my assistants and the freedmen to go to different points in the department, given in the discharge of my duty under this order, and also on the Government transports when it can be done without injury to the service. Third. The organization and enlistment of colored recruits having been placed in my hands, that I may be recognized as charged with this duty. Your order of January 30, 1865, to Bvt. Brig. Gen. M. S. Littlefield places the matter entirely in his hands. I respectfully request that he be ordered to report to me.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. SAXTON,
Brevet Major-General of Volunteers.

[Indorsement.]

FEBRUARY 9, 1865.

Referred to Major-General Gillmore for his action.

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 5, 1865.

Maj. C. W. THOMAS,

Chief Quartermaster, Department of the South :

MAJOR: The major-general commanding has left with me the following instructions, and directs that they be sent to you for your information and guidance: First. The steamers Savannah and Augusta are to be turned over to Ensign Neil for temporary duty as picket boats and in landing troops as soon as possible. These boats are to follow to Folly Island. Second. Send mail to General Foster at Morris Island, or beyond, as soon as it arrives. Third. Use every exertion to fill promptly all the requirements of General Sherman's army. Fourth. See that the schooner, with the 30-pounder Parrotts on board, is towed to Folly Island as soon as the ammunition is on board. Fifth. The Delaware to be sent to report to General Foster as soon as ready.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 5, 1865.

Brig. Gen. HENRY PRINCE,
Hilton Head, S. C.:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to state that you are expected to render all the assistance you can in the transportation of supplies to General Sherman's army. You are also directed to re-enforce General Hatch, or to aid him in any way, should he require it.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Folly Island, S. C., February 5, 1865.

Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the South:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to transmit a telegram from headquarters Northern District, Department of the South, dated February 5, 2.15 p. m., as follows:

HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Morris Island, S. C., February 5, 1865.

Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the South:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that nothing of importance has taken place since my report of yesterday. Fatigue parties continue as before mentioned on Castle Pinckney and other of the enemy's works. It being very clear last evening the enemy's pickets on James Island could be more distinctly seen than usual, and showed almost double their former numbers. Cheering has been heard this morning along the rebel line on James Island. A blockade runner passed in safely last night. The steamer Cosmopolitan arrived this a. m. with the detachment of the Fifty-fourth New York Veteran Volunteers from General Hatch's command.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding District.

This telegraphic letter I was ordered to send you.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. A. KOZLAY,
Colonel Fifty-fourth New York Veteran Volunteers.
Commanding Post, Folly Island.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 5, 1865.

Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that I to-day effected a crossing of the Salkehatchie at two points. The upper point where the railroad crosses was without opposition. At Combahee Ferry we met with some resistance, but succeeded in forcing the passage without loss on our side. One lieutenant of artillery was captured at the latter point. I shall cross in force at one of these points as soon as the bridges are built so that artillery can be got over. At present I have foot bridges at both points.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 5, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,

Commanding District of Savannah, Department of the South:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to furnish you with the following extract from a letter of General Sherman, dated February 2, 1865:

As to military discipline, I decide that General Saxton cannot go to a military post and do anything which in the judgment of its commander is calculated to produce disorder or confusion. The commanding officer of a post is the proper person to see that it does not become embarrassed with idle or worthless vagabonds of any color, sex, or kind. You may sustain General Grover in anything he may do as to maintaining good order and government at Savannah.

I am instructed by General Foster to state that the letter of General Sherman, from which the above is an extract, is of a confidential nature, else a copy of the whole letter would be sent to you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DIST. OF FLORIDA, FOURTH SEPARATE BRIG.,
DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Jacksonville, Fla., February 5, 1865.

Capt. CHARLES A. KEITH,

Commanding Detachment Fourth Massachusetts Cavalry:

CAPTAIN: The brigadier-general commanding orders you to cross to the east bank of the Saint John's at 7.30 a. m. to-morrow, with all your available mounted men for the purpose of making a reconnaissance.

You will first report to these headquarters for instructions.

By order of Brig. Gen. E. P. Scammon:

HENRY SETON,
Captain and Aide-de-Camp.

FORT MONROE, February 5, 1865.

(Received 7.05 p. m.)

Lieutenant-General GRANT.

City Point:

I have just arrived here with my advance. Have you any instructions for me?

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 5, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,

Fort Monroe, Va.:

Your instructions were left with Colonel Webster, quartermaster. I have no further instructions.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Steamship Atlantic, February 5, 1865.

CAPTAIN STEAMSHIP ATLANTIC:

SIR: Major-General Schofield directs that you put in at Fortress Monroe, where you will receive on board your vessel a quantity of ammunition; after which you will proceed to Fort Fisher, N. C., debark your troops and cargo, and report to the general quartermaster, as directed in your order of February 3, from office of depot quartermaster at Alexandria, Va.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Fort Monroe, February 5, 1865.

Brig. Gen. I. N. PALMER,
New Berne, N. C.:

GENERAL: I inclose a copy of an order constituting the Department of North Carolina.* I will issue an order assuming command after my arrival at Fort Fisher, for which place I will start to-morrow morning. My headquarters will be in the field with the troops operating against Wilmington. I have ordered to New Berne, to report to you, a division under Brig. Gen. T. F. Meagher, about 5,000 strong. It has probably started from Annapolis by this time. That division is composed of detachments from General Sherman's army. If any troops of the Twenty-third Corps stop at Beaufort send them forward to Fort Fisher. I will run up and see you or send you further instructions in a few days. Meanwhile make all preparations to advance to Kinston and repair the railroad between that place and New Berne. Send the pontoon train to Cape Fear River at once.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

ANNAPOLIS, February 5, 1865—11 a. m.

(Received 2 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff:

Colonel Casement's brigade left yesterday. Two steamers with General Meagher's men will be off this forenoon. The senior officer has orders from Meagher to proceed with these troops to Beaufort and to wait there for his arrival. Shall they wait at Beaufort, or shall each load proceed from Beaufort to New Berne? General Schofield's orders say that Meagher's Provisional Division will "move to Beaufort, and thence by rail to New Berne, N. C., and join the command of General Palmer, to whom General Meagher will report, on his arrival at Beaufort, for further orders." There are about 200 convalescents and stragglers in Camp Parole belonging to Twenty-third Corps.

ROBT. N. SCOTT,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

* See p. 179.

ANNAPOLIS, February 5, 1865—1 p. m.

(Received 2 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff:

The Catawba and Alhambra are getting under way, 1,932 men on board, making in all 2,167 of his [Meagher's] men that have been started; 800 men are on the steamer New York, and I understand that 1,000 are now en route from Baltimore. We do not know how many more are at Baltimore.

ROBT. N. SCOTT,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 5, 1865—4 p. m.

Maj. R. N. SCOTT,
Annapolis:

You will direct, in my name, the commanding officer on each transport to report by telegraph to General Palmer at New Berne, and to proceed to that place by railroad as rapidly as transportation can be obtained. No one will wait for General Meagher's arrival, and if such orders have been given they will be countermanded. New Berne is the destination of these troops, not Beaufort, and there must be no unnecessary delay at the latter place. Give the proper orders to the commander of each transport without regard to any orders of General Meagher.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

ANNAPOLIS, February 5, 1865—4 p. m.

(Received 5 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff:

Eight hundred and fifty men have just arrived by railroad from Baltimore. Have been twenty-four hours en route. Steamer New York will be fitted up and started as soon as possible. In addition to his own brigade, Colonel Casement took about 100 stragglers and convalescents found here belonging to his division. There are still about 200 such men here belonging to Twenty-third Corps, and one or two officers.

ROBT. N. SCOTT,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 6, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON:

The Richmond Dispatch to-day says that a rumor was current yesterday that Sherman had reached and was destroying the railroad at Midway, ten miles west of Branchville. The Whig, however, says that the rumor was without foundation, as the tenor of official dispatches received at the War Department last evening renders it certain that such was not the case. On Saturday telegraphic communication was temporarily suspended with Augusta, but was resumed on yesterday.

The Whig remarks that a repulse of Sherman, who is now apparently presumptuous on account of his unimpeded march through Georgia, would work wonders in bringing the North to its senses. The Confederate generals and the men under their commands on his front are commissioners to whose pacific exertions the country may well look with anxious and prayerful solicitude.*

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 6, 1865—10.30 a. m.

(Received 11.15 a. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Washington :

If Meagher has lost his men it will be well to send some officer from Washington to look after them and relieve Meagher. If he has lost his men it will afford a favorable pretext for doing what the service would have lost nothing by having done long ago—dismissing him.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 6, 1865—2.35 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,
City Point, Va. :

General Ord is assigned as requested.† Before your telegram to the Secretary, General Gillmore had been sent South to relieve General Foster. I think his familiarity with that part of the coast and the defenses of Charleston render him most suitable for that command.‡

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 6, 1865.

Colonel POE:

The Fifteenth Corps moves early to-morrow on Lowry's Station. Please see that the engineer regiment falls in with the leading division, provided with one wagon load of their tools for destroying road. After a breach is made I will give orders for parties to work right and left, and desire the engineers to confine their attention to the twist. The two leading divisions of the Fifteenth Corps will move without wagons, other than ambulances and a few with cartridges.

Yours, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

* For part of dispatch here omitted, see Vol. XLVI, Part II, p. 414.

† To the Department of Virginia.

‡ For portion of dispatch here omitted, see Vol. XLVI, Part II, p. 415.

COWPEN FORD, February 6, 1865—11 a. m.

Major-General SHERMAN:

GENERAL: We have possession of east bank of the Little Salkehatchie and the enemy's rifle-pits, after a slight skirmish. Seven bridges are destroyed, but we can repair them in a short time, probably two hours.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

Maj. Gen. William T. SHERMAN:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say to you that upon further inspection he is satisfied that it will take much longer to repair the bridges across the Little Salkehatchie than stated above. It will be all we can do to get the command across to-day.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
WM. E. STRONG,
Chief of Staff.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 6, 1865.

General HOWARD:

The Fifteenth Corps is crossing Little Salkehatchie, and will move out to the forks of the road marked Duncanville. To-morrow early will move on the railroad about Bamberg. Move early on the same point. It has just begun to rain. Williams will be at this crossing, and I expect Kilpatrick to strike the road about 8 a. m. to-morrow about Blackville. All well.

SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cowpen Ford, S. C., February 6, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: The march to-day has been delayed on account of the bridges at this point. They were absolutely destroyed, every stringer being either burned or cut in two. The longest bridge was sixty-six feet in length. Total amount rebuilt, 262 feet. I have pushed but one division over, keeping the other two on this side. From the former reconnaissances have been pushed out to Lemon's Creek. It took us five hours to rebuild the bridges. Inclosed please find a copy of my order of march for to-morrow.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

P. S.—The bridges at Lemon's Creek and Swamp are reported destroyed, and some force, probably that which left here to-day, on the other side.

[ Inclosure. ]

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 33.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cocpen Ford, S. C., February 6, 1865.

The movement for to-morrow will commence at 7 a. m. The Fifteenth Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will march as rapidly as possible to Bamberg, pass the railroad, and take up a strong position and intrench at least two divisions. The Seventeenth Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will push to Midway, cross the railroad at that point, and intrench strongly, making a strong right flank. Department headquarters will follow the leading division of the Seventeenth Corps. The bridge train will follow the second division in the order of march. The trains to-morrow night will be closely and carefully parked. The pickets of the two corps must connect. A strong force of pioneers must be kept at the head of each column, so as to repair bridges and clear away obstructions with the greatest rapidity. All foraging parties will be kept well in hand, and all straggling completely repressed.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

LANE'S BRIDGE, February 6, 1865—2.40 [p. m.].

General HOWARD:

At 1.30 o'clock we drove the enemy from his works on the other bank of Little Salkehatchie, and now have possession of the two roads, two miles beyond, leading to Bamberg and Graham's, one division occupying same. Will have all my command over the river to-night, but it will be late, as we have to finish a bridge some 100 feet long. Will take possession of the crossing over the next stream to-night.

Respectfully,

J. A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Five Miles from Bamberg, February 6, 1865.

General JOHN A. LOGAN,

Commanding Fifteenth Corps:

GENERAL: You may make your orders and march to-morrow on Lowry's Station, South Carolina Railroad, and make a strong lodgment and break up the road. Inasmuch as the enemy must by this time have detected our plan, you should be prepared for battle. You know that the Seventeenth Corps is approaching Midway by the road from Rivers' Bridge and should now be within eight miles. You have only five miles to Bamberg and one to Lowry's. Williams is just behind you, and Kilpatrick is supposed to be at Barnwell and has orders to strike the railroad about Blackville and turn to Bamberg. Williams is ordered to move straight on Graham's Station unless he hears you engaged, when he will turn to your left flank. You had better march with two divisions, disencumbered of all wagons save a few with cartridges and the ambulances, and let your train follow to any point you may select about Bamberg or Lowry's, to be parked. As soon as you reach the railroad set to work to destroy it effectually, viz, every rail must be twisted. Your advance should push out a mile or so beyond the railroad toward South Edisto, on the Cannon's Bridge road. If you hear Howard engaged lean toward Midway, but get the road broken anyhow. I will be with you, but want you to fight your own battles, as I am a non-combatant. The enemy ought to fight us, but I don't believe he will.

Yours, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

P. S.—Have the left-hand road at the church clear for Williams by 8 a. m.

S.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 9.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 6, 1865.

I. The troops of this division will march at 8 a. m. to-morrow, the 7th instant, in the following order, viz:

1. First Brigade Infantry, General Rice commanding, with one regiment thrown in rear of the battery.

2. Second Brigade Infantry, Colonel Adams commanding, who will direct the regiments of his command to march by the side of the ordnance and supply trains of the division, inclosing these trains if possible.

3. Trains as follows: First, ambulance; second, ordnance; third, supply train (the two latter to be moved within the Second Brigade Infantry, as herein directed); fourth, brigade trains in same order as brigades.

4. Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut commanding, who will keep the column well closed up, bringing forward all stragglers.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 6, 1865.

Col. F. J. HURLBUT, Commanding Third Brigade:

COLONEL: The road upon which the troops will move to-morrow will be the direct one to Hickory Hill. You will therefore countermarch your troops and trains, taking the left at the Four Corners, about a mile back.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 34.

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Cowpen Ford, S. C., February 6, 1865.

The following are the orders for to-morrow:

1. Bvt. Maj. Gen. Giles A. Smith will have the advance, and will move forward on the direct Midway road at 7 a. m.

2. Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Mower, commanding First Division, will follow the Fourth Division, being prepared to move at 8 a. m.

3. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will follow the First Division, being prepared to move at 9 a. m.

4. The bridge train will follow the train of the First Division.

5. The trains of department headquarters and of these headquarters will follow the troops of the Fourth Division.

6. In addition to his pioneer corps, Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith will move near the head of his column two companies of the pioneer battalion serving with him.

7. Forage parties will be kept well together and all possible precautions taken to prevent straggling.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Millersville Post-Office, S. C., February 6, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: Being instructed by General Howard, as I was about moving the division over, to reconnoiter well to the front on the Midway road and prevent the burning of any more bridges, I at once sent out the Twelfth Wisconsin (Colonel Proudfit) and Captain Munson, of my staff. They reached Lemon's Swamp, about five miles out, after dark. The four small bridges were already in flames, and the road through the swamp obstructed by felled trees. An observing force of the enemy appear to be posted beyond the swamp. The road between this and the swamp requires corduroying in several places. The Twelfth Wisconsin is returning to camp. It is said that there is a work on this side of the Edisto defending the railroad bridge. No other works on the railroad between the Edisto and Midway. General Hardee was in Augusta last Thursday.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

M. F. FORCE,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Division.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Six Miles North of Robertsville, S. C., February 6, 1865—7 a. m.

Major-General DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say that the road on this side of Robertsville is good. General Geary will get within a few miles of Lawtonville to-night. There are no supplies on this road, and it is doubtful whether there are any on roads to the left.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS. } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 6. } Sister's Ferry, S. C., February 6, 1865.

Movements for to-morrow, February 7:

General Carlin will march from Brighton, his present position, by the most direct route to Lawtonville.

General Baird will move from his present position to Brighton.

General Morgan will remain in his present position at Sister's Ferry until his trains are properly loaded. He will, at 6 a. m. to-morrow, relieve the battery of reserve artillery now in position on the bank of the river with the battery attached to his command.

Major Houghtaling, chief of artillery, will move his command for Brighton at 7 a. m. to-morrow, in rear of General Baird.

Colonel Moore will at once take up his pontoons and move his command in the rear of Major Houghtaling in the morning to Brighton.

Corps headquarters will be to-morrow night at Brighton.

All wagons not now loaded will remain and come forward with General Morgan's command.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Sister's Ferry, S. C., February 6, 1865.

Brig. Gen. W. P. CARLIN,

Commanding First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps:

The general commanding directs that you march at once, taking the direct road to Robertsville; there you will take the left-hand road toward Brighton, and encamp to-night at or near that point. From there it is the desire of the general commanding to advance in the general direction of Barnwell and Buford's Bridge. He desires you to obtain all the information possible in regard to the two roads from Brighton to those points with a view to deciding which it will be preferable for the main column to pursue. You will thoroughly repair the roads upon your line of march, and in case the pontoons should be required send back word immediately.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Little Salkehatchie River, S. C., February 6, 1865.

This command will march toward Graham's Station on the South Carolina Railroad, as follows: First Division at 7 a. m.; Third Division at 7.30 a. m. The two brigades of the First Division, with one brigade of the Third Division, will march unencumbered in the advance. The other two brigades of the Third Division will cover the whole corps train. The trains, which to-day marched in rear of the Fifteenth Corps, will rejoin their respective divisions. One battery of artillery will march in rear of the leading brigade, one in rear of the center one of the advanced brigades, one section in rear of the third of the advanced brigades, and one section near the rear of the train. The wagons belonging to the batteries will march immediately in rear of the advanced infantry. This corps being the extreme left of the army makes it necessary that the trains should be kept well closed up, and the troops well in hand and ready for instant action.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 7.	HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION, TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS, Near Beech Branch, S. C., February 6, 1865.
--------------------------------------	--

This command will move to-morrow at 6.30 a. m. Order of brigades: Third, First, Second, Selfridge's.

*            *            *            *            *            *            *

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Fort Fisher, February 6, 1865.

Rear-Admiral D. D. PORTER,
Commanding North Atlantic Blockading Squadron:

ADMIRAL: The rebels at one time had the guns of Fort Caswell in casemates of wood to fire through sloping embrasures, but subsequently, doubting if these embrasures would stand navy fire, took the guns out of the main work and placed them on the covered way. The question whether guns en barbette or in embrasure are most serviceable and reliable is a very important one in our harbor defenses, and General R. Delafield, chief engineer, U. S. Army, is desirous of having it tested on the embrasures of Fort Caswell. If you can spare a vessel for several hours' practice I should be happy to accompany it and arrange with the commander the details of the experiment.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. B. COMSTOCK,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Brevet Brigadier-General, Chief Engineer.

CIRCULAR, } No. 2. }	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH, Hilton Head, S. C., February 6, 1865.
-------------------------	---

Commissioned officers at Hilton Head and Beaufort, en route for Sherman's army, will forthwith report in person to Brig. Gen. Henry Prince, at Hilton Head, for orders.

By command of Maj. Gen. J. G. Foster:

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 6, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN, U. S. Army:

GENERAL: The enemy have evacuated their works at Salkehatchie bridge. I am rebuilding the turnpike bridge, and will cross a column to-morrow morning and move toward Ashepoo. I have also crossed at Combahee Ferry and occupy the causeway for about half a mile from the river. There is in the works there some artillery and some militia. We will drive them out to-morrow. The troops that have been occupying the works at Salkehatchie was a brigade of South Carolina veterans, who came from Richmond. They formerly belonged to Early's army; were in Richmond a few weeks; came here three weeks ago. They marched toward Charleston, on the dirt road. A pass from a deserter states that he will rejoin his company at Adams' Run, a point between the Ashepoo and the Edisto.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 6, 1865.

Captain MESEREAU,
Chief of Artillery:

CAPTAIN: You will move with two Napoleons in rear of cavalry to-morrow morning at 8.30 o'clock on the Salkehatchie road, taking two days' rations and forage.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

ORDERS.] HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 6, 1865.

The One hundred and second Regiment U. S. Colored Troops, and the Fifty-fourth Massachusetts Volunteers, under Colonel Hallowell, will move from camp to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock, taking two days' rations and sixty rounds of ammunition per man. The Fifty-fourth Massachusetts Volunteers will move down the railroad to the Salkehatchie bridge and cross. The One hundred and second U. S. Colored Troops will move down the Union road, on which our advance pickets are now stationed, to the railroad and cross the river.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 6, 1865.

Maj. M. F. WEBSTER,
Commanding Battalion, Fourth Massachusetts Cavalry:

MAJOR: You will move with all your available men to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock, passing through the old Pocotaligo fort and down Salkehatchie road to the bridge across the river. You will take two days' rations and forage.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Morris Island, S. C., February 6, 1865.

Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the South:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor respectfully to suggest that a small number of marine boat howitzers (Dahlgren) would be exceedingly valuable in this command. If this meets with the approval of the major-general commanding, and the howitzers can be obtained from the navy depot at Hilton Head, I would request that they be sent up here with the requisite supply of ammunition (shell and canister) as soon as possible.

I have the honor to be, respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
 FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, February 6, 1865.

Lieut. Col. A. G. BENNETT,

Commanding, Morris Island, S. C.:

COLONEL: The section of Third New York Artillery will be held in readiness after dusk to-morrow evening at the dock for transportation across the inlet to Folly Island, S. C. They will take with them one wagon, three days' rations, and forage. They will proceed to the site of the former headquarters of General Gillmore, where they will camp and await further orders, taking the precaution to choose a spot where they cannot be perceived by the enemy's lookout on James Island. Lieutenant Quinn, commanding Fort Shaw, will designate a sergeant to be sent at an early hour to-morrow morning to Folly Island, where the indicated locality will be pointed out to him.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
 FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 6, 1865.

Colonel KOZLAY,

Commanding Post, Folly Island, S. C.:

COLONEL: You will comply with your orders relative to the landing of the Fifty-fifth Massachusetts as soon as practicable. Should Colonel Fox refuse to obey you you will immediately place him under arrest and give the command of the regiment to another officer.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., February 6, 1865—10.30 a. m.

(Received 12.30 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Chief of Staff:

Steamer New York getting under way with 1,500 men. There are 600 on steamer Ariel. All of Meagher's battalions have arrived, except one that was frozen up at mouth of Kanawha River. That one is expected to arrive at Baltimore in a day or two. Shall the Ariel wait for them or sail at once as Meagher proposes? I have countermanded Meagher's orders for troops to wait for him at Beaufort.

ROBT. N. SCOTT,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

ANNAPOLIS, MD., February 6, 1865—11 a. m.

(Received 12 m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK, Chief of Staff:

I have just learned that 700 men in all of Twenty-third Corps have been turned over to provost-marshal at this point. It will be difficult to keep these men here. The barracks that they now occupy will be required for 1,000 exchanged prisoners who are expected here to-morrow morning. If the Ariel is to leave partially filled with men she can leave immediately. There is great uncertainty as to arrival of battalion alluded to this morning as being behind. General Meagher could give me no information last night.

ROBT. N. SCOTT,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 6, 1865—1.30 p. m.

Maj. R. N. SCOTT, Annapolis, Md.:

If not enough of General Meagher's men to fill up Ariel, put on the stragglers of the Twenty-third Corps, with orders to first land Meagher's men at Beaufort and then the men of Twenty-third Corps at Fort Fisher or Cape Fear River. See that the Ariel is supplied for the additional voyage.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

ANNAPOLIS, MD., February 6, 1865.

(Received 2.30 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK, Chief of Staff:

Enough stragglers are in to make 800 men on board steamer Ariel, and I have sent her off. The only transport left (the Glaucus) is loaded with forage, and it will take two or three days to unload her. There are no other troops here than those of Twenty-third Corps alluded to in former dispatch.

R. N. SCOTT,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 6, 1865—4.28 p. m.

Maj. R. N. SCOTT, Annapolis, Md.:

The men and officers of the Twenty-third Corps will join the divisions of the corps here. The men of Meagher's command as they arrive will go into barracks there and await transportation. You can return by Baltimore.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

CITY POINT, February 7, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

The Richmond Dispatch to-day says:

We have no official intelligence of importance from South Carolina. The reports of the flanking of our forces at Branchville and the capture of that place by Sherman are contradicted by official advices.*

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY IN THE FIELD,
Lowry's Station, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Admiral J. A. DAHLGREN,
Off Charleston, S. C.:

We are on the South Carolina road, at Midway, and will break fifty miles, from Edisto toward Augusta, and then cross toward Columbia. Weather is bad and country full of water. This cause may force me to turn against Charleston. I have ordered Foster to move Hatch up to the Edisto, about Jacksonborough and Willstown. Also to make that lodgment about Bull's Bay. Watch Charleston close. I think Davis will order it to be abandoned, lest he lose its garrison as well as guns. We are all well and the enemy retreats before us. Send word to New Berne that you have heard from me, and the probabilities are that high waters may force me to the coast before I reach North Carolina, but to keep Wilmington busy.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Lowry's, February 7, 1865.

General HOWARD,
Commanding Right Wing, Midway:

GENERAL: We are on the road here and will get to work at once westward. Be careful to instruct each rail to be twisted, even if it takes more time. I want you, if possible, to force the enemy to burn his own bridge across Edisto at the railroad crossing, also at Walker's Bridge. From here we will move westward some fifty miles. Dispose of your trains accordingly.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Midway, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Your note is just received. General Blair sent a reconnaissance to Cannon's Bridge this evening, and found that the enemy had destroyed the larger and one of the smaller bridges, and withdrawn to the other side of the river. The other smaller bridge can be destroyed at any time. A reconnaissance was also sent to the railroad bridge, but it has not been heard from. It is understood, however, that the enemy has had it prepared to be destroyed for several days past. At daylight to-morrow morning I will send a force to Walker's Bridge. Prisoners from S. D. Lee's corps say that Hood went through to Richmond on a train. I write you before hearing from the other reconnaissance, thinking that you might wish to modify General Logan's order to move on Cannon's Bridge.

* For portion of dispatch here omitted, see Vol. XLVI, Part II, p. 446.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Midway, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: General Blair's head of column reached here about 2 p. m. He found three large bridges destroyed and the roads made horrible by the rain, so that it will be difficult to get up the trains, though the obstructions have been removed, the bridges rebuilt, and the troops are getting through. I have two prisoners from Palmer's brigade, Stevenson's division, Lee's corps. They don't know whether their whole division is through to Augusta or not. A part of it is at Branchville. Please open communication by telegraph, as the wires are in order. A prisoner from Hampton's command wants to see you, and I send him up. Your dispatch is just translated. I will comply with your request. How much time can you afford me to do the work in this vicinity before moving?

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Lowry's, February 7, 1865.

General HOWARD:

I have just received your note. We will stay here all day to-morrow and until I can get all the army up within ordering distance. Williams is at Graham's, so we have full possession of the road for fifteen miles. Break to the river good and burn the bridge, if possible. Its guard is small; only a part of Lee's corps has come; we have divided the enemy. I do not propose to cross Edisto until we are up abreast of Blackville and White Pond or Windsor. Put in a good day's work to-morrow and have an inspector-general to see that every rail is bent around a post or is twisted by the process a la Poe.

Logan will maneuver on Cannon's Bridge and Williams will on Binnaker's. I want all these broken or burned good.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

GRAHAM'S, S. C.,
February 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD, U. S. Army,
Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to propose that if the troops of your army be required to discontinue burning the houses of our citizens I will discontinue burning cotton. As an earnest of the good faith in which my proposition is tendered I leave at this place about 300 bales cotton unburned, worth, in New York, over a quarter of a million, and in our currency one million and a half. I trust my having commenced will cause you to use your influence to insure the acceptance of the proposition by your whole army. I trust that you will not deem it improper for me to ask that you will require the troops under your command to discontinue the wanton destruction of property not necessary for their sustenance.

Respectfully, general, your obedient servant,
J. WHEELER,
Major-General, U. S. Army.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Bamberg, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Department and Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that I effected a lodgment on the railroad at 9.30 a. m.; that I have four brigades in camp, covering the Cannon's Bridge road and the approaches to the Edisto River, with two brigades tearing up railroad. The other division is moving into camp, covering the trains.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Midway, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding is very much pleased that you did your work so quickly to-day. General Blair had three large bridges to build, very bad obstructions to clear away, and will have at least a third of the way to corduroy. The enemy seem to have a little force from Virginia, a little from Hood, almost a division, but his troops do not seem to be concentrated, being at Columbia, Branchville, Augusta, and probably still at Charleston. A great many barricades were made across the road, but they were all abandoned before our approach.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
CHIEF ENGINEER'S OFFICE,

Lowry's, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. A. LOGAN,

Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps, Lowry's:

GENERAL: In order that all our working forces may be directed to the best advantage in destroying railroads, I would respectfully request you to order as follows to the troops under your command, viz, that "the infantry details shall tear up the track and pile the superstructure after this manner: Three ties in the roadbed as they lie, one tie across these at each end, at right angles; six ties crosswise with these (right angles) with intervals to allow their being fired; then the iron laid on top, parallel with the railroad, and kindling wood and surplus ties on top of all. The piles to be fired by the infantry details, and the heated iron will then be twisted by the engineer troops. The piles should be about thirty-five feet apart." By systematizing in this way the engineer regiment can twist all the iron that can be taken up by your corps.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

O. M. POE,

Brevet Colonel and Chief Engineer.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 38. }

HDQRS. FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Bamberg, S. C., February 7, 1865.

* * * * *

III. The interests of the service require that hereafter all flour or meal obtained from the country by forage or other details should be turned in to the division commissaries, and by them regularly issued as a part of the ration. Division commanders are charged with the promulgation and enforcement of this order.

IV. Instances of pillaging have come to the attention of the general commanding. The practice is disgraceful in the extreme. No man will be permitted to enter an occupied dwelling house or molest in any way the inhabitants of the country, and particularly are they forbidden from wantonly taking the few rags belonging to the poor negroes, who have in so many instances befriended our soldiers on their escape from rebel prisons. This order will be read to every regiment, battery, and detachment in the command, and every man found disobeying the same will be arrested and punished in such manner as may seem best to his division commander, who will please report the fact of the arrest and punishment after both shall have been accomplished.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. John A. Logan:

MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Lowry's, February 7, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: You will please as soon as practicable after the receipt of this have one of your brigades make a reconnaissance as far as Cannon's Bridge, if practicable, the object being to discover whether the bridge is burned or not, what force of the enemy is there, and in what position, and how much work will be necessary to effect a crossing. Captain Klostermann, corps engineer officer, will accompany the brigade. Your brigade, which is now on the railroad, can be withdrawn and ordered to camp. You will please make a report of the reconnaissance promptly, if possible.

By command of Major-General Logan :

L. E. YORKE,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Bamberg, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Brig. Gen. JOHN M. OLIVER,
Comdg. Third Brigade, Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: In accordance with a request from Major-General Howard, the general commanding desires you to destroy a mile and a half of railroad from Bamberg toward Midway and the Edisto River.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Hickory Hill, S. C., February 7, 1865.

[General SHERMAN:]

DEAR GENERAL: I know not how anxious you may be to have me with you, but I assure you not more so than I am. Our roads have proven execrable. I worked all one day on a swamp about three and a half miles long. If I can get this bridge done to-day I will move heaven and earth to join you day after to-morrow, if you are not too far from me. Please let me know of your whereabouts as soon as practicable after the reception of this. Slocum is to-day about Duck Branch Post-Office with Geary; Davis is—God knows where, for the roads are such I have no doubt he is nearer the infernal regions than he ever was before. I hope you have a few green leaves of all the fresh wreaths you are winning left for

Devotedly, yours,

CORSE,
Breret Major-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Lowry's, February 7, 1865.

General CORSE:

DEAR GENERAL: We are on the railroad and the enemy has retreated across the Edisto. After crossing the Little Salkehatchie you had better send forward an officer to report, as you will save distance by moving to the northwest, as I propose breaking up a wide gap in this road from Edisto toward Augusta. This column meets no resistance worth mentioning. The Seventeenth Corps, or Mower's division, had a smart fight to secure Rivers' Bridge across Big Salkehatchie and whipped the enemy handsomely. Roads are bad and water abundant, above, below, and all around.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 10.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 7, 1865.

The troops of this division will march at 7 a. m. to-morrow, the 8th instant, in the following order, on the road to Rivers' Bridge, viz: First. Lieutenant-Colonel Hughes, commanding Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry, as an advance. Second. Second Brigade Infantry, Colonel Adams commanding, with one regiment thrown in rear of Battery H. First Missouri Artillery, which will invariably move within the advance brigade. Third. Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut commanding, who will extend his regiments to inclose as nearly as possible the ordnance and supply trains, the troops marching by the side of same. Fourth. Trains in same order as to-day, viz: 1st, ambulance; 2d, ordnance; 3d, supply train; 4th, brigade trains in the same order as brigades. Fifth. First Brigade Infantry, General Rice commanding. The troops and trains will be prompt, in order that there may be no delay in moving out on the road at the hour designated.

Commanding officers will give their personal attention to preventing all soldiers from leaving their commands or foraging, except they be properly detailed, as heretofore directed.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Midway, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say that General Logan is now engaged destroying the railroad. He has been instructed to destroy it as far down as half way between this place and Bamberg. He wishes you to commence at as early an hour as possible to-morrow morning and destroy it, twisting every rail from the point to which General Logan will come down to the bridge over the Edisto.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 35.

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Midway, S. C., February 7, 1865.

The following are the orders for to-morrow:

1. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will move one brigade and one section of artillery of his command at daylight to-morrow morning toward the railroad bridge on the Edisto

River, and if the bridge is not already burned he will make such demonstrations as will cause the enemy to destroy it, or, if practicable, destroy it himself. He will then destroy the railroad from the bridge, or as near as practicable to it, to a point three miles and a half this side.

2. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will move forward the brigade of his command at Little Salkehatchie River at daylight to-morrow morning and encamp at the saw-mill half a mile south of this point, where two brigades of General Mower's command are now encamped.

3. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will cause one brigade of his command to be moved to this point from the saw-mill at 7 a. m. to-morrow and set at work destroying the railroad, commencing at the depot and working to a point one mile and a half west of here. As soon as the brigade of the Third Division has reached the saw-mill he will move the brigade remaining there to this point, and cause it to destroy from the depot east a distance of two miles.

4. The destruction of the road must be complete. Every tie must be burned and every rail twisted.

General Sherman intends to have the road inspected by the inspector-general's department after the work is done.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Midway, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: I have the honor to report that, in pursuance of orders from Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair, the Eleventh Iowa Infantry was ordered to the railroad bridge, and Lieutenant-Colonel Beach commanding reports as follows:

He moved his regiment to the bridge, exchanged a few shots with the enemy, who immediately fired the bridge. He then returned to camp.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GILES A. SMITH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. —. } Midway, S. C., February 7, 1865.

In pursuance of orders received from corps headquarters, the Third Brigade, Brig. Gen. W. W. Belknap commanding, and one section of First Minnesota Battery will move at daylight to-morrow morning toward the railroad bridge on the Edisto River, and if the bridge is not already burned he will make such demonstrations as will cause the enemy to destroy it, or, if practicable, destroy it himself. He will then thoroughly destroy the railroad three miles and a half this side, burning every tie and twisting every rail. Further orders will be furnished him before the completion of the work.

GILES A. SMITH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

[Indorsement.]

HDQRS. THIRD BRIG., FOURTH DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
February 7, 1865.

In pursuance of the within order, this command will move at 7 a. m. to-morrow. The pickets of the Sixteenth Iowa will remain where they are until further orders.

By order of Brigadier-General Belknap:

O. D. KINSMAN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Lowry's, February 7, 1865.

General SLOCUM,
On the Road:

GENERAL: We are on the railroad and the enemy has retreated across the Edisto. I propose to break up road westward, so you may let Geary join Williams about Graham's, and let Davis take any road you may prefer to the left to reach the neighborhood of Blackville. You may send that corps (Fourteenth) through Barnwell for the sake of forage. We find plenty, but I fear we leave little behind us. Weather is villainous, but we can't help it and must do the best we can. Send back to Coosawhatchie fort, or any other point you may think best, the inclosed cipher messages to General Foster and Admiral Dahlgren.* Send by several messengers and by secure roads.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 7. } Brighton, S. C., February 7, 1865.

The corps will move upon the Salkehatchie River as follows:

General Carlin will remain in his present position at or near Lawtonville until he is joined by the other trains of the command under the charge of Captain Remington, the reserve artillery and ammunition trains under Major Houghtaling, and pontoon train under Lieutenant-Colonel Moore. He will then take charge of the entire train of the corps, and at once move by the most direct and practicable roads, via Duck Branch Post-Office and Angle's Post-Office, upon Buford's Bridge across the Salkehatchie River, which point he will endeavor to reach as soon as practicable. There he will receive further orders.

General Baird, sending his trains to report to General Carlin, will march to-morrow a. m. with two companies of the pontoniers (which will be sent to report to him by Colonel Moore) and a battery of artillery, by the most direct road to Ingram's, near which point he will encamp to-morrow night. He will thoroughly repair the roads as he passes over them.

General Morgan will march early to-morrow a. m. from his present position at Sister's Ferry, via this point, and here detaching his trains, to report to General Carlin, will follow General Baird.

*See Sherman to Dahlgren, p. 328, and Sherman to Foster, p. 338.

Major Houghtaling, detaching one battery with orders to report to General Baird, will move the remainder of his command at 7 a. m. to-morrow, and will report to General Carlin at Lawtonville.

Corps headquarters will be with the Second and Third Divisions until a junction is effected.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 7, 1865.

Lieut. Col. A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

COLONEL: I have the honor to inform General Davis that I shall take the right-hand road from this to Lawtonville in consequence of the rain. The streams on the left-hand road are more numerous than on the right-hand road, but they are both good roads so far as I can learn. Forage is more abundant on the left-hand road. Ordinarily I would prefer the left-hand or Augusta road, and it would probably be the best for the main column.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. P. CARLIN,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Brighton, S. C., February 7, 1865—4.30 p. m.

Brig. Gen. J. D. MORGAN,
Commanding Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that you move forward from the ferry to this point, on the left-hand or direct road (the road taken by him this afternoon). It is better than the other road, but will need a good deal of working before your trains can pass over rapidly. The worst part of the road is about two miles from the ferry and about half a mile in length. The bearer will remain with you and give you more definite information.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Hanberry Cross-Roads, February 7, 1865—2 p. m.

Major-General SHERMAN,
Commanding Army of Georgia:

GENERAL: My advance is within two miles of the railroad. My column is badly stretched out, owing to the swollen condition of the streams. I have three brigades in hand and shall move on the railroad at once, and shall bring up my whole command to that point to-night. I am satisfied from the report of prisoners that there is nothing but one brigade of cavalry (perhaps more) in my front. They are withdrawing.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Graham's Station, S. C., February 7, 1865.

This command will spend the day to-morrow destroying the railroad. The troops of the First Division will move at 7 a. m. to Graham's Station, and commence the destruction of the road there, working west. The Third Division will commence at this point, and work toward Graham's Station. The work must be thoroughly done; each rail so destroyed that it will be impossible to use it again. The trains will be left at this point, and General Ward will detail two regiments to remain with them as guards. Corps headquarters will be at Graham's Station to-morrow.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Lowry's Station, February 7, 1865.

General GEARY:

We are on the railroad here. Williams took the road at Duncanville for Graham's. Our maps are right, and you will find no difficulty in following him. It is the straight or left-hand road, about two miles out from Little Salkehatchie. Howard is at Midway and the Edisto. Enemy has retreated across the Edisto.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Near Coosawhatchie Swamp, February 7, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY,

Commanding Second Division, Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you start your command to-morrow morning by at least 6 o'clock, and that you reach and cross Buford's Bridge to-morrow if possible. He has information that General Sherman has reached a point where he cannot do without us, and is awaiting our arrival.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY COMMAND,
Blackville, S. C., February 7, 1865—2 p. m.

[Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding:]

GENERAL: I crossed Salkehatchie at 2 p. m. yesterday with little opposition. We drove a rebel cavalry brigade out of and occupied this place at 1 p. m. to-day. Wheeler was near Graham's last night. I learn now that a large portion of his force is between me and the Edisto. I will remain here until morning, destroying track, and then march to Graham's or direct on Duncanville. At any moment you desire I can drive Wheeler into the Edisto, and I think save any bridge you may name. Yesterday about 200 rebels made an effort to hold the Salkehatchie till the bridge was burnt, but the Ninety-second Illinois dismounted, charged over the bridge, all on fire, drove off the rebels, and saved the bridge. I only mention this to show you the spirit of my men.

Very respectfully,

J. KILPATRICK,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
*In the Field, Lowry's Station,
South Carolina Railroad, February 7, 1865.*

General KILPATRICK,
Commanding Cavalry:

GENERAL: Your note of 2 p. m. is received. We are all on the road and will break road all to-morrow, and then move up toward Augusta. You can remain where you are and try and secure the bridge at the head of Young's Island. I will pass the Edisto above that point and as high as Guignard's Bridge. Make a good break whilst you are about it. If you feel confident you may move up the road, making occasional breaks, and meet us on your return about White Pond in two days after to-morrow. I will order Davis' corps to come round through Barnwell to White Pond or Windsor. Don't risk much, but keep your horses and men well in hand.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY IN THE FIELD,
Lowry's Station, February 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,
Hilton Head:

We are on the railroad at Midway; weather bad, waters high, and roads bad. These may force me to turn against Charleston before crossing the Santee. Enemy have retreated east and north across the Edisto. We will break up fifty miles of this road toward Augusta and then move over toward Columbia. Watch Charleston close and threaten at Bull's Bay. Hatch's force should now get across to the Edisto about Jacksonborough and Willstown. Slocum is not yet up.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 14. } Hilton Head, S. C., February 7, 1865.

The major-general commanding being compelled by wounds to relinquish for the present the command of the department, takes this opportunity to express to the officers and men of the Coast Division, under Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch, his approbation of their good conduct during the operations on the line of the Charleston and Savannah Railroad since November last.

At the battle of Honey Hill, on November 30, although unsuccessful in the attempt to drive the enemy from his forts, the division still maintained the fight with unwavering steadiness during the day, and retired from the field after nightfall in good order and unpursued. Their losses attest alike their courage and discipline.

At Deveaux's Neck, near the Coosawhatchie turnpike, on December 6, the advance, in number much inferior to the opposing force, met the rebels in an open field, and drove them from the ground, captured one flag, forced them to seek safety in flight, leaving their dead and wounded in our hands, and thus occupied a position from which the railroad was under the easy fire of our guns.

On December 9 the skirmish line forced its way to within a few yards of the railroad and the forts which guarded it, remaining there under a most galling fire until an opening had been cut through the woods between our batteries and the road, and thus perfected the work so gallantly begun upon the 6th.

The division has obeyed all orders promptly and cheerfully, and since its co-operative movements with General Sherman's army has vigilantly watched the enemy at its front, has promptly seized each fortified position upon the first indication of a proposed withdrawal on the part of the rebels, and has thus inspired the commanding general with the belief that it will continue to do faithfully and well the work allotted to it in the great campaign which is being prosecuted in South Carolina.

To Brigadier-Generals Hatch and Potter, who have commanded this force, and to all the gallant officers and men under them, the major-general commanding tenders his thanks for the past and his earnest wishes for their continued success.

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Col. N. HAUGHTON,
Twenty-fifth Ohio Volunteers:

COLONEL: We have advanced to-day two miles and a half or three miles on the railroad, and a little farther on the turnpike, and intrenched for the night, but understanding that there are some veteran troops in front of us, I have concluded that we need the Twenty-fifth Ohio. If at daybreak the enemy have not evacuated the works in your front, move by the shortest route to the Salkehatchie bridge, where you will receive orders from me. If the enemy have evacuated at that hour follow them up cautiously, and communicate the information to me at Pocotaligo. Direct the One hundred and seventh Ohio to move by the shortest road, which will be up the river from the church to the intrenchments at the railroad depot.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Division.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Col. W. W. MARPLE,
Thirty-fourth U. S. Colored Troops:

COLONEL: By direction of the brigadier-general commanding, you will move to-night, leaving two companies in your present camp. At daybreak to-morrow morning you will relieve the Twenty-fifth Ohio, which has other orders. You will keep your pickets well advanced, and if the enemy evacuate the forts in your front you will occupy them immediately, putting their present rear in condition of defense. You will communicate to these headquarters at least three times in each twenty-four hours. The four mounted orderlies will be distributed, two at your headquarters and two at Garden's Corners, for use of telegraph.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

---

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
 FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Col. A. S. HARTWELL,
Commanding Brigade U. S. Forces:

COLONEL: In accordance with verbal instructions received from the major-general commanding the department, your brigade will be subject to the orders of the commanding officer of this district during the contemplated movement now on foot.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
 FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 7, 1865.

Col. A. S. HARTWELL,
Commanding Brigade U. S. Forces, Folly Island, S. C.:

COLONEL: The detachment of engineers at this post has been ordered to report to you this evening after dark. They will be attached to your command for the purpose of constructing the bridge on the right of Cole's Island.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS MILITARY DISTRICT OF FLORIDA,
Tallahassee, February 7, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. P. SCAMMON, or OFFICER COMMANDING U. S. FORCES,
Jacksonville, Fla.:

GENERAL: I am informed that on the 1st instant Lieut. Col. A. H. McCormick of the U. S. service, went to your lines near Jacksonville, under flag of truce, and met an officer of the U. S. service also under flag of truce. The U. S. officer not feeling authorized to accord to the proposition made to him by Lieutenant-Colonel McCormick informed him that he would refer the matter to you, and the two officers agreed to meet the next day at Price's, near Cedar Creek.

It was mutually agreed between the two officers that Lieutenant-Colonel McCormick should encamp that night beyond our picket-line, at a place known as the White House. The next day he met the U. S. officer, agreeably to appointment, at Price's, and after transacting the business on which they met, the U. S. officer informed Lieutenant-Colonel McCormick that about 7 p. m. on the day before (the 1st) a party of U. S. troops had captured two of our scouts, Privates Massey and Beckham, at Turknott's Point very near the White House. As this capture was made pending the flag of truce, and in the immediate vicinity of Lieutenant-Colonel McCormick's camp, I must suppose it was made without your authority, and was unauthorized and unjustifiable under the circumstances. I have, therefore, to request that you will cause the two men, Massey and Beckham, to be returned to Lieutenant-Colonel McCormick. I will add that in May last, whilst a flag of truce was pending on the Baldwin road, a party of our troops captured your pickets, to the eastward, on the King's road. As soon as the circumstances came to the knowledge of the C. S. officer commanding in that vicinity the men captured were promptly returned to their command within the lines of the U. S. forces. And more recently, when I was in command at Charleston, a corporal and private of the U. S. Army were captured near Port Royal under circumstances which, in my opinion, rendered the capture unjustifiable. I promptly returned them to their command without waiting for any representation of the case by the U. S. commander in that quarter.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

SAM. JONES,

Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

New Berne, N. C., February 7, 1865.

General M. C. MEIGS,

Quartermaster-General U. S. Army, Washington:

A few days since, by the breaking down of two of our small steamers and the sinking of another while on an expedition up the Chowan River, I found there was not a single steamer that could be used for the ordinary work in this harbor. A small steamer called the Ulysses was lying in the harbor at Beaufort, and as we were very much in need of her I authorized her charter at the usual Government rates. This was at the time a positive necessity. The recent movements of General Sherman and the orders received from him have changed the face of matters here very much, and it is probable that our transportation of all kinds will have to be materially increased. My instructions are to prepare to forward supplies for 70,000 men and 40,000 animals. These instructions are confidential to me. In view of all this I hope you will consider it for the best interest of the service to confirm the contract with the Ulysses, and to empower me to secure such transportation as the exigencies of the service may call for from time to time. I am obliged at such a time as this to communicate with you direct, as up to this time I have no regular communication with either General Sherman or General Foster. A railroad construction party of 1,200 men, under command of Colonel Wright, has just arrived. Another party of the same arrived last week from the North. These last were 350. The former command came from General Sherman's army.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General.

ANNAPOLIS, February 7, 1865.

(Received 12.35 p. m.)

Colonel KELTON,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I arrived here an hour after Brigadier-General Meagher sailed with his troops. I was under orders to report to him. Shall I wait for the arrival of rest of the Provisional Division, or go to some other point for transportation?

S. P. CARTER,
Brigadier-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 7, 1865—3.40 p. m.

Brig. Gen. S. P. CARTER,

Annapolis, Md.:

The chief of staff directs that you remain at Annapolis in charge of troops of the Provisional Division which may arrive there, seeing them properly provided for until transportation is furnished, and will then report to General Meagher, at New Berne, via Beaufort.

J. C. KELTON,
Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, February 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. WHEELER,

Commanding Cavalry Corps, Confederate Army:

GENERAL: Yours addressed to General Howard is received by me.* I hope you will burn all cotton and save us the trouble. We don't want it, and it has proven a curse to our country. All you don't burn I will. As to private houses occupied by peaceful families, my orders are not to molest or disturb them, and I think my orders are obeyed. Vacant houses being of no use to anybody, I care little about, as the owners have thought them of no use to themselves. I don't want them destroyed, but do not take much care to preserve them.

I am, with respect, yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT.. ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 18. }

Washington, February 8, 1865.

Hospital transports and hospital boats, after being properly assigned as such, will be exclusively under the control of the Medical Department, and will not be diverted from their special purposes by orders of local or department commanders, or of officers of other staff departments.

* See Wheeler to Howard, February 7, p. 330.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 25.	}	HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI, In the Field, Lowry's, February 8, 1865.
-------------------------------------	---	---

The next movement will be against the railroad at any point between Orangeburg and the Congaree, as near Orangeburg as possible.

I. The Right Wing is charged with the destruction of the South Carolina Railroad from and including the Edisto bridge to Blackville, and the Left Wing with the engineer regiment and the cavalry will destroy from Blackville west as far as possible.

II. Major-General Howard will move the Seventeenth Corps by the State road to Binnaker's and Holman's Bridges, feign at one and cross at the other, and move on Orangeburg.

The Fifteenth Corps will move up the railroad to a point about four miles west of Graham's Station, and after having finished the destruction of the railroad to Blackville will cross the Edisto by Holman's Bridge or the head of Young's Island and move in support of the Seventeenth Corps.

III. The Twentieth Corps will move to Blackville and continue the destruction of the railroad westward, and the Fourteenth Corps will come up on the road about White Pond or Williston and as soon as the destruction of the road is complete will cross the Edisto at the head of Young's Island or at Guignard's Bridge, and push out to the Orangeburg and Edgefield road, ready to move on Orangeburg or Columbia, according to developments.

IV. The cavalry will continue to act in concert with the Left Wing, will burn the railroad as far west as possible, and cross the Edisto to the Edgefield road at the same time with the Left Wing. All troops will lean toward Orangeburg until it is known that the Right Wing has made a secure lodgment at or near Orangeburg.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 8, 1865.

General HOWARD,
Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: I would like to hear from the Edisto bridge. It is very important that it be destroyed by the enemy, else by ourselves. Better send word back to any wagons that have followed your track to join you via Graham's, crossing the Salkehatchie at Buford's. I sent a courier back last night to Corse and Slocum, but have not heard of them to-day. Kilpatrick will start from Blackville to-morrow for Aiken to break road as near Augusta as possible.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Midway, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Captain Henley, of General Blair's staff, who conducted a reconnoissance to Walker's or Valley Bridge, has just returned. He drove in the rebel pickets to their bridge-head and forced them to abandon it and cross the river. The rebels then fired the bridge, already prepared for burning, and opened on him with artillery. He says they have good works on the other side, and at least a section of artillery. He saw a force that he estimated at the strength of two regiments. This bank of the river is swampy, with a single causeway approaching the bridge. The reconnoissance late last evening by a regiment of infantry caused the rebels to burn the railroad bridge, so that the bridges across the Edisto are all destroyed in this vicinity. General Blair has nearly completed the destruction of that part of the railroad assigned to his command. General Logan reports that his work is done, and well done. The road is now destroyed from Graham's to the Edisto, including the railroad bridge. I believe the distance is twelve miles. A negro, who came from Branchville last night, says there were only about forty soldiers there; that the rebels were being transported toward Columbia on the cars, and that some few had been sent toward Charleston.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 34. }

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Midway, S. C., February 8, 1865.

I. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move as follows, commencing to-morrow: One division by the most direct route across Sikes' Creek to cross-roads nearest to Holman's Bridge. The division will take up a strong position here and push forward a reconnoissance to Holman's Bridge; hold this point as an outpost till the arrival of the rest of the corps. The other two divisions will move via Graham's by the road south of the railroad to the Barnwell and Orangeburg road; remain at that point until they have destroyed the railroad between Graham's and Blackville, then move on and join the leading division.

II. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Major-General Blair commanding, will move by the most direct route, starting at 8 a. m. to-morrow, to Binnaker's Bridge; secure a lodgment on the other side of the Edisto and lay the bridge preparatory to moving forward. The bridge train and department headquarters will follow the leading division of the Seventeenth Army Corps. Headquarters will move to-night at the point easiest of access between Holman's and Binnaker's Bridges.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Lowry's Station, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Major-General LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Corps:

GENERAL: The general-in-chief desires that you will make a reconnaissance to Cannon's Bridge, ascertaining thereby the nature and condition of the crossing at that place.

I am, general, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Bamberg, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. WILLIAM B. HAZEN,
Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general requests that you will hold one brigade of your command in readiness to move on a reconnaissance in the direction of Cannon's Bridge, subject to further orders; men to carry one day's rations and forty rounds of ammunition.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., SECOND DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
Bamberg, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Capt. GORDON LOFLAND,
Assistant Adjutant-General, 2d Div., 15th Army Corps:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that, in obedience to the order of General Hazen, I marched my brigade this afternoon to Cannon's Bridge on the Edisto River; I found no enemy on this side of the river, but found him in works on the north bank. At the point where the works are, and for a long distance both below and above the bridge, there is a swamp about 600 yards wide on the south side of the river. I threw forward a line of skirmishers through the swamp to the main stream and found that [the] bridge had been burned, that there was a line of works along the bank of the river several hundred yards in length with an embrasure in it, covering the road; the works seemed to be well manned; the men could be seen and heard all along them. I think that a crossing might be effected here without very much difficulty, as the main stream does not seem to be very large; the distance from this camp to the bridge is about five miles; the road is a very bad one; I believe that one-fourth of it is covered with water. After exchanging some shots with the enemy, having learned all that could be learned about his position and strength without making a positive attack, I withdrew my line and returned to camp.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. S. JONES,
Colonel, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Bamberg, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Brevet Major-General CORSE,
Commanding Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am instructed by the general commanding to request you to move your division along the direct road, via Angley's Post-Office, Buford's Bridge, the crossing of the Little Salkehatchie at Springtown Meeting House, and the Little Salkehatchie River road, to the point of intersection of that road with the Barnwell and Orangeburg road, just south of the South Carolina Railroad. Corps headquarters will be to-morrow night at that point, and the whole command will move the next day to the Edisto River, with a view to crossing. Should you not overtake the rest of the corps at the river, please cross at such point as we may have crossed and join the general commanding with your division as soon as possible.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
NO. 11. } FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 8, 1865.

I. The troops of this division will march to-morrow, the 9th instant, as follows, viz :

First. Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry, Colonel Hughes, as an advance.

Second. Third Brigade Infantry at 7 a. m. with one regiment in rear of battery and one regiment with tool wagon, to be thrown forward at 6 a. m., if possible, as far as Cowpen Branch, to repair roads at this point sufficient to pass teams, when it will move on to Rivers' Bridge, halting there until the column shall have come up.

Third. First Brigade Infantry at 6 a. m. with its regiments marching by the side of the division ordnance and supply trains, extending so as to invest them as much as possible.

Fourth. Trains at 6 a. m. as follows: First, train of Third Brigade; second, ambulances; third, trains of Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry and Seventeenth Army Corps; fourth, ordnance and supply trains; fifth, trains of the First and Second Brigades.

Fifth. Second Brigade Infantry, which will march as soon as the trains shall have passed, forming the rear of the column.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Midway, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR, Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Inclosed I send you a copy of General Sherman's order of march.* The general suggests that, although the time of moving is not indicated, you make preparations to move at 7 a. m. to-morrow.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

* See p. 343.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 36. }

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Midway, S. C., February 8, 1865.

✱                      ✱                      ✱                      ✱                      ✱                      ✱

VI. The following are the orders for the movement to-morrow:

1. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will have the advance, and will move his command forward at 7 a. m. on the Augusta road.

2. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will follow the First Division, moving forward from his present position at 8 a. m.

3. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will follow the Third Division, being prepared to move at 9 a. m.

4. The train of department headquarters and of these headquarters will follow the troops of the First Division.

5. The bridge train will move next after the train of the Third Division.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Midway, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR.

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps, Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: I send you an escaped prisoner who has some information that may be of importance. If what he states is true I think we might be able to capture some of the heavy artillery of the enemy.

I remain, general, with much respect, your obedient servant,

JOS. A. MOWER,
Major-General, U. S. Volunteers.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Midway, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. SMITH,

Commanding Fourth Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you withdraw the two regiments of your command now on the railroad and place them in the position assigned last night in your line. The First Division is waiting for their movement in order to take the line assigned them.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[Indorsement.]

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Midway, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Brig. Gen. W. W. BELKNAP.

Commanding Third Brigade:

In compliance with the within order you will bring the Eleventh Iowa and the Thirty-second Illinois up and place them in the position assigned last night.

By order of Brig. Gen. G. A. Smith:

AD. WARE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Nine Miles North of Brighton, February 8, 1865.

Captain DECHERT,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: Note received. Will push to Barnwell as directed. Baird crossing Dry Gall Creek. Carlin in charge of trains, &c., at Lawtonville. Morgan left Sister's Ferry this morning. Was delayed by non-arrival of provisions. Will make twenty miles with whole corps to-morrow. Advance will be in the vicinity of Erwinton or Allendale Post-Office. Roads almost impassable yesterday, but improving rapidly to-day.

Very respectfully,

JEF. C. DAVIS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Six Miles North of Brighton, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Brig. Gen. J. D. MORGAN,

Commanding Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that you push on at daylight in the morning by this road (the road to Ingram's), with all your trains, instead of sending them to report to General Carlin. This road is splendid so far.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, &c.,

A. C. MCCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Lowry's Station, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Brevet Major-General WILLIAMS,

Commanding Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by General Sherman to say he desires you to place your entire command at Graham's, and use all possible force in the destruction of the railroad, doing the work thoroughly by twisting rails and burning ties. Accomplish as much of this, working toward Augusta, as you can. Hold your command in readiness to move to Blackville to-morrow, awaiting further orders therefor.

I am, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Communicate with General Geary and get him up if possible.

L. M. D.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Graham's Station, February 8, 1865.

Major DAYTON,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: I inclose herewith a note* from General Wheeler to General Howard, which the lady delivering it said was to be opened by the first general officer who came up; General Jackson therefore opened it.

* See Wheeler to Howard, February 7, p. 330.

I am burning and destroying railroad track from the road crossing one mile and a half east of this point (where my advance struck the railroad west), and shall do all I can to-day. My headquarters will be here. I find over 350 bales of cotton here.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Lowry's Station, S. C., February 8, 1865.

General A. S. WILLIAMS,
Graham's:

GENERAL: Yours of this date is received. Burn all cotton. The Confederate Congress has appropriated all cotton to its own use. It is the only cash article left to the enemy. I send you a letter* to Wheeler, in answer to his, which you can leave with the lady to be sent to Wheeler as she best can. Destroy all the railroad and its attachments, tanks, sheds, sewers, everything that facilitates its use. I will send you orders for to-morrow, which amount to moving up to Blackville. If you hear of Geary to-day in reach, turn him at once to Blackville. Slocum should move the Fourteenth Corps toward Williston. I think the Left Wing will cross the Edisto at about Guignard's and Pine Log Bridges. I want to get the Left Wing on the Orangeburg and Edgefield road as soon as possible. We are twisting the iron here beautifully. I will send the engineers up to you to-morrow; they do the work best.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

ORDERS.] HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Graham's Station, S. C., February 8, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow to Blackville, as follows: Third Division at 7 a. m.; First Division at 8 a. m. Each division will take care of its own trains. All detachments will be called in and march with their commands. The work of destroying the railroad is to be commenced at Blackville and continued west, this part of the road to be finished by the Fifteenth Corps. General Ward will march one unencumbered brigade in advance, and General Jackson will march two regiments as a rear guard. One section of artillery will march with the rear guard. The balance of the artillery will march in rear of the advanced brigade.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION, TWENTIETH CORPS,
On the March, February 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

GENERAL: Your dispatches were received by me at 6.30 this morning about three miles north of the Coosawhatchie Swamp. Those for

* See p. 342.

Generals Slocum and Corse I forwarded immediately. I expect to encamp to-night at Buford's Bridge. General Slocum is several miles to the rear. All getting along well.

Your obedient servant,

JNO. W. GEARY,
Brevet Major-General.

[Indorsement.]

General WILLIAMS:

I send you this note from General Geary, which will indicate to you his position and that of General Slocum, who has orders to turn up toward you. Please send back the inclosed order to General Slocum.*

I am, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Graham's Station, February 8, 1865.

Brig. Gen. JOHN W. GEARY,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The brevet major-general commanding directs that you march your command to Blackville to-morrow, via Ayers' and Nimmons' plantations. The bearer, one of our scouts, will guide you. You will find the roads good, and the general wishes you to reach Blackville to-morrow night. The distance will be about eighteen miles. We are at work destroying the railroad, and the whole command will get to Blackville to-morrow night. The Fifteenth Corps is at Lowry's; the Seventeenth, farther east. The Fourteenth Corps is to go to Williston. Corps headquarters will be at Blackville to-morrow night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 9.	HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION, TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS, Buford's Bridge, S. C., February 8, 1865.
--------------------------------------	--

This command will march to-morrow at 6 a. m. Order of brigades: Second, Selfridge's, Third, First. Artillery and trains will march in their usual relative order.

General Pardee with his brigade will take charge of the trains.

. * * * * *

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Graham's, S. C., February 8, 1865.

[General J. W. GEARY:]

GENERAL: I send you a scout to show you the road from Buford's Bridge by Ayers' to Nimmons'. That is as far as he has been. But I know there is a good road from there to Blackville, which any negro can show you. The corps marched from Nimmons' to Springtown Meeting House. The road as far as we have been over it is good.

---

* See Special Field Orders, No. 25, p. 343.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHAS. W. ASMUSSEN,
Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY COMMAND,
Blackville, February 8, 1865—12 m.

Major-General SHERMAN:

GENERAL: I will encamp to-night at Williston and destroy some track; February 9, at or before Windsor, and all the following day make demonstrations toward Augusta. Will, if prudent, destroy Government property at Aiken, and as much railroad as possible and return to Windsor. I will be prudent, bold, but not rash.

Very respectfully, &c.,

J. KILPATRICK.
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 8, 1865.

General KILPATRICK,
Blackville:

GENERAL: I have just received your note in cipher. I send you a copy of orders for the next move, which will give you the key to the whole.* Wheeler writes to General Howard offering not to burn cotton if we don't burn houses. I assured him that he would oblige me by burning cotton, for it saves us the trouble; that we don't burn occupied houses, but if people vacate their own houses I don't think they should expect us to protect them. You may burn all cotton; spare dwelling houses that are occupied, and teach your men to be courteous to women; it goes a great ways; but take all provisions and forage you need. Act as though you are to be followed by infantry. I expect Hood's army will try and join the South Carolina army about Columbia and I will try and interpose again at Orangeburg. I will order the Fourteenth Corps to Williston and Guignard's Bridge or Pine Log Bridge. Edisto is narrow and easily passed up there. The Orangeburg and Edgefield road is the "key line" of South Carolina.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. CAVALRY COMMAND, ARMY OF INVASION,
Williston, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Military Division of the Mississippi, in the field:

MAJOR: I arrived at this point at 4 p. m. to-day and am now destroying the track. I can find no force of the enemy between the railroad and the Edisto, save small picket posts. I understand that all the bridges on the Edisto are strongly guarded. After posting my pickets about the town, an attack was made upon a portion of the First Alabama Cavalry, holding the direct road to Augusta. Colonel Spencer was sent out with his brigade to feel of the enemy, and ascertain his strength. A fight ensued, in which six regiments of Allen's division, First, Third, Seventh, Ninth, Twelfth, and Fifty-first Alabama, were totally routed. Colonel Spencer alone conducted the fight, displaying much skill and great gallantry. Several hundred stand of arms were abandoned by the enemy, and left scattered along the road. One officer and many men were killed, and a large number wounded; several prisoners have been taken, and are still coming in. Colonel Spencer pursued the enemy nine miles in direction of Augusta from this point, and brought back to me as trophies the flags belonging to the Twelfth and Ninth Alabama Cavalry, and General Hagan's battle-flag. From prisoners I learn that Wheeler's command is very much scattered; that he has with him Anderson's division and Young's Virginia brigade only. Allen's division is picketing the country between the Edisto and the Salkehatchie. Iverson's division is upon the opposite side of the Salkehatchie, and Ferguson's division is between Brier Creek and the Ogeechee. I find plenty of corn for my command, and I think you will have no trouble in subsisting the animals of your whole army by foraging upon each side of the railroad. I trust that I am now carrying out your instructions, and that my operations will be satisfactory.

* See Special Field Orders, No. 25, p. 343.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. KILPATRICK,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding Cavalry.

P. S.—There are rumors that portions of Hood's army, and some dismounted cavalry, independent of Lee's corps, are between this point and Augusta. I can learn nothing reliable.

J. KILPATRICK.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Rear-Admiral J. A. DAHLGREN,
Commanding South Atlantic Blockading Squadron:

ADMIRAL: I have the honor to inform you that I have received a leave of absence from the War Department, and that Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore, U. S. Volunteers, has arrived here from the North, with instructions to relieve me, temporarily, of the command of this department. In consequence of which, I regret to state that I shall not be able to meet you according to agreement during the demonstration. I am requested by Major-General Gillmore to say that he will do himself the honor of making you an official visit as soon after assuming command as he possibly can. If you are not within this harbor at the time, he will follow you to Charleston Harbor.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Capt. G. H. SCOTT,
Commanding Fleet, off Charleston:

CAPTAIN: I am requested by Brevet Brigadier-General Hartwell, through his aide, now commanding U. S. forces, Folly Island, S. C., to ask you to send, if possible, two monitors without delay to Stono to-day for co-operation with the land forces. General Schimmelfennig is on his way to Stono and cannot be referred to in this matter, but feel fully justified in asking you, in his name, to accede to this request. I have the honor to forward a copy of dispatches received for your information. If possible, please send a navy tug also to Stono without delay to facilitate the transportation of light artillery.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

U. S. STEAMER JOHN ADAMS,
Off Morris Island, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Capt. J. W. DICKINSON,
Morris Island, S. C.:

SIR: Yours of this date is received, and in reply I have to inform you that it will not be possible to send two monitors to Stono as you desire. I do not, in the first place, feel authorized to move them from their anchorage without the admiral's order, and this evening neither the weather nor tide will admit of their going. I have ordered a tug to proceed immediately to Stono and report to the commanding army officer as desired.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
G. H. SCOTT,
Captain and Senior Officer.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Brig. Gen. A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Comdg. First Separate Brigade, Department of the South:

GENERAL: I have received a leave of absence from the War Department, and Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore, U. S. Volunteers, is now here to relieve me temporarily of the command of the department. In consequence of which I shall not be able to see you again in regard to the demonstration proposed to be made on James Island. I desire that as strong a demonstration be made as possible without loss of life, and that you co-operate with Admiral Dahlgren in connection with the same. General Gillmore will make you a visit as soon as possible after assuming command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Brigadier-General SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Folly Island, S. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to report that in accordance with a request received through Captain Walton from Brigadier-General Hartwell, I have asked of Captain Scott in your name that he send two monitors to Stono without delay for the purpose of co-operating with the land forces. This dispatch was sent by boat to the fleet and has already arrived there. I had previously signaled to Captain Scott at 2.30 o'clock, in accordance with a like request received earlier, to "send a tug to Stono if possible." The dispatch was limited to these words. He has answered me that he will do so when the tide serves. In the letter sent by boat I explained to him what this tug was needed for, viz, for facilitating the transportation of light artillery.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Brigadier-General SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Commanding, &c., Folly Island, S. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to forward a copy of Captain Scott's reply* to my letter, and I beg leave to state that at the time General Hartwell sent his request through Captain Walton, to which this letter refers, he was aware of your being on your way down to Stono. I considered, therefore, that if the general being on the spot, and knowing (as I could not) the urgency of the case, saw fit to make this request in such a way as to leave me to infer that great haste in the matter was absolutely necessary, I did not consider that I would be justified in hesitating as to my action.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 8, 1865.

General SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Commanding, &c., Folly Island, S. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to report that my message in the case of the Frazier to Captain Scott was:

The Frazier appears to be disabled, and it is feared her rudder is gone. She is lying outside the bar. Will you please send a tug and see what is the matter, and if she needs assistance to tow her in? It is very important that she be not delayed longer outside; if not disabled, she will immediately come inside to the dock.

* See p. 353.

This was signaled. The last clause was a postscript, and was added to save the time it would have taken to send a boat with orders to same effect. The Delaware started at 5.30 for Stono, having the hard bread on board. The Frazier came in at 5.45, landed the baggage and horses on Folly Island dock, and proceeded to Stono. The baggage was sent down in an ambulance which I had ordered up. Your orderly attended to it. I sent him over for the purpose, and he reports all right. The corporal with the horses and the other orderlies went down with it. The orders as to the hard bread were given last night to Lieutenant-Colonel Bennett. The term telegraphing in the connection used meant signaling.

Very respectfully,

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 8, 1865.

Captain BRIDGEFORD, One hundred and second Illinois:

CAPTAIN: The brigadier-general commanding was not aware at the time the order was sent you that your command was unarmed. He therefore directs that you establish your camp somewhere in the vicinity of Blair's landing. In regard to conflict with orders from General Prince, he holds all troops in this vicinity as in his command.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

CITY POINT, VA., February 8, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD, Fort Fisher, N. C.:

For the last three days there have been many troops arriving in Richmond from the Valley or Southwest Virginia. This is evidently a movement to get troops to send south and to enable the enemy to hold Wilmington also. I have no doubt but that the quicker you can bring your troops against Wilmington the smaller the force you will have to contend against.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

Quartermaster at Fort Monroe will send the above dispatch aboard the first transport going to Cape Fear River, and place it in the hands of a commissioned officer to be delivered to General Schofield. Transports must now be passing hourly, but not touching at Fort Monroe. You can send this on a tug-boat to go until they meet one.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 8, 1865.

(Via Fort Monroe, 5 p. m., 11th. Received 6 p. m.)

Lieutenant-General GRANT:

I arrived here this morning with one division; have had very rough weather and been much delayed by it. I hope to get the troops all landed by to-morrow night and send the transports back for the other divisions. There is no apparent change in the situation since you were here. I propose to commence operations at once without waiting for the other troops, as time is important. I think I can take Fort Anderson, and possibly Wilmington, with the force I now have.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD.

Major-General.

NEW BERNE, N. C., February 8, 1865.

(Received 9.25 a. m. 11th.)

General D. C. McCALLUM,

Manager Railroads:

Gauge of Wilmington and Weldon Railroad is the same as the New Berne Railroad. I have therefore concluded to adopt that gauge for this system of railroads, namely, four feet eight and one-half inches, and will require rolling stock accordingly. Please direct Captain Starkweather to report at New Berne instead of Savannah, and as soon as possible.

W. W. WRIGHT,

Colonel and Chief of Construction Corps.

CONFIDENTIAL.] HQRS. DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

New Berne, N. C., February 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. M. C. MEIGS.

Quartermaster-General U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: In several confidential communications I have recently forwarded to you I have mentioned the fact of my having received instructions from both General Sherman and General Foster concerning the contemplated future operations in this State, but I am fearful that unless these plans have been made known to you my letters will not be perfectly understood. I have, therefore, thought proper to make some extracts from my instructions. General Foster writes me on the 21st ultimo, speaking of General Sherman, as follows:

He will draw his supplies from New Berne by striking the railroad at Goldsborough, and you (General Palmer) will, therefore, make every preparation, not only to aid promptly and efficiently the forwarding of supplies when General Sherman reaches that point, but also, &c.

Again he writes:

Prepare for landing and forwarding, either from New Berne or Beaufort, supplies for 70,000 men and 40,000 animals.

And a note is added that these supplies are to come from here (Hilton Head) in transports.

Now, if the railroad is put in order it can do the work, but should we not make our calculations to forward these supplies by the roads and rivers, in case the enemy destroys the railroad, now beyond our reach? With all the secrecy that can be observed, it is "in the air" in all this part of the country that Sherman's army will march through this State, and it will surely be known very soon that his supplies must come from here. If the wagons are to come with the 40,000 animals, we will be prepared, but nothing is said in my letter from General Foster of wagons, and even if the last requisitions for them from here are filled we will have barely sufficient to supply the troops now here. You will recollect that in the spring of last year every wagon, mule, and horse that could possibly be spared was sent to Virginia. We had here, I presume, the finest land transportation in the country at that time.

Kinston is thirty miles from this place by the railroad and a few miles farther by the country road. It is still farther by the river, but I could easily send supplies by road or boats if the proper light draft steamers could be furnished. The stern-wheel steamers drawing not more than three feet could easily perform the work. Goldsborough is about thirty miles from Kinston, and if the enemy perceive that our base of supplies is here they will surely destroy as much of the road between these two places as they may have time to destroy. You will perceive, therefore, that the matter of transportation (wagons and small steamers) and forage is one for serious thought.

I shall forward with this a requisition for an additional supply of ambulances, with horses and harness. The requisitions inclosed will call for other articles, the necessity for which is apparent, if the force here is to be materially increased. I would respectfully but urgently call your attention to the fact that a quartermaster to take the position of chief of his department is very much needed here. A short time since I addressed a communication on this subject to you, but I have received no reply. A man of thorough business habits and more experience is necessary here at such a time as this. If the interest of the service will admit of Col. George W. Bradley's coming here, even for a short time, I make an earnest application for him. Colonel Bradley is energetic, industrious, intelligent, and he has the happy faculty of infusing his spirit into all of his subordinates. I feel assured that Colonel Bradley would be pleased to take this position, even temporarily. At all events, I trust that you will be able to furnish me with a quartermaster senior to any of those here, provided always, he is a man of energy, &c. It is proper for me here to remark that the assistant quartermaster now here, acting as chief quartermaster, is a very correct, intelligent officer, but he is junior to some of his department now serving in the district.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

I. N. PALMER.

Brigadier-General, U. S. Volunteers, Commanding.

---

ASSISTANT QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE,
Sixth Street Wharf, Washington, February 8, 1865.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL,

Second Division, Twenty-third Corps:

SIR: I have been directed by Brig. Gen. D. H. Rucker, chief quartermaster, depot of Washington, to embark about 2,550 men of your command from Alexandria at 7 a. m. on the morning of the 10th instant. I have the honor to request that you furnish me with the roster of your command from this day's report, that the proper assignment of the troops can be made. I would also request you to inform me if the headquarters of the division will leave with the first transports or remain until the entire division has embarked. Unless other transports arrive at an early hour to-morrow, the horses of the troops which embark on the 10th instant will have to remain at Alexandria until the 11th or 12th instant, at which time the remainder of the division will be shipped. The horses can be stabled by the quartermaster at Alexandria until they can be shipped. Please give the necessary orders for the First and Third Brigades to break camp at 8 a. m. to-morrow. I will have boats at Giesborough, at the lower wharf, to convey them to Alexandria, where they will draw five days' cooked rations, and will be quartered at the Soldiers' Rest until the next morning. Ten days' rations in bulk have been placed on each vessel. My reason for naming the First and Third Brigades is that their strength amounts to about the number which the vessels now at Alexandria will carry. If the freezing of the river should prevent a steamer from running from Giesborough to Alexandria, the command will have to march over by way of Long Bridge. If convenient, I would like to see the division quartermaster at my office at 8 a. m. to-morrow morning. Capt. L. L. Moore, assistant quartermaster at Giesborough, will send him over on a tug.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. S. ALLEN,
Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HDQRS. ARMIES OF THE UNITED STATES,
No. 30. ) City Point, Va., February 9, 1865.

Lieut. Col. O. E. Babcock, aide-de-camp, will proceed without delay and report to Maj. Gen. J. M. Schofield, at Fort Fisher or vicinity, for temporary duty as per verbal instructions given him by the lieutenant-general commanding. Upon the completion of his instructions he will rejoin these headquarters.

By command of Lieutenant-General Grant:

T. S. BOWERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Walker's House, near Railroad, February 9, 1865.

General HOWARD,
Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: An officer has just left me for Blackville, where Slocum will arrive with Geary's division, which completes the Twentieth Corps at Blackville.

Davis is moving for Barnwell and will come up to the west of Blackville about Williston. I have ordered Slocum to put in to-morrow good on the railroad and then look to crossing the Edisto at the head of Young's Island and at Guignard's. I want you to effect a crossing at or between Binnaker's and Holman's Bridges. Do it in your own way, using all the Seventeenth Corps and one division of the Fifteenth sent by Logan to Holman's Bridge. If you can secure a lodgment to-morrow and get to work on a bridge at Binnaker's it will be time enough to cross the day after to-morrow. All accounts agree that the road from Binnaker's to Orangeburg is better than from Holman's. I am seven miles from Binnaker's, five from Holman's, and six from Blackville. I will probably go up to Blackville to-morrow to see Slocum. Keep me well advised of your progress. As soon as Logan completes the destruction of the road to Blackville he can move his two other divisions down to Holman's, or wherever you need him. It is to me patent that the enemy has only cavalry at the Edisto, and we must keep it busy that Kilpatrick may encounter less about Aiken. His movement on Aiken besides the substantial damage will disconnect the part of Lee's corps that did not get over the railroad. Proceed to effect a lodgment on the north of the Edisto by cautious but persistent efforts. Once across, the enemy will fall behind the Santee.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Binnaker's Bridge, February 9, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN:

GENERAL: Major-General Mower effected a crossing of the Edisto this evening about 6 o'clock. He laid a pontoon to an island, and as soon as he had got one brigade over he pressed on across the island and waded the swamp beyond and effected a lodgment on what appeared to be the mainland. He met, however, a skirmish line about 8 p. m. and, as it was night, concluded to intrench and wait for daylight. The island is marshy, and the water in the main swamp between two and three feet deep. The men swung their cartridge-boxes around their necks.

I am inclined to think the crossing at Holman's Bridge is no worse than this. General Hazen has crossed some men over a half mile above the bridge and cut his way nearly through the swamp. Word has just come that Mower has driven the enemy off, sent back a regiment along the main road, and has taken up a strong position a mile and a half from the river. The bridge on the main road is being laid.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Walker's House, February 9, 1865—11 p. m.

Major-General HOWARD,

Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: Your note is just received. General Sherman directs me to answer saying he is very much gratified that General Mower has effected a crossing and a lodgment. It is of great importance and he wishes it held beyond a possibility of loss, but does not wish General Mower to go farther at present. Complete your crossing facilities, getting bridges, &c., in good order for use. To-morrow he will go to see General Slocum at Blackville and hurry up matters on that wing. Have you any news yet from the wagon train sent back from Rivers' for bread, &c.? Let Hazen also make good crossings, looking to the move on Orangeburg day after to-morrow (11th).

I am, &c.,

L. M. DAYTON.
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
FIELD ORDERS, } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 9. } Near Binnaker's Bridge, S. C., February 9, 1865.

I. The attention of the general commanding has been called by officers of our own army to the wanton and indiscriminate destruction of private property, burning of dwelling houses, plundering and pillaging the houses of the few poor people who have remained at home, &c. There are circumstances under which it is proper to burn the houses and other property of citizens. In all such cases, corps, division, and brigade commanders will order its destruction and report their action and their reasons for it to the headquarters of the corps or to these headquarters.

II. Individual foragers are seen every day roaming about the country, often mounted on some worthless "picked-up" animal, and without other authority than that of their company commander. The attention of commanding officers is called to this discouraging practice, and renewed efforts are demanded to regulate the system of foraging.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Railroad, near Cross-Roads, February 9, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD:

GENERAL: The First and Third Divisions are in camp north of the railroad; Woods across the Holman's Bridge road, with Smith upon his right. I have two brigades at work destroying the railroad, one working toward Blackville and the other from that point back to camp. As soon as they return will notify you. My headquarters are on the railroad at the Fogle plantation, near the crossing of the Holman's Bridge road.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Binnaker's Bridge, February 9, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Your note was just shown to the general. He desires me to inform you that General Mower is across the river below the enemy's position; has crossed about a mile of swamp, and is intrenching on the high ground. After some skirmishing the enemy fell back from his line nearest the river, but is thought to be in another line in the rear of this. Nothing has been heard from General Hazen. The general is anxious to hear from him, whether he succeeded in effecting a crossing or not.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—Have just heard from General Hazen. He is across. The general has directed five boats be sent him in the morning, and desires that you direct him to make a reconnaissance in the morning with a strong skirmish line, and that if he finds the enemy gone to take position on the mainland and build foot bridges through the swamp. General Mower has succeeded in driving off the enemy and is intrenching a mile and a half beyond the river. If the enemy has not left General Hazen's front their position can be turned by General Mower.

Respectfully, &c.,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Orangeburg and Barnwell Cross-Roads, February 9, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to state to you that the brigade of my command, ordered to Blackville to destroy the railroad, has just returned to camp. Colonel Stone reports to have destroyed from 1,200 yards to a mile of the road this side of Blackville. There are still about three miles of road remaining undestroyed. No other troops were at work between this place and Blackville.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Holman's Bridge, S. C., February 9, 1865.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL,

Headquarters Department of the Tennessee:

I have my skirmish line at the river bank, which is bluff on this side; on the one opposite a cypress swamp extends for half a mile, and the road runs through it in a straight line. The enemy have a few sharpshooters posted on this road about 100 yards from the river. I can form no conjecture of their force beyond the swamp. I have a crossing of felled trees and a way cleared nearly through the swamp about half a mile above the bridge and a raft completed below it, and will to-night put in a piece of artillery, sweeping the road. If it is desired I will cross a brigade in the morning and endeavor to force away whatever may be beyond, or will clear the road with artillery and push a skirmish line or light force through the swamp. I would be glad if the wishes of the general commanding might be sent me by the bearer of this. It will require four boats to put a pontoon bridge across here, or by more labor one could be made without boats.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

This note is sent direct, as I do not know where to find corps headquarters.

W. B. H.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Binnaker's Bridge, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Maj. Gen. WILLIAM B. HAZEN,
Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Your note is received. The general commanding directs me to say that he has ordered five boats to be sent you in the morning, with which you can cross the main stream with one brigade. He does not wish you to use the brigade further than to make a demonstration at present. General Mower has succeeded in crossing the main stream and has waded the swamp for a mile beyond and is intrenching himself on the mainland.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—General Mower has succeeded in driving the enemy off and is now intrenching on the mainland a mile and a half from the river. The enemy will probably leave your front during the night.

Respectfully,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Graham's, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: In reply to communication of date, I have the honor to state that the detail of one brigade from my command has destroyed about one mile of the railroad track, completing work commenced by the Twentieth Army Corps. I cannot state whether the track has been destroyed as far as Blackville, as I have not been there.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 12.	}	HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS, In the Field, S. C., February 9, 1865.
-------------------------------------	---	---

I. The troops composing this division will march at 6 a. m. to-morrow, the 10th instant, to Lane's plantation (or Springfield [Springtown] Meeting House) in the following order, viz:

First. Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry as an advance, following verbal instructions already received. Second. First Brigade Infantry, with its train, and Battery H, First Missouri Light Artillery, one regiment to be thrown in rear of train and battery. General Rice will move at precisely 5.30 a. m., this being an exception to the hour above designated. Third. Trains as follows: First, supply train; second, ambulances; third, trains of Seventeenth Army Corps and Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry; fourth, trains Second and Third Brigades; fifth, ordnance train. Fourth. Second Brigade Infantry, Colonel Adams, who will so dispose of his regiments as to have them guard the greatest number of wagons; the supply and ordnance [trains] being of the most importance will require to be more closely watched. Fifth. Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut commanding.

* * * * *

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Binnaker's Bridge, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

One regiment of the First Division has crossed the main stream about 300 yards below the road, and General Mower is now laying a pontoon bridge. The enemy have not yet discovered him, and are still in position. There is a swamp between where he landed and the enemy, which he thinks passable.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Binnaker's Bridge, February 9, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding wishes you to effect a lodgment on the other side of the river by making a detour sufficiently far to your left to turn the enemy's position without loss. He is satisfied that the enemy has nothing but two pieces of artillery, supported by cavalry in small force, and thinks that he may be driven off by persistent and continued efforts, though there is no immediate hurry.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Binnaker's, S. C., February 9, 1865—8.30 p. m.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Dept. and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: General Mower has crossed the river with his entire command, and thinks he is in rear of the enemy, who are supposed to still be in position. I have ordered the Third Division to his support, one brigade to cross and one to remain on this side.

Respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING,
Salkehatchie River. February 9, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,
Aide-de-Camp :

MAJOR: Geary's division leaving here at 6 a. m. to-day and will reach Blackville to-night. I ordered the Fourteenth Corps to Blackville, but in view of the movements of the Twentieth Corps I shall direct Davis to some point west of Blackville. Before leaving Savannah I applied for a regiment of cavalry, also for one of the engineer regiments. I understood that both applications were approved by General Sherman, yet I have not had an engineer soldier with me and have had but six mounted men. All my messages have been sent by footmen. I cannot to-day send a mounted man to the general-in-chief nor to either of the corps commanders under me. I have had bridges to construct in water from eight to fifteen feet in depth and have not had a man of experience with me. If it is not absolutely necessary to retain all the engineer troops with the Right Wing, I earnestly hope that at least one company of the First Michigan may be sent to this wing. I also ask that at least 100 good cavalymen, under good officers, may be permanently assigned to duty with me. I would like the Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Graham's Station. February 9, 1865—12 m.

Major-General SLOCUM,
Blackville:

DEAR GENERAL: Your note of this morning is received. Williams moved hence for Blackville this a. m. The Michigan Engineers have been ordered to your flank to twist railroad. Tell Williams I have inspected his work here, and the bars are not twisted; better do half the quantity, but do it thoroughly; unless there be a warp, the bar can be straightened again. All the cavalry is now and has been on your flank. Kilpatrick was last night up at Williston, where he whipped a division of cavalry, and is moving to break up railroad partially as far as Aiken. I was in hopes you would turn Davis off below Coosawhatchie Swamp, through Barnwell, to Williston or White Pond. Get him, as soon as possible, at work on the railroad from Williston west, and in the meantime have the bridges at Guignard's and Pine Log examined, so as to cross there, or at the head of Young's Island. My orders of yesterday give the next movement. To-day, Howard, with the Seventeenth Corps, is moving to Binnaker's Bridge. Two divisions of the Fifteenth Corps are at the forks of the roads west of this, and the other at Holman's Bridge. Don't take any of Kilpatrick's cavalry to make escorts or orderlies, for he has to fight and contend now with double and nearly treble his numbers. For courier duty and orderlies, pick up horses and mount drummers and non-combatants. If necessary to get horses, break up teams and use mules for ambulances, burning up the empty wagons. Howard has no cavalry save one fragment of mounted infantry. By keeping on our left you will have henceforth good foraging ground, and may pick up horses and plenty of forage. Pine Log Ford will be the place for Kilpatrick to cross over the South Edisto. Your best points will be the head of Young's Island and Guignard's. We must all turn amphibious, for the country is half under water. Mower had to fight at the Salkehatchie with his men up to their armpits, he setting the example. I think we can spend all of to-morrow on railroad breaking, but next day we must be across Edisto. You can gain time on Howard as he swings against Orangeburg. Your wing will move on Columbia.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN.

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,

Blackville, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. C. DAVIS.

Commanding Fourteenth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you move your corps through Barnwell to Williston, on the Augusta and Charleston Railroad. He wishes the railroad destroyed from that point west as far as possible, until you receive further orders. Williston is the first station west of Blackville.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,

Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS.

Mims' Farm, February 9, 1865.

Col. A. C. McCLURG.

Assistant Adjutant-General:

COLONEL: Please say to the major-general commanding that I have gone into camp at this place, which is twenty-nine miles from Barnwell and two miles from the forks of the road, marked on the maps as Gillett's Church. (I get these distances from the negroes.) This is as far as I thought the rear of the command could reach, and as the last wagons have just only got into camp at 6.30 o'clock, I think I was right. Unless I receive other orders I will march toward Barnwell at 6.30 o'clock in the morning (prompt), and if the roads are fair will get within a mile of it to-morrow night. The town itself was burned by our cavalry three days ago. I lost three hours to-day in building crossings over streams. The last one turned out badly, I learn, although I lowered the water on the road nine inches by clearing out the dam caused by the fence when I built my foot bridge. I will move as I have stated unless I receive other orders.

Most respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. BAIRD.

Brevet Major-General, Commanding Division.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,

Blackville, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. SLOCUM.

Commanding Left Wing, Army of Georgia:

GENERAL: I propose to move Geary's division and Michigan Engineers along the railroad to-morrow toward Williston Station and encamp the corps at that place to-morrow night. I shall use the Michigan Engineers to twist the railroad iron; the infantry to pile and burn. If this meets your views please inform me, that I may make the necessary orders.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,

Blackville, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Col. J. L. SELFRIDGE,

Commanding First Brigade, First Division:

COLONEL: The general commanding directs that you make a reconnaissance with your brigade to-morrow, starting at 7 a. m., to Duncan's Bridge over the Edisto River, at the head of Young's Island. General Slocum is very anxious to ascertain the condition of the crossing at that point, the force of the enemy there, if any, the state of the roads, &c. If possible General Sherman wishes the Left Wing to cross there. Major Parks will accompany you; more detailed instructions have been given him for transmittal to you. Lieutenant Ludlow, chief of engineers, Left Wing, will also accompany you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,

Blackville, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: In accordance with directions from Major-General Slocum, your division is to remain at this place to-morrow to protect the trains of the corps, which are to be left here to await the result of a reconnaissance which will be made to-morrow by Colonel Selfridge's brigade toward Duncan's Bridge. The general commanding desires that you will send one of your brigades at an early hour in the morning to take the position on the north side of the railroad, now occupied by the First Brigade of the Third Division. The balance of your troops will be disposed so as to protect the trains. Your orderly has been detained here to await this dispatch.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 10.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION,

TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,

Near Blackville, S. C., February 9, 1865.

This command will move to-morrow at 7 a. m. Order of brigades: Third, First, Second. Colonel Mindil will leave two regiments as rear guard to cover the trains.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE:

GENERAL: In turning over the command of the Department of the South to you I herewith place in your hands the instructions, both public and confidential, received from the War Department and from General Sherman. General Sherman's written instructions may be modified in execution, if the circumstances warrant it; for instance, if the enemy show a disposition to evacuate Charleston he may be felt strongly, and if the evacuation actually takes place the works are to be occupied and the diversion in Bull's Bay may not then be made. Secondly. After carrying out the instructions regarding the operation at Bull's Bay, if, in the judgment of the commander of the department, an additional operation may be attempted on Sullivan's Island, as the admiral desires, he may undertake it if circumstances be favorable. This must not, however, be to the prejudice of anything specially directed by General Sherman. Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch is to follow the enemy toward Charleston with his whole division and destroy completely the railroad as far as he can go. This ought to be done as far as the Ashepoo if possible, and under very favorable circumstances to the Edisto. He is at the same time aided by Brig. Gen. Henry Prince, commanding camp of detachments for General Sherman's army at Blair's landing, on the Pocotaligo River, to guard General Sherman's communication back to Port Royal, at least from the railroad back to that place. General Prince is under command of the general commanding the department. If the city of Charleston be evacuated the destruction of the railroad is to be stopped, as we may need it for use. General Hatch may then be withdrawn, leaving a sufficient guard at Port Royal Ferry, Pocotaligo, &c. As soon as General Sherman reaches the triangle between Columbia, Camden, and Kinston, this same force may also be withdrawn, then be used elsewhere. The orders from General Grant are to maintain a camp at or near Pocotaligo, and no limit is fixed to this maintenance. General Sherman desired a picket to be kept at Coosawhatchie, Salkehatchie bridge, and Combahee Ferry, with a reserve at Garden's Corners, and wherever else necessary, with main body at camp at or near Pocotaligo. As far as operations in Charleston Harbor is concerned, the commander of the department may co-operate with the admiral in any way that he may judge proper, provided the written instructions be first fully carried out. General Sherman did not favor any serious operation about Charleston Harbor, but was willing to yield his objections if the commanding officer, after carrying out his essential directions, judged he had an opportunity favorable enough to warrant the risk of a serious attack. General Sherman attached more importance to the flank movement at Bull's Bay and Georgetown. Major Gray informed me that General Sherman desired the operation at Bull's Bay to be made six days from that day (the 8th instant). The force for this is assembled at the Stono. The present position of affairs with respect to General Saxton is seen by reference to letters on file. General Saxton has to-day replied to my letter of the 4th instant requesting that he state officially what aid and assistance he requires to enable him to perform his duties. This letter is left for your action. I have also made application to the Secretary of War to have the last sentence of paragraph V, of Special Field Orders, No. 15, issued by General Sherman, annulled, so as to leave the recruiting and organization of the negroes where it rested by previous orders and instructions of the War Department. This application was made with the sanction of General Sherman. I have also applied for the detail of Brig. Gen. William Birney to relieve Brevet Major-General Saxton of all duties in this department.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. RUFUS SAXTON, U. S. Volunteers,
Inspector of Settlements and Plantations :

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 5th instant in reply to mine of the 4th, and would state in answer that, being about to go North on leave of absence, I have turned over your requests, as contained therein, to Major-General Gillmore, who relieves me, for his action.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 9, 1865. (Via Pocotaligo.)

Brig. Gen. JOHN P. HATCH:

Telegram received. I telegraphed you that it was necessary to follow up the enemy and destroy as much of the railroad as possible. This was in answer to your dispatch stating that the enemy had fallen back from your front, and had his main force at Adams' Run. I have been granted a leave of absence and shall leave on the Arago to-morrow. Major-General Gillmore relieves me.

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. E. POTTER, Beaufort, S. C. :

Major-General Foster authorizes Brigadier-General Hatch to take troops from your district for the purpose of building a tête-de-pont at Port Royal Ferry. Two companies have been ordered there for that purpose from Beaufort. No other authority has been granted to General Hatch.

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. E. POTTER, Beaufort, S. C. :

Prepare to go to the Northern District to take charge of an offensive operation. I will send the Coit for you. Come down here as soon as she arrives at Beaufort. Leave the command of the district temporarily in the hands of the next senior officer.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, { WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 64. { Washington, February 9, 1865.

* * * * *

28. Bvt. Brig. Gen. Milton S. Littlefield, colonel Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops, is hereby relieved from duty in the Department of the South and will report in person, without delay, to Major-General Canby, commanding Military Division of West Mississippi, for duty.

* * * * *

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No 15. { Hilton Head, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Having been granted leave of absence, on account of disability from wounds, I hereby transfer the command of this department during my absence to Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore, U. S. Volunteers, in accordance with orders from the War Department.

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 16. { Hilton Head, S. C., February 9, 1865.

In compliance with orders from the Secretary of War, dated at Washington, D. C., January 30, 1865, the undersigned hereby assumes command of the Department of the South.

All existing orders and regulations will remain in force until otherwise ordered.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General of Volunteers.

GENERAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 17. { Hilton Head, S. C., February 9, 1865.

The following-named officers are hereby announced on the staff of the major-general commanding, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly:

Capt. W. L. M. Burger, U. S. Volunteers, assistant adjutant-general.

Capt. Thorndike D. Hodges, Thirty-fifth U. S. Colored Troops, acting assistant adjutant-general.

Col. C. L. Kilburn, assistant commissary-general of subsistence, U. S. Army, chief commissary.

Maj. C. W. Thomas, U. S. Volunteers, chief quartermaster.

Maj. J. C. Gray, jr., U. S. Volunteers, judge-advocate.

Surg. M. Clymer, U. S. Volunteers, medical director.

Maj. A. V. Elliott, additional paymaster, U. S. Army, chief paymaster.

Bvt. Maj. George E. Gouraud, aide-de-camp, acting assistant inspector-general.

Capt. Charles R. Suter, U. S. Engineer Corps, chief engineer.

First Lieut. Isaac Arnold, jr., U. S. Army, chief of ordnance.

Lient. Col. S. L. Woodford, One hundred and twenty-seventh New York Volunteers, provost-marshal-general.

Lieut. Col. William Ames, Third Rhode Island Volunteer Artillery, chief of artillery.

Capt. Leslie Smith, First U. S. Infantry, commissary of musters.

Capt. Jesse Merrill, chief signal officer.

Capt. Henry M. Bragg, aide-de-camp.

Capt. James R. Gilmore, assistant quartermaster, U. S. Volunteers, superintendent military telegraphs.

By command of Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore:

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,

Folly Island, S. C., February 9, 1865.

Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the South:

CAPTAIN: In pursuance to verbal instructions received February 6 from Major-General Foster, and no orders to the contrary having been received up to this moment (3.30 p. m., February 9, 1865), the movement ordered will be carried out to-night and to-morrow. The only co-operation on the part of the navy I have been able to secure is the action of the naval force commonly posted in Stono Inlet, viz, two gun-boats and two mortar schooners. Ensign Neil has arrived with the military gun-boats Augusta and Savannah, but has not yet reported to me. No rations have yet arrived. There are at present no indications of an intended evacuation of Charleston by the enemy. There seems to be in part new troops around Charleston, as the intercepted signal dispatches constantly show new names. Yesterday, February 8, certain officers at Mount Pleasant were ordered to report themselves for duty at Jacksonborough.

I have the honor to be, respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding District.

GENERAL ORDERS,	}	HQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
No. 1.		ARMY OF THE OHIO,
		Federal Point, N. C., February 9, 1865.

In compliance with orders of the War Department, the undersigned hereby assumes command of the Department of North Carolina. Department headquarters will be with the army in the field.

The following staff officers are on duty at these headquarters:

Maj. J. A. Campbell, assistant adjutant-general.

Maj. William M. Wherry, aide-de-camp.

Capt. William J. Twining, aide-de-camp.

Capt. William A. Lord, aide-de-camp.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
February 9, 1865.

Rear-Admiral PORTER, U. S. Navy,
Commanding, &c., Cape Fear River:

SIR: Preparatory to operations against Wilmington. I desire to advance General Terry's line so as to threaten the enemy's position east of Cape Fear River. It will greatly facilitate the operations to have for a short time previous to the advance a strong fire from the gun-boats upon the right of the enemy's lines, viz, immediately opposite Fort Anderson. Possibly the effect of this may be so great as to enable the troops to take possession of Sugar Loaf Hill, and thus obviate the necessity of the proposed operations west of the river. The fleet outside may also render some assistance, though the fire will be at long range and inaccurate on account of the intervening woods. I would like to make the advance to-morrow, or the next day at the latest, if you can be prepared to co-operate so soon. If this movement results in a decided success, which I do not count upon, I will push for Wilmington at once. If not, I will then be prepared to transfer troops to the west bank of the river, and threaten in like manner Fort Anderson and the adjacent line, preparatory to the more extended movement to turn the enemy's position. These initiatory movements can be made while I am getting up the rest of my troops and materials, and preparing for an extended movement, if that prove to be necessary. I hope thus to save several days' time, which is important. Please be so kind as to inform me when you can co-operate in the movement I propose.

I am, admiral, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. M. SCHOFIELD.
Major-General.

---

NEW BERNE, February 9, 1865.

Lieut. Col. P. C. HAYES,

Acting Provost-Marshal, Twenty-third Army Corps:

Please say to General Schofield that I have nothing of importance to communicate. The various preparations for co-operation with other forces are going on quietly. Should General Schofield come to Morehead I shall see him. Where is he now, and can I expect him here soon?

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General.

---

MOREHEAD CITY, February 9, 1865.

Brigadier-General PALMER,

New Berne, N. C.:

GENERAL: I arrived at this point this morning at 8 o'clock with about 5,000 troops, and am ordered to move directly to New Berne. I await transportation.

THOS. F. MEAGHER,
Brig. Gen., Comdg. Provisional Division, Army of the Tennessee.

FORT FISHER, February 9, 1865.

General R. DELAFIELD,

Chief Engineer, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C. :

I have the honor to inclose a sketch of the vicinity of Fort Fisher.* The department letter of January 28 is received, and in a day or two Admiral Porter will place a vessel at my disposal for the experiments referred to therein.

Very respectfully,

C. B. COMSTOCK,

*Lieutenant-Colonel, Aide-de-Camp, and Breret Brigadier-General.*CITY POINT, VA., February 10, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,

Washington, D. C. :

The Dispatch to-day has the following:

FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.

The enemy are in possession of the railroad west of Branchville. A dispatch from General Wheeler, dated Holman's Bridge, February 7, received in Charleston on Wednesday, says:

"My pickets near Blackville this morning were charged by three brigades of cavalry, which drove them beyond the village. Dibrell's (Tennessee) brigade, being in the vicinity, met and charged the enemy, driving them back into the village. Blackville is on the line of the South Carolina Railroad, twenty-eight miles west of Branchville and forty-nine miles southwest of Columbia."

A dispatch from Branchville, received in Charleston the same day, states:

"The enemy have made their appearance along the South Carolina Railroad beyond the Edisto River, and have burned a house within a mile and a half of the railroad bridge. About 7 o'clock yesterday evening our troops were withdrawn to this side of the bridge and the bridge burned. Thus railroad connection with Augusta is severed."

No official dispatches from this quarter were given to the press yesterday; whether any were received we do not know. It is an error, however, to suppose that because any point on the South Carolina Railroad is in the hands of the enemy that we can no longer draw supplies from Georgia. It would be unwise to explain the matter at this time.

There was a report yesterday that Charleston had been evacuated. We find in official circles no confirmation of the report.

From the Whig:

Charleston, February 9.—A dispatch from Orangeburg to-day says that the enemy are in front of the Edisto line from near New Bridge to Duncan's Bridge. The main force is said to be near the railroad. There has been skirmishing to-day at Binnaker's Bridge. Our troops are guarding the railroad bridge. The enemy show no disposition to force a crossing. A dispatch from General Wheeler, dated February 8, 3.30 p. m., says:

"A large column of the enemy's infantry struck the railroad at Graham's and Blackville. Kilpatrick is at Blackville with three brigades."

FROM PETERSBURG.

RESULTS OF TUESDAY'S FIGHTING.—THE ENEMY ERECTING OBSERVATORIES.—BOTH SIDES STRENGTHENING THE NEW LINES.

Petersburg, February 8.—There was no fighting to-day and quiet was once more resumed. The enemy still holds his position on Hatcher's Run. His lines have thereby been extended, but not advanced. General Sorrel was wounded in the lungs, but the wound is not considered mortal. Colonel Hoffman, of Virginia, was killed in the fight Monday. Our loss will not reach 500; the enemy's loss is estimated to be treble that number. The dead have all been buried, and the wounded brought from the field. The enemy are erecting observatories on our right.

* See Plate LXXV, Map 1 of the Atlas.

The heavy cannonading yesterday afternoon was caused by our artillery shelling the enemy's lines. Both sides were engaged to-day in strengthening their new lines.

The Montgomery Mail learns that the Federals are concentrating their forces at Eastport and Decatur, for the purpose of moving on Selma and Montgomery as soon as the roads are in a suitable condition. Vice-President Stephens left Richmond Wednesday evening for Georgia.

T. S. BOWERS.

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Near Binnaker's Bridge, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Your note of last night received. I will have a good bridge-head at each place, and govern myself by your directions. I sent a lieutenant with six mounted men to meet the supply train and turn it so as to follow General Corse. There is no doubt but what it is with him. It has the Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry for a guard. It may be in rear of Davis. I am going over the Edisto now to reconnoiter. The casualties in yesterday's skirmish were 1 man killed, 1 mortally wounded, and 3 others wounded. The enemy commanded the road with his artillery.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD.

Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Near Graham's, S. C., February 10, 1865.

General O. O. HOWARD,

Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: I have just returned from Blackville, where I saw General Slocum. The Twentieth Corps is all up and at work destroying railroad. The Fourteenth, General Slocum thinks, will reach Williston to-night. I also learn that General Corse is close at hand, so all things are in readiness for the move on Orangeburg. General Slocum will have his two corps on the Orangeburg and Edgefield road, opposite the New Bridge, at the head of Fair's Island, and Guignard's by the day after to-morrow. You had better move the Seventeenth Corps straight on Orangeburg, aiming to get within two or three miles, ready the next day to cross by pontoons above Orangeburg and make a lodgment on the road. The Fifteenth Corps should move to-morrow to Bull Fight Pond, and the next day to North Edisto, at the mouth of Mill Branch Creek or Caw Caw, according to the appearances about Orangeburg. I will accompany the Fifteenth Corps and camp with it to-morrow night. I want to have the road broken up good from about Orangeburg up above the State road, Mathews' Post-Office, but would prefer that one corps should do the work, leaving the Fifteenth to follow a course more to the west in support of the Left Wing, in the event of Dick Taylor having got to Augusta with Hood's old army. Slocum's orders will take him by the most direct road possible to Columbia, but making to his left about the Sand Hills in case he comes in contact with one of your columns. I have nothing from Kilpatrick to-day. If to-morrow or next day we observe a concentration of forces about Orangeburg I can draw from Slocum by the Edgetfield road. I will notify General Logan to put his corps in motion to-morrow to Bull Fight Pond.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Binnaker's Bridge, February 10, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN:

GENERAL: Your letter is just received. I sent a little time ago an order for your approval. The only difference will be the stopping the Fifteenth Corps a little short of where I ordered it. I am inclined to think one division had better follow the Seventeenth Corps till opposite Bull Fight Pond.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Binnaker's Bridge, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: One of our men captured the other day near Graham's escaped from his guard near Orangeburg. He says he crossed the river at Holman's Bridge on the 7th. He says he saw quite large camps on the north side of the Edisto, and understood that the troops were of Lee's corps, and had marched all the way from Augusta. Stovall's brigade was in front of Mower last night, of Stevenson's division, said to be 400 strong. They took the first left-hand road and went toward Columbia. The force in front of Hazen was infantry, and took the Columbia road. My scouts have been over this road across Holman's Bridge as far as it intercepts the left-hand road from Binnaker's Bridge, that is, five or six miles out. The road is reported good and the country full of provisions. Everything is in readiness now to advance on Orangeburg. I have directed General Logan to send three divisions by Holman's Bridge and one by Binnaker's. The latter will be the nearest for Corse from Graham's. I hardly think Corse will reach Graham's to-night. The supply train you inquired about is with him.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

P. S.—Corse has deviated toward your camp, and must be within six miles of you to-night. I send you some mail just arrived by Captain Gilbreth.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
FIELD ORDERS, { ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 10. } Near Binnaker's Bridge, S. C., February 10, 1865.

The commanding general has noticed quite an amount of provisions taken from the country in the camps after the troops have left. It is directed that the empty wagons be filled with commissary supplies; foraged now while there is an abundance. This work had better be carefully proportioned to each brigade by the division commissary. Fill the wagons first and keep them filled with meal, flour, bacon, sweet potatoes, &c. In this way the command will be prepared to encounter a few days' march through a barren country. Corps and division commanders will see that a fair amount of forage is taken along, but in filling the empty wagons as above ordered they will give the preference to commissary supplies.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
FIELD ORDERS, { ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
No. 35. } Near Binnaker's Bridge, S. C., February 10, 1865.
* * * * *

II. The following will be the order of march, commencing to-morrow at 7 a. m.: The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will move directly along the Binnaker Bridge road on Orangeburg; take up a strong position west of the North Fork, pushing forward a reconnaissance of at least one brigade, without wagons, to secure and hold the bridge at that point (Orangeburg), if possible. Pen's Branch will probably afford a position for the right flank. Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps, will march three of his divisions via Holman's Bridge and endeavor to reach the point marked Poplar Spring with his head of column. He will march his other division via Binnaker's Bridge toward Orangeburg until it forms a junction with the rest of his command opposite Poplar Spring. He will carefully examine all roads and crossings of the North Fork to the north of Orangeburg. The trains of department headquarters will follow the leading division of the Seventeenth Army Corps. The section of the bridge with General Logan will follow and encamp near his rear division. The section with General Blair will follow and encamp near the rear division on Binnaker's Bridge road. Headquarters to-morrow night will be near the advance of the Seventeenth Army Corps.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Fogle's Plantation, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,

Asst. Adj. Gen., Military Division of the Mississippi:

MAJOR: I have the honor to inform you, for the information of the general-in-chief, that in accordance with instructions received from Major-General Howard, the Second Division of this corps has been pushed across the Edisto River at Holman's Bridge, and the Third Division, Major-General Smith commanding, has been ordered to move forward this afternoon to occupy the position formerly held by General Hazen, near Holman's Bridge, on this side of the river.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN.

Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Walker's House, February 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,

Commanding Fifteenth Corps:

GENERAL: I have this moment written to General Howard that he may begin his movement on Orangeburg. You may, therefore, in the morning early put your corps in motion for Bull Fight Pond, on the Edgetfield and Orangeburg road, and then await orders from General Howard or myself. I will accompany you, going from here direct to Holman's Bridge.

I am, &c., yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN.

Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Near Binnaker's Bridge, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,

Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Please reconnoiter as soon as you can across Holman's Bridge and as far as Bull Fight Pond, to ascertain if the enemy have any force on the road, and to ascertain the character of the road that far.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Fogle's Plantation, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD,

Commanding Department and Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that General Corse with his division is about six miles back on the direct road from Springtown Meeting House to this point, crossing the railroad in front of my headquarters. I have sent a staff officer back to meet him.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,

Major-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS.

Near Orangeburg and Barnwell Cross-Roads, S. C.,February 10, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that my command has effectually destroyed the following amount of the Charleston and Augusta Railroad: First Brigade, Bvt. Brig. Gen. William B. Woods commanding, four miles at and near Bamberg on the 7th and 8th instant; one mile, near our present location, to-day, the 10th. This was road that had already been torn up, and I was obliged to get the fuel. Second Brigade, Col. R. F. Catterson, Ninety-seventh Indiana, commanding, two miles near our present camp to-day, the 10th instant. Third Brigade, Col. George A. Stone, Twenty-fifth Iowa, commanding, one mile and three-quarters near our present camp to-day and yesterday; part of this had already been torn up. This brigade marched to Blackville yesterday, the 9th, after having made the march from Bamberg to the present camp, and destroyed one mile of the track as above reported. Total amount of track torn up, eight miles and three-quarters. The work was all thoroughly done, the ties being burned and the rails so twisted they can be made of no service, and are worthless.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Fogle's Plantation, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. WOODS,

Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The Third Division will move this afternoon to the position now occupied by Major-General Hazen, preparatory to crossing the river in the morning. Please extend your pickets around on the right flank, beyond where General John E. Smith's camp was, so as to cover that flank and the headquarters of General Sherman. General Smith will move out at 3 o'clock, and the general commanding desires you to complete the destruction of the road, as the working parties from the Third Division will be withdrawn at that hour.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

FIELD ORDERS.]

HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS.

In the Field, S. C., February 10, 1865.

This division will leave camp at 6 a. m. to-morrow, February 11. Bvt. Brig. Gen. William B. Woods will move out in the advance on the Holman's Bridge road (the one leading through the camp of the division), followed by the battery, usual trains, and the Second Brigade. Colonel Stone, commanding the Third Brigade, will protect the trains with two of his regiments, marching the remaining three in rear. He will also send a company to these headquarters one-half hour before the column moves out (5.30) to receive instructions for provost duty during the day.

By order of Brevet Major-General Woods:

FRED. H. WILSON.

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

Reveille will sound at these headquarters at 3.30 a. m.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Fogle's Plantation, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. B. HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: In accordance with instructions from Major-General Howard, you will please cross the Twenty-ninth Missouri Mounted Infantry over Holman's Bridge as soon as possible, and push them out on the direct road as far as Bull Fight Pond, to ascertain if the enemy have any force on the road, and the character of the road itself that far. When this information is obtained you may withdraw the mounted infantry.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION,
Holman's Bridge, S. C., February 10, 1865—7 p. m.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that in obedience to orders I moved my division across the South Edisto at 4 p. m. to-day, after preparing the crossing, and am now camped with earth-works covering the front on the Columbia road half a mile from the swamp. I have two regiments on the Orangeburg road, also intrenched. My headquarters is on the Columbia road.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,

Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIV., FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Holman's Bridge Cross-Roads, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: In compliance with Special Orders, No. 41, dated headquarters Fifteenth Army Corps, February 10, 1865, I have the honor to submit the following report of operations of this command this day: The First Brigade, General W. T. Clark commanding, being charged with the destruction of a portion of the South Carolina Railroad track, completely destroyed two and a half miles of the same east of Blackville. The division broke camp at 3 o'clock this p. m., and marched three and a half miles to this point, and is now situated as follows: The First Brigade is encamped in line north of and parallel with the main Charleston and Savannah road, its right resting on the direct Holman's Bridge road. The Second Brigade is encamped in line east of and parallel with the direct Holman's Bridge road, its left resting on the main Charleston and Savannah road. These headquarters are established on the Holman's Bridge road, about 200 yards south of the intersection of the same with the Charleston and Savannah road.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Fogle's Plantation, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. JOHN M. CORSE,

Commanding Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The object of to-morrow's movement will be to reach Bull Fight Pond with the whole corps. The general commanding requests that you will break camp at 5 a. m. (the 11th instant) and move on the direct road to Holman's Bridge. There cross the Edisto River and make as many miles as you can in the direction of the point indicated. You will follow General Woods' column, and will have a good road from the railroad to the river.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL )
FIELD ORDERS, )
No. 13. )

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 10, 1865.

1. The troops of this division will march at 6 a. m. to-morrow, the 11th instant, on the Blackville road, in the following order, viz:

1. Second Brigade Infantry, with its train, throwing one regiment in rear of battery and train.

2. Trains in same order as directed for the 10th instant.

3. Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut commanding, who will move his regiments by the side of the trains, so disposed as to guard closely the supply and ordnance trains.

4. First Brigade Infantry, General Rice commanding, who will take the necessary precaution to prevent straggling, and especially the unauthorized firing by soldiers.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Binnaker's Bridge, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general desires you to reconnoiter up the first left-hand road as far as the road leading back to Holman's Bridge, if possible, and report the character of the road.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS. } HQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS.
                               } Near Binnaker's Bridge, S. C.,
                               } February 10, 1865.

The following are the orders for to-morrow:

1. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will have the advance, and will move his command forward at 7 a. m. on the Binnaker's Bridge and Orangeburg road.
2. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will follow the Third Division, moving forward at 7.30 a. m.
3. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will follow the Fourth Division, being prepared to move at 9 a. m.
4. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry, Lieutenant-Colonel Hughes commanding, will move in advance of the column, crossing the river at 6.30 a. m.
5. Department and corps headquarters trains will follow the troops of the Third Division, provided they are across the river in time.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS. } HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION, } SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
                               } In the Field, S. C., February 10, 1865.

I. All men whose term of service expires while the army is without communication and cannot, therefore, be sent home, are advised to remain on duty as usual, thus drawing pay, rations, &c., until such time as they can be mustered out and sent home. Those who have already been mustered out, or may be hereafter, will report at these headquarters, to be organized and fed and used for such duty as the general commanding may direct.

II. Brigade and regimental commanders may put such soldiers as desire it, whose term of service has expired but who still continue on duty, on such detached service as requires a soldier to fill, relieving them from further duty as combatants.

By order of Brig. Gen. Giles A. Smith:

AD. WARE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Salkchatchie River, S. C., February 10, 1865—7.30 p. m.

Captain DECHERT,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, Left Wing:

CAPTAIN: Your communication conveying the general's order for my corps to move from Barnwell to Williston was received at dark. My troops, after completing their second day's march of twenty miles, are encamped as follows: Baird at Barnwell, Carlin four, and Morgan seven miles south of this place. I shall make every effort to reach the railroad by to-morrow night, and will commence destroying it at once. The orderlies directed to be detailed will be sent as soon as practicable.

I have heard of no mail for your headquarters with my command, but will make special inquiry, and should any be found it will be forwarded at once.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JEF. C. DAVIS,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIV., FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Barnicell, February 10, 1865.

Lient. Col. A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General, &c.:

COLONEL: Please say to the general commanding that I have two brigades beyond Turkey Creek, about half a mile from this town, and one this side of the creek. I have also Colonel Bishop and his regiment in town keeping order and guarding the families that remain. All is very quiet and orderly. The rascally proceeding of some stragglers in opening the dam above our crossing caused my last brigade to wade over in quite deep water, but I think it will run down during the night. I think my road to Williston should be the one beyond Turkey Creek. The roads on both sides of the creek are good; distance to Williston, thirteen miles. I am out of rations to-night, and would like to have a few wagons with bread and coffee come forward to join me during the day to-morrow, if I march before the whole train arrives. I will be on hand to receive your orders in the morning.

Most respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. BAIRD,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding Division.

---

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Blackville, S. C., February 10, 1865.

The movements of this command to-morrow will be as follows:

The First Division will suspend work on the railroad and march at an early hour to Duncan's Bridge over the Edisto River, and will cross and camp on the north side. The Second Division, with the engineer troops, will, after completing the work on the bridge, cross the river and encamp. The trains in the following order, viz: First Division; corps supply train. Third Division cavalry train will march, starting at 7 a. m., and cross the river at Duncan's Bridge. The Second Brigade, Second Division, will escort the trains. The Third Division, with the five companies of engineer troops, will continue the work of destroying the railroad until they are relieved by the Fourteenth Corps, when the engineer troops will report to Major-General Davis for duty with the Fourteenth Corps, and General Ward will march his troops by the most direct road to Duncan's Bridge, crossing the river there, and rejoin the corps. If the corps should have moved from there he will follow, and rejoin it as soon as possible. The artillery will march at the head of the trains.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

H. W. PERKINS.

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,

Blackville, S. C., February 10, 1865.

Brig. Gen. W. T. WARD,

Commanding Third Division :

GENERAL: The inclosed order* is modified as follows: The general commanding directs that you march at an early hour to-morrow morning to Guignard's Bridge over the Edisto River, taking with you the five companies of engineer troops now with you, repair the bridge at that point, cross your command, and march down on the north side of the river to join the corps. After completing the bridge the engineer troops are to be sent back to Williston, to report for duty to General Davis, commanding Fourteenth Corps. That part of the corps now here will cross the river to-morrow at Duncan's Bridge and push forward to the North Fork of the Edisto. The general desires that you will follow the corps as fast as possible, and rejoin it as soon as you possibly can.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY COMMAND,

MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

Johnson's Turnout, February 10, 1865—11 a. m.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Military Division of the Mississippi :

MAJOR: I have advanced as far as this point in direction of Aiken. Have just driven out a brigade of rebel cavalry, and find that Wheeler has concentrated the majority of his troops at Aiken, and is now in line of battle, barricading his position two miles this side of Aiken. We have had considerable skirmishing, but nothing more. This is a splendid country; plenty of forage and supplies. The enemy now believe that we are marching on Augusta; such, at least, is the impression among the citizens. Anderson's division crossed Cook's Bridge last evening, and passed this point. Wheeler's command is at this moment passing up from the direction of the river to my front and forming lines at a trot. I will not attack until I hear further from you. No better opportunity ever offered to break Wheeler up; but as he may have supports of infantry I do not consider it prudent to attack. Could he now be driven back and Aiken captured we could secure a large amount of provisions, needed by my command, and I think a wrong [impression] be produced upon the minds of the enemy which he could not correct until it would be entirely too late. If you will send me a brigade of infantry from the Twentieth Army Corps, which must now be this side of Blackville and consequently less than a day's march from this point, I will render Wheeler powerless to even annoy your flank or wagon trains again during the campaign. Major-General Slocum offered me a brigade of infantry when I left him at Sister's Ferry. I wish now that I had taken it. The brigade asked for will not delay or interfere at all with your plans already mentioned. I can march at any moment with it to the Edgefield road, via Cook's Bridge, and be in constant communication with the Fourteenth Army Corps, which I understand will not reach White Pond for two or three days.

I hope, general, that the suggestion in this communication contained will meet with your approval, and that you will give me an opportunity of disposing of Wheeler's command. I will break road until I am attacked, in which case you can rest easy as to the result.

Very respectfully,

J. KILPATRICK,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 10, 1865.

General KILPATRICK,
Commanding Cavalry:

GENERAL: Your note from Johnson's is just received. I cannot change my plans now, as they are in progress. I don't care about Aiken, unless you can take it by a dash, and as Wheeler's attention is drawn to that quarter you can let it work. To-morrow the Right Wing moves on Orangeburg, and after breaking that railroad good we will proceed as heretofore indicated. Davis should be at Williston to-night or early to-morrow; keep in communication with him and conform to his movements. It won't pay to have infantry chasing Wheeler's cavalry; it is always a bad plan, and is injurious to detach infantry, save for a day or a single occasion. You can see Davis when he comes up, and he can spare a brigade for a day or so, but I don't want a brigade of infantry to go off to the flank when the whole army would have to wait for it, or it would be marched to death to catch up. Wheeler, or a part of his command, was on the north side of the South Edisto yesterday, and the concentration of the enemy is being made at Columbia, though I have no doubt that attention has been drawn toward Augusta, but I will not delay the main move an hour, and therefore want Davis to move on as soon as he can repair the bridge. Slocum will give him his orders, and I wish you to conform to the movements of the left corps; give it notice of danger from the direction of Augusta, and only attack Wheeler when he exposes himself. When operating near General Davis' corps he will doubtless let you have a brigade of infantry from time to time, but not as a permanent thing.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

FORT MONROE, VA., February 10, 1865—9 a. m.
(Received 9:30 a. m.)

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,
Washington:

The following has just been received from General Palmer, addressed to you:

FEBRUARY 8, 1865—9 p. m.

The troops of Meagher's division are just arriving at Morehead. They have no transportation.

R. C. WEBSTER,
Colonel and Quartermaster.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Federal Point, N. C., February 10, 1865.

Colonel WRIGHT,

Comdg. Railroad Construction Corps, Beaufort Harbor, N. C.:

COLONEL: I have learned since my arrival here that you were here a few days ago, and I presume you have gone to Beaufort, which is well. General Palmer will advance on the New Berne and Goldsborough Railroad very soon, and endeavor to get possession of the crossings of the Neuse River. Please confer with General Palmer and be prepared to put the railroad in running order as far as he may advance, and as rapidly as possible. The necessary rolling stock will probably have to be brought from Washington. I shall endeavor to get possession of Wilmington and the railroad from that place to Goldsborough by the 5th of March, or earlier if possible. I hope to be able to use both the railroad from Wilmington and also the one from Beaufort. Most probably the Wilmington road will require repairs as soon as we get possession of it, so please be prepared to bring a force here on short notice.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD.
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Federal Point, N. C., February 10, 1865.

Colonel DODGE,

Acting Chief Quartermaster:

COLONEL: You will at once make requisition upon the Quartermaster-General for 400,000 rations of forage for the use of General Sherman's army. Also 20,000 pairs of shoes. These supplies will be shipped to Beaufort Harbor, N. C., where the vessels will await orders. The vessels should be of light draft, so as to be able to enter Beaufort Harbor or Cape Fear River, as may be desired. They should be at Beaufort by the 25th of this month. These supplies will be in addition to those required by the troops of this department. Send duplicates of your requisitions to the chief quartermaster at General Grant's headquarters, City Point, Va.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD.
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
No. 1. } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 10, 1865.

1. The following movements will be made to-morrow, commencing at 8 a. m., viz:

General Terry will advance his line and make a strong demonstration upon the enemy's position east of Cape Fear River.

General Cox will support General Terry, and be prepared to take advantage of any success which may be gained.

It is not expected to gain possession of the enemy's works. Nevertheless, if the demonstration develops such weakness at any point of the enemy's line as to indicate that an attack would be successful it will be made at once.

The troops will be provided with three days' rations and a supply of ammunition; and, in the event of success, the enemy will be pushed back as far as Wilmington with vigor.

If it be found impracticable to carry the enemy's line in front of General Terry, the troops will be intrenched near enough to the enemy to threaten his position and maintain a skirmish line in close proximity to the enemy's works. At the same time our own line will be kept as much out of the enemy's view as practicable.

The new line will be made strong as soon as practicable, and the troops not required to hold it will be prepared for other operations.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 11, 1865.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,
Washington, D. C. :

The following, contained in the Dispatch, is all the news from Richmond papers to-day:

The Edisto River is now the line held by General Hardee, in the neighborhood of Branchville. Nearer the coast we hold the line of the Combahee River, in the vicinity of the Charleston and Savannah Railroad. From the most recent authentic intelligence it appears that while a part of Sherman's army is making active demonstrations against Combahee Ferry, near the Charleston and Savannah Railroad, as if with the design of marching on Charleston, the rest of his forces has appeared at four points on the Edisto, viz: At New Bridge, five miles below Branchville; at Binnaker's and Holman's Bridges above and at the railroad bridge opposite that place.

Our troops that hold the bridge over the Salkehatchie, west of Branchville, were driven in on last Wednesday. If he succeeds in forcing a passage of the Edisto above and below Branchville, he will tap the railroad running thence to Columbia and compel our troops to fall back from Branchville, but they will most probably evacuate it, if at any time it shall appear that Sherman cannot be prevented from crossing the river.

T. S. BOWERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near the Orangeburg Bridge, February 11, 1865—1 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

GENERAL: General Blair's head of column reached here about 11 a. m. He drove a regiment of rebels across the river. He has confronted them with a skirmish line. They have a line of works and two pieces of artillery covering the road. General Force is reconnoitering with a view to turning the position. General Blair has sent his mounted infantry to a crossing below. I have directed General Logan to take care of the one six miles above, called Shilling's Bridge. The rebels have given out that they expect to meet us here with the whole of S. D. Lee's corps. We have not yet discovered any great force.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Orangeburg Bridge, February 11, 1865—8 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

GENERAL: General Force has reconnoitered the swamps, both above and below. He has discovered the extent of the enemy's pickets below, and about a quarter of a mile farther down the river makes over to this side of the swamp. He will prepare a roadway down to the river to-night and throw a pontoon over in the morning. I have directed General Blair to support his batteries with one division, and push over a column, two divisions strong. General Force thinks the enemy have considerable force here, but the demonstration of the mounted infantry at Rowe's Bridge and General Logan's resolute operations above will, I think, enable us to succeed at this point. I send you a paper of the 9th which contains some items of interest. Slocum's movement on Columbia, if he really makes it, will make them let go here or there.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 36.	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE, Near Poplar Spring, S. C., February 11, 1865.
---------------------------------------	--

The following movements of this command will commence at 7 a. m. to-morrow: Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair, commanding Seventeenth Army Corps, continuing his reconnaissance at Rowe's Bridge, will force a passage of the North Fork at whatever point from reports received from reconnaissances above or below the road that he may think best. Maj. Gen. J. A. Logan, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps, will move to Shilling's Bridge, endeavor to effect a crossing of the South Fork in that vicinity, and will move across Caw Caw Swamp directly upon Orangeburg. The bridge train will move at daylight, and closing up will park in this vicinity ready for use. The section with General Logan will remain with his column.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Poplar Spring, February 11, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your order directing the movement on Shilling's Bridge, and the passage of the Edisto at that point, and would respectfully inquire whether it is designed to cross my command with all my transportation, or whether I shall make the movement in light order, leaving suitable camp and train guards on this side of the river with my wagons until the success of the crossing and movement on Orangeburg is ascertained? The section of the bridge train is not yet up, and I do not expect it to-night.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Near Poplar Spring, S. C., February 11, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,

Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Your note is received. In reply the general desires me to say that you may use your own judgment in regard to the disposition of your trains, but thinks that it will probably be better to leave them on this side until the passage of Caw Caw Swamp is effected, except such portion of your ammunition train as you think might be needed. The pontoon train is probably on the way up, but may stop with the main portion of the train which followed General Corse over from Holman's Bridge to Poplar Spring. The general desires you to send back and find it, and unless it is already on the road to order such portion of it as you require to join you as soon as you may need it.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Hayden's Plantation, S. C., February 11, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: In compliance with Special Orders, No. 41, headquarters Fifteenth Army Corps, I respectfully report the operations of my division to-day, the 11th, as follows: In obedience to your orders I broke camp at 6 a. m., and, moving forward on the Holman's Bridge road, struck General John E. Smith's column about 9 a. m. Following the Third Division over very bad roads, and crossing the South Fork of the Edisto River, I went into camp at 6 o'clock this p. m. at Hayden's plantation, near the Four Mile Swamp, on the road to Orangeburg, and within one mile of Poplar Spring. My troops are camped two brigades front, one on either side the road, facing toward Poplar Spring. My headquarters are at the house of Mr. Hayden, on the main road, near the Four Mile Swamp.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Poplar Spring, S. C., February 11, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that my division broke camp at 7 a. m. to-day and arrived here at 2 p. m., and is now encamped on the left of the road. My headquarters are at a house about 200 yards to the rear of corps headquarters. I have not previously reported that on the 9th, while skirmishing in front of Holman's Bridge, I had 1 man killed and 1 wounded.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Poplar Spring, S. C., February 11, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: In compliance with Special Orders, No. 41, current series, headquarters Fifteenth Army Corps, I have the honor to report that this command broke camp at intersection of Holman's Bridge and Charleston and Savannah roads at 6.30 o'clock this a. m., and marched, crossing the Edisto (South Fork) at Holman's Bridge, to this point, the advance of the column arriving at 4.30 p. m. The division is encamped in line on the right of and covering the Orangeburg road.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
 JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Cooper's Plantation, S. C., February 11, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report the movements of to-day to be as follows: I left Lee's plantation this morning at 6 o'clock, moved to the point on the Branchville and Augusta Railroad where headquarters Fifteenth Army Corps were, and received orders to cross Binnaker's Bridge instead of Holman's, our destination. Over fair roads I arrived at Binnaker's Bridge at 10.30 a. m.; found the Seventeenth Corps not yet crossed; awaited until about 1 p. m., when I commenced crossing, and finding the road to Orangeburg filled with the Seventeenth Corps train, moved to the left in order to get on the Holman's Bridge road to Poplar Spring, where I struck the Third Division, Fifteenth Corps, at 3.30 p. m. Learning that the First Division was still in its rear I placed the division in bivouac, ready to move at a moment's notice. The rear of the First Division did not pass until about 6.30 p. m., when it became so dark that, I concluded it impracticable to move unless I received further orders from corps headquarters. I have marched about eighteen miles and built 800 yards of corduroy. My pioneer corps joined me late this evening with a loss of 15 men. I await further orders.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
 JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

---

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 14.	}	HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS, In the Field, Cooper's Plantation, S. C.,        February 11, 1865.
-------------------------------------	---	--

I. In compliance with orders from corps headquarters the following-named officers are hereby detailed to take charge of permanent details for the purpose of collecting forage and subsistence from the country for the use of this command during the present campaign or until further orders: For the First Brigade—Maj. Samuel Mahon, Seventh Iowa Volunteer Infantry; Capt. D. C. Smith, Fifty-second Illinois Volunteer Infantry. For the Second Brigade—Capt. David S. Van Pelt, Eighty-first Ohio Volunteer Infantry; First Lieut. Perry F. Miller, Twelfth Illinois Volunteer Infantry. For the Third Brigade—Capt. Henry Ahern, Seventh Illinois Volunteer Infantry; First Lieut.

F. R. Thurber, Thirty-ninth Iowa Volunteer Infantry. Brigade commanders will make details of enlisted men as follows, selecting the best disciplined non-commissioned officers and privates for the duty, to report to the senior officer detailed for their respective commands, viz: Brig. Gen. E. W. Rice (First Brigade), 4 sergeants, 8 corporals, and 88 privates; Col. R. N. Adams (Second Brigade), 3 sergeants, 6 corporals, and 51 privates; Col. F. J. Hurlbut (Third Brigade), 3 sergeants, 7 corporals, and 70 privates. The officers detailed for this duty will be held strictly accountable for the acts of their men. They will be furnished with copies of all orders issued from these and superior headquarters in regard to foraging, discharge of firearms, &c., by their respective brigade commanders. The object of this order is to organize a system of foraging by which our men can be supplied with what they actually need without the destruction of private property or the unauthorized burning of houses, fences, &c. The numerous orders on this subject will be sufficient to guide officers in all cases.

II. The troops composing this division will march at 6 a. m. sharp to-morrow, the 12th instant, to Poplar Spring, in the following order, viz:

1. Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut commanding, with the battery and his own train, one regiment being thrown in rear of same.

2. Trains in same order as to-day, the 11th instant, with above exception.

3. First Brigade Infantry, Brig. Gen. E. W. Rice commanding, who will move his troops by the side of the supply and ordnance trains, instructing his regimental commanders to render every assistance to officers in charge of trains repairing roads as they may require, &c.

4. Second Brigade Infantry, Col. R. N. Adams commanding, who will carry out instructions in regard to stragglers.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Poplar Spring, February 11, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding wishes to know when you will be ready to use the pontoon bridge. It will be ordered up to the front to-night, and he would like to have you designate some point for it to park, so that it may be convenient to get at whenever it may be needed.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. E. STRONG,
Assistant Inspector-General and Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 38. } Near Orangeburg, S. C., February 11, 1865.

I. In order to provide against a scarcity of provisions and forage hereafter division commanders will cause their wagons, as fast as they become empty, to be filled with meal, flour, potatoes, and meat, and a small proportion of forage for animals.

The amount of subsistence left in each camp during this march, if saved, would have been sufficient to subsist the corps for a day. With proper care and attention the wagons can be kept continually full. One additional wagon will be given to the battery in each division for hauling forage and the rest filled as above ordered.

II. The following are the orders for to-morrow:

1. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will relieve the skirmishers of the Third Division at daylight, and at the same hour move forward his command to the nearest high ground to the bridge, placing one regiment in position as support to the battery. He will demonstrate strongly against the enemy, as though he intended to force a crossing.

2. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will move his command at an early hour to a point already designated below the bridge and endeavor to effect a crossing.

3. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will be prepared to move to the support of General Force at 7 a. m.

4. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry, Lieutenant-Colonel Hughes commanding, will move at daylight to Rowe's Bridge, and make a strong demonstration against the forces there, as if he intended to cross.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
North Fork Edisto, February 11, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that the bridge is burned. The pickets heard the rebels at work, but could see nothing, and their fire was ineffective, as the rebels appear to have worked under the bridge. The bridge burst into a sudden flame, as if combustibles had been previously prepared. When it was lighted, one of the party leaped upon the bridge, and was immediately shot. Besides this, at least three other rebels were killed to-day; one near the bridge on the advance and two in the swamp. At least one other was seriously wounded.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

M. F. FORCE,
Brigadier-General.

A captain and seventeen men, wading half a mile of swamp, felled a tree at a narrow place and crossed the river to dry land. I am inclined to think they crossed above Caw Caw.

WILLISTON, S. C., February 11, 1865—3 p. m.

Major-General DAVIS:

GENERAL: I have been sent to this place by General Kilpatrick to request of the officer in command of the infantry, which he supposed I would find at this point, to move up as far as Windsor Station to his support. He has been engaged to-day with a large portion of Wheeler's command. I find that that portion of the Twentieth Corps which was at this place left this morning, and yours is probably at present the nearest infantry which can be brought to General Kilpatrick's support, provided he needs it. A staff officer of General Slocum's requests me to say that he is here with orders for you. How soon do you think your column will reach this place?

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. H. DAY,

Captain and Provost-Marshal, Third Cavalry Division.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,

Duncan's Bridge, S. C., February 11, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Jeffcoat's Bridge, over the North Fork of the Edisto River, as follows: Second Division at 7 a. m., Third Division and cavalry train at 8 a. m., First Division at 9 a. m. In case the trains of the Third Division and cavalry should not cross the river to-night this order of march will be changed and these trains will march in rear of the trains of the First Division. The corps supply train will hereafter, without orders to the contrary, march immediately in rear of the trains of the leading division, and the artillery ammunition trains of the leading division and the artillery ammunition train immediately in rear of the train of the center division. To-morrow General Geary will march one unencumbered brigade as the advance, and General Jackson will detail three regiments as a rear guard. One section of artillery will accompany the rear guard. The balance of the artillery will march in rear of the advance brigade. General Geary will so dispose of his two brigades as to cover the artillery, his own train, and the corps supply train. General Jackson with his division will cover the balance of the train. As soon as possible the chief quartermaster of the corps will subdivide the cavalry train and assign one-third of it to each division, which portions, as long as that train remains with us, will form part of the trains of the respective divisions. The engineer troops with their trains will march immediately in rear of the artillery, starting at 7 a. m.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Stono Inlet, S. C., February 11, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK.

Chief of Staff, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I have to report that I assumed command of this department on the evening of the 9th instant. The only operations going on here are diversions ordered by Major-General Sherman, one from Pocotaligo toward Charleston, and the other now about starting from this point to land in Bull's Bay. Brigadier-General Hatch commands the former and Brigadier-General Potter the latter. General Hatch has less than 4,000 men, and the most I can scrape together for General Potter are 1,300. For raids and small expeditions along the coast I desire to arm a small brigade of about 2,000 men with Spencer rifles, or if the rifles cannot be procured, with Spencer carbines, and I request that the arms may be forwarded to me without delay. I will cause a requisition for them to be made by the ordnance officer as soon as I return to Hilton Head. I had a brigade thus armed in the Tenth Corps, and I never hesitated to set them against two to three times their number. If the entire 2,000 arms cannot be sent at once, a part will answer, even if the lot contains a mixture of rifles and carbines. I attach considerable importance to this matter in the present reduced state of this command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DIST. OF FLORIDA, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FOURTH SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Jacksonville, Fla., February 11, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER,
Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: I beg respectfully to lay before you the following particulars, viz: A few days ago a party under Lieutenant-Colonel Wilcoxson, Seventeenth Connecticut Volunteers, went out after cotton with ten 4-horse teams, and numbering in all 48 men, 4 officers, and 40 horses, all of which were captured, and 1 officer (Lieutenant Chatfield), killed. Since hearing of this report the brigadier-general commanding, on whose staff I have the honor to be serving, has been extremely ill, and I deem it proper to state the fact to you thus privately. Colonel Tilghman has been ordered to Saint Augustine and it leaves the troops at this place for the present under command of a captain. Should anything occur requiring prompt attention I do not believe the general would be capable for at least one week of attending to it. I hope you will pardon the manner of thus informing you of this, but the extreme urgency of the case and the responsible position which I hold here compel me so to do.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

THOMAS J. ROBINSON,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

FORT FISHER, N. C., February 11, 1865.
(Received 9.30 a. m., 16th.)

Bvt. Maj. Gen. M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General:

I am directed by Major-General Schofield to make requisitions for 400,000 rations of forage and 20,000 pairs of shoes for the use of General Sherman's army. These supplies will be shipped to Beaufort Harbor, where, according to the general's directions, the vessels will await orders. The vessels should be of eleven feet draft, so as to be able to enter Cape Fear River, if desired, and should be at Beaufort by the 25th of this month. These supplies will be in addition to those required by the troops of this department. I have written more particularly in a communication addressed to you, and which you will probably receive shortly after this is handed to you.

Respectfully, &c.,

GEO. S. DODGE,
Colonel and Chief Quartermaster.

NOTE.—The above dispatch was addressed to "Telegraph Operator," and instead of being delivered at Fort Monroe, was brought to the telegraph office, War Department.

Respectfully, &c.,

THOS. T. ECKERT,
Major and Assistant Superintendent U. S. Military Telegraph.

---

CHIEF QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE,
Fort Fisher, N. C., February 11, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of an order received from General Schofield,* in which he desires that 400,000 rations of forage and 20,000 pairs of shoes be forwarded to Beaufort Harbor, for the use of General Sherman's army. As the general suggests, these stores should be shipped only in such light-draft vessels as will be competent to enter the Cape Fear River or Beaufort Harbor, as may [be] deemed advisable. The bar at Beaufort will admit vessels drawing fourteen feet of water, while that at the mouth of the Cape Fear River will allow no vessel of heavier draft than eleven feet to come over it. It would be advisable, therefore, to limit the draft of the vessels in which the above-mentioned supplies will be sent to eleven feet, so as to prevent any detention at the bar of Cape Fear. In addition to such supplies of forage and shoes as General Schofield has directed, would it not be as well to send a vessel having an assorted cargo of whatever clothing, &c., may probably be needed in the army of General Sherman. Please cause these supplies to be forwarded in season to reach Beaufort by the 25th of the present month, and direct that they remain there, subject to the order of General Schofield or myself. I respectfully request that these articles be invoiced in blank for the present, until the arrival of the proper officer to receipt for them. I have this day telegraphed you, via Fortress Monroe, to the same effect as above, and forward this communication as explanatory of my action.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

G. S. DODGE,
Colonel and Chief Quartermaster.

---

SIGNAL STATION, February 11, 1865—8.05 p. m.
Major-General SCHOFIELD:

Colonel Dodge has gone to see you. If no troops are landed to-night in the steamers the mules can be landed by the steamer Howard.

LAMB,
Captain and Assistant Quartermaster.

---

* See 10th, p. 384.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
 No. 2. } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 11, 1865.

I. Lieut. Col. R. B. Treat, chief commissary of subsistence Twenty-third Army Corps, is hereby temporarily assigned to duty as acting chief commissary of subsistence of this department.

* * * * *

III. Lieut. Col. J. F. Boyd, chief quartermaster Twenty-third Army Corps, will proceed to Washington, D. C., for the purpose of organizing field transportation for the Twenty-third Army Corps and forwarding necessary quartermaster's supplies. Colonel Boyd will return to these headquarters as soon as he has completed the duty assigned him.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Federal Point, N. C., February 11, 1865.

Brig. Gen. I. N. PALMER, New Berne, N. C.:

GENERAL: I hope General Meagher's troops have reached you by this time, and that you will be able to advance very soon. I shall commence operations here immediately, without waiting for the arrival of the remainder of my troops. The object to be accomplished is to secure a new base and depot of supplies for General Sherman. This must be accomplished by the 5th, or if possible by the 1st, of March. He desires it at Goldsborough, or as near that point as possible. I shall endeavor to take Wilmington as soon as possible, and then advance rapidly toward Goldsborough, so as to secure possession of the railroad before the enemy can destroy it. I desire you at the same time to get possession of the railroad crossing of Neuse River, when we will operate in concert against Goldsborough, if it be deemed practicable to take that place before General Sherman arrives. Make your advance as soon as you can get ready, and if you succeed in getting possession of the river crossing intrench it strongly. In any event, intrench and hold the most advanced point you find practicable, and have the railroad repaired from New Berne to your advanced position as soon as possible. General Sherman's railroad construction corps, under Colonel Wright, was here on the steamer Baltic a short time before I arrived. I presume they have gone to Beaufort. I will send Colonel Wright instructions to confer with you, and commence his work as soon as you are ready for him. My chief quartermaster and commissary have been ordered to provide supplies for General Sherman's army, to be shipped to Beaufort Harbor, but to remain on board the vessels until we determine, by the result of operations, whether to use this harbor or Beaufort, or both. I sent you a brief dispatch containing the substance of this from Fort Monroe by the steamer Nereus. I have not yet heard from her, and fear some accident has befallen her. At the same time I also ordered a pontoon train to come to this place. If it has not already started, please send it at once. Please keep me advised of the state of affairs in your command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

[FEBRUARY 12, 1865]—1.50 p. m.

[Major DAYTON:]

Seventeenth Corps has just carried the crossing of North Edisto and I am waiting for the bridge to be repaired to go into Orangeburg. Notify Logan. Write to Slocum as soon as Davis communicates with Kilpatrick to move on Columbia. Let him secure at once the crossing of North Edisto.

SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

ORANGEBURG, February 12, 1865.

Major DAYTON:

I will stay at Howard's headquarters to-night and overtake you in the morning. Logan will move straight for Columbia. The Seventeenth Corps will break railroad to-morrow up as far as the State road and then turn toward Columbia. Keep behind Logan's leading division and I will overtake you.

SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

[FEBRUARY 12, 1865.]

[Major DAYTON:]

Follow leading division Fifteenth Corps. We are not certain as to the road—whether there is a road to the west of Caw Caw. I will see Howard in the morning and get to the head of the Fifteenth Corps.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

---

HILTON HEAD, February 12, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

HONORABLE SIR: I arrived inside the Federal lines Thursday, 9th instant, 7 p. m. I will write you the most important news I know. I left Milledgeville the 25th of November last on horseback. I came as far as Mayfield (on Ogeechee River, in the edge of Warren County), and there got on board the cars and came to Augusta. I arrived at that place the 28th of November. Augusta was in a great excitement at that time. They moved all the machinery and powder works over to South Carolina, and General Fry, in command of Augusta, stopped all the factories, and sent the men, with the rest of the home guards, down on Brier Creek, twenty miles from Augusta, to defend the city at that place, and if they were repulsed there, Augusta was to be evacuated and then surrendered. There were 3,000 men sent on Brier Creek at Ellison's Bridge, and all the rest of the forces were sent through South Carolina to Savannah, which was about 5,000. The powder works are one mile and a half up the river from Augusta. They wet all the powder at the powder works during the excitement. There is a breast-work for infantry thrown up a mile long out around the powder works, and at each end of it is a battery thrown up, and four guns on each battery. There is but one battery ranging across the river toward South Carolina: that is at the foot of the bridge, to protect it; it has four guns. There are four other batteries planted about one-fourth of a mile outside the city, extending from the factory out around the Waynesborough and Atlanta depot and other Government shops and beyond the cemetery. The cemetery is below the city, in the edge of the suburbs. All the batteries have four guns on them. The authorities said they would not let the city be burned, and for that reason they defend the city at Brier Creek and Branchville, and if repulsed, will surrender the city sooner than have it burned.

I remained in Augusta and out fifteen miles on the Waynesborough road, at first one place and then another, for two weeks. Then I came to Warren County and remained until the 1st of January, 1865. I went to Milledgeville and remained there three days. During that time I saw about 200 wagons or more, all going to Gordon to haul supplies to Mayfield to be sent by railroad to North Carolina and Virginia. They say if Branchville is taken the armies in that section of the country will suffer greatly for provisions. I saw about 1,000 or 1,200 infantry under General D. H. Hill and himself and staff pass through Milledgeville; they said they were going to West Georgia. On the 5th of January I came to Jefferson County, near the edge of Warren County; 20th of January I returned to Augusta in a country wagon with some neighbors. I crossed at Ellison's Bridge over Brier Creek. It is fortified on the north side. There is a long row of breast-works thrown up for infantry. About 100 yards from the swamp (the swamp is half a mile wide) I saw eight pieces of artillery standing beyond the infantry battery. There are about 1,000 or 1,200 soldiers there. General Thomas was in command at Ellison's Bridge when I crossed on 20th January. I returned to Jefferson County, and on the 30th January my son, twelve years old, and myself started out on foot for Savannah. Where I started from was six miles beyond Fenn's Bridge, in Jefferson County (which you burned on Sunday after you left Milledgeville), to Louisville, then to Waynesborough, then to Thomas' Bridge on Brier Creek. The next crossing below Ellison's is Thomas' Bridge. It is torn up. There is a fortification on the upper side only for cannon. They have nine guns mounted there and about 200 men. The pickets set me across the creek in a skiff. Then I took the lower Savannah and Augusta road and went to Mill Haven, eighteen miles. There is a pontoon bridge there. It is fortified with both artillery and infantry. There are about 1,200 or 1,500 soldiers here in all. They have an infantry breast-works thrown up on each side the road. The breast-works are very high, and beyond that I counted six pieces of artillery. The pickets told me they were looking for the Yankees hourly, and I had best put off going over home. After I crossed over I recrossed again and told them I was afraid to go any farther. Then I came ten miles up to Godfrey's Bridge. It is torn up also. There is a high breast-work for infantry, near one-fourth of a mile long, and just beyond that is the artillery. I saw nine pieces of artillery there. There are about 1,200 soldiers there. General Williams is in command. The pickets set me over in a skiff. I kept the lower road until I crossed Beaver Dam, a small creek. I took the Middle Ground road to Sylvania. At Sylvania there are 1,200 soldiers. General Iverson is in command. They are stationed there and sent out in squads of 25 or 100 to do picket duty. The last line of pickets is stationed on Copper Branch, ten miles from Whitesville and twenty miles from Sylvania. All his force is cavalry. All the soldiers in this part of the country are men from Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Alabama. They came to those points, they say, to prevent being cut off from their homes and supplies. General Ferguson is in command at Mill Haven. His men are cavalry, though the most of them are dismounted. When I was at Augusta last there were two gun-boats anchored just below the bridge. I heard it rumored that Hood's army was near Augusta and coming on. I did not see a man from Hood's army. I saw and read a letter myself from one of Hood's men to his wife, an acquaintance of mine. It was dated January 5, 1865, from Tupelo, Miss. He wrote that Hood's army was cut all to pieces. There was not a horse saved. They lost all their cannon, but saved the carriages which bore up the guns. He also said Hood had given up his command to Dick Taylor. He said he had a plenty of everything to eat, and their winter quarters was at Tupelo, Miss., and she should address him there. That is the last true account I have. The railroad between Macon and Mayfield is being rapidly repaired. When I came within a mile of Copper Branch, where the pickets were, I cut across to the Forty-four Mile Post on railroad and came to Savannah.

NORA WINDER AND HER SON.

GENERAL: I am very sorry I could [not] come to you sooner. The young man who was to hand me the money the day I left Milledgeville forgot to do so, and consequently I had to work my way a part of the time. Weaving pays well in the Confederacy, and I am a splendid weaver; so I stopped in Warren County and Jefferson County and wove for families, and by that means I paid my son's and my own way to Savannah, though we had to walk; though if we had been riding we would have been suspected by the pickets, and as we were walking we were never suspected to be going farther than five or seven miles. I came to you soon as I could under those circumstances, having to work my way back. I would like to go to New Orleans as soon as possible. I cannot go until the commander of the post at this place hears from you. I have no means to go on. I have my only child with me. He is in his twelfth year. I want him to go to New Orleans with me.

Your obedient,

NORA WINDER.

N. B.—Wheeler's cavalry is in South Carolina, following after you as they did in Georgia.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 37.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Orangeburg, S. C., February 12, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The next movement of this command will be as follows: The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will march toward Sandy Run Post-office, making sufficient distance so as to reach that point on the 14th instant. He will take roads on either side, or both if practicable, of Caw Caw Swamp. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair, will break the railroad as far north as the State road and send his mounted infantry to burn trestle-work and culverts beyond and endeavor to force the enemy to burn the railroad bridge over the Congaree River. On reaching the State road he will turn to the left and march toward Sandy Run Post-Office, endeavoring to be within four or five miles of that point on the evening of the 14th instant. The bridge train will continue as at present. That part of it with the Fifteenth Army Corps will follow one of the divisions of that corps; that part of it with the Seventeenth Army Corps will follow one of the divisions of that corps. Department headquarters will move with the Fifteenth Army Corps, leaving here at 9 a. m. to-morrow.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 12, 1865—10.30 a. m.

General HOWARD:

I am trying to cross Hazen at Shilling's, demonstrating at a point one mile and a half above and the same distance below. The enemy seem to be strong enough to make strong resistance. We are making rafts under fire.

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 12, 1865—11 a. m.

Major-General HOWARD:

GENERAL: We have one regiment across the river one mile and a half below Shilling's Bridge, and I am crossing other troops at that point.

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Orangeburg, S. C., February 12, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I wish to move your corps to the point marked Sandy Run Post-Office (on some maps, Sandy Run Meeting House) by a two days' march. The direct road on the eastern bank of Caw Caw Swamp from Orangeburg is open to you, and I think you can find another road between Caw Caw Swamp and Livingstone Creek, running into the other. You can use both roads if you wish. General Blair will break the railroad as far as the State road, and turning to the left will proceed to Sandy Run Post-Office. Send one division at least by the most direct route you can find to the road above mentioned on the east side of Caw Caw Swamp. I wish to follow that division with my headquarters. I will send an officer to you to consult with you in order that my headquarters may start at the right time. I will issue a field order this evening, but do not wait for it. Base your order of march on this letter.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Shilling's Bridge, S. C., February 12, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that this division left camp at 7 o'clock this morning, expecting to follow Brig. Gen. John E. Smith's command, but taking a different and out-of-the-way road it went into camp about 1 o'clock this p. m., within three-quarters of a mile of Shilling's Bridge over the North Edisto, on the road leading to that crossing. My command is camped on the right of the road looking toward the river, with one brigade back on the Orangeburg. My headquarters are near the road.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Orangeburg, S. C., February 12, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that my division broke camp at 7 a. m. to-day and marched four miles to the South Edisto River, where two regiments were deployed as skirmishers and pushed down to the river bank, and one sent above and one below that point to find crossings. An enemy was found at the point first approached, which proved to be a small brigade. Trees were felled in the river and a crossing effected, when four regiments were pushed over under command of Col. Wells Jones, Fifty-third Ohio, commanding Second Brigade, and moving upon the right flank of the enemy drove them from their works, capturing fifty-three officers and men. Several others were cut off from their commands and picked up by other commands. Both of the other regiments succeeded perfectly in effecting crossings. The division was pushed over and moved to a point near the Orangeburg and Columbia road, about five miles from the latter place, where it camped for the night. My headquarters are with the troops. My losses to-day were 1 killed and 3 wounded.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Keitt's Plantation, S. C., February 12, 1865—11.45 p. m.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: In compliance with Special Orders, No. 41, headquarters Fifteenth Army Corps. I have the honor to report that this division broke camp at Poplar Spring at 8.30 o'clock this a. m., and marched, crossing North Fork Edisto River at Shilling's Bridge, to this point. The command is encamped in line, the First Brigade, battery, and trains on the right and the Second Brigade on the left of the Orangeburg road, fronting northeast.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, North Bank Edisto River, S. C., February 12, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to make the following report of the movements of my command during the 12th instant. Pursuant to orders from the major-general commanding, I moved my division at 7 a. m., following the First Division of this corps for a distance of seven miles, when I met Captain Klostermann, chief engineer Fifteenth Army Corps, who had instructions from the commanding general to direct my column upon a road to the left. I followed this road for about five miles and bivouacked, with troops well in hand, on the left of the road one mile and a half from North Branch Edisto River, on the left of the First Division of this corps, and in support of Major-General Hazen's command, at this time skirmishing with the enemy on opposite bank of the river, remaining in this position during the day. My command has made a quick march of twelve miles, besides placing considerable corduroy, which, however, did not retard the march of the troops, and made camp at 12 m.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,
Breret Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
 No. 39. }

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Orangeburg, S. C., February 12, 1865.

The following are the orders for to-morrow:

1. Bvt. Maj. Gen. Giles A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will move his command forward at 7 a. m. on the road running along the railroad to a point seven miles and a half from Orangeburg, where he will begin the destruction of the railroad and continue it until he strikes the State road.

2. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will follow the Fourth Division until he reaches a point three miles and a half from Orangeburg, from whence he will destroy the railroad to where General Smith commences. After completing the work assigned he will move forward and encamp near the junction of the State road and the railroad.

3. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will commence the destruction of the road in the town and destroy up to the point where General Mower commences, burning the depot and railroad buildings, if not already done. He will leave the regiment now doing provost duty in the town until everything has moved out, with instructions to arrest all stragglers and hold them for punishment. After completing his work he will move forward and encamp with the command.

4. The bridge train will move next after the First Division.

5. The destruction of the road will be as complete as possible.

6. Each division commander will move his train forward to the designated camp with a guard of two regiments.

7. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move across the river at daylight and will protect the right flank of the line of march.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
Shilling's Bridge, February 12, 1865.

Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding :

GENERAL: I am just in receipt of a dispatch from General Sherman, who is at the crossing of Orangeburg, and says the Seventeenth Corps has effected a lodgment, and he is waiting for the bridge to be laid in order to go into Orangeburg. He also directs that as soon as General Davis communicates with Kilpatrick you will move on Columbia. He wants you to secure a crossing of North Edisto at once. The Fifteenth Corps has a crossing at this place now.

I am, &c.,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORANGEBURG, February 12, 1865—4.30 p. m.

General SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing :

GENERAL: Move on Columbia with your two corps. Keep to the left of the Sand Hills. Howard will reach railroad to-morrow toward Columbia, and follow. I will attend the Fifteenth Corps west of Caw Caw Swamp. No road is laid down, but there must be one. We will all be across Edisto to-night. Try and communicate with me the day after to-morrow. Get your left flank on Saluda about the factory.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 8.	HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS, Weatherston's Plantation, S. C.,  February 12, 1865—5 a. m.
--------------------------------------	---

General Baird will at once move his division by the most direct road to Johnson's Station (leaving the pontoniers now with him at this point), and will then commence and proceed east, tearing up the railroad.

General Kilpatrick (unless otherwise ordered) will support and cover General Baird while engaged in this work.

General Carlin will move immediately upon the railroad at a point about six or seven miles west of Williston, and will destroy the road to that place.

General Morgan will conduct his division, with the trains of the corps, direct through Williston, and push on toward Guignard's Bridge.

The detachment First Michigan Engineers, now on the railroad, will report to Generals Carlin and Baird, and assist them in the destruction of the railroad.

The greatest possible dispatch will be used in the execution of these movements, as it is important that the commands press on immediately.

Corps headquarters will be along the railroad during the day, and to-night at Williston.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Williston, S. C., February 12, 1865.

Brig. Gen. J. D. MORGAN,

Commanding Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that you push on at an early hour in the morning and park all your trains in a good and secure position on the other side of the South Fork of the Edisto and there await orders. General Davis, with General Carlin's division, will reach you during the morning. Your attention is called to the necessity of closely guarding the dam above the bridge, which you are probably already doing.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. McCLURG,

Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
February 12, 1865.

Major-General SLOCUM:

GENERAL: The bridge is finished and the Second Division is moving forward. The enemy have withdrawn. We will commence crossing the trains as soon as Geary has pushed out far enough.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Pocotaligo, S. C., February 12, 1865—1.30 p. m.

Major-General GILLMORE,

Commanding Department :

The enemy, fearing a flank attack, evacuated the works at Combahee Ferry last night. They were occupied by Colonel Marple at 8 a. m. My advance had reached Combahee Creek, where the enemy are preparing to make a stout resistance. I did not intend going farther, as I was compelled to guard both flanks, and my command is so small that it was very dangerous should an enemy appear in force. I made day before yesterday and yesterday a demonstration toward crossing Cuckold Creek at two different points. The route from Combahee is only two miles farther than Ashepoo than from Cuckold Creek. By night I will have finished the complete destruction of the railroad and trestles for six miles. I shall fall back part of the way to-night, re-enforce Combahee Ferry, and make my next advance from there. The work at Salkehatchie bridge I am having changed to a tête-de-pont, and will hold it. I should have more troops to make this demonstration effective.

JNO. P. HATCH,

Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 12, 1865.

Lieutenant-Colonel BENNETT,
Commanding Post, Morris Island, S. C.:

COLONEL: You will fire ten shots at the city during this afternoon and twenty during the night. You will give orders that all of the enemy's steamers in Charleston Harbor which can be reached by our artillery, or which may appear at the Mount Pleasant Wharf, shall be fired upon. The latter place and Mount Pleasant itself will be carefully watched.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 12, 1865.

Rear-Admiral D. D. PORTER,
Commanding North Atlantic Squadron:

ADMIRAL: If the wind continues favorable I intend to turn the enemy's position to-night by crossing Masonborough Sound, about two miles below the inlet. I propose to send a brigade of troops outside, in small steamers, with my pontoon boats and such small boats as you can furnish me. Let them land and haul the boats over the beach into the sound and thus cross to the mainland. The main portion of the troops will march up the beach to the point of crossing. I would like about thirty boats from the navy with strong crews, also the steam tug Wilderness, with the pilot who went with General Comstock yesterday. It is also important to have a strong naval force outside to cover the landing. I would like to have the boats report to General Comstock at the wharf at 4 o'clock this p. m. The men should be provided with two or three days' rations.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
No. 3. } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 12, 1865.

I. The following movement will be made with a view to turn the enemy's position east of Cape Fear River, and open the way to Wilmington:

One brigade of General Ames' division of General Terry's corps will embark on light-draft steamers at the Federal Point Wharf, and move outside to a point on the beach about two miles south of Masonborough Inlet, where the troops will land. The remainder of General Ames' division, and General Cox's division of the Twenty-third Corps, will march along the sea-beach to the point of landing.

The pontoons, thirty in number, and about the same number of navy boats, will be towed by the steamers to the point of landing, when they will be landed and hauled across the beach into Masonborough Sound. This being accomplished, the troops will cross in the small boats to the mainland.

The portion of the expedition which moves by sea is placed under the immediate command of Brigadier-General Comstock, whose orders will be strictly obeyed by all. The commanding general will accompany the main body of the troops, and will give orders for movements against the enemy after a landing is effected.

The boats will all be at the wharf at 4 o'clock this p. m. and report to General Comstock for orders. The troops to move by boat will report at the wharf at dark. The main body of the troops will march as soon as it is dark enough to conceal their movements from the enemy.

The utmost silence must be preserved by the troops during the movement, and on no account will fires be made or lights exhibited, either in the boats or ashore, by which the enemy might detect the movement. No straggling must be permitted.

The men will be supplied with three days' rations, and as much ammunition as they can carry on their persons. The officers should also carry with them three days' rations.

General Terry with the portion of his troops not included in this expedition will press the enemy closely, commencing at daylight in the morning, and will follow him vigorously if he gives way, or attack him if he weakens his line so much as to justify it.

The troops will carry with them a good supply of intrenching tools.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

MEMORANDUM.]

FORT FISHER, February 12, 1865.

First. It is proposed to-night to send Daggett's brigade and Slosson's engineers, thirty pontoons, and some navy boats, to a point three miles south of Masonborough Inlet, called Big Hill; land them, haul the boats across to Myrtle Sound by hand; launch them and ferry across a column of troops which will move along beach to the same point. The gun-boat Wilderness will lead. The engineer troops must be afloat by dusk and follow her; the other troops to get afloat as soon as possible after dusk and follow, without other orders, the Wilderness to the point mentioned. Each steamer will tow some pontoons. The commanding officer will watch the pontoons carefully to see they are not injured. Will allow no lights on steamers, and no noise or lights whatever after landing. On arriving at Big Hill the navy boats, if on hand, will disembark the troops at once, the engineers going in the pontoons; if not, the pontoons will be used for all the troops.

Second. The troops will be formed on the shore, excepting engineers, as fast as they land. If pontoons are not needed for disembarking, as soon as some companies are formed the pontoons will be moved back from the beach firmly on to the marsh grass, the landing being made near a hole through the sand-hill. It is expected everybody will get wet.

Third. Before starting across marsh a line of guides must be placed; then move pontoons, hauling them by ropes half way across marsh. Number of men to a boat to be found by trial.

Fourth. Move pontoons to edge of sand and launch them, building wharf, if needed, of pontoon boats.

Fifth. Send first detachment across, manning pontoons with engineer soldiers, who will return at once for another load. Soldiers must, if banks are shoal, wade to get into and out of boats, and there must be no delay. An engineer officer must see to this on each shore. If hauling lines would save time, put two across—one for boats going, the other returning.

C. B. COMSTOCK,

Lieutenant-Colonel, Aide-de-Camp, and Brevet Brigadier-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 13, 1865—11.30 p. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,

Secretary of War:

Richmond Whig of to-day contains the following:

CHARLESTON, February 10.

A force of the enemy, believed to be from 2,000 to 3,000 strong, landed at Grimball's, James Island, at 8 o'clock this morning, and drove in our pickets. Some skirmishing took place, but no general engagement. Grimball's is on the Stono River, about two miles southwest of Charleston, the Ashley River, 2,000 yards wide, intervening. The enemy are making active demonstrations at various points, but they are believed to be feints. A force attacked our troops on the Salkehatchie this morning, but were easily repulsed. They also advanced upon the Charleston road near the Blue House, and opened with artillery, but made no impression on our lines. Intelligence from the road to-day reports that the enemy crossed the Edisto at Binnaker's Bridge. The enemy are moving on Edisto.

THE LATEST FROM THE SOUTH.—SHERMAN'S MOVEMENT.

It will be remembered that on Friday, the 4th instant, Sherman crossed the Salkehatchie, between Blackstone and Rivers' Bridge, thereby completely outflanking our forces and compelling them to fall back to Branchville. We have since learned that the Yankees forded the river through water waist-deep at Rivers' Bridge. A sharp engagement took place, which lasted several hours, in which General Wheeler's cavalry inflicted severe injury upon the enemy. On the 8th a heavy column of his infantry struck the South Carolina Railroad at Grahamville, about eighteen miles west of Branchville, while Kilpatrick, with a cavalry force, occupied Blackville, on the same road, about nine miles a little northwest of Grahamville. Then a portion of Sherman's column, it was rumored yesterday, moved forward, crossing the South Edisto and flanking Branchville on the west, and advanced to Orangeburg, on the Columbia and Branchville road, sixteen miles north of the latter point. Orangeburg is a beautiful village of about 1,000 inhabitants, and has been a favorite retreat of refugees from Charleston. It was largely engaged in the manufacture of indigo before the war.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Big Crotchpen Creek, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN:

GENERAL: General Blair has destroyed the railroad to where the State road crosses the same, and also the trestle-work a little farther. He encamps at that intersection to-night. He reports that the enemy have not destroyed forage, cotton, &c., on his road. I have directed him to let one division work on the railroad till 12 m. to-morrow, and then follow the other two divisions, which will start in the morning with the train.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Crotchpen Swamp Creek, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN, Comdg. Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I arrived here 1.15 p. m. The column is not far behind. My headquarters will be near a church about twelve miles from Orangeburg and thirteen miles from Sandy Run Post-Office, I think, near Big Crotch Swamp, as marked on the map. Captain Reese will reconnoiter and try to strike your column. The enemy is burning forage, cotton, &c., in our front. If he leaves any cotton don't fail to burn it. I will meet you to-morrow morning at Sandy Run Post-Office, but should you arrive first, please push a division across Sandy Creek so as to give us possession of the mills if the rebels have not destroyed them. I received your report of operations this morning, and congratulate you heartily on your success.*

Yours, respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Rucker's Plantation, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that I left camp near Shilling's Bridge at 10 o'clock this a. m. (I crossed to the side of the North Edisto during the night), and following General Corse on the road toward Sandy Run Post-Office until within about one mile and a half from my present camp, I took a road leading me to Rucker's plantation, where I am in camp, about one mile to the left of the main road, facing northwest. My headquarters are near the house of Mrs. Rucker.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Big Crotchpen Creek, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL, Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that this division broke camp at 10 a. m. to-day and arrived at this point at 4 p. m. My headquarters are on the main Columbia road, half a mile south of Big Crotchpen Creek. In the affair of yesterday 2 men were killed and 4 wounded. Our captures were 57, comprising several officers.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

*See extract, Part I, p. 225.

HQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Big Crotchpen Branch, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this division broke camp at Keitt's plantation, near North Edisto River, at 6.30 this a. m. and marched, crossing Caw Caw Swamp on the Orangeburg to Orangeburg and Sandy Run Post Office road, thence north to this point, encamping at about 4 p. m. in line of battle, the First Brigade on east side of road, fronting north, and the Second Brigade on the west side, fronting north-west. These headquarters are established upon the west side of the road immediately in rear of Second Brigade; distance marched, seventeen miles.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HQRS. FOURTH DIV., FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Little Beaver Creek, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to make the following report in regard to the movements of this division to-day, the 13th instant:

Pursuant to orders from the major-general commanding, I broke camp at 5 a. m., crossing North Branch Edisto River, and passing the First Division of the Fifteenth Corps in bivouac; made a short halt to close my column and admit headquarters teams of the Military Division of the Mississippi and corps. From this point I moved forward upon good roads to Little Beaver Creek, a distance of seventeen miles from my point of departure, and where my troops are now in bivouac in a defensible position and strongly picketed.

JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 16.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 13, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The troops composing this division will march at 5 o'clock this a. m. on the direct road to Sandy Run Post-Office in the following order:

1. First Brigade Infantry, General Rice commanding, with its train and Battery H, one regiment thrown in rear of the same.

2. Second Brigade Infantry, Colonel Adams commanding, with his regiments marching by the side of train, extending them so as to best guard the same.

3. Trains in the following order: First, ambulances; second, five wagons of ordnance train; third, supply train; fourth, ordnance train; fifth, brigade trains.

4. Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut commanding, with three regiments in rear of the column and one regiment by the side of the supply train.

The pioneer corps will move invariably in advance of the infantry. Commanding officers of troops and officers in charge of trains will exert themselves to keep the column close and compact during the march.

* * * * *

IV. The troops composing this division will march at 7 a. m. to-morrow, the 14th instant, on the direct Orangeburg and Columbia road, in the following order:

1. Second Brigade Infantry, Colonel Adams commanding, with its train and Battery H, one regiment thrown in rear of the same.

2. Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut commanding, with his regiments marching by the side of train, extending them so as to best guard the same.

3. Trains in the following order: First, ambulances; second, five wagons of ordnance train; third, supply train; fourth, ordnance train; fifth, brigade trains.

4. First Brigade Infantry, Brigadier-General Rice commanding, with three regiments thrown in rear of the column, and one regiment by the side of the supply train.

The pioneer corps will move out in advance a few moments before the hour designated.

* * * * *

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Whaley's, February 13, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: My command is encamped two miles northwest of the intersection of the State road and railroad. The road has been completely destroyed up to the State road. The rebels are not burning forage or cotton on our line. We destroy all the latter.

Respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Big Crotchpen Creek, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: General Sherman desires that more work be done on the railroad. The general commanding desires you to continue the destruction of the railroad up to noon to-morrow, and for that purpose you detach one division, allowing it to work up to noon to-morrow, and allowing its transportation to move forward with the other two divisions.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 40. } Whaley's Plantation, S. C., February 13, 1865.

The following are the orders for to-morrow:

1. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will move forward his command at 7 a. m. on the Sandy Run Post-Office road.

2. The train of the Third Division, with a guard of one regiment, will follow the train of the First Division.

3. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will follow the train of the Third Division, being prepared to move at 9 o'clock.

4. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will commence work on the railroad at 7 a. m. to-morrow at the point where the Fourth Division left off to-day, and will destroy until 12 m., at which hour he will move by the most practicable route to Big Beaver Creek, on the State road, where the command will encamp to-morrow night. He will effectually burn all trestle-work and culverts that may be on the portion of the road destroyed.

5. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will proceed up the railroad to a point four miles from this place, where they will commence to burn all culverts and trestle-work they may strike up to the Congaree, and upon reaching the river they will demonstrate strongly against the bridge, so as to force the enemy to burn it, or, if practicable, burn it themselves. Having accomplished this, they will proceed by the river road to camp on Big Beaver Creek.

6. The bridge train will follow the train of the Fourth Division.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

NORTH EDISTO, February 13, 1865—7 a. m.

Major-General SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

We secured the bridge last night and have already rebuilt it. We lost fifteen men, killed and wounded. Shall move forward to-day about ten miles. Davis is not up. I shall send a party to build the bridge over North Fork for him. Kilpatrick is at Johnson's, the first station east of Aiken. He had skirmish on Saturday, in which he lost fifty men. I shall communicate with you to-morrow.

Yours, very respectfully,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

SPECIAL }
 FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 9. } Guignard's Bridge, S. C.,
February 13, 1865.

General Morgan will move to-morrow at 6 a. m. from his present position by the direct road to Horsey's Bridge, over the North Fork of the Edisto.

General Carlin will march at 6 a. m., and will follow General Morgan.

General Baird will take charge of all the trains now at this point, and will follow the column, marching at 6 a. m.

The cavalry will cross South Fork of Edisto in rear of General Baird.

The pontoniers and First Michigan Engineers will be reported by their commanding officer to General Morgan, and will march under his direction until further orders.

Corps headquarters will move in rear of General Morgan.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Guignard's Bridge, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Brig. Gen. W. P. CARLIN,
Commanding First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps:

The general commanding directs that you at once order a brigade of your division to relieve the brigade of General Mitchell (Morgan's division), which is now guarding the trains of the corps at this point. This brigade will remain in charge of the trains until it is relieved by further orders, which will probably be to-night or to-morrow morning. A company will at once relieve the company of General Mitchell's brigade now guarding the mill and dam. Very close watch will be kept upon the latter, as its destruction involves the entire destruction of the crossing of the Edisto. You will cross the remainder of your command in rear of General Mitchell.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
No. 4. } Near Jones' Cross-Roads, February 13, 1865.

Hereafter foraging parties sent out must not consist of less than fifty men, under command of a commissioned officer (without especial permission from these headquarters), who will at all times keep his men well in hand, and will under no pretense allow them to enter houses for purpose of plunder. Within the last few days several men have been captured by straggling from parties sent out for the purpose of foraging. Division and brigade commanders will make it their especial attention to see that this order is promulgated through quartermasters, commissaries, surgeons, ordnance, and all other officers, to all men under their command.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
No. 5. } Near Jones' Cross-Roads, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Hereafter cattle herds, in crossing swamps, rivers, &c., where it is impossible for them to be marched on the flanks of the column, will be driven in rear of their respective brigades, and where division herds are formed, in rear of the division. Captain Bickford will cause his herd to be driven in the rear of the corps supply train.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
Near Jones' Cross-Roads, S. C., February 13, 1865.

This command will move to-morrow toward Lexington, as follows: First Division at 7 a. m., Second Division at 8 a. m., Third Division at 9 a. m. General Jackson will march his entire command, unencumbered, in advance. General Geary will dispose of his troops so as to cover and effectually protect the trains of his own and General Jackson's division. The batteries will march in the same order as to-day. General Ward will march three regiments in rear of the train, as a rear guard. Division commanders will promulgate this order to their division quartermasters, and will see that the trains march in their proper places. The following is the assignment of the cavalry train: Second Brigade and ambulance train with the train of the First Division; First and Third Brigades with the Second Division; cavalry supply train with the Third Division. The train of the Michigan Engineers will march at the head of the train of the leading division.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
February 13, 1865. (Received 4.30 p. m. 17th.)

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,

Commanding Armies of the United States, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: The inclosed dispatch* contains the latest information from General Sherman's army. His instructions in regard to Bull's Bay are now being carried out. General Hatch is north of the Combahee River, and will push forward. I shall visit him to-morrow and remain with him some days, if necessary.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,

Commanding Armies of the United States, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to report that I assumed command of this department on the evening of the 9th instant. I started the same night to set on foot a demonstration which General Sherman had ordered to be made on the 8th at Bull's Bay, S. C., but which General Foster delayed because General Sherman's advance had been somewhat retarded by bad roads. Before the troops were ready to embark from Folly Island, where they had been rendezvoused, I ascertained that my presence was required at Hilton Head, and therefore left Brigadier-General Potter to take charge of the demonstration, in co-operation with a suitable force from the navy. I have since learned that the landing would probably be effected yesterday. General Potter's orders were to seize the principal roads leading to the interior, throw up works, and give the affair the appearance of a permanent lodgment, for the purpose of co-operating with General Sherman. General Potter has but 1,300 men, and I can spare him no more. General Hatch, with 3,500 men, is north of the Combahee River. He has destroyed several miles of the railroad north of Pocotaligo, including some important trestle bridges. I will at once push him forward, as General Sherman directs, toward the Edisto River, if it be a possible thing to do so. I shall visit him to-morrow. A package of dispatches from your headquarters for General Sherman was turned over to me by General Foster to be forwarded. They are now in General Hatch's possession, who has directions to send them, if it can be done with safety; otherwise their contents will be communicated verbally to two or three trusty scouts, who will try and find their way to General Sherman's headquarters. General Hatch may not be able to spare a suitable escort for such a purpose.

---

* See Sherman to Foster, February 7, p. 338.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Chief of Staff Armies of the United States, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: A dispatch* in cipher and in triplicate has been received from General Sherman's headquarters, which no one here familiar with such matters has been able to translate. I have therefore directed a steamer, which is now ready to start north, to touch at Fortress Monroe, and have the dispatch telegraphed to Lieutenant-General Grant. Admiral Dahlgren has what purports to be a key to the cipher, left with him by General Sherman, but something appears to be wanting on it, for it has not been of any use to us. I am informed that the admiral also has a cipher dispatch from General Sherman which he has not been able to translate. I respectfully request that I may be furnished with a key to the cipher used by General Sherman, with full explanations for its use.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

P. S.—Since writing the above the dispatch has been deciphered and an original copy sent to General Grant and yourself by telegraph.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Chief of Staff Armies of the United States:

GENERAL: There are in my custody 495 rebel officers, prisoners of war. They were sent to this department in August, 1864, by your order, to be placed under fire, in retaliation for the Union officers held by the rebels under fire at Charleston, S. C. On October 13, 1864, Lieutenant-General Hardee, commanding at Charleston, notified General Foster that our officers had been removed from Charleston, and the rebel prisoners were accordingly removed from Morris Island, where they had been placed to carry out the above order; 313 men are now confined at Fort Pulaski, Ga., and 182 in the barracks of the provost-guard house at Hilton Head. I respectfully ask permission to return these prisoners to a military prison at the North, upon the following grounds: With the small number of troops in this department available at present for garrison and guard duty, the only places where I can keep them without danger of escaping are Fort Pulaski and the provost barracks here. Fort Pulaski is needed for use as a military prison by General Grover, commanding the District of Savannah, and for the detention of spies and doubtful characters, who are being sent back by General Sherman. The barracks here are overcrowded with stragglers, convalescents, and recruits, continually arriving at this point in large numbers en route for General Sherman's army. The presence of these prisoners subjects our own soldiers of the above classes to great inconvenience and apparent neglect. These barracks are also the receptacle of numerous refugees and rebel deserters, who are arriving from General Sherman's rear in considerable numbers. Besides, the retaliatory object for which they were originally sent here having been accomplished, by compelling the rebels to withdraw our prisoners from under our fire at Charleston, I would suggest that these men can be kept by the Government at less expense and with fewer guards at one of the regularly organized prison camps at the North.

* See Sherman to Foster, February 7, p. 338.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

FLAG-SHIP HARVEST MOON,
Port Royal, February 13, 1865.

Major-General GILLMORE,
Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: I received by your aide a dispatch in cipher from General Sherman,* and I send you by my fleet captain the key to the cipher sent me by General Sherman. As it was given under injunction of strict confidence, I have to request that you will not permit any but yourself to see it; that no copy of it will be taken, and that it will be returned to me by Fleet Captain Bradford.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. DAHLGREN,
Rear-Admiral.

---

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Morris Island, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Captain JOHNSON, U. S. Navy,
Commanding U. S. Naval Forces, Stono Inlet:

CAPTAIN: Allow me to convey to you my sincere thanks for your hearty and very effective co-operation in the late demonstration on James Island. From the intercepted dispatches and the testimony of prisoners it is evident that the object in view was fully attained, viz, to prevent the enemy from sending troops away from the defenses of Charleston to re-enforce those engaged against General Sherman. It would appear that the enemy would not have dared to withdraw troops from my front even without this demonstration. My further object was to make the enemy withdraw troops from his right and left wings, that is, from Adams' Run and Andersonville and Mount Pleasant, so as to facilitate the operations of General Hatch and General Potter. What forces, if any, the enemy has withdrawn from Adams' Run I do not yet know. General Hardee is, however, now personally commanding in Charleston. As to the left wing of the enemy, we have fully succeeded by this demonstration on James Island and in the harbor in causing him to withdraw the troops from Andersonville, Mount Pleasant, and to a great extent from Sullivan's Island, and General Potter will probably have met with little or no resistance yesterday. It is my intention to keep up these demonstrations and keep the enemy in and around Charleston as uneasy as possible. I therefore beg you to advance again to-morrow morning (Tuesday, February 14), in about the same manner as on February 10, and support my infantry, a small force of which will again cross over to James Island. I have sent a copy of this letter to Captain Scott, commanding naval forces off Charleston. Colonel Kozlay will call on you and make all necessary arrangements with you.

---

* See 7th, p. 338.

I have the honor to be, respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,

Brigadier-General, Commanding District.

GENERAL ORDERS, }

No. 3.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,

Morris Island, S. C., February 13, 1865.

I hereby tender my thanks to the commanders of posts and to the officers and enlisted men of this command for the hearty and efficient manner in which orders have been executed by them during the past week on James Island, as well as in Charleston Harbor. The cheerful performance of their duty on the part of the men is so much the more deserving of high credit, as they were worn out by months of hard fatigue and outpost duty. The brilliant conduct of the skirmishers of the Fifty-fourth New York Volunteers, under the skillful command of Capt. Gustav Blau, of that regiment, elicits my especial admiration. Soldiers, we have yet a few days of hard work before us. Keep up, therefore, your good will and cheerful spirits, as you have done, and your exertions will soon find their reward.

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,

Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,

Morris Island, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Col. E. A. KOZLAY,

Commanding Post, Folly Island, S. C.:

COLONEL: The enemy has ordered artillery and infantry back to Mount Pleasant and Christ Church against General Potter. We must try to keep as many of them in our front as possible, and you will therefore again demonstrate on or against James Island. If the navy supports you, you will cross over to-morrow, February 14, in the forenoon from the left of Cole's Island to Battery and James Islands after the artillery has cleared the ground. You will cross over with infantry only, and not advance your skirmishers farther than the line of rifle-pits extending from the bridge on the right of Cole's Island in a northerly direction. Your patrols may advance farther. Your line will remain in the rifle-pits in the rear and to the west of the line of rifle-pits before mentioned. You will make a show of your force. You will retire from James Island before dark, from Battery Island after dark. You will have men work on the bridge on the right of Cole's Island for at least four hours, but lay it only half way and take the planks back again after dark. Should the navy not be able to co-operate with you, you will cross over to Battery Island in the afternoon and send a small party only over to James Island, and retire after dark. The battery on Long Island and the right of Cole's Island and the mortar schooner will open fire after sunrise to-morrow. The detachment of the Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops and such other troops as can be spared should march at once noisily to the right of Cole's Island so that they can be seen and heard; march back to the left silently after dark and again noisily to the right. The same orders you will give to the Fifty-sixth New York Volunteers when they arrive. This regiment will need a guide. All this will make the enemy believe that a large force is gathering on our outpost line. The men may light fires and cook on James Island as well as on Cole's Island. If you meet with resistance you may retire. Have mock guns placed in the battery on the left of Cole's Island until the guns for that battery arrive.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

EDW. W. SCHAUFFLER,
Lieutenant and Acting Aide-de-Camp.

---

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Morris Island, S. C., February 13, 1865.

Lieut. Col. A. G. BENNETT,
Commanding Post, Morris Island, S. C.:

COLONEL: You will order at once without delay all the available officers and men of the Fifty sixth New York Volunteers to report forthwith to Colonel Kozlay, at Stono Landing. They will be provided with three days' rations, &c., in accordance with former orders on this subject. The detailed men in the quartermaster's and commissary departments will remain.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
New Berne, February 13, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Savannah, Ga.:

GENERAL: Your letter of January 21* I received a few days after it was written, and you may rest assured that I shall not neglect any of the instructions therein contained. General Grant, accompanied by

---

* See p. 111.

General Schofield, was at Morehead City two weeks since, and from him I learned that a force of 6,000 men was to come here. I understood that it was to be one division of Schofield's corps. This arrangement must have been changed, however, for the Provisional Division of the Army of the Tennessee, under the command of General T. F. Meagher, has just arrived. This consists of about 5,000 men, composed of squads or detachments from nearly every regiment of your army, and no complete organization of any kind. There are with this some fifty officers only, and after taking out the commanding officers of the brigades with the staff officers there is scarcely one officer to each 200 men, and the whole command is but a mob of men in uniform. However, general, I shall try to put this force in a shape that will be useful. In the first place, I have determined to take all of the recruits, substitutes, and drafted men of the command and place them in the old organizations now serving here. These compose nearly one-half of the entire force. The remainder will then be in better shape to handle, and I shall try to find some more officers to attach temporarily to the division. At any rate, general, we will do the best with the force we have, and I have no complaints to make. I thought it proper to inform you, however, of the condition of affairs. The railroad construction corps has arrived, and I fancy that their mission is no secret. It is pretty well understood among the people of these parts that your army will march northward through this State. I neglected to state that no wagons or transportation of any kind arrived with General Meagher's command. The Quartermaster-General informs me that in answer to my request he has ordered 100 wagons to be sent here. He says he presumes that General Schofield sent transportation with the troops lately arrived. This is not the case, and if it becomes necessary to move very soon we would be badly off, but we will do the best we can.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 14, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

The Richmond Dispatch to-day has the following:

SHERMAN'S MOVEMENTS.—THE SITUATION IN SOUTH CAROLINA.—OFFICIAL DISPATCH FROM GENERAL HARDEE.

The military operations now going on in South Carolina are of the first importance to our cause, and naturally engross the attention of our people, to the exclusion of movements reported to be taking place elsewhere. Sherman has run through Georgia without meeting with any obstruction, and it is expected, if he is to be checked at all, it must be done quickly. It is only within the past week that his movement against Branchville was clearly developed. Previous to that time it was not yet known certainly that he would not concentrate against Augusta or Charleston. It is now reported by telegraph that he has a column moving on Augusta, but this must be received as an unconfirmed rumor. We cannot contradict it, though at the same time we do not know that it is true. For the present all communication with Augusta is cut off, and we do not know what is going on there or in that neighborhood.

As concerns matters at Charleston and in the direction of Columbia our information is more definite. The enemy with a force of 3,000 men landed at Grimball's, on James Island, last Friday, and drove in our pickets. Some skirmishing followed, but there was no general engagement. Grimball's is on the Stono River, two miles southwest of Charleston, and the Ashley River, a wide stream, lies between it and the city. This demonstration of the enemy is believed to be a feint.

The following dispatch, received late Sunday night, is the official report of this affair. It contains also other interesting intelligence:

“CHARLESTON, February 11.

“General S. COOPER,

“Adjutant and Inspector General :

“The enemy last evening drove in our pickets on James Island. The lines have been re-established to-day. The enemy are still in strong force on the island, but the movement is believed to be only a demonstration. There is an increase to-day of eighteen steamers off the bar. A barge attack made to-night upon Battery Tompkins [Simkins] was repulsed.

“W. J. HARDEE,

“Lieutenant-General.”

Since the receipt of the above we are without advices from Charleston.

On Saturday a column of Sherman's infantry and cavalry crossed the Edisto to the west of and above Branchville, and advanced on the Columbia Branch Railroad. Our troops at Branchville withdrew toward Columbia. According to the last official accounts, received yesterday, the enemy were at Orangeburg, some twenty miles north of Branchville, and on the road to Columbia.

During our retreat there has been continual skirmishing with the enemy, but no general engagement. It was said here yesterday that Beauregard intended to make an attack, but we think from present indications it is more likely he will fall back beyond the Santee and defend the line of that river. He is said to have an adequate force for either an offensive or defensive policy, whichever he may find it expedient to adopt. Columbia is on the right bank of the Santee, about fifty miles west of north of Orangeburg.

IMPORTANT FROM NORTH CAROLINA.—A HEAVY YANKEE COLUMN THREATENING AN ADVANCE ON RALEIGH.

Unofficial intelligence has been received here that a force of the enemy, estimated at 20,000 men, have landed at New Berne. It is believed to be their object to advance at once upon Raleigh, or at least upon our lines of railroad in North Carolina. They are said to have brought with them five locomotives and railroad iron sufficient to lay forty or fifty miles of track.

FROM EAST TENNESSEE.

The report reached us yesterday that Stoneman and Burbridge were preparing to make a raid from Tennessee into North Carolina, in the direction of Raleigh, with the hope of co-operating with the column now said to be on foot to invade the State from the Atlantic coast. We give this for what it may be worth.

From the Whig:

FROM WILMINGTON, FEBRUARY 13.

There has been considerable skirmishing on our lines at Sugar Loaf. On Saturday the enemy made three attacks in force, which were handsomely repulsed. During the attack the enemy's whole fleet opened on Hoke's left. Our casualties are about twenty men. The same day one monitor threw several shells at Fort Anderson, killing 1 and wounding 1. All quiet since.

EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

We learn that 1,050 of our prisoners have been brought under the Yankee flag of truce to Aiken's Landing, and are awaiting transportation thence to Richmond, which could not be effected yesterday on account of the ice in the river.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
 No. 73. } Washington, February 14, 1865.

* * * * *

60. First Lieut. Isaac S. Lyon, Signal Corps, U. S. Army, is hereby relieved from duty in the Army of the Potomac, and will report in person without delay to the chief signal officer serving with General Sherman, commanding Military Division of the Mississippi, for assignment to duty.

61. The following-named officers are hereby relieved from duty in the Department of North Carolina, and will report in person without delay to Capt. Charles L. Davis, chief signal officer, Army of the Potomac, for assignment to duty: Second Lieut. E. S. Moffatt, Signal Corps, U. S. Army; Second Lieut. Robert E. Duvall, Signal Corps, U. S. Army.

* * * * *

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Sandy Run, S. C., February 14, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Lieutenant McQueen, with several scouts, went yesterday to Fort Motte. He heard that the enemy had the railroad bridge all ready to set fire to on the approach of our troops. He picked up near the State road two prisoners who belong to Conner's brigade of Longstreet's corps. Their brigade, 1,500 strong, had been guarding a bridge over Four-Hole Swamp, in the expectation that we would advance on Charleston from Orangeburg. They did not know of any more troops being here from their corps other than Conner's brigade. Citizens report that the enemy is making works about three miles beyond the railroad bridge.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

P. S.—A scout just in reports that the enemy burned the railroad bridge over the Congaree on the approach of the Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry (at 1 p. m.). The scout went up to the bridge. There appeared to be about a regiment on the other side.

O. O. H.,
Major-General.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. DEPT. AND ARMY OF THE TENN.,
 FIELD ORDERS, } Near Sandy Run Post-Office, S. C.,
 No. 38. } February 14, 1865.

I. The movement to-morrow will commence at 7 a. m. Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps, will move by the State road toward Columbia with three of his divisions, carefully reconnoiter the enemy's works across the Congaree Creek, being careful not to expose his column to the enemy's artillery. With his other division he will make a demonstration at Bates' Ferry, and, if it can be done, throw a pontoon across at that point. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Major-General Blair commanding, will close up on the Fifteenth Army Corps as far as Seven Hunt Run, and await orders. His movement will begin at 8.30 a. m. Each corps commander will endeavor to shorten his column during halts as much as possible by massing the troops. General Blair will reconnoiter with his mounted infantry well to the left, to ascertain a practicable crossing of Congaree Creek to the left of the State road. In case the enemy give way from General Slocum's movement, the command will move straight on Columbia, the Fifteenth Army Corps leading. Headquarters Army of the Tennessee will follow the second division in order of march. Capt. C. B. Reese, chief engineer of the department, will direct the bridge train to move to Bates' Ferry at the time it may be required.

II. Capt. William C. Palmer, One hundred and twenty-seventh Illinois Infantry Volunteers, is hereby detailed for special service as acting commissary of subsistence and acting assistant quartermaster, and will report for duty to Lieut. Col. D. Remick, chief commissary of subsistence Department and Army of the Tennessee.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, {
No. 10. }

HDQRS. FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Baker's Plantation, S. C., February 14, 1865.

I. The following is announced as the badge of this corps: A miniature cartridge-box, black, one-eighth of an inch thick, fifteen-sixteenths of an inch wide, and thirteen-sixteenths of an inch deep, set transversely on a field of cloth or metal one and five-eighths of an inch square; above the cartridge-box plate will be stamped or marked in a curve the motto, "Forty Rounds." The field on which the cartridge-box is set will be red for the First Division, white for the Second Division, blue for the Third Division, and yellow for the Fourth Division. For the headquarters of the corps the field will be parti-colored, of red, white, blue, and yellow.

II. The badge will invariably be worn upon the hat or cap.

III. It is expected that this badge will be worn constantly by every officer and soldier in the corps. If any corps in the army has a right to take pride in its badge, surely that has which looks back through the long and glorious line of Wilson's Creek, Henry, Donelson, Shiloh, Russell House, Corinth, Iuka, Town Creek, Chickasaw Bayou, Arkansas Post, Champion's Hill, Big Black, Snyder's Bluff, Vicksburg, Jackson, Cherokee Station, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, Ringgold, Knoxville, Resaca, Kingston, Dallas, New Hope Church, Big Shanty, Kenesaw Mountain, Nickajack, Decatur, the 22d and 28th of July before Atlanta, Jonesborough, Lovejoy's, Allatoona Pass, Grahamville, Fort McAllister, and scores of minor struggles; the corps which had its birth under Grant and Sherman in the darker days of our struggle; the corps which will keep on striking until the death of the rebellion.

IV. For the present, good temporary badges can be made easily by any soldier in the corps. When communication is re-established with the North commanders can procure very handsome ones for their men at a nominal cost.

V. Division and brigade commanders are requested to examine plans for division and brigade flags at these headquarters.

By order of Maj. Gen. John A. Logan:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Wolf's Plantation, S. C., February 11, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL, Asst. Adjt. Gen., Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that, in obedience to your orders, I broke camp at 7 this a. m., and marched in the direction of Sandy Run Post-Office. Striking the main State road at that point I proceeded some three miles and a half farther, going into camp near Wolf's plantation. On reaching the creek at this place I discovered a small party of the enemy on the opposite side. They, however, retreated at once before my skirmishers. My position is good, being on a high ridge just beyond the creek, two brigades on the right and one on the left of the road, with the battery directly in the road. The troops are intrenched, with good works. To-night the rebel cavalry made a dash on my picket-line capturing three of the vedettes. My headquarters are on the south side of the creek near the bridge.

I am, major, very respectfully

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 11, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL, Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that this division broke camp at 7 a. m. to-day, and marched to a point where it is now camped, two miles north of the Sandy Creek crossing, near corps headquarters, a distance of fifteen miles. My headquarters are at a farm house on the west side of the road at the point above mentioned.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Sandy Run Post-Office, S. C., February 14, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL, Asst. Adjt. Gen., Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command broke camp at 9.15 o'clock this a. m., and marched to present camp, one mile north of Sandy Run Post-Office; distance, twelve miles. The division is encamped in column by regiments, on the left of Orangeburg and Columbia road, fronting north. Headquarters are established on the right of the road, immediately in rear of command.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Four Miles from Sandy Run Post-Office, S. C.,
February 14, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL, Asst. Adjt. Gen., Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report the following movements of my command during this day: I broke camp on the State road at 7 a. m. and moved to Sandy Run Post-Office (five miles), and from thence to the left on the Orangeburg and Columbia road, a distance of four miles, when I placed my command in bivouac on the right and left of road, having marched nine miles.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 18 } February 14, 1865.

* * * * *

VI. The troops composing this division will march at 7 a. m. to-morrow, the 15th instant, on Congaree Creek, in the following order, and as the road is of sufficient width to admit of the train and troops to march abreast, the troops will therefore move by the side of the trains, giving the best track to the latter; battery to move at the head of trains.

First, Third Brigade Infantry, Colonel Hurlbut; second, First Brigade, General Rice; third, Second Brigade, Colonel Adams. Trains to move in the same order as to-day, the 14th instant, with exception of five wagons, which will follow battery, and the advance brigade train follow ambulances.

* * * * *

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Sandy Run Post-Office, S. C., February 14, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE, A. A. G., Dept. and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that the Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry, and General Potts' brigade (Fourth Division), proceeded up the railroad to the Congaree River this morning. The enemy were found in a strong position, with rifle pits on this side of the river, and numbered about 300. A small skirmish line of the Ninth Illinois (the infantry being some distance to the rear) advanced on them and stampeded them toward the bridge. They were in such haste that they set fire to the bridge (which had been prepared for burning with turpentine) before the whole force was over. Those who were cut off, except two of the Forty-third Georgia, who were captured, took to the swamp and could not be followed. The enemy after crossing continued their retreat, and the Ninth Illinois moved up to the bank and stood on the bridge without being molested. A pontoon could have been laid there easily. The Ninth Illinois have returned to camp. General Potts' brigade is encamped about ten miles from here, and will move forward at daylight in the morning. The trestle and culverts on the railroad were all destroyed, and the Third Division worked on the road from the State road north until 12 m., completely destroying the part passed over. I estimate the destruction of the road, including the two miles below Orangeburg, and the trestle and culverts, at twenty miles.

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

P. S.—This report would have been sent in sooner had General Potts' brigade and the Third Division been heard from.

F. P. B.,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 41. } Near Sandy Run Post-Office, February 14, 1865.

I. The orders for to-morrow are as follows:

1. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will have the advance, and will move forward on the State road at 8.30 a. m.

2. Bvt. Maj. Gen. Giles A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will follow the Third Division, being prepared to move at 9.30 o'clock.

3. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will follow the Fourth Division, being prepared to move at 10.30 o'clock.

4. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will be prepared to move at 8 o'clock, and will receive directions from Captain Henley, aide-de-camp.

5. The bridge train will follow the train of the rear division.

6. During a halt division commanders will close up by massing the troops and doubling the trains.

II. In order to provide against a scarcity of provisions hereafter, no more hard bread will be issued until further orders.

Full rations of sugar, coffee, and salt, will be issued, and the troops will depend on foraging parties for subsistence.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair :

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
February 14, 1865.

Major-General DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Army Corps :

DEAR GENERAL: The Twentieth Corps is at the junction of the road leading from Horsey's Bridge to the mouth of Congaree Creek with the road from Lexington to Big Bull Swamp. It is the cross-roads just south of Sand Hills. It will move to-morrow to the cross-roads just over Red Branch. I wish you to move forward as early as possible to Lexington, taking the Barnwell road, passing near Bethel Church. You will be very near me when you cross the Two Notch road, and I wish you would call and see me at that point. If you reach there before I do please wait until I arrive. Kilpatrick should protect your left and rear.

Yours, respectfully,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
FIELD ORDERS, } Hutton's House, S. C.,
No. 10. } February 14, 1865.

The troops of the corps will move to-morrow as follows:

General Carlin will march at 6 a. m. upon Lexington by the direct road running through his camp toward Mims' and Horse Creek Post-Office and the Barnwell road, via Bethel Church and Lybrand's. He will be accompanied by and give the necessary orders to the pontoniers and First Michigan Engineers, who will be reported to him to-night by their commanding officers.

Corps headquarters, with reserve artillery and ammunition train, will move in rear of General Carlin.

General Morgan will move immediately in rear of reserve artillery.

General Baird, marching at 6 a. m. with the trains of the corps, will conduct them via this point and follow the column on the road indicated.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

---

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Columbia Cross-Roads, S. C., February 14, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Lexington, as follows: Second Division, at 7 a. m.; Third Division, at 8 a. m.; First Division, at 9 a. m. General Geary will march the troops of his division, unencumbered, as the advance. General Jackson will detail three regiments to march as rear guard. A section of artillery will accompany it. One battery of artillery will march in rear of General Geary's advanced brigade. The balance of the artillery will march immediately in rear of the troops of the Second Division. The Michigan Engineers, with their train, will march at the head of the trains of the Second Division, starting at 7 a. m. General Ward will dispose of his troops so as to protect the trains of his own and General Geary's divisions. As we are in the immediate presence of the enemy commanding officers are enjoined to exercise great caution in sending out foraging parties. Neither officers nor men should be permitted to leave the column, except in parties strong enough to protect themselves.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

NORFOLK, VA., February 14, 1865.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,

Headquarters Armies of the United States, City Point:

I have the honor to report that I left Hilton Head on the 11th instant on the steamship Arago, and arrived in Hampton Roads last night, having experienced a northeasterly gale off Hatteras. Major-General Gillmore relieved me of the command of the Department of the South on the 9th instant. The military news that I bring is not important. A report had reached Hilton Head as I was leaving that Sherman had taken Branchville, but I could not trace it to any reliable source. The rebels had fallen back from the Combahee River, and General Hatch had orders to follow and destroy the railroad. He had crossed the Combahee, advancing toward the Ashepoo River. General E. E. Potter, with a small brigade, had demonstrated from Edisto Island toward Willstown, but found the enemy in force. On the 8th, 9th, and 10th he demonstrated, supported by General Schimmelfennig, on James Island, but found the enemy still in force there. The force then had orders to proceed to Bull's Bay, and hold the roads by which the enemy might escape from Mount Pleasant. I am to leave for Baltimore to-night, to obtain surgical relief from my present disability.

J. G. FOSTER,
Major-General.

(Same to Major-General Halleck.)

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
Savannah, Ga., February 14, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,
Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that, by direction of the major-general commanding, the headquarters of the Military Division of the Mississippi are this day established at the city of Savannah, under direction of Brig. Gen. J. D. Webster, chief of staff to the major-general commanding. An office for the transaction of the general business of the command is this day opened at the Bank of the State of Georgia in this city, with the following-named officers on duty therein: Lieut. Col. R. M. Sawyer, assistant adjutant-general; Capt. M. Rochester, assistant adjutant-general; Capt. E. L. Anderson, acting assistant adjutant-general.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
R. M. SAWYER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Brevet Major-General Grover, commanding District of Savannah.)

FLAG-STEAMER HARVEST MOON,
Port Royal Harbor, S. C., February 14, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,
Comdg. Department of the South, Headquarters Hilton Head:

SIR: I have just received your communication of the 14th, stating that "a naval demonstration up the Edisto would aid General Hatch, and might open communication with him if made to-morrow or next day." You ask if it will be in my power "to afford any co-operation in that quarter?" With little exception, the only vessels of the squadron that could ascend the Edisto so far as to give the appearance of reality to any demonstration are now absent at Bull's Bay, co-operating with your detachment at that place. When you will inform me that they can be spared from that service I will direct them to the Edisto without delay. The Pontiac, now remaining at Savannah by request of General Grover, could also be used if she could be spared. The present weather will unavoidably retard all naval movements whilst it lasts. I send herewith, for your information, a deciphered copy of General Sherman's dispatch to me.*

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. A. DAHLGREN,
Real-Admiral, Comdg. South Atlantic Blockading Squadron.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 20. } Hilton Head, S. C., February 14, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. R. Saxton, U. S. Volunteers, is hereby announced as superintendent of the volunteer recruiting service for the Department of the South, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

* See 7th, p. 328.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. M. S. Littlefield, U. S. Volunteers, will continue in the discharge of his duties as mustering and disbursing officer for the department, under the regulations established by the War Department, reporting to Bvt. Maj. Gen. R. Saxton.

By command of Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore:

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 14, 1865.

Brig. Gen. JOHN P. HATCH,
Pocotaligo, S. C.:

Your letter of the 12th and telegrams of the 12th and 13th instant are received. General Prince's command will get their arms to-day. He is short of officers and has no transportation. You can probably get 1,000 or 1,200 men from him to-morrow morning. Take all that can be of service. General Sherman's orders of the 7th are for you to push forward to the Edisto. I do not think any enemy will remain on your right flank as you advance. I will ask the admiral to feel up the Ashepoo and Edisto.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF SAVANNAH,
Savannah, Ga., February 14, 1865.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL,
Headquarters Department of the South:

I have just received the order to hold 1,000 men in readiness for detached service. In reply I have to state that I have but 3,910 enlisted men present for duty. Of that number 1,900 are necessary for duty in the town for the safety of public property and the city. With the remaining 2,000 I have to guard a line five miles in length and furnish all details, which are at this post very heavy. I therefore cannot, consistently with the safety of this city and the public property here, spare the force ordered. If desired I can make a full explanation of all the duties required here, which will strengthen the foregoing statement. I consider it my duty, therefore, as the commanding officer of the district and post, and therefore responsible for its safety, respectfully but earnestly to protest against the taking away of any force, at least at present.

C. GROVER,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 14, 1865.

Rear-Admiral D. D. PORTER,
Commanding North Atlantic Squadron:

ADMIRAL: The movement ordered on the 12th will be made to-night, except that the pontoon boats will be hauled on wagons. Please order the gun-boats outside to be ready to cover the crossing of the sound at daylight in the morning and to land their small boats at the point of crossing about midnight, if the weather will permit.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General, Commanding.

FEDERAL POINT, N. C., February 14, 1865—3.30 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

Our pilots say it is too rough on the bar to take the small steamers across now. I will send orders to the vessels outside to do as you have wished.

D. D. PORTER,
Rear-Admiral.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 14, 1865.

Admiral D. D. PORTER:

I do not expect to make any movement outside, only to have the gun-boats near enough to cover the crossing of the sound at daylight to-morrow morning, and keep open signal communication between me and General Terry.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
No. 5. } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 14, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The movement ordered in Special Orders, No. 3, of February 12, 1865, will be made to-night with the following modifications, viz: The pontoon boats will be hauled upon their wagons along the beach instead of being sent by sea. If the weather will permit the navy boats will be landed at the point designated in the order of the 12th. If not the pontoon boats will be relied upon to carry the troops across the sound.

The brigade detailed to accompany the boats will constitute the advance guard of the column and will march at dark, followed immediately by the train and then by the troops, General Ames' division in advance.

Brigadier-General Comstock will have command of the train and its guard, and will have immediate control of the operations in crossing the sound.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 14 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER U. S. TROOPS, 23D ARMY CORPS,
Smithville, N. C. (debarking at Smithville):

SIR: Major-General Schofield directs that you put all the troops landing from the vessels at Smithville in camp near that place and have them prepared for active field service immediately.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Federal Point, N. C., February 14, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER,
Smithville, N. C. :

COLONEL: A division, or part of one, of the Twenty-third Corps will land at Smithville to-night or early in the morning. I want you at daylight in the morning to start a reconnaissance on both of the roads leading out from Smithville. Take about 300 men on the road to Fort Anderson. A smaller force will be sufficient on the other road. Push out about five or six miles, or more if practicable, and remain out the greater portion of the day. Get all the information that you can of the position, strength, movements, &c., of the enemy and of the roads and country toward Wilmington. Your reconnaissance will also serve as a diversion in favor of a movement I propose to make on this side of the river. If you need assistance during the day call on the officer commanding the troops of the Twenty-third Corps. Show him this order as your authority for doing so.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

GENERAL TERRY'S HEADQUARTERS,
Fort Fisher, February 14, 1865.

Colonel GRANGER,
Commanding Brigade:

SIR: It is proposed to-night to move a pontoon train and a body of troops up the beach to a point about seven miles in front of the right of our present line; then to unload the pontoons, haul them by hand nearly a mile across the marsh to Myrtle Sound, and then to ferry the whole column across the sound, believed to be about 200 yards wide at the point selected for ferrying. Your brigade has been selected for the advance, preceding the pontoon train, and when the pontoon wagons have gone as far as they can to assist the engineers, of whom there will be about ten to each pontoon, in unloading the pontoons, and then to haul them by a route which will be designated to Myrtle Sound. You will before starting divide your command into thirty parties, of about fifty men each, properly commanded, and when the unloading begins will assign each party to a pontoon, with orders to stay with it till relieved. The officer in command of each party will be held responsible that his pontoon is got to the point of ferriage. Possibly there may be water enough in some of the creeks which intersect the marsh to float the pontoons a part of the way. In this case the party of engineers accompanying each pontoon will manage it while afloat, the infantry moving along the marsh near it to assist if necessary. When all the pontoons have reached the point of ferriage further orders will be given. It is expected that every man in the command will get wet. Strict orders should be given to prevent either lights or noise, as either would give the alarm to the enemy.

Very respectfully,

C. B. COMSTOCK,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Brevet Brigadier-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 15, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

The Richmond Dispatch to-day has the following:

AFFAIRS IN SOUTH CAROLINA—WHEELER BEATS KILPATRICK NEAR AUGUSTA.

We have for some days been in doubt as to what force Sherman had sent in the direction of Augusta. This doubt has at length been solved. It seems that while his main army advanced toward Branchville and Charleston he sent Kilpatrick and his cavalry to demonstrate against Augusta, and to break up the Charleston and Augusta Railroad. From official dispatches received at the War Department we learn that on last Friday General Wheeler attacked Kilpatrick at Aiken, on the Charleston and Augusta Railroad, twenty miles northeast of Augusta, and after a considerable engagement drove him five miles in the direction of Branchville.

An official dispatch received from Columbia yesterday states that in consequence of the enemy having occupied Orangeburg in force our troops have abandoned Branchville. This is in effect the same statement made by us yesterday. Our troops have by this time, no doubt, fallen back to the Congaree River, which, with the Wateree, forms the Santee. Columbia is situated immediately on the right bank of the Congaree, thirty miles above its confluence with the Wateree. If our troops fall back behind the Congaree the enemy will be able to shell Columbia from the south bank of that stream. We also learn that the Congaree and its tributary, the Saluda, are both easily fordable above the city. This disposes us to believe that our troops will seek to give battle before crossing the Congaree.

The Whig says:

We learn upon good authority that our forces are falling back before Sherman's advancing columns in the direction of Columbia, S. C., and will probably make a stand on the Santee.

A NAVAL FORCE CAPTURED.

We learn that a naval party, consisting of 12 officers and 100 men, under the command of Lieutenant (Tacony) Read, were recently captured by the Yankees near Smithfield, Isle of Wight County. Among the party was Assistant Engineer Tomlinson, of the James River fleet, who was married the night before his departure. We do not deem it prudent to give any information as to the object of their expedition, and think we are sufficiently explicit when we say that they started for a purpose, failed in accomplishing it, and are now no doubt in a Yankee prison doing anything else than blessing their luck. A heavy fire occurred at Danville on Wednesday last. The estimated loss exceeds $2,000,000. General Braxton Bragg is at present in Richmond.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, 21 Miles from Columbia, February 15, 1865.

General HOWARD,

Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: Yours of this date is received.* I would like to have Blair try and stampede the guard at the Congaree bridge by a semblance of attack, for which purpose one division to the rear of his trains would cover them all, leaving one to advance on the bridge, burning only the trestles, whilst the other confines its attention to twisting bars. Corse and Woods are now within five or six miles of Sandy Run. I think you can put all the Fifteenth across Sandy Run to-morrow, and Blair's train and division to Sandy Creek Post-Office, where the Orangeburg and State roads meet. One more march, viz, the day after to-morrow, will bring us easily up abreast of Columbia. Captain Audenried in riding ahead to-day captured a rebel lieutenant just out of Columbia, and, passing himself off as a rebel, extracted from him much information. The force now at Columbia is small and the people are not expecting us now, thinking that Augusta or Charleston are our objectives. I think Slocum will be abreast of Columbia to-morrow. I will keep with the leading division of this corps.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

P. S.—If you want more roads beyond Sandy Creek you can depend on any number to the left. The country is poor pine land and full of farm roads. To-day the road was perfect and there seemed any number running to every point of the compass.

S.

GENERAL } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
 FIELD ORDERS, } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
 No 11. } Near Congaree Creek, S. C., February 15, 1865.

In consideration of the hardships and exposures cheerfully submitted to by officers of this command in general, in their strict compliance with orders, which is characteristic of all faithful and efficient soldiers, the general commanding deems it due them that Capt. John W. Cornyn, commissary of subsistence, Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, be publicly reprimanded for transporting and using for his own private comfort a number of wall-tents in direct violation of orders.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
 FIELD ORDERS, } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
 No. 39. } Near Congaree Creek, S. C., February 15, 1865.

The movement to-morrow will be a continuation of to-day's operations. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will hold the right and work forward toward Columbia. The

* See Part I, p. 197.

Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will bridge the Congaree Creek near his present position and close up on the left of the Fifteenth Army Corps. All trains will close up on their respective corps as soon as the roads are in readiness. The pontoon train will move forward and park near the Fifteenth Army Corps.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Congaree Creek, February 15, 1865.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD,
Commanding Department and Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you I have established my headquarters south of Congaree Creek, on the right-hand side of the road just at the bridge. The corps is in camp, the First and Second Divisions in line on the other side of the creek, and the Fourth Division in reserve, one brigade across the creek. The trains of the corps are in park about two miles back, with the Third Division in position covering the park.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 46. } On Congaree Creek, S. C., February 15, 1865.
* * * * *

II. Should the enemy leave our front during the night the movements on Columbia, S. C., will be continued to-morrow morning in the following order: Major-General Hazen, commanding Second Division, having the right, will move at 8 a. m. along the State road to that point; the First Division will follow the Second Division; the Fourth Division will follow the First Division. The troops will move in light order; trains to be parked in the fields just this side of Congaree Creek. The ambulance trains and ordnance wagons, with ammunition to make 100 rounds per man, will move with the troops; the rest of the trains will remain in park. The result of the demonstration ordered for daylight to-morrow will be reported as soon as anything may be ascertained. The Third Division, Major-General Smith commanding, will break camp at 7 a. m., moving forward in rear of the Fourth Division. His train will park with the other trains of the corps, except the ambulance train and a sufficient number of ordnance wagons.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. John A. Logan:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Little Congaree River, S. C., February 15, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that at 7 a. m. I started out of camp, taking the direct road toward Columbia. Within less than a mile from my camp I began skirmishing with the rebels, who resisted my advance with much stubbornness. Upon nearing the Little Congaree the enemy was developed in considerable force with artillery, which they used freely. Two of my brigades were very soon deployed, the one to the right and the other to the left of the road, with orders to endeavor to effect a crossing over the stream. My skirmishers succeeded in getting over a short time before dark, the rebels withdrawing as soon as it was discovered that I was obtaining a foothold on their side of the creek. I am now in position about one mile from the bridge, my line intrenched, with the left resting on the river and the right connecting with the Second Division. The casualties in my command to-day were: Killed, 5 enlisted men; wounded, 12; total, 17 enlisted men. My headquarters are in rear of center of my line.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 15, 1865.

Major-General WOODS,
Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: The enemy have been using artillery for some time past. Have you been able to ascertain the cause of this demonstration on his part? Have you noticed any changes on your front? The commanding general is anxious to know the occasion of their firing.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[Indorsement.]

Major WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I cannot tell the reason of this demonstration on part of the enemy, unless it be solely for our annoyance. They are all quiet in front of me. The firing is on my right, and does not reach my camp. No changes in my front as far as I can discover.

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Columbia, S. C., February 15, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: Inclosed please find report* of Colonel Catterson concerning the fire of the rebel battery. From the position of the battery I fear it will annoy us very much as soon as it becomes daylight, being on our right rear and across the river. Should the rebels have much artillery over there, I fear it would render the right of our line untenable.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

* Not found.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Congaree Creek, S. C., February 15, 1865.

[General C. R. Woods:]

GENERAL: I am instructed by the major-general commanding to direct you to push forward your skirmish line at daylight to-morrow morning, to ascertain whether the rebels are still in our front, and if so, to develop their position, and as far as possible the character of the force occupying their works. Please report the result of the demonstration as soon as anything may be ascertained.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to General Hazen.)

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Congaree Creek, S. C., February 15, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that I broke camp this morning at 8.30 a. m., marching to a point about two miles north of the Congaree Creek near the Congaree River, where the division went into position in line of battle, making works in its front, the right resting on the Congaree River. During the night the enemy from across the river fired artillery into the camp at regular intervals, killing 1 and wounding 2. My headquarters are with the division.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN.
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Tom's Creek, S. C., February 15, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this division broke camp at 7 o'clock this a. m., but was unable, owing to the roads being occupied by the trains of other divisions, to move to exceed half a mile until 11 o'clock, when it moved to Bates' Ferry, on Congaree River, at which place, in accordance with orders from corps headquarters, a demonstration was made by both artillery and infantry. About twenty-five or thirty of the enemy, apparently a picket guard, were discovered upon the opposite side of the river, who fled upon their being fired upon. In compliance with orders from headquarters, one regiment has been left at the ferry as picket guard. The remainder of the command is encamped at this place, the trains upon the right and the troops upon the left of the main Columbia road. These headquarters are established upon the left of the road and about 100 yards south of Tom's Creek.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, near Congaree Creek, S. C., February 15, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to detail the movements of my command during the day, as follows: I broke camp at 8 a. m. sharp, and moved in rear of the Second Division of this corps on the Orangeburg and Columbia road, making repeated halts, owing to the detention of the advance division by the enemy's skirmishers, which were struck at an early hour in the morning. At 4.30 p. m. I had reached a point two miles from the Congaree Creek, and commenced placing my command in bivouac, when I received orders from corps headquarters to move my command forward upon the above-named creek, where I arrived at 6 p. m., and placed my command in position, as follows: Third Brigade across the creek and on the right-hand side of the road, and the remaining two brigades on the right bank of the creek on either side of the road, remaining in this position during the night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Congaree Creek, S. C., February 15, 1865.

Lieutenant-Colonel TWEEDDALE,
Commanding First Missouri Engineers:

COLONEL: The major-general commanding directs me to request you to move your command in rear of the Third Division of this corps, which will break camp to-morrow morning at 7 a. m.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
In the Field, near Columbia, February 15, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that to-morrow morning you cross Congaree Creek at either of the bridges in your front, and reconnoiter the second line of the enemy with a view to the passage of Congaree River, and the movement on Columbia. General Logan broke their line at the crossing of the Congaree Creek, and moving forward found a second line about a mile in advance of the first and along the heights this side of the river, and within full view of the city. The general desires that you keep him informed during the day of the success of your movements.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 42. } Near Taylor's Bridge, S. C., February 15, 1865.

The orders for to-morrow are:

1. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will have the advance and will move forward at 7 a. m.

2. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will follow General Smith, being prepared to move at 8 o'clock.

3. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will follow the First Division, being prepared to move at 9 o'clock.

4. The trains will move in rear of the troops in the same order as the divisions. Each division commander will leave two regiments with his train.

The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will be prepared to move at 7 o'clock, and will receive orders from Captain Henley, aide-de-camp.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
*Cross-Roads, Two Miles South of Lexington, S. C.,
 February 15, 1865.*

Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you move your corps on the road to Columbia, marching through Lexington, starting to-morrow morning at 6 o'clock. When you reach Leaphart's he wishes you to report to him.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Boozar's House, February 15, 1865.

Brig. Gen. W. P. CARLIN,
Commanding First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps:

From the best information that can be obtained Wheeler's cavalry is now passing through Lexington toward Columbia. The general commanding directs that you get your division under arms immediately and push on into Lexington, getting possession of the Columbia road and remaining there to-night. One brigade of the Twentieth Corps has been ordered forward, but may not have reached the town. You will take command of this brigade in addition to your own force, by order of General Slocum through General Davis. General Wheeler has been driven by Generals Morgan and Kilpatrick in much confusion.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Boozer's House, February 15, 1865.

Brig. Gen. J. D. MORGAN,

Commanding Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that you move your command at 6 a. m. to-morrow via the cross-roads at this point and through Lexington by Leaphart's, upon Columbia.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. McCURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

---

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Lexington, S. C., February 15, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Columbia, as follows: Third Division at 7 a. m., First Division at 7.30 a. m., Second Division at 8 a. m. The troops of the Third and First Divisions will march unencumbered in the advance. The Second Division will cover the whole trains of the corps. General Geary will also march one brigade as rear guard. One section of artillery will accompany the rear guard. One battery will march immediately in rear of the advanced brigade of the Third Division; the balance of the artillery will march immediately in rear of the Third Division. The wagons, battery wagons, and forges of the artillery will march immediately in rear of the trains of the Michigan Engineers, who will march with their troops and trains immediately in rear of the troops of the First Division, starting at 8 a. m. All foraging to-morrow must be done along the road over which we march; no foraging parties will be sent from the column.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Lexington, S. C., February 15, 1865.

Brig. Gen. J. W. GEARY,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The brevet major-general commanding the corps directs that you send at once a brigade of infantry from your command to occupy and hold Lexington. A battery of artillery has been ordered to report to you to accompany the brigade. The general thinks the brigade should be pushed through the town and intrenched on the opposite side.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Lexington, S. C., February 15, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The brevet major-general commanding the corps directs me to inform you that a division of the Fourteenth Corps has been ordered to Lexington, to hold the town. They will arrive there probably within the next hour. They will relieve your brigade. As soon as relieved the general desires that you will bring back both the infantry and artillery and have them join their respective commands.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 15, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,
Commanding District of Savannah:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to call your attention to a letter from Maj. Gen. H. W. Halleck, bearing date of December 31, 1864, a copy of which I inclose,* directing that the wives and families of officers in the rebel armies now residing in Savannah be sent from that city into the rebel lines. You will please have a correct and complete list of all such parties forwarded to these headquarters on or before the 23d day of February, instant.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Savannah, February 15, 1865.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL,
Headquarters Department of the South:

Your telegram, ordering me to hold a regiment in readiness to relieve the garrison at Fort Pulaski is received. In reply, I would respectfully refer to my telegram with regard to the detachment of 1,000 men.

C. GROVER,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Federal Point, February 15, 1865.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,
City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: General Sherman's instructions to me, through General Foster, a copy of which I inclose,† make the capture of Kinston of primary importance, and seem to regard that of Wilmington as secondary, while your instructions, under which I am acting, make the capture of Wilmington the first object. The difference will be immaterial if I succeed in making any considerable advance along the Wilmington and Goldsborough Railroad before General Sherman comes up. If not, it occurs to me that it may embarrass General Sherman if he does not know exactly what I am doing and to what point he must look for supplies. My object is simply to call your attention to this matter in case it may have escaped your notice, so that if practicable to communicate with General Sherman he may be informed. I think with you that Wilmington should be taken first, for I cannot safely calculate on making a junction with General Sherman at any point farther north.

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 846.

† See Sherman to Foster, January 29, p. 163.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

Federal Point, February 15, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,

Commanding Armies of the United States, City Point, Va. :

GENERAL: On the 11th, after landing one division of the Twenty-third Corps, I pushed forward General Terry's line east of Cape Fear River and found the enemy in a strongly intrenched position opposite Fort Anderson, running from the river to Masonborough Sound. In the advance we lost about 60 in killed and wounded, and captured 54 prisoners. Information obtained by General Comstock after you were here shows that the enemy's line west of the river runs from Fort Anderson to a pond, formed by damming Orton Creek, and running back into a swamp some eight or nine miles in length, so that Fort Anderson cannot be turned without going around that swamp. Not deeming the force I then had sufficient for such a move, I directed my attention to the possibility of turning the enemy's position by crossing Masonborough Sound. General Comstock made a reconnaissance on the 11th, from which the move seemed quite practicable. The plan was to land pontoons and Navy small boats on the beach about two miles south of Masonborough Inlet, haul them across the peninsula to the sound at a place where it is only about 300 yards wide, march the troops along the beach to the point of crossing, and transfer them to the mainland before daylight in the morning. All arrangements were made for executing the plan on the 12th, but in the afternoon a northeast wind sprung up, which rendered such operations impossible. The wind has continued to blow from the sea since that time. Yesterday I succeeded, after much difficulty, in getting the pontoon wagons ashore, and determined to make the attempt to haul them along the beach to the point where we could cross the sound. The teams made such slow progress that at midnight I became satisfied we could not reach the point in time to commence the crossing before daylight, and hence could not reasonably expect success. I therefore abandoned the enterprise. This plan was a favorite one with General Comstock, and I believe, had the wind been favorable, would undoubtedly have been successful. At all events we have lost nothing by making the attempt. My second division commenced to arrive yesterday, and I can now commence operations west of the river without further delay. The enemy's camps indicate some increase of his force since I arrived here, but I have no definite information on the subject. I have no information from General Palmer later than the 10th. He ought to be moving about this time.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 15, 1865.

Brigadier-General RAWLINS,

Chief of Staff, Armies of the United States, City Point, Va. :

The pontoon train I now have is so heavy that I fear it will cause serious delays in operations over the bad roads which prevail in this country. If you can send me some of the cloth bateaux I think it will facilitate my operations.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 15, 1865.

Admiral D. D. PORTER,

Commanding North Atlantic Squadron :

I failed to get my boats up the beach and shall return to the original plan. I would like to use your tugs to carry troops across the river to-morrow.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 15, 1865.

Colonel DODGE,

Chief Quartermaster :

The commanding general desires to know (to-night) how many troops can be carried to Smithville at one trip by all the boats, including the navy tugs Nansemond, Eolus, Wilderness, and Moccasin. The general directs that you have all the boats for carrying troops to Smithville ready at the Federal Point wharf at 8 a. m. to-morrow.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CHIEF QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE,
Federal Point, N. C., February 15, 1865.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,

Assistant Adjutant-General :

MAJOR: In reply to your communication of this date, I have the honor to inform you that I can transport 2,500 troops at one trip to Smithville. I hope to be able to ship all the land transportation during the night. I shall also transport the One hundred and eleventh Ohio Regiment to-night. The brigade that has arrived at Smithville is Colonel Moore's command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. S. DODGE,
Colonel and Quartermaster.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 15, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. D. Cox,
Commanding Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you move your command to Smithville to-morrow. Have your advance at the Federal Point wharf at 8 a. m. The commanding general will inform you to-night how many men the boats can carry at once. Transportation for the luggage will be furnished by the quartermaster's department.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 15, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER 11TH REGIMENT OHIO INFANTRY:

SIR: The commanding general directs that you proceed with your command by steamer this p. m. to Smithville. Colonel Dodge, chief quartermaster, will designate the steamer on which you will embark.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, )	HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION,
No. 13. )	TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
	Federal Point, N. C., February 15, 1865.

1. The command will move to Smithville to-morrow morning. The Second Brigade, Brevet Brigadier-General Casement commanding, will move at 7 a. m. to the landing at the point.

The First and Third Brigades will be held in readiness to move, and await further orders.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
SMITHVILLE AND FORT CASWELL, N. C.,
February 15, 1865.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL.

Department of North Carolina:

SIR: I have the honor to report that, in obedience to orders received from Major-General Schofield, I made a reconnaissance from this point to-day. I took 300 infantry, and with it proceeded up the road running to Fort Anderson. About three miles from this point encountered about forty cavalry, who retired before us. About five miles from here, at White Springs, again met cavalry re-enforced to about 100. I was informed by citizens and negroes that these troops belonged to a South Carolina regiment which was encamped about three miles above White Springs. I found the roads in good condition and nearly all of the citizens living at home. There has been no force of the enemy this side of Reeves' Point, except scouting parties, since the fall of Fort Fisher. I sent about 100 men down the Lockwood's Folly road, under command of Major Jones, One hundred and forty-second New York State Volunteers, who advanced six and a half miles, meeting but four rebels, and finding the road good. I append an imperfect sketch* of the country so far as surveyed.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. BARNEY,

Lieutenant-Colonel 112d New York State Vols., Commanding Post.

CONFIDENTIAL.]

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., February 15, 1865.

Brig. Gen. INNIS N. PALMER,

Commanding District of North Carolina, New Berne, N. C.:

GENERAL: I have received your letters of 2d, 7th, and 8th instant, relating to confidential instructions and inclosing requisitions. General Sherman's general plans, so far as he had himself elaborated them, were communicated to me in conversation at Savannah. The animals referred to will bring their own wagons with them to whatever point on the sea coast he may touch. He sent requisitions North for supplies to be collected at Port Royal, and to be held in readiness for his use whenever he, by communicating with the navy on the coast, should call for them. Steamers are at Port Royal, to be used in the transportation of his supplies. The railroad repair corps was sent by him to North Carolina. The stores, wagons, &c., which you ask for local use have been ordered, and will be forwarded as they can be obtained. Heavy demands have lately been made upon our Eastern depots by the sudden movement of troops from the West, requiring a new outfit here, and we are short of ambulances and some of the things for which you ask. The steamers of very light draft in the possession of the department are either within your reach in North Carolina or are at Savannah, with the exception of Western river boats, and are sent from Maine to Mobile. General Easton, General Sherman's chief quartermaster, remained at Savannah to regulate the question of supplies, and, as General Sherman's command includes the Department of the South, he has control of the river steamers captured at Savannah and of the light-draft steamers sent to Port Royal and Savannah to aid in supplying General Sherman's troops, as well as of those which have heretofore constituted the transportation of the Department of the South. So many of these as he finds necessary he will, if the ocean will permit, take to the new base. I do not think that we shall be able to send you a steamer of 30-inch draft, but the chief of the division of army transportation has had his attention called to your request, and it will be done, if practicable. The charter of the Ulysses, if in accordance with the usual terms and the law, will be approved. The law requires certain inspection. General Schofield is in command in North Carolina, to co-operate with General Sherman, and General Gillmore has gone to Hilton Head, Foster being lame and coming North to submit to another operation.

Wishing you every success, I am, respectfully and truly, your obedient servant and friend,

M. C. MEIGS,

Quartermaster-General, Brevet Major-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 16, 1865.

HON. E. M. STANTON,

Secretary of War:

The Richmond Whig of to-day has the following:

FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.

We are indebted to the Express Company for Augusta papers of the 10th, from which we learn that the Yankees on Thursday morning were at Windsor, about fifteen miles from Aiken; it is not known in what force. No movements were made by them on Thursday; cause of this not ascertained. The troops in the vicinity of Windsor are Kilpatrick's corps. It is reported that Generals Hampton and Wheeler engaged the enemy on the 7th and 8th, repulsing them at all points. Our loss is about seventy, killed, wounded, and missing; that of the enemy much greater. The enemy are reported to be massing toward the Congaree River. A gentleman from Columbia states that Slocum's corps is moving on that city on this side of the Edisto. His main line, when last heard from, was on the railroad. It is stated in Columbia that Kilpatrick's corps is protecting Slocum's left. It is ascertained that Potter is again moving on Charleston. When last heard from he was at Green Pond. It is not known where Sherman himself is. Barnwell Court-House was burned on Monday night. The roads are teeming with vehicles, stock, and all kinds of movable property, fleeing for Georgia and upper Carolina.

SHERMAN'S MOVEMENTS.

The Express of yesterday says that—

Parties who left Columbia on Friday evening last represent it as the belief in Columbia that Sherman had cut loose entirely from the various points upon which he had demonstrated, and was hastening with all possible rapidity toward Kingsville or Columbia, possibly both. All movements toward Branchville, Charleston, and Augusta seem to have been abandoned. From Blackville and Orangeburg there is an excellent country road, and as Sherman appears to have got somewhat the start of our forces, considerable apprehensions were felt at Columbia that he would reach there before he could be overtaken.

The Congaree, a considerable stream, has to be crossed before reaching either Kingsville or Columbia, but Sherman has pontoon trains and an efficient engineer corps with him, and crosses streams with surprising facility. Extensive preparations were being made at Columbia to receive the great flanker, and it was hoped that he would at least be held in check until our forces could come up.

Sherman is said to have a very large army, and he may divide, sending one column to Kingsville and the other to Columbia. This would enable him to destroy the Columbia and Charlotte and Wilmington and Manchester railroads at one and the same time, provided he is not checked. It is also stated that Sherman is but little encumbered with commissary and quartermaster's trains. Relying upon his great success in Georgia, he feeds his men and horses off the country as he moves, and all that they do not consume he destroys.

FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

The Wilmington paper says that the usually quiet citizens of Little River and the surrounding country have been recently disturbed by the landing of a considerable force of Yankees in their midst. It is understood that the object is to strike the Manchester railroad at a point in the vicinity of Whiteville, in Columbus County.

The same paper says: The air in our own town yesterday seemed very much impregnated with some whisperings in relation to important movements which we decline publishing, as we are in secret session and officially reticent.

NOT CAPTURED.

It affords us much pleasure to be able to state that the naval party supposed to be captured are now known to be safe.

FROM CHARLESTON.

The Courier of the 9th says: Some fifteen or twenty schooners, supposed to be supply-vessels for Sherman's army, passed the bar Wednesday morning going north. About dark last evening there was an unusual display of signals between the fleet and the land batteries. No change in the fleet is reported.

THE EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

The general exchange of prisoners has been resumed, and the understanding is, we believe, that it will be continued until all the prison-houses on both sides are emptied and the captives liberated. Humanity may smile again. It is almost impossible to conceive the joy which this announcement and the return of absent loved ones will convey to thousands of households, and the prisoners themselves, Confederates and Yankees, will rejoice as they have never rejoiced before. We learn that the exchange will go on at the rate of about 1,000 per day.

The Examiner says:

We learned at a late hour last night that a dispatch had been received in one of the offices of the Government, stating that the local force in Columbia had been ordered out, and that skirmishing had been going on with the enemy in the vicinity of that city. The dispatch is dated the 14th instant. General Echols succeeds Breckinridge in Southwestern Virginia. Hampton has been made lieutenant-general, and now commands all the cavalry fronting Sherman.

The Dispatch says:

It was reported yesterday morning that our troops were evacuating Wilmington. The report is not confirmed by official dispatches received yesterday. General Baker, in command of our forces at Goldsborough, reports to the War Department that he has reason to believe the enemy are concentrating at New Berne, and that they have with them materials for repairing the railroad from New Berne to Kinston. Gideon J. Pillow has been appointed commissary-general of prisoners.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 16, 1865—5 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT, City Point:

I have just learned from General Meigs and the Commissary-General that requisitions for sixty days' supplies are being filled and sent to Port Royal, and that similar requisitions have just been received from General Schofield to be sent to Beaufort, N. C. This does not agree with my understanding with General Sherman. I understood from him that shipments to Port Royal for his army were to cease as soon as he should reach the interior of South Carolina, and that the remainder of his supplies should be ready to meet him at Georgetown, S. C., Cape Fear River, or New Berne, N. C. It will not be possible to accumulate sufficient supplies at all these points, nor will it be possible to keep supplies on ocean transports, as they are exceedingly scarce. Moreover, supplies can be sent from New York and Fort Monroe to any point north of Georgetown much sooner than from Port Royal. We shall hear of Sherman's whereabouts much sooner than they will at Port Royal, and can send him supplies sooner than we can send word to Port Royal. It therefore seems to me that to send such a large amount to Port Royal now will result in enormous expense and great inconvenience. By direction of the Secretary of War I refer this matter for your instructions.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 16, 1865—7.30 p. m.

(Received 10.30 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK, Washington:

There is no necessity for sending supplies to Port Royal for the use of Sherman's army. There is scarcely a possibility of Sherman's requiring supplies from Port Royal, and if he should we would hear through rebel sources in time to send those on shipboard intended for Georgetown to him. By having a good supply on hand for the troops in the Department of the South they could always supply Sherman for a few days until more could reach him.

U. S. GRANT.

Lieutenant-General.

(Copy furnished by Halleck to Quartermaster-General, Commissary-General, and Ordnance Department.)

CONFIDENTIAL.]

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., February 16, 1865.

Major-General HALLECK,
Chief of Staff:

GENERAL: On the 30th December and 2d January last, General Easton, chief quartermaster of General Sherman's army, addressed to this office letters, of which I inclose copies*, asking that sixty days grain for 35,000 animals, sixty days' rations for 70,000 men, and six light-draft steamers, clothing, and other stores, should be shipped on as light vessels as possible to Savannah and Hilton Head for the use of General Sherman's army. He also asked for six light-draft steamers. The wants of General Sherman had been anticipated and most of the supplies asked for had been ordered and were on the coast or on the way to Savannah when he reached that city. During his halt at Savannah, however, he consumed the forage and rations, and daily shipments replaced the stores thus consumed. While in Savannah about the middle of January I saw General Sherman, General Easton, his chief quartermaster, and General Beckwith, chief commissary, and discussed the mode of supply. General Sherman made me acquainted with his general plan of campaign, and appeared to dwell upon the possibility of being strongly opposed at the Santee River. He several times remarked that if disappointed in crossing this river he might be obliged to make for the coast near its mouth, and said he wished the navy to keep a careful lookout about Georgetown. General Easton and General Beckwith, acting under orders of General Sherman, expected to remain at Savannah and to take charge of the supplies and forward them to whatever point on the coast General Sherman should ultimately order. General Easton on 4th February sends me a letter with requisitions for clothing to be sent to Savannah for General Sherman's army, and for the large re-enforcement which that army is to receive under command of General Schofield. To-day I have, however, requests from General Schofield to send 400,000 rations of forage and 20,000 pairs of shoes to Beaufort for General Sherman's army. The shoes I have ordered there. They will be useful in North Carolina, even if not needed by General Sherman. Whether to stop sending forage to be held under General Easton at Port Royal and Savannah, and to turn the shipments into Beaufort, or no, I am now doubtful. It is of so much importance that there be no confusion as to the means and route of supplies for General Sherman that I desire to have definite information. General Schofield, I presume, has his orders under which he asks this forage. General Easton's action is in conformity with all that I have heard from him and from General Sherman himself at Savannah up to the 19th of January, the day I left there. Whenever the rebel papers or their information show that General Sherman is approaching any port on the coast, supplies from New York and the northern depots will be at once turned in that direction, but until definite information reaches us, it seems to me that it will be proper to continue accumulating these supplies at Port Royal, according to the requests of his chief supply officers and my knowledge of his own expressed wishes. General Sherman's staff officers were clear in their expressions to me of a desire to have complete control of the supplies and means of moving them, and for this purpose desired that they should be collected at Port Royal and Savannah, and be subject to their orders. This seemed to be also General Sherman's object in some degree in having them sent to that point. Another one seemed to be the possibility which he entertained of his going to Georgetown. This he contemplated only as the result of a check in his operations. Georgetown, Cape Fear, and Beaufort are all south of Hatteras. Supplies from Port Royal for these ports will not be exposed to detention by storms off that cape when put in motion. Since writing the above I have your copy of a dispatch from General Grant, that there can be no necessity for sending General Sherman's supplies to Port Royal, and will prepare to ship supplies to Beaufort unless otherwise advised. Yet I apprehend some derangement of General Sherman's scheme of supply from the change.

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 837, and p. 8, ante.

Respectfully,

M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 26.	}	HDQRS. MIL. DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI, In the Field, near Columbia, S. C., February 16, 1865.
-------------------------------------	---	---

The next series of movements will be on Fayetteville, N. C., and thence to Wilmington or Goldsborough, according to events. Great care must be exercised in collecting forage and food, and at the same time in covering the wagon trains from cavalry dashes.

I. General Howard will cross the Saluda and Broad Rivers as near their mouths as possible, occupy Columbia, destroy the public buildings, railroad property, manufacturing and machine shops, but will spare libraries and asylums and private dwellings. He will then move to Winnsborough, destroying en route utterly that section of the railroad. He will also cause all bridges, trestles, water-tanks, and depots on the railroad back to the Wateree to be burned, switches broken, and such other destruction as he can find time to accomplish consistent with the proper celerity. For movements of his army he will select roads that cross the Wateree to the south of Lancaster.

II. Generals Slocum and Kilpatrick will cross the Saluda River near Mount Zion, and the Broad River below or at Alston, and will cause the destruction of the bridge at Alston and the railroad back toward Columbia as far as possible, aiming to be in communication with Winnsborough by the time General Howard reaches that point. They will study to get roads in the direction of Lancaster, and should they have any spare time on reaching the Great Northern Railroad they will prolong the break in the direction north of Winnsborough.

III. Col. O. M. Poe, chief engineer, will cause the First Regiment Michigan Engineers to accompany the Right Wing, and have it destroy as much of the railroad from Columbia northward through and beyond Winnsborough as possible, working in concert with any troops he may find employed at that work.

IV. The general-in-chief will be with the left division of the Right Wing, or right division of the Left Wing, or as near the center of the army as possible, and will from time to time advise commanding officers of his whereabouts. He also expects the fullest possible reports of subordinate commanders. In the absence of specific orders the Right Wing will be the "column of direction," and will aim for Wimsborough, Cheraw, Fayetteville, &c.

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman :

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 16, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD :

DEAR GENERAL: I see the bridge over Broad burning. It is very important that you effect a crossing to-night. If necessary, get over the Saluda the bulk of the Fifteenth Corps, then take up enough pontoons to finish one across the Broad. Send an officer with the inclosed note to General Slocum, who can send you ten before daylight. Slocum can cross Broad River as high up as Alston and thereby use his bridges at one day's interval.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN.
Major-General.

Send the inclosed by an officer to conduct the pontoons.

[Inclosure.]

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 16, 1865.

Major-General SLOCUM :

GENERAL: General Howard has to pass Saluda and Broad Rivers at the same time, requiring more bridging than he has. I send this through him that he may note on it how many he wants. I suppose you can spare ten, as you will be able to remove that over the Saluda before you pass the Broad. In case Howard calls for any pontoons he will conduct them to the point where he needs them.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
No. 17. }	ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
	Beaufort, S. C., February 16, 1865.

* * * * *

III. Lieut. Col. C. H. Howard, aide-de-camp, staff of the major-general commanding, will immediately proceed to Savannah, Ga., on public business; which completed, he will, should the opportunity be afforded, proceed to the army in the field and report to the major-general commanding. If the way is not open, he will return to these headquarters. Government transports will furnish him the necessary transportation.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard :

SAML. L. TAGGART,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
 FIELD ORDERS, } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
 No. 40. } Near Congaree Creek, S. C., February 16, 1865.

* * * * *

V. The following will be the movements of this command to-morrow: The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will cross the Broad River and take up position beyond the Charlotte and South Carolina Railroad, facing eastward, and be prepared to destroy the road from the city fifteen miles southward. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, following the Fifteenth Army Corps, will take up position on the west side of the railroad, facing northward, and be prepared to destroy the railroad from the city toward Winnsborough. The trains of department headquarters will follow the leading division of the Seventeenth Army Corps. Department cattle herd will follow the Seventeenth Army Corps.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Congaree Creek, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Major BURKHARDT,
Commanding Twenty-ninth Missouri Mounted Infantry:

MAJOR: I am directed by the general commanding to instruct you to move your command to this point. Leave about one-third of your mounted men on this side of the river to picket the different roads leading into our park, and with the rest of your command cross the creek and push off to the left to make connection with the other corps moving in that direction.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Congaree Creek, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to forward the inclosed note from Major-General Woods with reference to the movements of the enemy for the information of the major-general commanding. As will be seen, we have advanced our skirmish line and now occupy the works of the rebels discovered in our front last night. The general has gone to the front.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[Inclosure.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION,
February 16, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: In obedience to your orders I advanced my skirmishers at daylight this a. m. There is no enemy in my front. My skirmishers are in the deserted rebel works on the left.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Broad River, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. WOODS,

Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I want you to put one of your brigades across the river in small boats as rapidly as possible. When across they will throw up a bridge-head, so as to completely protect the pontoon bridge to be laid, and push their skirmishers out as far as they can without endangering them too much; also, have your pioneers at work fixing the road on both sides of the river and assist in laying the bridge. Please give this your personal attention and the laying of the bridge your supervision, so that you may cross early in the morning into Columbia.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Broad River, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that at daylight this morning I pushed my skirmishers forward, as was directed in your communication last night, but found no enemy in my front. Moving during the morning in rear of the Second Division I halted for a short time and took position on the State road, near the crossing of the Congaree, when receiving orders I again moved out in rear of the Second Division. The road, however, was so crowded with trains I was unable to reach the ground assigned me until after dark. My troops are encamped, two brigades front, on the river bluff, just above the Factory road. One of my brigades, the Third, is crossing over in the pontoon boats, intending to cover the laying of the pontoons at this point. My headquarters are near the right of my line.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Broad River, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. WOODS,

Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: General Logan having received instructions from Major-General Howard to effect a crossing of the Broad River as soon as possible and to push a brigade into Columbia to-night directs me to request you to push one of your brigades across the stream and throw up a bridge-head covering the crossing. Leaving a sufficient guard in this work, you will please push this brigade into Columbia along the direct road, so that the city may be occupied by daylight. In making this movement you will please instruct the commanding officer of your advance brigade to move cautiously on the city with a good advance guard and flankers thrown out along the column. Should he meet with too serious opposition he will fall back slowly on the bridge-head and there hold his position. It will be understood, however, that the opposition must be serious, as it is necessary to occupy the city by an early hour to-morrow. As soon as the bridge has been laid you will please cross the rest of your command and move in support of your advance brigade.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
 MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Columbia, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that in obedience to orders I sent forward my skirmish line at daylight this morning, and that they found the country west of the Congaree and Saluda Rivers evacuated by the enemy. At 8 a. m. the division moved opposite Columbia, and soon after to the crossing of the Saluda, near Saluda Factory, where two regiments were crossed in boats, driving away the enemy, and afterwards the entire division crossed and pushed on to the Broad, but failed to save the bridge. Early this morning two men were wounded from the shots of the enemy across the Congaree River. My headquarters are at the white house, about a half mile west of the Broad River.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 43. } Near Columbia, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Division commanders will cause their white pioneer corps to report at once to Captain Kossak, chief engineer, at the houses that are near the battery that is playing on the city.

II. Division commanders will cause all animals in their commands ridden by unauthorized persons to be seized at the crossing of the Broad River. They will dispose of the serviceable animals in their batteries, escort companies, trains, and quartermaster's department. The worthless ones will be shot.

III. The following are the orders for to-morrow:

Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will have the advance in crossing the river, and will be prepared to move at daylight, but will not move until he receives orders.

Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will be prepared to move at 7 o'clock, and will follow the First Division.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will be prepared to move at 8 o'clock, and will follow the Third Division.

The trains will move with their respective divisions.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 11.	} HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS, Zion Church, S. C., February 16, 1865.
---------------------------------------	--

The corps will move to-morrow as follows:

General Carlin will move at 6 a. m., taking the main road from Columbia up the Saluda River via the Dutch Church; at that point taking the right-hand road until nearly opposite Eleazar or Rockville Post-Office, and thence striking across to that point.

General Morgan will move at 6 a. m., crossing the Saluda River, and taking the road via South Oakville Post-Office and Metts', and opposite the mouth of Wateree Creek, or Freshly's, at which point he will receive further instructions.

General Baird, with the trains of the corps, will move at 7 a. m. on the direct road to Columbia until he reaches Draft's house; thence take the left-hand road, via this point, and, crossing the river, will take the road used by General Morgan's division.

Corps headquarters train, with the reserve artillery and ammunition train, the First Michigan Engineers, and the pontoon train, will move at 7 in the rear of General Morgan's division.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. MCCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

ORDERS.]	} HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS, Near Columbia, S. C., February 16, 1865.
----------	---

This command will march to-morrow to Zion Church as follows: First Division at 8 a. m., Second Division at 9 a. m., Third Division at 10 a. m. Each division will cover its own train. General Jackson will march one unencumbered brigade in the advance. General Ward will march two regiments as rear guard. One section of artillery will accompany the rear guard; the balance of the artillery will march immediately in rear of the advance brigade. The Michigan Engineers, with their trains, will follow the artillery, starting at 8 a. m.

By command of Brevet Major-General Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY COMMAND,
In the Field, Lexington, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN:

GENERAL: I have at my headquarters a discharged Confederate soldier, who left Richmond Saturday evening last at 6 p. m. He left Columbia yesterday evening. He reports R. E. Lee and Longstreet stopping at the Palmetto House. He thinks that, all told, militia and regular troops, the enemy has not over 20,000 effective men. Only a portion of S. D. Lee's corps is in Columbia. Longstreet's corps, or a portion of it, was expected, but Grant's attack on Burgess' and Armstrong's Mills, near Petersburg, delayed the departure. A large portion of Wheeler's cavalry is now in and around Columbia; the remaining portion was in my rear at noon to-day, but is at this present moment crossing the river about fifteen miles above this point. Major-General Hampton is in Columbia, with two brigades of cavalry, Butler's and Young's, but not mounted. Their horses are now up in Fairfield District; have been sent for, and are not expected before Sunday. Seventeen hundred Federal officers were yesterday at noon still in Columbia, confined near the asylum. Nearly 20,000 of our prisoners he reports now in a large stockade on the Charlotte and Columbia Railroad ten miles from Columbia. I don't fear Wheeler and Hampton combined, even without supports. Wheeler's men have thrown away and I have destroyed upward of 1,500 stand of arms in the various stampedes my people have given different portions of his command since leaving Sister's Ferry. In the fight near Aiken, in which one of my regiments (the Ninety-second Illinois), one company of the Ninth Michigan, and small detachments from the Ninth and Tenth Ohio, and my staff and escort, were alone engaged against Humes' and Allen's divisions, commanded by Wheeler in person, I lost but 25 men killed and wounded and less than 20 taken prisoners. It was not a general fight, but simply a reconnaissance. This party fell slowly back from Aiken before these two divisions, and at 11 a. m. Wheeler, with one brigade, feigned upon my left flank and charged me, mounted, with his entire command. I occupied a strong position, had no flanks, and he was most handsomely repulsed. His loss before he reached my barricades, in Allen's division alone, according to his official report, was 31 killed and upward of 160 wounded. I took upward of 60 prisoners, and have in my possession 5 battle-flags as proof of our superiority over his cavalry. I am now guarding the country from Wise's Ferry across to and beyond the Two Notch road, and I am scouting the country farther south. I can hear of no force of the enemy in our rear. If I could be thrown across the Saluda I could capture a large number of horses, and should be only too happy to be thrown even across Broad River, when it will take more than Wheeler's cavalry, assisted by Hampton, to keep me off of the Charlotte and Columbia Railroad. I write you this in detail and fully, that you may have the facts in the case. Wheeler has, as usual, reported a victory over my people, whose backs he never yet has seen, and from all that I can learn a portion of our army seems only too willing to believe such reports. Unfortunately for me, Wheeler did not this time have the good fortune to meet and rout, as at Waynesborough, one of our infantry corps.

I am ready, general, for any orders you may have to send me.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. KILPATRICK,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding Cavalry.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE CAVALRY,

Roberts' House, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Maj. L. G. ESTES,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: Colonel Jones reports that the banks of the Saluda at Wise's Ferry, on this side, are low and swampy, and that a muddy creek has to be passed before reaching it, which would require a bridge. He thinks it a bad place to attempt a crossing. The enemy have a picket on the opposite bank, on the bluff which overlooks the ferry and which commands the low lands on this side. He also reports a ferry about one mile and a half below, at Swygert's Mill, where the road is good to the water, with the bluff on this side commanding the low lands on the opposite. The enemy also have a picket at this point, but the colonel says they can be easily dislodged. The river is about 400 feet wide, and may be 500. Forage is plenty. The colonel has captured thirty horses and mules and the men are constantly bringing them in. There is a ford on the Saluda at Dreher's Mills, about four miles from this point, but whether it could be now forded is doubted by the people here. I have just been informed of it, and will send a scout to that [point] to determine the matter. I have left Colonel Jones encamped near the ferry, which I suppose is correct. If not, let me hear from you. Captain MacKnight, of my staff, accompanied Colonel Jones, and fully corroborates his statements. Captain MacKnight thinks the Saluda 250 yards wide.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
 THOS. J. JORDAN,
Colonel, Commanding Brigade.

[First indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY COMMAND,
February 15 [16], 1865—3.30 p. m.

Respectfully forwarded for information of Major-General Davis. Only about 1,500 of Wheeler's people found through Lexington; the remaining portion of his command is now crossing ten miles above this point. If 500 feet of pontoon bridging can be spared me I can cross at the point indicated by Colonel Jones, scatter and break Wheeler up. The entire country in our rear is now free of the enemy, and I can leave this point, so far as the enemy is concerned. I need horses and can capture them on the opposite side. The country is rich. My orderly will bring reply.

Very respectfully,

J. KILPATRICK,
Brevet Major-General.

[Second indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Zion Church, February 16, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded for the information of the major-general commanding Left Wing, Army of Georgia.

JEF. C. DAVIS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Brigadier-General WEBSTER,
Savannah:

I am this moment in receipt of your dispatch of the 14th in reference to General Grover's command. His force is amply sufficient to garrison Savannah City and Fort Pulaski, and I want the garrison of that fort to enable me to carry out with certainty the orders from General Sherman. A part of the regiment is already with General Hatch. 250 men will be enough for Pulaski.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 16, 1865.

COMMANDING GENERAL CONFEDERATE FORCES,
DEPARTMENT OF SOUTH CAROLINA, &C.,
Charleston, S. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that I have been authorized by Lieutenant-General Grant, commanding the Armies of the United States, to exchange all the Confederate officers and men now held as prisoners of war within the limits of my command. These number at present about 500, and are mostly officers. I propose to exchange them rank for rank, and where officers of equal rank cannot be obtained, to be governed by the cartel agreed upon in 1862 regulating equivalents. Should this proposition be favorably entertained by you, I request you to appoint an officer to meet Lieutenant-Colonel Woodford, of my staff, and arrange the necessary details. Lieutenant-Colonel Woodford is authorized by me to act in my behalf in all matters connected with the proposed exchange.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,
Savannah, Ga.:

You will at once send a force to relieve the present garrison at Fort Pulaski. The relief must be between 200 and 300 strong, commanded by a good officer. Order the regiment now at Fort Pulaski to proceed to Combahee Ferry, with three days' cooked rations and camp and garrison equipage, and report to General Hatch. The regiment must not leave any effective officers or men behind.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Lieut. THOMAS J. ROBINSON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, Jacksonville, Fla.:

LIEUTENANT: Your letter of the 11th instant to Major-General Foster, informing him of the capture of the expedition under Lieutenant-Colonel Wilcoxson, and also of the serious illness of General Scammon, was duly received. I am directed by Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore, commanding the department, to extend to you his thanks for the information, and to state that you acted properly in sending the information in the manner you did. Colonel Tilghman has been instructed to proceed at once to Jacksonville from Saint Augustine to report to district headquarters for duty. He is to assume command of the district should General Scammon still continue to be unfit for duty. Major-General Gillmore directs that you send to these headquarters by return steamer copies of the orders issued ordering the expedition under Lieutenant-Colonel Wilcoxson to go after cotton.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. P. SCAMMON,

Commanding District of Florida, Department of the South:

GENERAL: I am directed by Major-General Gillmore, commanding department, to state that he regrets that another disaster should have happened to our troops in Florida after so many cautions to the contrary. The major-general commanding directs me to call your attention particularly to a letter from these headquarters, dated January 29, 1865, which distinctly says that hereafter no party shall be sent out less than 1,000 strong, except when scouts are sent to ascertain the position of the enemy. The report received from your headquarters states that the party captured lately, with Lieutenant-Colonel Wilcoxson in command, numbered only forty-eight men, with ten wagons, and that the entire party was captured. This, besides being a violation of instructions, certainly shows that either parties are sent out in your district without a sufficient knowledge of the strength of the enemy, or that, knowing their strength, the parties are invariably too small. The major-general commanding directs that a full report of this disaster be made as soon as possible, to be accompanied by copies of the orders under which the expedition went out, the object, and at whose instigation they were sent.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 16, 1865.

Col. B. C. TILGHMAN,

Third U. S. Colored Troops, Saint Augustine, Fla.:

COLONEL: Reports from Jacksonville contain the information that Brigadier-General Scammon is so seriously ill as to be unfit for any duty. Unless you have reliable information of his recovery before you receive this letter, you will proceed by the earliest conveyance to Jacksonville and report to district headquarters for duty.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Federal Point, N. C., February 16, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. G. FOSTER, Comdg. Department of the South:

GENERAL: I have not had an opportunity of communicating with you since the receipt of your instructions from General Sherman, and now avail myself of your dispatch boat to acknowledge the receipt of your orders, inclosing those of General Sherman, and also of your letter of the 4th instant informing me of his progress. My troops have been much delayed in getting transportation from Washington. Less than half of them have yet arrived. Hence, I have been able to do very little. I shall, however, move against Fort Anderson to-morrow, and hope to get Wilmington in a few days. If I succeed in this I will then open the railroad toward Goldsborough as far and as rapidly as practicable. Should I fail to get Wilmington, which is possible, if it be re-enforced from Richmond, I would then secure possession of the west bank of Cape Fear River, and open communication with General Sherman in the direction of Florence. In any event, I will have supplies for General Sherman's army at the best point attainable. General Grant came here with me and gave me the orders under which I am acting, which differ somewhat from those sent by General Sherman. If you are in safe communication with General Sherman please explain this to him, and inform him what I am doing. In addition to my movement against Wilmington, I have increased General Palmer's force at New Berne by 5,000 men, and ordered him to take Kinston, or at least the railroad crossing of Neuse River. You have doubtless received the War Department orders creating the Department of North Carolina.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
No. 3. } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 16, 1865.

The following officers are assigned to duty as members of the departmental staff. Reports will be made and business transacted through them, in accordance with existing orders and regulations:

Col. George S. Dodge, chief quartermaster; Lieut. Col. R. B. Treat, acting chief commissary of subsistence; Surg. Edward Shippen, acting medical director; Capt. William J. Twining, aide-de-camp, chief engineer.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
No. 4. } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 16, 1865.

First Lieut. E. H. Russell, Signal Corps U. S. Army, having reported at these headquarters in compliance with orders from the War Department, is announced as chief signal officer of the Department of North Carolina.

By order of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Smithville, N. C., February 16, 1865.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: I find no rations are here yet, and it may be late before they get here. In that case I suppose it will be the commanding general's desire that we supply ourselves before starting to-morrow. Please inform me if it is otherwise. If we go round Fort Anderson the road will take us to the left immediately after leaving town, and it will be out of the way to go to Reeves' Point.

Very respectfully,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
 ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 16, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. D. COX,
Commanding Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps:

GENERAL: Your note of this date is just received. Rations are on the way to Smithville, and the commanding general desires you to supply your command with rations before you start, but to go to Fort Anderson to-morrow as previously ordered.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 17, 1865.

Hon E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War:

The Richmond Examiner of to-day says:

A dispatch received at the Treasury Department from one of its agents in Columbia reports the local forces there under arms, and that some skirmishing had taken place with the enemy in the vicinity of the town. It is not stated that the enemy was in considerable force there, and something may be allowed for exaggeration and alarm. We have from a gentleman who left Columbia as late as Tuesday last, and who arrived here last night, some interesting news from the military situation there. From this source we have confirmation of a fight on the 11th instant between Wheeler and Kilpatrick, near Aiken. It appears that General Wheeler, after enticing him [from] behind his intrenchments, charged with his whole command and routed the enemy with confusion, driving him back a distance of about five miles. Ammunition giving out it was impossible for our men to push Kilpatrick farther, and the contest there ceased. We took a considerable number of prisoners, among whom were a portion of the Thirty-third Massachusetts Regiment.

The force of the enemy which had taken Orangeburg was said to be about 12,000 strong.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES.

Mr. Anderson, from Committee on Military Affairs, made the following report:

"The General Assembly of Virginia, impressed with the importance of calling into active service the whole physical strength of the Confederate States in this momentous crisis, and it being the opinion of the highest military authority that the efficiency of our army may be greatly increased by the enlistment of negroes: Therefore,

Resolved by the General Assembly, That the Confederate States is authorized, and the consent of this State is hereby given, to enlist such number of able-bodied slaves for military service as may be deemed necessary upon such terms and under such limitations as may be agreed upon between the Confederate Government and the owners of such slaves."

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 41.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Columbia, S. C., February 17, 1865.

The following operations of this command will take place to-morrow: The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, commencing at 7 a. m., will complete the destruction of the Southern Branch of the South Carolina Railroad as far south as possible, detailing for that purpose two divisions of his corps. The Seventeenth Corps, Major-General Blair commanding, will commence at 7 a. m. the destruction of the South Carolina Railroad northward toward Winnsborough, using as far as practicable the entire strength of his corps. The track and ties will be torn up and fired, and the First Regiment Engineers Michigan Volunteers, following, will twist the rails. All trains of the army will close up with their respective corps, and as soon as everything is across Broad River the pontoon bridge will be taken up. That part of it belonging to the Left Wing will return, passing up the west bank of the Broad River. The department cattle herd will cross Broad River to-night. Lieut. Col. William E. Strong, chief of staff, will superintend the destruction of the public buildings, cotton, railroad depots, machine-shops, and manufacturing establishments.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Zion Church, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: If you can spare the ten sections of pontoon I would like to have them returned to-night. If you are not through with them please let me know what time to-morrow you will be through with them, as the Twentieth Corps crosses here to-morrow.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 17, 1865—1.30 a. m.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: The engineers have thus far been unable to throw a line across the river owing to the very rapid current. The Third Brigade is ready at the river bank, and will cross over as soon as the line can be made fast to the other shore. The officer in command of engineer regiment has tried every expedient to throw a line over, but thus far without effect. Before I left camp I made out and sent you the general's daily report. It was then thought that the Third Brigade was crossing in small boats. The colonel of the engineer regiment thinks that by means of anchoring in center of the stream he may be able to get the line over. Just as soon as the boats can pass I will send you word.

By order of Brevet Major-General Woods:

FRED. H. WILSON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

February 17, 1865—5 a. m.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: The Third Brigade is now crossing over the river in boats. There are some 200 of our troops now on the opposite shore. They are throwing up works to protect the crossing. As soon as the balance of the brigade is over Colonel Stone will immediately move on to Columbia. His brigade will scarcely be able to get started from the other side before daylight.

By order of Brevet Major-General Woods:

FRED. H. WILSON,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Columbia, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I respectfully report that at 3 o'clock this morning I began crossing the Third Brigade of my division (Colonel Stone commanding) over the Broad River, using three pontoon boats for the purpose. The process was so difficult that it was 7 o'clock before the brigade reached the opposite shore. Passing through the swamps, with skirmishers well thrown forward, the brigade soon reached the high land, and at once took position on a range of hills looking toward the city. The opposition was but slight. The city soon surrendering, Colonel Stone moved forward and occupied the place, the remainder of my division following as soon as the pontoon bridge was laid. I moved beyond the city, encamping on the east side of the Charlotte and South Carolina Railroad, facing eastward. The troops first entering Columbia were met on the roadside by citizens of every grade, who most unwisely furnished them with great quantities of intoxicating liquors, bringing it out in buckets, cups, and vessels of all description. As a result the confusion prevailing throughout the town was increased tenfold, and at night, in obedience to the direction of the corps commander, the brigade on duty as guards in the town was relieved by the First Brigade, commanded by Brevet Brigadier-General Woods, and every practicable measure was promptly adopted to prevent the spreading of the conflagration that was rapidly extending over the entire town and to arrest the countless villains of every command that were roaming over the streets. As strong patrols as could be furnished by the brigade were distributed throughout the town. My headquarters are at the house of Mr. Stark, at the east end of Senate street.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. R. WOODS,

Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Columbia, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: The troops first entering Columbia were met on the roadside by citizens of every grade, who most unwisely furnished them with great quantities of intoxicating liquors, bringing it out in buckets, cups, and vessels of every description. As a result the confusion prevailing throughout the town was increased tenfold, and at night, in obedience to the direction of the corps commander, the brigade on duty as guards in the town was relieved by the First Brigade, commanded by Brevet Brigadier-General Woods, and every practicable measure was promptly adopted to prevent the spreading of the conflagration that was rapidly extending over the entire town, and to arrest the countless villains of every command that were roaming over the streets. As strong patrols as could be furnished by the brigade were distributed throughout the town.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

[Indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded to the assistant adjutant-general, Department and Army of the Tennessee, for the information of the commanding general. In addition to the brigade under command of Brevet Brigadier-General Woods ordered into town to relieve that commanded by Colonel Stone, one from the Second Division was placed on provost duty.

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
(In temporary absence of the major-general.)

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 31. } Near Broad River, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Upon the laying of the pontoons the balance of the division will immediately cross Broad River, closing up with the advance brigade that is now moving over by means of boats. The order of march will be the same as of yesterday, the Third Brigade leading, followed by the battery, First, and Second Brigades. To-day and hereafter during the campaign, unless it be otherwise ordered, regimental trains will invariably march in rear of their respective regiments, the brigade headquarters teams following their brigades. The wagons of extra ammunition will move with division headquarters just after the battery; the ambulance train following the First Brigade, commanded by Brevet Brigadier-General Woods, commanding.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. Woods:

FRED. H. WILSON,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 17, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN, U. S. Army,
Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Yesterday the general commanding requested Colonel Jones to place a guard over the factory buildings, as it was anticipated that we should use the flooring thereof in constructing the bridge. As there is now no necessity for the guard remaining you may withdraw it.

By order:

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command marched at 3 p. m. to-day in rear of the corps with baggage train, crossing Broad River half a mile from camp on pontoon bridge and reached Columbia at 6.30 p. m. Took a position one mile from the city on the Charlotte and South Carolina Railroad, having marched five miles.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Columbia, S. C., February 16 [17], 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that my division broke camp and crossed the Broad River at 4 p. m. to-day, and passing through this city camped one mile below it. My headquarters are at a small wood-colored building at about the center of my troops.

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Broad River, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report the operations of this command for yesterday, the 16th instant, as follows: Broke camp at 7 a. m. and moved across Congaree Creek; halted until near noon, then moved to ground occupied in the morning by First Division. Remained at that point until 2 p. m., and then moved to bank of Congaree River, opposite Columbia. At 4 p. m. received orders to follow Fourth Division and cross Saluda River at Saluda Factory; commenced crossing at the earliest possible moment (11 p. m.). The last of the command (except supply trains) arrived at camp near bridge across Broad River at 2 o'clock this p. m. These headquarters are established on the east side of the main road, opposite the left of the division. The troops were, owing to the lateness of the hour, encamped with reference to their comfort.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Columbia, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report the operations of this command for the day, as follows: Broke camp on Broad River at 3 o'clock this p. m., crossed Broad River at 4 p. m., and marched through the city of Columbia to a position east of the city and railroad and near the latter. The First Brigade is encamped in line, the right connecting with the Fourth and its left with the First Division. The Second Brigade is in line in rear of and parallel with the First as a reserve. The artillery is in rear of Second Brigade. These headquarters are established on the railroad in rear of the right of the First Brigade.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,

Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, on Broad River, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to make the following detailed [report of the] movements and operations of my command during the 16th instant: Pursuant to orders received from the major-general commanding, I moved from my position on Congaree Creek at 10.30 a. m., and diverging from the main traveled road crossed the large open field, marching nearly abreast of the First Division of this corps, and halted on the hill near a cluster of deserted buildings. At 12 m. I received orders from the general commanding, transmitted through a staff officer, to move my division forward by the road and occupy the position just vacated by Major-General Hazen, which I reached and occupied at 1.30 p. m. without resistance from the enemy, with the exception of a field battery which directed its fire against my right, while taking the position assigned, and the wagon trains of the corps (both of which were in easy range and plainly visible to the enemy's guns); their shot, however, were directed too low to produce any evil effects, and the guns were in a very short time completely silenced by a few well-directed and rapid shots from Captain Callahan's battery (H, First Missouri Light Artillery), attached to this division, besides driving the enemy's skirmishers from the river bank on my right. At 4 p. m. I received orders to move my command across the Saluda River, which I succeeded in doing, and bivouacked with my infantry and artillery midway between Saluda and Broad Rivers, known as Dutch Fork, at 10.30 p. m. My train did not all get in until 6.30 a. m., the 17th instant. Owing to the darkness and crowded condition of the roads by the troops and trains, a portion of my command crossed the Saluda River in advance of the trains of the First Division, which was evidently through ignorance on the part of brigade commander, supposing that they were passing the trains of the Fourth Division.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,

Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 44. }

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Near Columbia, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Division commanders will cause the carpenters of the pioneer corps to report forthwith with tools to Captain Klostermann, engineer, Fifteenth Army Corps, at the bridge at Saluda Factory, for the purpose of building pontoon boats.

II. The following are the orders for to-morrow:

Each division will destroy three miles of road. The First Division will commence at the depot of the South Carolina Railroad at 7 a. m. and destroy three miles toward Winnsborough. It will then move forward to a camp to be selected six miles from the city. The Fourth Division will commence three miles from the city and destroy three miles north. The Third Division will move to a point six miles north of the city and destroy three miles, after which it will move back to the camp, six miles from the city. It will not be necessary to twist or bend the rails, as the First Michigan Engineers will follow and do it. The ties will be piled up with the rails on them and fired.

Two regiments will be left to come up with the train of each division as guard, and the trains will move forward to the camp as soon as they cross to-morrow.

The Third Division will move at 7 o'clock and the Fourth Division at 8 a. m.

Headquarters of the corps will remain in the city to-morrow.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Before Columbia, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say to you that we will remain in our present camp to-day.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 17, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: General Sherman has ordered the bridge relaid and we will move according to last night's order, the First Division moving about 10 o'clock.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

The Third Division will be ready to move about noon.

DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 17, 1865.

Brigadier-General FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: General Blair directs that after crossing the Saluda River you will park all your train about one mile and a half from the Saluda, at a point to be indicated by Captain Steele, aide-de-camp, with the exception of fifteen ammunition wagons and ambulances, which will be taken with your division across Broad River. The artillery will accompany your column.

Very respectfully,

A. HICKENLOOPER,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Inspector-General.

---

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps :

The colors of the Thirteenth Iowa were suspended over the capitol at 11 o'clock this forenoon. National salute is now being fired by Captain Clayton, First Minnesota Battery, to commemorate this event.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GILES A. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 17, 1865.

[Lient. Col. A. C. McCLURG:]

COLONEL: I regret to have to inform the general commanding the corps that I have missed the road he ordered me to take, and am now on the Newberry road. I marched up the road along Saluda River to a road leading by a church, which I was informed by a negro resident of the vicinity was Dutch Church. But this proved erroneous, and the road brought me into this road ahead of General Morgan. I still thought I was right till I had marched several miles, and then concluded that the loss of time would not justify a return to the other road. I hope no inconvenience will result from the mistake.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. P. CARLIN,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION, FOURTEENTH CORPS,
Near Metts' House, February 17, 1865.

Lient. Col. A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General :

COLONEL: Say to the general commanding that on reaching this point, after much detention at the bridge and much labor on the road, Captain Remington reported to me that his trains could not get this far and park before 10 p. m. I therefore put the leading brigade in camp and am camping the trains as they come in. My troops alone or with the trains can march at any hour in the morning. I think, however, we have gained by making a little interval and letting the trains close up.

Most respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. BAIRD,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding Division.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Saluda River, S. C., February 17, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Alston in the following order: Second Division, Third Division, First Division. If the wagon trains of the corps shall have succeeded in crossing the river during the night, as ordered, General Geary will break camp at daybreak, cross the river with his troops, and take the advance. General Ward, with his troops, will follow the Second Division. The batteries now with the Second and Third Divisions will march with those divisions until after crossing the river. After crossing the river General Ward will put his troops and battery in position to cover the taking up of the pontoon bridge. The pontoon train, after the bridge is taken up, will pass the Third Division, and take its place in the column at the head of the train of the Second Division. After crossing the Saluda River, General Geary will march one unencumbered brigade as the advance. Three batteries of artillery will follow the advanced brigade, one battery marching with the rear guard, which will consist of one brigade of the First Division. Each division commander will dispose of his troops so as to cover his own trains. General Geary will keep himself informed as to the success of the trains in crossing the river, and he will not leave his present camp until the train has so far crossed the river that he will have the road unobstructed to the bridge.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: I send you by mail Charleston newspapers of the 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th, which give the latest news from General Sherman. They state that he crossed the South Fork of the Edisto at Binnaker's Bridge on the 9th. I have possession of the Charleston and Savannah Railroad as far as the Edisto. The enemy are on the line of the Edisto at Jacksonborough and Willstown. General Hatch's division captured 6 guns on the 15th. The road has been so thoroughly destroyed that there is no use of keeping up the intrenched camp at Pocotaligo Station. I can make much better use of the troops elsewhere, and ask authority to use my discretion in the matter. The place can at any time be reoccupied in a few hours. I have 10 dispatches from Bull's Bay later than the 12th. General Potter expected to land there on the 13th. I shall go up there to-morrow.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, February 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,
Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: The application of R. D. Arnold, mayor of Savannah, for permission for himself and two other persons to proceed to Washington City by way of New York, has been forwarded to this Department by Major-General Foster, who states that he has given the three gentlemen permission to go to New York to await the decision of the Department. The permission they desire cannot be granted, and the Secretary of War directs that no deputations of this kind be allowed to go North from Savannah. All matters which need to be considered and decided here can be submitted in writing through the proper channels.

Your obedient servant,

C. A. DANA,
Assistant Secretary of War.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, U. S. Armies, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I have had time enough to look about me, and am now enabled to state what the most pressing wants of this department are. I shall confine myself in this letter to one single point. The Union sentiment in Georgia is in danger of dying out for want of nourishment. It is my earnest desire to foster it to such an extent that the people will be induced to give free expression to it themselves. With the exception of the city of Savannah and its environs within the picket-line, we hold no more territory in that State than we did before General Sherman's march through it. I want a few more troops, say 4,000 or 5,000, 1,000 of which should be cavalry or mounted infantry. I firmly believe that they could be of more service here than in any other portion of the country. I wish to operate in Georgia in a manner partly civil and partly military before the people have time to recover from the panic and the sense of subjugation which now exists. During the progress of extensive military operations in South Carolina and North Carolina great things could be accomplished in Georgia with a very small force of mounted troops. I respectfully request that this matter may be brought to the attention of the Secretary of War, and recommended to his favorable action.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

[First indorsement.]

FEBRUARY 22, 1865.

Respectfully referred to Lieutenant-General Grant with the remark that General Gillmore has been ordered, as directed, to send all white troops not required to hold the sea-ports to Cape Fear River.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General, Chief of Staff.

[Second indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMIES OF THE UNITED STATES,
City Point, Va., February 25, 1865.

Please inform General Gillmore that he will comply with orders sent to him to send his surplus troops to Cape Fear River. We want to use our troops in putting down those in arms against us and not in what has always proven a useless attempt, to get up Union sentiment by a show of strength and diplomacy where there is no resistance. Mounted men at Savannah may be necessary, but to get them they must be mounted in the country.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, U. S. Armies, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I have received a special order from the War Department relieving Brevet Brigadier-General Littlefield from duty in this department, and directing him to report to Major-General Canby for duty. General Littlefield being mustering and disbursing officer of this department, and in charge of the funds pertaining to that office, will not be able to complete his preparations for leaving in time to take the steamer Fulton, which sails to-morrow, but will be in readiness probably to go in the Arago on her next trip. I desire to make an earnest appeal for the suspension, temporarily at least, of the order relieving General Littlefield, for the reason that he understands and can conduct the business of recruiting and organizing colored troops better than any officer in this command, and better, indeed, than any one I could expect to have sent here to take his place. If Brigadier-General Birney is ordered here in compliance with General Foster's application, I request that he may not be assigned to any special duties in the order. I may desire to put him in command of the District of Florida, as General Scammon is quite ill.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, U. S. Armies, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to transmit herewith an official copy of intercepted signal dispatches of the enemy, in and around Charleston Harbor.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

[Inclosure.]

Intercepted signal dispatches relative to demonstrations on James Island.

(City to Battery Bee.)

FEBRUARY 10, 1865—7 p. m.

Colonel RHETT:

Have the steamers returned from carrying troops to James Island?

PAGE,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

(City to Battery Bee.)

FEBRUARY 10, 1865—7.30 p. m.

Colonel RHETT:

Send Captain Le Gardneur to James Island. Send to McCormick's Landing at once and stop the steamer for him, if it is still there.

TALIAFERRO,
General.

(City to Battery Bee.)

FEBRUARY 10, 1865—12 p. m.

Colonel RHETT:

Order Young's dismounted men to report to Lieutenant Elliott, James Island, at once. A steamer will be at Mount Pleasant for them.

PAGE,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

(City to Battery Bee.)

FEBRUARY 11, 1865—7 a. m.

Land Le Gardeur's battery as soon as possible.

PAGE,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Battery Bee to City.)

FEBRUARY 11, 1865—4.15 p. m.

Colonel R.,

Corner Vanderhorst and Thomas Streets:

General Pemberton will be at Fort Sumter at dark this p. m.

PAGE,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

(City to Ram, Charleston.)

FEBRUARY 11, 1865—10.15 p. m.

Fleet Officer TUCKER:

Enemy attacked Simkins to-night. Barges reported between Morris Island and Fort Johnson. Please send out your iron-clads and drive them off.

HARDEE,
General.

Dispatches relative to expedition to Bull's Bay.

(Battery Bee to City.)

FEBRUARY 12, 1865—1 p. m.

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

Thirteen steamers arrived in Bull's Bay at 8 o'clock this a. m.

BOYLSTON,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Battery Bee to Sumter.)

FEBRUARY 12, 1865—3.30 p. m.

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

Two or three more steamers have entered Bull's Bay, one in creek in front of Andersonville, and two in lower end of the bay.

BOYLSTON,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

(City to Battery Bee.)

FEBRUARY 12, 1865—4.30 p. m.

Lieutenant BOYLSTON,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

Order Captain Parker's battery back to Andersonville at once.

(Battery Bee to Sumter.)

FEBRUARY 12, 1865—9.25 p. m.

Colonel GRIFFIN,

First Regiment State Troops, Royal's House, James Island:

On way to join the regiment, but see troops returning here from there. Must I go on or return to camp? Answer.

DOZIER,
Assistant Surgeon.

(Battery Bee to Sumter.)

FEBRUARY 12, 1865—9.25 p. m.

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

Another report just from Andersonville. Twelve vessels of different kinds are quietly anchored in the bay; two or three gone in the direction of McClellanville.

RHETT,
Colonel.

(City to Battery Bee.)

FEBRUARY 13, 1865—1.25 a. m.

Lieutenant BOYLSTON:

Young's dismounted men and 400 of Conner's brigade have been ordered to McCormick's Landing. Colonel Rhett is to send Parker's battery to T.

PAGE,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Battery Bee to Sumter.)

FEBRUARY 13, 1865—9 a. m.

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

All quiet on this island. Colonel Rhett is now in the Christ Church lines.

JONES,
Lieutenant.

(Battery Bee to City.)

FEBRUARY 13, 1865—6.45 p. m. (Received 8.30 a. m.)

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

No further information of the movements of the enemy. Young's men and the Fire Brigade have not reported. Le Gardeur's battery is at the church. Horses have been in harness for sixty hours. Parker's battery gone forward. I have ordered two 20-pounder Parrotts from Sullivan's Island to the lines, * * * is to be in readiness to march. Have now 500 men in the lines; want 2,000.

RHETT,
Colonel.

(Battery Bee to City.)

FEBRUARY 13, [1865]—7.30 p. m.

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

The last report received from Bull's Bay was forwarded, stating that there are twelve vessels of different kinds in the bay. The kind is not designated. One or two have gone in the direction of McClellanville. Will forward reports as they come in.

I. JONES,
Aide-de-Camp.

Lieut. JOHN SYKES,

Calhoun Light Battery:

Appear here as a witness in the case of Private George Taylor to-morrow at 10 a. m., at Colonel Rhett's headquarters.

N. O. LOWE,
Judge-Advocate.

Captain LAMAR,

Assistant Commissary of Subsistence, Mount Pleasant:

I send you an important communication by boat to-night.

BULKLEY,
Major.

Major VARDELL,

Quartermaster, Mount Pleasant:

I send you an important communication by boat to-night.

BULKLEY,
Major.

(City to Battery Bee.)

FEBRUARY 14, 1865—1.30 a. m.

Colonel RHETT:

I have received no estimate of the number of the enemy's troops. Why has it not been sent? Why has Blake not reported? It is important to keep me advised, and must be done. Send if necessary special courier to-night to ascertain facts. Use artillery horses if you have no cavalry. Will send engineers in the morning. Stop Quirk's company engineer troops now at McCormick's Landing to do the work at the lines. They will leave for the city in the morning, unless you stop them to-night. Signal men will be sent.

TALIAFERRO,
General.

R. NORTH:

We called you since 2 o'clock this a. m. to send the above message.

RUSKILL,
Sergeant.

Sergeant METARD:

Proceed at once to Palmetto Battery and open communications with Battery Marshall.

HARRISON,
Lieutenant and Chief Signal Officer.

(Battery Bee to City.)

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

No attack up to 11.20 last p. m. Conner's men have arrived, and Andersonville reported safe. No firing heard during the night. Will inform you promptly if anything occurs.

RHETT,
Colonel.

(Battery Bee to Sumter.)

FEBRUARY 14, [1865]—4.10 p. m.

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

All quiet at Andersonville. Colonel Rhett wishes to know if you have ordered an engineer company to the lines.

JONES,
Lieutenant.

Captain LAMAR,

Assistant Commissary of Subsistence, Fort Sumter:

Stores will be down to-night.

PRINGLE,
Major.

(Battery Bee to Sumter.)

FEBRUARY 15, 1865—6 a. m.

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I think that if the whole of Parker's battery be left at Andersonville, one gun of Le Gardeur's battery be sent to Gioham's, and another to Buck Hall, with a support of 100 men, that it would render the position secure. Have not made the arrangements, nor shall not do it unless I receive orders from General Taliaferro, as the firing on Stono renders it possible Le Gardeur's will be needed there.

RHETT,
Colonel.

FEBRUARY 15, 1865—6 p. m.

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

Your dispatch just received, 2.10 p. m. The information you ask for has been sent you in repeated dispatches. I will leave Mount Pleasant immediately to see the general. I should like to send two Parrott guns now on the lines to Andersonville and send on a section of Parker's battery to McClellanville.

RHETT,
Colonel.

(City to Castle Pinckney.)

FEBRUARY 15, 1865—8.30 p. m.

Captain KING:

Please send immediately to the city, to Major Echols, by small boat, all tools in good condition except wheelbarrows.

CLARKE,
Colonel.

(Battery Bee to City.)

FEBRUARY 16, 1865—1 p. m.

Captain PAGE,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

The following dispatch has been received from Andersonville: The number of the fleet remains the same at 12 this m. as at 11.10 last p. m. Two barges are quite busy sounding in front of Palmetto Point. One came in quite near the shore, but a party of six men fired on her. She moved off. During the time they were sounding signaling was kept up between barges and a tug, their distance about one mile from shore. Dispatch from Giohan's, just received, says that a barge has been moving about mouth of creek, also engaged in sounding. One of the steamers has just gone up to mouth of creek. Reply.

M. J. KIRK,
Captain.

Dispatches indicative of an evacuation.

(Battery Marshall to Palmetto Battery.)

FEBRUARY 16, 1865—2.20 p. m.

SIGNAL OPERATORS:

Be ready to move at a moment's notice. Save all the most valuable Government property. Orders and messages burnt.

METARD,
Sergeant.

(Battery Marshall to Palmetto Battery.)

FEBRUARY 16, 1865—2.45 p. m.

SIGNAL OPERATOR AT BATTERY P.:

Keep an extraordinary good watch on G. Destroy all papers. Keep none.

METARD,
Sergeant.

(Battery Bee to City.)

FEBRUARY 16, 1865—5.30 p. m.

Captain SEABROOK,

Ordnance Officer:

For want of wagons only part of the small-arms ammunition was sent. The remainder, about 60,000 rounds, is now on the wharf.

CRESWELL,
Lieutenant and Ordnance Officer.

(Battery Bee to City.)

FEBRUARY 16, 1865—5 p. m.

Sergeant RUSKILL:

Send stores by Rice or Carson. Send signal haversacks for carrying torches, flags, &c.

METARD,
Sergeant.

(Battery Bee to Fort Johnson.)

FEBRUARY 16, 1865—6.30 p. m.

SIGNAL OPERATORS ON JAMES ISLAND:

Operators will receive orders to retire from the commanders of their posts when General Taliaferro's division is formed. The operators will report to me in person. Place Government property and all cooking utensils in quartermaster's charge.

HARRISON,
Lieutenant and Chief Signal Officer.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 17, 1865.

Admiral D. D. PORTER,
Commanding North Atlantic Squadron :

General Cox will move against Fort Anderson early in the morning.
Please give it a good shelling.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
No. 7. } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 17, 1865.

* * * * *

XII. The Fourth and Fifth Divisions, Twenty-third Army Corps, will be dropped from the returns of the Twenty-third Army Corps, to date from January 20, 1865.

XIII. General Cox will advance his line early to-morrow morning and threaten Fort Anderson and the adjacent line. He will attack or not, as may seem advisable after reconnaissance. If he do not attack, he will intrench a line confronting that of the enemy and running from the river to the swamp. If possible, the line should be strong enough to be held by two brigades.

The above being accomplished, General Cox will leave two brigades to hold his line, and move with his remaining force by a cross-road to the Wilmington and Lockwood's Folly road, where he will be joined by General Ames' division of General Terry's corps, which is placed temporarily under the command of General Cox.

With this combined force General Cox will move around the swamp which covers the enemy's right, and attack him in rear or force him to abandon his position. If the enemy retreat, General Cox will attack him in flank or, if practicable, cut off his retreat.

General Ames, after landing at Smithville, will supply his troops with three days' rations in haversacks, and sixty or seventy rounds of ammunition per man, and march to-morrow p. m. about ten or twelve miles on the western Wilmington road to the point where he is to join General Cox, where he will await the arrival of General Cox and report to him for further orders. All the wagons which can be furnished by the quartermaster, "not to exceed thirty-five," will be loaded with commissary stores at Smithville, and move with General Ames to the point where he joins General Cox. There the haversacks of the men will be filled, and the emptied wagons sent back to Smithville. The loaded ones will accompany the expedition.

General Cox has full discretionary power in all contingencies not now foreseen. He will communicate frequently by signals and couriers, and in the event of success will effect a junction with the forces pursuing the enemy near the river as soon as practicable.

By command of Major-General Schofield :

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Federal Point, N. C., February 17, 1865.

Maj. Gen. A. H. TERRY,
Commanding U. S. Forces, Fort Fisher, N. C.:

GENERAL: I expect General Cox to advance against Fort Anderson this afternoon and attack or invest it as far as practicable, as may seem advisable after a reconnaissance.

Please be prepared to take advantage of any success that may be gained; also have a division ready to cross the river to-night, if it becomes necessary, which I expect it will. Let the men have three days' rations in haversacks, and their intrenching tools. I will be in communication with you by signal from Reeves' Point.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 34. }

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Fort Fisher, N. C., February 17, 1865.

I. Brig. Gen. Joseph R. Hawley, U. S. Volunteers, is announced as chief of staff at these headquarters, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry:

A. TERRY,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR }
No. 5. }

HEADQUARTERS NORTH LINE U. S. FORCES,
Federal Point, N. C., February 17, 1865.

The troops of this command will be held in readiness to move at a moment's notice, with three days' cooked rations and at least sixty rounds of ammunition upon their persons.

By command of Brig. Gen. C. J. Paine:

SOLOMON A. CARTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Smithville, N. C., February 17, 1865—7.30 a. m.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of North Carolina:

Rations have arrived and are issuing. We shall be off in an hour. The road to Fort Anderson from here leaves Reeves' Point three miles to the right. Shall I move more than one brigade down to the Point?

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
February 17, 1865—2 p. m.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of North Carolina:

I have struck the river some two miles above Reeves' Point. One brigade here; the others on the direct road from Smithville to Fort Anderson, about a mile to my left. My present position is supposed to be about two miles or less from the fort. It was nearer to come here than to the Point, and I think will do equally well for communication. The signal officer remained at Smithville to get off a dispatch, and has not yet overtaken me. I await further orders, whilst I am trying to connect my line from road to road continuously. Have skirmished with a battalion of cavalry for the last six miles. The troops have marched nine.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
February 17, 1865—7 p. m.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

The road to Reeves' Point seems pretty good, and if forage and stores and some ammunition can be landed there we can get them easier than by sending to Smithville. Let me know as early as possible which place we must send to.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 18, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

The Richmond Dispatch of this morning says Sherman entered Columbia yesterday morning, and its fall necessitates, it presumes, the fall of Charleston, which it thinks likely is already being evacuated.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 18, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON:

The following is taken from to-day's Richmond Dispatch:

THE FALL OF COLUMBIA.

Columbia has fallen. Sherman marched into and took possession of the city yesterday morning. This intelligence was communicated yesterday by General Beauregard in an official dispatch. Columbia is situated on the north bank of the Congaree River, just below the confluence of the Saluda and Broad Rivers. From General Beauregard's dispatch it appears that on Thursday the enemy approached the south bank of the Congaree and threw a number of shells into the city. During the night they moved up the river, and yesterday morning forded the Saluda and Broad. While they were crossing these rivers our troops, under General Beauregard, evacuated Columbia. The enemy soon after took possession.

Through private sources we learn that two days ago, when it was decided not to attempt the defense of Columbia, a large quantity of medical stores, which it was thought impossible to remove, were destroyed. The female employes of the Treasury Department had been previously sent off to Charlotte, N. C., a hundred miles north of Columbia. We presume the Treasury lithographic establishment was also removed, though as to this we have no positive information. The fall of Columbia necessitates, we presume, the evacuation of Charleston, which we think likely is already in process of execution. It is impossible to say where Sherman will next direct his columns. The general opinion is that he will go to Charleston and establish a base, but we confess we do not see what need he has of a base. It is to be presumed he is subsisting on the country, and he has had no battle to exhaust his ammunition. Before leaving Savannah he declared his intention to march to Columbia, thence to Augusta, and thence to Charleston. This was uttered as a boast, and to hide his designs. We are disposed to believe that he will next strike at Charlotte, which is 100 miles north of Columbia, on the Charlotte and Columbia Railroad, or at Florence, S. C., the junction of the Columbia and Wilmington and the Charleston and Wilmington Railroads, some ninety miles east of Columbia. There was a report yesterday that Augusta had also been taken by the enemy. This we do not believe. We have reason to feel assured that nearly the whole of Sherman's army is together at Columbia, and that the report that Schofield was advancing on Augusta was untrue.

From the Whig:

REMOVED.

The Charleston Mercury of Saturday announces a brief suspension of that paper, with a view to its temporary removal to another point. This is rendered necessary by the progress of military events cutting it off from the mail facilities for distributing its paper to a large portion of its subscribers, while the lack of transportation renders its supply of paper precarious.

Semmes has been made rear-admiral, and will take command of the James River Squadron.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

FLAG-SHIP HARVEST MOON,
Rebellion Roads, Charleston Harbor, February 18, 1865.
(Via Fort Monroe, Va., 7 p. m. 20th. Received 7.20 p. m.)

Hon. GIDEON WELLES,
Secretary of the Navy:

SIR: Charleston was abandoned this morning by the rebels. I am now on my way to the city, and have the honor to be, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,

JNO. A. DAHLGREN,
Rear-Admiral.

CITY POINT, VA., February 18, 1865—4.30 p. m.
(Received 5 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,
Washington:

With Charleston in our hands, which I now believe assured to us, Gillmore will be able to spare a large part of his force. Direct him the moment that takes place to garrison the seaport harbors he deems most important for us to hold, with minimum numbers, and send all surplus troops to Cape Fear River. If he should receive other instructions from Sherman he will be guided by them. He should send none but white troops out of his department.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

ON BOARD U. S. STEAMER CRESCENT,
Off Fort Fisher, N. C., February 18, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General U. S. Army:

GENERAL: I have been up to Morehead City and New Berne, and am now on my return to Savannah. Vessels loaded with supplies for Morehead City should not draw over fourteen feet and a half of water, if they can be had. If they draw more than that it will involve the necessity of their lying outside the bar and being lightened up by smaller vessels. There is no safe anchorage outside the bar, particularly at this season of the year. We can use to advantage, up to New Berne and about Morehead City, some twelve barges; and I wish you would send that number to Morehead City. I presume they can come down through canal, and by that means avoid going out to sea. Colonel Wright informs me that he is very much in want of 100 wagons for work on the railroad. It will be well to send him that number. He has made arrangements for oxen for teams. I shall want at New Berne and Morehead City, for hauling saw logs, wood, etc., 100 wagons, with 6-mule teams complete. Please order that number to Morehead City as soon as you can. I am going on the supposition that Morehead City is to be the depot, but the wagons and teams and barges will be useful to us at most any depot we may establish. There are poor facilities at Morehead City for a depot. There is but one small storehouse, and the wharf is very contracted. Colonel Wright will enlarge the wharf as soon as he can get the two steam pile-drivers from the North. The barges asked for should be of a character to carry a large freight on as little water as possible.

I am, general, most respectfully, your obedient servant,

L. C. EASTON,

Bvt. Brig. Gen., Chief Quartermaster Mil. Div. of the Miss.

CONFIDENTIAL.]

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

Washington City, February 18, 1865.

Colonel PERRY:

All supplies for General Sherman's army from this date will be directed on Beaufort Harbor, with orders to the vessels to discharge their cargoes and return north for further service. I have telegraphed such orders to General Van Vliet and to Colonel Biggs, New York and Philadelphia. General Rucker is advised also. Below is copy of dispatch I have sent to these three officers.

Respectfully,

M. C. MEIGS,

Quartermaster-General.

(Copies to Colonels Wise, Brown, and Card.)

General VAN VLIET:

All supplies for General Sherman's army not gone to sea should be hereafter directed on Beaufort Harbor, with orders to transports to discharge their cargoes with all speed and return north, so as to be available for further services if needed. This applies to both sail and steam transports. Vessels now in harbor should be notified of this change. Ship to Savannah and Port Royal only for local wants.

M. C. MEIGS,

Quartermaster-General, Brevet Major-General.

(Copies to Colonel Biggs and General Rucker.)

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, February 18, 1865.

Capt. H. C. HODGES,

Assistant Quartermaster, U. S. Army, Buffalo, N. Y. :

You will proceed without delay, via New York, consulting with General Van Vliet, to Beaufort Harbor and assume charge of the supplies collecting there for General Sherman's army, to carry out such instructions as you may receive from the Quartermaster-General, or the chief quartermaster of General Sherman's army, or from General Schofield, but until the arrival of General Easton, to be specially in charge of the depot, near Beaufort, for General Sherman's supplies. You will take with you some clerks and workmen to establish the depot immediately on your arrival at Beaufort Harbor.

M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General, Breret Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Columbia, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD,

Commanding Right Wing :

GENERAL: The general-in-chief desires you to direct two regiments, whose combined effective strength shall be 500 men, to report to Colonel Baylor, chief of ordnance at the Confederate arsenal, to act under his instructions until relieved. With them you will send twenty-five wagons for the purpose of hauling ammunition to the river. He also wishes you to prosecute the destruction of railroad with as much vigor as possible during to-day and to-morrow.

I am, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 42.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Columbia, S. C., February 18, 1865.

* * * * *

II. It having been brought to the attention of the commanding general that certain lawless and evil-disposed soldiers of this command have threatened to destroy the remainder of this city with fire, it is ordered that all commanding officers and provost-m Marshals use the utmost vigilance by establishing sufficient guards and patrols to prevent at all cost, even to the taking the life of any refractory soldier, a recurrence of the horrors of last night. Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair, commanding the Seventeenth Army Corps, will assign an officer to command of that part of the city northeast of Taylor street. To Bvt. Brig. Gen. W. B. Woods is assigned the command of that portion of the city southwest of Taylor street. They will appoint provost-m Marshals, who will be authorized to call upon the corps commander for sufficient force to prevent burning, pillaging, and all other acts subversive of good order and military discipline.

III. Capt. E. N. Carpenter, Sixth Regiment Pennsylvania Cavalry Volunteers, is hereby announced as acting aide-de-camp to the major-general commanding, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

IV. The work of to-day will be continued to-morrow. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will employ two divisions in breaking the railroad, and will continue to furnish similar details as those of to-day for the purpose of completing the destruction of public property. Care will be taken that every part of the rolling-stock is rendered perfectly useless. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will continue the work on the same road and be careful to complete the destruction in the vicinity of the town. Before the destruction of the store buildings at the depot the chief commissary of subsistence of the department will supply the army with such stores as he may find, such as salt, wheat, &c. He will furnish what salt is necessary for the Columbia Hospital, and the surplus he will have saved for the poorer citizens who have been burned out. The bridge train will be moved up during the day and parked in rear of the Seventeenth Army Corps beyond the limits of the city.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that no change has occurred in my line to-day. The brigade first on provost duty in the city has been again strengthened, as I have just ordered Colonel Catterson, commanding Second Brigade, to send another regiment to Brevet Brigadier-General Woods, thus giving eight regiments from my division on guard duty in the town. I have ordered that every enlisted man found on the streets after 5 o'clock this evening (unless on duty) without the written pass of his division commander to be arrested and placed in confinement, directing Brevet Brigadier-General Woods to suffer no resistance in the least to his guards. I am confident the scenes of last night will not be repeated.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that at about 3 a. m. General Oliver's brigade (the Third) was, by direction of the major-general commanding the corps, sent to patrol the city, arresting all men found in the streets. The duty was performed promptly, and, so far as I could learn, efficiently. At 7 a. m. the troops of this division were disposed along the Columbia Branch South Carolina Railroad, and have effectually destroyed to-day six miles of it. My headquarters are where they were last report.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: In accordance with instructions received from department headquarters, the minimum limit of destruction of the railroad south of the city will be fifteen miles. Should this work not be accomplished to-night by the two divisions assigned to that duty, they will bivouac near the point at which they may be working when night overtakes them, and commence on the road by daylight to-morrow. As soon as fifteen miles of road have been destroyed the divisions will return to camp near this city.*

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[Indorsement.]

Col. Theodore Jones, having many side-tracks to destroy, will not be required to proceed beyond the first mile to-day. To-morrow he will finish the second mile. Also, to-morrow the Second and Third Brigades will proceed and destroy to the fifteen-mile point, and on the same day return to this point. Mr. Scupham and Captain Earnest are charged with seeing this order executed.

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

CIRCULAR.] HDQRS. SECOND DIV., FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 18, 1865.

I have in charge, at the citadel where the South Carolina Military School was kept, a large quantity of infantry and artillery ammunition; parts of gun carriages; guns, large and small; cavalry equipments; tools, and a large amount of other property useful to the service, which all portions of the army needing the same are requested to call for and appropriate. The officer in charge is directed to recognize all requisitions, however informal.

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Columbia, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that no change has been made in the disposition of this command since my report of the 17th instant, and that nothing unusual has transpired during the day.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

* Same to Brigadier-General Corse, commanding Fourth Division.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. 4TH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
FIELD ORDERS, } In the Field, on Broad River, S. C.,
No. 19. } February 18, 1865.

I. Brigade commanders will hold their men under arms ready to move at a moment's notice, the men to be supplied with forty rounds of ammunition full per man and two days' full rations, which must last four. One ambulance will follow each regiment, no other wagons to accompany the command, except ordnance. The First Brigade will take the advance, the Second Brigade will hold the center, and the Third Brigade the rear.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Major BURKHARDT,
Commanding Twenty-ninth Missouri Mounted Infantry:

MAJOR: Major-Generals Hazen and Smith have been ordered to destroy the railroad running from Columbia to Branchville for fifteen miles below the city. The general commanding directs that you proceed with your command to that point and thence to the Wateree River, destroying all bridges, trestles, water-tanks, depots, and other buildings along the railroad. On completing this task you will rejoin the command. In the execution of the order you will observe the greatest caution, as you will be some distance from any infantry supports. When engaged on the work of destruction you will establish pickets to guard against a surprise or sudden dashes of the enemy's cavalry. You will not allow any of your men to obtain liquor, and will destroy any that they may now have that you can discover.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 45. } Columbia, S. C., February 18, 1865.

The destruction of the road will be continued to-morrow.

Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will commence at a point nine miles from the city and destroy three miles.

Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will commence at the end of the Third Division assignment and destroy two miles.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will commence at the end of the First Division assignment and destroy one mile.

Division commanders will send out such details as they think proper to do the work, leaving, however, a sufficient force to protect their present camp.

Brevet Major-General Smith will move out his working party at 7 o'clock.

The working party of the First Division will follow that of the Fourth Division.

The working party of the Third Division will follow that of the First Division.

The details will return to camp as soon as the work is finished.

In the destruction the rails will be bent and twisted.

Corps headquarters will remain in the city to-morrow.

The brigade from the First Division now doing provost duty will remain in the city to-morrow.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 39. } In the Field, S. C., February 18, 1865.

I. This command will move forward to-morrow at 8 a. m. in the following order to destroy railroad:

First, Second Brigade, excepting one regiment to guard camp; second, First Brigade; third, artillery trains and ambulances will remain in present camp.

The command will return to camp when the work assigned is completed.

* * * * *

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
No. 6. } In the Field, February 18, 1865.

The attention of all officers is called to Special Field Orders from headquarters of the army, prohibiting the transportation of tents, except one for brigade headquarters and upward. An immediate and rigid enforcement of this order is expected. All surplus tents and every pound of baggage not authorized by regulations and existing orders, will at once be burned or abandoned. A portion of the army has recently marched ten days through a country yielding but little forage, and following this march it has been compelled to remain at one point nearly two days. The result has been that portions of the command have been utterly destitute of forage and the animals have suffered severely. We have got a long and arduous march to make with almost an absolute certainty of being delayed several days at one point on our line, and that, too, in a section which will probably yield but small supplies for either man or animals. Under these circumstances the importance of collecting supplies as rapidly as possible, and of making an economical use of them, must be apparent to all. The stores now on hand will be placed in as few wagons as possible, and all wagons obtained either by this method or by the abandonment of tents and private baggage, will at once be loaded with such subsistence stores and forage as can be obtained in the country. At least six days' forage should, if possible, be kept constantly on hand. All disabled and worthless mules and horses will at once be shot. No person, white or black, not connected with the army will be permitted to accompany either column at the slightest risk of embarrassment to our future operations.

By command of Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum:

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Freshly's Ferry, Wateree Creek, February 18, 1865—Dark.

Captain DECHERT,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: Please inform the general that I am completely disappointed and thoroughly disgusted. The bridge is not yet done, and the commander of the pontoon train (Major Downey) has proved himself a complete failure. The boats, as I before informed you, have run out before reaching the opposite shore, and now (the eleventh hour) this officer is in doubt whether or not the remaining distance can be trestled. Please ask the general to have about ten boats forwarded from the rear as soon as possible. Nothing further from the enemy.

Very respectfully,

JEF. C. DAVIS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

[Indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 18, 1865.

I sent a dispatch this afternoon informing the general commanding of the movements of the enemy above us on the river. I see by the dispatch just received that it has not been received. Cheatham is crossing with a force estimated at 13,000 men. Kilpatrick is at Alston, and reports the enemy crossing above Alston.

JEF. C. DAVIS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,

Five Miles South of Freshly's, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Major-General DAVIS,

Commanding Fourteenth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your communication, and to say that he will send a division early to-morrow morning to the position now occupied by General Carlin. He directs that you commence destroying the railroad toward Alston as soon as you cross the river, and if possible destroy the railroad bridge below Alston. The Twentieth Corps will cross the river as soon as your corps is over.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
 FIELD ORDERS, }
 No. 12.

HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
*Freshly's Mills, S. C.,
 February 18, 1865.*

The movements of the corps to-day will be as follows :

General Baird will cross the Broad River, and, moving up the river to a point two miles this side of Alston, will destroy the railroad to that point (together with the railroad bridge at that place if not already destroyed), and will encamp to-night at Larkin's Mill, near Pearson's Island.

General Carlin, crossing in rear of General Baird, will destroy three miles of the railroad this side of where General Baird destroys it. He will encamp at the point where the left-hand road from Thompson's Post-Office to Monticello intersects with the road from Alston.

General Morgan will superintend the crossing of the trains of the corps in the rear of General Carlin, and will destroy the railroad from the pontoon bridge to where it is destroyed by General Carlin. He will encamp with the trains to-night at Thompson's Post-Office.

Corps headquarters, with reserve artillery and ammunition train, will move in rear of General Carlin.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis.

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
In the Field, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Major-General WILLIAMS,
Commanding Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say that General Davis has effected a crossing over the Broad River at Freshly's, just below the mouth of Wateree Creek. He will commence crossing his trains to-day about 12 m. General Slocum would like you to get as near that point to-day as possible.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Oakville, S. C., February 18, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow across Broad River at the mouth of Wateree Creek in the following order: Third Division, First Division, Second Division. The Third Division will start at 6.30 a. m., the others following. General Ward will march one brigade in advance. General Geary will cover the rear of the column with one brigade (or more should there be any demonstration by the enemy). The Third and First Divisions and all trains will cross Broad River, and the troops be massed and trains parked at least two miles beyond. The Second Division will halt and form a line, faced to the rear, at least one mile this side of the bridge, and cover the crossing. As soon as all troops and trains have crossed General Geary will follow, and he will deploy two regiments on the north side of the river to cover the taking up of the bridge. One battery of artillery will march with the rear guard. This battery upon crossing the river will be put in position with General Geary's regiments to cover the rear, and will come forward with them. The balance of the artillery will march in rear of the advanced brigade. The pontoon train will precede the trains of the Third Division, starting at 7 a. m.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,

February 18, 1865.

General J. W. GEARY,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The general commanding the corps directs me to inform you that the order of march for to-morrow is suspended, and that you will not break camp until further orders; also, that when you do move it will be in the order of march already published.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHAS. MOYER,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,

February 18, 1865—1 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,

Commanding, &c.:

I have met a quartermaster from Smithville, who says the train had not started two hours ago. From this I infer that Ames could not have moved his column at noon. I am satisfied the road my guide spoke of is the best, and have therefore sent this guide with a staff officer to bring Ames to the point where we turn the pond by the nearest and best route. If he is not far from Smithville, they will bring him on the route I mentioned to you, but if he has gone on toward Russell's, they will bring him by the best cross-road.

Very respectfully,

J. D. COX,

Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,

Moore's Creek, February 18, 1865—5.45 p. m.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have reached the point where the road turns Orton Pond. The creek makes into the pond, and the crossing is a very difficult one. We ran into a cavalry picket a mile before reaching here, and found a considerable cavalry detachment holding the crossing. They were inclined to be obstinate, and made a brisk skirmishing resistance, our men being forced to cross a narrow causeway under their fire. They are slowly retiring by the road I purpose taking, which shows that we could gain nothing by taking the longer route. I have sent for Ames to meet me here by the shortest and most practicable route, sending him my guide. We have one more difficult creek to cross a short distance ahead. It is doubtful if we get over it before dark. I have one officer and several men wounded in the crossing. I shall send them back to Smithville in the wagons when they come up. I will send you another dispatch when I start in the morning. Just as I write the above I learn that Ames is within half a mile of here. They came by some good fortune the road my guide told the commanding general they should take, i. e., that we came on yesterday, till they got nearly five miles from Smithville, and my staff officer and guide met them just before they reached the proper place to turn off. If the wagons get up to-night we shall get an early start in the morning. My dispatch will tell you the hour we start in the morning, and the best estimate I can make of our probable time of reaching the foot of the pond.

Very respectfully, &c.,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
February 18, 1865—10.15 p. m.

Major-General COX:

Your dispatches of 4 and 5.30 [5.45] p. m. are received. All right. In your morning dispatch please send me a rough sketch showing your position and the route you have to travel as nearly as you can. If you find it impracticable to get through on account of the enemy's force, and deem it prudent to do so, hold on until you report and hear from me again before coming back. General Terry reports an apparent diminution of the force in his front to-day. This indicates a probable increase in that which will meet you, yet I think you will be able to overcome it if you have room to operate in.

Respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

FEBRUARY 18, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

A deserter just arrived informs me that last night a Wilmington paper contained news that Sherman was within three miles of Columbia, and that he was told last night he had taken the city.

TERRY,
General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 35. }

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Fort Fisher, N. C. February 18, 1865.

* * * * *

VII. Company L, First Connecticut Artillery, is relieved from duty with this command, in pursuance of instructions from headquarters Armies of the United States, and will proceed to City Point, Va., without delay, reporting to the headquarters of the regiment upon arrival at that point. The quartermaster is to furnish transportation.

By order of Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry:

A. TERRY,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,

Chief of Staff Armies of the United States, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: The city of Charleston and its defenses came into our possession this morning, with over 200 pieces of good artillery and a supply of fine ammunition. The enemy commenced evacuating all the works last night, and Mayor Macbeth surrendered the city to the troops of General Schimmelfennig at 9 o'clock this morning, at which time it was occupied by our forces. Our advance on the Edisto and from Bull's Bay hastened the retreat. The cotton warehouses, arsenal, quartermasters' stores, railroad bridges, and two iron-clads were burned by the enemy. Some vessels in the ship-yard were also burned. Nearly all the inhabitants remaining in the city belong to the poorer classes.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. COAST DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Combahee, S. C., February 18, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,
Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: The enemy last night burned the railroad bridge over the Edisto. Are apparently not in force on its bank. A contraband from vicinity of Charleston reports the enemy evacuating. He reports Sumter and Moultrie as already abandoned. I will do my best to cross the Edisto to-morrow. Will be obliged to transport boats, unless a gun-boat can be got to go up the Edisto and cross us.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding Division.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. A. } Charleston, S. C., February 18, 1865.

I. The city of Charleston and its dependencies will form part of the Northern District of this department, under the command of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig, who will take all necessary measures for its safety and security. The headquarters will, until further orders, be located in the city.

II. Brig. Gen. E. E. Potter, with the troops and transports operating from Bull's Bay, will report to Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, February 19, 1865.

Lieutenant-General GRANT:

I congratulate you on the news from South Carolina. I have directed your order in respect to deserters to be printed in large handbills and posted in every camp and distributed on the boats.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, VA., February 19, 1865—5.15 p. m.

(Received 6 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,
Washington, D. C. :

If there are any canvas pontoons in Washington or New York please send General Schofield enough for about 800 feet of bridging. The pontoons he has are too heavy for the roads at this season.

U. S. GRANT,
*Lieutenant-General.*COLUMBIA, S. C., *February 19, 1865.*Doctor GOODWYN,
Mayor of Columbia, S. C. :

DEAR SIR: I have directed the salt and the other provisions at the depot to be hauled to the new capitol and to be put under your charge. I will also send you some cattle to-morrow at 6.30 o'clock and will leave them in the campus of the college hospital, where you must have them guarded. You will do well to advise the destitute citizens to leave Columbia for the country as far as possible. You had better organize foraging parties, under the direction of reliable citizens, that will go into the country and take provisions in your name, giving a receipt. Some such forced loans will be necessary to relieve the present necessities by the fire. I will furnish you 500 head of cattle, and expect you to provide for destitute citizens, and particularly the negroes that are now here and helpless.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
*Major-General.*SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS
No. 43.} HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Columbia, S. C., February 19, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Major Reynolds, Fourteenth New York Heavy Artillery, is hereby assigned to the command of all escaped Union officers and soldiers, and will also take charge of all refugees and their conveyances accompanying the army. These officers and soldiers will move with the refugee train as an escort, and from them will be organized a foraging party. One officer will be selected to act as quartermaster and commissary. The train will be assigned its position in the column from day to day. Major Reynolds will report to these headquarters for instructions.

III. The movement for to-morrow will commence at 7 a. m. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will march via Davis' house and cross-roads near Roberts' to Muddy Springs. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will march along the railroad, making a distance of about fifteen miles from Columbia, completing the destruction of the railroad to that point, if not already done. Headquarters will follow the leading division of the Fifteenth Army Corps, and will be near Muddy Springs to-morrow night. The bridge train will follow the second division in order of march of the Seventeenth Army Corps. The refugee train will follow the rear division of the Seventeenth Army Corps along the line of the Winstonsborough road. A brigade from each corps will constitute the rear guard, and the brigade commander will be held responsible that every soldier and army attaché is out of town when he begins his march. The brigades that are now guarding the town are preferred for this duty.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard :

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 19, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I respectfully report that no change has occurred in my command to-day. I am still encamped near Columbia, with one brigade in the city.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 19, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN,
Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to say that as soon as you have destroyed the proportion of railroad allotted to you, you will return to your present camp near this city.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 19, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General :

I have the honor to report that this division with the Fourth to-day completed the destruction of the fifteen miles of the Columbia Branch of the South Carolina Railroad, and has returned to its camp at this point. My headquarters remain as at last report.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Columbia, S. C., February 19, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command remains in the same position as mentioned in last report. An explosion took place near the State arsenal this p. m., by which 1 commissioned officer and 3 enlisted men were killed, 1 enlisted man mortally, 12 seriously, and 7 slightly wounded. Inclosed I forward copy of Col. J. B. McCown's report relative to the affair.*

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 19, 1865.

Brevet Major-General CORSE,
Commanding Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The point of concentration for the corps to-morrow night is Muddy Springs. The general commanding instructs me to direct you to move your command to that point on such roads as you may select, passing through or near Tompkins' [Hopkins'] house or plantation. Your train will be moved with the main column.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Columbia, S. C., February 19, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that the refugee train, instead of following the Seventeenth Army Corps, as directed in the order of march for to-morrow, will follow in advance of the rear guard of the Fifteenth Army Corps. Col. James Wilson, provost-marshal-general, will take charge of it until it is fully organized.

Very respectfully, your obedient,
A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps.)

SPECIAL ORDERS, }	HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 46. }	Columbia, S. C., February 19, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The following are the orders for to-morrow :

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will have the advance and will move forward at 8 a. m. along the railroad.

Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will be prepared to move at 9 a. m., and will follow the Fourth Division.

Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will be prepared to move at 10 a. m., and will follow the First Division.

The bridge train will follow the train of the First Division.

The First Regiment Michigan Engineers will follow the Third Division train.

* Not found as an inclosure.

The refugee train will follow the First Regiment Michigan Engineers.

The Second Brigade, First Division, now doing provost duty in the city, will act as rear guard and will be prepared to move at 7 o'clock, and Col. M. Montgomery, commanding, will see that all soldiers and persons connected with the army are out of his district before he leaves the city. He will act in this matter in concert with General Woods, commanding the northwestern district.

The train of the headquarters Military Division of the Mississippi, and of these headquarters will move with Colonel Montgomery's brigade.

The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will be prepared to move at 7 o'clock, and will await orders.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair :

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 19, 1865.

In the name of the citizens of the city of Columbia, I, T. J. Goodwyn, mayor of the city, do pledge my honor that a certain lot of arms and accouterments, to-wit, 100 stand of arms, with the ammunition thereto belonging, to be turned over to me by the U. S. military authorities, shall be used in preserving the peace in the city, and shall never be employed in any way against the United States Government or to advance the interests of the so-called Southern Confederacy.

T. J. GOODWYN,
Mayor of the City of Columbia, S. C.

Attest:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING,
In the Field, Freshly's Mill, February 19, 1865—9 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

Davis has crossed the Broad River and Williams will cross to-morrow. We have been much delayed by lack of pontoon boats, not having sufficient to bridge both rivers. Kilpatrick will cross to-night at this point. To-morrow night the Fourteenth Corps will be at Ebenezer Meeting House, on Little River; the Twentieth will be at about two miles southeast of that point, at the crossing one mile southeast of Kincaid's. On Tuesday morning the corps will, unless otherwise ordered by you, advance to Winnsborough. You will see from the map that the roads taken by the two corps are not over two miles apart. My headquarters will be with the Twentieth. We have destroyed eight miles railroad to-day.

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
No. 7. } In the Field, February 19, 1865.

Measures must at once be taken to prevent the destruction of forage in advance of the army. No foraging will be allowed in advance of the troops, and any person found in front of the advance guard will be arrested and severely punished. No property will be burned except by the rear guard in obedience to the order of a corps or division commander.

By command of Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum:

ROBT. P. DECHERT,

Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 13. } Mrs. Sanders' House, February 19, 1865.

The corps will move to-morrow as follows:

General Baird, marching at 6.30 a. m. and taking the road by A. Johnston's, will encamp near Ebenezer Meeting House. If in advance of General Carlin, he will cross the Little River and encamp at the forks of the road beyond.

General Carlin will march at 6.30 a. m. by the way of A. Johnston's to the same point. If in advance of General Baird, he will cross Little River and encamp at the forks of the road beyond.

General Morgan will march at 6.30 a. m. with the trains by the left-hand road, via Gibson's Meeting House and McMeekins' Post-Office, and will encamp near Ebenezer Meeting House.

Corps headquarters, with reserve artillery and ammunition train, will move in the rear of General Carlin.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. MCCLURG,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

---

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Freshly's Ferry, S. C., February 19, 1865.

The order of march for to-morrow will be: First Division, Second Division, Third Division. The First Division will start at daylight, or immediately in the rear of the Fourteenth Corps, cross the river with the troops, and march to the vicinity of Thompson's Post-Office, halting there for the trains to close up. General Jackson will picket the roads and dispose of his troops at that point to cover the park of the trains. The Second Division will follow the trains of the First Division. Two brigades of the Third Division, with all of the division trains, will follow the Second Division. Immediately upon the withdrawal of the troops of the Second Division General Ward will put a brigade in position on this side of the river, at least a mile from the bridge. This brigade will cover all roads and approaches to the bridge, and remain in position until all the trains have crossed, when it will be withdrawn and cross the river. General Ward will then put two regiments from his rear brigade and a battery of artillery in position on the north side of the river, to cover the taking up of the bridge. The pontoon train, after the bridge is taken up, will be pushed to the head of the column as rapidly as possible, division commanders giving it, whenever the trains are parked, opportunities to get as far ahead as possible. Major Reynolds, chief of artillery, will order one battery to report to General Ward, to march with the rear. The balance of the artillery will march in rear of the troops of the First Division.

From Thompson's Post-Office the column will march on the most direct road to the junction of the roads near Kincaid's house, on the north side of Little River.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Broad River, February 19, 1865.

Brigadier-General JACKSON,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: It has been ascertained that there is no practicable road leading direct from Thompson's Post-Office to Kincaid's. It is therefore necessary for us to move down on the Columbia road to cross Little River near its mouth. The general commanding therefore desires that after crossing the pontoon bridge, instead of taking the road to the left leading to Thompson's Post-Office, you take the one leading to the right, which strikes the Columbia road at McConnell's farm, about four miles east of Thompson's Post-Office.

If you will send to these headquarters before leaving camp in the morning, we will send you one of our scouts who has been over the road and can guide you. The general wishes you to halt and have the wagons parked on the McConnell farm, as near the Columbia road as possible.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
February 19, 1865.

Lieutenant-Colonel PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Twentieth Army Corps:

COLONEL: My division is massed in rear of General Carlin. He has no orders to move, and I am waiting on him.

Very respectfully,

W. T. WARD,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY COMMAND,
Alston Bridge, S. C., February 19, 1865.

[General W. T. SHERMAN:]

GENERAL: My people have just burned Pomaria Station. Cheatham's corps was receiving rations at 12 m. to-day at Frog Level. He has about 5,000 men and one brigade of cavalry. Other troops are following him. One hundred and fifty thousand rations were at Abbeville for a large force reported on the march from Washington, in Georgia, forty-five miles from Abbeville. My scouts report infantry and some cavalry at or passing through Newberry. I will closely watch all movements of the enemy and report everything of importance. Cheatham has twenty pieces of artillery. He is not moving to-day, but receiving rations and resting. I cannot learn that he has a pontoon train. (Frog Level is Prosperity Station on the map.) The railroad has several bridges from that point to the river. We have burned them all. One of my brigades is crossing the river, and will push well up the country and give timely notice of any danger. My entire command will cross in the morning, when I will push well up and on the left flank. Cheatham will cross at Ashford's Ferry, I think; at least his scouting parties have made inquiries about that point. My people were on Heller's Creek to-day, and the country is clear. I reached Alston Bridge yesterday at 12 m., but could not save the bridge. We are capturing some prisoners and doing very well. I would give a year's pay to cross the river to-night at this point.

Very respectfully, &c.,

J. KILPATRICK,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding Cavalry.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
Washington, February 19, 1865—12 noon.

Major-General GILLMORE,
Hilton Head, S. C.:

GENERAL: General Grant directs that the moment Charleston falls into our hands you will garrison with minimum force such sea-port places as you may deem most important for us to hold, and send all surplus white troops to Cape Fear River. If, however, you should in the meantime receive other instructions from General Sherman you will be guided by them. Richmond papers of yesterday contain an account of Sherman's capture of Columbia.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL ORDERS, )	HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN DISTRICT,
No. 29. )	DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
	Charleston, S. C., February 19, 1865.

I. Lieut. Col. A. G. Bennett, Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops, is hereby placed in command of the city of Charleston and announced as provost-marshal of this district. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

ED. W. SCHAUFFLER,
First Lieutenant and Aide-de-Camp.

(CIRCULAR.] HDQRS. NORTHERN DIST., DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 19, 1865.

The Third Rhode Island Artillery will relieve at once all the detachments of this command in the different forts and batteries. These detachments will report to these headquarters without delay in order to be sent to their regiments.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Hilton Head, S. C., February 19, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,

Commanding at Savannah:

Fire a national salute at noon to-day in honor of the capture of Charleston.

Q. A. GILLMORE,

Major-General, Commanding.

(Same to commanding officer Hilton Head District.)

CITY POINT, VA., February 19, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Commanding Department of North Carolina:

Your two letters of the 15th instant are just received. Sherman's instructions were probably given before he knew what force we would have to operate with in North Carolina. At all events, in pursuing the course directed by me you accomplish what Sherman directs. The object is to open communication between the sea-coast and Goldsborough by rail, so as to meet Sherman with supplies for his army and to put at his disposal an available force. If you succeed in the capture of Wilmington you will probably secure the road almost complete. From New Berne it would have to be rebuilt entire. At the former place you would be better supplied with storage. It also gives you the advantage of a road bearing southwest, which, after all, might prove the one necessary to open first. It will be well to have Palmer push on, in pursuance of Sherman's instructions, and at the same time direct your attention to Wilmington. You will either capture the place or hold a considerable force of the enemy from Sherman's front. The last news from Sherman direct was on the 7th instant. I directed a copy of that dispatch sent to you. He was then encountering bad roads and much water and was not certain but these causes would force him to turn upon Charleston. In that case he would want his supplies sent to Bull's Bay. Richmond papers of yesterday, however, announce his capture of Columbia on the morning of the 17th. As he was then across the Congaree it is not likely that he will turn back. This success will probably force the evacuation of Charleston. In that case Gillmore will have a disposable force of 10,000 or 12,000 men, which I have directed him to send to you. Should you find an advance on Wilmington impracticable, keep up such a threatening attitude that the enemy will be compelled to retain there all the force he now has, and push on the column from New Berne. I will send you a canvas pontoon train immediately, if it can be raised.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

Fort Anderson, February 19, 1865.

(Via Fort Monroe, 9 a. m., 23d. Received 10.55 a. m.)

Lient. Gen. U. S. GRANT, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to report the success of our operations against Fort Anderson and the adjacent works on both sides of Cape Fear River. Yesterday, while the gun-boats maintained a heavy fire upon Fort Anderson, I pressed the enemy on both sides of the river and sent a force under General Cox about sixteen miles around a swamp to turn the enemy's right. This force made its way along a narrow defile between two swamps and completely turned the enemy's position. As soon as the movement became known to the enemy he abandoned his works and retreated toward Wilmington. We captured ten guns uninjured and a considerable amount of ammunition. We have about fifty prisoners. The loss in killed or wounded is small on either side. The troops are pursuing the enemy and the gun-boats are moving up the river. Fort Anderson and its collateral works are very strong and rendered almost inaccessible by swamps. A small force could have held them until their supplies were exhausted. My information is that the rebels have a line of defense behind Town Creek, where they propose to make a stand. If so, it can probably be only a short one. Only four brigades of my troops have arrived from Washington, and no transportation, but I will keep at work with what I have.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

Fort Anderson, N. C., February 19, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: I now begin to feel the need of cavalry, and will probably feel it much more soon. I therefore respectfully request that a regiment at least be sent me as soon as practicable.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,

February 19, 1865.

(Via Fort Monroe, 9 a. m., 23d. Received 10.55 a. m.)

Lieutenant-General GRANT:

Day before yesterday Cox's division moved to Smithville and then toward Fort Anderson. Yesterday it closed up on Fort Anderson and intrenched a line, under navy fire, close to the enemy's, to be held by two brigades. With the balance of his command and Ames' division, which had been sent to Smithville, Cox then was started on the flank movement for the rear of Fort Anderson, making about ten miles by dark. The enemy evacuated Fort Anderson during the night and the lines in front of Terry this morning. They will at once be followed toward Wilmington.

C. B. COMSTOCK,

Lieutenant-Colonel, Aide-de-Camp, and Brevet Brigadier-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,

ARMY OF THE OHIO,

No. 8. }

Federal Point, N. C., February 19, 1865.

I. The Third Tennessee Infantry is hereby dropped from the returns of the Twenty-third Army Corps, to date from January 20, 1865.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,
 No. 9. } Washington, D. C., February 19, 1865.

The command will move to Alexandria by boat to-morrow, the 20th instant, as follows: Two regiments of the Third Brigade will be at Giesborough Wharf and embark at 8.30 a. m., and the remaining two regiments of the Third Brigade at 9.30 a. m. The horses of the brigade will go with the brigade. The entire baggage of the brigade will be placed on barges at Giesborough Wharf at 8 a. m. Two regiments of the First Brigade will embark at Giesborough Wharf at 12 m. and two at 1 p. m. The horses will accompany the brigade. The baggage of the brigade will be placed on barges at Giesborough Wharf at 12 m. On arrival at Alexandria brigade commanders will report to Captain Lee, assistant quartermaster, for assignment to transports. Five days' rations in bulk have been placed on board the transports and five days' cooked rations will be drawn at Alexandria in addition. The horses will be placed on boats designated for that purpose, and each brigade commander will detail one regimental quartermaster to go in charge of the horses of his brigade. Forage will be supplied by Captain Lee at Alexandria. The commanding officers on board the transports will see that the rules of the ships are obeyed by the men under their command, and that the requirements of the Revised Army Regulations in regard to the conduct of troops on transports are observed is essential to good order on board the transports and the safety of the command from fire or other dangers. On the arrival at the destination of the command each commanding officer will report to his next proper superior officer, if there. If not there, to the next that is there.

By command of Brig. Gen. T. H. Ruger:

J. E. CRAVENS,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISON, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
 February 19, 1865—6.30 a. m.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL, Assistant Adjutant-General:

The train has not yet got up, and General Ames has report from an orderly that the train got scattered within three miles of Smithville and went back to reform and start again. I have sent back my quartermaster with peremptory orders to bring the train up at the earliest possible moment. As we are at the cross-roads, where our intention as to route is not entirely apparent to the enemy, I have thought it advisable to wait till we hear more definitely from the train, as it cannot get back to Smithville to-day if it follows us farther; and I understand that it will have to be relied on to get food for Moore's and Henderson's men, they also being out to-night. I should push one division right on, but think it better to make a demonstration with a regiment on the Lockwood's Folly road, and give their cavalry there the idea that we mean to move in that direction, and then, when we get or definitely hear from the train, push rapidly with our whole force upon the rear of Anderson. We have about eight miles to go. I shall expect to hear from my messengers to the train in two hours and a half. If you have any other way of feeding Moore and Henderson than by this train please let me know by courier, as I shall then feel at liberty to move without awaiting it.

A rough sketch is on the other side.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,

February 19, 1865—10.30 a. m.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

The train has just come within reach. I move out with Ames' division, leaving the two brigades of my own to draw rations and follow. I have no answer as yet to my dispatch of 6.30 this morning.

J. D. COX,

Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,

February 19, 1865—10.45 a. m.

Major-General Cox,

Commanding Division:

GENERAL: The enemy has evacuated Fort Anderson and retired from Terry's front. The general is aboard the admiral's flag-ship and I cannot send him your message. Moore and Henderson were supplied with rations last night from boats, so that they will not have to rely on that train to feed them.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,

February 19, 1865—8.30 p. m.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

My advance brigade occupies the commanding ground on this side of Town Creek. The other brigades are echeloned in rear. The enemy made but slight resistance until they reached the creek. They have a line of infantry trench on the upper bank, and are believed to have destroyed the bridge. They fired a few cannon shot at Henderson as he advanced. The creek is very crooked and deep. The water is said to be thirty or forty feet deep, being deeper than the river. I learned of a flat-boat, capable of carrying near 100 men, a short distance below our camp, and ordered it secured and carefully protected. No detour can be made to the left, so as to cross the creek by fording, short of fifteen miles above. The next bridge was ten miles above, and that is probably destroyed. If the enemy resist stubbornly and in force on the road, I think our only feasible way of crossing will be by the flat under cover of the fire of the gun-boats. I cannot learn that any force but Hagood's brigade is in front of us. The colored people say they commenced their retreat early in the night, the rear guard leaving Fort Anderson about daybreak. They undoubtedly began the movement immediately after learning that their cavalry were driven from the head of Orton Pond by our advancing column. Please inform me early as to the commanding general's desires in regard to pushing my movement on this side of the river.

Very respectfully, &amp;c.,

J. D. COX,

Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Fort Anderson, February 19, 1865.

[General Cox:]

GENERAL: I desire you to move against the enemy toward Wilmington early to-morrow with your entire force, except one regiment of Colonel Moore's brigade, which is temporarily stationed at Fort Anderson. If you find the enemy in position behind Town Creek or elsewhere this side of Wilmington endeavor to turn his right and force him back. You may even cut him off from crossing the river at Wilmington. From the best information I can get his force on the west side of the river is only about 2,000 men, and he cannot well send over more while General Terry is pressing him on the other side. If the enemy fall back to Wilmington try to get possession of all the approaches to the town from the west side of the river and prepare to hold them with the smallest force practicable, so that a portion of your troops may be transferred to the east side of the river. I will move up the river in the Spaulding, so as to keep in communication with the troops on both sides of the river. Inform me frequently by signal or otherwise of your progress.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Fort Anderson, February 19, 1865—11.30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. J. D. COX,

Commanding Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps:

Your note of 8.30 p. m. just received. The commanding general directs that if you have to make a circuit of ten or fifteen miles, as you suppose, in order to turn the enemy's right, you need not make the attempt. See what can be done with the flat-boat, as you suggest. The general will be in communication with you in the morning.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—The general desires you to ascertain whether pontoons can be landed near you in the river and drawn up so as to cross the creek near its mouth.

J. A. C.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
February 19, 1865.

Colonel HENDERSON,

Commanding Third Brigade:

You may advance toward Town Creek cautiously, collecting such information as you can and approaching as near the enemy as you find practicable before dark. I will bring up the other brigades as soon as they reach here. Report anything of importance you may learn before I reach you.

Very respectfully,

J. D. COX,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
February 19, 1865.

Colonel MOORE,
Commanding Brigade, &c.:

I have ordered Colonel Henderson to push his reconnaissance farther toward Town Creek. Please support him if he needs it, and I will be up shortly with the other brigades.

Very respectfully, &c.,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Fort Anderson, N. C., February 19, 1865.

Maj. Gen. A. H. TERRY,
Comdg. Detachments Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I have ordered General Ames to cross the river at Fort Anderson and report to you this evening. In the morning I want you to move forward against the enemy, east of the river, while General Cox will move up the west bank. If you find the enemy in a fortified position this side of Wilmington, try to turn his left and force him back upon Wilmington, or you may endeavor to cut him off from that place if your force appears sufficient. If the enemy fall back to the defenses of Wilmington invest the place as far as practicable. In any other event act as may seem for the best. Communicate with me frequently, by signal or otherwise. I will move up the river in the Spaulding, so as to keep in communication with the troops on both sides.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

FEDERAL POINT, N. C., February 19, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

My advance is about eight miles from Wilmington, close to the enemy's outposts. Unless I receive contrary orders from you I shall camp for the night at about nine miles from the city and await reinforcements. Can they reach me before daylight?

A. H. TERRY,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
 ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Fort Anderson, N. C., February 19, 1865.

Maj. Gen. A. H. TERRY,
Comdg. Detachments Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Your dispatch by signal is received. General Ames' division will re-enforce you to-night and act under your orders in the morning. He is going to land near where your troops now are. The commanding general directs me to say that he will make no reply to the communication by flag of truce.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 37. }

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Sugar Loaf, N. C., February 19, 1865.

I. The special order directing Company L, First Connecticut Artillery, to proceed to Fort Monroe, Va., is countermanded. Capt. William G. Pride, First Connecticut Artillery, will withdraw from the north line of works the company of his detachment now stationed there, leaving only a guard for the guns, and will assume the command of Captain Everett's company of the Second Pennsylvania Volunteers, now encamped at the fort. With these four heavy artillery companies, viz, Companies B, L, and G, First Connecticut Artillery, Company [A], Second Pennsylvania Artillery, Captain Pride will garrison Fort Fisher and take every precaution for its defense during the present movement to the front. Colonel Coan, Forty-eighth New York Volunteers, will have the command of the infantry detachment left at the rear. As soon as transportation can be procured from the quartermaster's department the guns on the northern line will be moved to the fort.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry:

A. TERRY,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Fort Anderson, N. C., February 19, 1865—3.15 p. m.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. AMES,

Commanding Second Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general desires you to march at once to the wharf at this place, where you will embark your command on the steamers now here, cross the river, and report for further orders to Major-General Terry.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 19, 1865.

Brig. Gen. I. N. PALMER,

Commanding U. S. Forces, New Berne, N. C.:

You will immediately relieve the two companies (commanded by Major Laughlin) belonging to regiments serving in the Department of Virginia, and order them to report at once to Brigadier-General Gordon, at Norfolk, Va.

By command of Lieutenant-General Grant:

T. S. BOWERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

MOREHEAD CITY, February 19, 1865.

Brigadier-General PALMER,

New Berne:

Have arrived on Creole with some 800 men of Provisional Division, and await orders.

S. P. CARTER,
Brigadier-General of Volunteers.

FEBRUARY 19, 1865.

Brig. Gen. S. P. CARTER,
Morehead City:

I am informed that there is now an extra train at Morehead which can bring up a portion, if not all, of your command. Please let them come at once. If all cannot come now, leave the remainder under a judicious officer until to-morrow. Perhaps we will be able to send for all to-day.

Very respectfully,

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General.

Operator inform Captain Wheeler of this.

I. N. P.

---

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, February 19, 1865.

Governor CURTIN,
Harrisburg, Pa.:

Last night this Department received the gratifying intelligence of the occupation of Columbia, the capital of South Carolina, by General Sherman, and the probable evacuation of Charleston by the enemy. Hasten on recruiting to fill up the Army, and the rebellion must receive its final blow in this spring campaign.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

(Same to Governor Brough, Columbus, Ohio; Governor Morton, Indianapolis, Ind; Governor Lewis, Madison, Wis.; Governor Cony, Augusta, Me.; Governor Smith, Saint Albans, Vt.; Governor Andrew, Boston, Mass.; Governor Gilmore, Concord, N. H.; Governor Fenton, Albany, N. Y.; Governor Fletcher, Saint Louis, Mo.; Governor Carney, Leavenworth, Kans., and Governor Bramlette, Frankfort, Ky.)

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 20, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON:

The following paragraphs are extracted from the Richmond papers of to-day:

We now know that Charleston was evacuated on Tuesday last, and that on Friday the enemy took possession of Columbia. It is reported that our forces under General Beauregard are moving in the direction of Charlotte. Official intelligence was received at the War Office last night that Sherman was on yesterday morning advancing toward and was near Winnsborough, a point on the railroad leading to Charlotte, and thirty miles north of Columbia.

Charlotte is thronged with refugees from Columbia, who report that some of Wheeler's cavalry plundered the city before the evacuation.

Up to Tuesday last it was uncertain whether Columbia would come within the immediate range of Sherman's proposed route, and consequently the public mind was not prepared for such an early solution of the question. The Government had, however, just two weeks ago, taken the precaution to remove its specie deposited there, amounting to several millions of dollars, and within the past few days all the dies and plates belonging to the Treasury Department, together with the supplies of treasury notes on hand, were safely conveyed away.

The enemy being in possession of Branchville, Orangeburg, and Kingsville, precluded movements on the roads leading to Charleston, and an unfortunate accident upon the Charlotte road, cutting off nearly all the rolling-stock of the road from Columbia, prevented the authorities from making use of that avenue to save other valuable materials in the city. A large quantity of medical stores belonging to the Government were there, one-half of which were saved, and the rest, for want of time and transportation, destroyed. The presses and fixtures for printing treasury notes in the establishments of Evans & Cogswell and Keatinge & Ball were necessarily abandoned, together with the other extensive machinery of those well-known firms. The first-named establishment alone had 102 printing presses, and was unquestionably the largest and best equipped publishing house in the South.

The enemy's forces operating west of Columbia reached the banks of the Congaree opposite the city on Thursday evening, and threw in a number of shells, to which our batteries responded. A portion of this column moved up the river during the night and crossed the Saluda and Broad Rivers, the main tributaries of the Congaree, which meet near Columbia, a few miles above the city. During this movement General Beauregard evacuated the city, and on Friday morning the enemy entered and took possession without opposition. Our troops were withdrawn to a position some twenty miles from Columbia, where they remained on yesterday. The enemy's force entering Columbia consisted of Sherman's main army, a large portion of which immediately moved up the Charlotte road, while another portion has moved down in the direction of Charleston. The latter city has doubtless ere this been evacuated.

FROM CHARLESTON.

CHARLESTON, February 14.

The enemy's gun-boats and one monitor have been shelling our picket-lines on James Island all day. All quiet in our immediate front. Nothing definite from above. The enemy keep up a steady shelling of the city.

CHARLESTON, February 15.

All quiet along our lines. The enemy are reported this morning to be moving in force near Columbia, on the Lexington road. It is reported that they crossed the Congaree to-day.

FROM WILMINGTON.—FURIOUS CANNONADING OF FORT ANDERSON.

WILMINGTON, February 18.

The enemy shelled Fort Anderson furiously yesterday afternoon, nearly all night, and this morning it is reported that a land force also attacked our forces at Anderson, but were repulsed. Cannonading is still going on at 1 p. m. We have no particulars. A dispatch has been received here stating that a force of the enemy, 4,000 strong, 2,000 of it cavalry, are advancing from Knoxville, and had reached Greenville, which is fifty-four miles from Bristol. This expedition is supposed to be another raid on the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad.

The telegraph operator at Weldon reported yesterday that a raid from Washington or New Berne, N. C., was in progress, the supposed destination of the raiders being Rocky Mount Station, on the Wilmington road, in Edgecombe County. The wires continued to work during yesterday morning through to Wilmington, however, from which it would appear that they had not then struck the road.

A movement of the enemy was reported yesterday in heavy force upon Kinston, N. C., and it was supposed in official quarters that Foster's forces had been moved up to New Berne. A cavalry raid was also reported in the direction of Tarborough. The force moving from New Berne has fifty or sixty pieces of artillery. We shall hear more of these movements in a few days. We are quite certain that they are in progress as we write.

Colonel Hatch, one of our commissioners of exchange, has gone to Wilmington, at which place he will, during the week, exchange 10,000 prisoners. We may remark here that the exchange of prisoners on James River will at the same time go on uninterruptedly.

A desperate affair occurred last Tuesday in Lunenburg County between some deserters from the Confederate army and some of the Ninth Virginia Cavalry, aided by citizens. Several on both sides were wounded. The deserters were finally captured.

General Ewell, commanding Department of Henrico, reports a wholesale robbery of nearly 100 returned paroled prisoners on Saturday night between Camp Lee and the city. Other robberies of returned prisoners are reported as occurring in the streets of Richmond.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 20, 1865—10 a. m.
(Received 10.10 a. m.)

Major-General HALLECK, Washington :

Has General Meagher been dismissed? If he has not, I think it will be well to relieve him from duty. Brig. Gen. Hugh Ewing, now on his way to Washington, might be ordered to take his place.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 20, 1865—11 a. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT, City Point :

The last of Schofield's troops will get off to-day. Canvas pontoons will be sent from here and New York. Deficiency in length of bridging will be supplied as soon as possible.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 20, 1865—2 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT, City Point :

The President has not acted on Meagher. The Secretary of War thinks you had better order General Schofield to relieve and send him home.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
Savannah, Ga., February 20, 1865.

His Excellency R. E. FENTON,
Governor of the State of New York :

GOVERNOR: In the absence of the major-general commanding in the field, I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt at these headquarters of the joint resolutions passed by the senate and assembly of the State of New York, commendatory of the conduct and service of the general and the officers and men under his command.* The resolutions and letter of transmittal will be forwarded to the general as soon as communication is opened to him.

I have the honor to be, Your Excellency's most obedient servant,
R. M. SAWYER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
In the Field, February 20, 1865—8 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi :

GENERAL: The command moved in good order to Muddy Springs. On our arrival at that point I found a scarcity of water and moved on about two miles and a half north of the Muddy Springs and the command (Fifteenth Army Corps) is now in camp here. My headquarters are near the crossing of the Winnsborough and upper Camden roads. The rear guard swept everything clear of Columbia, and at 2 p. m., when some of my staff officers left, the city was clear of all stragglers and very quiet. A small squad of the enemy's cavalry, about 100, appeared on our right flank, but were driven off without disturbing our march. I send you a copy of my order of march for to-morrow.*

* See Vol. XLIV, p. 18.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

P. S.—The Seventeenth Army Corps is encamped along the line of the railroad.

O. O. H.,
Major-General.

---

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 44.	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE, Rice Creek Springs, February 20, 1865.
---------------------------------------	--

I. The movement to-morrow will commence at 7 a. m. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move forward on the same road, crossing Twenty-five Mile Creek. He will make as much distance as possible toward Poplar Spring, but will at least arrive at the cross-roads at Harrison's. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will continue to move along the railroad, occupy Winnsborough, completing the destruction of the railroad up to that point. The bridge train will continue to follow the Seventeenth Army Corps. The refugee train will follow the rear division of the Fifteenth Army Corps. Department headquarters will follow the leading division of the Fifteenth Army Corps, and will be to-morrow night near the cross-roads at Harrison's.

II. Capt. P. A. Taylor, chief signal officer, will organize a detective force to operate under his temporary direction for the purpose of discovering the authors of the numerous outrages that have been committed by persons of this command. He will particularly endeavor to discover those who have taken or may take such articles as watches, jewelry, money, &c., from the persons or houses of citizens.

III. Paragraph 2, Special Field Orders, No. 43, from these headquarters, is so modified as to direct Maj. F. C. Gillette, provost-marshal-general Fifteenth Army Corps, to take charge of the refugees accompanying this command. Major Gillette will see that all citizens accompanying this army as refugees improperly, as well as surplus baggage belonging to refugees, are sent to Winnsborough. He will be authorized also to impress from citizens the necessary transportation and animals to provide for the train.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Columbia, S. C., February 20, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I have the honor to make the following report of the destruction of property in and about Columbia, S. C., done in compliance with written instructions from Lieut. Col. William E. Strong, assistant inspector-general, Army of the Tennessee, dated February 18, 1865. Owing to the great variety of articles and property destroyed and the general confusion they were in, it has been impossible to make actual inventories. The following are estimates, and I believe them to be in most cases rather under than above the actual amount: 1,000 bales of cotton, 19 locomotives (these comprised all the locomotives in and about the city, they were destroyed by burning the wood work and breaking everything breakable about their machinery and punching holes in their boilers and tenders); 20 box-cars (all that were left of a large number destroyed by the incendiary fires of the 17th instant); all the buildings not previously burned belonging to the South Carolina Railroad and depot, 2 large freight sheds being included; in these freight sheds were destroyed 60 sets complete of six-mule team harness, 1,000 pounds of trace chains, 40 kegs of nails, 25 kegs railroad iron spikes, 5 tons of railroad machinery of various kinds, and a large miscellaneous collections of articles valuable to the enemy, which it was impracticable under the circumstances to classify and make an inventory of; 650 car wheels (destroyed by sledging off the flanges); 2 buildings filled with stationery belonging to the so-called Confederate States, consisting of note, cap, letter, and envelope paper, envelopes, steel pens, penholders, ink, and quartermasters' and other blanks. These things were mixed up in a heterogeneous mass. The only way I can convey an idea of the amount is to estimate them at two tons' weight. Twenty-five powder mills. These comprised all the powder mills along the Congaree River; the machinery was destroyed and the mills blown up. The so-called Confederate States armory, situated on the Congaree River, comprising warehouses, machine shops, foundry, and offices; the machinery of the shops and a large amount of other machinery which had not been taken out of the original packages was broken thoroughly by sledging, and the ruin completed afterwards by burning the buildings. A large amount, probably half a ton, of all varieties of files and other gun-making tools in the original packages were destroyed; the gunstocks and barrels and muskets destroyed here have been reported by the ordnance officers. The smoke-stacks of six manufactories of various kinds were thrown over or blown up. Ten tons of machinery, said to belong to the Confederate States, found packed in boxes under a shed on the common, was destroyed, consisting of a stationary engine and lathe and other machinery, the use of which could not be ascertained. The destruction of all property mentioned in the directions is believed to be entire and complete. The above list does not include the entire amount, but is as accurate as the circumstances will admit.

---

* See next, post.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

L. E. YORKE,

Lieut. Col. and Asst. Inspector-General, Fifteenth Army Corps.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Muddy Springs, S. C., February 20, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that I left camp at Columbia at 1 p. m. to-day, marching out in rear of the trains of the Fourth Division, on the direct Camden road, encamping at 9 p. m. about thirteen miles from Columbia, with my troops facing north and south. My headquarters are near the springs, and but a short distance from the road-side.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Muddy Run, S. C., February 20, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General :

I have the honor to report that my division broke camp at 9 a. m. to-day, marching to this point, where it arrived at 5 p. m. and is now all here.

My headquarters are about 300 yards west of the main road.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Three Miles North of Muddy Springs, S. C., February 20, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command broke camp on Charlotte Railroad, near Columbia, at 7 o'clock this a. m., and marched on neighborhood roads to main Camden road, striking same four miles from Columbia; thence on Camden road to near Roberts', and then north on Winnsborough road to intersection of Winnsborough, Columbia and Camden roads, the advance reaching camp at 4 p. m. Distance marched, twenty-two miles. The position of the division is as follows: The left of the First Brigade rests upon the Winnsborough and its right upon the Camden road, fronting northeast. The right of the Second Brigade rests upon the Columbia road, and fronts in a northerly direction. These headquarters are established on the left of the Winnsborough road, immediately in rear of the Second Brigade.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 21. } *In the Field, near Muddy Springs, S. C.,
February 20, 1865.*

I. The troops of this division will march at 5.30 a. m. to-morrow, sharp, on the Winnsborough road, crossing Twenty-five Mile Creek, past Round Top; thence across the Winnsborough and Camden road toward Poplar Springs, the formation of the column as follows, viz, First, Second Brigade Infantry, with Battery H, First Missouri Artillery, with one regiment in rear. Second, Third Brigade Infantry, moving by the side of the trains, extended so as to guard them in the best possible manner. Third, trains in the following order: 1, Ten wagons of ordnance; 2, ambulances; 3, train of advanced brigade; 4, ordnance train; 5, supply train. Fourth, First Brigade Infantry, with one regiment thrown by the side of the supply train. The pioneer corps will move in advance, and its train at the head of the ordnance and supply trains, until further orders.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. TWENTY-NINTH MISSOURI MOUNTED INFANTRY,
Columbia, S. C., February 20, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Pursuant to orders I left camp Saturday, the 18th instant, at 3 p. m., and marched on the Bluff road to Chappell's plantation, ten miles from Columbia, where I encamped for the night. The morning of the 19th I struck camp at 6 a. m., rode to Gadsden Station, where I found the depot and rebel commissary burned. From Gadsden Station I marched to Kingsville and destroyed the rebel warehouses which were filled with rebel quartermaster and commissary stores; also, the depot and other railroad buildings. At this place we captured a telegraph operator in the act of firing the Government stores. I sent the Twenty-ninth Missouri to the Wateree River, holding the Seventh Illinois in reserve near Kingsville. At the river we destroyed the railroad bridge and the trestle-work on the opposite bank. The former was about 375 feet long; the latter three miles in length. The bridge was completely destroyed and the trestle-work fired in twenty different places. Having burned the bridge I returned, destroying the bridges and culverts in my rear. All this was accomplished without opposition. We met with only five rebels, who ran upon the approach of the command. In addition to the above we destroyed ten or twelve railroad cars and about 300 bales of cotton. Returning, camped last night, the 19th instant, at Adams' plantation; struck camp at 12 p. m. and marched to this place, where I arrived at 6 o'clock this a. m.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CH. BURKHARDT,
Major Twenty-ninth Missouri Infantry.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Rice Creek Springs, S. C., February 20, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR, Jr.,
Comdg. Seventeenth Army Corps, Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: I desire to call your attention to the fact that some of our soldiers have been committing the most outrageous robberies of watches, jewelry, &c. A case has come to my notice where a watch and several articles of jewelry were stolen by a foraging party under the eye of the commissioned officer in charge. Another, where a brute had violently assaulted a lady by striking her, and had then robbed her of a valuable gold watch. In one instance money was stolen to the amount of $150, and another, where an officer with a foraging party had allowed his men to take rings off the fingers of ladies in his presence. To-day a soldier was found plundering, arrested, placed under the guard of one of General Corse's orderlies, and was liberated by some of his comrades who had arms in their hands, and who threatened the life of the guard. These outrages must be stopped at all hazards, and the thieves and robbers who commit them be dealt with severely and summarily. I am inclined to think that there is a regularly organized banditti who commit these outrages and who share the spoils. I call upon you and upon all the officers and soldiers under you, who have one spark of honor or respect for the profession which they follow, to help me put down these infamous proceedings and to arrest the perpetrators. Please furnish to every inspector, provost-marshal, and officer in charge of a foraging party a copy of this letter, and enjoin them to be on the watch to stop these infamous proceedings, and to bring to justice the individuals who commit them.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

(Same to General Logan, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps.)

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Level Post-Office, S. C., February 20, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: My command is encamped on the railroad fifteen miles from Columbia. The railroad is destroyed two miles beyond here. I shall occupy Winnsborough to-morrow evening, and will destroy as much of the road as possible.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 47. } Doko, S. C., February 20, 1865.

The following are the orders for to-morrow:

Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will have the advance and will move forward at 8 a. m. on the direct road to Winstanbury.

Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will follow the First Division, being prepared to move at 9 o'clock.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will follow the Third Division, and will be prepared to move at 10 o'clock.

Each division commander will detach one brigade to destroy railroad. The brigade from the Fourth Division will move at 8 o'clock, and commencing two miles from their present camp will destroy three miles. The brigade from the Third Division will move at 7.30 o'clock, commencing five miles from General Smith's camp will destroy three miles. The brigade from the First Division will move at 7 o'clock, and commencing eight miles from General Smith's camp will destroy three miles.

Col. J. B. Yates, commanding First Michigan Engineers, will assign three companies from his regiment to each brigade to twist the rails, and the brigade commander will pile the ties and rails for burning in such manner as the officer in charge of the engineers may direct. As soon as the work is completed the brigades will proceed via Ridgeway to camp, which will be on the railroad within about five miles of Winnsborough.

The train of the First Michigan Engineers will move next after the train of the Third Division and will be followed by the bridge train.

The train of headquarters Military Division of the Mississippi and of these headquarters will follow the troops of the First Division.

The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will be prepared to move at 7.30 o'clock and will await orders.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 14.

HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Mrs. O'Neil's House,
February 20, 1865.

The movements of the corps to-morrow will be as follows:

General Carlin will march at 6 a. m. from his present position upon the main road toward Winnsborough, endeavoring to keep abreast with the Twentieth Corps, which will move in the same direction from S. Owens' in the morning.

General Baird will march at 6 a. m., crossing Kinkish Bridge, over Little River, and following General Carlin.

General Morgan will move with the trains of the corps at 10 a. m., and will follow the column.

Corps headquarters and the reserve artillery and ammunition trains will move in rear of General Baird.

Further orders will be given the division commanders during the day.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Owens' Farm, February 20, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Winnsborough, as follows: Second Division at 6.30 a. m., Third Division at 7 a. m., First Division at 8 a. m. The troops of the Second and Third Divisions will march in advance, unencumbered with wagons. Ten ammunition wagons to each the Second and Third Divisions will follow the Third Division. The First Division will march with and protect the whole train of the corps. One battery of artillery will march in rear of the advanced brigade of the Second Division; one section will report to General Jackson, to march with the rear; the balance of the artillery will march in rear of the Second Division. The wagons of the artillery will march in rear of the twenty ammunition wagons. The pontoon train will follow the artillery wagons, starting at 8 a. m. The cattle herds will accompany the trains. The pack train of the two advanced divisions will march in rear of the Third Division.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
 No. 30. }

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
 DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 20, 1865.

I. The post of Morris Island will be immediately transferred to Charleston City. The quartermaster's department will furnish the transportation.

* * * * *

IV. Lieut. Col. A. G. Bennett, Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops, is hereby placed in command of the city of Charleston. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

V. Major Willoughby, Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops, is hereby appointed provost-marshal-general of the city of Charleston. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

* * * * *

VII. The orders creating the posts of Morris and Folly Islands are hereby revoked.

* * * * *

By order of Brig. Gen. A. Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

-----

CIRCULAR.] HDQRS. NORTHERN DIST., DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 20, 1865.

No soldier will be permitted to enter Charleston City without a pass from his commanding officer. None but regimental commanders and commanding officers of detachments will give such permits. Every man without a pass, except the soldiers of the Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops, will be immediately arrested and turned over to the provost-guard. All soldiers detailed in the staff departments will be immediately provided with passes. These passes will be printed and will be distinguished by a mark easily recognizable. Blanks will be furnished immediately.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General

-----

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
 FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE,
Charleston, S. C., February 20, 1865.

Lieutenant QUINN,
Commanding Battery B, Third New York Artillery:

LIEUTENANT: Your battery will move out to the picket-lines and report to Colonel Kozlay. Lieutenant Dodge, Third Rhode Island Artillery, will command the same until further orders. The Thirty-third U. S. Colored Troops detached with the battery is hereby relieved. Their places will be supplied from the Third New York Artillery.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Capt., 21st U. S. Colored Troops, and Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen.

CITY POINT, VA., February 20, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Fort Fisher:

General Halleck telegraphed me at 11 a. m. to-day that the last of your troops will get off to-day. Canvas pontoons will be sent from Washington and New York, and the deficiency in length of bridging will be supplied as soon as possible.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 20, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,
Fort Fisher, N. C.:

The rebel Government will deliver a large number of our prisoners to us near Wilmington during the present and ensuing week. If our agent of exchange is not there, receive them and forward to Annapolis. Do not allow this exchange of prisoners to interfere in any manner with your proposed military operations. Relieve General Meagher, to proceed to his place of residence and report by letter to the Adjutant-General for orders. Richmond papers of to-day report that Charleston was evacuated on the 14th [17th]. General Sherman is in possession of Columbia. Beauregard is falling back toward Charlotte, N. C., where he is expected by the enemy to make a stand. The advance of Sherman is reported at Winnsborough.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Town Creek, February 20, 1865—11 a. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

I have one brigade across the creek by the flat-boat, another passing. They will soon move around to the flank of the enemy's position.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

TOWN CREEK, February 20, 1865—6 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,
Commanding:

After great labor I succeeded in getting three brigades across the creek and through the rice fields, and about 4 o'clock struck the Wilmington road nearest the river, some two miles in the rear of the rebel position. I ordered Moore's brigade across to the Wilmington road farthest from the river, and with Casement's and Sterl's brigades came straight down in rear of the rebels. They had a light line of works facing the rear and two guns in position. Our men charged, carrying the line, capturing the artillery, and about 375 prisoners, including the colonel commanding the brigade. I hope Moore has intercepted others who fled toward the Manchester road in utter confusion. My casualties are about thirty. There is no enemy where the fleet are exploding shells.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

FEBRUARY 20, 1865—7.30 a. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

I have not yet received the written orders sent to me last night.

A. H. TERRY,
*Major-General.*SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 38. }HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Fort Fisher, N. C., February 20, 1865.

The Second Brigade, First Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, will report direct to these headquarters until further orders.

By order of Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry:

A. TERRY,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

MARCHING ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,
Federal Point, N. C., February 20, 1865.

The divisions of Generals Ames and Paine will advance up the main road, Paine's division leading. Abbott's brigade will advance up the military road. Should the enemy be found in his expected position beyond Mott's Creek, the main body will attack them in front, while Abbott's brigade attacks his left flank and endeavors to turn it. Myrick's battery will accompany the main body; Lee's battery will accompany General Abbott. General Abbott will not, without further orders, advance more than two miles beyond his present position on the military road. He will endeavor to keep up communication with the main body by couriers and patrols, and will keep the commanding general, who accompanies the main body, constantly informed of his progress. He will also reconnoiter all roads by which he can cross to the main road.

By order of Major-General Terry:

A. TERRY,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

FEBRUARY 20, 1865.

Major CAMPBELL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I found the enemy in strong force behind entirely new intrenchments. I shall intrench myself for to-night in this position unless I receive other orders from General Terry.

AMES,
*General.*SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 51. }HDQRS. DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
New Berne, N. C., February 20, 1865.

* * * * *

V. In view of the very extensive operations that are about to commence, and Morehead City being the most important point upon the whole line of sea coast, it is deemed advisable that the headquarters of the Sub-District of Beaufort and the quarters of all the officers connected therewith be at Morehead City, and it is therefore so ordered. The garrison of Beaufort will be one company of the Seventeenth Massachusetts Volunteers. All other troops will be removed elsewhere. The headquarters of the First North Carolina (Union) Volunteers will be at Fort Macon, where it was ordered to be when that regiment was first sent to the Sub-District of Beaufort. The commanding officer of the regiment shall be the commandant of that fort.

* * * * *

By command of Brig. Gen. I. N. Palmer:

J. A. JUDSON.

Assistant Adjutant-General.

[FEBRUARY 21, 1865.—For Grant to Meade, relating to re-enforcements of cavalry for Sherman, &c., see Vol. XLVI. Part I, p. 609.]

CITY POINT, February 21, 1865.

(Received 3.30 p. m.)

Hon. E. M. STANTON:

The following paragraphs are taken from to-day's Richmond papers:

SOUTH CAROLINA.—CHARLESTON.

On last Thursday night, the 16th instant, our forces evacuated Charleston, and it is believed that the enemy took possession during the next day. Many guns must have been abandoned by our troops, but it is consoling to know that the Yankees got little else. There was no cotton at Charleston to gladden Lincoln's heart, and the city itself was little better than a deserted ruin. Several telegraph operators, all of them men of Northern birth, did not come out with our forces, but remained to receive the Yankees.

FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.

Winnsborough, S. C., is thirty-seven miles this side of Columbia, and it is rumored this morning that the enemy have occupied it. The News, published there on the 16th, stated that the day before a large drove of Government stock, consisting of about 460 head of cattle and the same amount of sheep, passed through Winnsborough from Anderson. On the morning of the 16th another large lot passed through, bound for a point out of the reach of Sherman's scouts.

GOLDSBOROUGH, 19th.

A Yankee force from New Berne, some 500 strong, passed through Greenville yesterday, and when last heard from were advancing on Tarborough. It is thought to be a mere raiding party. General Baker is after them. Another party is reported coming up the south side of the Neuse. This needs confirmation. No trouble is anticipated.

FROM NORTH CAROLINA.—RAIDS ON TARBOROUGH AND GOLDSBOROUGH.

It is said that a cavalry force of the enemy was advancing on Tarborough on Tar River, near the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad. A force (numbers unknown) is also reported as moving on Goldsborough from New Berne, along the south bank of the Neuse. We fear there is much truth in these statements. The enemy have for several weeks been concentrating at New Berne. Raleigh is 100 miles from New Berne; Goldsborough is midway between the two places. It was reported that a large Yankee cavalry force was advancing on Salisbury from East Tennessee, but there was nothing in it. The Senate bill to raise 200,000 negro soldiers will, it is understood, be passed to-day in secret session. It is said a similar bill passed the House of Representatives, in secret session, yesterday.

U. S. GRANT.

Lieutenant-General.

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington City, February 21, 1865.

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a communication from Col. James A. Hardie, inspector-general U. S. Army, dated 10th instant, furnishing extracts for the information of the Quartermaster-General concerning the march of General Sherman's army to Savannah, &c. The remarks on the march of infantry alongside of the trains are interesting. The Quartermaster-General in passing over the route of the rebel march to Gettysburg noticed that this had been the practice of that army, the troops marching in the fields on each side of the turnpike, which was occupied by the trains. In regard to the suffering for want of forage after the arrival of General Sherman's army at Savannah, from all that the Quartermaster-General could learn while at Savannah, it resulted from the delay in opening navigable communication with Hilton Head, to which point all the forage ordered by the military authority was ordered from the North, with the exception of a portion sent by General Grant's order to Pensacola. Daily shipments equivalent to 35,000 rations were made from the time it was evident that General Sherman would strike the coast at Savannah, and the Quartermaster-General believes that these shipments were regularly made. The exceeding roughness of the weather delayed some of the vessels. One arrived while the Quartermaster-General was at Savannah, having been twenty-four days out of New York. All that was possible was done, and with greater success than is recorded of such great movements in other countries. General Sherman left some 4,000 animals at Savannah and informed the Quartermaster-General that he had enough. The loss appears to have fallen principally upon the artillery and cavalry which remained in Savannah, expecting every day that the obstructions would be removed and supplies brought up.

I remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General U. S. Army, and Brevet Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 24. }

WAR DEPARTMENT,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, February 21, 1865.

Ordered, That a national salute be fired to-morrow noon, February 22, at West Point, and at every fort, arsenal, and army headquarters of the United States, in honor of the restoration of the flag of the Union upon Fort Sumter.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 21, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD:

Your dispatch of yesterday is to hand. This column is moving as per your orders received and will reach the point designated. Generals

Slocum and Kilpatrick will also be at the points intended, where all will be in communication to-night, and you can also. All well.

I am, general, with respect, &c.,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HARRISON'S CROSS-ROADS, S. C. (Dr. BOYD'S),
February 21, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I arrived at this point at about 1 p. m. My headquarters are at the house of Dr. Boyd, near the cross-road which leads to Poplar Springs. It is five miles from this point to Poplar Springs. General Corse, who leads to-day, will push out on that road some distance.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

P. S.—General Woods' division was marched to Longtown with a view to making a demonstration at Mickles' Ferry. It will join us at Peay's Ferry, the next ferry north.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS, &c.,
Winnsborough, February 21, [1865]—6 p. m.

Major-General HOWARD:

DEAR GENERAL: Generals Slocum and Davis are here. Slocum sends his pontoons and wagons to-morrow straight for the ferry at Rocky Mount Post-Office by Gladden's Grove. He will keep four divisions breaking road up as far as the Chester District line, and aim to cross his whole command the day after to-morrow. Let Blair finish up the road good to this point, and then assemble at Poplar Springs and effect a crossing of the Wateree, prepared to get all across the day after to-morrow. Slocum will assemble his command at Gladden's. Communicate with me there or at Rocky Mount. After crossing, Slocum and the cavalry will have the road from Lancaster to Chesterfield and you from your ferry straight for Cheraw, dipping a little south, to get on the Camden road. I will keep with the Twentieth Corps, which is Slocum's right.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 45.	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE, Harrison's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 21, 1865.
---------------------------------------	---

The movements to-morrow at 6.30 a. m.: Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps, will march his First Division, Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. Woods commanding, to Peay's Ferry, causing a slight demonstration to be made at Mickles' Ferry. A small force will also be sent to guard the crossings of Wateree Creek. The other three divisions of the corps will move to Peay's Ferry via Poplar Spring. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will move to Poplar Spring. The bridge train, in case it is still with the Seventeenth Army Corps, will move behind the ordnance train of the leading division of that corps. If it is with the Fifteenth Army Corps it will move in rear of the leading division of that corps. Department headquarters will follow the leading division of the Fifteenth Army Corps.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard :

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp Near Longtown, S. C., February 21, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I respectfully report that I started out of camp about 9 a. m. to-day, following out in rear of the Second Division. Leaving it, however, after having gone some ten miles, I continued with my command in the direction [of] Longtown, camping within one mile of that place at 8 in the evening, two brigades looking toward it, with one facing back on the road over which I had marched. My headquarters are within one mile of the cross-roads at Longtown.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Dutchman's Creek, S. C., February 21, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General :

I have the honor to report that my division left camp this morning at 9.30 o'clock, closely following the Fourth Division, marching to this point, which it reached a little after dark. My headquarters are about 400 yards east of the crossing.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Harrison's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 21, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command broke camp at intersection of Columbia, Camden, and Winnsborough roads at noon, and marched via Round Top and Concord Church to Harrison's Cross-Roads, encamping at 11.45 p. m. The ground upon which the command is encamped was chosen with reference to the comfort of the troops rather than for defensive purposes. Headquarters are at the fork of the roads; distance marched, seventeen miles.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, on Dutchman's Creek, S. C., February 21, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to make the following report of the movements of my command this instant: I broke camp near Muddy Springs at 5.30 a. m., and moved past Round Top across Twenty-five Mile Creek to the Camden road, striking it at a point about three miles distant from Ridgeway, and thence to the right along the Camden road to the intersection by the Rocky Mount road, down which I have moved my command two miles and placed it in position and bivouac on the south bank of Dutchman's Creek.

I have marched my division twenty-one miles, most of the route traversed being by private roads.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL ) HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
 FIELD ORDERS. { In the Field, on Dutchman's Creek, S. C.,
 No. 22. { February 21, 1865.

I. The troops of this division will be in readiness to move at 7 a. m. to-morrow, the 22d instant, on Wateree River, taking the Rocky Mount road, in the following order:

First, Third Brigade Infantry and battery; second, trains in same order as the 21st instant; third, First Brigade Infantry, marching by the side of the trains; fourth, Second Brigade Infantry, with strong rear guard, which will bring forward all stragglers of whatever command.

Inasmuch as this division will probably be the rear of the column, the troops will be in readiness, but will not move until further orders.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Simpson's Turnout, S. C., February 21, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Dept. and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: My command is encamped at this point, six miles from Winnsborough. We have destroyed thirteen miles of railroad to-day. I shall move to-morrow, via Winnsborough, to Poplar Spring, destroying the road to Winnsborough. I am obliged to go by the latter place, as there is no road leading direct from here to Poplar Spring.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 48. { Simpson's Station, S. C., February 21, 1865.

The march to-morrow will be via Winnsborough to Poplar Spring Post-Office.

The Third Division, Brig. Gen. M. F. Force commanding, will have the advance, and will move forward at 8 a. m.

The Fourth Division, Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith commanding, will follow the Third Division, being prepared to move at 9 o'clock.

The First Division, Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower commanding, will follow the Fourth Division, being prepared to move at 10 o'clock.

The train of the First Michigan Engineers and Mechanics will follow the Fourth Division train.

A brigade from each division will be detached to destroy the railroad. The First Division will destroy two miles, commencing at the station and working north. The Fourth Division will destroy the next two miles, and the Third Division the next two miles. The work will be done in the same manner as to-day; that is, the rails will be twisted by the First Michigan Engineers and Mechanics, and Col. J. B. Yates, commanding, will assign three companies to each brigade for that purpose. The work will be commenced on the road at 6 a. m., and as soon as finished the working parties will move forward, following the command.

The trains of headquarters Military Division of the Mississippi and of these headquarters will move next after the troops of the Third Division.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Winnsborough, S. C., February 21, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN,
Commanding Army:

GENERAL: My command occupied Winnsborough this morning at 10 o'clock. A part of it is now destroying the railroad north of this place. I shall await further orders from you here.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 24.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING,
ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Winnsborough, S. C., February 21, 1865.

The First and Third Divisions, Twentieth Army Corps, with the trains of the entire corps and all the pontoon trains, will move at 6 a. m. to-morrow and march to Rocky Mount Post-Office, on the Catawba River. General Williams will endeavor to effect a crossing at that point and lay a pontoon bridge. The Second Division, Twentieth Army Corps, will be employed in the destruction of the railroad as far north as White Oak, and will hold Winnsborough until this destruction is completed. The trains of the Fourteenth Corps, under one division, will encamp to-morrow night near Wateree Meeting House. The other two divisions will break the railroad as far north from White Oak as possible, and will, with trains, be marched on the 23d to Rocky Mount Post-Office, on the Wateree River.

By command of Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum:

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL }
 FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 15. } Near Winnsborough, S. C.,
February 21, 1865.

The corps will move to-morrow as follows:

General Carlin will move at 6 a. m. by the most direct road from Adger's to the vicinity of Springwell Post-Office, and will destroy the railroad from that point back to Youngsville.

General Baird, marching at 6.30 a. m., will move to White Oak and will destroy the road from that point to Youngsville.

General Morgan, with the trains of the corps, will move in the rear of General Baird to White Oak and thence to Wateree Meeting House, and will park the trains to-morrow night at that point, on the left-hand side of the road from Winnsborough to Gladden's Grove Post-Office.

The reserve artillery and ammunition trains will move at 6 a. m. in the rear of General Baird to White Oak, and thence to Wateree Meeting House, and will encamp at that point.

Corps headquarters will be with General Carlin's division.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. MCCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

ORDERS.] HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Beaver Dam Creek, S. C.,
February 21, 1865.

The First and Third Divisions of this corps will march to-morrow toward Rocky Mount Post-Office, as follows:

Third Division, without trains, at 6.30 a. m.; First Division at 7 a. m. General Jackson will dispose of his troops so as to cover all the trains of the corps. He will detail three regiments as a rear guard. One section of artillery will march with the rear; one battery will march in rear of General Ward's advance brigade. The balance of the artillery will march in rear of the Third Division. The order of march of the trains will be: Pontoon train immediately behind the artillery, Third Division train, First Division train, Second Division train. General Geary will leave a sufficient force at Winnsborough to hold that place, and with the balance of his command will continue the destruction of the railroad northward to White Oak Station. As soon as this is done he will march his whole command, via Rocky Mount Post-Office, to rejoin the corps.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—This order will supersede the former order given for to-morrow's operations.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Beaver Dam Creek, S. C., February 21, 1865.
 Brigadier-General JACKSON,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: The general commanding the corps directs that you move all the trains of the corps escorted by your division to the vicinity of Wateree Creek, near Wateree Church, starting at 8 a. m. to-morrow. The trains will move in the following order: Artillery, pontoon train, Second Division, Third Division, First Division. An advanced guard of three regiments will be sufficient.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Beaver Dam Creek, S. C., February 21, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The brevetmajor-general commanding directs me to inform you that the corps will march from here to-morrow to the vicinity of Wateree Meeting House.

In the absence of other orders, he desires that as soon as you have completed the destruction of that part of the railroad assigned to you that you rejoin the corps with your command at the above-mentioned point. General Ward is ordered to destroy the railroad from the upper road crossing to White Oak Station.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 15.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION,
TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
Winnsborough, S. C., February 21, 1865.

During to-morrow the Second and Third Brigades of this division will continue the destruction of the railroad northward as far as White Oak, if possible.

The destruction must be performed most thoroughly. One mile well destroyed is worth two half done.

The First Brigade will remain on duty in Winnsborough and vicinity. Orders will be issued to-morrow indicating at what point the brigades will concentrate.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary.

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Winnsborough, February 21, 1865.

Major-General KILPATRICK,

Commanding Cavalry:

GENERAL: I presume you now to be about Lemon's or Buckhead Post-Office, and base my present calculations on that supposition. I would like you to move with your whole force to the neighborhood of Black Stocks Depot or Springwell Post-Office, taking position and maneuvering so as to seem to be the advance of the whole army in the direction of Chesterville and Charlotte, and to cover General Davis' operations in breaking up the railroad as far as he can during to-morrow and next day. As soon as Davis withdraws to cross the Catawba, move with him and cross to the east bank of the Catawba (or Wateree) on Slocum's pontoons, which will be laid at Rocky Mount Post-Office. I would like to have you all across during the night of the 23d, so you can move next day on Lancaster. I would like to have the railroad bridge across Broad River at the mouth of Tiger burned, and think the enemy himself will burn it if you approach it or send a small party to threaten it; also several of the bridges and trestles on the same railroad below where it crosses Broad River about Ashford's Ferry and Dawkins'. I hope you have already damaged that road considerably. I wish, as a rule, whenever you are near a railroad, you will, unless cautioned otherwise, have your men burn bridges, depots, and water-tanks, and break switches; also, all sawmills should be destroyed, not only burned, but the engines and boilers disabled. Davis will be near you and will be at hand in case of need, but I don't want you to be drawn off so that you can not have your trains and men ready to pass the pontoons during the night of the 23d. Better caution your commanders so as to keep in the foragers, else they will be left behind, as some were about Columbia. I will be with this wing some days, and should like to see you either here, or, better, at the bridge in crossing the Catawba. I inclose you General Slocum's orders for to-morrow and next day.* General Howard will be at Poplar Spring and Peay's Ferry.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

FEBRUARY 21, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

Scouts have been from General Terry's left to the river, but without meeting the enemy or head of General Ames' column. They struck the river at a crib wharf. The enemy's line seems not to reach the river, but General Ames should find out.

COMSTOCK,
Lieutenant-Colonel.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Campbell's Island, N. C., February 21, 1865.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. GEORGE S. DODGE,
Chief Quartermaster:

GENERAL: The commanding general desires you to see to the execution of the inclosed order† (Special Orders, No. 10, paragraph 3). The general further directs that you have all troops that may arrive landed at Fort Fisher (Federal Point) until further orders. From there they will march to join their respective commands, providing themselves with three days' rations when they start.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

* See Special Field Orders, No. 24, p. 516.

† See p. 520.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,

Campbell's Island, N. C., February 21, 1865—5.15 p. m.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. GEORGE S. DODGE,

Chief Quartermaster:

GENERAL: I have decided not to transfer General Cox's troops to-night, and may not do it at all. Hence I send you the Christopher, to assist in unloading the troops which have just arrived. As soon as you have them unloaded bring them directly to this place and land them on the east bank. I would like to get them all to this place to-morrow, if possible. Land the horses at the Point and let them march up.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General, Commanding.

P. S.—Send some ambulance horses to General Terry as soon as you get them.

J. M. S.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
No. 10. } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Campbell's Island, N. C., February 21, 1865.

* * * * *

III. All the pontoons, flats, and navy small boats will be ready at or near the mouth of Town Creek by 4 o'clock this p. m. to carry troops across the river.

The lightest draft steamer will be near the steamer S. R. Spaulding to render any assistance that may be necessary. Two steamers will be at Fort Anderson by dark this evening to transfer Major-General Cox's artillery horses and wagons to Federal Point.

IV. The steamer Russia will proceed to Beaufort Harbor, N. C., with dispatches to be delivered at Morehead City. She will await dispatches from General Palmer and return to these headquarters, bringing a party of operators and telegraph repairers for duty at these headquarters.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,

Campbell's Island, N. C., February 21, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. D. COX,

Commanding Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps:

If you can destroy the bridge over Brunswick River or break the railroad to-day do so, but be ready to cross the river early this evening near the mouth of Town Creek.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
February 21, 1865.

General COX:

GENERAL: My last report from General Terry indicates that he will not be able to force the enemy back from the position held by him last evening. General Terry thinks Hoke has his whole force in his front. It will therefore be necessary to transfer your troops to the east bank of the river to-night. The men will be put across in small boats near the mouth of Town Creek unless Terry succeeds in effecting a lodgment higher up. In the latter event I will signal you. Otherwise, move your troops to the mouth of Town Creek without further orders. Let your artillery and animals go down to Fort Anderson. I will have them sent from that place by steamers to Federal Point this evening.

If you can destroy the bridges over the Brunswick River to-day do so, but in any event be ready to commence crossing the river by dusk or earlier if practicable. You might perhaps send back a brigade or two while the others are doing the work.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
*Major-General.*HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
*Brunswick River Ferry, February 21, 1865.*Major-General SCHOFIELD,
Commanding:

My head of column reached this place about 1 o'clock. The rebels had partially destroyed their pontoon bridge, but from the wreck I got several boats and have put a regiment over on the island. They got most of the way across when the enemy opened with one gun, commanding the straight road. As the rest of the island seems impracticably swampy this checked our reconnaissance, but there can be little doubt the rebels are evacuating. They have made immense fires, the smoke of which you must have seen, indicating that they are destroying turpentine, &c. A few skirmishers were on the opposite side of Brunswick River when we reached it, but they ran at once. The enemy has destroyed all flat-boats within reach, but I may hunt some up. I am pushing a reconnaissance farther up the river by way of threatening to cross above the island and so hasten their movements. I shall put my command in position covering the crossing and the Georgetown road, and watch the movements in the town. The railroad bridge across Brunswick River is partially destroyed, and we hear the cars on the other side of the town from here. I cannot doubt that General Terry will have an open road in the morning, and think from the general indications that I am entirely secure here. I will face in all directions and get all the intelligence I can while awaiting orders. There is no railroad or other bridge over Cape Fear River.

Very respectfully, &amp;c.,

J. D. COX,
*Major-General, Commanding.*BRUNSWICK BRIDGE, February 21, 1865—6 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

Your dispatch directing movement is only just received, the messenger having lost his way. As I am eight miles from the mouth of Town

Creek, and it is already dark, your directions cannot be literally followed, and the circumstances impress me so strongly with the belief that the enemy are about to evacuate Wilmington to-night, that I venture to send one brigade now and wait further orders before withdrawing all. It will take all night to get the whole command to Town Creek, and it seems impossible to cross them all, beginning at an hour so much later than you anticipated when sending the dispatch. Some engineers on the railroad who have come into my lines, several other citizens, and a number of slaves all agree in reporting the intention of evacuating immediately. The destruction of immense quantities of property since I came up this evening looks the same way. I have collected and repaired nearly all of the pontoons and materials of the bridge, and had begun relaying them when your dispatch came. I cannot retire my own force now without it appearing a retreat. I would be entirely willing to stay here with one brigade, and should feel quite confident that I could at any time bring it off safely, if we remained here several days even. Thinking you would not desire more troops at Town Creek than you can cross to-night, I have therefore thought you would, if you knew all the circumstances, think it right to send the one brigade; and if more can cross I can still send them, so as to be not much behind the others if the messenger makes reasonable haste. I believe I mentioned in a former dispatch that the rebels themselves destroyed the Brunswick River railroad bridge.

Very respectfully,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
February 21, 1865—7.15 p. m.

General COX:

GENERAL: My orderlies and your signal officer seem to have got lost, and I have heard nothing from you since 10.30 a. m. I sent an order to you by an orderly on foot about noon, but do not feel at all certain that it has reached you. I want you to move back abreast of the fleet, just above the mouth of Town Creek, to-night, and be ready to cross the river at dawn of day in the morning. Send all your wagons and horses to Fort Anderson. The men will cross in small boats. Better send a regiment with your wagons, horses, and artillery. Should the enemy be in force in your front it might be necessary to cross Town Creek before crossing the river. About this, act according to your judgment. I intended you to cross the river to-night, but it is now too late.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
February 21, 1865—10.20 p. m.

Major-General Cox,

Commanding Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps:

GENERAL: Your dispatch of 6 p. m. is just received and is highly satisfactory. The one of an earlier date, but the hour not given, came at the same time. About 7 o'clock I sent another to you directing you to come back. I hope this will reach you in time to take its place. My orders were based upon General Terry's report of an increase of the force in his front, and that of prisoners that Hardee's forces had arrived from Charleston. I think you would certainly have learned it if the latter were true. That you have sent one brigade back is well. You may send another as soon as you get this dispatch. Keep the other two where you are until daylight in the morning. Then if the rebels have gone you can enter the town, taking care to hold the river crossings. If the enemy has not gone, or you are not positive that he is going, then move back and cross the river as before directed.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Campbell's Island, N. C., February 21, 1865—10.30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. J. D. COX,

Commanding Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps:

GENERAL: Send back another brigade as soon as you get this dispatch. Keep the other two where you are until daylight to-morrow. Then if the enemy has gone you can enter the town, taking care to hold the river crossing. If the enemy has not gone, or you are not positive that he is going, then come back and cross the river.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Brunswick Ferry, February 21, 1865—11.15 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

Your dispatch of 7.15 is just received. That sent this morning reached me at dark. I shall put the rest of the command in motion immediately in accordance with your orders.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Brunswick Ferry, February 21, 1865—Midnight.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,

Commanding:

Your dispatch of 10.20 received in time to stop two brigades. Henderson's and Moore's have gone forward and will report at the river above Town Creek. I will inform you of any changes in the morning. The railroad employes who came in to me informed me positively that Hardee's troops had not come here.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Brunswick Ferry, February 21, 1865—Midnight.

Brevet Brigadier-General HENDERSON,
Commanding Third Brigade:

I have received a dispatch from General Schofield, countermanding in part my movement. You will, however, follow Moore with your brigade according to former orders. The rest of the division I will keep here. You will report to General Schofield and please deliver or send to him the inclosed dispatch.* Your horses will go to Fort Anderson.

Let one of your men who goes with them notify the wagons at our old camp to come forward according to first order. Your regimental baggage is already at Fort Anderson. Communicate with General Schofield in regard to getting it over to you.

Very respectfully,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
 ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Campbell's Island, February 21, 1865—7 p. m.

Maj. Gen. A. H. TERRY,
Commanding U. S. Forces East of Cape Fear River:

GENERAL: I have just received your dispatch† inclosing one from General Ames. I approve of your determination to call him in and concentrate your troops to-night. Hold on where you are until I can get more troops on that side of the river. I have not heard from Cox since 10.30 a. m., when he was near the mouth of Brunswick River. I will send him across the river to-morrow. He will not get back in time to cross to-night.

About 5,000 more troops have arrived off the bar and are now unloading. I hope to get them up to-morrow. Please show this to General Comstock if he is still with you.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS PROVISIONAL CORPS,
Before Wilmington, N. C., February 21, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. AMES,
Commanding Second Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you withdraw your force from your present position to the ground in the rear of our main line, where Abbott's brigade was encamped last night, first breaking down the bridges which you have constructed across Barnard's Creek. He desires you to leave a small picket at the mill-dam; also to leave pickets for observation between the mill-pond and the swamp on the left of our main line. Your withdrawal, of course, should be conducted in perfect silence, so as to leave the enemy with the impression that you are still there.

By order of Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry:

A. TERRY,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

* See next, ante.

† Not found.

HILTON HEAD, S. C., February 21, 1865.

(Received 1.25 a. m. 25th.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff:

Arrived here from Charleston this morning and shall return there to-morrow, after the arrival of the Arago with Northern mails. There are eight locomotives and other rolling-stock in Charleston, but I want some engineers to run them. I also want two good railroad superintendents and some workmen. I am already advancing on the Wilmington Railroad, and hope to be able to aid General Sherman by reaching the Santee River with supplies for him. I have no news from Sherman later than his reported capture of Columbia. I hope to capture Georgetown in a few days, either by an attack from the sea or by moving down with a force north of the Santee River.

Your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

(Copy sent by Halleck to Grant, February 25.)

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 21, 1865.

Rear-Admiral JOHN A. DAHLGREN,

Comdg. South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, Charleston, S. C.:

ADMIRAL: I am moving a force out on the Northeastern Railroad toward the Santee River, in order to have supplies there for General Sherman, should he require them. If it be practicable to ascend the Santee River with transports it would cover my movement and open up even a better line for sending supplies on than the railroad. Could you send some gun-boats up on a reconnaissance in order to get information as to the character of that stream? Deserters report the battery at Georgetown to be abandoned by the enemy. I hope to be able to send a few hundred men there to-morrow, and request, if convenient, that a couple of gun-boats be detailed to accompany them. Will you please inform me if this can be done?

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
*Major-General, Commanding.*HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 21, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,

Commanding District of Savannah, Department of the South:

GENERAL: I inclose herewith a communication* to the commanding general Confederate forces operating near this department. You will have it placed, as soon as possible, in the hands of the officer commanding the rebel pickets nearest your lines.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

* See Gillmore to Commanding General Confederate Forces, Department of South Carolina, &c., February 16, p. 452.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, February 21, 1865—2 p. m.

Major-General DIX,
New York:

This Department has received the official report of Major-General Gillmore, announcing the surrender of the city of Charleston, S. C., to the U. S. forces under his command, at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning, the 18th instant. Among the captured property are 200 pieces of good artillery and a supply of fine ammunition. The enemy burned their cotton warehouses, arsenals, quartermaster stores, railroad bridges, two iron-clads, and some vessels in the ship-yard.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

(Same to Governor Curtin, Harrisburg, Pa.; Governor Bradford, Annapolis, Md.; Governor Fenton, Albany, N. Y.; Governor Andrew, Boston, Mass.; Governor Smith, Providence, R. I.; Governor Buckingham, New Haven, Conn.; Governor Smith, Saint Albans, Vt.; Governor Gilmore, Concord, N. H.; Governor Cony, Augusta, Me.; Governor Brough, Columbus, Ohio; Governor Morton, Indianapolis, Ind.; Governor Oglesby, Springfield, Ill.; Governor Stone, Davenport, Iowa; Governor Lewis, Madison, Wis.; Governor of Michigan, Detroit; Governor Fletcher, Saint Louis, Mo.; Governor Carney, Kansas City, Kans.)

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 22, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

The following items are taken from to-day's Richmond papers:

Our readers will cheerfully forego their desire to be apprised of the pending military movements in the Carolinas when they are informed that our reticence is in compliance with wishes which have been communicated to all the newspapers.*

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

ENGINEER DEPARTMENT,
Washington, February 22, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,
Commanding U. S. Armies, &c., &c., City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: Your order of the 19th instant for a bridge equipage for General Schofield, communicated to this department by General Halleck, chief of staff, has been filled as follows: Fifty canvas boats, nineteen boat wagons (16-foot reach), thirty chess wagons (9-foot reach), and a full supply of balks and chesses, and army wagons for the transportation of the balks and chesses. These supplies are now going on board the transports at this city for Wilmington, N. C.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

RICH'D DELAFIELD,
General and Chief of Engineers.

---

* For portion of dispatch here omitted see Vol. XLVI, Part II, p. 628.

CONFIDENTIAL.]

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., February 22, 1865.

Colonel CARD:

General Gillmore has orders, as soon as he is in possession of Charleston, to diminish the force in the Department of the South to what will enable him to hold the most important points and to send every man he can spare to North Carolina. The result of this measure will be to diminish the consumption of supplies in the Department of the South. The transportation wagons and animals of the detachment lately sent by General Thomas from the Tennessee River to New Orleans will follow the troops as rapidly as steamers can be provided to move them. Please read and sign this and return it.

Respectfully,

M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General, Brevet Major-General.

(Same to Colonel Brown.)

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Peay's Ferry, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: A negro has just come in who left Charleston on Friday. The rebels all left Charleston the same day and our troops immediately took possession of the city. He says they left the city in a great hurry, leaving several light batteries for want of horses, all their heavy guns, and their commissary and quartermaster's stores. He accompanied the troops as far as Summerville and Laurence, where they stopped. Another negro has come in, who was employed in the engineer department on James Island. He left that place one week ago last Monday. He says all the engineers left the same day, going direct through Charleston north. He came through Camden last Monday. Says that General Beauregard was there then, but not many troops. He says the people are not going to destroy the bridge, in the hope that it will be better for the town if it should be captured. The pontoon bridge at this point was begun at 1 p. m. There was only a picket-post here, which ran away at the approach of our soldiers.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
*Major-General.*HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Rocky Mount Post-Office, February 22, 1865—9 p. m.

Major-General HOWARD,

Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: Yours of to-day from Peay's Ferry has just been received. General Sherman desires me to say he would like to have you put your whole command over the river with due expedition, and suggests it would be well to move out in the direction intended some ten or twelve miles, say Russell Place, until the high or table land may be reached. He also wishes you to reconnoiter for roads toward Cheraw well, and toward Camden. Two divisions of the Twentieth Corps with the entire train of this wing have reached this point and are mostly in camp. The bridge is completed ready for crossing. The balance of the command are destroying railroad.

I am, general, yours, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 46.	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE, Near Peay's Ferry, S. C., February 22, 1865.
---------------------------------------	--

I. The movements to-morrow will commence at 6.30 a. m. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will cross the Wateree at Peay's Ferry and move by the most direct route, via Liberty Hill and Red Hill Post-Office, to lower Williams' Cross-Roads. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, crossing the Wateree at Peay's Ferry, will move by the most direct route, via Liberty Hill and Russell Place, to the cross-roads at Williams', near Copeland's. If, in any way, corps commanders can facilitate the movement of the refugee train, or better provide for those belonging to it, the order from these headquarters organizing that train can be so far modified by them as they think best. As soon as the Seventeenth Army Corps has crossed the Wateree the bridge will be taken up and will follow that corps. Department headquarters will follow the leading division of the Fifteenth Army Corps.

II. All foragers and others not authorized to be mounted will be dismounted at the crossing of the Wateree, and the worthless animals will be abandoned on this side of the river. Corps commanders will charge their chief quartermaster with the execution of this order.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Wateree River, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Major-General WOODS,

Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Owing to the utter impossibility of moving the refugee train over the heavy and difficult roads of the country with any prospect of getting it into camp at a reasonable time for the comfort of the refugees themselves, or of the division with which it moves, the general commanding has decided to divide the train proportionately among the respective divisions of the corps. The sections will report for to-morrow's march as they may be assigned, and division commanders will please designate an appropriate place for them in their column and see that they (the refugees) are rationed and properly cared for in every particular. Should any brigade or division commander desire to have a refugee family move with his headquarters, he will be allowed to receive them, but must charge himself with their care and protection. At any time during the campaign should improper persons be found with the column the general commanding directs they be at once removed from the command.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Generals Hazen, J. E. Smith, and Corse.)

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Camp near Peay's Ferry, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that at 6.30 o'clock this morning I received orders to march and at once started on the road toward Mickles' Ferry, as directed. Turning at Harrison's to the left, I sent forward two regiments to the ferry for the purpose of making the demonstration ordered. No evidence of the enemy was found at the ferry. Continuing on the road toward Peay's Ferry, I arrived in its vicinity at 4 p. m., going into temporary camp with my troops, where I am at present awaiting orders. My headquarters are at Peay's plantation.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., FIRST DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Capt. FRED. H. WILSON,

Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen., First Division, 15th Army Corps:

CAPTAIN: In compliance with your request, I have the honor to forward the following statement of the number of soldiers captured during the night of the fire at Columbia, S. C., by this brigade: Fifteenth Army Corps, 136 enlisted men; Seventeenth Army Corps, 260 enlisted men; total, 396.

I have the honor to be, captain, very respectfully, &c.,

W. B. WOODS,
Brevet Brigadier-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Liberty Hill, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to state that until the reception of Special Orders, No. 53. of this date, from headquarters Fifteenth Army Corps, I had supposed the mounting of foragers authorized, if not in orders, at least from custom and necessity. Upon this supposition I had directed my brigade commanders to mount about 5 per cent. of their command for the purpose of gathering food. They had done this at no little trouble and had just reported that they could subsist their brigades with but little assistance from the commissary of subsistence. This cannot be done without mounting the foragers, and as our main supplies must be derived this way, I would most respectfully call especial attention to this subject. Late orders regulating issues from the wagons make it necessary for each division of the army to procure from the country about 7,000 pounds of food daily, which amounts do not exist along the immediate lines of march, but must be procured from points more or less remote along the flanks. It is as much as footmen can do to make long marches along the straight line of the road. I have given the subject of foraging my closest attention since it was adopted as our means of subsisting the army, and have at no time permitted more than the minimum number necessary to perform the duty to be mounted, and unless they are so authorized or mount themselves without authority this command cannot be properly fed. This is corroborated by all my brigade commanders, who, with myself, desire only the best interests of the service. On the late campaign in Georgia I found no difficulty in supplying my command and furnished 22,000 rations to needy troops, but at no time had a less per cent. than 5 of my men mounted and never had any of them dismounted. Should this arrangement be broken up my supplies will fall short of absolute necessity.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Liberty Hill, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that this division broke camp at 6.30 this morning, marching to the Wateree River (Peay's Ferry), making that point at 11 a. m., and after waiting till 3.30 p. m. it crossed the pontoon bridge and marched to this point, making it at about sunset. My headquarters are on the south side of the road, near the crossing of Singleton Creek.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Peay's Ferry, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command broke camp at Harrison's Cross-Roads at 7 o'clock this a. m., and marched via Poplar Springs to Peay's Ferry, crossing the Wateree River after dark and encamping with reference to the comfort of the troops near the river at 8.30 p. m. The rear of the command did not arrive in camp until 11.30 p. m., the passage of the column being frequently interrupted for the purpose of repairing the bridge. Headquarters are on the bank of the river, south of the main road; distance marched, eleven miles.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, near Wateree Creek, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the movements of my command this day: I broke camp at 8 a. m. and moved upon the Rocky Mount road via Poplar Springs and the intersection of the Carlyle Court-House, Winnsborough, and Rocky Mount roads, taking the right-hand and direct road to Peay's Ferry and the Wateree

River, near which I have placed my command in bivouac, having marched ten miles. One hundred and fifty bales of cotton were burned by my orders during the day.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN M. CORSE.

Brevet Major-General.

CIRCULAR } HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
                   } In the Field, near Wateree River, S. C.,
 No. 5.         } February 22, 1865.

At an early hour to-morrow, the 23d instant, this command will be stripped of all horses and mules not allowed by existing orders and regulations, by orders from corps headquarters; and the trains of this division, especially the ordnance, are much in need of mules to haul them, the march during the past few days having used up many of the animals. It is therefore ordered that all surplus animals in this division, including those used by forage details, be turned over to Capt. H. R. Benjamin, acting assistant quartermaster, before marching to-morrow morning. After crossing the river a new system of foraging will be inaugurated and twenty animals furnished to each brigade to mount details for that purpose from the quartermaster's department. Officers of the inspector-general's department will report any officer who attempts to avoid compliance with this order.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Wateree River, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Major BURKHARDT,
Commanding Twenty-ninth Missouri Mounted Infantry:

MAJOR: I am directed by the general commanding to instruct you to move your command in advance of the leading division, which will break camp at 6.30 o'clock. You will please reconnoiter for a road from Liberty Hill to Flat Rock Post-Office via either Russell Place or Red Hill Post-Office, and will start your parties at a sufficiently early hour to accomplish some good.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
                           } Near Poplar Springs Post-Office,
 No. 49.               } February 22, 1865.

The command will move forward on the direct road to-morrow and cross the Wateree at Peay's Ferry.

The Fourth Division, Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith commanding, will have the advance and will move at 7 a. m.

The First Regiment Michigan Engineers, Col. J. B. Yates commanding, with their tool wagons, will follow the train of the Fourth Division.

The First Division, Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower commanding, will follow the engineer regiment and will be prepared to move at 8 o'clock.

The Third Division, Brig. Gen. M. F. Force commanding, will follow the First Division and will be prepared to move at 9 o'clock.

The train of the First Michigan Engineers will follow the train of the First Division.

The train of these headquarters will follow the ordnance wagons of the rear brigade of the Fourth Division.

The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move forward on the direct road to Peay's Ferry at 6.30 a. m.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 22, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding instructs me to direct you to move your troops on the left of your train to-morrow, also not to let any foragers go out until we cross the river, and to dismount all unauthorized parties at the bridge. After crossing the river a brigade from your command will wait until the bridge is taken up, when they will move forward, covering it.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 16. } Douglass' House, February 22, 1865.

The First and Third Divisions of the corps will move to-morrow as follows:

General Carlin will march at 6 a. m. upon the direct road toward Gladden's Grove Post-Office. Should he before reaching that place discover any good road leading more directly to Rocky Mount Post-Office via Gladden's Grove [sic].

General Baird, marching at 6.30 a. m., will follow General Carlin.

Corps headquarters will move between the two divisions.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION,
FIELD ORDERS, } TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
No. 16. } Wateree Church, S. C., February 22, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Rocky Mount Post-Office, starting at 6.30 a. m. Order of brigades: Second, Third, First.

The train will march in rear of the leading brigade.

* * * * *

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. CAVALRY COMMAND, ARMY OF INVASION,
Douglass' House, near Black Stocks Station, February 22, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON, A. A. G., Military Division of the Mississippi:

MAJOR: I am now encamped at Springville [Springwell], on railroad, and across to J. Y. Mills' house, on Little Rocky Creek. My advance has been to within five miles of Chesterville. A portion of Wheeler's cavalry is at that point, but he and Hampton are moving toward Landsford. General Carlin encamps to-night at Youngsville. I will move at an early hour for the pontoon, and my first brigade (General Atkins) will be at the river ready to cross at 3 p. m. to-morrow. By rapid marching I can reach Lancaster before the half of the rebel cavalry can reach that point. I think, however, they are marching for Charlotte. Cheatham has not yet crossed Broad River; was making preparations to do so to-day. The bridges you wished destroyed were all burned by Captain Northrop of my staff. An infantry lieutenant and seven men were murdered yesterday by the Eighth Texas Cavalry after they had surrendered. We found their bodies all together and mutilated, with paper on their breasts, saying, "Death to foragers." Eighteen of my men were killed yesterday and some had their throats cut. There is no doubt about this, general, and I have sent Wheeler word that I intend to hang eighteen of his men, and if the cowardly act is repeated, will burn every house along my line of march, and that can be reached by my scouting parties. I have a number of prisoners, and shall take a fearful revenge. My people were deliberately murdered and by a scouting party of 300 men commanded by a lieutenant-colonel. I will try and see the general-in-chief at the bridge.

Very respectfully, &c.,

J. KILPATRICK,
Brevet Major-General.

---

FLAG-STEAMER PHILADELPHIA,
Off Charleston, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE, Comdg. Department of the South:

GENERAL: I am just in receipt of your communication of to-day,* stating that you are about to move a force toward the Santee River, and asking if I could send some gun-boats on a reconnaissance in that river. In reply, I am able to inform you that with a view to some communication with General Sherman I had already placed two gun-boats inside the harbor of Georgetown, and have ordered other vessels there, to be in readiness for any movement that might be of use to General Sherman. The Santee has but little depth at its bar, and I am therefore obliged to send such vessels as can enter. The Geranium, a tug of about six or seven feet draft, was sent there, with two howitzer launches, to pioneer the way for the McDonough, and to examine the channel as well as the road to Georgetown. I just learn that the Geranium finds it too rough, and is now at Georgetown awaiting an opportunity to get into the Santee, but she will no doubt obey the orders as soon as it is possible to do so. Am I to understand that the gun-boats are to accompany the troops from this place to Georgetown or after they reach that place? Orders for either will be given if you will please to let me know what you desire.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. DAHLGREN,
Rear-Admiral, Commanding South Atlantic Blockading Squadron.

---

* See 21st, p. 525.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Brig. Gen. JOHN P. HATCH,
Commanding Coast Division, Department of the South :

GENERAL: I am most anxious that you should reach here, so that I can put Colonel Van Wyck's brigade under the control of General Schimmelfennig. The One hundred and fifty-seventh New York Regiment, if not a part of Van Wyck's brigade, must be sent with it. If the reports from Georgetown be confirmed, a very small force will suffice for that diversion, and General Schimmelfennig will make it. I shall want the balance of your command very soon for operations elsewhere, and want them in good condition.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Memorandum for Brig. Gen. A. Schimmelfennig:

First. Communication should be opened with General Hatch. Second. Colonel Van Wyck's brigade should be placed on the Northeastern Railroad without delay. Third. Colonel Brown's regiment (One hundred and fifty-seventh New York Volunteers) to make a diversion to Georgetown; batteries at that place to be dismantled. Fourth. If practicable, Colonel Brown's force should then be sent up the Santee to the railroad bridge, to join General Potter; ascertain the practicability from the navy. Fifth. Rations arriving from Hilton Head need not be unloaded.

By command of Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore:

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 22, 1865.

Brig. Gen. A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Commanding Northern District, Department of the South :

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to state that Admiral Dahlgren will furnish the necessary co-operation for the Georgetown expedition, and you are therefore requested to communicate with him. The expedition must get off as soon as possible. If you desire any action upon any matters of especial importance, please send word to the major-general commanding, on board steamer Diamond, any time this evening. The major-general commanding directs that your provost-marshal be ordered to allow no citizen to land here without a pass from proper authority.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

Wilmington, February 22, 1865.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,
City Point, Va. :

GENERAL: I have the satisfaction of announcing the capture of Wilmington. On the 19th, after the capture of Fort Anderson, we found the enemy in position behind Town Creek, and opposite to its mouth, on the east side of the river. During the night I transferred General Ames' division, which had been operating with General Cox against Fort Anderson, to the east bank, to rejoin General Terry. On the 20th General Terry pushed the enemy back to a point about four miles from Wilmington, where he appeared in force behind strong intrenchments. General Terry's loss was about 50 men killed and wounded. General Cox crossed Town Creek by the use of a single flat-boat, attacked and drove the enemy in confusion from the field, capturing 375 prisoners and 2 pieces of artillery. Yesterday the enemy concentrated nearly his entire force against General Terry and prevented any farther advance. General Cox pushed forward to the crossing of Brunswick River and secured possession of the main portion of a pontoon bridge, which the enemy fired on his approach. By the use of the boats General Cox put some men on Eagle Island and threatened to cross the river above Wilmington. The enemy at once set fire to his military and naval stores, steamers, boats, cotton, &c., and commenced his retreat at dark. Our troops entered the city soon after daylight this morning. The enemy has gone toward Goldsborough, and General Terry is in pursuit. Our loss in killed and wounded since we left Fort Fisher is probably only about 200 men. That of the enemy is not much larger in killed and wounded, but we have taken about 800 prisoners, besides a large number of stragglers and deserters. A large amount of heavy artillery and a few field pieces have fallen into our hands. The admiral is now clearing away the obstructions in the river, and we hope to get the transports up to-day.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,

No. 14. )

Wilmington, N. C., February 22, 1865.

I. Lieut. Col. William J. Jordan, One hundred and fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, is hereby assigned to duty as provost-marshal of Wilmington during the temporary stay of this division, and will issue such orders and regulations for the establishment of good order and discipline in this vicinity as he may deem necessary.

II. During the temporary stay of this division at Wilmington the One hundred and fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry is assigned to duty as provost guard.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Right Bank Brunswick River, February 22, 1865.

Brevet Brigadier-General HENDERSON, Comdg. Third Brigade:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that you move your brigade to this place to-night or to-morrow morning, as you may prefer. On arriving here you will put the One hundred and twelfth Illinois in position on this bank of the Brunswick River, as guard to the bridge, and have them construct works for its protection. The other regiments you will please report with to these headquarters in Wilmington. On leaving your present position you will relieve the guards at Town Creek bridge and bring them with you to their command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THEO. COX,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS PROVISIONAL CORPS,
Near Wilmington, N. C., February 22, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. AMES,
Commanding Second Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding desires that you will recall the brigade ordered to be sent to the plank road, and follow General Paine with your whole command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. TERRY,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

NEW YORK, February 22, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON:

You wished me some time ago to see to the old Sumter flag. I did see. It is in the vault of the Bank of Commerce. Can I send it back and have it posted in its old place?

JOHN A. DIX,
Major-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 23, 1865—3 p. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War, Washington:

Deserters to-day report Sherman in Charlotte. The Richmond papers of to-day, true to their word of yesterday, give no news.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF VIRGINIA,
 ARMY OF THE JAMES,
February 23, 1865.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,
Headquarters Armies of the United States, City Point:

The Richmond Examiner of this morning has the following:

We learned officially at a late hour last night that General Joseph E. Johnston was yesterday ordered by the Government to report to General Lee for duty. It is believed that General Johnston will be immediately appointed to command the army in front of Sherman.

E. O. C. ORD,
Major-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 23, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington :

I see by the papers that an effort is being made to induce the President to appoint General Butler provost-marshal of Charleston and South Carolina. I cannot believe this will be done, but write to respectfully enter my protest. There are many reasons which I might give why General Butler should not be placed on duty again, but I think two of them are sufficient—his order to his troops on being relieved from duty, and his Lowell speech.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Rocky Mount, February 23, 1865—10 a. m.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Right Wing :

GENERAL: I have just been down to the bridge. It will take all of to-day and to-morrow to get this wing across and out. You may go ahead, but keep communication with me. I expect Kilpatrick here this p. m. and will send him well to the left. He reports that two of his foraging parties were murdered by the enemy after capture and labeled, "Death to all foragers." Now it is clearly our war right to subsist our army on the enemy. Napoleon always did it, but could avail himself of the civil powers he found in existence to collect forage and provisions by regular impressments. We cannot do that here, and I contend if the enemy fails to defend his country we may rightfully appropriate what we want. If our foragers act under mine, yours, or other proper orders they must be protected. I have ordered Kilpatrick to select of his prisoners man for man, shoot them, and leave them by the roadside labeled, so that our enemy will see that for every man he executes he takes the life of one of his own. I want the foragers, however, to be kept within reasonable bounds for the sake of discipline. I will not protect them when they enter dwellings and commit wanton waste, such as woman's apparel, jewelry, and such things as are not needed by our army; but they may destroy cotton or tobacco, because these are assumed by the rebel Government to belong to it, and are used as a valuable source of revenue. Nor will I consent to our enemy taking the lives of our men on their judgment. They have lost all title to property, and can lose nothing not already forfeited; but we should punish for a departure from our orders, and if the people resist our foragers I will not deem it wrong, but the Confederate army must not be supposed the champion of any people. I lay down these general rules and wish you to be governed by them. If any of your foragers are murdered, take life for life, leaving a record of each case.

I am, with respect,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Red Hill Post-Office, February 23, 1865—12 m.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN :

GENERAL: Captain Dayton's dispatch of 9 p. m. yesterday is just received. General Logan's head of column is already near Flat Rock.

General Blair has been directed to reach Russell Place with his head of column to-night. I have two bridges, a wagon bridge and foot bridge, across the river, and if it does not rain expect to get everything across before night. The roads I have marked out are for General Blair to move from Russell Place to Williams', near Copeland's, thence by country roads to Young's Bridge; for General Logan to move from Flat Rock to lower Williams' Cross-Roads, thence to Tillersville Post Office. The two corps will then concentrate at Cheraw. I found a good road directly from Liberty Hill to Flat Rock. Two of General Logan's divisions are moving on a road a little farther south. There is a road also from Russell Place to Flat Rock, via an old mill, that is shorter than any laid down on the maps. My headquarters will be at this point to-night, viz, at Patterson's Cross-Roads, so as to be within easy communication with General Blair and General Logan.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Rocky Mount, February 23, 1865.

General HOWARD,
Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: Your note of to-day is received. I don't see as we can do better than follow the roads you have indicated, although they carry you too far south. Davis will cross to-morrow and get on the road from Lancaster to Cheraw via Chesterfield. Williams is now at Colonel Ballard's, but his trains are not yet across. Kilpatrick will cross at 7 p. m., move out five miles, and to-morrow move to Lancaster, and there await Davis' coming. I will accompany Williams, and expect to be about Hanging Rock to-morrow night, thence will find a road across to Chesterfield. I fear much the present rain will make the roads very bad. You will have better roads and should move slower. If circumstances warrant, you might send a small cavalry force into Camden and get more positive news of Charleston. It might save you being troubled by cavalry to burn the bridge. If you should calculate that you will reach Cheraw much in advance of us you may threaten Florence, or actually break the railroad near there, to divert attention from our real course.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 47.	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE, Patterson's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 23, 1865.
---------------------------------------	--

The movement to-morrow will commence at 6.30 a. m. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move via the lower Williams' Cross-Roads to the cross-roads at West's. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will move by the country roads via Copeland's and Williams' Cross-Roads in the direction of Young's Bridge, making sufficient distance to enable the corps to reach that point the following day. Department headquarters will follow the leading division of the Fifteenth Army Corps.

One section of the bridge train will move by the direct road from Liberty Hill to Flat Rock Post-Office and follow the Fifteenth Army Corps; the other section will follow the Seventeenth Army Corps. A rear guard from each corps will follow the section of the bridge train.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

[FEBRUARY 23, 1865.—For complimentary letter from Howard to Logan, see Part I, p. 241.]

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Flat Rock Church, S. C., February 23, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that I left my camp near Wateree River at 7 this morning, marching toward the ferry, crossing on the pontoon boats. I followed in rear of the Third Division on the same road, going into camp at 5 in the evening in the vicinity of Flat Rock Church. In obedience to your orders, I left one brigade of my division (the Third, Colonel Stone commanding) back at Red Hill, where it now is awaiting orders. The remaining two brigades are encamped on the Camden road, facing southeast. My headquarters are near the church.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Breret Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Flat Rock Church, S. C., February 23, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. WOODS,

Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that the movement will be continued to-morrow on West's Cross-Roads, via the lower Williams' Cross-Roads, and that you will have the advance. You will please make your dispositions to move out at 6.30 a. m., on such roads as may be indicated in the morning, by one of the staff officers of the commanding general.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
White Oak Creek, S. C., February 23, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that my division passed out of camp yesterday at 12 m., reaching this point at 5 p. m. My headquarters are at the —— plantation.

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Flat Rock Church, S. C., February 23, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command broke camp at Peay's Ferry at 6. 30 o'clock this a. m. and marched in advance, via Liberty Hill on ——— road to Flat Rock Church, head of column arriving at 2 p. m.; distance marched, seventeen miles. The division is encamped in line, the First Brigade on the right of the Lancaster road fronting northeast; the Second Brigade on the left of same road, fronting north; artillery in rear of First Brigade. These headquarters are at Hunter's house.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Flat Rock Church, S. C., February 23, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. JOHN E. SMITH,

Commanding Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inform you that the movement will be continued to-morrow on West's Cross-Roads via the lower Williams' Cross-Roads. You will please follow in rear of General Woods' command.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, White Oak Creek, S. C., February 23, 1865.

[Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:]

MAJOR: I have the honor to report as follows, in regard to the movements of my command during this day: I broke camp at 7 a. m., and crossing the Wateree River moved in rear of the Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, to Liberty Hill, and from thence to the right on the Camden road, a distance of three miles, where I passed to the left and pursued a field road to its intersection with another road, well traveled, and also designated as the Camden road, down which I moved as far as White Oak Creek, and placed my command in bivouac at 10 p. m., having marched fourteen miles, most of the distance after 2 p. m.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL
 FIELD ORDERS,
 No. 24.

} HDQRS. 4TH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, near White Oak Creek,
February 23, 1865.

The troops of this division will march at 7.30 a. m. this instant, following the First Division, the movement to be on lower Williams' Cross-

Roads, southeast of Flat Rock Post-Office, in the following order, viz: The First Brigade in advance, followed by the Second Brigade (marching by the side of the trains as heretofore), and the Third Brigade in rear, with one regiment moving by the side of the supply train.

Trains to move in same order as on the 22d instant, following the First Brigade, the battery moving within this brigade.

The pioneer corps will take the advance, as usual.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Patterson's Cross-Roads, February 23, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: Our headquarters are at this point. The Fifteenth Corps, instead of being at the place indicated in the order of march, will be near Flat Rock. The general wishes you to get one division as far as Russell Place if possible; the other divisions as far as Liberty Hill, as in case a rain should come on it will be very difficult to get over the road. There is a good road from Russell Place to Flat Rock Post-Office.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Patterson's Cross-Roads, February 23, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: Your note by Colonel Hickenlooper is just received. I only wished you to get your head of column to Russell Place. You did have an independent road after getting to Liberty Hill, and your road is independent all the way to Young's Bridge. There was but one road that I could find between the bridge and Liberty Hill. To-morrow if you will make Williams' Cross-Roads, near Copeland's, I will be satisfied. Please take one section of the bridge train along with you and allow the other to come straight to Flat Rock. The roads are good after reaching the table-land; that is, good before the rain. There is no haste, as I find it will take all day to-morrow for the Left Wing to get across the Wateree. Headquarters to-morrow night will be at lower Williams' Cross-Roads.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 50. } Liberty Hill, S. C., February 23, 1865.

The movement to-morrow will be via Russell Place and Copeland's in the direction of Young's Bridge.

The Fourth Division, Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith commanding, will move forward at 7 a. m.

The First Michigan Engineers, Col. J. B. Yates commanding, will follow the Fourth Division.

The First Division, Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower commanding, will move forward at 6 a. m., following the First Michigan Engineers.

The Third Division, Brig. Gen. M. F. Force commanding, will move forward at 6 a. m., following the First Division.

The train of the First Michigan Engineers will follow the First Division train.

If practicable the troops will move by the side of the train, keeping to the right.

Corps headquarters train will follow the headquarters train of the Fourth Division.

The section of the bridge train that moves with this corps will follow the train of the Third Division, and General Force will move two regiments in rear of it as rear guard.

The other section of the train will move after the Third Division train until it reaches Liberty Hill, where it will take the road to Flat Rock Post-Office and move with the Fifteenth Army Corps.

The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will be prepared to move at 6.30 a. m.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 44. ) Catawba River, S. C., February 23, 1865.

This command will move forward to-morrow at 6 a. m., in the following order, following First Division: First, First Brigade; second, Battery Fifteenth Ohio; third, Second Brigade. Ambulances and trains in usual order.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Rocky Mount Post-Office, S. C., February 23, 1865.
Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: The general-in-chief has directed General Kilpatrick, who is here with his command, to commence crossing at 7 p. m. to-night, and occupy the bridge until his command is entirely over. In the meantime he wishes you to push your train over as rapidly as possible, and as soon as the cavalry is over to resume the use of the bridge until your entire command is over.

I am, general, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
Rocky Mount, February 23, 1865—9 p. m.

Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: General Kilpatrick is now waiting, and has been since 7 o'clock, to cross the bridge with his command. By direction of General Sherman a staff officer has stopped your train for use of General Kilpatrick.

I am, general, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Rocky Mount Post-Office, February 23, 1865.

Brevet Major-General DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you cross your command to-morrow over the Catawba River at this point and move to Dry Creek Post-Office. You can probably find a road from near Tillman's directly across to the post-office. On the following day (the 25th) he wishes you to move to Hickory Head. In the absence of further orders you will continue the march to Chesterfield Court-House by the road leading through Blakeny's and Mount Croghan. The general hopes both corps will reach near Chesterfield Court-House on the night of the 27th.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Colonel Ballard's Farm, S. C., February 23, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Chesterfield, as follows: First Division at 6.30 a. m., Third Division at 8 a. m., Second Division at 9 a. m. The troops of the First Division will march unencumbered in the advance. General Geary will detail three regiments as rear guard. One battery of artillery will follow General Jackson's advanced brigade; one section will accompany the rear guard. The balance of the artillery will follow the First Division troops. General Ward will dispose of his troops so as to cover the trains of his own and General Jackson's divisions. The artillery ammunition train will to-morrow march in rear of the trains of the First Division.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Rocky Mount, S. C., February 23, 1865.

Major-General KILPATRICK,
Commanding Cavalry:

GENERAL: Yours of last night is received and your dispositions of matters are all right. The bridge is laid and troops are crossing. I am anxious to get the wagons across and up on high ground before the rain comes. I wish you would keep your cavalry on roads to the north of the direct one by Gladden's Grove, as that will be needed all day for infantry and wagons. You shall have the bridge as fast as your brigades come. I regret the matter you report, that eighteen of your men have been murdered after surrender, and marked that the enemy intended to kill all foragers. It leaves no alternative; you must retaliate man for man and mark them in like manner. Let it be done at once. We have a perfect war right to the products of the country we overrun, and may collect them by foragers or otherwise. Let the whole people know that the war is now against them, because their armies flee before us and do not defend their country or its frontier as they should. It is petty nonsense for Wheeler and Beauregard and such vain heroes to talk of our warring against women and children. If they claim to be men they should defend their women and children and prevent us reaching their homes. Instead of maintaining their armies let them turn their attention to their families, or we will follow them to the death. They should know that we will use the produce of the country as we please. I want the foragers to be regulated and systematized so as not to degenerate into common robbers, but foragers, as such, to collect corn, bacon, beef, and such other products as we need, are as much entitled to our protection as our skirmishers and flankers. You will, therefore, at once shoot and leave by the roadside an equal number of their prisoners, and append a label to their bodies stating that man for man shall be killed for every one of our men they kill. If our foragers commit excesses punish them yourself, but never let an enemy judge between our men and the law. For my part I want the people of the South to realize the fact that they shall not dictate laws of war or peace to us. If there is to be any dictation we want our full share.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 24. } Hilton Head, S. C., February 23, 1865.

Lieut. Col. James F. Hall, First New York Volunteer Engineers, having been, on account of receiving leave of absence, temporarily relieved as provost-marshal-general of this department in General Orders, No. 11, current series, from these headquarters, and having since been promoted to be colonel of his regiment now serving in the Department of Virginia, will turn over all records and property pertaining to the office of provost-marshal-general, which he may have in his possession to his successor, Lieut. Col. Stewart L. Woodford, One hundred and twenty-seventh New York Volunteers, and proceed to the headquarters of his regiment.

By command of Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore:

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 23, 1865.

Captain BARKER,

Commanding Fort Strong, Morris Island, S. C.:

You are hereby placed in command of Morris Island, S. C. You will see that the public property is preserved, and that no camps are injured or meddled with. The latter will be needed immediately as rendezvous for the organization of colored regiments.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, February 23, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,
Cape Fear River, N. C.:

GENERAL: The Secretary of War directs me to say that he is informed that you have taken for your headquarters the hospital boat, the Spaulding. If so, your action is disapproved, and you will immediately return the vessel to the Medical Department. He also directs me to say that no Government vessel will be diverted from its proper business and used as the headquarters of any officer without the permission of the War Department, and that an application for such use must state the circumstances rendering it necessary, and showing that headquarters cannot be established on shore.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

---

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, February 23, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Commanding Dept. of North Carolina, off Fort Fisher, N. C.:

SIR: The Secretary of War directs me to inform you that your occupation of the hospital transport S. R. Spaulding for your headquarters is in violation of General Orders, No. 18, copy herewith inclosed,* and is disapproved by him. The Secretary directs that you immediately give up the steamer to the control of the Medical Department again, and that you conform to the terms of the general order referred to.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 24, 1865—11 a. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington:

I would respectfully recommend the appointment of Schofield as brigadier-general in the regular army. He ought to have had it from the battle of Franklin.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

* See February 8, p. 342.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, February 24, 1865.

Lieutenant-General GRANT:

The Chief of Ordnance sent yesterday an ordnance officer to Cape Fear River to secure the captured ordnance and ordnance stores. I have made the appointment of Schofield brigadier-general in regular army.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
Savannah, Ga., February 24, 1865.

His Excellency J. Y. SMITH,
Governor of the State of Rhode Island:

GOVERNOR: In the absence of Major-General Sherman, commanding in the field, I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt at these headquarters of the resolutions of the General Assembly of the State of Rhode Island commendatory of the conduct and services of the general and the officers and men under his command. The resolutions and letter of transmittal will be forwarded to the general as soon as communication is opened to him.

I have the honor to be, Your Excellency's most obedient servant,
R. M. SAWYER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 24, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. WADE HAMPTON,
Commanding Cavalry Forces, C. S. Army:

GENERAL: It is officially reported to me that our foraging parties are murdered after capture and labeled "Death to all foragers." One instance of a lieutenant and seven men near Chesterville, and another of twenty "near a ravine eighty rods from the main road" about three miles from Feasterville. I have ordered a similar number of prisoners in our hands to be disposed of in like manner. I hold about 1,000 prisoners captured in various ways, and can stand it as long as you; but I hardly think these murders are committed with your knowledge, and would suggest that you give notice to the people at large that every life taken by them simply results in the death of one of your Confederates. Of course you cannot question my right to "forage on the country." It is a war right as old as history. The manner of exercising it varies with circumstances, and if the civil authorities will supply my requisitions I will forbid all foraging. But I find no civil authorities who can respond to calls for forage or provisions, therefore must collect directly of the people. I have no doubt this is the occasion of much misbehavior on the part of our men, but I cannot permit an enemy to judge or punish with wholesale murder. Personally I regret the bitter feelings engendered by this war, but they were to be expected, and I simply allege that those who struck the first blow and made war inevitable ought not, in fairness, to reproach us for the natural consequences. I merely assert our war right to forage and my resolve to protect my foragers to the extent of life for life.

I am, with respect, your obedient servant,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, U. S. Army.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, One mile North of Warrenton's, Fifteen South of Lancaster, February 24, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD, Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: Jeff. Davis is not yet across, and the roads are so very bad that I think it will take him all day and to-morrow to get well over and up on high ground. The Twentieth Corps is here. We can see the Seventeenth passing eastward, about one mile south. Davis is ordered to take roads that will bring him into the direct road from Lancaster to Chesterfield, and the Twentieth will move by Hanging Rock, and thence by roads to the south of Davis. Unless the rains cease we will have a hard time. Don't push too fast, but gather as much food as you can en route. I think you could send into Camden with safety, but there is no object, but when you get to Lynch's Creek you might pass the Ninth Illinois Cavalry* across and push them toward Florence with orders to break two or three bridges about Timmons ville and then to rejoin you at Cheraw. I don't believe there is any cavalry of the enemy down there, and ours might pick up some good horses. The only object would be to prevent the shipment by cars of the garrison of Charleston to Fayetteville or Wilmington to oppose us. If at the time you suppose all of the Charleston garrison is east of Florence the expedition would not be advisable. I believe Foster is in possession of Charleston, because of the general belief to that effect and the reports of the negroes you sent me. I have also just released a prisoner captured yesterday by the Twentieth Corps, who was a bright lad sixteen years old, son of Richard Bacot, who was at West Point with me, and whom I knew well at Charleston. This boy left Charleston last Thursday at 12 m., at which time he says our troops had been shelling the city for twenty-four hours from James Island. He was a hospital attendant and was sent along with the sick from the hospitals to Florence, thence to be conveyed to the hospital at Cheraw. He said the orders for evacuation had been published, and the garrisons were to be rendezvoused along the Florence road at Porcher's and Bonneau's. He said they were removing the powder and ammunition, but would leave the heavy guns. The gun-boats were to be blown up. He says the first orders were to go to Columbia, but these were changed. If you can possibly employ a negro to go through to Charleston, make a cipher dispatch telling our general position and destination and an order of liberal payment. I think you will have good roads, and that there is no danger in our spreading out this side of Cheraw, thence to Fayetteville roads favor us as also from Fayetteville to our destination. At both Cheraw and Fayetteville are bridges that we can secure by holding the towns responsible. We find no enemy hereabouts, and suppose them all to be about Charlotte and Salisbury. Kilpatrick must now be at Lancaster; he crossed last night and was off this morning.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. DEPT. AND ARMY OF THE TENN.,
 FIELD ORDERS, } Near Williams' Cross-Roads, S. C.,
 No. 48. } February 24, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Capt. William Duncan, Company K, Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry, will, with his command and that of Capt. John L. King, commanding

* Mounted infantry.

Fourth Independent Company Ohio Cavalry, and as many men as can be furnished from the signal corps, scout in the direction of Camden, and, if practicable, enter the city and destroy the depot and other railroad property and whatever army supplies may be found.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Williams' Cross-Roads, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that during to-morrow you close up your command ready to move forward the next day, and that you send your mounted infantry forward to secure and hold the bridge at Tillersville until the arrival of the column at that point.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near West's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that in accordance with orders, I broke camp near Flat Rock Church at 7 a. m., marching by way of McDowell's and Young's to my present camp at West's Cross-Roads, making a distance of fifteen miles over the heaviest roads. I was obliged to do a great deal of corduroying, and over one stream on the line of march to make a bridge some fifty feet in length. The Third Brigade of my division is still back at Red Hill. The commanding officer has just sent me word that he will probably not move to-day, as at 4 a. m. the pontoon boats had not been taken up. I saw no evidence of the enemy to-day. My troops are encamped looking eastward, my headquarters being near to the cross-roads.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Hughes' Mills, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL, Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that this division, preceded by the Fourth, arrived here at 4 p. m., which is as near West's as the command can well be put to-night. I can find no one who knows anything about West's. This is on the direct Camden and Cheraw road, six miles from the former place and fourteen from the crossing of Lynch's Creek at Tiller's. The roads to-day have been very good, notwithstanding the rain; have been plain, and I have kept as far to the left as I could find roads. My right flank brushed Camden, one regiment passing through it. The road to Lynch's Creek is direct and good.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Hazen-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near West's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command broke camp at 7 o'clock this a. m. and marched via Flat Rock Post-Office to near West's Cross-Roads. The division is encamped in line, fronting north and northeast, covering neighborhood roads. These headquarters are on West's plantation; distance marched, sixteen miles.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, near Hughes' Mills, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the movements of my division this instant:

I broke camp at 7.30 a. m., and moving in advance of the Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, crossed White Oak Creek and continued on the Camden road, via Rock Spring Church, and until crossing Saunders' Creek, when, pursuant to orders from Major-General Hazen, I directed my column on a field road to the left, via Kirkwood's, and within one mile and a half of Camden. Bearing well to the left, I continued on this road until striking the Cheraw and Camden road, upon which I moved as far as Hughes' Mills on Big Pine Tree Creek, crossing which I placed my command in bivouac. After crossing Saunders' Creek, by consent of General Hazen, I sent one regiment (Twelfth Illinois Volunteers) and four companies of another (Sixty-sixth Illinois Volunteers) into Camden, with proper instructions as to the destruction of Government property, stores, &c. This detachment of my division, under Colonel Adams, met the enemy's cavalry in light force and drove them into and through the city, wounding two men and capturing several prisoners. The expedition burned 1,000 bales of cotton, the depot buildings, and a large building filled with flour and meal (sacked), several hogsheads of sugar and rice, besides a flouring mill filled with corn and wheat; also cut the telegraph wires, recaptured and released seven men of the Second Division who were picked up by the enemy while foraging. About sixteen prisoners, including a captain and commissary of subsistence, were picked up by my command in and around Camden while passing. My command has marched a distance of twenty miles over heavy roads.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

---

CIRCULAR.]

HDQRS. FOURTH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
Flat Rock Post-Office, S. C., February 24, 1865.

The division will move at 7.30 a. m. in following order: Second, Third, and First Brigades, the central brigade marching by the side of the trains as usual; two regiments of the advance brigade in rear of battery; trains in same order as heretofore, one regiment of the rear brigade being thrown forward by the side of trains. Command to move on direct Camden road.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 25.	}	HDQRS. 4TH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS. In the Field, near Hughes' Mills. February 24, 1865.
-------------------------------------	---	--

*                      *                      *                      *                      *                      *

II. The troops of this division will be in readiness to march at 7.30 a. m. to-morrow, the 25th instant, in the following order:

Third, First, and Second Brigades guarding trains, according to instructions heretofore given. Trains in same order as the 24th instant, battery to move within the advance brigade. The pioneer corps in advance as usual.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
West's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Major BURKHARDT,
Commanding Twenty-ninth Missouri Infantry:

MAJOR: I am directed by the general commanding to instruct you to move with your entire command at daylight to-morrow morning on the bridge crossing Lynch's Creek, at or near Tillersville Post-Office, on the Camden and Cheraw road, and endeavor to save the same. Should you be successful, hold the bridge and report at once the result of your march to these headquarters in order that a force of infantry may be sent to the bridge.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: My Fourth Division is encamped between Patterson's and Flat Rock, five miles from Flat Rock. The First Division is at Patterson's. The Third Division will encamp at Russell Place to-night. I sent back orders for them to take the direct road from Liberty Hill to Flat Rock, but through some misunderstanding they followed the First Division.

Respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Russell Place, February 24, 1865—9.45 a. m.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD, Comdg. Army of the Tennessee:

DEAR GENERAL: The advance of Seventeenth Corps is back about two miles and coming up as rapidly as possible. At 7 this a. m. the rear of Seventeenth Corps, General Force's division, was still at the pontoon bridge, and the advance of Mower's division was just passing through Liberty Hill. The road is very heavy and getting worse all the time and will have to be corduroyed nearly all the way. There is a road running direct from this place to Flat Rock Church, but it is represented as being very swampy. I have sent forward to have it examined. If practicable, General Blair will take it; if not, will move south on the Camden road and move by the route indicated last night. It is only two miles farther. General Blair will have his head of column to-night at Flat Rock and will try and get his rear as far as Russell Place. The other division will be at some point between the two. The Twentieth Corps struck into our road about three miles west from Russell Place. They were looking for a road to Hanging Rock and came into ours. They will be compelled to countermarch some three miles and a half or wait until the rear of the Seventeenth Corps passes, in which latter case they won't march far to-day. General Jackson, who has the advance, seemed surprised to find us moving on Russell Place. I saw Asmussen and he informed me the Twentieth Corps was ordered to move to Chesterfield, via Hanging Rock and Jefferson Post-Office. I will accompany General Blair until his head of column reaches Flat Rock and will then join you. I am inclined to think the bridge train will not get farther than Patterson's Cross-Roads to-night. It will have some trouble in getting over the branch of Beaver Creek. I found it very much swollen. The advance of Seventeenth Corps was not as far back as reported. It is now coming up to Russell Place. It will mass here for a short time till we decide which road to take to Flat Rock Church.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. E. STRONG,
Lieutenant-Colonel.

P. S.—General Force was directed to move at 6 o'clock, but was waiting for the pontoniers to take up the bridge, which they had just commenced to do at 7 o'clock.

Respectfully,

WM. E. STRONG,
Lieutenant-Colonel.

19.45 A. M.

P. S.—We have just learned that the road to Flat Rock is practicable and we will move by that road. General Blair will try and push Giles Smith to Williams' Cross-Roads, and Mower to Flat Rock. The Twentieth Corps has encamped at the intersection of the road referred to. Will wait till our column passes.

WM. E. STRONG.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Williams' Cross-Roads, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR, Comdg. Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that you proceed by the most direct route to Young's Bridge, reaching that point by the 26th instant. Our headquarters are at Young's house, near the cross-roads. General Logan's corps will close up in this vicinity and move forward to Tillersville on the 26th instant.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 51. } Near Flat Rock, S. C., February 24, 1865.

The following are the orders for to-morrow:

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will move forward on the Flat Rock road at 7 a. m.

Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will move at 6 a. m., following the route taken by the Fourth Division.

Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will move forward at 6 o'clock and march as far as practicable. The bridge train will move as General Force may direct.

The First Michigan Engineers will move next after the troops of the Fourth Division with tool wagons and ambulances. Their train will follow the First Division.

The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move forward at 6.30 a. m.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Wateree River, S. C., February 24, 1865—7 a. m.

Capt. C. CADLE, Jr.,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Seventeenth Army Corps:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that my command is still awaiting the crossing of the pontoon train and taking up of the bridge. Will move immediately after the latter is completed. Bridge was broken twice in the night by wagons going into the river—one of the First Michigan Engineer supply train and one of my supply train.

I am, captain, very truly yours,

M. F. FORCE,
Brigadier-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 24, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,

Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding instructs me to direct you to move forward at 6 a. m., following the other divisions to Flat Rock Post-Office. Order the pontoon train to move with you and place two regiments as rear guard. You can send your foragers ahead.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 45. } Russell Place, S. C., February 24, 1865.

This command will move forward to-morrow at 7 a. m. in the following order: First, Second Brigade; second, Battery Fifteenth Ohio; third, First Brigade; ambulances and trains in usual order.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
In the Field, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: General Geary, with his train, is up. General Davis will be able to cross one division with its train to-night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Rocky Mount Post-Office, February 24, 1865.

Brig. Gen. J. D. MORGAN,
Commanding Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that you cross the trains of the corps immediately in the rear of the remainder of the trains of the Twentieth Corps (and of the cavalry), which are now crossing, and park the trains near Captain Perry's, encamping your troops at the forks of the road beyond, near Dry Creek. It is the general's intention to relieve you of the care of the trains at that point.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Hilliard's Farm, S. C., February 24, 1865.

This command will move to-morrow to Hanging Rock as follows: Third Division at 6.30 a. m.; Second Division at 7 a. m.; First Division at 9 a. m. The troops of the Third Division will march unencumbered in the advance. General Geary will dispose of his troops so as to cover his own and the train in advance of his. One battery of artillery will follow the advanced brigade, one section march with the rear guard, the balance following the troops of the Third Division. The artillery ammunition train will follow the train of the Third Division. Division commanders, when their commands are marching with the train, will use the troops in repairing the roads. General Jackson will detail three regiments as a rear guard.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. CAVALRY COMMAND, ARMY OF INVASION,
Camp Creek, on Road to Hunter's Store, S. C., February 24, 1865.

[General SHERMAN:]

GENERAL: I reached my present camp at daylight. My last brigade, Colonel Jordan's, will not get into camp before 9 a.m. This road is horrible. If the Fourteenth Corps intends to move on it the greater part will have to be corduroyed as far as Camp Creek. I did not get the bridge last night till 10.30 p. m. General Williams must have known that I was to have the bridge at 7 p. m., when he ordered General Geary (who had already gone into camp) forward at 6 p. m. I am sorry to trouble you with such matters, but I know of no other way of preventing a similar occurrence in the future. Yesterday five of my people, detailed to forage for my wounded in ambulances with Twentieth Corps were arrested by a provost-marshal of that corps and strapped to a tree and there kept till the corps marched by, with inscriptions on their breasts "House-breakers." I do not recognize General Williams' right to punish my people or disgrace them. I can and will do all the punishment myself. If I liked, I could retaliate every hour. Stragglers and foraging parties of the Twentieth Corps were here yesterday, eight miles from their command, committing acts most disgraceful. This house was pillaged at 10 a. m. yesterday by men of the Twentieth Army Corps. General Williams will have all he can do to maintain discipline in his own command. I have allowed foragers from the Left Wing to pass through my lines, and even assisted them. Yesterday a detail sent out by Major Dunbar, my quartermaster, captured ten mules and four horses for his wagon train. An officer of the Twentieth Army Corps arrested them and took mules and horses away. I shall now allow no foraging parties to pass through or out of my lines, and I shall dismount and seize all horses ridden by infantrymen who enter my column. This I shall continue to do, unless otherwise ordered by you or until my people are treated with that respect and courtesy I feel their conduct and services demand. I also most respectfully call your attention to the fact that foraging parties and stragglers from Twentieth Army Corps burned sufficient forage on this road to have fed my entire command. I had occasion to mention this same fact to General Slocum some days since. I shall rest here till 1 p. m., when I will move slowly forward, as I feel confident that General Davis can move but a short distance to-day. Hampton is at Lancaster and a small portion of Wheeler's cavalry. The country is rich and full of forage. Until the rain is over, unless the roads are better than this one, our progress must be very slow.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. KILPATRICK,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding Cavalry, Army of Georgia.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY COMMAND,

[February 24, 1865.]

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I have the honor to report that Private Charles Wright, Ninth Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, General Atkins' headquarters, came in last evening from scout near Feasterville, below and west of Chester-ville. He reports having found twenty-one of our infantrymen in a ravine, about eighty rods from the main road and about three miles from Feasterville, with their throats cut and stripped of their clothing. The evidence that the enemy has resolved upon murdering our men is fast accumulating. Another report has just come in that a soldier belonging to the Ninety-second Illinois Mounted Infantry was found hung to the limb of a tree near the roadside. I shall retaliate as far as my own people are concerned, as you have directed. Major-General Wade Hampton is now at Lancaster. I can forward for you any communication to or through him to any higher rebel authorities you may desire regarding the facts mentioned.

I am, general, your obedient servant,

J. KILPATRICK,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

IN THE FIELD, February 24, 1865.

Lieut. Col. F. A. JONES,

Commanding Eighth Indiana Cavalry:

SIR: I was ordered to take twenty-five men on the 22d instant and proceed to the Abbeville Railroad and destroy all bridges I could find from Black Buck Creek to Broad River. I struck the railroad at Black Creek bridge, which I burned, it being a trestle-work of about 120 yards in length. I then moved up the river one mile and burned a gristmill and two warehouses, which contained 1,500 bushels of shelled corn in sacks and 100 bushels of wheat, 75 sacks of flour, 19 barrels of molasses, 6 bales of cotton, 10 bales of hay, and a lot of tools, such as axes, saws, picks, shovels, &c. We found a guard of some 25 rebels, a picket of 3 men being at the mill, which we drove over Broad River at the ford close by. We remained here half an hour to prevent them from recrossing and extinguishing the fire at the mill and railroad bridge. From thence I proceeded as speedily as possible to the railroad bridge across Broad River, a distance of five miles, and found about 300 yards of it already consumed, having been fired by a foraging party of Company K of our regiment, under the charge of Sergeant Thompson, the evening before. From this point we started on our return to the command, and met no enemy during the evening or night, arriving within seven miles of Black Stocks at 12.30 o'clock at night. Our horses being tired, we camped for the night, and started for our command at daybreak, which we joined at 9 a. m. of the 23d, after traveling fifty-five miles.

Yours, very respectfully,

ANDREW JACKSON,

Lieutenant, Company C, Eighth Indiana Cavalry.

[First indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH INDIANA CAVALRY,

February 24, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded to brigade headquarters, First Brigade, Third Cavalry Division.

F. A. JONES,

Lieutenant-Colonel Eighth Indiana Cavalry.

[Second indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, CAVALRY COMMAND,

In the Field, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded:

THOS. J. JORDAN,

Colonel, Commanding Brigade.

[Third indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY,
Lancaster, February 25, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded for the information of the general-in-chief. I can safely say that all bridges and culverts on that railroad have been destroyed as far out as the railroad bridge over Broad River.

J. KILPATRICK,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding Cavalry.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
Savannah, Ga., February 24, 1865.

Major-General GILLMORE:

It is desirable to keep a lookout at Georgetown for communications from General Sherman. Please occupy it with a small force and keep a dispatch boat there to communicate the earliest telegram to these headquarters. General Easton is here with no later intelligence than you had yesterday. General Grover informs me that a deserter from Augusta reports that the last of Hood's army on its way to Beauregard passed through Augusta last Sunday, possibly 12,000. Being cut off from Beauregard, may they not turn toward Charleston and molest General Potter and his advance on the railroad?

By order of Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman:

J. D. WEBSTER,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 24, 1865.

General FOSTER,
Charleston:

We have broken railroad from Midway to Aiken, from Orangeburg to the Santee, and from Columbia to Winnsborough. No fighting of any importance; enemy retreats northward. We are south of Lancaster and east of the Catawba, moving for Cheraw, Fayetteville, and Goldsborough. Roads are bad, but we find forage and supplies. We hear Charleston is abandoned. Push operations in North Carolina, and at any cost break the railroad below Goldsborough from New Berne.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Capt. CHARLES R. SUTER,
Chief Engineer:

CAPTAIN: The major-general commanding directs that you proceed to Charleston this evening by steamer Delaware and report to Brig. Gen. J. P. Hatch, commanding Northern District, Department of the South.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
No. 27. } Hilton Head, S. C., February 24, 1865.

I. Lieut. Col. Stewart L. Woodford, One hundred and twenty-seventh New York Volunteers, is hereby relieved from the duties of provost-marshal-general of the department, and is announced as chief of staff to the major-general commanding, and temporarily assigned to the command of the post of the city of Charleston, S. C., which post will consist of the city proper and Castle Pinckney.

II. In compliance with paragraph VII, Special Field Orders, No. 13, from headquarters Military Division of the Mississippi, the One hundred and twenty-seventh Regiment New York Volunteers is hereby designated as the permanent garrison of the post of Charleston, and Col. William Gurney, of that regiment, as the permanent post commander. Upon his return to the department, from which he is now absent on account of wounds, he will relieve Lieutenant-Colonel Woodford of the command of that post.

III. Maj. Benjamin W. Thompson, Thirty-second U. S. Colored Troops, is hereby announced as provost-marshal-general of the department, and will immediately relieve Lieutenant-Colonel Woodford, receipting to him for all money and property pertaining to the office.

IV. Lieut. Frank Geise, Thirty-second U. S. Colored Troops, assistant provost-marshal-general of the department, in addition to his duties as such, will act as collector of the department military tax prescribed by General Orders, No. 5, current series, from these headquarters, until the arrival of Lieut. Col. James H. Strong, First North Carolina (Union) Volunteers, heretofore announced as military tax collector.

Lieutenant Geise will immediately relieve Lieutenant-Colonel Woodford as acting military tax collector, receipting to him for all money and property pertaining to the office.

By command of Maj. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore:

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Brig. Gen. JOHN P. HATCH,
Commanding Coast Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you proceed at once to the Northern District, Department of the South, and assume command of the U. S. forces in that district.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 24, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. P. SCAMMON,
Commanding District of Florida, Jacksonville, Fla.:

GENERAL: Brig. Gen. Seth Williams, acting inspector-general, U. S. Army, suggests that the small garrison and the Government stores at Saint Augustine, Fla., should all be within Fort Marion, or immediately outside of the fort and under its guns, to avoid the danger of the capture of that part of the command left in the town and the destruction of the Government property located there. The major-general com manding directs that you take such immediate action in this matter as the necessities of the case, in your judgment, require, reporting the same to these headquarters.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 24, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Commanding Department of North Carolina:

Richmond papers have ceased to give information of Sherman's movements. I presume, however, he is now past Charlotte with his advance and moving toward Goldsborough by the most practicable route. He may follow the railroad north for some distance past Charlotte, but this will depend on the movements and apparent strength of the enemy. I learn of nothing leaving here recently, except three brigades of Battle's division, numbering possibly 3,500 men. They left their position between the James and Appomattox yesterday morning. I hope and know you will push out and form a connection with Sherman at the earliest practicable moment. If you reach Goldsborough and have a fair prospect of getting your road finished soon, it may be unnecessary for Sherman to come down to the coast. Make every effort to communicate with Sherman at once. You will probably find some citizen who can be trusted to carry a note in cipher to Sherman. He has, I think, a cipher operator with him. Every effort has been made to get your troops and all else called for by you through, but the ice has kept everything back very much. Teams will be forwarded rapidly. I have also ordered one regiment of cavalry to you, numbering about 600 effective. I would send an entire division from Sheridan's army, but I have ordered him to move on the Virginia Central road and James River Canal. He will probably go to Lynchburg, and if information there received justifies it he will go on and join you and Sherman. If you and Sherman are once united you can keep as far in the interior of North Carolina as you may be able to supply yourselves. With your large force you will have united, Raleigh may not be found too far off. I congratulate you and the army under you for the brilliant success of which I have as yet received but the meager report sent by Admiral Porter. On receipt of the news I immediately telegraphed asking to have your name sent in to the Senate for the appointment of brigadier-general in the regular army, stating that I thought you should have the appointment for the battle of Franklin. I hope within a day or two to be able to congratulate you on your confirmation. Deserters from the rebel army are growing very numerous. Many are now bringing their arms with them. This morning forty-five came in a single squad and from a single regiment—a South Carolina regiment at that.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

Wilmington, February 24, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,

Commanding Armies of the United States, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: After the capture of Wilmington General Terry pursued the enemy as far as the Northeast River, where he found the railroad and pontoon bridges destroyed. The bridge over Smith's Creek is also destroyed. I have not learned whether any damage has been done to the railroad beyond the river. I shall push forward as soon as I can get any means of transportation. Wagons are beginning to arrive, and I hope the delay will not be long. The rebel agent of exchange has informed me that he will deliver 10,000 of our prisoners at the point where the railroad crosses the Northeast River, and I have agreed to receive them at that point. I presume he will commence to deliver them to-day. I am making all possible provision for the care of the sick, which will no doubt be a large proportion of the whole number. I have sent General Ruger's division of the Twenty-third Corps to New Berne, and shall send either General Terry or General Cox there to command the troops operating from that point. I will go there or remain with the troops operating from this place, as may seem advisable. I will also keep transports enough for a short time to carry a division from one point to the other, if it becomes necessary. I have heard nothing yet of the troops you have ordered General Gillmore to send me, but presume they must be along in a very few days. I can land them here or at Beaufort, according to circumstances. I have asked for the assignment of General Cox and General Terry to corps commands, both because the strength of my command renders it desirable and because it will enable me to leave either the one or the other in command of the column which I may not be with at any time. Moreover, it will make the organization of my army correspond with that of General Sherman's other grand divisions. I hope, for these reasons, my request may be complied with. I presume General Sherman, upon hearing of the fall of Wilmington, will send his cavalry this way to communicate with me and inform me of his progress. I shall also make constant efforts to communicate with him by means of scouts. I propose to repair both railroads toward Goldsborough as rapidly as possible. I shall also make such preparation as I can to send supplies to General Sherman by the river toward Fayetteville in case he should call for them.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Wilmington, N. C., February 24, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,

Commanding Armies of the United States, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: I respectfully request that the troops in this department which do not belong to the Twenty-third Army Corps may be organized into an army corps, and that Maj. Gen. Alfred H. Terry be assigned to its command. Also that Maj. Gen. J. D. Cox may be assigned to the command of the Twenty-third Army Corps.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

FORT MONROE, February 24, 1865—10 p. m.

(Received 11.30 p. m.)

Lieutenant-General GRANT:

Our troops entered Wilmington on the morning of the 22d instant. After the evacuation of Fort Anderson, General Schofield directed Cox to follow its garrison toward Wilmington, while Terry followed Hoke on the east side of the river. The latter took up a new line four miles from Wilmington, but was so closely pressed by Terry that he could send no troops to the west side. On that side the rebels made a stand behind Town Creek, but on the 20th Cox crossed his troops below them on a flat-boat, attacked them in rear, and routed them, taking 2 guns and 300 prisoners. On the 21st Cox pushed to the Brunswick River, opposite Wilmington, where the bridges were on fire, and on his arrival the rebels began burning cotton and rosin in the city, and left it that night. Our captures, including Fort Anderson, amount to about 700 prisoners and 30 guns. Citizens state that the rebels burned 1,000 bales of cotton and 15,000 barrels of rosin. The Union feeling showed itself quite strongly in the city. Terry followed Hoke northward.

C. B. COMSTOCK,

Lieutenant-Colonel, Aide-de-Camp, and Breret Brigadier-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HDQRS. ARMIES OF THE UNITED STATES,
No. 38. } City Point, Va., February 21, 1865.

The Thirteenth Regiment Pennsylvania Cavalry Volunteers will proceed without delay to Wilmington, N. C., and report to Maj. Gen. J. M. Schofield, commanding Department of North Carolina, for duty.

By command of Lieutenant-General Grant:

T. S. BOWERS,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

ARMY OF THE OHIO,

Wilmington, N. C., February 21, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. D. TOWNSEND,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to report the following number of men required to fill the several regiments belonging to the Second and Third Divisions, Twenty-third Army Corps, to the maximum, and respectfully request that the deficiency be supplied by drafted men: Second Division: Twenty-fifth Michigan Volunteer Infantry, 507; One hundred and eleventh Ohio Volunteer Infantry, 363; Sixth Tennessee Volunteer Infantry, 457; Twenty-third Michigan Volunteer Infantry, 139; Twenty-sixth Kentucky Volunteer Infantry, 22; Ninety-first Indiana Volunteer Infantry, 482; One hundred and seventh Illinois Volunteer Infantry, 505; One hundred and eighty-third Ohio Volunteer Infantry, 79; One hundred and eighteenth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, 309; One hundred and eighty-first Ohio Volunteer Infantry, 147; Eightieth Indiana Volunteer Infantry, 517; Fiftieth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, 110. Third Division: One hundred and fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, 247; Sixty-fifth Indiana Volunteer Infantry, 257; Sixteenth Kentucky Veteran Volunteer Infantry, 485; One hundred and seventy-seventh Ohio Volunteer Infantry, 136; Twelfth Kentucky Veteran Volunteer Infantry, 476; Fifth Tennessee Volunteer Infantry, 333; One hundredth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, 318; One hundred and twelfth Illinois Volunteer Infantry, 267; Eighth Tennessee Volunteer Infantry, 390; Sixty-third Indiana Volunteer Infantry, 250; One hundred and third Ohio

Volunteer Infantry, 362; One hundred and fortieth Indiana Volunteer Infantry, 29; Sixty-fifth Illinois Veteran Volunteer Infantry, 434. A report of the number required to fill up the First Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, will be forwarded in a few days.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
No. 13. } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Wilmington, N. C., February 24, 1865.

* * * * *

IV. By direction of the lieutenant-general commanding Armies of the United States, Brig. Gen. T. F. Meagher is relieved from duty in this department. He will repair without delay to his place of residence and report by letter to the Adjutant-General of the Army.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Schofield:
J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Wilmington, N. C., February 24, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. D. Cox,
Commanding Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding desires you to let Colonel Daggett's brigade remain where it is for the present, picketing the road, &c., in that direction.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS PROVISIONAL CORPS,
No. 41. } Northeast Station, N. C., February 24, 1865.

I. Until further orders the Second Brigade, First Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, will be attached to the command of Brig. Gen. C. J. Paine, commanding Third Division, Twenty-fifth Army Corps. The light batteries of this command will hereafter report direct to these headquarters.

By order of Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry:
A. TERRY,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington City, February 25, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,
City Point:

No commander for the Department of West Virginia has yet been appointed. Hartsuff, in my opinion, is not fit for anything. I will suggest to you a commander some time to-day or to-morrow. Schofield's nomination will be made, as requested, subject, however, to his obedience to orders. I am not satisfied with his conduct in seizing the hospital boat Spaulding, to make it his own quarters. I have directed him to give it up. If he obeys the order promptly I will send in his nomination, otherwise I will not. I wish you would instruct him as to the impropriety of an officer using hospital boats for their own personal accommodation, or using or employing transports for their quarters at a vast expense to the Government. There has been too much of such practice already, and he takes rather an early start in such irregularities.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 25, 1865—1.30 p. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

General Comstock has just returned from Wilmington. He says that General Schofield arrived at the Cape Fear River without his transportation, and as he had to move about on the water asked the quartermaster if there was a boat he could use temporarily as well as not. He was told the Spaulding was doing nothing. When General Comstock left the Spaulding was to be loaded with wounded and some escaped prisoners. I will have an order made prohibiting the use of boats for headquarters.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, February 25, 1865—12.40 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT:

Your letter of the 23d received. There is no occasion to expect the President will make any order against your wishes. The reasons mentioned by you have already been presented and are conclusive.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 25, 1865—2.30 p. m.

(Received 7 p. m.)

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War:

One of my staff officers, who has just returned from Wilmington, says nothing has been done to save the large amount of ordnance and ordnance stores captured in Cape Fear River. I think the Chief of Ordnance should be required to take immediate steps to secure all ordnance stores captured on the coast.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 25, 1865—10.30 a. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT, City Point:

On the 19th orders were sent to General Gillmore to send all white troops not required to hold most important sea-ports to Cape Fear River.

He had not received it when he wrote his dispatch of the 21st.* I do not see the policy of opening any railroads from Charleston, but will await your orders on Gillmore's requisition.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

CITY POINT, VA., February 25, 1865—1 p. m.

(Received 2 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,
Washington :

General Gillmore's dispatch of the 21st received. I scarcely see a contingency under which it will be necessary at present to open railroad communication in South Carolina. It is well enough to occupy Georgetown until Sherman is in communication from the seacoast. It is barely possible, though not probable, that he may require supplies from Georgetown. I expect nothing of the kind, however.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

NEW YORK, February 25, 1865.

Maj. Gen. WILLIAM T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Armies in the Field, Washington :

GENERAL: The citizens of New York have confided to us the grateful duty of transmitting the proceedings of a meeting held on the 22d instant, in which they offer their cordial congratulations to the country on the recent successes of the Union arms. In the performance of this duty we beg to assure you of our hearty concurrence in the sentiments of the resolutions and our admiration of the skill and gallantry evinced by the forces engaged in upholding the flag of the nation.

With the highest respect, we remain, your obedient servants,

MOSES TAYLOR,
Chairman.

SAM'L SLOAN,
S. B. CHITTENDEN,
Secretaries.

[Inclosure.]

NATIONAL CELEBRATION OF UNION VICTORIES.

MEETING OF CITIZENS.

NEW YORK, February 22, 1865.

On motion of Paul Spofford, esq., Mr. Moses Taylor was called to the chair, and Messrs. S. B. Chittenden and Samuel Sloan were appointed secretaries.

The chairman announced the purpose of the meeting, and Mr. Sloan offered the following resolutions, which were seconded by Mr. Charles H. Russell:

PROPOSED CELEBRATION OF UNION VICTORIES.

1. Resolved, That the war to quell rebellion, which now rapidly approaches its inevitable conclusion, involves essentially the principles of self-government, human freedom, and Christian civilization; that the people of the United States have abundant cause for congratulation in the knowledge that while successfully maintaining, by force of arms, the Government of their choice and the life of the nation, they are at the same time effectually asserting the inviolable doctrine that this continent is forever devoted to the cause of liberal institutions and republican government.

* See p. 525.

2. Resolved, That the recent signal victories achieved by the military and naval power of the United States over the insurgent forces in revolt against the Government call for the expression of cordial congratulations to officers, soldiers, and seamen, who share in the renown of these glorious successes.

3. Resolved, That the armies led by Generals Grant, Sherman, Thomas, Meade, Sheridan, and Terry, and the naval forces serving under the orders of Admirals Farragut and Porter, have, by their valor and devotion to duty, maintained the integrity of the nation and upheld the honor of its flag, and richly deserve the applause of a grateful people.

4. Resolved, That in brilliancy of design, intrepid energy of action, inexorable determination to compel success, the campaign of Georgia and the Carolinas has no example in military history, and covers the names of Grant and Sherman with imperishable glory.

5. Resolved, That the treacherous assault upon Sumter has been fitly expiated in the ignominious flight of the assailants from the soil they had desecrated without a shot fired in defense of a city dedicated to treason.

6. Resolved, That it is becoming in a free and enlightened people to recognize and applaud distinguished public services rendered in the cause of the country, and that the citizens of New York regard it as a duty to give public expression of their gratitude to the heroic men who, under Divine Providence, have defended the flag and preserved the honor of the nation.

7. Resolved, That a committee of citizens be appointed to consider and report, at a subsequent meeting to be called by the chairman and secretary, in regard to the time and manner of celebrating the recent triumphs of the Union arms, and with the purpose of uniting in a whole community, irrespective of all other considerations, in a grand ovation to the principles of loyal duty to the country and its Government.

8. Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be transmitted to the President of the United States, to the governor of this State, and to the several officers named therein, and that the same be published.

Brief remarks were made by Mr. William M. Evarts, Mr. Wetmore, and others, and the resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Judge Davies offered the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. R. L. Stuart, and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the President be requested to send a national ship to Charleston Harbor to convey thither General Robert Anderson, that he may replace upon the flag-staff of Fort Sumter that national banner, the emblem of our liberties and of our Union, which, on the 13th of April, 1861, he was compelled to lower at the dictation of the traitors of South Carolina.

By order of the meeting:

MOSES TAYLOR,
Chairman.

S. B. CHITTENDEN,
SAM'L SLOAN,
Secretaries.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } WAR DEPT., ADJT. GENERAL'S OFFICE,
No. 93. } Washington, February 25, 1865.

* * * * *

53. Brig. Gen. Hugh Ewing, U. S. Volunteers, will report in person without delay to Major-General Schofield, U. S. Volunteers, commanding Department of North Carolina, to relieve Brig. Gen. T. F. Meagher, U. S. Volunteers.

* * * * *

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Williams' Cross-Roads, February 25, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN.

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Your dispatch of yesterday is just received. General Logan's head of column reached West's Cross-Roads, near De Bruhl's, where he encamped two divisions last night. His other two divisions are heading on the same road, having moved toward Camden as far as Saunders' Creek, and then taking a cross-road directly toward Tillersville. I have to-day sent my headquarters escort, signal party, and scouts with instructions to go to Camden, burn the depot and bridge, and then rejoin us. I also directed General Logan to send all his mounted men to secure and hold Tiller's Bridge.

The rest of Logan's command will remain in camp to-day. General Blair's head of column encamped near Flat Rock last night. As soon as he gets near enough he will send his mounted infantry straight to Young's Bridge.

Considering the rain the roads in this quarter are not bad, though the farms are not very productive, and a good ways apart. My scouts, day before yesterday, under Lieutenant McQueen, stampeded a force of the enemy near Camden, captured three prisoners, and broke up twelve or fifteen muskets. General Logan's scouts were near Camden yesterday, and encountered some mounted militia, but no great force. The advance yesterday captured some 50 or 60 refugee wagons and a large number of fine mules. General John E. Smith's foragers captured about 70 militia. It is said they gave themselves up. General Blair's advance encountered a few rebel cavalry near Flat Rock last night. We have a good many prisoners, who left Charleston Thursday. The information is positive that Charleston is in our hands. A dispatch was received in Camden yesterday stating that Wilmington was in possession of our forces.

At the last crossing about 2,000 horses and mules were taken from men not authorized to use them. The unserviceable were killed. The artillery and mounted men and pontoon trains were refitted. I believe I understand your views fully, and will not hasten my march too much, and will carefully consider the propriety of sending a force to Florence. I think I might at least secure some rolling-stock above Black Creek by tapping the railroad near Darlington. I could send a division light to Darlington with mounted infantry. Thence the latter could move down to Florence and vicinity, burn bridges, trestle-work, &c., and return. This could be accomplished and the entire expedition reach Cheraw in five days, causing us to wait at Cheraw about three days. Please say if your movements on the left will admit of that amount of delay. My headquarters to-morrow night will be at Tillersville Post-Office. Please communicate with me through General Blair.

This will probably reach you in time to answer to-night, as the rear of General Blair's column will not be farther than Williams' Cross-Roads.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

CIRCULAR.] HDQRS. DEPT. AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Williams' Cross-Roads, S. C., February 25, 1865.

The general believes that it is the enemy's intention to kill our foragers after capture. Two were found murdered the other day and labeled "Death to foragers." Two were killed this morning near General John E. Smith's camp. General Sherman's directions with regard to retaliation will be strictly carried out by corps and division commanders; yet it is enjoined again upon all officers to prohibit individual foraging. The party must be big enough to be self-protecting. In two or three instances of late trains have been so straggled out on the march that a sudden dash of the enemy might capture several wagons without difficulty, and frequently wagons are sent out to forage with insufficient guards of five or six men. Every officer who cares at all for our safety and would save the precious lives of our men must do his part to prevent these irregularities. If not already done, an officer will be detailed in each brigade to have permanent charge of the foraging parties. His name will be registered at division and corps headquarters. The corps chief of artillery will regulate the foraging for the Artillery Brigade of the corps; the chief quartermaster for the trains of the corps, and an officer be appointed to the same duty for each headquarters. Capt. P. A. Taylor, chief signal officer, is announced as the officer for these headquarters. The specific directions of each corps commander will be republished.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
 FIELD ORDERS, } ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
 No. 49. } Near Williams' Cross-Roads, February 25, 1865.

The movement for to-morrow will commence at 7 a. m. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will move to Young's Bridge. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move to Tiller's Bridge and cross at least two divisions. Each of the pontoon trains will be located daily in the column by the corps commander and its commanding officer notified. Headquarters will be to-morrow night at Tiller's Bridge.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
West's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 25, 1865.
 Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: The rebel cavalry are moving on the Porter road, down on my flank. I have had a little fight with them and drove them off apparently. What they may have behind them I cannot say. I have had 2 men killed and several wounded; have killed and wounded some 10 rebels. Think it would be well for General Blair to send some of his advance well out toward this (Porter's) road to see what is in his front. Have possession of Tiller's Bridge all safe.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
 JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

[Indorsement.]

HQRS. DEPT. AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Near Williams' Cross-Roads, February 25, 1865—2.35 p. m.

Respectfully referred to Major-General Blair, commanding Seventeenth Army Corps, for his information. I think the road referred to in the within communication is the one shown on the map as running direct from West's to Camden.

By order of Major-General Howard:

WM. E. STRONG,
Chief of Staff.

---

HQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near West's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 25, 1865.

[Maj. MAX. WOODHULL:]

MAJOR: I respectfully report that I am still occupying the position as reported last evening. There are no indications of the enemy in my front. To-day there was one regiment of the Second Brigade of my division sent out on the road toward Camden to the distance of four miles and a half from my camp, but the reconnaissance discovered no signs of the enemy. Some of my foragers have been captured off in the direction of Camden, though I cannot learn of their being any body of rebels in that vicinity. The parties have all been well cautioned against separating when away from the column. One of my regiments encamps out on the Camden road one mile to-night, and I have a party of eighty men, mounted, sent back to the rear this evening, partially with a view to reconnoitering in that direction.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
West's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Brevet Major-General WOODS,

Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Instances of brutality, and murder even, have come to the attention of the commanding general, committed, it is presumed, by the citizens of the country upon foragers from this and other corps of the army. Moving through an enemy's country, in the manner and on distant marches as this army does, it becomes necessary to resort to this means of obtaining subsistence, as it would be impossible to carry rations for the campaign in our wagon trains. The general commanding has given the matter his attention, and would have issued instructions relative to a system of retaliation had not the commander-in-chief himself prepared a note upon the subject. I am directed to communicate the following extract from General Sherman's note for your information and guidance:

[Extract.]

He (General Kilpatrick) reports that two men of his foraging parties were murdered after capture by the enemy and labeled "Death to all foragers." Now, it is clearly our war right to subsist our army on the enemy. Napoleon always did it, but could avail himself of the civil powers he found in existence to collect forage and provisions by regular impressments. We cannot do that here, and I contend if the enemy fails to defend his country we may rightfully appropriate what we want. If our foragers act under mine, yours, or other proper authority, they must be protected. I have ordered Kilpatrick to select of his prisoners man for man, shoot them, and leave them by the roadside labeled, so that our enemy will see that for every man he executes he takes the life of one of his own. I want the foragers, however, to be kept within reasonable bounds for the sake of discipline. I will not protect them when they enter dwellings and commit wanton waste, such as woman's apparel, jewelry, and such things as are not needed by our army. They may destroy cotton and tobacco, because these things are assumed by the rebel Government to belong to it, and are used as a valuable source of revenue. Nor will I consent to the enemy taking the lives of our men on their judgment. They have lost all title to property and can lose nothing not already forfeited, but we should punish for a departure from orders, and if the people resist our foragers I will not deem it wrong, but the Confederate army must not be supposed the champions of any people. I lay down these general rules and wish you to be governed by them. If any of your foragers are murdered, take life for life, leaving a record of each case.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Generals Hazen, John E. Smith, and Corse.)

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
West's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. B. HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to request you to push a brigade at once to the cross-roads at R. McCaskill's, where they will please go into camp in a defensive position, covering the cross-roads. General Smith has been skirmishing with the enemy's cavalry, and a force of rebels is believed to be in this vicinity.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Sandy Grove Church, February 25, 1865—1 p. m.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

The head of column of both divisions has arrived here and encamping. I sent a force of mounted foragers early this morning to take possession of Tiller's Bridge. As soon as I hear from them I will report their success.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
West's Cross-Roads, February 25, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note written at 1 p. m. I presume ere this you have received instructions from the general commanding to place one brigade in position at the cross-roads at R. McCaskill's, and to send another to Tiller's Bridge, which is in possession of our mounted infantry. My orderlies left with dispatches to that effect some time ago. General Smith had a skirmish with the enemy's cavalry on the Roberts road, killing and wounding about ten of their men.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Sandy Grove Church, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have, in accordance with instructions, placed a brigade at Tiller's Bridge, also have sent two regiments to Kelly's Bridge. I have thought best to do so, as the bridge (Kelly's) is in our hands, is in serviceable condition, and would be available for use should it be thought advisable to send a column across there, using the system of parallel roads south of the main Cheraw road. In a note, just received, you allude to an order to push a brigade to McCaskill's. No such order has been received, and by referring to the map, as it would be sending troops to the rear some three or more miles, I presume the order may have been given to some troops behind that position. Be pleased to reply if it is still expected for me to send troops to McCaskill's.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 25, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN,
Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: As you have not yet received my note requesting you to place a brigade at McCaskill's Cross-Roads I presume my orderly has been captured. The enemy has quite a force of cavalry in our neighborhood, and we have lost some foragers and two headquarters orderlies. The general wants a brigade from either the Second or Fourth Division placed in position at McCaskill's, as indicated in my note.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
West's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 25, 1865.

[Maj. Gen. WILLIAM B. HAZEN,
Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:]

GENERAL: Major Burkhardt reports that the bridge over Lynch's Creek, on the Camden and Cheraw road, near Tillersville Post-Office, is in his possession, and in good order. Please push your advanced brigade to the bridge, with instructions to hold the same, as this corps may cross at that point. It would be well for them to intrench.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
West's Plantation, S. C., February 25, 1865.

[Maj. MAX. WOODHULL:]

MAJOR: I am directed by the general commanding to inform you that foragers report that from 300 to 400 of the enemy are about three miles back on this road on which this command marched yesterday, and that it may be the advance of a larger force. He respectfully suggests that if it meets with the approbation of the major-general commanding corps that a brigade be sent to near the right of the Second Brigade of this division, the point designated by him yesterday for one brigade. General Smith has started out to ascertain, if possible, what foundation there is for the above report.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

S. M. BUDLONG,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
West's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. JOHN M. CORSE,
Commanding Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: It has been ascertained that the enemy have quite a force of cavalry on our flanks and are picking up a large number of our foragers, scouts, and stragglers. Division commanders will please call the attention of officers in charge of forage details to the necessity of holding their men well in hand and in condition to meet an attack by the mounted force of the enemy. A detachment of foragers under command of an intelligent officer, when not drunk or scattered, have nothing to fear from cavalry dashes, but can make good their retreat upon the main column should they encounter a superior force. But when scattered, engaged in the pursuit of plunder, rather than in gathering subsistence for the army, they render themselves an easy prey to an active enemy. In this connection I have the honor to invite your attention to a communication from these headquarters relative to the treatment of certain foragers-captured by the enemy from General Kilpatrick.*

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Generals Woods, Hazen, and John E. Smith.)

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Pine Tree Church, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following as a report of the movements of my division this instant: I broke camp at 7.30 a. m. and moved by a cut road parallel to the Camden and Cheraw road to Pine Tree Meeting-House, a distance of eight miles. I have ordered three regiments to move to McCaskill's Cross-Roads, four miles distant, with instructions to hold that position. The remainder of my command is in a defensible position and in bivouac at this point.

* See Woodhull to Woods, p. 567.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO M. CORSE,
Breret Major-General.

HQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In Field, Pine Tree Meeting-House, February 25, 1865.

Col. F. J. HURLBUT,
Commanding Third Brigade:

COLONEL: You will pay particular attention to the posting of your pickets to-night, connecting on the right with those of General Rice, and instructing them to be on the alert and very watchful toward morning. Hampton's cavalry, said to be about 5,000 strong, are in our vicinity, and captured most of the foragers of the First Division to-day and some wagons.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS MOUNTED INFANTRY,
Near Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 25, 1865—1.30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Pursuant to orders from headquarters Fifteenth Army Corps, I broke camp at daybreak this a. m. and marched to this place, at which I arrived at 9 a. m., meeting with no opposition and finding the bridge safe. We captured 10 guns, 7 kegs of powder, and 20 prisoners. There is another bridge four miles below. The road is good to both bridges on this side. On the opposite side the roads are swampy for about a quarter of a mile. I have picketed the road at both bridges and await orders. My vedettes have just brought in a company of State militia, seventeen strong.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

CH. BURKHARDT,
Major Twenty-ninth Missouri Infantry, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Hough's Bridge, on Little Lynch's Creek, February 25, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: The Fourth Division of my command is encamped one mile and a half east of Little Lynch's Creek. The First Division is encamping on the west side of the creek. The Third Division will encamp from three to five miles back. I have not yet heard from them.

Respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
                               } Hough's Bridge, Little Lynch's Creek,
                               } February 25, 1865.
 No. 52.

The movement to-morrow will be to Young's Bridge:

The First Division, Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower commanding, will move forward at 6 a. m., crossing Little Lynch's Creek.

The Fourth Division, Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith commanding, will be prepared to move at 8.30 o'clock, and will follow the First Division.

The First Michigan Engineers will move next after the troops of the First Division, with their tool-wagons and ambulances.

Their train will follow the train of the First Division.

The Third Division, Brig. Gen. M. F. Force commanding, will move forward at daylight and will march as far as practicable.

The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move forward at 6.30 a. m.

Corps headquarters train will follow the headquarters train of the First Division.

Great care will be taken that the foragers are kept together, as the enemy's cavalry are hovering on our flanks.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

NOTE.—The First Division not getting across Little Lynch's Creek in time, the Fourth Division moved in advance.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Little Lynch's Creek, Hough's, February 25, 1865.
 Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding wishes you to move as far as you can to-day and go into camp. He wishes you to send him word where you are. The Fourth Division will encamp on the east side of Little Lynch's Creek, crossing at Hough's Bridge; First Division on west side.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Hough's Bridge, S. C., February 25, 1865.
 Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say to you that you will move forward at daylight to-morrow morning, following the road taken by the other divisions, crossing Hough's Bridge on Little Lynch's Creek. Order the pontoon train to move with you. The road passed over to-day has been good and I think you will find it the same to-morrow. The leading division will make Young's Bridge to-morrow, and the general wishes you to make as near that point as practicable. Instruct your foragers to be on the lookout, as the enemy's cavalry are scouting round us.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Copeland's, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE, Jr.,
Assistant Adjutant-General :

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that this command camps at Copeland's to-night. The advance reached it at 7 p. m., and at this writing, 8.30 p. m., the supply train and bridge train are still to come in. The roads are terrible. At the least calculation I have built four miles of corduroy to-day. Men and animals are both extremely tired. The bridge train parked three miles in rear of my division last night. Copeland's is on the east bank of Flat Rock Creek, two miles north of Flat Rock Post-Office.

I am, captain, very truly, yours,

M. F. FORCE,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 25, 1865.

Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing :

GENERAL: It is plain that we must reduce our trains. If you will order General Davis to burn his trains beyond the river and double his teams I can make up 100 or 200 wagons out of the headquarters trains and from Howard when we meet at Cheraw. He could discriminate as to contents, giving the preference to those containing salt, sugar, coffee, and bread. Of course the pontoon train must be carried along.

I am, yours, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, February 25, 1865.

General SLOCUM, Commanding, &c. :

GENERAL: General Sherman would like to know if General Williams is to move to-day. If he is, General Sherman would like to see you, but he counsels lying by until better weather, or at least to-day.

Very respectfully, yours,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
In the Field, near Warrenton, S. C., February 25, 1865—8 p. m.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Corps :

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say that if you find it impossible to get your wagons over the river you had better destroy them and double your teams, being careful to preserve your ammunition, salt, sugar, coffee, and hard bread, and the pontoon train. Should you find it necessary to destroy any of your wagons they will be made up to you from other sources.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 17.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION,
TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
Hilliard's Farm, S. C., February 25, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow at the same time and in the same order as was ordered for to-day. General Pardee will take charge of 250 teams, Colonel Mindil, 150, and General Barnum the remainder.

Each regiment will march in a body by the side of the portion of the train assigned to it, and will be used whenever necessary to repair the roads or assist the teams through bad places.

The pioneer company of each brigade will report at the head of the column to General Pardee, who will use them, together with his leading regiment, to make corduroy road and other repairs.

No troops will leave the trains assigned to them until they have brought them into camp.

Whenever there is a halt in any portion of the train, the trains in rear must move up into park whenever the ground will admit.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WASHINGTON, February 25, 1865.

Major-General GILLMORE,

Hilton Head:

GENERAL: I inclose herewith a copy of General Grant's reply* to your dispatch of the 21st. The railroad employes asked for will not be sent, at least for the present. It is presumed that before this time you have received my dispatch of the 19th, and have sent all your available white troops to Wilmington. General Grant expects to open communication with General Sherman through North Carolina, and all our efforts are to be made in that direction. It is hoped that you will not increase the number of your military posts, and will send as many troops as you possibly can to Wilmington. We want to hold nothing in South Carolina at present except the ports, and guns can be so arranged in the forts as to command the city of Charleston.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Brig. Gen. L. C. EASTON,

Chief Quartermaster, Savannah, &c.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of an extract from a letter to you from Bvt. Maj. Gen. M. C. Meigs, Quartermaster-General U. S. Army, dated Washington, D. C., February 14, 1865, in regard to the railroads running from Savannah.

Very respectfully, &c.,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

* See Grant to Halleck, 1 p. m., p. 563.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Col. A. BECKWITH,
Chief Commissary of Subsistence, Savannah:

I gave orders to have Georgetown occupied, but I fear the weather has delayed the operation. I go up to Charleston to-night. The navy are in the inner bay at Georgetown.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Brig. Gen. HENRY PRINCE,
Blair's Landing, S. C.:

It is reported by colored people that Hood's army, about 12,000 strong, passed through Augusta some days since to join Beauregard. Finding himself cut off, he may turn upon us. Should he appear on your front you will fall back to Port Royal Ferry. The railroad can be of no use to him, and you need not attempt to hold it against a greatly superior force.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 25, 1865—2 a. m.

Capt. W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the South.

CAPTAIN: I have the honor respectfully to report as follows: A number of deserters from General Hardee's army were brought in last night. They left the enemy's lines on the 21st, 22d, and 24th instant, in the neighborhood of Santee River. It seems there is no doubt that General Sherman has taken Columbia and has advanced a good distance eastward. The rebel officers expressed the fear that they were already cut off by General Sherman's army. General Hardee was said to be ordered to take with his army the route from Santee River along the railroad to Florence and Cheraw, S. C., and from the latter place to march to Charlotte, N. C. General Hardee's army, now at Santee River, numbers between 10,000 and 12,000, with about forty pieces of artillery. The last of his troops will cross Santee River to-day. General Potter was yesterday morning twenty-two miles from Charleston on the State road. I ordered him to advance as far as possible and try to prevent the enemy from destroying the trestle-work of the railroad line over and near Santee River. The Northeastern Railroad is repaired as far as Goose Creek, and trains are running. The repairs of the trestle-work at Goose Creek will require at least three days. Three locomotives and twenty-four cars were ready yesterday. Another train will be furnished to-day. Telegraph communication was established yesterday between Goose Creek and Charleston, and will probably be established between Charleston and General Potter's command. Major Place is at work on the State road bridge over Goose Creek. I am informed that there are between six and seven feet of water in Cooper River near Santee Canal (Monk's Corner), and that the canal may be passed by row-boats and perhaps light-draft steamers. The Savannah, with 100 men, will leave here this morning at 9 o'clock, accompanied by one or two gun-boats, and is ordered to go up Cooper River to the head of navigation (Santee Canal, Monk's Corner). The vessels will make as much noise as possible, firing to the eastward, and try to connect with General Potter as soon as possible. Should the river prove as navigable as pilots report it to be, General Potter will to-day have a new and more simple base. I shall order the Fifty-second Pennsylvania Volunteers, with a number of row-boats, up Cooper River to try to pass the canal and to Santee River. Admiral Dahlgren was to land yesterday 350 marines on the northern shore of Santee River, in order to co-operate with the gun-boats against the Georgetown battery. I have not been able to send any force to Santee River up to this moment. The One hundred and fifty-seventh New York Volunteers have not yet arrived, neither has Colonel Van Wyck's brigade. The Fifty-second Pennsylvania Volunteers, which I ordered in from General Potter's command for that purpose, has not yet reported. I have therefore been obliged to order 300 men of Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops to Santee River on board the Augusta. Ensign Neil, commanding the Augusta, will leave the harbor at daylight. The officers have full instructions, and the movement will be supported by the navy. I would respectfully repeat my application for the appointment of a regular and able commissary for this district. I am very much in want of cavalry saddles and bridles and of artillery harness. To hasten the work on the railroad requires a large number of axes and spades, which are not to be had in this district. The trestle-work of the railroad bridges requires a large amount of lumber, twelve by twelve, and a supply of six-inch spikes. The commissary stores have finally arrived. I have ordered about 400 deserters and prisoners and some cattle to be sent to Hilton Head by the Loyalist.

I have the honor to be, respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,

Charleston, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Brigadier-General HATCH,

Commanding Coast Division:

GENERAL: I have the honor to request that the cavalry from under your command be ordered to report to me as soon as practicable, as I wish to send them to Brigadier-General Potter.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,

Charleston, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Col. C. H. VAN WYCK,

Commanding First Brigade, Hatch's Division:

COLONEL: As soon as your brigade is ready it will cross over the Ashley River and will proceed to the Northeastern Railroad depot, from whence it will take the cars to Goose Creek. Lieutenant Hagens, acting assistant quartermaster and chief quartermaster of this district will furnish the necessary transportation. Captain Blau, acting aide-de-camp of the staff of the brigadier-general commanding, will guide your command. The proper steps will be taken to prevent straggling in the city. The troops will march with bands playing and colors flying.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,

Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,

Charleston, February 25, 1865.

Col. P. P. BROWN, Jr.,

157th New York Volunteers:

COLONEL: You will cross over to Charleston City as soon as convenient. Lieutenant Hagens, acting assistant quartermaster, will furnish transportation. Captain Blau, acting aide-de-camp of the brigadier-general's (commanding) staff, will guide your command. The proper steps will be taken to prevent straggling in the city. Captain Blau will conduct your command to the fortification outside of the city. Your regiment will have their colors flying and band playing when marching through the city.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,

Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,

Charleston, S. C., February 25, 1865—9 a. m.

Brig. Gen. E. E. POTTER:

GENERAL: Deserters who came in around your command to-day state that the enemy had outposts on this (east) side of Cooper River, opposite Strawberry Ferry. Others state that the last of the enemy's infantry will cross Santee River to-day, and that the trestle-work and railroad bridge are not yet burned. Try to prevent them from doing so. I will furnish you to-morrow with another base. I understand that there is from five to seven feet of water in Cooper River up to Santee Canal, Monk's Corner. The tin-clad Savannah will leave here to-day at 9 a. m. with 100 men, and probably be accompanied by one or two gun-boats, and is ordered to proceed up Cooper River to the head of navigation (Santee Canal, Monk's Corner), and to make in going up as much noise as possible, firing eastward. The officer in command has orders to connect with you as soon as practicable. The Augusta will leave at daylight this morning with 300 men of the Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops, proceed to Santee River, ascend the river to the railroad bridge if possible, and connect with you in that neighborhood. The navy will support this movement with gun-boats, steam and other launches. Colonel Van Wyck's brigade has not arrived, nor the One hundred and fifty-seventh New York Volunteers, nor the Fifty-second Pennsylvania. I will forward Colonel Van Wyck's brigade by trains to Goose Creek as fast as they arrive. Guides furnished by you and your orders should be ready for them there to-day, and await them. They will be provided with three days' rations. Yesterday I ordered 200 men of the Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops to report to you. Telegraphic communication is established between here and Goose Creek. Yesterday afternoon Captain Luttwitz sent a telegraph operator with instrument, &c., up the railroad to find you. Five mounted orderlies have been stationed at Goose Creek to convey dispatches to and from you. After telegraphic communication has been assured they will be at your disposal for other purposes. Five more wagons will be sent for you to Goose Creek by train this morning. For one section of artillery I have not yet been able to find horses and harness. The last report received from you was given to me verbally by Captain Luttwitz after he had seen you day before yesterday. The Fifty-second Pennsylvania, after having reported to these headquarters, will take up Cooper River a number of boats, and you may order them to enter Santee River by way of the Santee Canal, if the latter should not be passable by the Savannah.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

A. SCHIMMELFENNIG,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 25, 1865.

COMDG. OFFICER TWENTY-FIRST U. S. COLORED TROOPS:

CAPTAIN: Your command will immediately march in from the lines to the Atlantic Dock, where they will hold themselves in readiness to embark without delay on the tin-clad Augusta. They will draw from the chief commissary of the district enough rations to enable them to have on hand ten days' rations from to-morrow morning.

By order of Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig:

J. W. DICKINSON,
Capt., Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops, and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 25, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,
Savannah, Ga.:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that no abandoned or captured property of any kind whatever be put on board any Government transport for the purpose of removing it from your district, without proper authority from the U. S. Treasury agent.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to General Hatch.)

---

CITY POINT, VA., February 25, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,
Fortress Monroe:

Do not hesitate about making any changes in commanders you may think necessary. I supposed Palmer had Kinston before this. I think by all means you should get Goldsborough, and hold and supply it as soon as possible. If you have information of Sherman coming in at any other point, you will, of course, want to meet him with supplies. If he should come to Fayetteville, you could send supplies after his arrival there. Prepare to send supplies forward to Fayetteville the moment you know Sherman is coming in there.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

(Sent by telegraph to Fort Monroe and thence by boat to Wilmington.)

WILMINGTON, N. C., February 25, 1865.

(Received March 5.)

Maj. Gen. M. C. MEIGS,

Quartermaster-General:

GENERAL: I am happy to inform you that we are in Wilmington. The enemy evacuated and destroyed all Government shops and material. I am securing all the property that will be of service to the department. I hope the engine and cars will be forwarded with all possible dispatch. Please direct that two light-draft propeller tug-boats and two side-wheel tug boats be ordered here for duty as soon as possible. This department is deficient in assistant quartermasters. Please send six good efficient officers. I will send you regular reports and estimates as soon as I get the department organized. The army is in good spirits. We have been crowned with success.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

G. S. DODGE,

Colonel and Chief Quartermaster, Dept. of North Carolina.

WILMINGTON, N. C., February 25, 1865.

(Received 4 p. m. March 5.)

Brig. Gen. D. C. MCCALLUM,

Washington:

Wilmington is in our possession and General Schofield wishes the railroad leading from here to Goldsborough opened up immediately. I am ready to commence work at once, but have not received a single car or locomotive yet, nor any of the supplies which I have made requisitions for. Nothing of any importance can be done here until we get these supplies and rolling-stock. If the rolling-stock has not been shipped, would it not be well to send some from City Point to this point at once? I can change the gauge afterward, but I must have something to work with now. I also need more men. Can't you send me part of the construction force in Virginia until my men arrive from the West? I would like to have McAlpine with 500 men sent here as soon as it is possible to send them.

W. W. WRIGHT,

Chief Engineer Government Railroads, &c.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,

ARMY OF THE OHIO,

No. 14. }

Wilmington, N. C., February 25, 1865.

I. Maj. Gen. J. D. Cox is hereby assigned to the command of the District of Beaufort. He will repair without delay to New Berne,

N. C., and assume the command to which he is assigned. Brig. Gen. I. N. Palmer will report to Major-General Cox for duty.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Wilmington, February 25, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. D. Cox,
Commanding District of Beaufort:

GENERAL: Your assignment to the District of Beaufort is for temporary purposes only. The object to be gained by your operations is the possession of the railroad from New Berne to Goldsborough, so that it may be put in order for the use of the army. The troops moving from this place will at the same time open the Wilmington and Goldsborough road, and, if necessary, will act in conjunction with you in securing the crossing of the Neuse River and the occupation of Kinston and Goldsborough. These operations are to be begun at once and pushed forward as rapidly as practicable, so that the workmen may not be delayed in reconstructing the road. The details of your operations are left entirely to your own judgment. Please communicate with me frequently, giving me full information of the situation of affairs.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Wilmington, February 25, 1865.

Major-General Cox,
Commanding District of Beaufort:

GENERAL: The vessels carrying General Ruger's troops were ordered to await orders from me in Beaufort Harbor. Please order them to return to Fort Monroe and report by telegraph to Brigadier-General Rucker, quartermaster in Washington, for orders.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Wilmington, N. C., February 25, 1865.

Maj. Gen. D. N. Couch,
Commanding Second Division, Twenty-third Army Corps:

The commanding general directs that you concentrate your division at Wilmington, where Colonel Moore's brigade now is. The troops will march and the baggage be brought up by boat.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,
No. 8. } Wilmington, N. C., February 25, 1865.

I. During the temporary absence of the major-general commanding Brig. Gen. J. W. Reilly, commanding First Brigade, Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, is hereby assigned to the command of the division.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,
No. 17. } Wilmington, N. C., February 25, 1865.

I. The general commanding having been ordered to Beaufort, N. C. the following officers of his staff will accompany him: Maj. T. T. Dow, acting assistant inspector-general; Maj. Theodore Cox, assistant adjutant-general; Capt. Robert Ford, aide-de-camp; Capt. E. E. Tracy, aide-de-camp.

II. During the temporary absence of Maj. Theodore Cox, assistant adjutant-general, Capt. C. D. Rhodes, acting assistant adjutant-general, Second Brigade, will perform the duties of assistant adjutant-general at these headquarters.

III. Capt. Levi T. Scofield, Company F, One hundred and third Ohio Volunteer Infantry, is hereby detailed as topographical engineer, Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, to date from November 30, 1864.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.] HEADQUARTERS PROVISIONAL CORPS,
Northeast Station, N. C., February 25, 1865.

All further foraging by any persons of this command, except by permission from these headquarters, is prohibited. The pickets will be instructed to permit none to pass out of the lines, except upon passes so approved.

By order of Major-General Terry:

A. TERRY,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT
Washington City, February 25, 1865—12.45 p. m.
Major-General DIX,
New York:

An order will at the proper time be issued by this Department to General Anderson to replace the flag on Sumter. It will not be necessary for you to issue any order.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT,

Washington City, February 26, 1865—12.25 p. m.(Received 6 p. m.)

Lieutenant-General GRANT:

The Chief of Ordnance sent yesterday an ordnance officer to Cape Fear River to secure the captured ordnance and ordnance stores. I have made the appointment of Schofield brigadier-general in regular army.

EDWIN M. STANTON,

*Secretary of War.*CITY POINT, VA., February 26, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,

Secretary of War:

I regretted greatly when I learned that General Gillmore had been assigned to the command of the Department of the South. He probably will be a suitable officer to have the general superintendence of the fortifications on the seacoast, but on that duty he should be required to have all his requisitions approved by General Delafield or he will expend too much. Foreseeing the fall of Charleston, I sent orders to General Gillmore in advance of hearing of the event to occupy the necessary points on the coast for us to hold with minimum garrisons, and send the balance of his forces to the Cape Fear River, and to send all white troops, leaving the colored ones where they have been raised and where their families are. Before he received that order I suppose he sent a letter calling for from 4,000 to 5,000 more troops, 1,000 mounted men, with which he expects, by uniting the civil with the military, to feed and foster the Union sentiment. I feel confident that, with General Terry in command of that department, instead of wanting an addition to his force, he will spare 10,000 men to be used elsewhere, and the balance will be much more economically supported and usefully employed. He will administer the affairs of his department with sense and judgment, and will not talk about expeditions and conquests where there is no enemy to oppose him. He will also prove a most excellent man to organize colored troops.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

In the Field, Ingraham's House, S. C., February 26, 1865.

General HOWARD:

March slow and in order. Send to break the railroad. General Davis is not yet across the Catawba. The freshet carried away his pontoons, and I think he will have to burn a part of his trains. The Twentieth Corps is at Hanging Rock, and I think General Kilpatrick is at Lancaster. I will go with the Twentieth Corps by Horton's Tavern and Blakeny's Bridge.

W. T. SHERMAN,

Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 50. { HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 26, 1865.

1. The command will move to-morrow at 7 a. m. on Cheraw, concentrating at that point on the 1st of March. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move in two columns. The right column will cross Lynch's Creek at Kelly's Bridge and move by the way of New Market and Society Hill. A sufficient force of mounted men will accompany the right column to be able when the column has approached Society Hill to break the railroad below that point and cut off whatever trains may be above Black Creek. The left column will move by the direct route crossing Lynch's Creek at Tiller's Bridge. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will cross Lynch's Creek at Young's Bridge and move upon the direct route via McDonald's. Headquarters of the department will follow the leading division of the left column of the Fifteenth Army Corps.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

[Indorsement on General Logan's copy.]

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Respectfully returned to Capt. A. M. Van Dyke, assistant adjutant-general, Department and Army of the Tennessee.

It is impossible to comply with this order. Lynch's Creek is now, on account of the freshet, some three-quarters of a mile wide, and, for some distance in many places, swimming to a horse. I have neither pontoons nor any material to bridge the stream. The general commanding was over the stream with me to-day and certainly could see the impracticability of crossing without destroying all our subsistence and ammunition. If that is desirable I can swim my men and animals and cross with a destruction of ammunition and supplies. It is an easy matter to put an order on paper that cannot be obeyed, and then place the responsibility on those who fail to comply. I only have to say that I cannot cross this stream with my command under all the circumstances until the water subsides, and hereby protest against the order as being impossible to be obeyed.

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: We have attempted to cross some regimental teams over Lynch's Creek, but the water is so high that I have ordered the trains to go into park on this side of the stream, as I believe it will be impossible to pass our trains over without damage to our ammunition and subsistence supplies until the water subsides.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that in obedience to your orders I left my camp near West's Cross-Roads at 7 o'clock this morning, marching on this point by way of Pine Tree Church. I am now encamped within one mile of Tiller's Bridge, at the crossing of the Camden and Cheraw road with the Young's Bridge and Bishopville road, with one brigade toward Bishopville, facing south; one toward Camden, facing west; one toward Young's Bridge, facing north. My headquarters are at the cross-roads.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: A prisoner brought in this evening reports that he left Lieutenant-General Hardee's army yesterday morning at Florence, and that it is now marching up the road between that point and Cheraw, with the head of column, as the prisoner supposes, at Cheraw to-night. The enemy he reports to be moving with the intention of uniting at Charlotte.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
West's Cross-Roads, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Col. GEORGE A. STONE,

Comdg. Third Brigade, First Division, 15th Army Corps:

COLONEL: In addition to the instructions you have doubtless received from Major-General Woods, your immediate commander, you will please act as rear guard to the column, at the same time continuing and affording your escort to the pontoon train.

The rebel General Hampton, with quite a cavalry force, is in our neighborhood, and it behooves us to resort to every means to preserve our trains and the column from sudden dashes of cavalry.

I am, colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Tiller's Bridge, February 26, 1865.

General HAZEN, Commanding Second Division:

The rebel cavalry that were on this side of the river have moved down in the direction of your camp on the road on which we encamped last night. Look well to your wagons and foraging parties.

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

(Same to General Smith, Third Division.)

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Kelly's Brigade, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that my command arrived at this point at 12 m. to-day, and crossed two brigades and the battery. The water then rose so high as to necessitate the construction of temporary bridges over several deep parts of the stream. The condition of the crossing prevented the crossing of the trains. The water is now reported falling, which will enable me to complete the work early to-morrow.

About seventy rebel cavalry were across the river this evening and probably captured a few of the First Division foragers.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

I have not previously reported concerning the capture of Camden on the 24th. On the 22d and 23d the foragers of this division skirmished up to the suburbs of the town, were twice repulsed, but on the evening of the 23d entered the town, capturing several militiamen. On the morning of the 24th a party of foragers approaching the left of the town were captured by a small party of Hampton's cavalry, but those approaching from the right carried the town, releasing their comrades and killing one militiaman. We afterward captured the post commissary and chaplain. There was found in town 50,000 rations of corn meal and several thousand bales of cotton, all of which was burned before the fact was known to me. Several other captures have been made of officers and men driven away from the place. A regiment from the Fourth Division occupied the place for a short time.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Kelly's Ferry, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this division moved at 10.30 o'clock this a. m. (following First Division) on Camden road via Pine Tree and ——— Churches to Kelly's Ferry, encamping at 4.30 p. m. Distance marched, twelve miles. Upon arriving at ——— Church I was informed by foragers and negroes that about 250 rebel cavalry had been seen upon and near the road after the Second Division had passed over it. I sent a small force of my escort company forward and deployed three companies of infantry as skirmishers, but did not succeed in developing any of the enemy. A foraging party from this command went to Bishopville this morning and found a small force of cavalry, which retreated. The division is encamped in line about one-quarter of a mile west of Lynch's Creek, covering roads to the rear. These headquarters are at Kelly's house.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JNO. E. SMITH,
Breret Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, near Lynch's Creek, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations of my command this instant: I broke camp at 7 a. m. and moved upon the Camden and Cheraw road to Lynch's Creek, seven miles distant, where I arrived at 10.30 a. m., and found the low land contingent to the stream submerged with water to a mean depth of three feet, and extending over a flat of half a mile in breadth, and although the bridge across the main channel was intact, the roads were impracticable for the passing of army trains, and the water rising rapidly. In order to secure the bridge and occupy the position designated in orders from corps headquarters, I succeeded in crossing one brigade of infantry and my battery, although the men were compelled to wade in the water to their waists, making a lodgment on the opposite bank at 12 m. Prior to the crossing of this force the foraging details from my own command, and others of the corps, had encountered the enemy's cavalry and been driven in toward Tiller's Bridge, but were checked by the appearance of my infantry and the addition of a few mounted men of the Seventh Illinois Veteran Volunteers and orderlies attached to these headquarters. It is impossible to state definitely, to-night, the losses or casualties incident to the promiscuous skirmishing which took place. Nine of the enemy are known to have been killed, several wounded brought in, and five taken prisoners. A list of the casualties of my command will be forwarded in due time. The enemy's force is variously estimated at from 500 to 2,000, and reported as passing to my right toward evening. In the skirmishing which took place I am pleased to mention the name of Corpl. Elijah G. Davis, Company I, Eighty-first Ohio Volunteers, with forage detail, who distinguished himself by refusing to surrender when attacked by four rebels, and fought hand to hand with them until he received seven wounds, and finally escaped death on the spot by the assistance of a comrade. His wounds, it is thought, will not prove fatal, and consist mainly of saber cuts. During the afternoon I succeeded in crossing the remainder of my infantry (except five companies left as guard to train), and have placed my command in a defensible position, strongly picketing all approaches to the bridge. I have not been able to cross any portion of my supply or ordnance train except thirty-six boxes ammunition which had to be brought a portion of the way by hand. The water, up to 9 p. m., is still rising, and in some places can not be forded.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,

Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS. }
No. 27.

HDQRS. 4TH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Pine Tree Meeting-House, S. C.,
February 26, 1865.

1. The troops of this division will march at 7 a. m. this instant (the leading brigade moving out upon the road at 6.30 a. m.) upon the direct road to Tiller's Bridge, in the following order:

The First Brigade in advance, with two regiments in advance and two marching by the side of the battery; Second Brigade in the center marching by the side of the trains, in two ranks on each side, if possible; Third Brigade in rear, with one regiment as rear guard and the others marching by the side of the trains. Trains in same order as yesterday.

The attention of brigade commanders and officers in charge of trains is called to the fact that we shall be in advance of the entire corps and that the enemy's cavalry is in strong force on our flanks, and it is therefore of the greatest importance that the division column is moved well closed up and compact, and the foragers instructed to act as flankers.

Let the movement from camp be prompt. The regiments now absent from the division will rejoin their respective commands at 7 a. m. to-day.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Young's Bridge, S. C., February 26, 1865—2 p. m.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: My advance is at this point. I will put one division across to-night, if practicable. The bridge all right, but the approach on both sides is very bad. I shall have to corduroy one-quarter of a mile on one side and about one mile on the other. Two brigades of rebel cavalry crossed here this a. m., coming from our right. I expect two divisions up to-night. The rear division within five miles.

Respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Tillersville Bridge, February 26, 1865—3.15 p. m.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

DEAR GENERAL: General Logan has the most of Corse's division across the Lynch, but the water is over the road for about a mile. I wish you to move from Young's Bridge to Cheraw direct in three days, at least. Logan will do the same. We had quite a skirmish with rebel cavalry near Woodham's, as marked on the map. The rebels charged our skirmish line and foragers. They lost a good many horses and a few wounded and prisoners. General Logan took about 100 prisoners yesterday at Tiller's Bridge.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

P. S.—The water has risen considerably within the last two hours, and it will be impossible to cross any more of the train until the water subsides. I think by to-morrow morning the water will fall so that the wagons can be crossed without difficulty.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Lynch's Creek, Young's Bridge, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: The water on the road for about a mile on the other side of the Lynch is from two to four feet deep, but is falling slowly. I think I shall be able to cross my train in the morning. I am building a foot bridge to-night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }      HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 53.                }      Young's Bridge, S. C., February 26, 1865.

The movement to-morrow will be in the direction of Cheraw.

The First Division, Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower commanding, will be prepared to move at 7 a. m., and if the water is low enough on the road on the opposite side of the creek, will cross at that hour.

The Fourth Division, Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith commanding, will be prepared to move at 8.30 o'clock and will follow the First Division.

Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will move forward at 6 a. m. and will follow the route of the corps. He will move as far as practicable to-morrow, endeavoring to close up to the rest of the command.

The bridge train will move as General Force will direct. The troops will move on the right of the train.

Division commanders will take all possible precautions to prevent dashes of the enemy on the trains.

The First Michigan Engineers will follow the troops of the First Division with their tool wagons and ambulances. Their train will follow the train of the First Division.

Corps headquarters train will move with the train of First Division headquarters.

The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will cross the river at 6 a. m. and await orders on the opposite side.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 26, 1865—2 p. m.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your communication. I started a dispatch from here about 8 o'clock last night, directing you to move forward at daylight this a. m. The roads are good between your camp and here.

Respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Hough's Bridge, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE, Jr.,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Seventeenth Army Corps:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that this crossing was vacated for my command at 5.45 p. m. to-day. The road was so badly destroyed as to make it impracticable to pass my train, the bottom having utterly given out in some places, and the turns necessary to keep an army wagon from going out of sight, rendered it impossible to get a pontoon wagon on the bridge. I set a heavy force at work, and by midnight will have a good bridge and corduroy entirely across. Will move at daylight.

I have the honor to be, captain, most respectfully, your obedient servant,

M. F. FORCE,

Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Ingraham's House, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. SLOCUM,

Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: The general-in-chief would like to hear all the news from General Davis which you get during the night as soon as you can let him; he also thinks you should hold the Twentieth Corps in its present camp until General Davis has crossed the river and began his march.

I am, general, respectfully, &c.,

L. M. DAYTON,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
East Bank of Catawba River, February 26, 1865—9 a. m.

Captain DECHERT,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, Left Wing:

CAPTAIN: Misfortunes never come single. The work of crossing the trains was continued last night until about 12.30 o'clock, when the bridge gave way in the center. All the boats but two have been recovered. The balking and planking were lost. The river is still rising, and it is doubtful if the anchors will hold the boats in their places against the heavy current. Material to reconstruct the bridge is being gathered from houses, and an attempt to relay it will be made as soon as possible. The roads still continue to be impassable, and corduroy has to be made in every direction where a wagon is to be driven. The weather seems to indicate signs of clearing off. If so, the river, I think, will soon run down and the roads dry up so as to enable us to get on. In the meantime say to the general that we will not lose one moment.

I am, very respectfully,

JEF. C. DAVIS,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING,
February 26, 1865—10 p. m.

Major-General DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: General Sherman has ordered the Twentieth Corps to remain in its present camp until your corps crosses the river. He has also sent orders to Howard to advance no farther until further orders. He feels extremely anxious about your situation. I hope you will succeed in crossing to-morrow. If you cannot repair your present bridge it seems to me that your best course will be to start at daylight and lay the bridge at Peay's Ferry, where Howard crossed, sending the trains already over with Morgan's division directly to this point. By this course I think you can get everything over to-morrow, and can then push on here via Liberty Hill and Russell Place. Please let me hear from you as often as possible.

Very respectfully,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Hanging Rock Post-Office, February 26, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Military Division of the Mississippi:

MAJOR: I have the honor to make the following reply to the communication of General Kilpatrick, inclosed herewith.* General Kilpatrick has been misinformed, and has had his feelings strongly excited by false statements. General Geary's division with his train and about 100 cavalry wagons were held in readiness to cross the bridge at Rocky Mount Ferry all the afternoon of the 23d instant. The train of Geary's division commenced crossing at 5 p. m. I was with it, and informed General Geary in person that General Kilpatrick would be entitled to the bridge at 7 o'clock, unless General Sherman postponed the hour for which application had been made. General Kilpatrick should not forget that delay of General Geary was caused mainly by crossing more than 200 of his own wagons now with this corps. Under General Sherman's order General Kilpatrick could have taken the bridge at 7 o'clock. No order or instructions of mine to General Geary could have prevented it of course. General Geary was confident, however, that with his whole division to assist his trains he could complete the crossing by 7.30 to 8 o'clock. The five cavalymen who were punished by my provost-marshal (not while the whole corps marched by, but for fifteen minutes, as the provost-marshal reports) were found by a commissioned officer throwing the furniture of an old woman into the streets and threatening to burn her house. They were a part of the detail attached to the cavalry train, which is, and has been from Sister's Ferry, with my command. While with me I take it for granted they are subject to my orders and to such discipline as I may think for the good of the service. Still, as soon as I heard of the case I directed the provost-marshal to return them to Major Dunbar, assistant quartermaster, in charge of the cavalry wagons, with a statement of their offense.

In regard to the detail sent out by Major Dunbar, assistant quartermaster cavalry, and the captured ten mules and four horses, I have this to say: Major Dunbar is now, and was then, temporarily with my command and subject to my orders. He violated an order which prohibited any foraging party from preceding the head of my column, under penalty of arrest and forfeiture of all animals and supplies taken from the country. Yet in this case, when brought to my notice, I directed the animals to be returned, and seventeen mules (the horses could not be recognized) were given to Major Dunbar, assistant quartermaster, as an equivalent for the four horses and ten mules, with which arrangement, I am assured, he expressed entire satisfaction. In both these cases I relaxed a rule which I should have enforced on my own command (though the offenders were temporarily under my command) in a sincere and earnest spirit of conciliation, courtesy, and good will toward General Kilpatrick and his valuable command. I do not believe that any man of my command has intentionally destroyed forage. In the marches of nearly a year through Georgia and this State, I have never found an instance in which forage has been destroyed by my men. Besides, my corps has never been on the road indicated by General Kilpatrick, but was marching directly from it. Be that as it may, I will thank General Kilpatrick, or any other general officer, to punish on the spot any man of this command found burning forage or pillaging the houses of decrepit old women. Or if he will return them to me with a statement of the case, I shall most assuredly not endeavor to screen them on the denial of the offenders alone. General Kilpatrick speaks of his ability to “retaliate,” as though I had sent out men to harass his column, or had personally endeavored to affront him in some way. It would be puerile in me to disavow any such intention, and I really must protest against being held responsible for the conduct of bummers and stragglers. I have the most kind and respectful feelings toward General Kilpatrick and his command, and I regret exceedingly to find that the irritated tone of his communication does not indicate a reciprocity of the feeling on his part. I shall endeavor, however, to take good care of his 250 wagons and his small detail with it, as I have done for the last month, and to avoid all real causes of complaint or ill-feeling. I earnestly desire to cultivate a feeling of harmony and good feeling between the different commands, and in that spirit I respectfully request that General Kilpatrick be not permitted to “retaliate” by putting in force the order he announces in his communication.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brerret Major-General, Commanding.

[First indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Hanging Rock, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded.

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

[Second indorsement.]

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Hanging Rock, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Referred to General Kilpatrick for perusal and return to this office. There is no need of rejoinder. I take it for granted all general officers will accept a disclaimer without discussion or question.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Hanging Rock Post-Office, S. C., February 26, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Lynch's Creek in the following order: Second Division, First Division, Third Division. General Geary will start his command at 6.30 a. m. The other divisions will follow in the above order. The troops of the Second Division will march unencumbered in the advance, and will repair the roads so as to make them passable for the trains. General Jackson will dispose of his troops so as to cover the trains of the Second and First Divisions. General Ward will detail three regiments as rear guard. The artillery will march in the same positions as to-day, viz, one section with the rear guard, one battery in rear of General Geary's advanced brigade, the balance in rear of the troops of General Geary's division. The artillery ammunition train will march in rear of the train of the Second Division. Every effort will be made by the advanced division to make the roads passable for the trains, but the troops of the First and Third Divisions must be used to make such repairs as the passage of our heavy trains render necessary, and will be kept with the trains to which they are assigned.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Hanging Rock Post-Office, February 26, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY, Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The brevet major-general commanding the corps directs me to inform you that the order for the movement of this corps for to-morrow is suspended until further orders. This delay is occasioned by the Fourteenth Corps not coming up as expected. When the movement takes place it will be in order heretofore prescribed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Hanging Rock Post-Office, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Brigadier-General WARD, Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The brevet major-general commanding directs me to inform you that owing to the delay of the Fourteenth Corps the movement of this corps ordered for to-morrow will not take place until further orders.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. CAVALRY COMMAND, ARMY OF INVASION,
In the Field, Lancaster, S. C., February 26, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. C. DAVIS,

Commanding Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am encamped at Lancaster. The roads are very bad, and the streams much swollen. Please inform me where you will encamp to-night, that I may protect your left flank. I cannot move until to-morrow morning. The enemy are strongly picketing the roads to Charlotte and Monroe.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. KILPATRICK,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding Cavalry.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN DISTRICT,
No. 6. } DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 26, 1865.

* * * * *

III. Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig is assigned temporarily to the command of the Defenses of Charleston, and of the troops heretofore constituting the First Separate Brigade, except such as have been or are now serving with the Coast Division.

IV. The One hundred and twenty-seventh New York Volunteers having been designated by the department commander as the permanent garrison of Charleston is hereby relieved from duty with the Coast Division. Its commander will report to Lieut. Col. Stewart L. Woodford for duty.

V. The Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops will as soon as relieved from its present duty form part of the garrison of Charleston. Its commander, Lieut. Col. A. G. Bennett, will report to Lieutenant-Colonel Woodford in accordance with this order.

VI. The headquarters of the district will be at No. 13 King street, Charleston.

JOHN P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Wilmington, N. C., February 26, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

SIR: I respectfully request that Bvt. Brig. Gen. G. W. Schofield may be assigned to duty according to his brevet rank in order that he may be placed in command of a brigade.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Wilmington, N. C., February 26, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I am informed that a portion of my supply train left in Kentucky has been ordered to Washington, and that it is contemplated to turn it into the general depot, and require my quartermaster to draw from the general supply. I respectfully request that this may not be done. My train was gotten up with great pains. The teams are good and well broken and the drivers experienced. I think my staff officers and the troops they are serving should have the benefit of the labor they have expended in organizing this train. We will at best have trouble enough with the raw teams drawn in Washington.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,

ARMY OF THE OHIO,

No. 15. )

Wilmington, N. C., February 26, 1865.

* * * * *

III. Companies B, G, and L, First Connecticut Artillery, are relieved from duty with the garrison at Fort Fisher, N. C., and will proceed to Broadway Landing, James River, Va., and report for duty with their regiment. Captain Pride will turn over the 30-pounder cannon, with equipments, ammunition, &c., for which he is responsible, to the commanding officer of Company A, Second Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery. Proper invoices and receipts will be exchanged. The quartermaster's department will furnish all necessary transportation.

* * * * *

V. The following assignments and orders made by Maj. Gen. J. D. Cox, on the 22d instant, are approved and confirmed: Col. O. W. Sterl, One hundred and fourth Ohio Infantry, to command the post of Wilmington; Lieut. Col. William J. Jordan, One hundred and fourth Ohio Infantry, to be provost-marshal of Wilmington. The One hundred and fourth Ohio Infantry to be provost-guard of Wilmington.

* * * * *

X. The steamer Russia will run regularly between Wilmington and Morehead City to carry the military mails. She will leave Wilmington every alternate day, commencing February 26, at 3 p. m., and return on the following day, starting from Morehead City habitually at 5 p. m.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

ARMY OF THE OHIO,

Wilmington, N. C., February 26, 1865.

HENRY M. DRAIN,

Superintendent Wilmington and Manchester Railroad:

SIR: You are hereby authorized and requested to bring to Wilmington without delay all rolling-stock and other movable property belonging to your railroad under the following conditions, viz: Protection will be given to yourself and all employes of the road who may come in with the trains. I will take possession of the property on the part of the United States for Government use, and when no longer required by the Government will cause it to be returned to the railroad company. The property and general interest of the railroad company will be protedted so far as it can be done consistently with the requirements of military operations. This offer is extended through you to the agents of the roads connecting with yours from the south.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS PROVISIONAL CORPS,
No. 43. } Northeast Station, N. C., February 26, 1865.

I. Brig. Gen. Charles J. Paine, commanding Third Division, Twenty-fifth Army Corps, will send out a force of 200 good infantry to-morrow morning to reconnoiter the country on this side of the Northeast River and in front of our lines, to return to-morrow night. The commanding officer of the Sixteenth New York Light Battery and Light Company E, Third U. S. Artillery, will each send with the expedition one commissioned officer and twelve enlisted men for the purpose of procuring horses for their batteries, but in no case will they take all the animals from any plantation, leaving at least one horse or mule. The senior officer of the whole force will have command of the reconnaissance and will receive his instructions from Brigadier-General Paine.

By order of Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry:

A. TERRY,

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., February 27, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON.

Secretary of War:

Following from Richmond Examiner :

In the absence of official information of military affairs in the Carolinas, we take nothing from other sources of intelligence, and omit the usual references to our file of Southern exchanges. We do so at the request of the authorities, and with the understanding that the other city journals have been put under obligations of reticence to the extent indicated above. The public, no doubt, will be properly patient in this interval of silence and not take it as discouragement, for we are assured that there are good reasons for it, which look to an early official announcement of favorable results.

Richmond Dispatch :

General Joseph E. Johnston on Thursday evening last assumed command of the army in Sherman's front, lately commanded by General Beauregard.

Richmond Whig :

Charlotte, February 24.—We are indebted to the enterprise of the Southern Express Company for Augusta papers to the 20th instant. No important military movements are reported. Captain Dickson captured several officers and a considerable number of enlisted men during the recent Yankee raid in Florida. General N. B. Forrest has been placed in command of all the cavalry in the Districts of Mississippi, East Louisiana, and West Tennessee. His first general order promises the reorganization of the cavalry, with the restoration of discipline. He threatens to exterminate all Confederate stragglers, robbers, and deserters. General Thomas' troops are being mounted for a supposed march through Alabama. Raids have been made from Hernando, Miss., toward Senatobia. Many complaints of General Kirby Smith are made in the West. General Wofford is in command at Atlanta. Reorganization in Georgia has already commenced. Re-enforcements from Northern Mississippi have been sent to Grant. Large bodies of troops are moving in the West, and important movements are reported. The Legislature of Mississippi is about to convene in extra session, for the purpose, it is said, of calling a State convention. The Georgia Legislature convened on the 14th instant at Macon.

Charlotte, February 24.—There is no alarm here. The enemy are reported moving in the direction of ———. During the retreat from Columbia a train of cars, filled with ladies, broke down, exposing them to the danger of capture by Yankees. From the best information received here it appears probable that a considerable conflagration occurred in the western portion of Columbia, occasioned, it is supposed, by the cotton ignited in the streets. It is reported that the fire extended from Main street to the Charlotte depot, nearly three-quarters of a mile. The information is positive as to the occurrence of the fire, but doubt is entertained as to its magnitude. Some of the refugees from Columbia are preparing to return.

Charlotte, February 25.—No additional news from the front. It is supposed still that the enemy are making their way to ———. The news from Columbia corroborates the kind treatment of the inhabitants. The Ursuline Convent was protected by a guard. No public property was allowed to be burned in the city. Sherman's headquarters were at Nickerson's Hotel. The alarm in Charlotte has subsided. The weather is bad and the roads heavy, interfering with rapid military movements.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
In the Field, February 27, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN, U. S. Army:

GENERAL: Your communication of the 24th instant reached me to-day. In it you state that it has been officially reported that your foraging parties are "murdered" after capture. You go on to say that you have "ordered a similar number of prisoners in our hands to be disposed of in like manner;" that is to say, you have ordered a number of Confederate soldiers to be "murdered." You characterize your order in proper terms, for the public voice, even in your own country, where it seldom dares to express itself in vindication of truth, honor, or justice, will surely agree with you in pronouncing you guilty of murder if your order is carried out. Before dismissing this portion of your letter, I beg to assure you that for every soldier of mine "murdered" by you, I shall have executed at once two of yours, giving in all cases preference to any officers who may be in my hands.

In reference to the statement you make regarding the death of your foragers, I have only to say that I know nothing of it; that no orders given by me authorize the killing of prisoners after capture, and that I do not believe my men killed any of yours, except under circumstances in which it was perfectly legitimate and proper that they should kill them. It is a part of the system of the thieves whom you designate as your foragers to fire the dwellings of those citizens whom they have robbed. To check this inhuman system, which is justly execrated by every civilized nation, I have directed my men to shoot down all of your men who are caught burning houses. This order shall remain in force so long as you disgrace the profession of arms by allowing your men to destroy private dwellings.

You say that I cannot, of course, question your right to forage on the country—"It is a right as old as history." I do not, sir, question this right. But there is a right older, even, than this, and one more inalienable—the right that every man has to defend his home and to protect those who are dependent on him; and from my heart I wish that every old man and boy in my country who can fire a gun would shoot down, as he would a wild beast, the men who are desolating their land, burning their homes, and insulting their women.

You are particular in defining and claiming "war rights." May I ask if you enumerate among these the right to fire upon a defenseless city without notice; to burn that city to the ground after it had been surrendered by the inhabitants who claimed, though in vain, that protection which is always accorded in civilized warfare to non-combatants; to fire the dwelling houses of citizens after robbing them; and to perpetrate even darker crimes than these—crimes too black to be mentioned?

You have permitted, if you have not ordered, the commission of these offenses against humanity and the rules of war; you fired into the city of Columbia without a word of warning; after its surrender by the mayor, who demanded protection to private property, you laid the whole city in ashes, leaving amidst its ruins thousands of old men and helpless women and children, who are likely to perish of starvation and exposure. Your line of march can be traced by the lurid light of burning houses, and in more than one household there is now an agony far more bitter than that of death. The Indian scalped his victim regardless of age or sex, but with all his barbarity he always respected the persons of his female captives. Your soldiers, more savage than the Indian, insult those whose natural protectors are absent.

In conclusion, I have only to request that whenever you have any of my men “murdered” or “disposed of,” for the terms appear to be synonymous with you, you will let me hear of it, that I may know what action to take in the matter. In the meantime I shall hold fifty-six of your men as hostages for those whom you have ordered to be executed.

I am, yours, &c.,

WADE HAMPTON,
Lieutenant-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Your dispatch just received. I have just sent a cipher message as you desired. The Lynch is over its banks a mile wide and now swimming deep. We will do well to get our trains across to-day. I am sorry for the accident at the Catawba. They should make platforms and ferry over the balance of their wagons. But I suppose they know best.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Owing to the freshet, the orders of march for to-day are so modified as to make the first stage, to get everything across the Lynch as soon as it can be done, and then begin the march on Cheraw, for which three days will be designated.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Near Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that my division is still occupying the position as stated in my communication of last night. My pioneer corps, as well as troops of my command, have been busily engaged during the day in constructing an infantry crossing over Big Lynch's Creek. They have been much interfered with by the engineer party there at work, so that my labor is not so far advanced as it would otherwise have been.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Breret Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Kelly's Bridge, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General:

I have the honor to report that this division has remained at this point to-day waiting subsidence of the water. The river at this point has fallen about three inches, and I am expecting to commence crossing early to-morrow. My headquarters are at the bridge.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: A letter just received from General Sherman directs us to move slowly, on account of some unavoidable delay of the Left Wing, so that the march to Cheraw can be extended to four days instead of three. The general directs that you need do nothing further to-day than cross Lynch's Creek, with everything in readiness to move to-morrow. When you move, keep the column well closed up. It is reported by deserters that General Hardee is moving from Florence toward Charlotte with 100 guns and a long train, with about 4,000 or 5,000 men guarding them. The general wishes you to find out all you can in regard to his movements. The rear of his column was supposed to be at Cheraw last night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: If the water continues to fall General Logan can get his trains over in the morning at this place and at Kelly's, and the moment he can do it I will have him push a division to the Big Black. Please, therefore, move only to McDonald's, establishing your crossing; make every possible effort to get your wagons filled with bread stuffs.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 54. } Young's Bridge, near Lynch's Creek,
February 27, 1865.

The movement on Cheraw will be continued to-morrow.

Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will have the advance and will move forward at 7 a. m.

The First Regiment Michigan Engineers, Col. J. B. Yates commanding, will follow the troops of the First Division with their ambulances and tool-wagons. Their train will follow the train of the First Division.

Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will follow the First Division.

Byt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will follow the Third Division and be prepared to move at 9 o'clock.

The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry, Col. S. T. Hughes commanding, will move forward at 6.30 a. m. The pontoon train will follow the train of the Third Division.

The troops will move by the side of the train, keeping to the right. Corps headquarters train will move with the train of First Division headquarters.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Lynch's Creek, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Seventeenth Army Corps:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report my command in camp about three-quarters of a mile from the bridge. I propose, it meeting your approbation, to cross all my train to-night and let the troops remain this side until morning. In the event of a heavy rain and the water rising will move at once.

I am, captain, very truly, yours,

M. F. FORCE,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 27, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,

Commanding Third Division:

The major-general commanding directs me to say that he wishes your train to follow the Fourth Division train, which will cross as soon as the First Division train is over. You will park your train and the pontoon in the first field on right hand side of road coming this way, after crossing. The train of the First Division, and perhaps part of the Fourth Division, will be in the same field. You may keep your men in their present camp to-night and move them over early in the morning. Your position will be second in column, following the First Division, which will start at 7 a. m.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
February 27, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: I sent you orders this evening to cross your trains to-night and leave your troops in their present camp till morning. It will be late before you have the bridge, but you will be all right to take your place in the morning by pushing your train over to-night.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS.
No. 48. } Lynch's Creek, S. C., February 27, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The hour of marching is 6.30 a. m. to-morrow.

The First Brigade, Col. C. Fairchild commanding, will have the advance.

The Second Brigade, Col. G. F. Wiles commanding, will follow the First Brigade.

The artillery and trains will move in the usual order.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Rocky Mount Crossing, Catawba River.
February 27, 1865—1.30 p. m.

Captain DECHERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: Your communication is just received. Major Guindon dispatched the general commanding this morning. The bridge is being laid in a new place and bids fair of being a success. The current was thought to be still too rapid at the old one immediately below the falls. The bridge will probably be done by 4 o'clock this evening, and I shall make every exertion to cross and be on the march to-morrow morning at daylight. This is the best that can possibly be hoped for under the circumstances. I am doing everything that man can do, but I cannot dry up the river that separates my command; it has fallen about eighteen inches and is still falling. I do not know what the emergency is in the front, but presume it must be very great, judging by the general's dispatches, and am working accordingly. Kilpatrick reported to me from Lancaster yesterday, but has not reported to-day. I should like him to remain on my flank, as it will enable me to march more securely and, of course, more rapidly.

I am, very respectfully,

JEF. C. DAVIS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

[Indorsement.]

THREE MILES FROM ROCKY MOUNT—3.30 p. m.

Respectfully forwarded for the information of Major-General Sherman. I shall go to the bridge and see that no time is lost. I think the Twentieth Army Corps can move to-morrow safely. I will press the Fourteenth forward as rapidly as possible.

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Ingraham's House, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Brevet Major-General WILLIAMS,
Commanding Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: The general-in-chief directs that you move your corps to-morrow, February 28, to the road leading from Lancaster to Blakey's Bridge, at or near Horton's Tavern.

I am, general, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Hanging Rock Post-Office, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Capt. R. P. DECHERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, Left Wing:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that Lieutenant Kirkwood, Nineteenth Michigan Volunteers, in charge of a foraging party, yesterday met a party of Kilpatrick's cavalry foraging about four miles from Lancaster, who stated that Kilpatrick had two brigades encamped at Lancaster.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

ORDERS.] HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Hanging Rock Creek, S. C., February 27, 1865.

This corps will move to-morrow to the vicinity of Horton's Tavern, in the same order and under the same directions as prescribed in the order published from these headquarters yesterday. General Geary will start at 6.30 a. m. General Jackson following will dispose of his troops to cover his own and General Geary's trains.

General Ward will break camp in time to close up to the rear of the First Division trains.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Hanging Rock Creek, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY,
Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: The brevet major-general commanding the corps desires that you send one regiment in advance of your column to-morrow, starting at 5.30 a. m., to push on as rapidly as possible, to get possession and hold the bridge over Little Lynch's Creek. The bearer, one of our scouts, will go with the regiment and guide it.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Since writing the above the general has ordered that the regiment start at 4 a. m.

Respectfully,

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } No. 18.	HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION, TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS, Hanging Rock Post-Office, February 27, 1865.
---------------------------------------	---

This command will change camp to the other side of Hanging Rock Creek, moving at 2 p. m., in the same order as the next march—Second, Third Brigades.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. CAVALRY COMMAND, MIL. DIV. OF THE MISS.,
Lancaster, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I am still encamped at Lancaster, holding the roads running in the direction of Charlotte and Monroe. Wheeler is holding the country in that direction. Hampton is in command. Wheeler reports to him. Such is my information. The enemy are under the impression that General Davis, Fourteenth Army Corps, is at or near this point, and that our intention is to move upon Charlotte by way of Monroe. The enemy is now intrenching, to hold the roads in that direction. I have made demonstrations on all roads in that direction, and have been met each time by the enemy in strong force. Hampton has received your communication. General Butler's cavalry, of Hampton's command, is moving on your immediate front in direction of, I think, Hickory Head. I shall move parallel to Davis, who expects to be at Pleasant Hill Post-Office to-night. I think I shall move on road by way of Nelson's, Montgomery's, and, unless I think the enemy too strong, by Plyer's, and thence across the headwaters of Lynch's Creek; otherwise cross the creek at French Creek Steam Mill. I shall move rather upon the left and rear of Davis, that the enemy may be deceived as long as possible as to our real direction of march and to protect his flanks from an attack, which the enemy certainly could make at almost any point, owing to the great number of roads. The country here is good; forage plenty. My command has been resting for two days, and is in better condition than at any time during the march. We have captured a large number of mules and some horses, and have mounted all my dismounted men, save 300. I think Hampton's and Wheeler's forces combined amount to about 6,000 fighting men. Notwithstanding this superiority of numbers, I shall attack if a favorable opportunity offers. The road upon which I shall march is the best in the country. I will keep you advised daily as to my operations and position.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. KILPATRICK,
Breret Major-General, Commanding.

HQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Hanging Rock, February 27, 1865.

Major-General KILPATRICK,

Lancaster:

GENERAL: Your letter is just received. It is all important that you keep me advised. Davis was slow in using the bridge and it carried away and was not mended until to-day. He will be all over to-night.

The movement you describe is the proper one, to keep on the left rear of the left infantry corps. I have word from Howard that will put him near Cheraw to-morrow night, and I shall push to meet him, but must wait till General Davis gets along; probably will be about Horton's Tavern to-morrow night. Keep feeling the different roads toward Charlotte till you hear General Davis is well toward the head of Lynch's Creek and then draw off. General Howard captured a good many horses and mules and some militia. He will send a division, light, to Florence simply to break that road and prevent the removal of any more railroad stock. There is little doubt our troops are in Charleston, and General Howard reports that a dispatch reached Camden yesterday that we also had taken Wilmington. In that event the enemy will collect all his forces about Raleigh as soon as he sees I am not coming to Charlotte. Keep me advised daily; a dispatch sent to the nearest corps, to be forwarded, will answer the purpose, but I think Hampton will draw off as soon as he feels General Howard's approach to Cheraw. General Howard is moving on the two roads from Young's and Tillersville.

General Slocum, Twentieth Corps, will probably pass at Blakeny's and General Davis at McManus'. You will have no trouble with Lynch's Creek, as it is passable anywhere above McManus'.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL	}	HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY COMMAND,
FIELD ORDERS,			ARMY OF INVASION,
No. 28.			In the Field, Lancaster, S. C., February 27, 1865.

1. At 6 a. m. to-morrow, February 28, General Atkins, commanding Second Brigade, will send a regiment to relieve Colonel Spencer's pickets and will remain in his present position until 12 m., when further orders will be sent him.

II. Colonel Spencer, Third Brigade, upon being relieved by General Atkins, will move with his command into town and move on a road, which will be indicated, to Nelson's Cross-Roads and take post, picketing Camp Creek and road to Monroe. Colonel Spencer will so manage his command as to induce the enemy to believe we are moving on Charlotte via Monroe.

III. Lieutenant-Colonel Way, commanding dismounted men, will, with his command, follow Colonel Spencer and co-operate with him.

IV. Colonel Jordan, commanding First Brigade, will remain with his command in camp till 12 m., when further orders will be sent him.

By command of Brevet Major-General Kilpatrick:

L. G. ESTES,

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,

Washington, February 27, 1865.

Major-General GILLMORE,

Hilton Head:

GENERAL: Your applications for more troops and for reorganization of Tenth Corps, referred to General Grant, have been returned disapproved. General Grant says that the orders to send all your surplus white troops to Wilmington must be complied with; that no offensive operations by your command into the interior is contemplated, and that if you require mounted men at Savannah you must get the horses there, as none can now be sent from here.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. HALLECK,

Major-General and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES,

Charleston, S. C., February 27, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER OF U. S. SQUADRON,

Charleston Harbor:

SIR: I have the honor to state that in the city of Charleston no soldiers are allowed to go about without a proper pass approved by their commanding officers. In several instances sailors have been found in the city provided with no passes whatever, and I would therefore request that you will direct the commanding officers of the vessels of your squadron to provide all sailors with passes when they desire them to enter the city, and in no case to allow any sailor to be in the city after 6 p. m. Your early attention to this matter and reply will oblige,

Your obedient servant,

STEWART L. WOODFORD,

Lieutenant-Colonel 127th New York Volunteers and Comdg. Post.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,

Charleston, S. C., February 27, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. E. POTTER:

Your dispatch to General Schimmelfennig is received. The Fourth Massachusetts Cavalry left here to-day to join you. After destroying any rice mills in your vicinity you can fall back to Monk's Corner, where you will be joined by Colonel Van Wyck. You can then return to this place, sweeping the whole country on both banks of the Cooper River. Bring in with you all means of transportation you find in that country. Destroy all the rice mills and send the cotton in to the banks of the river, where steamers can reach it. It is reported that there is a cavalry force near the Cainhoj, on the Wando. I resumed command of the district yesterday. Reports from the North confirm the evacuation of Wilmington.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 7. }

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 27, 1865.

The following-named officers are hereby appointed on the staff of the brigadier-general commanding the district:

Capt. Edgar B. Van Winkle, One hundred and third U. S. Colored Troops, aide-de-camp and chief of staff; Capt. W. W. Sampson, Thirty-third U. S. Colored Troops, acting assistant inspector-general; Capt. John H. Moore, assistant quartermaster, chief quartermaster; First Lieut. F. A. Wilcoxson, Third Rhode Island Artillery, acting assistant quartermaster; Capt. F. K. Smith, One hundred and twenty-seventh New York Volunteers, acting assistant quartermaster, in charge of railroad transportation; First Lieut. Henry Hagens, Fifty-fourth New York Volunteers, acting assistant quartermaster, depot quartermaster in charge of water transportation; Capt. Emil Marthell, chief of subsistence department and depot commissary; First Lieut. N. M. Edwards, First New York Volunteer Engineers, chief engineer; Capt. A. von Luttwitz, Fifty-fourth New York Volunteers, topographical engineer; Second Lieut. S. B. Starbird, Fifty-fifth Massachusetts Volunteers, assistant topographical engineer; Capt. James W. Grace, Fifty-fourth Massachusetts Volunteers, chief ordnance officer; Capt. Jeremiah Lanhahan, Third Rhode Island Artillery, chief of artillery; Surg. George S. Burton, Third Rhode Island Artillery, chief medical officer; Capt. Thomas L. Appleton, Fifty-fourth Massachusetts Volunteers, provost-marshal; First Lieut. T. C. Vidal, U. S. Army, chief signal officer; First Lieut. D. George McMartin, Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops, aide-de-camp; Second Lieut. James McMillan, Thirty-fourth U. S. Colored Troops, aide-de-camp.

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 8. }

HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Wilmington, N. C., February 27, 1865.

I. Provost-marshals in this department will administer the oath of allegiance to such persons as come within the provisions of the amnesty proclamation of the President of the United States, provided they are satisfied that such persons desire in good faith to aid in restoring the national authority, and that they take the oath of allegiance cheerfully and voluntarily.

II. Reports will be made weekly to the provost-marshal-general, giving the name, age, and place of residence of every person who shall have subscribed to the oath of allegiance; also of all other adult white persons residing within the jurisdiction of each provost-marshal, together with such information as can be obtained touching the character and conduct of each individual.

III. Persons of known disloyalty, and those who shall by their language or their conduct manifest hostility to the Government of the United States, shall be sent beyond the lines of the army by an order from the provost-marshal-general, or be brought before a military commission for trial and punishment, according to the nature of the offense.

IV. Officers authorized by law to appoint general courts-martial are empowered to appoint military commissions, and to confirm and execute the sentences of such commissions with the same limitations as in the case of general courts-martial.

V. Commercial intercourse within the limits of this department will be governed strictly by the laws of the United States and the regulations of the Treasury Department, and will be limited to that which may be necessary to supply the wants of the loyal people residing within the lines of military occupation, and persons in the employ of the Government. None but persons of undoubted loyalty and good character will be permitted to trade within the limits of the department.

VI. Intercourse between towns occupied by the army, and the surrounding country within the lines of military occupation, will be permitted under regulations to be established by the provost-marshal-general for the purpose of enabling the inhabitants to supply themselves with the necessities of life.

VII. The loyal people of the country residing within the lines of the army will be permitted to bring freely to market the products of their farms, and to receive in payment the currency of the United States. They will also be permitted to purchase family supplies from persons authorized to trade, upon permits granted by the local provost-marshals.

VIII. Railroads and telegraph lines are under special military protection. Any person who shall break, injure, or in any manner interfere with their military use, or shall fire into any railroad train or vessels navigating the waters of this department, shall be punished with death or otherwise at the discretion of a military commission.

IX. The destruction of property, public or private, is a waste of the national wealth, and alike injurious to the people and the Government. It is, therefore, to be avoided, except where military operations render it necessary. The highest commander present must alone be the judge of such necessity.

X. The troops will be supplied with such of the products of the country, especially vegetables, as are necessary for their health and comfort. This must be done by the proper staff officers, acting under the orders of the division and brigade commanders.

XI. Straggling and irregular foraging by individuals are prohibited and will be severely punished.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
                               } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
 No. 16.                } Wilmington, N. C., February 27, 1865.

*               *               *               *               *               *               *

II. Hereafter, and until further orders, Maj. Gen. D. N. Couch will command the Second and Third Divisions, Twenty-third Army Corps.

*               *               *               *               *               *               *

XVI. The provost-marshal general, Department of North Carolina, will take possession of all cotton, rosin, turpentine, and other contraband property in the country under control of the army, and will turn the same over to an officer of the quartermaster's department to be designated by the chief quartermaster, who will receive and receipt for the same. All property so turned over will be stored in the city of Wilmington, and held subject to orders from these headquarters. The provost-marshal-general will cause an exact record to be kept of the time and place, where and when such property may be taken, and of its quantity, quality, and condition. Also the name and residence of the apparent owners or claimants in each case. The quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation.

XVII. Colonel McQuiston's brigade, First Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, now at Fort Anderson, will move without delay to Morehead City. The commanding officer will report by telegraph from the latter place to Maj. Gen. J. D. Cox, at New Berne, N. C., for further orders. The quartermaster's department will furnish transportation by steamer.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

ON BOARD STEAMER ESCORT,
Federal Point, February 27, 1865.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

A continuous storm has as yet prevented the Escort from leaving here. I should have insisted upon the captain's trying it, but the vessels of the fleet here, which tried it with us, have been obliged to return. I hope we shall be off before night.

Very respectfully,

J. D. COX,
Major-General.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SECOND DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS.
                               } Wilmington, N. C., February 27, 1865.

I. Col. O. H. Moore, Twenty-fifth Michigan Volunteer Infantry, will at once report to his regiment for duty.

II. Col. John Mehringer, Ninety-first Indiana Volunteer Infantry, will assume command of the Second Brigade of this division.

*               *               *               *               *               *               *

By command of Major-General Couch:

CLINTON A. CILLEY,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,

ARMY OF THE OHIO,

Wilmington, N. C., February 27, 1865.

Col. J. F. BOYD,

Chief Quartermaster, Washington City:

COLONEL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 20th instant, in reference to the field transportation, &c., for this army. Am much obliged for the information contained. In reply, I am directed by the commanding general to inform you that he desires arrangements to be made to transport nine days' supplies in wagons, 160 rounds per man infantry ammunition, and one wagon for each piece of artillery. Do not let the Kentucky train be deserted. If necessary take the inclosed letter* from the commanding general to General Halleck. Return yourself as soon as all necessary arrangements for the shipment of transportation, &c., are made. You need not wait to see everything off. Have everything for General Ruger's division shipped to Beaufort, unless you have already started them to this point, in which case you need make no change in your orders; they can be easily sent back from Cape Fear. If you cannot procure citizen teamsters, arrangements can perhaps be made here to procure them, or they can be detailed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. CAMPBELL,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

Logan is not yet across Lynch's Creek, but the crossing at Kelly's is almost ready, where he has two divisions. After the brigades of infantry were thrown over the water rose so fast that it could not be bridged. It is now subsiding rapidly.

Captain Duncan met two brigades of rebel cavalry near Mount Elon Post-Office, had a severe skirmish, and returned without being able to strike the railroad. Hampton's headquarters are reported at Darlington; Hardee at Cheraw, where a captured letter says a fight is expected some time next week. What force Hardee has I am unable to determine.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

P. S.—Blair is entirely across Lynch's Creek.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 28, 1865.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL, DEPARTMENT OF THE TENNESSEE:

SIR: I have the honor herewith to report that in compliance with Special Orders, No. 51, I assumed command of all the available mounted forces at these headquarters, and marched south on the west side of Lynch's Creek, crossing the same at Dubose's Bridge, and proceeded in the direction of Simonsville, on the Florence and Charleston

* See p. 593.

Railroad, for the purpose of destroying the railroad bridges near that place. Lieut. John A. McQueen, commanding scouts, being in advance, struck the enemy's pickets, eight in number, two miles from Dubose's Bridge, charged and drove them within one mile and a half of Mount Elon, where I learned the enemy, 700 strong, was encamped; I also learned that Butler's division of cavalry was encamped near Wide Swamp. My information was received from negroes and citizens. Colonel Aiken, in command of the Fifth [Sixth] South Carolina Cavalry, coming from the direction of Mount Elon, being advised by the citizens of the strength and direction of our party, followed us, coming up with us at dark at the cross-roads three miles south of Mount Elon, engaged us and was repulsed after a brisk engagement, which was mostly a hand to hand conflict on account of the darkness, we being unable to distinguish friend from foe. List of casualties: Lieut. John A. McQueen, Company K, Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry, commanding scouts, shot through the abdomen; Henry Irish, private, Company K, Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry, shot through the abdomen; William G. Evans, private, Fourth Independent Company Ohio Cavalry, shot through the leg. Missing: Albert White, Fourth Independent Company Ohio Cavalry; Joseph Bedoll, scout; ——— Dawson, scout. The enemy's loss was much greater than ours; among the number Colonel Aiken and Lieutenant Smith were wounded. We captured 1 prisoner, a first sergeant, who stated that their force was 125 or 150 strong. We proceeded south, and deeming it unsafe to remain on the east side of Lynch's Creek, recrossed at Fields' Bridge and encamped at Bishopville, and returned to camp by the Lynch's Creek road. The conduct of the officers and men who accompanied me was unimpeachable.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. DUNCAN,

Captain, Commanding Company K, Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,

Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I have just received a note from General Blair, written at 2.15 p. m. to-day. He was at that time thirteen miles from Cheraw, and going into camp. He found the bridge over the Big Black all right. Prisoners captured by him report six batteries and some other troops at Cheraw—the Charleston garrison. He found the country very barren, and collected breadstuff.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report my position to be the same as of yesterday. My pioneers have been at work throughout the day at the crossing over the river, but will not be able to complete their task before to-morrow. A staff officer sent this forenoon reports the route by way of McCrougan's and Young's Bridges to be in every way practicable, and the road entirely clear.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Maj. Gen. WILLIAM B. HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: On effecting a crossing of Lynch's Creek, the general commanding desires you to move to a good position and await further orders.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Brevet Major-General CORSE,

Commanding Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to transmit herewith a copy of a note* just received from Major-General Howard relative to the advanced position occupied by the Seventeenth Corps and to invite your attention to the imperative necessity of effecting a crossing of Lynch's Creek with your whole command at the earliest moment practicable consistent with the preservation of your ammunition and subsistence.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Lynch's Creek, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that my division has remained in the position occupied by it on the evening of the 26th instant. Most of my train, as you are aware, being cut off from the division by the high water, is the reason for its remaining in bivouac. I have had heavy details at work on the road during the entire day, making it passable for my trains, and shall attempt to cross them at 8 p. m. I have pushed my mounted foraging details well to the front, and from different reports learn that no very important force of the enemy either threatens or is in close proximity to my front, but that a force simply sufficient to watch our movements is in this vicinity.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

* See Van Dyke to Logan, p. 609,

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Lynch's Creek, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Captain WILSON,

Act. Asst. Adj. Gen., First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

CAPTAIN: The trains of this division commenced crossing at 8.30 p. m., and I think we shall succeed in getting them over during the night, although it is quite difficult to judge of ground covered with water.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

TILLER'S BRIDGE, S. C., February 28, 1865—5 a. m.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The water has gone down very slowly. Corse thinks he will be able to commence crossing his train to-night. I do not wish you to push forward beyond Big Black Creek unsupported, as I am uncertain what force Hardee has. Do you hear anything from the Twentieth Corps? Captain Duncan has returned without striking the railroad. He had quite a skirmish near Mount Elon Post-Office. Lieutenant McQueen was badly wounded. Hampton's headquarters are said to be at Darlington. Do you find any supplies?

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Tiller's Bridge, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general to say that it is very doubtful whether General Logan will be able to cross with any of his wagons to-day. A part of the road on the other side of the creek, which was thought to be solid, has given way and it will be very difficult to corduroy it, as it is under water. You will govern your movements accordingly. The general does not desire you to move out too far to-day. It may be that we will have to take advantage of your crossing; would do it immediately, but that the crossing of Little Lynch is as bad as this.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Thirteen Miles from Cheraw, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: Butler's division of rebel cavalry passed up the Camden and Cheraw road, about two miles and a half from my camp, about 5 o'clock this p. m. A prisoner, taken in a skirmish with them, reports that they are going to Cheraw and are about 1,200 strong. The Ninth Illinois found the enemy (infantry) in line about four miles and a half this side of Cheraw. Their line was over half a mile long. The Ninth Illinois skirmished with them until they found their strength, and then returned to camp. The cars have been running in and out of Cheraw all day, and the whistle blowing continually.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

P. S.—Deserters report that the garrisons of Wilmington and Charleston collecting at Cheraw are strong, and that they expect to make a stand there.

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

General Joe Johnston is in command at Cheraw; Beauregard and Hardee are there also.

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Thirteen Miles from Cheraw, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to inform you that there will probably be no movement to-morrow. He wishes you to load your empty wagons with corn if possible, sending strong guards with trains.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Thirteen Miles from Cheraw, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding instructs me to direct you to intrench your front line to-night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant.

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Hanging Rock, S. C., February 28, 1865—7 a. m.
Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: Yours of 10 p. m. 27th just received. General Sherman instructs me to say General Kilpatrick is still at Lancaster. When General Davis passes this road you should notify General Kilpatrick, in order that he may conform his movements to General Davis'.

I am, general, with respect, &c.,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CIRCULAR.] HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Crossing of Catawba River, February 28, 1865.

The delay at this point renders necessary the utmost energy to retrieve lost time. Every means must be taken to prepare the command for rapid and forced marching. All carriages, buggies, forage wagons, ox teams, and other unauthorized vehicles, must be immediately destroyed. Any mules required by circular of February 19 to be turned over to Colonel Moore, commanding pontoniers, and not yet turned over, will be at once sent to him, even if it requires the abandonment of transportation, and if any additional mules can be sent to him from any command it will be highly appreciated by the corps commander. The mobility and the efficiency of the pontoon train is of vital importance to the movements of the army.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 FIELD ORDERS, } Crossing Catawba River, S. C.,
 No. 17. } February 28, 1865.

The advance will be resumed to-day as follows:

General Morgan will march immediately upon the road via Warrenton, thoroughly repairing it as he goes, for the passage of the trains of the corps, and will advance as far as he thinks he can bring up his trains to-night. His trains will be given the advance. The reserve artillery and ammunition trains will be reported to General Morgan and will move in rear of his division and under his orders.

General Baird will be at once relieved from duty on the roads near the river by General Carlin, and will move to a position in advance of the present camp of General Morgan. As soon as the fifth chains for his wagons can be obtained from the bridge he will push on with his trains in rear of General Morgan.

General Carlin, relieving General Baird with two of his brigades, will urge on the passage of the trains and troops, and will post a battery on the heights to cover the passage of his rear brigade and the raising of the pontoon bridge. He will receive further orders during the day.

The delay caused by the breaking of the bridge, and the consequent wide separation of the corps from the remainder of the army, makes it imperative upon all to push the advance now with the utmost energy and rapidity.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 FIELD ORDERS, } Crossing Catawba River, S. C.,
 No. 18. } February 28, 1865.

The corps will move to-morrow as follows:

General Morgan, marching at daybreak, will push forward as rapidly as possible on the road taken by the Twentieth Corps.

General Baird, marching at daylight, will follow General Morgan.

General Carlin will follow General Baird.

The reserve artillery and ammunition trains will move with and report to General Morgan until further orders.

Corps headquarters trains will move in the rear of General Baird.

Each division commander will take charge of his own supply train, and until further orders, starting at daylight each morning, will make the greatest distance possible each day (without changing the order of march), reporting position to the corps commander every evening.

From all information obtained the corps commander believes that no considerable force threatens our flanks. Each division commander will, therefore, at once drive off any bands that may harass his march and push forward without delay.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS.

February 28, 1865.

Lieut. Col. A. C. McCLURG,

Asst. Adjt. Gen. and Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: I know the general commanding is uneasy about the roads. I have reached the point where the corduroying of the Twentieth Corps commenced. I see no difficulty whatever in passing the trains of the corps over the road up to this place. I consider it a perfect God's country compared with the infernal hills about the Catawba River. Every effort will be made to push forward as far as possible to night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,
Brigadier-General.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,

Near Horton's Store, S. C., February 28, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow to Miller's Bridge, over Lynch's Creek, in the following order: First Division, Third Division, Second Division. General Jackson will start at 6.30 a. m. General Ward will leave his present camp early enough to close up to the rear of the train of the First Division. The troops of the First Division will march unencumbered in the advance. General Ward will distribute his troops so as to cover the trains of the First and Third Divisions. General Jackson will use his troops to repair all the bad places in the road, but the troops of the other divisions must be kept with the trains and in readiness to make any necessary repairs to the road. General Geary will march one brigade as a rear guard. One section of artillery will march with the rear guard, the balance of the artillery in the same order as in the march of to-day. The artillery ammunition train will march in rear of the train of the First Division.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. CAVALRY COMMAND, MIL. DIV. OF THE MISS.,

In the Field, February 28, 1865—3 p. m.

[Major-General SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:]

GENERAL: I have the honor to forward you General Hampton's reply to your communication of yesterday.* I still hold Lancaster, and send you map indicating the position of my brigades. Hampton's forces seem to be holding Cane Creek. I am pushing a reconnaissance to-day well up the Charlotte road, and in direction of Monroe. My people have been as far up as the cross-roads at Plyer's, Nelson's, and Metler's, marked by stars on the map, and driven in the enemy's pickets. They are still advancing, with orders to push up the country as far as possible. Up to last evening the enemy felt certain that we were moving toward Charlotte, and I think my demonstrations of to-day will keep him of that opinion. Davis' stragglers are now coming into my column. I therefore infer that he is past Pleasant Hill Post-Office by this; he certainly has had time. I have sent out scouting parties to find out what progress he has made. I have eaten out the country about Lancaster, and here it is mighty poor. It won't pay to halt long at one place. I hope that General Davis will be so far advanced as to allow me to cross Lynch's Creek to-morrow. Please indicate to me the road upon which General Davis will march after crossing Lynch's Creek. I received this morning twenty of my prisoners in exchange for an equal number sent General Wheeler yesterday; in all, he has taken from me but one officer and thirty men since entering upon the present campaign. I have, over and above that number, seventy of his men and four commissioned officers. As I feel confident that I can keep even with him or Hampton in prisoners, if you will give permission, and any of the corps commanders desire it, for infantry officers and soldiers now in Wheeler's hands I will exchange the prisoners I now have on hand. Three infantry soldiers belonging to the Twentieth Army Corps represented themselves as belonging to my cavalry, and were exchanged last evening. They will be sent to their corps as soon as possible.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. KILPATRICK,

Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

Savannah, Ga., February 28, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,

Commanding, &c., Hilton Head:

DEAR GENERAL: Your dispatch of yesterday is just received. General Beckwith thinks we cannot depend on the navy to furnish us promptly with any information they may gather of General Sherman's movements, and that on this account it would be very well to keep a dispatch boat at Georgetown, with orders to report without delay. We do not think it very likely that General Sherman will communicate through Georgetown; but as he distinctly directed a lookout to be kept for him there we wish not to lose any of the chances. We hear nothing from the interior or from Hood's army. Please inform me at once of any news from Wilmington or other point on the coast north of you. The break in the telegraph isolates us. Any important news might be sent by special boat from Fort Pulaski. All very quiet here.

* See p. 596.

Very respectfully, your most obedient,

J. D. WEBSTER,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Brig. Gen. JOHN P. HATCH,
Comdg. Northern Dist., Dept. of the South, Charleston, S. C. :

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that another regiment be sent to Georgetown without delay, so that that place shall be occupied by from 600 to 800 men, with instructions to intrench themselves. The major-general commanding also directs that Colonel Hallowell's brigade, as organized in the return of the Coast Division of February 4, be sent at once to Savannah, to report to Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. Grover. If the above changes render it necessary, you are authorized to withdraw General Potter's brigade from the front, but no time must be lost in making said changes. The major-general commanding further directs that a dispatch boat be sent to Georgetown to be used in carrying information or dispatches in case of necessity. It is important that any news from General Sherman's army requiring action on the part of the major-general commanding should be sent to him without delay.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 8. }

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 28, 1865.

I. All loyal citizens of the United States residing in Charleston or its vicinity are invited to call at the office of the post provost-marshal and register their names, take the oath of allegiance to the Government, and receive certificates of having done so.

II. Post or brigade commanders will grant no passes or other favors to persons (owing allegiance to the United States) who have not, by taking the oath, shown their loyalty to the Government.

III. No guards will be placed over the houses of citizens for the protection of private property. Any person fearing molestation will best secure their property by placing in some conspicuous position on the premises the flag of the United States. Persons detected in depredating on houses so protected will be punished with additional severity.

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. E. POTTER,
Commanding Division :

Please send the detachment of the Twenty-first now with you to this city to report to Colonel Woodford as soon as Colonel Van Wyck has joined you. It is reported that there is quite a large body of the rebel cavalry on the Halfway Creek road. If this is confirmed by reports you may receive try and capture or disperse them. I will try to keep your troops supplied with rations by the Cooper and Wando Rivers.

JNO. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS PROVISIONAL DIVISION,
In the Field, Saint Stephen's Station, S. C.,
February 28, 1865—8 a. m.

General SCHIMMELFENNIG:

A railroad employé who came across the Santee last night reports that the enemy has left the other side of the river. The last of their infantry was about leaving Kingstree per rail for Cheraw. The cavalry and artillery marched by the road. He also reports Sherman forty miles north of Columbia, on the road to Charlotte. Beauregard is in his front, endeavoring to check him until the rebel forces can concentrate at Charlotte. The report of the capture of Wilmington is confirmed. I think it evident that Sherman intends to move directly to Raleigh without making any base at Charleston or Georgetown. In this event it would be impossible for me to overtake and communicate with him by crossing the Santee at this point and following the retreating rebels. They would always be between Sherman and this force. A more probable means of communicating with him would be by following his route from Columbia. The officer in charge of the steamer Bennett, with rations for this command, reported here last evening. All my wagons, nine in number, are on their way here with ammunition. I have ordered all the carts to go to the landing on the western branch, and bring what rations they can from the Bennett. Is it intended that the railroad bridges and trestles should be rebuilt, and if so, when will that work be probably finished? The constant rains will make the roads almost impassable, and with my present means of transportation I shall not be able to bring supplies, even from the western branch of Cooper River. There is nothing to prevent the tin-clads from coming up the Santee to this point. I must again request that the telegraph operator be sent here from Goose Creek. I have sent orders to him directly, but hear nothing of him. The telegraph wire is broken in one place only, I believe, between Saint Stephen's and Monk's Corner, and I think it is very little injured between the last place and Goose Creek. I shall order Major Place and the guard which was left at Goose Creek to rejoin their command. The small guard which is needed at the Goose Creek bridge can better be furnished from Charleston. If it be the intention to reconstruct the trestle-works below Saint Stephen's I can order Lieutenant-Colonel Fox, Fifty-fifth Massachusetts Volunteers, who is a civil engineer, to commence the work. There is plenty of timber here already framed for the trestles. Will you have the goodness to forward a copy of this dispatch to the major-general commanding.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD E. POTTER,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

P. S.—A small guard from the One hundred and forty-fourth New York Volunteers was left at Mount Pleasant. I should like to have them returned to their regiment as soon as possible.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, February 28, 1865.

Col. C. H. VAN WYCK,
Commanding Brigade, Goose Creek:

Leave three companies of your command as a guard at Goose Creek. If the troops now there as a guard belong to the Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops, order them to report to Colonel Woodford, in Charleston. If they are part of a regiment with General Potter, order them to report to him at Monk's Corner.

JNO. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Col. E. N. HALLOWELL,
Commanding Brigade:

COLONEL: You will send early this morning four companies of the best disciplined troops in your command under command of a discreet officer on the road toward Goose Creek to a point known as Thirteen-Mile Hill. It is represented that the blacks there are committing murders. The officer in command will be directed to induce the lately freed people to come into the city. He is authorized to seize any transportation he may find to convey the young, and those unable to travel, and the necessary baggage. He will enforce the strictest discipline in his own command, allowing no straggling or marauding. If necessary to prevent the latter he will make immediate example of such men as are found violating these orders, even to the extreme penalty of death. A strict guard must be kept over camp the night the command is absent. One day's rations will be taken and the command will return the following day.

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen.

HDQRS. PROVISIONAL DIVISION, SHERMAN'S ARMY,
Blair's Landing, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Captain BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the South:

CAPTAIN: I sent a reconnoitering party some thirty miles up the road from Pocotaligo Station (Sherman's road), which was unable to hear of any force whatever on the 26th. On the 27th Lieutenant-Colonel Henry, commanding at Pocotaligo Station, reports:

I have information from contrabands of a force of rebels said to number some 300 to 500, composed of infantry and cavalry, commanded by Colonel Roberts (of Colonel Colcock's command of cavalry) and Captain Mickler, with a squad of infantry. They are near Beech Branch (twenty-five miles northwest from Coosawhatchie Station) and are scouting the country in that direction.

The sergeant in command of twenty-three men at Garden's Corners reports the station attacked with musketry for three hours night before last. No loss. I have sent a company there to remain and reconnoiter.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

HENRY PRINCE,
Brigadier-General of Volunteers, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., February 28, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,

Comdg. Savannah Dist., Dept. of the South, Savannah, Ga.:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you hold two brigades of your command that can be best spared in readiness to embark, to be sent beyond the limits of this department. You will call in all detailed men belonging to the regiments of these brigades, and report by letter and by telegraph the brigades thus selected and their aggregate strength. Four hundred men belonging to your command arrived to-day from the North and will be forwarded to you at once. A sufficient force necessary to replace the above brigades will be sent to Savannah without delay. Steamers will be sent to Savannah to-morrow to receive one brigade and transportation for the balance as soon as possible.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Wilmington, February 28, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,

Commanding Armies of the United States, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: I have just received your letter of the 24th. Please accept my thanks for your generous appreciation of our success in the capture of Wilmington. My latest information of General Sherman is that on the 24th one of his main columns was about midway between Columbia and Charlotte, and the other seventeen miles from Camden on the road to Fayetteville. This comes from the mail carrier from Fayetteville, and is thought by those who know him to be reliable. I had supposed General Sherman farther advanced, but the roads are bad, and he probably has to move quite slowly. Very heavy rains have fallen lately. The roads in this region are very bad, but they will dry very quickly after the rain ceases. In the region General Sherman is marching through the mud will last much longer. I have men out to get information of his movements, but I find it extremely difficult to obtain any one at all trustworthy who is willing to carry a dispatch to him; but I hope to get one to-morrow. General Sherman can send to me much more easily, and no doubt has already done so. Hardee was ordered to this place from Charleston, but we came in just in time to cut him off. He then turned toward Fayetteville. I think Hoke will go in the same direction, and both try to unite with Beauregard about Greensborough. This I derive from a telegraph operator's report of the correspondence between Bragg and Hardee the day before we got Wilmington. My wagons and animals are coming very slowly. Storm and fog have made it impossible to cross Cape Fear bar for nearly all the time for several days. It must be four or five days yet before we can fairly begin work on the railroad. I had hoped much more from Palmer's movement, but he has done nothing. Instead of pushing out as ordered, he came here to see me about it, and was detained by the fog. He probably did not get back until to-day. I sent Cox back with him with orders to take command and move forward at once, so that the railroad could be repaired. I intend to move from here by the 5th or 6th with whatever transportation I can get by that time. If the railroad here is not ready for me I will push through and unite with Cox, unless I learn that Sherman is coming this way to get supplies here. His instructions to Colonel Wright were to have the road to Goldsborough ready for him by the 15th of March. That I think we can make, and will do more if possible. I hope when General Sherman hears I have Wilmington he will come in as far as Fayetteville. Then we will be all right, and can unite whenever we please. The cavalry has begun to arrive. A regiment will do very well for the present.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
No. 9. } Wilmington, N. C., February 28, 1865.

Lient. Col. J. W. Barriger, commissary of subsistence, is announced as a member of the departmental staff, and will relieve Lient. Col. R. B. Treat, commissary of subsistence, as chief commissary of subsistence, Department of North Carolina.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Wilmington, N. C., February 28, 1865.

Major-General Cox:

GENERAL: I am sorry for your detention in getting started, but it was unavoidable. McQuiston's brigade did not get off until to-day, but do not wait for it. Time is very important. General Grant is very much disappointed at Palmer's tardiness. He was expected to have Kinston by the time we got Wilmington. I rely upon you to regain what has been lost. Let nothing detain you.

Yours, truly,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SECOND AND THIRD DIVISIONS,
TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
No. 1. } Wilmington, N. C., February 28, 1865.

In accordance with Special Orders, No. 16, paragraph 2, current series, headquarters Department of North Carolina, the undersigned hereby assumes command of the Second and Third Divisions of the Twenty-third Army Corps. Reports, returns, and official correspondence will be forwarded through these headquarters.

D. N. COUCH,

Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS PROVISIONAL CORPS,
No. 45. } Northeast Station, N. C., February 28, 1865.

I. In accordance with the suggestion of Major-General Schofield, commanding the department, corps headquarters will be temporarily established at Wilmington, and all official papers from the command will be forwarded thither. Division commanders are authorized to grant passes to cross our lines or to go to Wilmington. In the event of any military movement, Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. Ames will assume command of the troops at the front until the arrival of the major-general commanding. The corps officer of the day will be furnished this day from General Ames' command, to-morrow and the day following from General Paine's command, and again in the same succession until further orders, the detail being made from officers above the rank of major, not including brigade commanders. The old and new officers of the day will meet daily at 3 p. m. at headquarters Second Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, for the purpose of exchanging instructions, and will communicate immediately to division commanders all matters of importance occurring during their tour of duty. They will forward, through their division commanders, a written report to these headquarters. Until further orders the Sixteenth New York Light Battery will report to Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. Ames, commanding Second Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, and Light Company E, Third U. S. Artillery, to Brig. Gen. Charles J. Paine, commanding Third Division, Twenty-fifth Army Corps.

By order of Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry:

A. TERRY,

Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ( HDQRS. DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
No. 59. ) New Berne, N. C., February 28, 1865.

* * * * *

VI. The Ninth New Jersey Volunteers will proceed at once to New Berne, the commanding officer reporting on arrival at these headquarters. Quartermaster's department will furnish transportation.

VII. The section of the Third New York Artillery now serving in the Sub-District of Beaufort will proceed at once to join their regiment at New Berne. Quartermaster's department will furnish transportation.

VIII. The Seventeenth Massachusetts Volunteers will proceed at once to New Berne, the commanding officer reporting on arrival to Brig. Gen. S. P. Carter, U. S. Volunteers. Quartermaster's department will furnish transportation.

IX. The headquarters of the First North Carolina (Union) Volunteers (this includes the old Second North Carolina Volunteers also) will be located at Morehead City, where all of that regiment, including the company ordered up from Hatteras, will at once be concentrated and encamped, except one company, which will be stationed at Beaufort and which will constitute the only garrison of that place. All other troops now at Beaufort will at once be transferred to Morehead City.

X. The commanding officer Second Massachusetts Artillery will send one company of his regiment to garrison Fort Macon. The commanding officer of that company will receive from the officer he relieves all the ordnance and ordnance stores and other public property pertaining to that post. The present commanding officer is directed to turn over the same, as of such condition as the receiving officer may see fit to determine.

* * * * *

By command of Brig. Gen. I. N. Palmer:

J. A. JUDSON,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

Abstract from returns of the U. S. forces under the immediate command of Maj. Gen. William T. Sherman, U. S. Army, for February 28, 1865.

Command.	Present for duty.*		Aggregate present.	Aggregate present and absent.	Pieces of field artillery.
	Officers.	Men.
General and staff .....	17	.....	17	17	.....
7th Company Ohio Sharpshooters .....	2	66	78	95	.....
1st Michigan Engineers (ten companies) .....	37	1,057	1,354	1,740	.....
1st Missouri Engineers (five companies) .....	10	310	471	566	.....
Army of the Tennessee:
General and staff .....	21	.....	21	27	.....
Escort .....	4	47	94	140	.....
Signal detachment (McClintock) .....	3	24	27	31	.....
Fifteenth Army Corps (Logan) .....	773	14,739	18,320	28,714	18
Seventeenth Army Corps (Blair) .....	448	11,142	13,067	25,099	14
Total Right Wing (Howard) .....	1,249	25,952	31,529	54,011	32
Army of Georgia:
General and staff .....	6	.....	6	8	.....
Pontoniers (Downey) .....	25	457	727	909	.....
Fourteenth Army Corps (Davis) .....	578	13,776	16,108	27,825	16
Twentieth Army Corps (Williams) .....	652	13,051	15,512	28,682	16
Total Left Wing (Slocum) .....	1,261	27,284	32,353	57,424	32
Cavalry (Kilpatrick) .....	177	4,259	5,156	9,354	6
Grand total .....	2,753	58,928	70,958	123,207	70

* For the effective strength, see Part I, p. 43.

[FEBRUARY 28, 1865.—For organization of troops under the immediate command of Maj. Gen. William T. Sherman, covering this date, see Part I, p. 46.]

Abstract from returns of the Department of North Carolina, Maj. Gen. John M. Schofield, U. S. Army, commanding, for February 28, 1865.

[Compiled mainly from subordinate returns.]

Command.	Present for duty.		Aggregate present.	Aggregate present and absent.	Pieces of artillery.
	Officers.	Men.			Heavy.	Field.
General and staff .....	9	.....	9	10	.....	.....
Company G, Seventh Ohio Cavalry (Ashbury) .....	3	64	64	87	.....	.....
Detachment Signal Corps (Daniels) .....	6	16	23	141	.....	.....
Twenty-third Army Corps (Schofield) .....	706	13,781	16,389	27,196	.....	(*)
Provisional Army Corps (Terry) .....	343	9,815	11,570	22,798	.....	10
District of North Carolina (Palmer) .....	248	6,478	8,439	12,148	101	63
Total .....	1,315	30,154	36,494	62,380	101	73
Total according to department return .....	1,145	28,947	34,003	61,701	.....	.....

* Not reported.

Organization of troops in the Department of North Carolina (Army of the Ohio), commanded by Maj. Gen. John M. Schofield, U. S. Army, February 28, 1865.

ESCORT.

7th Ohio Cavalry, Company G, Capt. John A. Ashbury.

SIGNAL CORPS.

Capt. NAHUM DANIELS.

TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS.

Maj. Gen. JOHN M. SCHOFIELD.

ENGINEER BATTALION.*

Capt. OLIVER S. McCLURE.

FIRST DIVISION.

Brig. Gen. THOMAS H. RUGER.

First Brigade.

Col. JOHN M. ORR.

120th Indiana, Col. Allen W. Prather.
124th Indiana, Lieut. Col. Henry H. Neff.
128th Indiana, Lieut. Col. Jasper Packard.
180th Ohio, Col. Willard Warner.

Second Brigade.

Col. JOHN C. MCQUISTON.

123d Indiana, Lieut. Col. Dewitt C. Walters.
129th Indiana, Col. Charles A. Zollinger.
130th Indiana, Col. Charles S. Parrish.
28th Michigan, Col. William W. Wheeler.

Third Brigade.

Col. MINOR T. THOMAS.

8th Minnesota, Capt. George F. Pettit.
174th Ohio, Col. John S. Jones.
178th Ohio, Col. Joab A. Stafford.

Artillery.

Indiana Light, 22d Battery, Capt. Edward W. Nicholson.
1st Michigan Light, Battery F, Capt. Byron D. Paddock.

SECOND DIVISION.†

Brig. Gen. NATHANIEL C. McLEAN.

First Brigade.

Brig. Gen. JOSEPH A. COOPER.

26th Kentucky, Col. Thomas B. Fairleigh.
25th Michigan, Col. Orlando H. Moore.
6th Tennessee (seven companies), Lieut. Col. Edward Maynard.

Second Brigade.

Col. JOHN MEHRINGER.

107th Illinois, Maj. Thomas J. Milholland.
80th Indiana, Lieut. Col. Alfred D. Owen.
23d Michigan, Col. Oliver L. Spaulding.
111th Ohio, Capt. Henry J. McCord.
118th Ohio, Lieut. Col. Edgar Sowers.

Third Brigade.

Col. SILAS A. STRICKLAND.

91st Indiana, Lieut. Col. Charles H. Butterfield.
50th Ohio, Capt. John S. Conahan.
181st Ohio, Maj. James T. Hickey.
183d Ohio, Col. George W. Hoge.

Artillery.

Indiana Light, 15th Battery, Capt. Alonzo D. Harvey.
Ohio Light, 19th Battery, Capt. Frank Wilson.

* Composed of details from infantry regiments.

† Maj. Gen. Darius N. Couch, in command of the Second and Third Divisions.

THIRD DIVISION.

Brig. Gen. JAMES W. REILLY.

Provost Guard.

100th Ohio, Company F, Lieut. John P. Denny.

First Brigade.

Col. OSCAR W. STERL.

12th Kentucky, Lieut. Col. Laurence H. Rousseau.
 16th Kentucky, Lieut. Col. John S. White.
 100th Ohio, Capt. Frank Rundell.
 104th Ohio, Lieut. Col. William J. Jordan.
 8th Tennessee, Capt. James W. Berry.

Second Brigade.

Col. ARTHUR T. WILCOX.

65th Illinois, Lieut. Col. William S. Stewart.
 65th Indiana, Lieut. Col. John W. Hammond.
 103d Ohio, Capt. Henry S. Pickands.
 177th Ohio, Lieut. Col. William H. Zimmerman.
 5th Tennessee, Lieut. Col. Nathaniel Witt.

Third Brigade.

Col. THOMAS J. HENDERSON.

112th Illinois, Lieut. Col. Emery S. Bond.
 63d Indiana, Lieut. Col. Daniel Morris.
 140th Indiana, Col. Thomas J. Brady.

Artillery.

Indiana Light, 23d Battery, Capt. James H. Myers.
 1st Ohio Light, Battery D, Lieut. Cecil C. Reed.

PROVISIONAL ARMY CORPS.

Maj. Gen. ALFRED H. TERRY.

SIGNAL CORPS.

Lieut. FREDERICK E. BEARDSLEE.

ENGINEERS.

15th New York, Companies A and I, Lieut. Keefe S. O'Keefe.

SECOND BRIGADE, FIRST DIVISION, TWENTY-FOURTH ARMY CORPS.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. JOSEPH C. ABBOTT.

6th Connecticut, Lieut. Col. Daniel Klein.
 7th Connecticut, Lieut. Col. Seager S. Atwell.
 3d New Hampshire, Lieut. Col. James F. Randlett.
 7th New Hampshire, Lieut. Col. Augustus W. Rollins.
 16th New York Heavy Artillery (six companies), Maj. Frederick W. Prince.

SECOND DIVISION, TWENTY-FOURTH ARMY CORPS.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. ADELBERT AMES.

First Brigade.

Col. RUFUS DAGGETT.

3d New York, Lieut. George E. Avent.
 112th New York, Lieut. Col. Ephraim A. Ludwick.
 117th New York, Capt. Edward Downer.
 142d New York, Col. Albert M. Barney.

Second Brigade.

Lieut. Col. JAMES A. COLVIN.

47th New York, Capt. Frank A. Butts.
 48th New York, Capt. Van Rensselaer K. Hilliard.
 76th Pennsylvania, Maj. Charles Knerr.
 97th Pennsylvania, Capt. William H. Martin.
 203d Pennsylvania, Lieut. Col. Amos W. Bachman.

Third Brigade.

Col. G. FREDERICK GRANGER.

13th Indiana (seven companies), Lieut. Col. Samuel M. Zent.
 9th Maine, Lieut. Col. Joseph Noble.
 4th New Hampshire, Lieut. Col. Frank W. Parker.
 115th New York, Lieut. Col. Nathan J. Johnson.
 169th New York, Capt. Edwin R. Smith.

THIRD DIVISION, TWENTY-FIFTH ARMY CORPS.

Brig. Gen. CHARLES J. PAINE.

First Brigade.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. DELEVAN BATES.

1st U. S. Colored Troops, * Lieut. Col.
 Giles H. Rich.
 30th U. S. Colored Troops, † Lieut. Col.
 Hiram A. Oakman.
 107th U. S. Colored Troops, Col. William
 H. Revere, jr.

Second Brigade.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. SAMUEL A. DUNCAN.

4th U. S. Colored Troops, Lieut. Col.
 George Rogers.
 6th U. S. Colored Troops, Col. John W.
 Ames.
 39th U. S. Colored Troops, Col. Ozora P.
 Stearns.

Third Brigade.

Col. JOHN H. HOLMAN.

5th U. S. Colored Troops, Maj. William R. Brazie.
 10th U. S. Colored Troops, Lieut. Col. Edward H. Powell.
 27th U. S. Colored Troops, Lieut. Col. John W. Donnellau.
 37th U. S. Colored Troops, Col. Nathan Goff, jr.

ARTILLERY.

1st Connecticut Heavy, Companies B, G, and L, Capt. William G. Pride.
 2d Pennsylvania Heavy, Company A, Capt. Benjamin F. Everett.
 New York Light, 16th Battery, Capt. Richard H. Lee.
 3d United States, Battery E, Lieut. John R. Myrick.

CAVALRY.

20th New York, Company I, Capt. John J. Carroll.

DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Brig. Gen. INNIS N. PALMER.

SUB-DISTRICT OF NEW BERNE.

Brig. Gen. EDWARD HARLAND.

15th Connecticut, Col. Charles L. Upham.
 23d Massachusetts, Lieut. Col. John W. Raymond.
 25th Massachusetts (four companies), Capt. Samuel Harrington.
 27th Massachusetts, Lieut. Col. Walter G. Bartholomew.
 99th New York (three companies), } Col. Peter J. Claassen.
 132d New York, }
 1st North Carolina (two companies), Capt. Richard J. Allen.
 12th New York Cavalry, Lieut. Col. Philip G. Vought.
 23d New York Cavalry, Company A, Capt. Emory Cummings.
 2d Massachusetts Heavy Artillery (detachment), Lieut. Col. Augustus B. R. Sprague.
 3d New York Light Artillery (detachment), Col. Charles H. Stewart.
 New York Light Artillery, 23d Battery, Capt. Alfred Ransom.
 5th Rhode Island Heavy Artillery (ten companies), Lieut. Col. George W. Tew.

* Temporarily attached to Third Brigade.

† Temporarily attached to Second Brigade.

ROANOKE ISLAND.

Col. THEODORE F. LEHMANN.

- 16th Connecticut (detachment), Capt. Joseph H. Barnum.
 101st Pennsylvania (two companies), Lieut. Edgar Lee.
 103d Pennsylvania (detachment), Col. Theodore F. Lehmann.
 5th Rhode Island Heavy Artillery, Company D, Lieut. Moses O. Darling.
 5th Rhode Island Heavy Artillery, Company K, Capt. Emelius de Meulen.
 New York Light Artillery, 24th Battery, Lieut. William S. Camp.

SUB-DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT.

Col. JAMES STEWART, Jr.

- 17th Massachusetts, Lieut. Col. Henry Splaine.
 9th New Jersey, Maj. Samuel Hufty.
 1st North Carolina (detachment), Col. Joseph M. McChesney.
 1st North Carolina Colored Heavy Artillery, Maj. William A. Moore.
 3d New York Light Artillery, Battery C (section), Lieut. Enoch Jones.

PLYMOUTH.

- 2d Massachusetts Heavy Artillery (four companies), Col. Jones Frankle.

PROVISIONAL DIVISION, ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE.

Brig. Gen. THOMAS F. MEAGHER.

Abstract from returns of the Department of the South, Maj. Gen. Quincy A. Gillmore, U. S. Army, commanding, for February 28, 1865.

[Compiled mainly from subordinate returns]

Command.	Present for duty.		Aggregate present.	Aggregate present and absent.	Pieces of artillery.
	Officers.	Men.			Heavy.	Field.
General headquarters .....	59	82	142	147
First New York Engineers (battalion, Place) .....	7	559	564	600
First Separate Brigade (Hatch) .....	60	2,340	3,375	6,543
Second Separate Brigade (Guernsey) .....	52	1,655	1,925	2,293
Third Separate Brigade (Littlefield) .....				1,854
Fourth Separate Brigade (Scammon) .....	47	1,356	1,652	3,993
District of Savannah (Grover) .....	160	3,856	5,054	8,846
Total .....	385	9,828	12,732	24,186
Total according to department return .....	384	9,596	12,474	23,881

Organization of troops in the Department of the South, commanded by Maj. Gen. Quincy A. Gillmore, U. S. Army, February 28, 1865.

FIRST SEPARATE BRIGADE.†

Brig. Gen. JOHN P. HATCH.

- 54th Massachusetts (colored), Maj. George Pope.
 55th Massachusetts (colored), Lieut. Col. Charles B. Fox.
 54th New York, Maj. Stephen Kovacs.
 56th New York, Maj. Eliphas Smith.
 52d Pennsylvania, Maj. John A. Hennessy.
 21st U. S. Colored Troops, Capt. Henry Sharp.
 33d U. S. Colored Troops, Capt. Niles G. Parker.
 3d New York Light Artillery, Battery B, Capt. Thomas J. Mescreau.
 3d Rhode Island Heavy Artillery, First Battalion, Lieut. Col. William Ames.

* The troops constituting the Provisional Division, commanded by Brig. Gen. Edward E. Potter, are not indicated on the returns.

† Or Northern District. Brig. Gen. Alexander Schimmelfennig commanding Defenses of Charleston.

SECOND SEPARATE BRIGADE.*

Lieut. Col. WILLIAM B. GUERNSEY.†

26th U. S. Colored Troops, Maj. Ira Winans.

32d U. S. Colored Troops, Col. George W. Baird.

3d Rhode Island Heavy Artillery, Company A, Capt. William H. Hamner.

2d U. S. Colored Light Artillery, Battery G, Capt. Jeremiah S. Clark.

THIRD SEPARATE BRIGADE ‡

Bvt. Brig. Gen. MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD.

114th New York, Col. James Lewis.

25th Ohio, Lieut. Col. Nathaniel Haughton.

FOURTH SEPARATE BRIGADE.§

Brig. Gen. ELIAKIM P. SCAMMON.

17th Connecticut, Maj. Henry Allen.

75th Ohio (two companies), Capt. William J. Rannels.

107th Ohio, Capt. Philip Setzler.

3d U. S. Colored Troops, Col. Benjamin C. Tilghman.

34th U. S. Colored Troops, Lieut. Col. William W. Marple.

35th U. S. Colored Troops, Lieut. Col. Ammiel J. Willard.

4th Massachusetts Cavalry, Second Battalion, Capt. George R. Hurlbut.

3d New York Light Artillery, Battery F, Capt. Samuel C. Day.

DISTRICT OF SAVANNAH.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. CUYIER GROVER.

SECOND DIVISION, NINETEENTH ARMY CORPS.

Brig. Gen. HENRY W. BIRGE.

First Brigade.

Col. HENRY D. WASHBURN.

9th Connecticut (four companies), Capt. William A. Lee.

8th Indiana, Maj. John R. Polk.

18th Indiana, Capt. Doil R. Bowden.

12th Maine (four companies), Lieut. Col. Edwin Hsley.

14th Maine (four companies), Capt. John K. Laing.

14th New Hampshire, Maj. Flavel L. Tolman.

75th New York (five companies), Lieut. Col. Robert P. York.

Second Brigade.

Col. NICHOLAS W. DAY.

13th Connecticut (five companies), Capt. William E. Bradley.

22d Iowa, Col. Harvey Graham.

28th Iowa, Lieut. Col. Bartholomew W. Wilson.

131st New York, Capt. Thomas Tileston.

159th New York, Lieut. Col. William Waltermire.

* Or District of Beaufort.

† Temporarily commanding in absence of Brig. Gen. Edward E. Potter, commanding Provisional Division in the field.

‡ Or District of Hilton Head.

§ Or District of Florida.

Third Brigade.

Lieut. Col. JAMES P. RICHARDSON.

24th Iowa, Lieut. Col. Edward Wright.
 38th Massachusetts, Capt. William H. Jewell.
 128th New York, Capt. Henry H. Sincerbox.
 156th New York, Capt. Alfred Cooley.
 175th New York (five companies), Capt. Charles McCarthey.
 176th New York, Maj. Charles Lewis.

UNASSIGNED.

1st New York Engineers, First Battalion, Maj. James E. Place.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Ferily's Bridge, Lynch's Creek, March 1, 1865.

General O. O. HOWARD,

Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: Slocum has the Twentieth here across Lynch's Creek, and a good bridge. Davis is across the Catawba, and ought to be about fifteen miles behind us. To-morrow all will move forward fifteen miles, which will bring us near Chesterfield, next day at Cheraw, Davis in the meantime closing his gap; push Blair straight on Cheraw; with the Fifteenth Corps move on the same point, careful to reach the railroad below Cheraw and break it, then on Cheraw. We will cross to the north of Cheraw. The enemy cannot hold Cheraw against us, because it is on a branch road and we can insulate it. Johnston, if there, will not fight with a bridge behind him. We may have to cross the Pedee with a serious enemy in front, but we must not allow the Confederates time to fortify Cheraw. I know Hampton was in person above Lancaster; also Wheeler. I had an original communication from Wade Hampton yesterday, and he is still watching Kilpatrick, who is at Lancaster till Davis gets past. Push with all energy straight on Cheraw, cutting its road below, and I will be up on the 3d instant.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

[Indorsements.]

Please read and return.

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Push what available mounted men you have to the head of Corse's column.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Tiller's Bridge, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: In the event of my being able to cross General Woods' division at this bridge, is it the desire of the general commanding to have him move to New Market to fill up his supply train? I have directed him to march to that point unless he shall receive other orders. General Corse has been ordered to move to Black Creek on the main Camden and Cheraw road.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Lynch's Creek, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to inform you that we began crossing this afternoon, and passed the whole of General Corse's train and one brigade with headquarters of the First Division. The place where the pontoon was laid has cut badly, and we are now building a bridge, but will have it completed to-night, and everything across to-morrow. General Corse has moved out and is now on Black Creek, where he will await orders. I shall move in the morning with this division to New Market, as indicated in a previous note. My headquarters have crossed the creek.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

---

P. S.—From where General Corse is in camp to New Market it is but six miles, with good roads on each side of the creek.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Tiller's Bridge, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that one of my brigades is now over the river, and that the balance of my command has been moved down to the crossing so as to be convenient when the bridge, which I am now building, may be finished. It will not be completed before 12 o'clock. I shall begin crossing as soon as it may be ready.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Lynch's Creek, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that the Second and Third Brigades of this command (General Oliver commanding) moved forward to Kellytown at 3 p. m., six miles and a half. The First Brigade crossed the creek at 6 p. m., the crossing having been much interrupted by the breaking of the bridge. Lost 2 men to-day by desertion: captured 16 prisoners.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Kellytown, March 1, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. B. HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding desires me to say that he will make a reconnaissance to-morrow morning to New Market with the cavalry, but will detain General Oliver's brigade at this point till you are over.

By order of Major General Howard:

J. A. SLADEN,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Kelly's Bridge, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command remains in the same position as reported on the 26th [ultimo], waiting for the Second Division (it being in the advance) to build a bridge and cross Lynch's Creek. The pioneer corps of this command has been assisting that of the Second Division in building the bridge.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN E. SMITH,

Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, near Black Creek, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to inform you that my division broke camp at 1.30 p. m. (most of my train having succeeded in crossing Lynch's Creek at this hour), and moving on the direct Camden and Cheraw road, made Black Creek at 8.30 p. m., where I placed my command in a defensible position with reference to my rear and flanks, the front being protected by the creek and swamp, and ordered the troops into night bivouac. No enemy has been developed in my front thus far.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,

Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 30.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,

FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, Lynch's Creek, S. C., March 1, 1865.

I. As soon as the trains of this division are across the swamp the troops will march. Brigade commanders will therefore hold their men in camp and be in readiness to move at a moment's notice. The route to be pursued will be the main Camden and Cheraw road to the crossing of Black Creek, twelve miles distant. The order of march shall be as follows: First, Second Brigade Infantry, with two regiments in advance, followed by the battery, one regiment to move by the side of battery and trains. Second, Third Brigade Infantry, moving by the side of trains. Third, trains in rear of battery, in following order: First, ten wagons ordnance; second, ambulances; third, train of advance brigade; fourth, pioneer train; fifth, refugee train; sixth, ordnance train; seventh, supply train; eighth, trains of the two rear brigades, in the order of their respective commands. Fourth, First Brigade Infantry, two regiments moving in rear of trains and two by the side of same. The entire column, trains especially, will keep well closed up under all circumstances, and when from unavoidable accident or obstacle the troops or trains are retarded, and intervals thereby created, the commanding officer or officer in charge of same will report the fact to the head of the column at once, in order that the evil may be remedied. Wagons of these headquarters will be permitted to enter the column at any point in rear of battery, but not to separate any subdivision of the train. This order will be final so far as the movements of the trains are concerned, and followed until further orders.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS, FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, Black Creek, March 1, 1865.

Col. F. J. HURLBUT,

Commanding Third Brigade:

COLONEL: You will hold your command in readiness to move over Black Creek by 7.30 a. m. to-morrow, the 2d instant. When you shall have crossed you will commence on the opposite bank and corduroy every place where there is a doubt exists as regards the trains being able to pass without stalling.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS, MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

In the Field, March 1, 1865.

Major-General BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The Twentieth Corps will be to-morrow night at or near Chesterfield. I want the Right Wing to move straight on Cheraw vigorously and secure if possible the bridge across Pedee. You need not suppose the enemy to be there in heavy force. Big generals may be there but not a large force. At all events get across Thompson's on to-morrow and in Cheraw if possible. I will have men across the same stream about Chesterfield. Communicate with me there to-morrow night.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Thirteen Miles from Cheraw, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: All prisoners confirm the statement that the garrisons of Charleston and Wilmington are at Cheraw, with Joe Johnston in command, and that they were en route for Charlotte. Deserters and prisoners think they will make a stand here. They have a great deal of field artillery. Day before yesterday there was reported to be eighteen batteries, yesterday twenty-three. My command is intrenched in a strong natural position, and I am safe against anything the enemy can bring. Some of our foragers report seeing the foragers of the Twentieth Corps on this side of Lynch's Creek, and they report the corps crossing at a bridge some distance above Blakeny's.

Very respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

P. S.—I have not considered myself authorized to advance farther after receiving your communication yesterday afternoon.

F. P. B.,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Kellytown, March 1, 1865—6 p. m.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general does not wish you to move forward until the Fifteenth Corps is within supporting distance. Two brigades of General Hazen's division reached this point this p. m., but the bridge broke down with the first wagon and will delay the column so that it will probably not get closed up to-night.

General Corse is probably at the crossing of the Big Black Creek to-night. The crossing at Tiller's was so bad that we came down here, but gained nothing.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 55. } In the Field, S. C. March 1, 1865.

The scarcity of forage renders it necessary that all worthless animals in this command should be at once disposed of.

Division commanders will cause an inspection to be made of their camps and all foraging animals found that are in excess of the number allowed by them to each regiment or detachment will be taken to a distance from the camp and killed. If, however, any serviceable animals are found in this excess they will be delivered to the division quartermaster.

Division commanders are specially directed to reduce the number of forage animals in their commands to as small a number as possible.

II. The attention of division commanders is called to existing orders in relation to forage parties passing ahead of the column. The great number of mounted men that are exploring the country in advance of not only the infantry but the cavalry renders any effort of the latter to obtain information concerning the enemy's movements perfectly futile.

Foragers are captured every day, and every one captured is a source of information to the enemy. The most stringent measures must be taken to prevent foraging in front of the columns. The operations of foraging parties can be extended to the flank as far as the commanding officer may see proper to go.

Lieut. Col. S. T. Hughes, commanding Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry, will cause all foragers he may find in advance of the column to be dismounted and sent back in arrest.

Division commanders will cause their pickets to be instructed to permit no foragers to pass to the front from the camp.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair :

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Near Bridge, Lynch's Creek, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN,
Commanding Army:

GENERAL: I have just heard from General Davis; at 11 o'clock this morning his advance had reached Hanging Rock and the corps was coming along well.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING,
[March 1, 1865—8.15 p. m.]

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,
Aide-de-Camp:

One of my staff officers has just come from the Fourteenth Army Corps. Morgan's division, with his train, is in camp on Little Lynch's Creek, where General Ward encamped last night. The other two divisions are near that point. I think we can push the Twentieth Corps fifteen miles to-morrow. Davis will very soon be up with us. He will take a road to the left after reaching this point. If he is short of forage he will go to McManus' Bridge from Horton's Tavern.

Very respectfully,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

HORTON'S TAVERN, March 1, 1865—6 a. m.

Major-General DAVIS:

GENERAL: The Twentieth Army Corps encamped at this point last night. A force was sent forward to Ferily's Ford. A good bridge was found at that point which we now hold. This corps will cross Lynch's Creek to-day and move over to Thompson's or Johnson's on Rocky Creek. McManus' Bridge is in good order, and when you reach this point you move to that bridge via Hickory Head. This will bring you on the road it was intended you should take. I hope you will press forward as rapidly as possible, as General Sherman is extremely anxious on the subject and has good reasons for his anxiety. Press your command as hard as you dare to. Howard is at Cheraw.

Yours, truly,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General.

I wish you to report to me at least once a day, and if possible oftener.

MILLER'S OR FERILY'S BRIDGE,

March 1, 1865—12 m.

General J. C. DAVIS,

Commanding Fourteenth Corps:

GENERAL: The First Division, Twentieth Army Corps, is now in camp at Johnson's, on the main road to Chesterfield. The road from Horton's Tavern to that point is excellent and the bridge at this point new and in good order. If you have sufficient forage on hand I think it would be well to send your trains direct to this point, after which they can move to the left of the road taken by the Twentieth Army Corps. I wish to hear from you to-night so that I may regulate the movements of the Twentieth Army Corps somewhat by yours. I have heard nothing from you since I left you yesterday morning.

Yours, respectfully,

H. W. SLOCUM,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Russell Place, Five Miles of Hanging Rock, March 1, 1865.[Major-General SLOCUM, Commanding:]

GENERAL: We are at last on the road and fairly off again. The roads improve by and above the river, but are bad still. We are pushing, and will continue to do so. The pontoon bridge could not be gotten out until last night. The enemy attacked and skirmished quite sharply the rear guard while taking up the bridge. I shall report to-night again. My advance is six miles beyond this.

Yours, very respectfully,

JEF. C. DAVIS,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

*Hanging Rock, S. C., March 1, 1865—7 p. m.*Major-General SLOCUM, Commanding:

GENERAL: Morgan is at Horton's; Baird and Carlin here. The road over the hill at this place is very bad. If the bridge at McManus' is standing I think Morgan can reach Blakeny's to-morrow night. The other divisions will not be far behind. My orders are to march at daylight and go into camp at dark. I sent a communication to you this morning by return messenger. Ludlow left me about 1 p. m., and must have reported to you by this time. Make your calculations upon everything being done that men and animals can accomplish in catching up with you. I will dispatch you in the morning again.

Yours, very respectfully,

JEF. C. DAVIS,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Clyburn's Store, S. C., March 1, 1865—9 p. m.

Lieut. Col. A. C. McCLURG,

Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: In compliance with Special Field Orders, No. 18, corps headquarters, I have the honor to report my division in camp at this point, making a march of full twenty miles; my train will be somewhat late getting into park, owing to a breakdown of one of the wagons of the reserve artillery. Roads heavy. The rear of the Twentieth Corps left this place at 12 m. to-day, and are reported in camp to-night eleven miles in my front. General Sherman's headquarters were here yesterday. He left this morning. General Kilpatrick's headquarters were at the Gold Mines last night. I will push on early in the morning, taking the road as directed in your dispatch of this p. m. No forage for animals, and the same may be said for the men.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,
Brigadier-General.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Lynch's Creek, S. C., March 1, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Chesterfield in the same order as in the march of to-day. The First and Third Divisions will each start at 6.30 a. m. General Geary will start in season to close up to the rear of the Third Division train. General Jackson will march two brigades in advance, leaving one with his trains. General Geary will detail one brigade as rear guard. One section of artillery will march with the rear guard. The balance of the artillery will leave their present camp in time to take their positions in the column, which will be the same as to-day. The artillery ammunition train will march in rear of the First Division train.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS,
No. 29.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY COMMAND,
*In the Field, S. C.,
March 1, 1865.*

I. The command will move to Blakeny's Cross-Roads, six miles from and east of Robinson's Ford, to-morrow.

II. Colonel Spencer, with Third Brigade and dismounted men, Lieutenant-Colonel Way commanding, will move direct from his camp to the point indicated at 7 o'clock, obstructing ford. After crossing Lynch's Creek he will encamp north of and east of Blakeny's.

III. Colonel Jordan, with First Brigade, will move at 6 a. m. via Robinson's Ford to Blakeny's.

IV. General Atkins, with Second Brigade, will move at 6 a. m., following Colonel Jordan, and obstructing Robinson's Ford after crossing.

V. Brigade commanders will see that the command moves steadily forward without halting, in order that they may have no delay.

By command of Brevet Major-General Kilpatrick:

L. G. ESTES,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

WILMINGTON, March 1, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

I captured this place on the 22d. Hoke, with about 6,000 men, went north; Hardee was on the way from Charleston, but turned toward Fayetteville on learning of the fall of Wilmington. I have been unable to move yet, for want of transportation, but hope to start for Goldsborough by the 5th or 6th of this month. The force at New Berne has not been as prompt as expected, but I have sent Cox there with another division and ordered him to push out at once. I think we can get Goldsborough by the 15th of March, and have the railroad completed at least as far as Kinston. It will take some time longer to open the road from this place. We have not even rolling-stock to commence work with. If you come to Fayetteville I can send you a moderate supply of commissary stores in boats. I hope to hear from you directly in a few days.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 1, 1865.

(Received 9.30 p. m. 5th.)

WILLIAM H. WHITON,
U. S. Military Railroads:

Order every car belonging to U. S. military railroads now on foreign roads returned to Alexandria immediately. Direct that the Potomac railroad be operated separately from Baltimore and Ohio, reshipping freight at Harper's Ferry. Send at the earliest possible moment narrow-gauge stock as follows: Two engines, 15 flat and 15 box cars to Wilmington, N. C., and of the same gauge 2 engines, 25 flat and 25 box cars to Morehead City, N. C., or, if possible to secure vessels of proper draft, to New Berne, to which place there is eight and a half feet of water over the bar. Do not fail to have these shipments made at once; the case is desperate. Make requisitions upon Quartermaster-General for fifty box-cars (narrow-gauge), and have Colonel Robinson see that they are manufactured as early as possible. On receipt of this telegraph me at Fifth Avenue Hotel.

D. C. McCALLUM,
Brigadier-General and Superintendent U. S. Military Railroads.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
No. 18. } Wilmington, N. C., March 1, 1865.

* * * * *

IV. Brigadier-General Hawley is hereby assigned to the command of the District of Wilmington, which will embrace all the territory under military control in rear of the army operating from Cape Fear River as a base. General Hawley will be responsible for the protection of the depot at Wilmington, Cape Fear Harbor, and the line of railroad in rear of the army. He will also perform the duties of provost-marshal-general for the district under his command.

V. The brigade of the Twenty-fourth Army Corps now commanded by Bvt. Brig. Gen. J. C. Abbott is assigned to Brigadier-General Hawley's command, and will at once relieve all other troops now doing garrison and fatigue duty at Wilmington. The troops at Smithville, Fort Fisher, and Fort Caswell will be relieved as soon as practicable. The troops relieved will join their proper commands without delay.

* * * * *

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. PROVISIONAL CORPS,
 No. 46. } DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
 March 1, 1865.

* * * * *

V. It being found impracticable, on account of the state of the roads, to subsist all the troops of this command at their present position, Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. Ames will move the two brigades of his division now with him to a position just north of Smith's Creek.

* * * * *

By order of Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry:

A. TERRY,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., SECOND DIV.,
 No. 3. } TWENTY-FOURTH ARMY CORPS,
 Northeast Ferry, March 1, 1865.

I. This brigade will be ready to move at daylight to-morrow morning, March 2, in heavy marching order. All baggage of the brigade will be taken if wagons can be procured in the morning. If not, a sufficient guard will be left until transportation can be procured.

* * * * *

By order of Bvt. Brig. Gen. Joseph C. Abbott:

E. LEWIS MOORE,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
 No. 1. } New Berne, N. C., March 1, 1865.

1. The undersigned having been assigned to command of the District of Beaufort, including all the posts and U. S. forces in the Department of North Carolina north of and including Fort Macon, by Special Orders, No. 14, from headquarters Department of North Carolina, hereby assumes command.

2. The following officers of the staff are announced: Maj. Theodore Cox, assistant adjutant-general; Maj. Tris. T. Dow, One hundred and twelfth Illinois Volunteers, acting assistant inspector-general; Capt. Hobart Ford, One hundred and fourth Ohio Volunteers, aide-de-camp; Capt. Edward E. Tracy, One hundred and fourth Ohio Volunteers, aide-de-camp.

3. Headquarters of the district will be in the field.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, U. S. Volunteers, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
 No. 2. } New Berne, N. C., March 1, 1865.

I. The troops within this district, exclusive of post garrisons and the First Division of the Twenty-third Corps, will be temporarily organized into two divisions as follows: First Division, Brig. Gen. I. N. Palmer commanding, will consist of One hundred and thirty-second New York Volunteer Infantry; Eighty-fifth New York Volunteer Infantry; Ninth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry; Twenty-third Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry; Second Massachusetts Heavy Artillery; Batteries C and D, of Third New York Light Artillery; also First and Third Brigades of the Provisional Division, lately commanded by Brigadier-General Meagher. Second Division, Brig. Gen. S. P. Carter commanding, will consist of Fifteenth Connecticut Volunteer Infantry; Twenty-fifth Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry; Seventeenth Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry; Twenty-seventh Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry; Batteries A, I, and G, Third New York Light Artillery; also Second Provisional Brigade and the Eighteenth Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry from the Provisional Division lately commanded by Brigadier-General Meagher.

II. The commandants of divisions will at once organize their commands into three brigades each for field service, and report the organization by division general orders.

III. The garrisons of all the permanent posts of the district will be regarded as part of the division of Brigadier-General Palmer, and will forward reports as heretofore to the office of the adjutant-general of that division at New Berne.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 3. }

HDQRS. DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
New Berne, N. C., March 1, 1865.

I. The troops of this district organized for field service will move to-morrow for Core Creek crossing. General Ruger's and General Palmer's divisions will take position near the railroad crossing of Core Creek, and General Carter's division at the Dover road crossing of the same stream. The cavalry of the command will cover the front and left, reconnoitering carefully in the direction of Kinston and Sandy Foundation. Railroad transportation will be provided by the quartermaster's department to as great extent as possible, but such portions of the command as cannot be moved by rail to-morrow will march.

II. The baggage of the command will be reduced to the lightest standard for active field service and will be based upon the following allowance of wagons, viz: To each 400 enlisted men one wagon, to each brigade headquarters one wagon, and to each division headquarters two wagons. At present these wagons cannot be permanently assigned, but upon going into camp all wagons must be used for transportation of supplies from the railroad terminus.

III. Division commanders will cause their troops to be supplied with rations in haversacks up to the 5th instant, inclusive, and with thirty rounds extra ammunition in knapsacks, besides having cartridge-boxes full. They will also cause shelter-tents to be drawn by all enlisted men not already supplied.

IV. During active operations at the front post and garrison commanders are especially charged to use the utmost vigilance and to be in the most constant state of preparation for any emergency. They will be held strictly responsible for any surprise, and are warned that an enterprising enemy will naturally seek to make incursions upon the smaller posts in rear when a long period of safety has tempted the garrisons to omit proper precautions and watchfulness.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS,
New Berne, March 1, 1865.

Col. P. J. CLAASSEN,
132d New York Volunteers, Batchelder's Creek, N. C.:

COLONEL: The commanding general telegraphed to you this p. m. to come down here in the morning, but now he wishes you to at once move your command to the front and occupy the crossing of the railroad at Core Creek, leaving behind in your present camp only sufficient guard to take care of it. Of course this will not be interpreted to interfere with your present line of outposts, Red House, Beech Grove, &c., only so much as may be necessary to perfect your communications from your own new position and headquarters. You may expect to take the field in a few days with your command and some other troops, giving you a brigade; so be prepared. Send me at once a list of the number of arms (muskets) you want to complete the armament of the Western men lately attached to you, when the ordnance officer will be directed to issue you good ones. The old ones can then be turned in as surplus. Get everything well in hand, looking to equipage and ammunition particularly. These are the general's directions.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. JUDSON,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
New Berne, March 1, 1865—11.45 p. m.

Col. P. J. CLAASSEN,
Commanding Outposts, Batchelder's Creek:

COLONEL: Your dispatch received. The general does not wish to designate any particular hour for your move to Core Creek crossing. He simply wishes it done to-morrow as promptly as is consistent with the general interests of the service. As you are on the ground, it would seem that you were the best judge of the time to move so as to arrive at the crossing in time to get into camp and post your pickets, &c. You are expected to take the greater part of your command with you. You will, of course, leave behind a sufficient number of men for the proper reliefs, although this move will of course make a different arrangement of the picket-line, and require probably less men to your right and left, in rear. This, however, is left to your best judgment.

Respectfully,

J. A. JUDSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK, U. S. Army,
Chief of Staff, Armies of the United States, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I had the honor of recommending in my letter of the 17th of February that the regiments and batteries now serving in this department, numbering between 20,000 and 21,000 men within the command, should be constituted into an army corps. In consequence of the reduction of my force to take place immediately, in compliance with Lieutenant-General Grant's instructions, communicated in your letter of February 19, I would suggest that no action be taken at the present time upon my application. When I shall have replaced the troops sent north, by recruiting colored regiments or otherwise, I will then take the liberty of resuming my request for the organization of the troops serving in this department into an army corps, in order that my command may have the benefits of the same and that a corps staff may be organized as soon as practicable.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Brig. Gen. J. D. WEBSTER,
Chief of Staff, Military Div. of the Mississippi, Savannah, Ga.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 28th of February in reply to my dispatch of the 27th of February. In reply, I have to state that I now hold Georgetown, and have ordered a garrison of from 600 to 800 men, also a dispatch boat, to be sent at once. The following dispatch has just been received from the navy:

Papers of the 25th; Wilmington is ours; captured morning of 22d; 700 prisoners and 30 guns captured. Rebels destroyed 1,000 bales of cotton and 15,000 barrels of rosin before leaving the city.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. R. SAXTON,
Superintendent of Recruiting, Department of the South:

GENERAL: Great caution should be exercised in giving countenance to State recruiting agents. They should not be allowed to get credit for any recruits except such as are enlisted by their efforts and the additional bounty which they offer. Every man whom they get credited to their respective State quotas that would have enlisted without the interference of these agents, under the inducements which we ourselves can offer, reduces by just that much the force which will be brought into the field under the last call of the President. Such instructions should therefore be given to recruiting officers, and to the mustering and disbursing officer, as will effectually secure the Government against imposition.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

(Same to General Littlefield.)

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Maj. C. W. THOMAS,
Chief Quartermaster, Department of the South:

MAJOR: The major-general commanding directs me to notify you that Colonel Hallowell's brigade, 1,800 strong, has been ordered from Charleston to Savannah; also that two brigades of General Grover's command have been ordered to Cape Fear River. The last-named detachment will be nearly 3,000 strong. The Delaware will not go to Charleston to-night. The quartermaster's department will furnish transportation.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

T. D. HODGES,

Capt., Thirty-fifth U. S. Colored Troops, Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,

Charleston, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,

Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: I have the honor to inclose with this a copy of a telegram* received last night from General Potter. I have directed him to fall back from the Santee and scour the country on both sides of the Cooper River, destroying the rice mills and such stocks of rice as can not be got to market. He will cause the cotton to be transported to the banks of the Cooper and Wando Rivers, where it can be reached by water transportation, and will collect all the horses and mules he can find for the use of the army. I shall send a force to Summerville to-morrow. The negroes are pillaging the country lately vacated by the rebel troops. I will endeavor to get them into our lines, as I see no other way of preventing it. The men will do for the army; the women General Saxton must try and employ.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. P. HATCH,

Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Hilton Head, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Brigadier-General HATCH,

Comdg. Northern Dist., Dept. of the South, Charleston, S. C.:

GENERAL: I hear from all sides very discouraging accounts of the state of affairs in Charleston; that no restraint is put upon the soldiers; that they pilfer and rob houses at pleasure; that large quantities of valuable furniture, pictures, statuary, mirrors, &c., have mysteriously disappeared—no one knows whither or by what agency; and that matters generally are at sixes and sevens.

I deem it proper to mention these things to you, as they are fully reported by persons coming here from Charleston. If the reports be true, even partially, the most vigorous measures should be adopted by way of remedy. Any officer or soldier detected in any act of pillage or appropriation of property for private use or gain should be made an example of.

Mr. Pillsbury, Treasury agent, bears a letter to you in reference to captured or abandoned property, which I desire to have carried out in both letter and spirit. He should at once be put in possession of all captured or abandoned property (movable) not absolutely required for military purposes.

I desire to be furnished at your earliest convenience with a list of the families in Charleston having husbands, fathers, or brothers in the rebel army.

*See Potter to Schimmelfennig, February 28, 8 a. m., p. 617.

I wish measures to be taken to open the inland passage between Charleston and this place, in rear of James' and John's Islands.

Please order Captain Gilmore, chief telegraph operator of the department, to return to these headquarters by the first opportunity.

I wish measures taken at once to protect the Government against State recruiting agents. I have addressed a letter to General Saxton,* a copy of which has also been sent to the senior officer on recruiting service in Charleston, which, I hope, will so far place those officers on the alert that no impositions can be practiced by said agents should they be so disposed. Should you find them troublesome you will at once send them here, regardless of any permit they may have.

Very respectfully, yours,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 37. }

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 1, 1865.

* * * * *

IX. Capt. Adolphus von Luttwitz will cause to be prepared a report, accompanied with a chart, of the condition of the defenses of the harbor of Charleston at the date of its evacuation by the enemy. He will include in the report the state of the harbor itself, width of channel, nature and position of obstructions, and any reliable information he may obtain of the manner of defenses determined upon by the enemy in the event of an attack by our land or naval forces, either singly or combined.

* * * * *

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS U. S. FORCES, POST OF CHARLESTON,
Charleston, S. C., March 1, 1865.

Lieut. L. B. PERRY,

Fifty-fifth Regt. Massachusetts Vols., Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.:

LIEUTENANT: I have the honor to ask attention of the brigadier-general commanding to the following statement: Quantities of cotton are secreted in various parts of the city. A city ordinance forbids cotton being stored within the city limits, except in brick houses west of East Bay street. The reason for this law was that the prevailing spring winds in this locality are from the west, which would render the storage of cotton on the west of East Bay street dangerous in case of fire. The store-houses upon the wharves in the Cooper River will contain 150,000 bales. To guard against fire, to get the cotton into one neighborhood, and to facilitate its ready shipment after it shall have been turned over by the quartermaster's department to the Treasury agent, it is desirable that all cotton shall, as rapidly as it can be discovered and transportation procured, be placed in the store-houses adjacent to the wharves on Cooper River. Since the amount may be large and some cotton may be discovered outside the limits of my post, I would respectfully suggest that the district quartermaster or some other discreet officer be charged with its collection, custody, and transfer to the proper agent of the Treasury.

* See p. 640.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

STEWART L. WOODFORD,

Lieut. Col. 127th New York Vols. and Post Commander.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Hilton Head, S. C. March 1, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,

Commanding District of Savannah, Department of the South:

GENERAL: I am instructed by the major-general commanding to state that he has directed Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch, commanding Northern District, Department of the South, to send you without delay Colonel Hallowell's brigade, to replace two brigades of your command ordered north.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. L. M. BURGER,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., March 1, 1865—1 p. m.

(Received 5 p. m.)

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. DIX,

Commanding Department of the East, New York:

I respectfully decline General Sandford's offer to furnish a regiment for garrisoning Charleston. We want no three-months' men, nor again do we want any troops except for such service as they may be called on to perform.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., March 2, 1865.

(Received 4.40 p. m.)

Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON,

Secretary of War:

The following items are taken from to-day's Richmond papers:

Fayetteville, March 1.—No Yankees have advanced in this direction from Wilmington. Other intelligence which could be communicated is contraband, but of an encouraging character. The Confederate steamer Chickamauga was destroyed by the crew to prevent her from falling into the hands of the enemy, at Gray's Point, in Cape Fear River, Saturday. She is a total wreck. We omit the first part of the telegram relative to Sherman's movements, in deference to a request sent to the various journals in Richmond about ten days since.

* * * * *

The fall of Wilmington.—We learn from Northern papers that the enemy occupied Wilmington on the morning of the 22d ultimo. As the last train left, our Whitworth battery, planted at the head of Front and Market streets, was firing upon the enemy who had appeared upon the causeway on the western side of the Cape Fear River. Their main advance was then checked at Alligator Creek. Some few skirmishers pushed forward, but were driven off. Our troops retreated across the Northeast Branch of the Cape Fear River at what is known as Big Bridge Ferry, or McRee's Ferry. It is said that our forces attempted to burn the railroad bridge at Northeast, nine miles from Wilmington, but were only partially successful. Later accounts say that our forces had checked the forward movement of the enemy there. If so, it is probable that Schofield will next try the Fayetteville route, or attempt to effect a junction with Sherman. Since Sherman has already been reported as moving toward Cheraw, there is no impropriety in indicating an opinion that this may be a movement by the flank to cross the Catawba River below the railroad, and thence move on Charlotte along the eastern bank; or, it may mean a change of front with the intention to reach Fayetteville and be in co-operation with Schofield.

The enemy reported at Staunton.—We stated on yesterday that the enemy in heavy force, believed to be mostly cavalry, were advancing up the Valley toward Staunton. As yet we have no official information on the subject of their advance.

From the South.—We hear nothing from Sherman, Schofield, or Schimmelfennig. It is believed that bottomless and impassable mud surrounds them all. The roads are still too bad for serious movements of troops. It is stated that our forces under General Bragg have succeeded in checking the forward movement from Wilmington, under Schofield, on the Wilmington and Weldon road, and that the latter had advanced no farther than Northeast River, ten or fifteen miles from the city. It is thought that Schofield will try to effect a junction with Sherman, via Fayetteville perhaps. An immense war meeting was held in Mobile on the 13th of February, at which patriotic speeches were delivered and appropriate resolutions passed. It is reported that General Hood will be assigned to an important command in Texas. Colonel Hatch, the Confederate agent of exchange, had communication with the Yankee authorities at Wilmington on Friday last, and we are glad to learn an agreement was made for delivery of all the Yankee prisoners in our hands in this State at that point at the earliest practicable moment. Some 3,000 or 4,000 were paroled in Goldsborough on Saturday, and were to be sent yesterday morning to the enemy's lines. Seven hundred or 800 passed this place from Salisbury on Sunday morning for the same point, and we learn that all that are here are to be sent through as soon as transportation can be furnished. Several hundred were sent off yesterday.

* * * * *

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Big Black Creek, March 2, 1865—3.30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Your dispatch of March 1 just received. I did not get it in season to order General Blair forward to-day. I had ordered General Blair to wait until the Fifteenth Corps was in supporting distance, and hoping that you would get on the road leading from Cheraw northward.

The division of cavalry (Butler's) in Darlington was withdrawn to Cheraw two days ago. The brigade commander, Brigadier-General (or Colonel) Aiken was killed in Duncan's night skirmish near Mount Elon, and also a colonel is reported killed. From the tenor of your dispatch I thought you supposed me purposely delaying. I have not done so.

After Hazen had bridged the Lynch his bridge swayed over and fell as soon as the first wagon commenced crossing, and after he had gotten ready again to cross, the old bridge was carried a few feet downstream and had to be supported. Working hard all the time Generals Corse and Woods only succeeded in effecting a crossing yesterday evening.

The water was three and four feet deep over the roadway, and about a mile of road was covered. After the first few wagons passed any point the bottom gave out and black mud appeared. Everybody worked day and night, and often in the water waist deep. You may ask why I did not go up higher. Because the Little Lynch became almost equally difficult, and I was obliged to get supplies. We have secured them in the vicinity of Kellytown in some quantity. General Corse is now repairing the road across the Big Black, with part of his force on the other side. He will encamp to-night where the New Market road comes in; General Woods between New Market and that point; General Hazen, and probably General Smith, at Kellytown. Everything will push on to Cheraw to-morrow. As soon as possible I will break the railroad with mounted infantry. The enemy has not destroyed the bridges across these creeks, but the approaches are awful. I have positive information that Wilmington is in our hands, and that a brigade under Hagood was captured entire near Town Creek, only about twenty-five men escaping. Deserters from that brigade are now at my headquarters. I have forwarded the dispatch you desired to Charleston, and think it will get through safe. From information received I did not think it best to attempt the Florence road again. Could I have gotten my command over Lynch's Creek promptly nothing would have suited me better than to have gone for Hardee with all my might. My headquarters to-morrow night will be as near Cheraw as I can get.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
New Market, March 2, 1865—9 a. m.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD,
Commanding Army of the Tennessee:

DEAR GENERAL: We have just reached New Market. General Logan's advance has not yet arrived, nor can I hear of it. I have sent one company of Seventh Illinois back on the road toward Tiller's Bridge to meet the advance of the Fifteenth Corps, with orders to come forward rapidly and report to me as soon as it strikes the infantry. It is fifteen miles to Tiller's Bridge, twenty miles to Society Hill, and five to Kellytown. The crossing at Big Black Creek is quite bad, at least 150 yards of deep water on south side, not deep enough, however, to carry a horse off his feet, and the bottom appears to be hard. I think the trains can be gotten over without much difficulty. The approach to the bridge on the north side is excellent, ground high and firm. The road from Kellytown to this place is very fair; several small spots will have to be corduroyed. Kelly's Mill is in good repair. Two run of stone. No other mills within six miles of New Market. A small scouting party that I sent out before we reached New Market has just returned. Saw some foragers from First and Fourth Divisions three miles back on the road. Foragers said their advance left the Lynch this morning. I will let you know just as soon as can learn the whereabouts of Woods' division.

One mile and a half from Kelly's Mill the road forks; take the right-hand road. Have seen no enemy this morning. The rebel cavalry left this place Monday night.

Very respectfully,

WM. E. STRONG,
Lieutenant-Colonel.

HQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
New Market, S. C., March 2, 1865—10.30 a. m.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD,
Commanding Army of the Tennessee:

DEAR GENERAL: Have just heard from General Woods' division. It is back about five miles coming up. Will be here by 12 m. General

Logan is about four miles from New Market. The Fourth Division is at the crossing, eight miles above Rocky Ford.

I think Woods' division will be here before you can possibly get over.

Respectfully,

WM. E. STRONG,
Lieutenant-Colonel.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Big Black Creek, March 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that, in accordance with instructions contained in General Sherman's letter, you move Generals Woods' and Corse's divisions as rapidly as possible toward Cheraw, attaining that point to-morrow if possible. The other two divisions will follow rapidly as soon as they are closed up.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

BIG BLACK, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: On crossing here I found the train stopped and Corse at work bridging. The most of the train, however, is across, and the balance, I think, will get over before dark, though the bridge is not yet done. I concluded to stay here to-night. Corse leaves me a guard, but pushes everything on to the point indicated. I wish as soon as possible to combine the Ninth Illinois with all the mounted men we have besides, and send them down the Chesterfield and Society Hill road with instructions to break the railroad.

Yours, truly,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
New Market, March 2, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD, U. S. Army,
Commanding, &c.:

GENERAL: The general requests me to acknowledge the receipt of your note. He has ordered the Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry to report to Corse to-night; the Twenty-ninth Missouri is already with him. He has not given them other instructions than to report to General Corse, and requests that you will give them orders.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Tiller's Bridge, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: In reply to your communication of last night, I respectfully report that I will be ready to march at 9 this a. m. It was 1 o'clock this morning before the bridge was completed, and crossing through the dark swamp this side the river was very difficult, the drivers constantly running off the road, delaying the crossing very much.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Black Creek, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that the First Brigade and trains of this command crossed Lynch's Creek to day after the bridge was rebuilt and marched to Kellytown, where joined the rest of the division and moved forward to Black Creek, where camped at 6.30 p. m., having marched eleven miles.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
New Market, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: General Woods has been ordered to move out at daylight to-morrow morning on Cheraw, opening communication with the Seventeenth Army Corps. The general commanding requests that you will move your command in rear of his division, well closed up. The pontoon train will move with your command.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Kelly's Bridge, S. C., March 2, 1865—7 p. m.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL,

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE:

Owing to washing out of one of the trestles, the part of the bridge west of the old bridge gave way, and as the water has fallen the trestles can be laid flat upon the ground and covered. I had hoped the bottom was firm and that a bridge over this part would be unnecessary, but every part of it will have to be recovered. This will delay me a portion of the morning to-morrow.

I am, respectfully,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Near Lynch's Creek, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: In compliance with instructions I have the honor to report that my command commenced crossing the bridge at 3.30 and the last wagon had crossed at 6 o'clock this evening. I will encamp at or near Kellytown.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,

Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Kellytown, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command crossed Lynch's Creek, at Kelly's Bridge, between the hours of 3.30 and 6 this p. m., and marched to Kellytown, a distance of seven miles, encamping between the hours of 8 and 9.15 o'clock in the following position: Three regiments of the First Brigade on the right of main road and covering right flank; two regiments same brigade covering the rear, and Second Brigade on left of main road fronting east. These headquarters are at Kelly's house.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,

Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

New Market, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. JOHN M. CORSE,

Commanding Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: You will move out to where the road from New Market intersects the Cheraw road to-night, and to-morrow move up within one or two miles of General Blair's column, so as to support, if necessary, and communicate the fact to General Blair.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. A. LOGAN,

Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, Six Miles Northeast of Black Creek,On Cheraw Road, March 2, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that in compliance with orders from the major-general commanding corps I moved my command across Black Creek, breaking camp at 1 p. m., and marched to a point on the direct Camden and Cheraw road at its intersection by the New Market road six miles distant from the creek, where I placed my command in bivouac. One brigade of my division was retained at Black Creek by Major-General Howard as guard to his trains.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,

Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
No. 31. } FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Black Creek, S. C., March 2, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The troops of this division will move at 6 a. m. to-morrow, the First Brigade in advance and the Third Brigade in rear. Two regiments of the advance brigade to march beside the battery and trains; and three regiments of the Third Brigade also thrown forward by the side of trains. Battery and trains in same order as on the 1st instant. The column must be kept closed up. The route will be designated when the movement begins.

* * * * *

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, S. C., March 2, 1865—10.15 a. m.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I was making preparation to move forward at once on Cheraw, in accordance with inclosed letter from General Sherman,* when I received General Howard's directions to wait. Unless further orders are received I shall move forward to-morrow morning.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Big Black Creek, March 2, 1865—3.45 p. m.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Your note of 10.45 a. m. to-day is just received. The general directs that in accordance with General Sherman's instructions you move forward on Cheraw at as early an hour as possible to-morrow morning. Generals Corse and Woods are over Lynch, but are detained by Big Black. Hazen and Smith are not yet all across Lynch. Corse and Woods will probably be near to Cheraw to-morrow night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 56. } Thirteen Miles from Cheraw, S. C., March 2, 1865.

I. In accordance with instructions from the major-general commanding the army, directing that for each of our men murdered by the enemy a life of one of the prisoners in our hands should be taken, Maj. J. C. Marvin, provost-marshal, Seventeenth Army Corps, will select from the prisoners in his charge one man and deliver him to Brig. Gen.

* See March 1, p. 631.

M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, to be shot to death in retaliation for the murder of Private R. M. Woodruff, Company H, Thirtieth Illinois Volunteers, a regularly detailed forager, who was beaten to death by the enemy near Blakeny's Bridge on or about the 1st day of March, 1865.

* * * * *

IV. The movement on Cheraw will be continued to-morrow.

The First Division, Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower commanding, will have the advance, and will move forward at 6 a. m. The Third Division, Brig. Gen. M. F. Force commanding, will follow the First Division, being prepared to move at 7 o'clock. The Fourth Division, Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith commanding, will follow the Third Division, being prepared to move at 8 o'clock. The First Regiment Michigan Engineers, Col. J. B. Yates commanding, will follow the troops of the First Division with tool wagons and ambulances. Their train will follow the train of the First Division. The pontoon train will follow the train of the Third Division. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move forward at 5.30 a. m. The troops will move forward on the right of the train. The train of these headquarters will move with the train of the headquarters First Division.

* * * * *

VIII. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will move forward at 7 a. m. to-morrow, instead of 6 o'clock, as previously ordered.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

McManus' Bridge, S. C., March 2, 1865—11.15 a. m.

Lieutenant-Colonel MCCLURG,

Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: I am massing up my division for a dinner halt. The bridge all right. A very bad bottom opposite to be corduroyed. The material will have to be taken from this side of the bridge. The work will be commenced immediately. The roads to-day very heavy. Long hard hills to pull up, but on the whole the roads were better than yesterday. My command has made a first-rate march of twelve miles to-day. Will cross the bridge with my command as soon as the road is completed and await further orders. Plenty of forage for the animals, and the men have received plenty of meat, but breadstuff scarce.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Horton's, March 2, 1865.

Brig. Gen. J. D. MORGAN,

Commanding Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs me to say that he has no doubt you have made a good march to-day, but would have preferred that you had pushed on four or five miles beyond the bridge. He directs that you march at daylight to-morrow via Blakeny's and Mount Croghan toward Chesterfield.

I am, general, very respectfully, &c.,

A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
East side of Lynch's Creek, S. C., March 2, 1865—7 p. m.

Lieut. Col. A. C. McCLURG,
Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: Corduroy in the bottom was not completed till nearly 4 this p. m. owing to the distance the material had to be carried. My whole command is encamped on this side of the bridge and the train is in park. Excuse the mistake made in my dispatch of 11.15 a. m. of this date "about waiting further orders". I will move early in the morning as directed in your order of yesterday.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,
Brigadier-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Chesterfield, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Brevet Major-General GEARY, Commanding Second Division:

GENERAL: General Ward has been directed to move his command forward to this point at an early hour to-morrow; the exact time of starting is discretionary with him. The general commanding directs that you move your command in time to close up with his rear at the time of starting. Your rear guard will be the same as to-day.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Chesterfield, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Brig. Gen. W. T. WARD, Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: Headquarters are established here at Chesterfield. The general commanding the corps directs that you bring your command, including trains, forward at an early hour to-morrow, marching your pioneers and one unencumbered brigade in advance to repair the road, as it is in a bad condition. The major part will need corduroying.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. CAVALRY COMMAND, ARMY OF INVASION,
In the Field, near Blakeny's Cross-Roads, March 2, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Military Division of the Mississippi:

MAJOR: Captain Northrop, of my staff, dashed into Monroe yesterday and captured nine of the enemy and broke the enemy's courier line. Two dispatches had been received from Beauregard to Hampton and Hardee; the one addressed to Hampton seven miles from Lancaster, the other at Cheraw. Captain Lee, of Beauregard's staff, had just passed through. He told the citizens that our Right Wing was swinging around to Cheraw, and that he was taking orders to Hardee to fight and delay our march; that Charleston and Wilmington had been evacuated in order to concentrate troops; that Cheatham and a portion of A. P. Hill's corps had reached Charlotte. Beauregard was still in doubt as to our objective point. My officers are fast learning to be good cavalymen. All little expeditions sent out have been characterized by that enterprise and dash so requisite to success. Captain Northrop brought away nearly one hundred good horses and mules. This information is reliable. Hampton and his cavalry is near Monroe, and not in General Howard's front. I shall hold the roads to the left of Chesterfield to-morrow night, and will reconnoiter the river as high up as opposite Wadesborough. The impression among citizens and rebel soldiers about Monroe is that Petersburg has been evacuated.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. KILPATRICK,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding Cavalry.

---

HQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, March 2, 1865.

General KILPATRICK,

Near Lancaster :

GENERAL: The Twentieth Corps is now starting from Big Lynch's Creek for Chesterfield, twenty miles distant. The Fourteenth Corps is now at Little Lynch's Creek, behind us, and will march by McManus' Bridge toward Chesterfield. General Howard was on the 28th February across Lynch's Creek at Tiller's, and General Blair within sixteen miles of Cheraw. All move on Cheraw, where it is said the Charleston and Wilmington garrisons are expecting to meet us. I don't believe they will fight on this side the Pedee, but you may move on General Davis' left near Chesterfield, and by the time you get there I can select the points of crossing, but if there be any enemy at Cheraw he will, of course, break the bridge there and force us to use pontoons, in which case we will probably use Cheraw and Sneedsborough. General Howard sent his company of scouts from Tiller's toward the Charleston and Wilmington road, but they met two brigades of cavalry near Mount Elon Post-Office, and were driven back. General Howard reports Hampton's headquarters at Darlington, but I doubt it. I don't think the enemy would leave his cavalry, or any material part of it, between us and the sea. Doubtless he is watching and using the railroad east and south of us, but to what extent I cannot conjecture until I know whether our people have Wilmington. I suppose Schofield by this time must be on the railroad north of Wilmington, at or near Goldsborough. Keep near General Davis' left and act defensively till we know about Cheraw. I will be with the Twentieth Corps, near Chesterfield, where the Lancaster road meets this, about four miles this side of Chesterfield. I will send infantry to Chesterfield to secure if possible the bridges across Thompson's Creek near that place, to-morrow at Cheraw. You should be to-night on Lynch's Creek, and to-morrow near Chesterfield. Roads are sandy and good; enemy leaves us good bridges, and thus far we find not even pickets. General Blair found some cavalry on his road, who gave ground easily.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 30.	}	HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY COMMAND, In the Field, S. C., March 2, 1865.
-------------------------------------	---	---

The command will move upon three roads and march at 8 a. m.

I. Brevet Brigadier-General Atkins, with his brigade, will move direct from his present camp on Wadesborough road to a point four miles distant from his camp, where he will take a right-hand road to Hornsborough, via Edgeworth, and wait further orders.

II. Colonel Jordan, with his brigade and division train, will move to Hornsborough, via Edgeworth, and wait further orders.

III. Colonel Spencer, with his command and the dismounted men, Lieutenant-Colonel Way, will move to Hornsborough, seeking some road along or above the North Carolina line.

IV. The major-general commanding will move with the center column. By command of Major-General Kilpatrick:

L. G. ESTES,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., March 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Commanding Department of North Carolina:

Owing to the scarcity of sea-going transportation and the great necessity for it to keep our armies supplied, it is absolutely necessary that it be not detained one hour longer than is required for unloading it. You will please instruct quartermasters and other officers of your command controlling it to this end, and will see that the instructions are strictly complied with. If you have any troops yet to move by water, move them at once, and send back the transportation without delay.

By command of Lieutenant-General Grant:

T. S. BOWERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

Operator at Fort Monroe will please put up and hand to Captain James, assistant quartermaster, to be forwarded by first boat.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 12.	}	HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA, ARMY OF THE OHIO, Wilmington, N. C., March 2, 1865.
----------------------------	---	---

First Lieut. Jasper Myers, ordnance department, having reported at these headquarters, in compliance with orders from the War Department, is announced as a member of the department staff and chief of ordnance, Department of North Carolina.

By order of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
New Berne, March 2, 1865.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of North Carolina :

SIR : I arrived here in the night of February 28. Yesterday I divided the troops of this district (exclusive of General Ruger's) into two divisions, assigning part of the old troops and part of Meagher's to each. I have ordered away from the different posts and garrisons all that can be spared, and attached them to the moving column. There were a little over 3,000 of Meagher's men here. Palmer's and Carter's divisions will number not quite 4,000 each. If more can properly be drawn from the garrisons, I shall do so. The brigade of Ruger, which was at Fort Anderson, is now arriving at Morehead City. It was delayed by the same storm which kept me two days at Fort Fisher. I ordered yesterday part of Palmer's command up to Core Creek crossing, twenty miles from here, and to-day the remainder of his and Carter's divisions go up, Ruger's following at once. Colonel Wright has six miles of iron here, but expects more very soon. They intend changing the gauge of the railroad, as they cannot get rolling-stock to fit the present width of road. I shall keep as far ahead of them as we can supply ourselves, but we shall not be able to get above fifty wagons from the quartermaster's department for all purposes. My headquarters will be at Core Creek to-morrow, and if the railroad repairs progress as we hope they will I shall push on to Kinston within a day or two after. The Neuse is unfordable below Goldsborough. No light-draft gun-boats are here, and we can therefore get no help from the navy. We may get a light-draft steamer from the quartermaster's department to ferry troops, but I am not yet informed whether the right kind has been found. I will report again from Core Creek. The force at Kinston is believed to remain as heretofore.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
 ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Wilmington, N. C., March 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. D. COX,

Commanding District of Beaufort :

GENERAL : I have heard nothing yet from General Sherman except the reports brought by our paroled prisoners, who say he was near Charlotte on the 24th. I have sent a gun-boat up the river toward Fayetteville to see what can be learned. My impression is that he is making straight for Goldsborough, one column passing through or near Fayetteville. I am preparing as rapidly as possible to move forward from this place. I want to move the whole force now here by land if I can get wagons enough in time, and if it is not necessary to send you re-enforcements sooner than they could reach you in that way. If necessary I must send you a division or more by water, but the difficulties of water transportation are so great that I want to avoid it if possible. We ought to get Kinston at once, and Goldsborough with the least possible delay. It is, however, so easy for the enemy to concentrate troops at Goldsborough that I apprehend there may be some delay in getting that place. Get the best information you can of the enemy's strength and movements and keep me advised. I am making my arrangements to start from this place by the 6th instant with the two divisions of the Twenty-third Corps, at least, and by a rapid march join you near Kinston, or wherever you may be, making the march in five or six days. Meanwhile I hope to hear from Sherman, and also of your progress and what you find in your front.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 1.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION.
DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
In the Field, N. C., March 2, 1865.

I. The commanding officer of the Second Massachusetts Artillery, as soon as his companies in New Berne are relieved, will at once concentrate them in camp on the plain in the rear of Fort Totten, providing them with shelter-tents and all other equipage necessary to enable them to at once take the field. The commanding officer Twenty-third New York Independent Battery will take charge of and garrison with his company Forts Dutton and Rowan. The commanding officer Fifth Rhode Island Artillery will with his regiment garrison all the forts about New Berne, both on the north side of the Neuse between the Neuse and Trent Rivers and on the south side of the Trent, with the exception of Forts Dutton and Rowan. He will see that at least one officer is at each fort. It is not expected that the garrisons will be sufficiently large to work the guns. The duty will consist mainly in taking charge of and preserving the present good condition of the works. The present commanding officers will turn over to the officers relieving them all ordnance and ordnance stores and other public property pertaining to the forts. The officers designated are directed to receive the same as of such condition as they may see fit. These changes must be made to-day.

* * * * *

VIII. Col. Charles H. Stewart, Third New York Artillery, will for the present take command of all the troops and defenses about New Berne. This will not at all interfere with the organization of this division as announced in General Orders, No. 1, current series, from these headquarters.

* * * * *

XI. In accordance with orders from Lieut. Gen. U. S. Grant, the companies of the Thirteenth New York Artillery now at Coinjock Station, will, upon being relieved, proceed at once to Norfolk, Va. The commanding officer on arrival will report for orders to Brigadier-General Gordon, commanding District of Eastern Virginia. Quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation.

* * * * *

XIV. The Third Brigade and that portion of the Second Brigade under the immediate command of Lieutenant-Colonel Curtiss will be ready to march early to-morrow morning. A guide has been designated to conduct the column to the camp.

By command of Brig. Gen. I. N. Palmer:

J. A. JUDSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,
 No. 10. } New Berne, N. C., March 2, 1865.

The division will be ready to move to-morrow at 7 o'clock. All surplus baggage will be stored at New Berne. A small guard, not to exceed one man to a regiment, will be detailed by brigade commanders to take charge of the baggage until it can be brought forward. All the baggage will be stored in one place, and the details left will report to Lieutenant Patton, acting assistant quartermaster, First Brigade, for instructions. The troops will carry the intrenching tools until a wagon can be had for that purpose; at least 100 axes, 100 spades or shovels and 25 pickaxes to a brigade.

By command of Brig. Gen. T. H. Ruger:

J. E. CRAVENS,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,
 No. 9. } Wilmington, N. C., March 2, 1865.

I. Capt. George H. Taylor, Company U, Sixteenth Kentucky Volunteer Infantry, having reported in compliance with Special Orders, No. 20, current series, from these headquarters, is hereby announced as acting aide-de-camp on the staff of the general commanding. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By command of Brigadier-General Reilly:

CHAS. D. RHODES,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,
 No. 20. } Wilmington, N. C., March 2, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Col. A. T. Wilcox, One hundred and seventy-seventh Ohio Volunteer Infantry, as senior officer present, will assume command of the Second Brigade, Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, to date from February 25, 1865.

By command of Brigadier-General Reilly:

CHAS. D. RHODES,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

FORT FISHER, N. C., March 2, 1865.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

I send report of the garrisons at Smithville and Forts Caswell and Fisher by messenger, which will reach you in the morning.* I have landed my men here and relieved the First Connecticut Heavy Artillery, who are now embarking. The Second Pennsylvania and my men are now doing the duty. This is correct, is it not? Please answer.

FREDK. W. PRINCE,
Major, Commanding Sixteenth New York Volunteer Artillery.

* See next, post.

HDQRS. DETACH. SIXTEENTH NEW YORK ARTILLERY,
Fort Fisher, N. C., March 2, 1865.

Maj. J. A. CAMPBELL, Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: In accordance with verbal instructions received from you on the 28th, I have the honor to report as follows: The garrison at Smithville and Fort Caswell is composed of the Third New York Infantry, 152, and the One hundred and forty-second New York Infantry, 473, a total of 625 in the two regiments. They are divided as follows: Two hundred and five men at Caswell, and 420 at Smithville, Colonel Barney, One hundred and forty-second, in command. The force at Fort Fisher was composed of three companies First Connecticut Heavy Artillery 354 men, and one company of Second Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery, 137 men, a total of 491. The First Connecticut are now embarking, leaving me here one company of Second Pennsylvania, as above, 137 men, and the detachment under my command, 226 men, a total of 363 men. The balance of my detachment is now with Abbott's brigade (Second Brigade, First Division, Twenty-fourth Corps), near Wilmington. They number 365 men, so that when they are sent here there will be—Sixteenth New York Heavy Artillery, 591; Second Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery, 137. Total, 728 men.

I have some men on detached service in the Department of North Carolina, which I shall apply for, so that I shall soon have enough to make it 800 men, and others are daily returning from hospital. Will you be kind enough to order the balance of the detachment now with the Second Brigade, First Division, Twenty-fourth Corps, to report to me here, so that I can get the men all together of the different companies (six), and then I can make such disposition of the force as you may indicate. I should think the force at Caswell was altogether too large, and should say that a force of 100 there would be ample, dividing balance between here and Smithville. Please indicate at what point my headquarters should be. Smithville is midway between the two forts (Fisher and Caswell), and I would prefer that location, if consistent with the interests of the service.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FREDK. W. PRINCE.

Major, Sixteenth New York Heavy Artillery.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK, U. S. Army,

Chief of Staff, Armies of the United States, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 19th of February directing white troops to be sent from this department to Cape Fear River as soon as Charleston should come into our possession, and to inform you that, in compliance therewith, two brigades from Brevet Major-General Grover's command, organized into a division, under a general officer, will embark with all possible dispatch. The aggregate strength of these two brigades is about 3,200 men present for duty. For want of suitable transports I am under the necessity of sending these troops in large steamers that happen to be free at this moment. As they draw too much water to enter Cape Fear River, a light-draft steamer will accompany them as tender to take off the troops.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,

Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

Savannah, Ga., March 2, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,

Commanding Department of the South, Hilton Head:

GENERAL: It has been reported to me to-day that the portion of General Taylor's rebel army which was said to have passed through Augusta on Sunday of last week, finding itself unable to effect a junction with Hardee, has returned to Augusta and is now there. My informant is a man of apparent intelligence, not directly from Augusta but from a point, the name of which I do not remember, sixty miles southwest of Augusta, and who said that the report was generally believed there when he left. My informant also stated that at various points in the interior of this State, which he named, there are detachments of rebel cavalry aiding the conscripting officers and in one place a brigade of 2,000. But it seems to me the great importance of Savannah in reference to the present aspect of political affairs in this State should make us very cautious as to weakening its garrison. It ought to be in no danger and the people in the interior should not be permitted to feel that there is any possibility of its passing out of our possession. The loss of it would at once reunite the rebels, now apparently falling into discord, and so cut off any hope of the national cause prospering by the dissensions of the enemy. Five thousand good troops would seem to be no more than a moderate garrison for the place. The new line of defensive works is as yet unfinished and is some five miles in length. The whole country in our rear is open to the enemy and there is no cavalry here by which to get early information. I learn also from members of General Thomas' staff when he left here that he considered the above-mentioned number of troops necessary for the security of the place. The advantages to the rebels of a recapture of the place [are such] that we are bound to presume that they understand them and will act accordingly whenever they have any prospect of success in the attempt of the kind.

These considerations induce me to suggest to you the propriety of suspending the order for withdrawing any portion of the troops now here or for replacing them with inferior ones, till the whole case can be laid before Lieutenant-General Grant and his decision had thereon.

I am, very respectfully, general, your most obedient servant,

J. D. WEBSTER,

Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Hilton Head, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Brig. Gen. L. C. EASTON,

Chief Quartermaster, Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Will you have the kindness to render Brevet Major-General Grover all the assistance you can in transporting two brigades of his command from Savannah to this place.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,

Major-General, Commanding

HEADQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,

March 2, 1865.

Col. E. N. HALLOWELL.

Commanding Brigade:

COLONEL: The brigadier-general commanding directs that you send to-morrow on a train a force of 200 men to Summerville and return. The men will be kept together and under arms in Summerville. The officer in command will talk with some of the prominent citizens and endeavor to ascertain the sentiments of the people of the country. He will remain in the vicinity of the town a couple of hours, during which time he can detach scouting parties under commissioned officers to visit the neighborhood. The parties going out will be directed not to in any way molest the citizens. The officer in command will be held responsible by you that no depredations are committed, not even a chicken can be taken. Serviceable horses may be pressed and sent in under charge of an officer should any be found, and a return of the same to these headquarters.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEONARD B. PERRY,

First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Hilton Head, S. C., March 2, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,

Comdg. District of Savannah, Department of the South:

GENERAL: The two brigades to be detached from your command, as directed in my letter of the 28th, are bound for Cape Fear River, N. C. They should be provided with five days' rations and a liberal outfit of medical supplies. No land transportation will be sent with them. As I have but one steam transport in this department fit to go to sea with troops, I am obliged to send these troops north in vessels of too much draft of water to ascend the Savannah River. Small transports will therefore be sent to convey these troops to Port Royal Harbor. The chief quartermaster of the department has been directed to furnish the necessary transportation.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILMORE,

Major-General, Commanding.

CITY POINT, VA., March 3, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,

Secretary of War:

Richmond papers of to-day are received, but contain no important news. The following items embrace all that is of any interest:

From Charleston.—The Fayetteville Telegraph of the 21th states that an officer who arrived here direct from South Carolina last night gives us some interesting items concerning the evacuation of Charleston. The evacuation took place on Friday night, and the city was occupied by about 500 Yankees, who landed in small boats about 12 o'clock on Saturday. All the cotton (some 6,000 bales) and the shipping was destroyed, and the guns spiked by the military authorities. The city is now but little more than a heap of ruins. When the Yankees entered nearly half of it was in ashes, and a terrible fire was still raging. The fire originated in two ways. A quantity of damaged powder had been left at the depot of the Northeastern Railroad Company, among a number of other articles. A crowd of negroes and citizens of the lower class had assembled for the purpose of pillage. While there a boy in sport fired a small quantity of loose powder, which, communicating with that in the boxes, ignited the whole, causing a terrible explosion, with considerable loss of life. The immense depot building was blown to atoms, and the fire spread rapidly to the adjoining houses. It burned with great rapidity, and extended as far up on King street as the Soldiers' Home. About the same time a fire broke out in another portion of the city, caused by the burning of the Savannah bridge. This fire was also very destructive, and the two combined extended from river to river. Numerous other fires also occurred in different parts of the city, said to have been the work of the citizens themselves. All this occurred before the occupation of the city by the Yankees. Our forces under General Hardee have gone in the right direction. It is not permissible to state where they are, but they will be found where they are most needed.

From North Carolina.—The Raleigh Conservative alludes to Sherman's operations, and indulges the hope that if our plans are not thwarted our able generals and brave troops in that quarter will be able to "bag" him or send him howling to the rear. If the report brought us by telegraph that the small force left by him at Columbia has been expelled be true, then the repulse in front, should he suffer such, would probably render his affairs desperate in the extreme, but we will not speculate further in regard to matters which must cease to be matters of mere speculation soon.

From the Raleigh Progress of the 28th.—The Yankee prisoners have all been sent from the camps near this place to Northeast bridge for the purpose of being exchanged. Many others from Greensborough and Salisbury have passed through here to the same destination. All Federal prisoners in North Carolina are to be exchanged, we learn, at Northeast bridge, a few miles from Wilmington. We presume the exchange will be completed in a few days.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., March 3, 1865—11 a. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,

Secretary of War, Washington:

Although I am not positively advised of the fact, I think Sherman and Schofield are in communication, and both, therefore, perfectly secure.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3, 1865—11 a. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,

City Point:

General Carroll was ordered with General Hancock on Sunday last. General Crocker was ordered East some time ago, but probably has not been able to make the journey in the winter. Vessels sent from here to Cape Fear River are sent back to discharge at Beaufort. If a change has been made in this respect notice should be given to the Quartermaster's Department, in order to save time and expense.

H. W. HALLECK,
Major-General and Chief of Staff.

CITY POINT, VA., March 3, 1865—1 p. m.

(Received 6 p. m.)

Major-General HALLECK,

Washington:

I have not heard from General Schofield since General Comstock returned from him. It is likely he has concluded to open the road from

New Berne alone. If so, he will want all accumulation of supplies taken there. I am now looking for the return of a staff officer sent to Wilmington, and when he gets back will know whether vessels are to be stopped at Beaufort or not, and will direct accordingly.

U. S. GRANT.

Lieutenant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Cheraw, S. C., March 3, 1865—1.40 p. m.

Maj. Gen W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: General Blair entered here at about 11.30 a. m., skirmishing with the enemy's cavalry. Hardee left with the last of his troops this morning. General Mower pushed with all his might, and tried to save the bridge, but could not do it. We have 17 pieces of artillery as far as counted, about 2,000 muskets, and 1 building containing ammunition. The enemy's skirmishers are on the other side of the river. General Blair will encamp here to-night, and General Logan about eight miles to the rear, on Thompson's Creek. I send you Fayetteville Observer of the 27th instant [ultimo]. An expedition was sent to break the railroad, with instructions to make a very small break, as I thought you may want to use the road for some purpose.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Chesterfield, S. C., March 3, 1865—2.30 p. m.

Major-General HOWARD,

Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: Your dispatch, of 3.30 p. m. of yesterday, from Black Creek, is just received. I wrote this a. m. to General Blair a letter* to be sent you, which may reach you before this, but will repeat. Slocum took Chesterfield yesterday, driving Butler's cavalry to and through the town, but the enemy broke one of the bridges and burned the other. Both are now repaired, and Slocum will push one division down on the north bank so as to uncover your crossing; but send me word as soon as you are over, that the Twentieth Corps may cross over to the Pedee toward Sneedsborough, where I want his wing and the cavalry to cross over. Of course I am a little impatient to get across Pedee before Beauregard can swing around from Charlotte and Salisbury and oppose our crossing. Once across Pedee, I don't fear the whole Confederate army, for if need be we can swing in against the right bank of Cape Fear and work down till we meet our people, but I shall aim to reach Fayetteville and Goldsborough, where I know Schofield must now be. I have ordered Davis from McManus' Bridge via Mount Croghan to Sneedsborough, and Kilpatrick is above him toward Wadesborough. Roads are very bad up here, either quicksand or red clay. The country is also poor; still thus far we find forage, bacon, and corn meal. I met at Wimsborough Mrs. Aiken, wife of the very Colonel Aiken you report as killed in the fight with Duncan. She was a Miss Gayler, of Mobile, sister of Mrs. General Gorgas, of the rebel Ordnance Department. In her conversation with me she said she supposed her husband would have to "submit or get killed," and I answered her that such was the case, but I hardly thought so soon to be a prophet. I will send your letter to Slocum, with instructions to read it and push one or two divisions down toward Cheraw as fast as possible, leaving his wagons near the Sneedsborough road. I will stay here to-night and to-morrow come down, in hopes to go into Cheraw. I don't believe Hardee will fight on this side the river, and it is now too late for him to slip out by way of Wadesborough. Your rear divisions will have plenty of time to close up whilst you are getting your crossing secured and bridged. I take it all the bridges across Thompson's Creek are gone, unless it be the railroad bridge, which may have been spared for the sake of the wounded that must still be there. I also feel confident that Wilmington is in our possession, and that none of its garrison is at Cheraw.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Chesterfield, March 3, 1865—5.15 p. m.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: Your dispatch from Cheraw to the general-in-chief is received. He has written you twice to-day, viz, once direct and once to Major-General Blair, and he desires me to say those letters contain his views and wishes as regards immediate operations, i. e., for you to concentrate your command at Cheraw and make a crossing of and lodgment beyond the Pedee with all possible dispatch, as it is all-important we at once hold its left bank. If you think you will have time the general would like to have you send any kind of a force from the rear portion of your command—probably mounted would be the best—down to Florence, with directions to destroy anything of public property there. We will come into Cheraw to-morrow morning. It is not probable there is anything of an enemy at Florence.

I am, general, with great respect, &c.,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cheraw, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The commanding general directs that if General J. E. Smith's division has not yet left the vicinity of New Market it be instructed to remain there for a day or two to collect provisions and use the mills at that point. He does not mean to limit him to the immediate vicinity of New Market, but that he can have two days to reach this point so that he may supply himself, and, if not too far on the direct road, he may march via Society Hill. He wishes you also to organize as large a body of mounted men [as possible] from among the foragers, and such other mounted men as can be spared by you, for an expedition to Florence. It will destroy all trestle-work and bridges en route to that point, break the railroad near there, burn the bridge and all public property. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will be ordered to report to you and will form a part of the expedition which will rendezvous at the cross-roads seven miles from Cheraw, at 9 a. m. to-morrow, and start from that point. The mounted force organized by you will be placed in charge of a competent officer to be selected by you. It will bring back such provisions, particularly of breadstuffs, as can be carried on a horse. Capt. C. B. Reese, chief engineer, will bridge the Pedee near this point. You will send forward the section of the pontoon with your corps as soon as possible to-morrow morning.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Thompson's Bridge, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee :

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to inform you for the information of the general commanding that I have encamped the First and Fourth Divisions of my corps on Thompson's Creek, near the bridge, with the Second Division in camp on this side of and the Third Division on the other side of Juniper Creek. My headquarters are with the First and Fourth Divisions.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.
(In temporary absence of the major-general.)

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cheraw, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,

Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that, in the absence of further orders, you move through Cheraw to-morrow and encamp on the north side of the town, moving out on the plank road. Our headquarters are at the house of Doctor Wilson, in the upper part of town.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Thompson's Creek, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I respectfully report that on the night of the 1st instant, having built a substantial bridge over Lynch's Creek, I began crossing my command, and at 9 the morning of the 2d I started from the east side of the creek, marching as far as New Market. I here succeeded in crossing but one brigade over Big Black Creek, when it was found necessary to lay the pontoons, so that my division was not all over until nearly daylight this morning. Moving right out from camp again, at 6 a. m. to-day, I continued my advance, moving by the Camden and Cheraw road to my present camp on the south side of Thompson's Creek, making twenty-five miles to-day. My troops are encamped on a high ridge of land, about one mile from the creek, facing eastward. My headquarters are near the main road, one mile back from the stream.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Juniper Creek, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command crossed Black Creek at 6.30 a. m. to-day on the pontoon bridge and moved forward to and crossed Juniper Creek, where camped, having marched eighteen miles.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Thompson's Bridge, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs me to inform you that General Howard told him that he had ordered the mills at Kellytown to be run for the benefit of the Third Division, as that command was almost out of subsistence, and that General Oliver was working them for that purpose. In view of these circumstances he requests, should it not have been done already, that the meal obtained at the Kellytown mills be turned over to General Smith's commissary for use in his division.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Juniper Creek, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this division broke camp at Kelly's farm at 6 o'clock this a. m., and marched on Kelly's Bridge road to near Big Black Creek, thence on neighborhood road to main Camden and Cheraw road; crossed Big Black Creek at ——— bridge and marched to Juniper Creek, a distance of twenty-nine miles, the rear of the command arriving at 6 p. m. The division is encamped upon both sides of the main road fronting southwest and covering all approaches from the rear.

While upon the west side of and near Big Black Creek a party of rebel cavalry numbering about thirty entered the road between the mounted and infantry advance, which were not more than 500 or 600 yards apart, and captured Lieut. Col. James Isaminger, Sixty-third Illinois Volunteer Infantry, commanding pioneer corps, and one enlisted man. They also killed one of the teamsters who had gone in advance. It was supposed, until too late, that they were our own men, being dressed in complete suits of Federal uniform. I sent what few mounted men I had with me in pursuit but did not succeed in overtaking them. I was unable to comply with orders from corps headquarters, received last evening, requiring me to have four wagons filled with meal and forage. Upon the arrival of my commissary of subsistence at the mill, he found an officer belonging to the Second Division in charge, who said that he had not received any instructions to grind corn for or to give up the mill to this division, but had been instructed to grind all the corn he had for their own command. He finally consented to give up the mill at 2 o'clock this a. m. These headquarters are at Campbell's house.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, Thompson's Creek, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the movements of my division this instant. In compliance with orders from the major-general commanding corps, received the 2d instant, I broke camp at 7 a. m., and moved on the direct Camden and Cheraw road across Juniper Creek to Thompson's Creek, fifteen miles distant. Upon arriving at this point I found a portion of the trains of the Seventeenth Corps had not yet made the crossing, and in accordance with instructions have placed my division in bivouac near the creek and bridge. The brigade left with Major-General Howard at Black Creek rejoined the division this evening.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 32.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Thompson's Creek, S. C., March 3, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The troops of this division will be in readiness to march at 10 a. m. to-morrow, infantry in following order: Third Brigade in advance, Second Brigade in the center, and the First Brigade in rear. Trains and battery in same order as heretofore, and infantry marching by the side of trains, except two regiments as an advance, and one as a rear guard.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Chesterfield, S. C., March 3, 1865—6 a. m.

(Received 7.45 p. m.)

General F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Corps:

GENERAL: Your messenger with copies of General Howard's letter and your reply is received. I trust you have marched in accordance with your reply to the general, but if not, do so at once, for this corps is near enough in support, and report to General Howard your action and my orders. I expect to see you soon, and will explain my reasons and information. Don't break the railroad bridge across Thompson's Creek, as it will be useful to Howard, but tap the railroad below Cheraw at any point convenient other than that of Thompson's Creek. We hold Chesterfield, and one of the bridges, viz, that on the Wadesborough road, but the enemy burned the other on the Cheraw road, two miles out, where Jackson's division is now repairing.

Have your pontoons at the head of column, or enough for 150 feet of bridge. Feign at several points, but cross at one. We will operate north of Thompson's Creek. If you get a chance let Mower and Force do some of their sharp, quick work. I hardly hope to save the big bridge across the Pedee at Cheraw, but it is worth the effort. Once start the enemy, keep him going, and force him across Pedee, or rather up the plank road on this side. Let us hear your artillery occasionally, but don't waste ammunition. When you get the forks of the road below Thompson's Creek send me word here. Send this to General Howard as explanation for your advance, and I want him up as soon as he can get all up in good shape. As soon as you have got both banks of Thompson's Creek, set the engineer regiment at work on the bridge, unless the banks are low and favorable to pontoons; but we will want the pontoons before you are done with the Thompson's Creek bridge. I take it for granted the enemy will burn the road bridge, but think he will spare the railroad bridge. Cheraw is full of hospitals, but not much stores. Hardee is there, but Hampton is not. We encountered Butler's cavalry here, but they gave to a skirmish line.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,

Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Cheraw, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,

Asst. Adj. Gen., Military Division of the Mississippi:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that my advance entered this town about 12 m., having skirmished with the enemy's cavalry for seven miles. I endeavored to save the bridge on the Pedee by pushing forward my skirmish line rapidly as possible, but just as the men reached it, it was fired at the other end, and, being prepared with rosin, the flame spread like lightning, and it was completely destroyed. I shall lay my pontoon to-night if possible. The enemy are in some force on the other side. I found in the city twenty-four pieces of artillery, heavy and light, and a large amount of ammunition. The commissary stores were in the depot and fired by the enemy before leaving.

Respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,

Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 57. ) Cheraw, S. C., March 3, 1865.
* * * * *

II. In order to obtain in a systematic manner the supplies that are in the city, the following orders are made :

Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will cause details to examine every house in the town and take therefrom all breadstuffs, rice, potatoes, meat, sugar, &c., except sufficient to last the families in the houses from which the stores are taken ten days.

A commissioned officer will accompany each detail, and he will be held responsible for the conduct of his men. Wagons will be sent with each detail, and the stores so collected will be gathered together and proportioned by Lieut. Col. J. H. W. Mills, chief commissary of subsistence, Seventeenth Army Corps, among the command.

The houses occupied by general officers will not be examined.

Each house will be examined by the officer in charge of the detail, and the men will not be permitted to enter houses except in presence of the officers.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Cheraw, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. A. MOWER,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say to you that he wishes you to effect a crossing and lodgment, if practicable, on the opposite side of the Pedee River, at an early hour to-morrow. He wishes you to feel their skirmish line both above and below the bridge, in order that a point may be found where troops can be crossed without loss. The commanding officer of the pontoon has been instructed to furnish you what boats you may want.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Chesterfield, S. C., March 3, 1865—7 a. m.
Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: General Kilpatrick reports that he is near Blakeny's, and will move to-day around the head of Thompson's Creek to the neighborhood of Sinclair's and reconnoiter well across to the Pedee. General Blair also reports from his position thirteen miles from Cheraw on the Camden road. General Howard halted him there till the Fifteenth got up in supporting distance. The Fifteenth has been delayed by all sorts of mishaps occasioned by high waters, but General Blair, pursuant to my orders, is now moving straight on Cheraw. I want you to finish up the two bridges, get up your troops from the rear, and move the Twentieth toward Cheraw, north of Thompson's Creek, until you know that General Blair is in Cheraw, when it will work across to the plank road and up to Sneedsborough, where I design your wing and the cavalry to cross over. You may instruct General Davis to move on Sneedsborough at once, but I don't see as he can do better than to come here and use your upper bridge unless he gets better roads and more forage by Mount Croghan, Sinclair's, McQuaig's, &c. I believe that Hardee is at Cheraw with his Charleston garrison, and it may be part of the Wilmington forces, but I rather think these latter will be used to meet Schofield about Goldsborough, but I want Hardee attacked rapidly and boldly, if in any position this side the Pedee. If he makes the mistake to fight on this side we ought to catch him. I have instructed General Kilpatrick to get a brigade of cavalry across to the plank road at once to observe and attack any force moving on that road from any direction. If Hardee tries to escape toward Wadesborough we must let go our trains and attack him in flank. I think Beauregard, without many wagons, is tied to his Charlotte and Danville railroad. He would not dare depend on the coast road, held as it is, and threatened at Goldsborough. Let us get across the Pedee at all hazards as soon as possible, and then we are all right with Fayetteville as our objective and the Cape Fear River as an alternate base of operations.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Chesterfield, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: To-morrow the general-in-chief will move into Cheraw and join the Army of the Tennessee. He wishes you to proceed and cross the Pedee with your command at Sneedsborough as soon as possible, and also directs me to say he will make full orders at Cheraw for the next movement.

I am, general, with respect, &c.,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Chesterfield Court-House, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you start your command to-morrow morning at daylight, move to Sneedsborough, and there throw a pontoon bridge over the river and effect a crossing. I am directed to say that the Right Wing has occupied Cheraw, the enemy having evacuated the town, leaving eighteen pieces of artillery and 2,000 stand of small-arms. General Sherman has positive information of the evacuation of Charleston and the capture of Wilmington.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Two Miles in advance of Horton's, March 3, 1865.

Brig. Gen. J. D. MORGAN,

Commanding Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that if you reach Mount Croghan to-day, you make inquiry in regard to the road leading to the left toward the Baptist Church, and thence toward Powell's (and leaving Chesterfield Court-House to the right), and if this road is reported practicable take it as your route toward Cheraw.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. C. McCLURG,

Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Thompson's Creek, S. C., March 3, 1865—3.30 p. m.

Major GUINDON,

Aide-de-Camp, Major-General Slocum's Staff:

MAJOR: I am going into camp at this point with my division after a march of twenty-three miles; the bridge at this point has been destroyed and no ford for the trains. I will commence immediately the construction of another bridge, and will push on in the morning as soon as it is completed. I am still on what is called Haile's Ferry road, and as yet have been unable to get any reliable information about a road leading to Sneedsborough. From Mount Croghan to this point the road is heavy but not hilly.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,

Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Thompson's Creek, S. C., March 3, 1865—3.30 p. m.

Lieutenant-Colonel McCLURG,

Asst. Adjt. Gen. and Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: I am going into camp with my division at this point after a march of twenty-three miles. The bridge over this creek has been destroyed or I should have gone two miles farther. Another bridge will be immediately constructed. I will push forward in the morning as soon as the bridge is completed in the direction of Sneedsborough, N. C., in accordance with orders received this morning from General Slocum, of which order I understand you have been informed. The road from the top of the hill this side of Lynch's Creek to Mount Croghan excellent; from that point to the creek heavy but not hilly. There will be no difficulty about the trains of the corps getting over the roads.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,

Brigadier-General.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Chesterfield, S. C., March 3, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow toward Sneedsborough in the following order: Third Division, Second Division, First Division. The Third Division will start at 6.30 a. m. The other divisions will start in time to close up to the trains of the divisions that are to precede them. The troops of the Third Division will march unencumbered in the advance, and will repair the roads for the trains. General Geary will dispose of his troops so as to cover the trains of his own and General Ward's division. General Jackson will detail one brigade as rear guard. The artillery will occupy the same positions in the column as heretofore. The artillery ammunition train will follow the train of the Third Division.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

CIRCULAR.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
Chesterfield, S. C., March 3, 1865.

The major-general commanding respectfully calls the attention of officers of this command to orders and circulars previously published in regard to forwarding captured maps to department headquarters. Maps of the State of North Carolina are now particularly desired to facilitate military operations. Any person attached to this corps who now has or hereafter may become in possession of maps of the State of North Carolina will forward them without delay to corps headquarters. There has been a reluctance on the part of officers and men to comply with orders heretofore issued relative to the prompt transmittal of maps through the proper channels; those who fail to do so hereafter will be severely reprimanded.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

H. W. PERKINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Chesterfield, S. C., March 3, 1865—6 a. m.

Major-General KILPATRICK,
Commanding Cavalry:

GENERAL: I got your dispatch from Blakeny's last night. I want you to interpose between Charlotte and Cheraw till we are across. General Blair's head of column was thirteen miles southwest of Cheraw last night. General Jackson's division of Twentieth Corps pushed Butler's cavalry at a run through Chesterfield and across the bridges of Thompson's Creek, saving the one on the Wadesborough road, excepting one post, which the enemy had time to cut. The other bridge, on the Cheraw road, was burned. The balance of the corps is pretty well strung out by reason of the roads. I don't know exactly where General Davis is, but will direct him on Sneedsbrough; and would like you to report to me the nature of the roads, especially the one from Mount Croghan by Sinclair's. By the way, that is your true position, and you should get a party over on the plank road on the line of Jones' Creek and cut off any courier-line from Wadesborough. I think Hardee will try and escape toward Wadesborough, and in that event you will strike his flank anyhow; and I want you to let go everything and cut his column, reporting to me, that I may throw infantry across; but until I hear the exact state of matters at Cheraw will move the Right Wing on Cheraw and Left on Sneedsbrough. I don't much care now what Beauregard does. He has no railroad now to circulate on and must foot it now, as we do, and he has not the trains that we have. Still he can move more rapidly than we. I want, of course, to get across Pedee and then will fight him where he pleases, and don't care for his Virginia re-enforcements. We have to meet them some time, and now as well as later; only let me know in advance, as much as possible, the route or routes on which his infantry moves. His cavalry gives no clue on which I can judge. My belief, however, is that Beauregard is tied to a railroad, and that railroad will be from Charlotte to Danville. I have no doubt that Wilmington is, or soon will be, in our hands, and, moreover, that Schofield will or has made a lodgment on the Goldsborough road. A mere strong picket of observation toward Monroe, to give General Davis notice of the approach of danger, will suffice. The bulk of your force should be north of Thompson's Creek, from Burch's up toward Jones' Creek. Reconnoitering parties should examine Pedee from Jones' Creek down, but do nothing to show a purpose to cross.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. CAVALRY COMMAND, ARMY OF INVASION,
In the Field, S. C., March 3, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Military Division of the Mississippi:

MAJOR: The enemy appeared in a considerable force this morning from the direction of Monroe, on the road to Blakeny's, and skirmished with Colonel Spencer's command, which crossed that road at 10 a. m. to-day at a point about six miles north of Blakeny's. After striking the Chesterfield and Monroe road I moved down to Hornsborough Post-Office, then out upon the Wadesborough road to within ten miles of that point, where my own headquarters now are. My scouts have felt the enemy all day upon the left. I think Allen's division of cavalry is now on the road from White's Store to Wadesborough. I do not know what other forces of the enemy may be with him. I send you a map* indicating my encampment and country watched by my troops. I have had a horrible road to march on to-day. To-morrow I shall move to the vicinity of Sneedsborough unless I hear from you. Five miles of this road will be red slate and firm, after that sandy, and of course good. I have a scouting party in Wadesborough, who will bring me information of the enemy in that direction. Artillery firing is now heard north of and near to Clay's Creek. Spencer, an hour since, had passed the road coming in from Meltonsville and White's Store, and should be at this moment in position, covering that road, where I directed him to encamp to-night. My command is all in camp, and I believe my position a good one; covering, however, as I do so many roads, I shall have comparatively but a small force to resist any determined attack upon either one. I will be massed, however, at an early hour to-morrow morning on Chesterfield and Wadesborough road, at a point just north of North Carolina line. Please inform me what operations you require of me to-morrow, and, if possible, for the next day.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. KILPATRICK,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding Cavalry.

WILMINGTON, March 3, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

I have no information of your movements later than February 24, when it is reported you had turned eastward from about Chesterville. I infer that you are moving direct for your original destination, and that you may be there by the 15th or 16th. I hope to have the railroad from New Berne ready for you by that time, and to meet you with supplies. It will take some time longer to get this road in use for want of rolling-stock. Will have supplies here for you if I learn you are coming this way. My latest information from General Grant is February 24. He had then learned of only three brigades of Lee's army having gone south.

J. M. SCHOFIELD.

Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
                               } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
 No. 20.                 } Wilmington, N. C., March 3, 1865.

IV. The attention of commanding officers is called to General Orders, No. 64, series of 1862, War Department, Adjutant-General's Office, requiring that all property captured by the army, or seized by any provost-marshal, or taken up estray, or taken from soldiers marching in the enemy's country, will be turned over to the chiefs of the staff departments to which such property would appertain on duty with the troops, and will be accounted for by them as captured property and used for the public service, unless claimed by owners and ordered by the commanding general to be returned. In accordance with the above order all captured horses, mules, &c., now in this command, and all captured in future, will be at once turned over to the quartermaster's department. Officers of the inspector-general's department will strictly report to these headquarters any non-compliance with this order.

VI. The Second and Third Divisions, Twenty-third Army Corps, will be prepared to march at daylight on the 6th instant. The following transportation will be allowed, viz: One wagon to each regiment for officers' baggage, two to each brigade headquarters, four to division headquarters, and three for each battery to carry forage. All surplus baggage will be stored in Wilmington in charge of an officer from each division, and will be sent to the command by rail or boat as soon as practicable. Forty rounds per man of infantry ammunition will be carried in wagons, also two days' rations of bread, coffee, sugar, and salt. All wagons will be loaded light (about 1,500 pounds each), and will carry in addition five days' rations of forage for their teams. The troops will start with five days' rations, or so much of it as they can carry in haversacks, which must last them full five days. If the Twenty-third Corps has not the full allowance of transportation required by this order, the deficiency will be supplied by the chief quartermaster from Major-General Terry's corps. Capt. George C. Winslow, assistant quartermaster, will act as chief quartermaster of the Twenty-third Army Corps, and will attend to the distribution of the transportation required by this order.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION,
                               } TWENTY-FIFTH ARMY CORPS,
                               } Northeast Station, N. C., March 3, 1865.

I. The commanding officer of the First U. S. Colored Troops will report with his command to Bvt. Brig. Gen. D. Bates, commanding First Brigade.

II. The commanding officer of the Thirtieth U. S. Colored Troops will report with his command to Bvt. Brig. Gen. D. Bates, commanding First Brigade.

*            *            *            *            *            *            *

By command of Brig. Gen. C. J. Paine:

SOLON A. CARTER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
                               } New Berne, N. C., March 3, 1865.

The exigencies of the service require that the railroad from Morehead City to New Berne and the front be devoted exclusively to military business. Transportation of passengers and freight for private purposes will cease from and after this date. Officers of the army and navy will be passed upon showing their authority for being absent from their commands. Soldiers will be passed either upon the authority of their commanding officers when present or upon transportation tickets issued by the quartermaster's department. Civilian employes of the Government and others engaged in public business or duty will be passed upon passes issued from the quartermaster's department, or by the commandants at New Berne and Morehead City. Railroad employes and laborers will be passed upon tickets issued by Col. W. W. Wright, chief of the construction corps. Civilians not in Government employ will be passed in cases of necessity only on passes issued from these headquarters or those of Brigadier-General Palmer at New Berne. No tickets will be sold and no money for fares will be collected on the trains. A military superintendent and military conductors for the trains will be appointed by Brigadier-General Palmer, commanding First Division of the district, and will be charged with the execution of this order.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
                               } New Berne, N. C., March 3, 1865.

I. Col. Charles H. Stewart, Third New York Volunteer Artillery, is hereby assigned to duty as chief of artillery of the district, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

II. The organization of the troops of the district into divisions being only provisional and temporary, the duties of the mustering department will be performed for the district and the divisions thereof as heretofore by Lieut. Col. T. J. Kennedy, Third New York Volunteer Artillery, assistant commissary of musters.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 2.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION,
DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
New Berne, N. C., March 3, 1865.

* * * * *

XIV. The commanding officer of Roanoke Island will at once forward to New Berne all the officers and men of the troops at Roanoke Island, except the One hundred and first and One hundred and third Pennsylvania Volunteers. Captain Kimball will furnish the necessary transportation without delay.

* * * * *

XVI. The brigade of Colonel Boughton will march at daylight to-morrow morning, executing its previous orders.

XVII. That portion of the Second Brigade commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Curtiss will march at daylight to-morrow morning to the point indicated in previous orders. Upon arrival there he will report his command to Colonel Claassen, commanding Second Brigade.

By command of Brig. Gen. I. N. Palmer:

J. A. JUDSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
March 3, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, U. S. Armies, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: Several cases having been referred to me lately from authorized traders at blockaded ports regarding the disposition that should be made of goods received by them in barter or by purchase from the inhabitants residing within our lines in their vicinity, I request that the question be referred to the honorable Secretary of the Treasury for his advice thereon. Parties receiving such articles usually desire to ship them North to be sold. The question is, can they be shipped North from a blockaded port with a permit from the Secretary of the Treasury in each case? I entertain the opinion that articles other than cotton received in exchange for goods which enter a blockaded port as a military necessity may leave that port under the same necessity, and I shall so decide and act in any urgent cases which may require action on my part before I learn the views of the Secretary of the Treasury. But goods actually purchased for money appear to be on a different footing.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General of Volunteers.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 3, 1865.
(Received 8.10 p. m. 7th.)

Major-General HALLECK,
Washington, D. C.:

About 3,200 white troops, organized as a division of two brigades, will move at once, as ordered in your letter of February 19. The prisoners for exchange will start north to-morrow or next day. I have no recent news from General Sherman.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 3, 1865—3 p. m.
(Received 8.10 p. m. 7th.)

Major-General HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, &c., Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL: For reasons that will be communicated by letter, I shall send but one brigade of white troops north at present, in compliance with your order of the 19th of February.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General of Volunteers.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
March 3, 1865.

General MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General, Washington, D. C.:

We want coal for steamers. Were it not for a couple of transient steamers now here I would not be able to carry out the orders which I have received for moving troops. Can't something be done for us?

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
 No. 39. } DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
 Charleston, S. C., March 3, 1865.

* * * * *

IX. The steamer Savannah, as soon as she shall have taken on rations and ordnance stores and a guard, will proceed to Bonneau's Ferry, on the East Branch of Cooper River, and ferry at that point across the river the Fifty-fourth New York and Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops. The commanders of the troops will then endeavor to communicate with Brigadier-General Potter and supply his command with rations and act under his orders. If the steamer can go up the river as far as Huger's Bridge it will do so for the purpose of communicating with General Potter. The commander of the steamer will be held responsible that this order is obeyed.

✱ ✱ ✱ ✱ ✱ ✱ ✱

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:
LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

NOTE.—If the Fifty-fourth New York Veteran Volunteers and Twenty-first U. S. Colored Troops should not be at the place indicated the steamer will await their arrival.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Inclosed please find a copy of my order of march. I do not expect to get everything across and the bridge taken up till Monday night, so that General John E. Smith and the Seventeenth Corps will have ample opportunity to fill up their wagons. I expect the mounted force I sent to Florence will be back before Monday night. There is a story that 6,000 of the Twenty-third Corps have arrived at Fayetteville.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

[Inclosure.]

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 53.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The next series of movements of this command will be on Fayetteville, N. C. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move via Harrington's, Quick's Church, Springfield, Laurinburg, and Gilchrist's Church. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Major-General Blair commanding, will move via Bennettsville, Bam's Bridge, Stewartsville, and Gilopolis or Campbell's Bridge. General Blair will cross the Pedee with his leading division and all its material to-night. At 6 a. m. to-morrow General Logan will cross Bvt. Maj. Gen. John E. Smith's division and move it out via J. W. Harrington's to the vicinity of Phill's Creek, taking possession of Irby's Mills for the use of the division. General Blair will follow with the remainder of his command and move out to the vicinity of Naked Creek and take possession of all mills near Bennettsville. The provost-guard of the Seventeenth Army Corps, on duty in the town, will be relieved to-morrow by a guard from the rear division of the Fifteenth Army Corps. As soon as the crossing of the Seventeenth Army Corps is completed the remainder of the Fifteenth Army Corps will follow and move out, with its head of column on Phill's Creek.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865—8 p. m.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: I have just received your note and the copy of your orders. I would not be surprised if it were true that some of Schofield's command were at Fayetteville. I know Grant's anxiety for us, and he will move heaven and earth to co-operate. Your orders are all right. I have written to Slocum, who is at Sneedsborough, and he will use the road from Sneedsborough by Mark's Creek and McFarland's Bridge, and all roads north of it. It may be well for you to let Slocum have a day's start, that the columns may assume an echelon toward the north. Slocum can hardly have all across earlier than Tuesday, and I have intimated that I would like him to be ten miles out during all Tuesday. The river with him seems to be wider than with you. Get a good scout or two ready for me to send a messenger to Wilmington as soon as any of your heads of column is across Lumber River.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865—9.10 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Your note just received. I will try and have the scout ready for you. I would rather make short marches, if you do not object, on account of supplies, than to halt for General Slocum.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

CIRCULAR.] HDQRS. DEPT. AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

The attention of corps commanders is called to the fact that the foragers are in the habit of destroying or rendering useless the mills along the line of march and frequently burning large quantities of grain which are of great necessity for the use of the army. Last night a large quantity, over 1,000 bushels of shelled corn, was destroyed by the unauthorized burning of store buildings in this town. The general commanding desires that for the safety and comfort of the army some measures be taken to prevent the continuance of this destruction.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard :

A. M. VAN DYKE,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }

No. 24.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND

ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Beaufort, S. C., March 4, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Maj. C. H. Howard, aide-de-camp, staff of the major-general commanding, will forthwith proceed to Washington, D. C., on important public business, which transacted he will return without unnecessary delay via Fortress Monroe, Va., and Wilmington, N. C., with the view of joining the major-general commanding in the field. United States Government transports and quartermaster's department will furnish him the necessary transportation.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard :

SAML. L. TAGGART,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Near Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to suggest, for the consideration of the commanding general, the propriety of releasing the prisoners we now have belonging to the South Carolina militia, old men and boys, on their parole and oath not to serve against the United States during the war. They are now but a burden to us, requiring an issue of subsistence when it is necessary to husband our supply, and can scarcely be looked upon as fit subjects for imprisonment or exchange.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,

Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Lieutenant-Colonel Strong spoke to me this morning about the mill near Kellytown. I did not order General Oliver to run the mill for General Smith, but said to him that I believed his own wagons were filled, or that he had a plenty, and in case that was so, I wished him to run the mill for General Smith. I should be much pleased if General Hazen would furnish General Smith with three or four days' supply. At any rate, general, keep General Smith ahead until he has filled his wagons.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that, in obedience to your orders, I broke camp at an early hour this morning, and moving over Thompson's Creek, followed in rear of the Fourth Division, on the main road to Cheraw. Reaching Cheraw, I took a road leading almost north, and marched one mile above the town, where I went into camp, fronting my troops northeast, and connecting my left and right, respectively, with the Fourth and Second Divisions. Distance made to-day, six miles. My headquarters are near those of the Fifteenth Army Corps.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command marched at 6.30 a. m. to day. Came upon the rear of First Division at Johnson's Creek, where halted until 2 p. m., then moved forward to Cheraw, where camped, having marched eleven miles. Casualties, 1 man wounded.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN.
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this division broke camp near Juniper Creek, on Camden and Cheraw road, at 7 o'clock this

a. m., and marched to and north of Cheraw, following Second Division, distance twelve miles. The last of the command bivouacked at 10 p. m. on plank road, in rear of the left of Fourth Division. The infantry is encamped in column by regiment, the First Brigade upon the right and the Second upon the left of the above-named road, artillery and trains in rear. These headquarters are about 500 yards in rear of the First Brigade. I would also state that I did not succeed in obtaining any meal from General Corse.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Powe's Plantation, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report the following movements of my command this instant: I broke camp on Thompson's Creek at 7.30 a. m., crossed this creek and moved on the direct Camden and Cheraw road to Cheraw; thence on the Chesterfield road a distance of two miles, where my command is now in bivouac for the night on the left of General Woods' division. I found it necessary to lay half a mile of corduroy in order to pass my trains.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Thompson's Bridge, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Maj. C. BURKHARDT,
Commanding Twenty-ninth Missouri Infantry:

MAJOR: You will please move your command to the cross-roads seven miles from Cheraw, on the Camden and Cheraw road, and there await further orders. Your command will join the mounted forces of the army for an expedition of several days. You will provide your men with the necessary ammunition.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

(Same to Lieut. Col. Hector Perrin, Seventh Illinois Mounted Infantry.)

---

HQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general directs that the Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry be ordered to report to Major-General Logan to join with an expedition being organized by him to go to Florence. The expedition will rendezvous at the cross-roads, seven miles from Cheraw, at 9 a. m. to-day.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
A. M. VAN DYKE.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. A. MOWER,

Commanding First Division :

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say to you that he wishes you to cross your command as soon as the bridge is completed and take up a strong position on the opposite side. Leave the brigade now doing provost duty until further orders. The general wishes that brigade to remain until the command is all across. You will cross your trains with the troops.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE, Jr.,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Seventeenth Army Corps :

CAPTAIN: I have just been down at the river, and I find that there is but one section of the bridge there. The officer in command informs me that he cannot lay the bridge without more boats and bridge materials.

I would suggest that a party of cavalry be sent down the river to give warning of the approach of the rebel gun-boat Pedee, should it attempt to come up.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOS. A. MOWER,

Major-General, U. S. Volunteers, Commanding Division.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,

Commanding Third Division :

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs me to say that you need not move from your present camp to-night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. SMITH,

Commanding Fourth Division :

GENERAL: The major-general commanding instructs me to direct you to send one regiment from your command down the railroad. They will march as far as they can to-day and encamp. To-morrow they will start back and destroy all trestle-work and bridges returning. Let them take all the pack animals they can and bring back forage. The general wishes a report of their operations.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., FOURTH DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Capt. AD. WARE, Jr.,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Fourth Div., Seventeenth Army Corps:

CAPTAIN: In compliance with instructions from headquarters Fourth Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, I directed Lieutenant-Colonel Hibbets, commanding Thirty-second Ohio Volunteers, to proceed with his regiment down the Darlington and Cheraw Railroad, and destroy the trestle-work on said road as far down as he could go to-day. I accompanied the regiment to Thompson's Creek; found the railroad and dirt road bridges destroyed by the enemy. A floating bridge was at once constructed and the troops and horses passed over. A report of the operations of the regiment after crossing the creek will be made by Lieutenant-Colonel Hibbets and forwarded on his return. I found 600 feet of high trestle-work on this side of the railroad bridge and caused the same to be destroyed, also one box-car.

I am, captain, with high respect, your obedient servant,

B. F. POTTS,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Cheraw, S. C., March 4, 1865—S p. m.

Major-General SLOCUM,

Commanding Left Wing, Sneedborough:

GENERAL: I got here at 10 a. m. and found the Seventeenth Corps in town and laying a pontoon bridge across the Pedee. The Fifteenth Corps is also here, and their trains are coming in all safe. The bridge is down; one division (Mower's) is across and is skirmishing about two miles out. Hardee commanded here, and had, it is said, about 15,000 men, but I doubt if he had more than the Charleston garrison and S. D. Lee's corps, in all, 10,000. There was a gun-boat here that had come up when the Yankees got Georgetown, but it was blown up to day about six miles down the river. There is a good deal of property here, such as guns (twenty-five), ammunition, &c., and more of a town than I expected to find. General Howard has sent a mounted force to destroy public property at and near Florence, which cannot return before the day after to-morrow, by which time I think he can have all his command across. Of course the sooner we reach Fayetteville the better, but we must move in compact masses, as either column may encounter the whole of Hardee's command, and it may be re-enforced by some from Charlotte.

I have no doubt Schofield is at work in North Carolina. I feel assured he is fully possessed of my views and will have Goldsborough with both the Wilmington and New Berne roads done by the 15th, the day appointed. Still, it is but prudent to continue as heretofore to collect all the food possible, in case we are delayed thereabouts. There is a story afloat that 6,000 of Schofield's men are already at Fayetteville, which will be a great success, better than we expected; but I know Grant will spare no efforts to second us; he is fully alive to the importance of our movement. Get your bridge down and cross over as fast as possible, and stretch out on the road you want, and I will order General Howard to conform to you. If you can get out ten miles during all Tuesday it will be as much as I expect.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN.
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pedee River, S. C., March 4, 1865—7 p. m.

Lieut. Col. A. C. McCLURG,

Asst. Adjt. Gen. and Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: My division went into camp this 3.30 p. m. on the banks of the Pedee, on the right of the Twentieth Corps, just below Sneedsborough, by order of General Slocum, making a march of fifteen miles, the first five miles over bad roads, the last ten good.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. CAV. COMMAND, MILITARY DIV. OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, March 4, 1865—7 a. m.

[Maj. L. M. DAYTON:]

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that General Hampton attacked me with his entire command at 4 p. m. yesterday near my headquarters, where Major Audenried found me. I was not in position, but was just leaving camp; however, such attack was repulsed, until I could mass my troops, when he again made a deliberate attack, and was finally repulsed about 7 p. m. last evening. I expected to fight this morning, but I find that the enemy has left my front, and I believe him to be moving for Wall's Ferry, via Wadesborough. General Baird's division encamped last night five miles from this point on road to Sneedsborough. General Carlin's division is now passing. I believe the entire country now in rear to be free of the enemy. I await your further orders.

Very respectfully,

J. KILPATRICK,
Brevet Major-General.

WILMINGTON, March 4, 1865.

(Received 12th.)

Major-General SHERMAN:

I expect to get Goldsborough by the 14th or 15th of this month if I have force enough to take it, and to have the railroad running from New Berne as far as I go. It will take some time longer to get the road in use from this point. We have no rolling-stock here. If you find it necessary to come this way supplies can be sent you by boat up the river as far as Elizabethtown. If you go direct to Goldsborough I think there can be no doubt of our having supplies there or near there on your arrival. If I find you are keeping off from the coast I shall push out toward Raleigh and join you. I have received nothing from you yet. Such information as I have places you about Rockingham to-day. I have not heard from General Grant since the 25th. No material change had taken place about Richmond at that time.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Wilmington, N. C., March 4, 1865.

General G. S. DODGE,
Acting Chief Quartermaster:

GENERAL: All wagons, animals, and other property which may arrive at this harbor for the Twenty-third Army Corps are to be sent to Morehead City, also all that are now here, but not unloaded to-day. Property now here, and not taken with the troops on the 6th, will await further orders. The teams unloaded to-day are to be turned over to General Terry's quartermaster to replace those furnished by him to Twenty-third Army Corps. The pontoon train, which is expected from the North, will be sent to Morehead City; also any troops which may arrive from the Department of the South. Please have as little delay as possible in transmitting orders to vessels that may arrive. It will probably be best for you to remain here until these matters are adjusted, but I will see when I arrive at New Berne what the necessities are there. If the Manchester Railroad people succeed in getting in their trains, which I do not count on, take possession of them and turn them over to Colonel Wright on his arrival. It will probably be well to leave one or two engines and some cars west of the river. Do not send away the light-draft sea steamers that have been detained here, unless they are called for from the North, but call my attention to the matter in a week or ten days.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
Batchelder's Creek, March 4, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,
Commanding Department of North Carolina:

GENERAL: Your dispatch of 2d came to hand this evening. The concentration of my troops at Core Creek is completed to-night, except as to a couple of detachments, one of which was ordered in from Roanoke Island, and the other from a position on our left. The rains have been continuous since I left Wilmington, and as a result the roads from New Berne to Core Creek are nearly impassable. The distance by road, about twenty miles, could ordinarily have been made in a day, but over two days have now been taken by the troops in the movement, and the commandants report that they have pushed as fast as possible. The railroad is repaired to-night to within one mile of Core Creek, seven miles having been put in order during the past two days. The telegraph will reach the same point by noon to-morrow, and I shall then move my headquarters to that point, and the troops can be resupplied with rations and move another step in advance. Regarding the rapid reconstruction of the railroad as the most important thing, I have turned over to the construction corps a portion of our teams to haul bridge timbers and railroad ties from the woods, so that we have only ten wagons to a division for field use. It is of course manifest that so small amount of transportation can do no more than keep troops supplied within a mile or two of the railroad terminus, especially in the present condition of the roads. This constitutes my chief embarrassment, for I have no doubt of my ability to go into Kinston whenever I can feed my command there. The railroad from Core Creek to Kinston, a distance of about thirteen miles, has been totally destroyed, the ties having been burned and the rails carried off, the road-bed being used as a turnpike road by the rebels for a year or more past. Colonel Wright, chief engineer, cannot promise to build more than from one mile to one and a half per day of this road, and has on hand only six miles of iron. He, however, expects a full supply before this will be laid. The forces in the vicinity of Kinston are reported about 1,500 strong, with a tête-de-pont on this side of the river in which are several pieces of artillery, variously reported from four to eight. The rebel troops are not of the most reliable character, being many of them Junior Reserves, &c. Their gun-boat or ram is reported to be anchored just under the railroad bridge preparatory to blowing up her and the bridge together if forced to evacuate. This vessel is believed to draw too much water to move away from her moorings except in a freshet. I have not reckoned her as an item of any consequence in the present problem, though if she be worth anything the present great rise of water in the river gives them an opportunity to show it. By the time you could reach Kinston, according to the tenor of your dispatch of the 2d, I should, even if obliged to confine myself closely to the railroad, be closely investing that place and able to open communication with you whenever you reach the vicinity, for there are at present no indication of the enemy's operating in any force on this side the Neuse. I am having obstructions removed from the Neuse near New Berne in order to run up some light boats and flats, with a view to ferry a portion of the command over the river below Kinston and push at once for that place in rear. I shall do this within three days unless I get information proving it entirely impracticable. My hope is that I shall in this way take the town, and possibly be able to supply myself during the high water by the river from New Berne. While this is progressing I shall push a sufficient force as close up to Kinston as they can be supplied, and shall use a portion of the cavalry battalion to reconnoiter as far to the left as possible, so as to meet the head of your column at the earliest day and hour. The roads from Kinston in the direction of Kenansville are reported good and dry. Those from New Berne to Kinston are now almost completely under water. There are numerous points above Kinston where a pontoon bridge could be very easily laid if you should be able to move the train with you. The troops were all in the various garrisons of the district on my arrival at New Berne, and as they had been in barracks for about two years I found many inevitable delays in getting them into the field. I have been able, however, to keep the railroad men fully employed without delaying them to wait for troops to move by pushing detachments out in advance. I assure you that nothing which energy and industry can accomplish shall be left undone, and I have strong hopes of being able to solve the supply question by the river route just as soon as the river obstructions can be got out of the way.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. COX,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
Batchelder's Creek, N. C., March 4, 1865.

Col. CHARLES H. STEWART,
Third New York Volunteer Artillery:

SIR: The commanding general directs me to say that paragraph I, General Orders, No. 5, from these headquarters, will not be interpreted as relieving you for the present from duty as commandant of the post and fortifications of New Berne, as he deems your duties at New Berne of much more importance than any that would devolve upon you as chief of artillery under existing circumstances and situation of the forces in the field. You will be notified when a change of circumstances will require your presence at the front.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THEO. CON,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }

No. 40. }

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 4, 1865.

* * * * *

III. Col. E. A. Carman, Thirteenth New Jersey Volunteers, having reported for duty at these headquarters, is hereby assigned to the command of the Third Brigade, relieving Col. H. von Hammerstein, who will be assigned to a command by him.

* * * * *

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 4, 1865.

Col. E. N. HALLOWELL,
Commanding Brigade:

COLONEL: You will hold your command in readiness to embark for Savannah as soon as transportation can be furnished them, when you will be notified from these headquarters. On arriving at Savannah you will report to Brevet Major-General Grover, commanding. The Thirty-fourth U. S. Colored Troops will be in readiness to embark for Florida.

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: An escaped prisoner, belonging to the Fifteenth Corps, who came in last night, reports that he heard General Butler tell one of his officers, who was going to take the order to a part of his command on this side of the river, that the whole army (rebel), trains and all, would pass through Rockingham.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE.

Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN:

GENERAL: Two deserters from the enemy came in to-day and gave themselves up to First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps. They report that their command has gone to Charlotte. Captain Duncan, who is scouting toward Rockingham, also reports that a column moved in the direction of Charlotte. He found six caissons which the enemy had abandoned. These are in addition to those I told you of to-day.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,

Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: In conversation with a citizen this evening he accidentally let drop the information that Joe Johnston is generally expected to be marching parallel with us, and was expected at Wadesborough before this with the force at Charlotte. Hardee doubtless thinks he will form a junction with him at or near Rockingham. This, taken in connection with deserters' report that they (the rebels) mean yet to resist us between this point and Fayetteville, makes me think that some such thing may be Johnston's design, taking the offensive, particularly if he can isolate a corps. I think he is too late.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

GENERAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 12.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

The attention of officers and soldiers of this army is called to the gross and criminal practice of profane swearing which prevails and is increasing amongst us, so much so that every sense of good principle and good taste is outraged. Have we forgotten that God is our kind Father and that He is helping us? Every insult to Him is a scourge to ourselves and invites disaster to our noble cause.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Near Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of this date, with reference to the crossing of my command over the Pedee River, and in reply thereto would inform you that I can have everything across by 12 o'clock. I would respectfully inquire whether it is the intention of the commanding general that I shall encamp my command on Phill's Creek or move farther out. I have the honor to request instructions on this head.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: The general commanding requests that you direct the brigade now guarding the town to remain until the return of your mounted infantry from Florence, and guard the pontoon train as far as Springfield.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. CHARLES R. WOODS,
Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: The general commanding directs me to request you to move your command across the pontoon bridge over the Pedee River to-morrow morning at 7 a. m. Corps and military division headquarters will move with your division. The corps supply train will move with your supply train. You will please encamp your command in position along Phill's Creek.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Maj. Gen. WILLIAM B. HAZEN,
Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to request you to move your division across the pontoon bridge over the Pedee River as soon as the Seventeenth Army Corps shall have crossed; and to push your command out in supporting distance of General John E. Smith, who is in camp as directed in General Howard's order of last night, a copy of which has been furnished you. You will please ascertain the hour at which you can commence crossing.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Harrington's Plantation, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command crossed the Great Pedee at Cheraw on the pontoon bridge at 3 p. m. to-day, and moved forward on Fayetteville road to Harrington's plantation, where camped, having marched five miles. Captured eight prisoners.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Phill's Creek, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this division broke camp at 6.30 o'clock this a. m., crossed Pedee River, and moved out on Fayetteville road to near Phill's Creek; distance, four miles. The command is encamped in line upon the north and south sides of the main road, fronting east. Three grist-mills are being run for the command, one of them only amounting to much. I encountered the enemy's picket about two miles and a half west of the river. Being obliged to retreat rapidly they abandoned 2 wagons loaded with ammunition, 2 battery forges, 1 battery wagon, and 3 caissons filled with ammunition. These headquarters are upon the south side of main road about 500 yards in rear of right of Second Brigade.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Brevet Major-General CORSE,

Commanding Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to request you to cross the pontoon bridge over the Pedee River with your command in rear of the First Division of this corps. You will withdraw your rear guard when every soldier and camp follower and the mounted infantry still absent from the command shall have crossed to the other side of the river. The pontoon bridge will be taken up as soon as you have crossed and will move with your division. You will please encamp your command in position along Phill's Creek.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
 FIELD ORDERS, }
 No. 34.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
 FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Powc's Plantation, S. C., March 5, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The troops of this division will be in readiness to march and await orders at 8 a. m. to-morrow, the Second Brigade in advance, First Brigade in the center, and the Third Brigade in the rear. Battery and trains in same order as heretofore. In case the Third Brigade is detained at Cheraw, to await the arrival of our mounted infantry, General Rice will throw one regiment in rear of all trains, and carry out orders in regard to rear guard, &c.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Pove's Plantation, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Col. F. J. HURLBUT,

Commanding Third Brig., Fourth Div., Fifteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: In compliance with orders from corps headquarters you will retain your brigade at Cheraw until the entire corps and its camp followers have crossed the Pedee River, as well as the mounted force sent to Florence. As soon as you shall have ascertained that these forces have crossed you will yourself cross with your brigade and move as guard to the pontoon train as far as Springfield, N. C., unless otherwise ordered. Unless you receive different orders from and through the proper authority, you will leave the city without further injury, seeing that no soldiers of your command are left to commit any outrages whatever, moving quietly from the city, and bringing across all stragglers.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, {
No. 2.

HQRS. THIRD BRIG., FOURTH DIV.,
FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

This command having been ordered into Cheraw for the purpose of doing provost duty therein, it is hereby directed that no soldier enter either the house or premises of a citizen unless under orders, and that no houses, outbuildings, or fences be torn down or destroyed without special permission. All pillaging whatever is expressly prohibited. Regimental and company commanders will be held strictly responsible for the conduct of their men.

By order of Col. F. J. Hurlbut, Fifty-seventh Illinois Infantry, commanding:

FRED. MOTT,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, )
No. 17. )

HQRS. THIRD BRIG., FOURTH DIV.,
FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Owing to the danger apprehended from fires bursting out, and from other commands moving through the city, regimental commanders are instructed to once more charge their company officers to see to it that the men on duty use the utmost vigilance to protect the town from fire and pillage.

By order of Col. F. J. Hurlbut, Fifty-seventh Illinois Infantry, commanding:

FRED. MOTT,
Lieutenant and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Taking into consideration the question of forage, the general would prefer that you move your command to Bennettsville to-morrow. These headquarters will be established during to-morrow near Easterling's Mills.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,

*Assistant Adjutant-General.*SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 58. }

HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

The movement to-morrow will be to Bennettsville.

Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will have the advance and will move forward at 9 a. m.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will follow the Third Division.

Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will move forward at 9 a. m.

The First Regiment Michigan Engineers, Col. J. B. Yates commanding, will move forward with their train at 8 a. m., and closing up on the Fourth Division will follow it.

Colonel Yates will cause the road to be placed in repair.

As soon as General Force reaches the town of Bennettsville he will cause it to be properly guarded and prevent the committing of any excesses. He will cause all the provisions in the town to be gathered together, and, if practicable, fill his wagons.

The train of these headquarters will move with the First Division.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair.

C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,

Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding wishes you to move your train across the river as soon as J. E. Smith's division is over. He wishes you, if practicable, to take with you one of the large guns at the depot, that is either a 20-pounder Parrott or a Blakely gun.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Major-General SLOCUM,

Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: I was on the point of making an order for the next movement, but on looking over my last, No. 16, I find it covers the ground up to our next objective. You have the choice of roads, and I understand from Captain Ludlow that you want McFarland's and Love's

Bridges. All right. Let General Davis lead into Fayetteville, holding the Twentieth in support with the cavalry on his left rear. I will hold General Howard back, but close enough to come up if Joe Johnston wants to fight. I will now fight him if he dares, and therefore wish you to act on that idea, keeping each corps ready to hold the enemy if he appears in force on your left, but his strength must be developed before other corps are called from their roads. I have notified General Howard of this order, and he has simply asked instead of holding on here to make slow marches to gather forage and meal. I send you a copy of his orders of march;* I also send you an open letter for General Kilpatrick, which read and forward to him.†

Major Audenried, of my staff, left him yesterday, ten miles this side of Wadesborough, and my orders to him were to hold his command covering all roads, especially the plank road between Wadesborough and your troops. After you have got a covering force across the Pedee let General Kilpatrick have the bridge and move out to your left front, say Rockingham. We have been badly treated by the weather, but I hope for a better spell henceforth. I will get messengers through to Wilmington the moment any head of column is across Lumber Creek, and feel sure that Schofield will meet us in force at Goldsborough. I will draw from Savannah, Charleston, and Wilmington at least 25,000 men to re-enforce our army at Goldsborough, and will put them under Schofield as the center or reserve, restoring the organization of the Atlanta campaign. With that army replenished and refreshed we can make things move. Indeed I feel confident that nothing can now stand before us. I find here additional symptoms of discomfiture. Three thousand six hundred barrels of powder are among our spoils, and the surgeons of the Confederate hospitals admit that Hardee left them without supplies or even orders. Keep me well advised of progress, and I will make things conform to your movements.

I am, &c.,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS. } HDQRS. LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA.
Near Piques' Crossing.
No. 25. } Great Pedee River, S. C., March 5, 1865.

I. Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis, commanding Fourteenth Army Corps, will cross his command over the Great Pedee River at this point and move to Fayetteville, N. C., by way of Love's Bridge road.

II. Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams, commanding Twentieth Army Corps, will cross his command over the Great Pedee River as soon as the cavalry has crossed, and will move to Fayetteville, N. C., by way of McFarland's Bridge road. Brevet Major-General Kilpatrick, commanding cavalry, will have the use of the pontoon bridge after the Fourteenth Army Corps has crossed.

III. Corps commanders will select from the pack animals of their commands fifty of their best mules, and turn them over to-day to Lieut. Col. J. Moore, commanding pontoon train. Colonel Moore will give in exchange animals now in his train.

* * * * *

By command of Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum:

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

* See March 4, p. 676.

† See March 5, p. 692.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,

In the Field, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. DAVIS,

Commanding Fourteenth Corps :

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say that he wishes your command to cross when the bridge is completed, but in accordance with orders from General Sherman, whenever General Kilpatrick reports his command ready to cross, your corps will have to give way to him.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Crossing of Great Pedee, [March 5], 1865.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. G. P. BUELL,

Commanding Second Brigade :

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that as soon as the bridge is completed you cross your brigade and take position for the defense of the bridge on the hills beyond, covering the main road leading to Rockwell [Rockingham]. Should General Kilpatrick's command report and desire to cross before, or while you are crossing your brigade, you will give him the bridge without delay and renew your passage as soon as he is over. The remainder of the division will cross at daylight. Further orders will be given you in the morning.

Very respectfully,

J. E. EDMONDS,

Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Major-General KILPATRICK,

Commanding Cavalry :

GENERAL: I was on the point of making a new general order of movement, but on examining my last, No. 16, I find it provides for the next stage.

General Howard has crossed here and is now passing trains and troops, but I will hold him back to allow General Slocum to lead to Fayetteville. General Howard has sent some mounted infantry down to Florence to damage things there, and they cannot return till to-morrow. In the meantime General Slocum will pass over and move out on roads leading toward McFarland's and Love's Bridges. I will hold the Right Wing back and in reserve, keeping on roads to the south of General Slocum. As soon as he has a covering force across the Pedee he will notify you and give you his bridge, when move out to Rockingham and thence conform to his movements, getting up to Solemn Grove, and thence along down south of Little River to the roads coming into Fayetteville from Manchester. There is a rumor here that General Schofield is already at Fayetteville. It is certain that he took Wilmington, not by the evacuation of the place, but by force, capturing Hagood's brigade. This simplifies our work very much, and will give me larger re-enforcement as soon as I need it. Hardee left here in haste and confusion, going across Pedee and burning the bridge, but we already have a pontoon bridge across and two divisions out a couple of miles. Butler's division of cavalry is with him. The enemy left here valuable stores, 24 good guns, 3,600 barrels of powder, 2,000 muskets, the hospitals, and much ammunition and stores. I don't think Joe Johnston will try to concentrate his forces short of Raleigh.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Cheraw, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Brevet Major-General KILPATRICK,
Commanding Cavalry:

GENERAL: Your dispatch of 7 a. m. March 4 is at hand. The general-in-chief directs me to say he wrote you full instructions this morning, sent through General Slocum. When General Davis' command is well closed up, General Slocum will give you the bridge to cross.

I am, general, yours, &c.,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Wilmington, N. C., March 5, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,
City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: I have sent several dispatches to General Sherman, some of which I have no doubt will reach him. I have received nothing from him yet. The paroled officers who have arrived here and others all agree in the report that he was near Chesterville, on the Columbia and Charlotte road, on the 24th, and that he turned eastward from that place. I presume he will march straight for Goldsborough, passing through or near Fayetteville. We are having heavy or continuous rains here. If they extend into the interior his march will be slow. I have at length got teams enough to make a start from this point with a portion of my troops. I shall send General Couch with the two divisions of the Twenty-third Corps to join General Cox beyond New Berne. He will take the coast road to about Onslow and then make straight for Kinston. I expect him to effect a junction with Cox in five or six days. I will go to Morehead City to-morrow. I have not heard from Cox since he went to New Berne. I expect him to get to Kinston before Couch joins him. I will then push for Goldsborough and hold it until General Sherman arrives; or if I find he is keeping out farther from the coast I will advance toward Raleigh and join him. I will be able to move against Goldsborough with about 20,000 effective men. General Terry will remain here with his command for the present, but will advance along the railroad as fast as Colonel Wright can repair it, or as soon as he can get the necessary transportation to move independently. Nothing has arrived here yet for the railroad. Indeed, the weather has been so bad that we have had but little communication by sea since the capture of Wilmington. Much of the time no vessel whatever has been able to cross the bar. The delivery of prisoners by the enemy was completed yesterday, and I am sending them North as rapidly as practicable. The well ones can all be sent in a short time, but it will take much longer to dispose of the sick, as they can only be placed on hospital vessels. They have been made comfortable here and are doing well. The whole number of prisoners delivered is about 10,000, 100 colored troops among the number. I will send the rolls to the Adjutant-General of the Army for his disposition.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, ) HQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
No. 22. ) Wilmington, N. C., March 5, 1865.

* * * * *

VI. The commanding officers of the Fifteenth and Twenty-third Indiana Batteries will report for the time being with their commands to Brig. Gen. J. R. Hawley, commanding District of Wilmington, and will remain at this post until further orders from these headquarters.

* * * * *

XV. The Fifth Tennessee Infantry is hereby relieved from duty with the Second Brigade, Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, and will proceed without delay to Nashville, Tenn., and report to the chief mustering officer of the State for muster-out of service on the expiration of their term of enlistment. The commanding officer will report to Brig. Gen. Joseph R. Hawley, commanding District of Wilmington, for the purpose of taking charge of 107 prisoners to the North. The quartermaster's department will furnish transportation.

* * * * *

XIX. Bvt. Brig. Gen. E. L. Hayes, lieutenant-colonel One hundredth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, being unfit for field duty, will report in person without delay to Brig. Gen. J. R. Hawley, commanding District of Wilmington, for assignment to duty.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Wilmington, N. C., March 5, 1865.

Maj. Gen. D. N. COUCH,

Commanding Second and Third Divisions, 23d Army Corps:

GENERAL: You will please march without unnecessary delay with the Second and Third Divisions, Twenty-third Army Corps, to join the troops under Major-General Cox, now operating from New Berne toward Kinston and Goldsborough. You will take the coast road leading to New Berne as far as Onslow or its vicinity, and then the most practicable road toward Kinston, and march directly for that place unless you receive further orders from me, or unless circumstances shall render a deviation from that course evidently advisable. Your march should average at least fifteen miles per day. The third day's march will bring you to the vicinity of Onslow, from which point please report to me by courier to New Berne, informing me where you are and what point you will reach on the following day, so that I may send you further instructions if necessary; also give me all the information you may have obtained concerning the rebels in your front and other matters of interest; also inform me by the first courier, or as soon after as practicable, when and in what manner you will be able to cross Trent River. You will supply your troops from the country as far as practicable, so as to save the supplies carried in wagons for an emergency. If you find it impossible from any cause to reach Kinston or effect a junction with General Cox in that vicinity you will march by the most practicable road to New Berne.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Wilmington, N. C., March 5, 1865.

Major-General TERRY,

Commanding Provisional Corps, Wilmington, N. C.:

GENERAL: The two divisions of the Twenty-third Army Corps now here will march to-morrow to join the troops operating from New Berne, leaving only your command in this portion of the department. I shall also start for New Berne in a day or two, and will probably remain with the troops operating from that point. I have directed that the railroad from this point to Goldsborough be put in running order as soon as possible, and expect Colonel Wright here very soon with the necessary materials and workmen. I desire you to aid him as far as practicable in prosecuting the work, and to advance along the road with your main force according to the progress of the work. I may at any time desire you to join me at or near Goldsborough by a rapid march. Please make, as soon as practicable, all necessary preparations for such a movement. I presume General Sherman is now near Fayetteville and marching toward Goldsborough, which point he may reach by the 15th or 16th of this month. He may, however, come near this place and send his trains here for supplies. I have sent several couriers with dispatches to him (in cipher), and hope to hear from him in the same way in a few days. Please continue the effort to communicate with General Sherman by trustworthy scouts, and be prepared to aid him in any way or to execute any orders he may send. You will receive and act on any communication from him which may be addressed to me. I have directed Brigadier General Hawley, commanding District of Wilmington, to report to you, so that all the troops in this portion of the department will be under your command during my absence.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ARMY OF THE OHIO,

Wilmington, N. C., March 5, 1865.

Brig. Gen. JOSEPH R. HAWLEY,

Commanding District of Wilmington:

GENERAL: During my absence from Wilmington, and so long as General Terry's corps remains in this vicinity, you will report to General Terry or the officer in command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,

Major-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 4. }

HDQRS. DISTRICT OF WILMINGTON,
Wilmington, N. C., March 5, 1865.

I. Bvt. Brig. Gen. Joseph C. Abbott, commanding Second Brigade, First Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, is hereby assigned to duty as commandant of the post of Wilmington.

* * * * *

III. Maj. F. W. Prince, Sixteenth New York Heavy Artillery, is hereby assigned to the command of the post of Fort Fisher.

IV. The company of [Second] Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery at Fort Fisher, having been assigned to this command by the major-general commanding the Department of North Carolina, is directed to report to Major Prince, commanding post of Fort Fisher, N. C.

* * * * *

By command of Brig. Gen. J. R. Hawley:

E. LEWIS MOORE,

Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
Batchelder's Creek, N. C., March 5, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER U. S. NAVY,

New Berne:

I am making preparations to move some boats up the Neuse River, and would respectfully request that the picketing of the river be so thorough as to prevent any spy going up in small boat or otherwise to warn the enemy.

J. D. COX,

Major-General, Commanding.

U. S. STEAMER AGAWAM,
New Berne, N. C., March 5, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. D. Cox:

I have received a telegram from you requesting me to picket the river to prevent persons passing up in small boats, as you are making preparations to move some boats up the river. I should like to be informed what movement you propose to make, and if the naval force here can co-operate. The vessels at present stationed here draw too much water to go above this point. Having just arrived here I should like to be informed of the situation, and what is expected to be done.

A. C. RHIND,

Commander.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 6. }

HDQRS. DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
Batchelder's Creek, N. C., March 5, 1865.

The commanding general takes pleasure in announcing to the troops of the provisional brigades of the command that but few days can elapse before communication will be open with the grand army under General Sherman. They will, therefore, be but a short time longer absent from their proper commands, and the inconveniences of their present situation will soon be ended. Those whose time of service has expired will then have the opportunity of being regularly mustered out and discharged, and the others will be reunited to their old comrades. Under these circumstances he looks to them with confidence for a continuance of the zealous and cheerful service they have rendered since landing in North Carolina, and which he takes this public method of recognizing. The officers of the provisional brigades have also been in embarrassing circumstances, owing to the peculiar nature of their duties and the irregular responsibility devolving on them for arms and stores issued. Every means will be taken to remove this responsibility when they shall join their proper commands, and all who use a reasonable care and business accuracy in the performance of the duties devolving upon them need feel no anxiety lest they should be left chargeable with public property over which they would cease to have full control. This subject will receive immediate attention upon the reunion of the commands, and the proper orders will unquestionably be issued from General Sherman's headquarters disposing of the matter in a manner entirely satisfactory to those concerned.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 7. }

HDQRS. DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
Core Creek, N. C., March 5, 1865.

The First and Second Divisions, District of Beaufort, will move at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning to position at Gum Swamp beyond the crossing of the railroad and the Dover road. The infantry of General Palmer's division will move directly up the railroad; wagons and artillery moving by the most practicable route to the rear onto the Dover road, and thence to Gum Swamp, in rear of General Carter's division and train. General Carter's division will move by the Dover road. General Ruger's division, Twenty-third Corps, will remain in camp to-morrow, but General Ruger will cause a working party to be put upon the cross-road leading from the railroad to the Dover road near General Carter's present camp, and have the road put in thorough repair for passing teams and artillery.

By command of Major-General Cox:

THEO. COX,
Major and Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff, U. S. Armies:

GENERAL: In compliance with instructions, 465 officers and 167 men, prisoners of war, start for City Point to-day per steamer Illinois. I am not certain that the steamer can reach her destination, as I do not know what depth of water can be carried up James River, but the arrangement is the best that I could make for want of suitable sea-going transports.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }

No. 41.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,

Charleston, S. C., March 5, 1865.

* * * * *

III. So much of Special Orders, No. 40, paragraph III, as assigns Col. E. A. Carman to the command of the Third Brigade is hereby revoked. Colonel Carman will proceed to Savannah and await orders there to be assigned to duty. The quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation.

* * * * *

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,

First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,

Charleston, S. C., March 5, 1865.

Lieut. Col. S. L. WOODFORD,

Commanding Post of Charleston, S. C.:

COLONEL: I would suggest that two or three additional points be designated where the people can register their names and subscribe to the oath. I hear that the crowd is so large and the delay so great that many persons are obliged to spend time that they can hardly spare. I have also heard that it is proposed to get up a demonstration on Thursday next by the colored people. If it meet your approval it is very well, but the city being under martial law no assemblage should be allowed without your previous sanction. One thing more; I would suggest that an order prohibiting enlisted men being in the streets (except on duty) after retreat would at the present time assist in preventing the numerous robberies and irregularities. This need be only temporary.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. P. HATCH,

Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, near Cheraw, March 6, 1865.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD,

Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: A copy of your order issued at Easterling's for to-morrow's movement inclosed to the general-in-chief has been received.*

* See No. 54, p. 699.

The general desires me to say the order is satisfactory to him, and, in modification, has only instructed General Logan to remain in his present camp until such time as the Twentieth Corps, now passing, can get by him onto the left-hand road via Mark's Creek.

I am, general, yours, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Easterling's, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: Captain Duncan, commanding a small party of scouts dressed in rebel uniform, has just returned, having proceeded this morning to Laurel Hill, where he found a small squad of militia on picket. He left them undisturbed, returning by Springfield. The road he went out on (known as the Telegraph road) connects with the Easterling's Mill and Fayetteville road at Laurel Hill. At Springfield Captain Duncan saw a Doctor McCrea, with the rank of major in the rebel army, who, taking his party for rebels, inquired where Sherman's army was, and if there was any probability of its coming that way. On being told that it might possibly come there, he replied, "if it does we will be badly fooled, as our men are all going to Charlotte, expecting Sherman to go up there." The Easterling's Mill road is generally called the old Stage road.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES WILSON,
Colonel, Provost-Marshal-General, Army of the Tennessee.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 54,	{	HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE, Easterling's Mills, S. C., March 6, 1865.
-------------------------------------	---	---

Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, commanding Fifteenth Army Corps, will move to-morrow to the crossing of Crooked Creek. The brigade on duty in Cheraw will move with the bridge train after the return of the mounted infantry from Florence, following the left wing of the Fifteenth Army Corps (via the road by Quick's Church) to Springfield. The Seventeenth Army Corps will move to Beaver Dam Creek. The Fifteenth Army Corps will remain at Crooked Creek until the arrival of the bridge train. These headquarters will be established during to-morrow at or near Brightsville.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Phill's Creek, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to inform you, for the information of the commanding general, that the force of mounted infantry sent to destroy the Cheraw and Darlington Railroad succeeded in reaching but not in entering Florence, encountering quite a heavy force of the enemy's cavalry. I have had as yet no official report of the expedition, but hear that they have destroyed all the trestling between Cheraw and that point. As soon as Colonel Williams' report is received I will forward it to department headquarters.*

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JOHN A. LOGAN,
Major-General.

[Indorsement.]

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Easterling's Mills, March 6, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded.

A captain who accompanied the expedition reports that several trains of troops were ready to be run out of Florence.

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, near Cheraw, March 6, 1865

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: Orders of march have been changed so that the Twentieth Corps is at this moment crossing the Pedee at the same point as your command, and it is intended for it to take the left-hand road just beyond Phill's Creek and your headquarters. The general-in-chief desires you to hold your corps in camp until the Twentieth has passed and out of your way, when you will resume your march as per instructions from department headquarters. The Twentieth Corps will continue moving during the night and until out of your road.

I am, general, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Grant's Mill, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I respectfully report that in compliance with orders received from you I left my camp beyond Cheraw at 6 o'clock this morning, and crossing the pontoon bridge over the Pedee River marched to my present camp on Phill's Creek, a distance of five miles. While the rear of my division was passing through Cheraw there was a terrific explosion of powder and shell near my column, caused by some great carelessness on the part of men or officers, by which several in my division were killed and wounded. I have directed Brevet Brigadier-General Woods, commanding the First Brigade, whose command was in the immediate neighborhood when the unfortunate affair occurred, to make a report of the circumstance. My troops are facing eastward, division headquarters being near the mill. Inclosed please find complete list of casualties during the campaign.

* See Part I, p. 254.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., FIRST DIV., FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Phill's Creek, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Capt. FRED. H. WILSON,

Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen., First Div., Fifteenth Army Corps :

CAPTAIN: In reply to your communication of this date asking a detail of the circumstances attending the explosion which occurred near this command to-day, I have the honor to state that the explosion was caused by the accidental ignition of a large quantity of rebel ammunition which had been found in the town of Cheraw and hauled out and thrown in a deep ravine lying between the town and the pontoon bridge. The ammunition consisted of loaded shells and loose powder. The bottom of the ravine to the depth of four or five feet was filled with it, and powder was scattered up the banks of the ravine, and for several rods from the edge of the ravine. While the brigade was halting, having stacked arms to await the passage of the train, of which it was the rear guard, some of the men at a distance of several rods from the edge of the ravine are reported to have applied fire to some small cakes of powder found upon the ground. The fire immediately ran to the edge of the ravine, down the bank, and exploded the immense piles of ammunition in the bottom of the ravine. One man of this brigade was killed and 1 officer and 4 men wounded. After diligent inquiry I am unable to ascertain the names of the men who set fire to the powder, but have no doubt they were ignorant, as I was myself, that any explosive material was in the ravine. The following-named officers and men were near the ravine when or shortly before the explosion occurred: Capt. Edward H. Webster* and Lieut. George H. Williams,* and Private John Werden, Company G, Seventy-sixth Ohio Infantry. Sergeants Clark and King, Company A, Twelfth Indiana Infantry, have been implicated by rumor in setting fire to the powder. Corporal Sergeant and Private Freeman, of the same company, and Thomas McPeak, of H Company, all of the Twelfth Indiana Infantry, are reported to know who ignited the powder.

I have the honor to be, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. WOODS,
Brevet Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Harrington's Plantation, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command remained in camp to-day. Captured 11 prisoners.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

* Of the Twelfth Indiana Infantry.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

March 6, 1865.

General HAZEN.

Commanding Second Division, &c.:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to say that you need not pull out to-morrow morning until he communicates with you through one of his staff, but to hold your command in readiness to move as soon as the road shall be clear.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL.

Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Near Phill's Creek, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL.

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command remained in same position as on the 5th instant. Details from the two brigades are running three grist mills, from which a sufficient supply, for the present, of meal will be obtained.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH.

Brerel Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, near Irby's Plantation, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following as a report of the movements of my division this instant: I broke camp at 8 a. m., and moving through Cheraw, crossed the Pedee River, and thence upon the Fayetteville road via Harrington's plantation and Grant's Mill, and am now in bivouac near Irby's plantation in a defensible position on what is called the Sand Hill road. One of my brigades (Third) is still in Cheraw by direction of the major-general commanding corps. My command has marched a distance of eight miles.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE.

Brerel Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, Powe's Plantation, March 6, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. W. RICE,

Commanding First Brigade:

GENERAL: The Third Brigade is under orders to remain and guard the pontoon train as far as Springfield. It will, therefore, be necessary for you to throw one regiment in rear of the trains of this division, the remaining three to move on the right of the ordnance and supply trains. You will move out as soon as the trains move, without further orders.

By order of Vyt. Maj. Gen. J. M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS.

Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 59. } Bennettsville, S. C., March 6, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The movement to-morrow will be on the Fayetteville road to Beaver Dam Creek. The Third Division, Brig. Gen. M. F. Force commanding, will have the advance and will move forward at 8 a. m. The Fourth Division, Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith commanding, will follow the Third Division, being prepared to move at 9 o'clock. The First Division, Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower commanding, will follow the Fourth Division, being prepared to move at 10 o'clock. The First Michigan Engineers, Col. J. B. Yates commanding, with tool wagons and ambulances, will follow the troops of the Third Division, and their train will follow the train of the same division. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move out at 7.30 a. m. The troops will move on the right of the train, and will be disposed so as to cover it as well as practicable.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Bennettsville, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say that you will leave the Thirty-first Illinois in town until the entire command has moved out. They will then cause all stragglers to be sent to their commands and move forward. We move about eight miles.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 53. } Bennettsville, S. C., March 6, 1865.

* * * * *

II. This command will move forward at 8 a. m. to-morrow in the advance. The Second Brigade, Col. G. F. Wiles commanding, will have the advance, moving troops on right of road. The First Brigade, Col. C. Fairchild commanding, will follow the Second Brigade. Artillery and trains in usual order.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Cheraw, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing, Sneedborough:

GENERAL: I shall in person to-day cross the Pedee and go out on the main Fayetteville road about five miles, to the point on Phill's Creek where are encamped two divisions of the Fifteenth Corps. There I shall await the fact that you are all across and off for Fayetteville, and will try and hold the Right Wing ready to turn to you in case Johnston attempts to strike you in flank or to move on toward Fayetteville, aiming to arrive there or near about the same time with your rear. I propose your command should first enter and occupy Fayetteville and secure the bridge if possible, otherwise to make a lodgment across with pontoons. En route break the railroad which is known as the Wilmington and Charlotte, but is only partially down to Rockingham. It is of little importance, but being on it, we might as well use up some of its iron. At its depots you may find some corn and meal. On approaching Fayetteville you may give out that if the bridge is destroyed we will deal harshly by the town, but if there be no positive resistance and if the enemy spare the bridge I wish the town to be dealt with generously. Of course we will dispose of all public stores and property but will spare private houses. Use wheat, corn, meal, bacon, animals, wagons, &c., needed by your command, but try and keep the foragers from insulting families by word or rudeness. It might be well to instruct your brigade commanders that we are now out of South Carolina and that a little moderation may be of political consequence to us in North Carolina. At Fayetteville if we can secure boats of any kind, even coal flats, I will send down Cape Fear River the bulk of the refugees, white and black, that swells our numbers and consumes the food necessary for our combatants. I have no doubt of having daily intercourse with you by courier or in person, and only name these points that you may initiate measures to accomplish these ends. The enemy has abandoned many caissons loaded with ammunition on his route of retreat, and if you can push or threaten him about Rockingham I doubt not he will drop more. The moment General Davis strikes the plank road he should push with all possible speed into Fayetteville.

Yours, truly,

W. T. SHERMAN.

Major-General, Commanding.

SNEEDSBOROUGH, March 6, 1865—11 a. m.

Major-General SHERMAN,

General-in-Chief:

GENERAL: I have sent Williams to Cheraw to cross, with orders to push direct to McFarland's Bridge. Kilpatrick is now crossing at this point and will act on your orders of yesterday, which were forwarded to him at once.

I hope to get Davis across by daylight, and shall move with him as far as Love's Bridge, and perhaps to Fayetteville. All your directions as to the course to be pursued at Fayetteville will be remembered. We have had trouble with the bridge here, but I hope are all right now. The river is 850 feet wide and our pontoon train is not good. Boats have been lost, and the organization has run down since Buell left it; but we are all right now, and there will be some rapid marching when we get started.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. SLOCUM,

Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 19.

HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Crossing of Great Pedee River, S. C.,
March 6, 1865.

The corps will move to-morrow in the direction of Fayetteville, N. C., as follows:

General Carlin will move at daylight from the vicinity of the river via Love's (or Blue's) Bridge by way of Rockingham, or by a more direct road, leaving Rockingham to the left, if such a road can be found.

General Baird will move at daylight, and crossing as soon as he can obtain possession of the bridge, will follow General Carlin.

General Morgan will cross in rear of General Baird, and will cover the raising of the bridge, giving all necessary instructions and assistance to Lieutenant-Colonel Moore, who will report to and receive orders from him until further instructions. The reserve artillery and ammunition train will, as usual, move under General Morgan.

General Slocum, commanding Left Wing, will move with the Fourteenth Corps, and his headquarters train will be admitted to any position in the column which he may select.

Corps headquarters train will move with General Baird.

In the absence of further orders, the different commanders will march each morning at daylight and make the greatest distance possible each day, reporting their position every evening.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Crossing of Great Pedee River, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Brevet Brigadier-General BUELL,

Comdg. Second Brig., First Div., Fourteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs me to express to you his satisfaction with the energy and perseverance you have displayed in laying the bridge over the Great Pedee, and his gratification at its completion. You are now relieved from duty at the river and will march your brigade to-night with its division. During the march on Fayetteville, Lieutenant-Colonel Moore will report his command to Brigadier-General Morgan, and will raise the bridge under his directions. He will report to you again at the latter place. If you have any instructions or suggestions which will aid Colonel Moore in raising the bridge please give them to him.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, &c.,

A. C. McCLURG,
Assistant Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Sneedsborough, N. C., March 6, 1865.

This command will march to-day to Cheraw to cross the river as follows: Second Division at 8 a. m.; First Division at 9 a. m.; Third Division at 10 a. m. Each division will cover its own trains. The artillery will precede the train of the Second Division.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS.

Near Great Pedee River, March 6, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow to Mark's Creek as follows: Second Division at 6 a. m. The First Division will march in time to close up with the trains of the leading division, the Third Division marching in rear of the First Division. General Geary will march one unencumbered brigade in advance. General Ward will detail one brigade as a rear guard. One section of artillery will accompany the rear guard; the remainder of the artillery will march in rear of the advanced brigade. The artillery ammunition train will follow the train of the leading division, each division covering its own train.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., March 6, 1865—12.30 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

Sheridan will push on to Lynchburg and if information received there justifies it, he will push on into North Carolina and join you and Sherman with a cavalry force of about 8,000 men.

U. S. GRANT,

Lieutenant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
                               } ARMY OF THE OHIO,
       No. 23.               }               Wilmington, N. C., March 6, 1865.

*               *               *               *               *               *               *

IV. The Thirteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry having reported at these headquarters, in compliance with orders from headquarters Armies of the United States, will report for orders to Maj. Gen. A. H. Terry, commanding Provisional Corps.

By command of Major-General Schofield:

J. A. CAMPBELL,

Lieutenant-Colonel and Assistant Adjutant-General.

GUM SWAMP, March 6, 1865.

Col. W. W. WRIGHT, New Berne:

The old track is simply capsized from Core Creek for about five miles and a half. The remainder of the way the iron has been carried off. The plank that was sent up need not be used for our purposes, but you can use it as you originally intended.

I would like to arrange so that the road shall be finished each night to a point where our wagons may meet the trains by driving right down the old roadbed. This they can do if it be not necessary to scatter ties, &c., in advance of the point to which each day's work will finish it.

This arrangement will save several miles of travel, and as I have so few wagons it is very important to me. Still I do not wish to impede your progress.

How fast can you relay the track over the five miles from Core Creek? Has any more iron arrived?

J. D. COX,

Major-General, Commanding.

CORE CREEK, March 6, 1865.

Captain KIMBALL,

Assistant Quartermaster, New Berne:

Send up to Captain Loud, of the escort, three days' rations of forage for 105 horses. Let me know if the steamers and flats are ready for use, and whether you can ship on them rations for the command. I will telegraph again whether I wish them to start, but want everything ready.

J. D. COX,

Major-General, Commanding.

---

CORE CREEK, March 6, 1865.

Col. J. W. BARRIGER,

Commissary of Subsistence, New Berne:

How long do you stay, and shall I see you? Arrangements should be made to supply all our force here, including the division of Twenty-third Corps, through the depot commissary of subsistence at New Berne, to simplify matters. General Schofield expects to join me at Kinston in a few days, marching across the country.

J. D. COX,

Major-General, Commanding.

---

CORE CREEK, March 6, 1865.

Capt. A. C. RHIND,

Commanding U. S. Steamer Agawam:

I expect within two days to move some steamers with flats in tow up the Neuse to Kinston, if I shall be in possession there; otherwise to such point on the river near there as I may reach. I have one army gun-boat at New Berne to convoy them. I understood from Captain Truxtun that your vessels drew too much water to go up the river, and therefore supposed it would be impossible for you to assist me. I expect to learn definitely whether the ram reported at Kinston is likely to be used, before ordering the boats up. My object in moving the vessels is twofold—first, to bring up supplies; and second, to use them as a ferry or pontoon bridge, according to circumstances. If you can suggest any way in which the navy can co-operate I shall be most happy. The harbor master at New Berne can give you full particulars.

J. D. COX,

Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,

Gum Creek, March 6, 1865.

Brevet Major-General RUGER,

Commanding First Division, Twenty-third Army Corps:

GENERAL: You may move your division to this point in the morning, starting at 7 o'clock. If you can possibly do so, let the men bring four days' rations with them, as it is very important to be as little dependent upon the railroad for a few days as possible. I would like to have all the rations you do not use which are now at the railroad near you sent up to the Core Creek Station at the terminus of the road, immediately, so that wagons from General Carter's command may meet them there to-night. Please furnish a detail to load them as soon as the railroad can furnish a train. A portion of General Palmer's division is pushing forward in advance of this position to-night, and I hope to-morrow to be able to close in upon Kinston and test the question of the rebels making a stand there.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

GUM SWAMP, March 6, 1865.

Brigadier-General PALMER,
Commanding Division, District of Beaufort:

GENERAL: I think your wagons had better go back by way of the railroad, to get either forage or supplies as you may think best. If Claassen gets a position over Southwest Creek I shall want your division to move up to that point very early in the morning, but in that case the baggage will have to be left till the wagons come up again.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST DIV., 23D ARMY CORPS,
No. 11. } Near Core Creek, March 6, 1865.

The division will move for Gum Creek at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning (March 7). The command will move in the following order, viz: First, First Brigade, Colonel Orr commanding; second, Third Brigade, Colonel Thomas commanding; third, Second Brigade, Colonel McQuiston commanding. The batteries and baggage will move by the Dover road, and two regiments will be detailed from the Second Brigade to guard the batteries and baggage. The senior officer of the two regiments detailed from the Second Brigade will report to these headquarters for instructions to-morrow morning at 6 o'clock. The pickets and all safeguards will be drawn in at daylight to-morrow morning (March 7).

By command of Brig. Gen. T. H. Ruger:

J. E. CRAVENS,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. FIRST BRIG., SECOND DIV.,
No. 14. } TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Wilmington, N. C., March 6, 1865.

The circumstances connected with my assuming command of this brigade occasions embarrassment which cannot be expressed. I can only hope that the former mutual confidence which has existed may still continue, and that I may be able to reflect credit upon the gallant brigade which I have the honor to command.

ORLANDO H. MOORE,
Colonel Twenty-fifth Michigan Volunteer Infantry, Comdg. Brigade.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 5. }

HDQRS. DISTRICT OF WILMINGTON,
Wilmington, N. C., March 6, 1865.

* * * * *

V. Maj. F. W. Prince, Sixteenth New York Heavy Artillery, commanding post of Fort Fisher, N. C., will, in addition to his other duties, act as provost-marshal of the post.

By command of Brig. Gen. J. R. Hawley:

E. LEWIS MOORE,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF WILMINGTON,
Wilmington, N. C., March 6, 1865.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. J. C. ABBOTT, Commanding Post:

SIR: The brigadier-general commanding wishes you to take immediate charge of the defenses of Wilmington, including the outpost or bridge-head just over Brunswick River, protecting the pontoon bridge. You will examine the line of Smith's Creek and Jumping Run and the ponds, &c., with a view to defense and to the picket-line which will be needed when Major-General Terry's command shall be withdrawn. You will complete the earth-work laid out for the protection of Wilmington and Weldon Railroad depots, which are to be used as Government warehouses. Upon application to Major Terry, assistant adjutant-general, &c., a detail of 200 will be furnished for that purpose. Captain McClure, of the engineers, is in immediate charge of that work and of other engineering operations about Wilmington. He will report to you as post commandant. It will be well to visit the outpost on Brunswick River soon. It consists of 200 men, under Captain Lawrence, Seventh New Hampshire. Ought to be relieved as often as once a week. You will endeavor to keep a careful report of all transient detachments of troops, requiring them to make daily field returns to you. You should be able to give the entire force in the city daily, including all prisoners, convalescents, recruits, &c., as they will be constantly presenting requisitions for rations.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. LEWIS MOORE,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK, U. S. Army,
Chief of Staff, Armies of the United States:

GENERAL: I inclose herewith a copy of a letter received from Brigadier-General Webster, chief of staff to General Sherman, requesting that no troops be taken from Savannah to be replaced by inferior ones.* Two brigades were at the time under orders to proceed from Savannah to Cape Fear River, in compliance with your order of February 19. I have authorized General Grover, commanding at Savannah, to retain for the present one of the brigades named, and I presume that by the time we have transportation for them something more definite than the information we now possess will be ascertained concerning the rebel force at Augusta and other future movements.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General, Commanding.

* See Webster to Gillmore, 2d, p. 658.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,
Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: Your instructions to put a steamer on as an express vessel to bring information from Georgetown have been received. I have no steamer here suited for the purpose but the Anna Maria, and for her I have no coal. I have not yet been able to send the remainder of the One hundred and thirty-seventh New York and the additional regiment ordered to that point.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Major-General GILLMORE,
Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: Your instructions to have the interior passage opened to Hilton Head will be carried out as soon as possible. We are hampered here by want of coal or steamers suitable for the purpose that will burn wood.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

The quartermaster tells me that the Coit will be detained until 4 p. m. to get the regiment ordered down on board. It will not occur again.

J. P. H.,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
 No. 12. }

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
 DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 6, 1865.

* * * * *

III. No officer or soldier will be allowed to enter any house within the limits of the district under pretense of searching for arms or property liable to confiscation without written authority from Captain Sturdevant, with the following exceptions:

First. Authority from the headquarters, signed by commanding general.

Second. Authority of the commanding officer of the post of Charleston, signed by himself.

Third. Commanders of columns moving through the country may designate, by written orders during the march, officers for this purpose.

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 42. }

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 6, 1865.

* * * * *

II. Col. E. A. Kozlay, Fifty-fourth New York Volunteers, having reported at these headquarters, is hereby ordered to report with his command to Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig, commanding defenses of Charleston, for assignment to duty.

* * * * *

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

---

HEADQUARTERS POST OF CHARLESTON,
Charleston, S. C., March 6, 1865.

Rev. JOSEPH P. THOMPSON, D. D.,

President of the American Union Commission, New York City:

REVEREND AND DEAR SIR: Mr. Mahlon T. Hewitt, of your city, has called upon me in behalf of the American Union Mission to ascertain the true condition of the people of Charleston, and to devise some method by which the suffering and want occasioned by the rebellion may be most surely alleviated. We thank you for this prompt indication that the men of the North sympathize in the afflictions of their fellow countrymen, and desire to meet them when returning to loyalty in the true spirit of a Christian brotherhood. The suffering here is great, nor is it confined to the poorer class alone. Charleston is to-day cut off from the back country by the presence of intervening armies. Families who have heretofore derived their income from country estates are now, of necessity, in want. Others whose property has been gradually absorbed into rebel bonds are penniless. The rebel currency is worthless. Thus many who have been tenderly reared are now suffering. Instances of want come daily and hourly to my notice, which I am powerless to alleviate. Major-General Gillmore, commanding this department, generously turned over most of the rice captured in the city to a committee, who are distributing it for the relief of the most necessitous. But this supply can only last for a few days at the best, and does not begin to answer our wants. We need money, provisions, clothing, and medicines and delicacies for the sick. You cannot do too much for us. Your agent, Mr. Hewitt, has, at my suggestion, invited several prominent residents of Charleston to organize as an auxiliary association to your commission, and thus insure the safe and equitable distribution of the charity which you so nobly offer. These gentlemen have accepted, and the loyal people of the North may rely upon the faithful performance of the trust. I believe that the nation will respond to the appeal which your commission makes in behalf of this great charity, and look forward hopefully to the day when the olive branch you proffer shall be planted beside hearthstones made desolate by war, and bear the golden fruitage of reconciliation and peace.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

STEWART L. WOODFORD,
Colonel 103d U. S. Colored Troops, Commanding the City.

SAVANNAH, GA., March 6, 1865.

[General GILLMORE:]

MY DEAR GENERAL: On my return to Savannah from the prison at Andersonville, Ga., the poor Catholics of my charge mentioned to me the awful news "that the Catholic graveyard was turned into a fortification, the ashes of the dead uplited into a military breast-work, and that the remains of the bishops, priests, and sisters of mercy (victims of yellow fever in 1857 and 1858) had to be removed to save them from profanation." It must be in extreme military necessity when the ashes of the dead are disturbed or breast-works erected on their place of repose. Might can effect it, but does Right sanction it?

I look on you and Major-General Foster to be brave and christian generals, and I am deeply afflicted that any subordinate should, by any act of his or their anti-Catholic feeling, tarnish the dignity and honor of your names.

I feel that the spirits of the dead, whose bodies have been exhumed, command of you in justice and religion to have them replaced in their former place of rest, and the injuries done the Catholic graveyard repaired.

With every sentiment of esteem, I am, my dear general, yours, truly,
 PETER WHELAN,
 "Catholic Priest."

CITY POINT, VA., March 6, 1865.

Maj. Gen. C. SCHURZ,

Washington City:

Lientenant-General Grant directs me to respectfully acknowledge the receipt by him of your letter of date 26th February, and to say to you in reply that, upon the completion of your present duties, you will be ordered to report to Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman, as you request. As soon as you are ready to go to Sherman, please notify these headquarters and the necessary orders will be sent you at once.

T. S. BOWERS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., March 7, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,

Secretary of War:

The Richmond papers to-day contain nothing of particular interest. The following items are taken from the Whig:

THE NEWS EMBARGO.

Since the newspapers, in compliance with the request of the military authorities, have suspended the publication of war news, the people have become more eager than before for information from the localities of active operations. All sorts of rumors, favorable and otherwise, are put into circulation, amplified, contradicted, and reasserted until a perfect muddle prevails, and nobody knows whether events are progressing satisfactorily or adversely. The usual sources of information, the newspapers, are looked to in vain, and the existing uncertainty must therefore continue until the military importance of reticence has passed by or been qualified by developments. When that time arrives the press will, we presume, be promptly notified, in order that it may resume its vocation of furnishing the public with reliable information from the seats of war. In the meantime, if anything of interest transpires which can be published, we are confident that the intelligent Secretary of War will cause the news to be promptly communicated to the press.

From Columbia.

It is certain that a large portion of the beautiful city of Columbia, S. C., has been burned, but as yet we have no positive information as to the extent of the fire, or boundaries of the burned district.

The Charlotte Bulletin of the 26th ultimo says that it was rumored that the city had been garrisoned by 2,500 negro troops, and that a raid had been made on the workshops of the Greenville railroad at Helena, in Newberry District, and much property destroyed.

The Greensborough Patriot of the 2d instant says that Sherman left no forces at all in Columbia, and it understands his troops did very little damage to private property. The old capitol building was burnt, the fire originating from shells which were thrown at the new capitol, near the old building. Railroad communication is now open to Columbia, says the Patriot, and those of the citizens who fled on Sherman's approach are returning to their homes.

From the Carolinas.

The Goldsborough Journal of the 4th instant says:

"From Kinston we have the assurance that all is quiet. Not only has no advance been made by the enemy, but it is thought doubtful by outsiders if there is any large force at New Berne. At all events no apprehension is felt there, and we know our military authorities are on the alert.

"From Schotfield's command, on the line of the Wilmington road, we have very little. There has been no advance in this direction during the past week." Referring to Sherman, the Journal says: "We shall not be much surprised to hear of a retrograde movement on his part; indeed, we fear he will make one."

Details of the above news are contraband. The public must be patient, with the assurance that all is going well.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

—

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Brightsville, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: Captain Duncan has been to the railroad to-day. He burned some trestle-work and learned that the rebels themselves had broken the road below Lumberton. I send you herewith papers of the 1st and 2d, which he brought in. My left column will to-morrow move to Laurinburg, and my right to Gilopolis. My headquarters will be to-morrow night at Laurinburg.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

—

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Crooked Creek, March 7, 1865.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: Yours of this date, inclosing papers, is received. The general-in-chief will move to-morrow with this corps, and meet you at Laurinburg.

I am, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 55.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Brightsville, S. C., March 7, 1865.

* * * * *

III. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move forward toward Laurinburg with the head of column reaching that point. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will move to Gilopolis. General Blair will send forward his mounted infantry and secure Campbell's Bridge. These headquarters will be established during to-morrow at or near Laurinburg.

IV. Corps commanders will endeavor to have collected for each division and to keep constantly on hand at least fifteen days' supply of fresh beef on the hoofs, and to have at least that amount on hand at the close of the campaign. In collecting cattle care should be taken to collect those of good size and only such as will make good beef.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
March 7, 1865.

Captain VAN DYKE,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to inform you that the Third and Second Divisions will be in camp at the crossing of the main Fayetteville road over Crooked Creek. The position of the other divisions I presume you know. General Logan is now selecting a camp for Second Division, and in consequence thereof—

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
March 7, 1865.

Captain VAN DYKE,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: The pontoon train is up, and has gone into park. It will move to-morrow morning with this column. Laurinburg is Laurel Hill. The citizens speak of the places as one and the same.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Brightsville, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,

Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I have the honor to receive your note per Major Woodhull. The general commanding desires me to say that General Blair reports that every house on his line of march to-day was pillaged, trunks broken open, jewelry, silver, &c., taken. An order on the subject will be issued to-morrow night. In the meantime he asks you to take sufficient measures to prevent such outrages, and be sure that the division commanders know the officers in charge of the foraging parties.

Unless these outrages are stopped an order will have to be issued discontinuing foraging entirely. I inclose you General B.'s letter on the subject, which you will please forward to General Sherman after reading.*

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Goodwin's Mills, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that I left camp near Grant's Mill at 6 this morning, and, moving by a plantation road over Naked Creek, went into camp again this p. m., on the Fayetteville stage road just beyond Goodwin's Mills, facing north and east, so as to cover the road. My headquarters are near the mill. I inclose the report of Brevet Brigadier-General Woods, commanding First Brigade, concerning the explosion that occurred near Cheraw yesterday morning.† While I lament the unfortunate affair, I cannot by any inquiry discover who was the guilty or careless party that occasioned the explosion, but I do complain against, and blame, the officer charged with the duty of destroying the ammunition at Cheraw for carelessness in exposing it in the neighborhood of trains and troops, and at a point where it was known a column would be obliged to pass.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Brightsville, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. R. WOODS,

Commanding First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: In case you receive no orders to the contrary from General Logan, the general commanding directs that you move forward at 7 a. m. to-morrow, on the same road on which you are encamped to Laurinburg. General Corse's division will in that case follow you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Crooked Creek, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command marched on Fayetteville road at 12 m., crossed Phill's and Heel Creeks, and camped on east side Crooked Creek at 6 p. m., having marched eleven miles. Captured two prisoners.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

* See p. 717.

† See Woods to Wilson, p. 701.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
On Crooked Creek, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this division moved from camp near Phill's Creek at 9 o'clock this a. m. and marched, via neighborhood, Society Hill, and Fayetteville roads, to Crooked Creek; distance, twelve miles. The command is encamped in column by regiments on the north side of the main road, fronting east. These headquarters are in rear of the division, about 200 yards from road.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, near Goodwin's Mills, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the movements of my division this instant: Pursuant to instructions received from corps headquarters, I broke camp at 7 a. m. and moved my command to Goodwin's Mills, or vicinity, on Crooked Creek, via Irby's and Easterling's Mills, and the junction of the Bennettsville and Cheraw roads, making a march of ten miles, the greater portion of the route pursued being upon what the citizens designate as the old Stage road, leading direct to Springfield. I would respectfully state that my command barely escaped very serious detention by the burning of Irby's and Easterling's Mills by the Seventeenth Army Corps, the fire communicating to both bridges, and had it not been for the foragers, who were in time to extinguish partially the flames, I should not have been able to make the point designated in your order until a much later hour.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 36.	}	HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS, In the Field, Goodwin's Mills, S. C., March 7, 1865.
-------------------------------------	---	---

* * * * *

VI. The troops of this division will march at 8 a. m. to-morrow, the 8th instant, on Laurinburg, taking the old Stage road, the Second Brigade in advance, with one regiment marching abreast of the battery; the First Brigade in rear, with three regiments marching abreast of the supply and ordnance trains. Trains in same order as heretofore.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, Goodwin's Mills, March 7, 1865.

Col. F. J. HURLBUT,
Commanding Third Brigade:

COLONEL: This division will follow the First Division to-morrow, starting at or near 8 a. m., taking the old Stage road and passing through Springfield to Laurinburg, on the railroad. You will start in season to join us here if possible.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

P. S.—If you can join the division more easily by moving forward on your road to Springfield, there will be no objection, although it seems safer to come this way, providing you are not over three or four miles away.

By order:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Beaver Dam Creek, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Dept. and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that my command is in camp on the east side of Beaver Dam Creek, with the mounted infantry at Bam's Bridge. Every house that we pass is pillaged, and as we are about to enter the State of North Carolina, I think the people should be treated more considerately. The only way to prevent this state of affairs is to put a stop to foraging. I have enough in my wagons to last to Goldsborough, and I suppose the rest of the army has also. I respectfully suggest that an order be issued against foraging.

Very respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

Major-General HOWARD,
Commanding Army and Department of the Tennessee:

Every house we pass is pillaged precisely as the one you spoke of in your dispatch yesterday. There is no cure except the entire cessation of foraging. The system is vicious and its results utterly deplorable. As there is no longer a necessity for it I beg that an order may be issued to prohibit it. General Sherman said that when we reached North Carolina he would pay for everything brought to us and forbid foraging. I believe it would have an excellent effect upon the country to change our policy in this respect, and consider it my duty to submit the matter to your consideration.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

[Indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Brightsville, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded for the consideration of the general-in-chief.
 All mounted parties of foragers will be dismounted to-morrow, except one for each division.

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.
 Per VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Brightsville, S. C., March 7, 1865.
 Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication in relation to foraging. In reply, the general directs me to say that an order will be issued on the subject to-morrow night. In the meantime he asks you to do whatever you think proper to regulate the foraging in your own command.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Brightsville, S. C., March 7, 1865.
 Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general wishes to know as soon as possible to-morrow whether Campbell's Bridge has been destroyed, and if so, whether or not you will need any of the pontoon bridge.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
 No. 60. } Beaver Dam Church, March 7, 1865.

* * * * *

II. The movement to-morrow will be on the Fayetteville road to Campbell's Bridge. The Third Division, Brig. Gen. M. F. Force commanding, will have the advance and will move forward at 8 a. m. The Fourth Division, Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith commanding, will follow the Third Division. The First Division, Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower commanding, will follow the Fourth Division. The First Michigan Engineers will follow the Third Division with tool wagons and ambulances. Their train will follow the train of the same division. The troops will move on the right of the train. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move forward at 7 o'clock and secure Campbell's Bridge on Lumber River. The mounted foragers of the several divisions will report to Lieutenant-Colonel Hughes, commanding Ninth Illinois, for duty, and will start sufficiently early to reach him at 7 o'clock. He is encamped at Bam's Bridge, about three miles from camp on the main road.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS THIRD DIVISION,
No. 54. } SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Beaver Dam Church, March 7, 1865.

This command will move forward at 8 a. m. to-morrow in the advance. The First Brigade, Col. C. Fairchild commanding, will have the advance, moving troops on the right of the road. The Second Brigade, Col. G. F. Wiles commanding, will follow the First Brigade, detailing one regiment for rear guard. Artillery and trains in usual order. Mounted foragers will report to Lieutenant-Colonel Hughes, commanding Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry, three miles in the advance, at 7 a. m.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING,
No. 8. } ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Near Sneedsborough, N. C., March 7, 1865.

All officers and soldiers of this command are reminded that the State of North Carolina was one of the last States that passed the ordinance of secession, and that from the commencement of the war there has been in this State a strong Union party. Her action on the question of secession was undoubtedly brought about by the traitorous acts of other States, and by intrigue and dishonesty on the part of her own citizens. The act never even met the approval of the great mass of her people. It should not be assumed that the inhabitants are enemies to our Government, and it is to be hoped that every effort will be made to prevent any wanton destruction of property, or any unkind treatment of citizens.

By command of Maj. Gen. H. W. Slocum:

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Captain and Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Pedee River, N. C., March 7, 1865—9.30 p. m.

Lieutenant-Colonel MCCLURG,

Asst. Adj. Gen. and Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: Everything safely over the river. The pontoon is being taken up. No appearance of the enemy.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Four Miles east of Cheraw, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: We commenced crossing the bridge at 4 p. m. yesterday, and have kept at work all night. The rear division is now nearly up to this point. I have started the Second Division toward the railroad at Mark's Creek. The other divisions will follow and encamp in that vicinity to-night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

---

ORDERS.] HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Station 103, Rockingham and Wilmington Railroad,
March 7, 1865.

This command will march toward McFarland's Bridge, over Lumber River, to-morrow as follows: First Division at 7 a. m., Third Division at 8 a. m., Second Division at 9 a. m. General Jackson will march two brigades in advance of the trains. General Geary will detail one brigade as rear guard. One section of artillery will march with the rear guard, one battery in rear of General Jackson's advanced brigade, the balance at the head of the trains. The artillery ammunition train will march in rear of the First Division train.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. CAVALRY COMMAND, MIL. DIV. OF THE MISS.,
Rockingham, N. C., March 7, 1865—11 a. m.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,
Asst. Adjt. Gen., Military Division of the Mississippi:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that I have just occupied this place, driving out Butler's cavalry, the rear guard of General Hardee's forces. Hardee made this place his headquarters Saturday evening. His troops commenced coming in Friday morning; the last came in Saturday night and left Monday. The Ninth Pennsylvania Cavalry and Tenth Ohio are now pursuing Butler, who has taken the road north, running through Fair Ground to Ashborough. Hardee has taken the road, so far as I can learn, through Ashborough to Greensborough. He had with him about 15,000 men with artillery. I can hear nothing from Fayetteville. I believe Hardee is marching to form a junction with Beauregard, and I think will march first to Ashborough and thence to Greensborough, or Raleigh, as the case may be, and my scouts meet no resistance yet, reported on roads leading to Fayetteville. The enemy made inquiries in this place about bridges over Haw River, and I think if he was marching on Raleigh would move as high up as Ashborough in order to avoid Cape Fear River, as he has no pontoon bridges, so far as I can learn, with him.

The enemy had three citizens under arrest for burning bridges over Lumber River. It is reported the enemy has about 800 of our prisoners of war with them who have taken the oath of allegiance to the Confederate Government, and they are using them to work upon the roads. Four came in to my lines this morning. Our troops under Schofield, it is reported here (and I think the information reliable), were at Elizabeth, thirty-eight miles below Fayetteville, on Friday last. This alone would have driven Hardee north, unless the enemy intended to fight at Fayetteville. I will promptly advise you as to all movements of the enemy in this direction.

I am, major, very respectfully, &c.,

J. KILPATRICK,

Brevet Major-General, Commanding Cavalry, Army of Invasion.

HQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

Camp on Fayetteville Road, Thirteen Miles from Cheraw,

In the Field, March 7, 1865.

General KILPATRICK,

Commanding Cavalry, Rockingham :

GENERAL: Yours of this date, 11 a. m., is just received. I am well pleased to learn that Hardee is making well north. Though willing now to fight Joe Johnston, who commands in chief, I would prefer to work over to the new base to clear our columns of the impedimenta and make junction with Schofield, who is doubtless working up toward Goldsborough. If I can get that point secure, with both railroads down to Wilmington and New Berne, you will perceive what a base I will have. Raleigh will be easy of conquest and we can drive all Carolina north of the Roanoke, where the concentrated armies of the Confederacy will have contracted foraging ground. But of that hereafter. Now I will make for Fayetteville, and only ask you to keep up the seeming appearance of pushing after Hardee, but really keep your command well in hand, and the horses and men in the best possible order as to food and forage. To-morrow night I will send messengers with my orders for Schofield, but shall aim to reach Goldsborough. I don't want to make "Southling." Our infantry columns are doing well. I will let Davis enter Fayetteville first, and if the people will spare the bridge, I want all to be easy on the citizens, but if they burn bridges or bother us we must go the whole figure. In conversation with people evince a determination to maintain the Union, but treat all other matters as beneath a soldier's notice. Give us a whole country with a Government and leave details to the lawyers. Deal as moderately and fairly by the North Carolinians as possible, and fan the flame of discord already subsisting between them and their proud cousins of South Carolina. There never was much love between them. Touch upon the chivalry of running away, always leaving their families for us to feed and protect, and then on purpose accusing us of all sorts of rudeness. I expect to reach Fayetteville by Saturday, and will determine as quick as possible what is next for you, but I don't see as you can do better than hold on that flank. There is a body of infantry and cavalry left down in the pocket about Florence that might be caught, but it won't pay to chase them—horse flesh is too precious. Keep your horses in the best order for the day when we must have a big fight—not, however, on this turn.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,

Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Commanding Department of North Carolina:

GENERAL: There are several thousand men here belonging to General Sherman's army that ought to join him in North Carolina as soon as possible. If you have any steamers that you can spare to aid in transporting them, I would like them to be sent here, as all my sea-going steamers are now engaged in carrying troops to Wilmington.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major General of Volunteers.

P. S.—If you can spare me a cargo of steamer's coal it would greatly facilitate the moving of the troops. I am borrowing coal from the navy, but they have very little.

Q. A. GILLMORE.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
New Berne, N. C., March 7, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,
Commanding Armies of the United States, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: The troops under General Cox have reached Southwest Creek, three miles this side of Kinston, to-day. They find the enemy in considerable force behind the creek. Hoke's command is said to be there; whether any other troops, is not ascertained. I arrived here to-day; I will go to the front to-morrow. The repair of the railroad is now being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. Some iron arrived from the North this evening, and no doubt it will now come as fast as it can be put down. The troops are several miles in advance of the present terminus of the road, and I think will be able to keep ahead of it. If Hoke's command alone is in our front, he cannot detain us long. If a greater force, I may have to wait till General Couch arrives. But I shall make the attempt to take Kinston at once unless satisfied that it cannot be done. Palmer's delay is unfortunate, since it has given the enemy time to concentrate, and has kept the railroad workmen idle some time longer than necessary. Since Cox arrived he has pushed matters with all possible vigor, and I will do all I can to make up lost time. Colonel Wright thinks he can repair the road to Goldsborough by the 20th, if we are able to clear the way. I will write more fully as soon as I develop the real condition of affairs in front.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

MOREHEAD CITY, March 7, 1865.

Major-General Cox:

I have just arrived. Will go to New Berne to-day. Couch marched yesterday. He will have canvas pontoon bridge here in a day or two. I have your letter of the 4th. All right.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
Gum Swamp, March 7, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,

Commanding Department of North Carolina:

GENERAL: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your dispatch announcing your arrival at Morehead. My advance was last night at Wise's Forks, four miles above here, and five miles from Kinston. Palmer's and Carter's divisions camped here, and Ruger at Core Creek. Palmer moved early this morning to occupy the various road crossings of Southwest Creek, three miles from Kinston, the last point the enemy can make a stand at outside of the works at the bridge. Carter moves up to Wise's Forks to support Palmer as soon as he issues rations, which arrived this morning, and Ruger moves up to this point to-day. The cavalry are on my left covering the Trent road and feeling well out in the direction of Kenansville. Major Dow, of my staff, with a troop of cavalry is reconnoitering the roads leading to Neuse River, with a view of determining at what points it would be practicable to reach the river for the purpose of crossing or receiving supplies. I have this morning received the information from New Berne that the obstructions in the river are sufficiently removed to permit the passage of boats. My lines to-night will practically invest the bridge-head at Kinston by occupying the line of Southwest Creek, my right being within reaching distance of the river. A deserter who came in last night reports that several trains loaded with re-enforcements arrived at Kinston two days ago. He thinks a division arrived, but his information, beyond the fact of the trains arriving, is vague. I had purposed ordering the boats up the river to-morrow, but deem it prudent to try to learn the truth of this report first, as the river is very narrow and the current swift, and a small force of the enemy with a battery could stop, if not destroy, the boats from points on the other bank. I shall be to-day ten miles beyond the railroad terminus with my troops, being seven miles here from the point reached by the construction corps last night. Most of the troops have three days' rations from this morning. The distance is fully as great as it is practicable to supply ourselves with our few wagons, but as I found the rails remaining by the roadside five miles farther than I expected, I hope Colonel Wright will speedily lessen the distance between us and the railroad terminus. I had intended moving my headquarters this p. m. to Wise's Forks, but will leave them here till I hear from you again. If you notify me by telegraph when you may purpose coming up I will have horses at the end of the railroad.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

WISE'S FORKS, March 7, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,

New Berne:

The advance of both Palmer's and Carter's columns find the enemy in position with artillery at both the Dover road and railroad crossings of Southwest Creek, three miles from Kinston. I am developing their force and the nature of the ground, letting one division operate on each road, and sending a regiment over to the Neuse road crossing still farther to the right. My written dispatch will throw some light on the topography. General Palmer has reliable intelligence that General Hoke was in person at this point yesterday, as our advance drove back their skirmishers. Several accounts corroborate the report of considerable re-enforcements arriving at Kinston.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

NEW BERNE, March 7, 1865.

Major-General Cox:

I will run up and see you to-morrow if you are within reach, but do not let it interfere with any movements you intend to make. Please inform me of the situation and prospects. I find the boats have not gone up the river, and, from what you say of the roads, I infer you will have to wait for the repair of the railroad.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

NEW BERNE, March 7, 1865.

Major-General Cox,
Gum Swamp:

I have received your letter of to-day and also your later dispatch by telegraph. I have no doubt Hoke's command is in your front. Of course it will have to be disposed of before any attempt is made to cross the river. I will run up early in the morning to see you. Three or four horses will be sufficient.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

GUM SWAMP, March 7, 1865.

Col. W. W. WRIGHT,
Chief Engineer, &c., New Berne:

Of course I cannot ask you to retard the work so much as you say it would to try to use the railroad bed for wagons. I will do the best I can, having stores left at Core Creek Station until you reach Rouse's Station. General Schofield will be in town to-day. Please see him and explain matters fully.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

GUM SWAMP, March 7, 1865.

Capt. A. S. KIMBALL,
Assistant Quartermaster, New Berne:

Your dispatch received. No rations need be loaded in the boats till I send further orders. I am making reconnaissances to-day and advancing my position. What intrenching tools have you?

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

GUM SWAMP, March 7, 1865.

Mr. VAN DYNE,

Railroad Superintendent, New Berne:

Whatever supplies or forage are now at our camp of day before yesterday I want moved to the Core Creek Station above the bridge as soon as possible. I have not teams enough to bring them from the former position, as it is several miles farther by road.

J. D. COX,

Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,

Gum Swamp, March 7, 1865.

Capt. A. C. RHIND, U. S. Navy:

Your dispatch in regard to the removal of obstructions received. I am to-day advancing my lines within three miles of Kinston and making reconnaissances of the approaches to the river to determine at what point boats can best reach me. A deserter came in last night, reporting heavy re-enforcements arriving at Kinston the day before. If this prove true, it may make it imprudent to send boats up the river immediately, but I hope to get more definite knowledge to-day, and will inform you.

J. D. COX,

*Major-General, Commanding.*WISE'S FORKS, March 7, 1865—2.30 p. m.

[General J. D. Cox:]

GENERAL: You have probably heard that the enemy have one or two guns in position at the railroad crossing of Southwest Creek. General Harland sends me word that he is trying to get around them. General Hoke, Colonel Whitford, Colonel Starr, and Colonel Beard were all here yesterday. This is positive, as they conversed with people here who know them. What forces are now at Kinston we can only guess at. It is estimated by country people as high as 15,000. Major Clarkson, of the Twelfth [New York] Cavalry, is here, having come across from the Trent road. The line of Southwest Creek is apparently to be defended by the rebels. I have sent 300 infantry, a section of artillery, and a company of cavalry to Jackson's Mill to find out what is there. Colonel Claassen found the enemy's skirmishers here yesterday, and it was during the skirmishing that Hoke was here.

Very respectfully, yours,

I. N. PALMER,

Brigadier-General.

P. S.—I send the map, which is, I think, perfectly correct.

I. N. P.

WILMINGTON, March 7, 1865—8 p. m.

(Received 11th.)

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

General Schofield is at New Berne. Cox, with his own division and Meagher's and General Heintzelman's troops, is on the way from New Berne to Goldsborough, and is probably now near Kinston. General D. N. Couch, with his own and McLean's division, left here yesterday to join Cox, taking the shore road. My troops are at this place. General Schofield has directed the railroad from here to Goldsborough to be repaired, but the construction party not yet arrived. I am to advance toward Goldsborough as fast as repairs are effected.

TERRY,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. PROVISIONAL CORPS, DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Wilmington, N. C., March 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Commanding Department of North Carolina:

GENERAL: Mr. Richardson arrived here this afternoon from Whiteville, which place he left this morning. He reports that on the 28th ultimo, or 1st instant, General Sherman was at Cheraw; that a portion of Hardee's force was north and east of that place, and the remainder of it south and west, Sherman being between; that the portion of the enemy on the right bank of the river marched by Darlington to the Pedee railroad bridge, and thence northward, and that on the 5th Sherman was at Bennettsville. I think it must be that the whole of Hardee's force was on the right bank, and that it was Beauregard who was on the left. I questioned Mr. Richardson with reference to this, and he was by no means certain that such was not the case. All the rolling-stock of the Wilmington and Manchester road has been carried to the west of Sumter, and efforts to repair the Wateree bridge are now being made, so that it may be carried farther south. Mr. Richardson brings no other information.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ALFRED H. TERRY,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT, DEPT. OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, March 7, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,
Commanding Department of the South:

GENERAL: A regiment from Hallowell's brigade was ordered to go to Hilton Head on the Coit's last trip. I am informed that the regiment arrived at the wharf about half an hour after the steamer had left. They leave to-day.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. P. HATCH,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS,
City of Charleston, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Lieut. L. B. PERRY,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

LIEUTENANT: I am informed that the colored troops encamped near the intrenchments are continually committing depredations upon the property of the citizens living near there. With the troops under my command at present I am powerless to prevent these acts, and would, therefore, respectfully request that the commanding officer of those troops be directed to keep them within the limits of their regimental camps, as previously requested by me.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
STEWART L. WOODFORD,
Colonel 103d U. S. Colored Troops, Commanding Post.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN DISTRICT,
 No. 43. } DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 7, 1865.

* * * * *

IV. The battalion of the Third Rhode Island Artillery, now in this city, will immediately report to Brigadier-General Schimmelfennig, commanding Defenses of Charleston, for assignment to duty.

* * * * *

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:
LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen.

---

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Hilton Head, S. C., March 7, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. C. GROVER,
Comdg. Dist. of Savannah, Dept. of the South, Savannah, Ga.:

GENERAL: I am instructed by the major-general commanding to state that the two brigades of your command ordered to go north, as per letter from these headquarters February 28, be prepared to leave as soon as possible. Transportation will be sent without delay. The major-general commanding suggests that you request General Easton, chief quartermaster of General Sherman's army, to supply you with as much transportation as he can for your troops to this place for transshipment.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
W. L. M. BURGER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Laurel Hill, N. C., March 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: General Blair was crossing the Lumber River at Campbell's Bridge when my aide, Captain Gilbreth, left him this afternoon. He feared the river would rise, and was, therefore, pushing his whole command across to-night. General Logan has three divisions here, and one (Corse's) three miles back, at Springfield. The latter is reported well closed up. Between Springfield and this place the road is quite bad, but will be easily corduroyed in the morning. Gilchrist's Bridge is burned. General Logan sent his advance and pioneers thither this afternoon to be ready to go to work in the morning and repair it. The river is not wide, there being only one trestle to the bridge.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 56.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Laurel Hill, N. C., March 8, 1865.

I. The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move to-morrow, crossing Lumber River at Gilchrist's Bridge. One division will move thence, by the right-hand road, to Randalsville. The other three divisions, moving on the direct road, will cross Raft Swamp with at least one division. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will move from Campbell's Bridge, by both routes—two divisions by the lower, the other by the road via Melrose, the head of both columns reaching the cross-road beyond Raft Swamp if possible. The bridge train will follow the main column of the Fifteenth Army Corps. These headquarters will follow the leading division of the Fifteenth Army Corps, and be established at Randalsville.

II. Hereafter but one mounted foraging party, to consist of sixty men with the proper number of commissioned officers, will be allowed for each division. The division commanders will be careful to select reliable officers for the command of these parties, who shall be held strictly accountable for the conduct of their men. Whenever it may be necessary to send a party from the main body, a commissioned officer will be sent in charge, but in no case will it be allowed to go in advance of the infantry advance guard of the leading division, or more than five miles from either flank of the column. All surplus animals will be disposed of by the corps quartermasters for the benefit of the artillery, bridge train, &c. Foraging for the artillery trains, including the pontoons and the different headquarters, will continue as at present.

III. If not already done, there will be organized for each division a provost guard, to consist of as many picked and resolute men as the division commanders may deem sufficient. On the march the guard of the leading division will march with the advance guard, and establish guards at every house on the line of march, which will be relieved by the guard of each succeeding division as it comes up.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Laurel Hill, N. C., March 8, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to inform you for the information of the commanding general that staff officers from the rear of Generals Smith's and Woods' trains report the roads almost impassable and the trains of both divisions terribly stretched out and miring badly. The rear of General Woods' train is reported as about one mile and a half this side of Springfield with about seventy wagons on the road.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN A. LOGAN,

Major-General.

---

HQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Laurel Hill, N. C., March 8, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I respectfully report that I left my camp near Goodwin's Mills at 6 this a. m., and marching along the old Stage road, via Springfield, reached Laurel Hill with my head of column about 3 p. m., making a distance of some thirteen miles over very hard roads, and encamped at the cross-roads at this place, facing my division northeast. My headquarters are near department headquarters. There are no casualties in my division to-day. The roads have become so heavy on account of the rains, which, added to the darkness of the night, obliges me to encamp my ordnance train and one brigade back on the road about two miles from this point.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,

Brevet Major-General.

---

HQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Jordan's Creek, N. C., March 8, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command marched on the Fayetteville road to-day, crossing the State line one mile from camp, crossing Joe's Creek and Little Pedee River, and reaching Laurel Hill at 12 m. Crossed Jordan's Creek and camped on east side, having marched fifteen miles. Captured three prisoners. Sent two regiments forward to Lumber River.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,

Major-General.

---

HQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, Springfield, S. C., March 8, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the movements of my division to-day, and the reasons for my failing to reach the point designated in your orders. I broke camp at 8 a. m., moving in rear of the First Division of this corps, upon the old Stage road to this point, ten miles distant. It was about 10 a. m. before the rear of General Woods' train left its park, and my movements have been necessarily very slow on account of the road being rendered almost impassable by the trains of the First Division, and the heavy rain which has been falling the entire day. Upon arriving at Springfield with my head of column at 5 p. m., I found the bridge across Gum Swamp had been rendered impassable by the troops just crossed, and requiring some two hours' labor before I could pass my trains, and also that my column was considerably extended, with every prospect that the trains would not all be up to this point before 10 p. m. Under these circumstances I thought it advisable to place my command in bivouac here, which I have done, selecting a defensible position, believing that it would meet with your approval. My men have placed three miles of corduroy during the march of this instant. Major Hoover, aide-de-camp to the major-general commanding corps, is here and will remain with me over night, as he thinks it almost impossible to ride over the road again after dark.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL } HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
FIELD ORDERS, } FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 37. } In the Field, Springfield, N. C., March 8, 1865.

I. The troops composing this division will march at 6 a. m. to-morrow, the 9th instant, on direct road to Laurel Hill. The Third Brigade in advance, with two regiments abreast of battery and train. First Brigade in the center marching abreast of ordnance and supply trains. Second Brigade in rear, with one regiment moving to the right of trains. Trains as heretofore. Pioneer corps will move out upon the road at 6 sharp, repairing roads as it advances.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Gilopolis, N. C., March 8, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,

Asst. Adjt. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report that one division of my command is in camp at this point. The road has become so bad that the other divisions will be obliged to encamp within about three miles of here. The entire road has to be corduroyed. They will move forward at daylight in the morning. The bridge on Lumber River was saved by dashing on the enemy's cavalry. There is water on each side of the bridge and it will be necessary to bridge it in the morning should the river rise much to-night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Laurel Hill, N. C., March 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: As General Sherman has expressed the wish that the Left Wing should occupy Fayetteville first, the general requests that you do not send forward to occupy the city with your mounted infantry in advance of General Slocum's column.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }      HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
                               }      Gilopolis, N. C., March 8, 1865.
       No. 61.                    }

The movement to-morrow will be to Raft Swamp. The Third Division will move forward at 8 a. m., on the lower Fayetteville road. The Fourth Division will move from its present camp at daylight and on reaching this point will take the upper Fayetteville road, encamping to-night at the cross-roads beyond Raft Swamp. The First Division will follow the Fourth Division to this point, where it will take the lower road and follow the Third Division. The First Michigan Engineers will follow the Fourth Division. Corps headquarters will move on the lower road. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move forward at 7.30 a. m.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair :

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Love's Bridge, S. C., March 8, 1865—4.30 p. m.

Major-General SHERMAN, General-in-Chief:

GENERAL: General Carlin's division of Fourteenth Corps arrived at this point (Love's or Blue's Bridge) at 3 p. m. to-day, driving a small squad of rebel cavalry. They found the bridge in good repair, a few planks only being burned. Carlin's division crossed Lumber River and are in camp. The other two divisions of the corps are a few miles in rear. I expect to reach Fayetteville on Saturday. We captured a citizen to-day who left Fayetteville yesterday. He reports a large force at that place; says General Bragg was there and General Johnston hourly expected; says they have earth-works on the plank road near the arsenal. We also captured a cavalryman at this point bearing dispatches from General Butler to Colonel Rutledge, a copy of which I herewith inclose. I have heard nothing direct from Kilpatrick since we started, but I am informed that he was at Rockingham to-day. We took a road leaving Rockingham on our left. We have found the roads good, but supplies very scarce. I think Williams has McFarland's Bridge, but I shall direct him to write to you in full as to his own operations. If he has secured that bridge both corps will encamp to-morrow night near Rockfish Creek.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. W. SLOCUM,
Major-General, Commanding.

[Inclosure.]

HEADQUARTERS,
Bostick's Mills, March 8, 1865—8 a. m.

Colonel RUTLEDGE, Commanding Brigade:

COLONEL: I wish you to halt where you are until I join you, which I expect to do to-night. General Hampton is across the Pedee with Wheeler and 500 men for our command. I presume they will also move toward Fayetteville or down the Pedee, as the enemy may move. Send the dispatch to Colonel Childs on to Fayetteville, and inquire if anything has been heard of Robertson's brigade, which should be there by this time.

Respectfully, &c.,

M. C. BUTLER,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Ten Miles from the Crossing, March 8, 1865—Daylight.

Major-General SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing, Army of Georgia :

GENERAL: Baird is moving out from his camp at this place. Morgan got across the river last night at 9 o'clock, and will march from that place at daylight. We will make a long march to-day if all things prosper as expected.

Yours, &c.,

JEF. C. DAVIS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
In the Field, S. C., March 8, 1865—12.30 p. m.

General DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Corps :

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say that the advance is within five miles of Love's Bridge. He wishes you to caution the commander of your rear division to keep well closed up, as we have just captured a dispatch from General Butler, showing his headquarters to be at Bostick's Mills and also that Hampton and Wheeler have crossed the Pedee. He does not know where Kilpatrick is.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Twenty-five Miles northeast of Pedee Crossing, N. C.,
March 8, 1865—7 p. m.

Lieut. Col. A. C. McCLURG,
Asst. Adjt. Gen. and Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps :

COLONEL: My command has gone into camp at this point in accordance with directions from corps commander, making a march to-day of twenty-five miles. Trains are coming in finely.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,
Brigadier-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Love's Bridge, S. C., March 8, 1865—4.30 p. m.

Brevet Major-General WILLIAMS,
Commanding Twentieth Corps :

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say that he wishes to know to-night whether you have got possession of McFarland's Bridge, and also the location of your corps. He wishes you to send the inclosed dispatch to General Sherman,* wherever he may be, by an intelligent man, and also to inform him yourself of your movements and location to-day. He directs that you shall not push forward farther to-morrow than Rockfish Creek, encamping between that creek and Nicholson's Creek.

---

* See 4.30 p. m., p. 731.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Six Miles from McFarland's Bridge, March 8, 1865.

Brigadier-General JACKSON,
Commanding First Division:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs that you send a brigade forward at daylight to repair the roads between this point and the bridge, detailing Captain Gavitt to superintend the work. The remainder of your command will move forward as the road is repaired. He further directs you to collect all the axes in your command, and send them forward with your advanced brigade.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 22. }

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION,
TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, N. C., March 8, 1865.

This command will march to-morrow at 6.30 a. m. Order of brigades: First, Second, and Third.

* * * * *

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John W. Geary:

W. T. FORBES,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
Six Miles from McFarland's Bridge, March 8, 1865.

Brigadier-General WARD,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs me to inform you that this command will move to-morrow to McFarland's Bridge, and desires that you move your command at 6 o'clock in the morning.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

GUM SWAMP, March 8, 1865.

Mr. H. K. CLARKE,
Operator:

The dispatch you sent up last night by mistake of one of my staff was not delivered to me till this morning. See if General Schofield has left and if not telegraph him in my name, saying horses will await him at the end of the railroad track, and I will be here till he comes up. If he has started, say the same to him when he reaches Core Creek. It is entirely impossible to get teams for the construction party—we have not enough for the most pressing necessities.

By an extra effort I think they should bring the wire to this point, and then we could more easily await the building of the railroad. Let me know if you can find any shelter near the present terminus of the wire so as to open an office there. Ordinary messages may be sent up by signal.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
Gum Swamp, March 8, 1865.

Brig. Gen. S. P. CARTER,
Commanding Second Division:

Your dispatch of this morning received. The movement on the left can scarcely be more than a reconnaissance, but I would like to have you communicate with Colonel Savage and direct him to meet it. You may send a regiment toward the same flank from Wise's Forks to support the cavalry if needed, and push the cavalry picket on the British road close up to the upper Trent road, to discover what may be the real truth of the movement. These reconnoitering parties must go out boldly and learn definitely what they can. I am just going over to General Palmer's headquarters and will take yours en route on my return. General Schofield is with me.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
Wise's Cross-Roads, March 8, 1865.

Colonel WRIGHT, or
Mr. CHIPMAN,

Railroad Agent:

Stop the train of ammunition at Core Creek Station, for we cannot use the Biddle road.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

GUM SWAMP, March 8, 1865.

Brigadier-General PALMER,
Commanding, &c.:

SIR: I have allowed a Mr. Patterson to report to you on a pass given by Captain Parkinson, assistant adjutant-general, and with him a negro man, and a white man named Jones. The rule I prefer to adopt is that no citizens whatever be allowed to go through the lines unless they are our own scouts, and I would suggest that the officers at New Berne be instructed to allow none to come to the front till we are fully in possession of Kinston. I neglected to tell Major Dow to say that it will be necessary to keep the wagons going to supply the command, and that the quartermaster and commissary of subsistence departments will need to systematize the delivery of forage and rations at the different stations as the railroad progresses, keeping themselves fully advised as to the advance of the road. We have to send to the Core Creek Station to-day, but I hope to-morrow will enable the railroad to deliver supplies at the Biddle cross-road.

Very respectfully,

J. D. COX,
Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, } HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION,
No. 12. } TWENTY-THIRD ARMY CORPS,
Near Gum Swamp, N. C., March 8, 1865.

Capt. Henry A. Hale, assistant adjutant-general of volunteers, having reported for duty at these headquarters in compliance with Special Orders, No. 19, headquarters Army of the Ohio, is hereby announced as assistant adjutant-general of this division.

T. H. RUGER,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Laurel Hill, N. C., Wednesday, March 8, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER, WILMINGTON, N. C.:

We are marching on Fayetteville; will be there Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, and then will march for Goldsborough. If possible send a boat up Cape Fear River, and have word conveyed to General Schofield that I expect to meet him about Goldsborough. We are all well and have done finely. The rain makes our roads difficult, and may delay me about Fayetteville, in which case I would like to have some bread, sugar, and coffee. We have an abundance of all else. I expect to reach Goldsborough by the 20th instant.

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General.

SMITHVILLE, N. C., March 8, 1865.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL OF MAJOR-GENERAL TERRY:

SIR: I have the honor to report that I have just arrived with a detachment of the Third Brigade, Second Division, Nineteenth Army Corps, on board steamship Ashland, from Savannah, Ga. Now at anchor at this place.

Very respectfully, yours,

J. P. RICHARDSON,
Lieutenant-Colonel, Commanding Detachment.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF WILMINGTON,
Wilmington, N. C., March 8, 1865.

Bvt. Brig. Gen. J. C. ABBOTT,
Commanding Post:

GENERAL: The brigadier-general commanding directs that you relieve Captain Lawrence, in charge of the outpost at Brunswick River, immediately, and that you report whether or not any of Captain Lawrence's men have been captured. He further directs that you instruct the commanding officer of the guard on that side of the river to question all people who come in, and send them directly to him; or, if at night and the news is important, send them directly to General Terry. News of Sherman is wanted.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

E. LEWIS MOORE,
Captain and Assistant Adjutant-General.

HILTON HEAD, S. C., March 8, 1865.

(Received 1 p. m. 17th.)

Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK,
Chief of Staff:

GENERAL: Your letters of the 25th and 27th, and General Grant's dispatch of the 25th, are received. The only railroad I wish to open is the one between Charleston and Savannah, in order to save water transportation and establish telegraph communication. White troops are being sent to Cape Fear River as fast as transportation will allow. One brigade started three days ago; another will commence going to-day or to-morrow. I would suggest that orders be issued to stop sending men belonging to General Sherman's army here to join him. Over 6,000 are here now. I request that a couple of good steamers be sent to help transport those men to North Carolina. I do not know where Sherman is, or whether he has effected a junction with Schofield yet.

Very respectfully,

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General of Volunteers.

P. S.—March 14.—I have nothing new to add. About 5,000 white troops will be detached from this department under General Grant's order of February 19. All but 1,800 of them have already gone. The balance are ready and will go in a day or two.

Q. A. GILLMORE,
Major-General.

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., March 8, 1865.

Maj. Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE,
Hilton Head, S. C.:

GENERAL: The severity of the weather for the past few weeks detained vessels in the coal-shipping ports so that there was great difficulty in supplying the Potomac and James Rivers and North Carolina movements. It was supposed that you had a good supply. Your consumption appears to have increased. Whatever is possible will be done to supply you rapidly. The demands upon the ocean transports of the country are now enormous, and repeated orders have been sent to Southern ports not to delay coal and other supply vessels. The Southern ports have been nearly bare of vessels suited to our uses. Send back our ships.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster-General, Brevet Major-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 13.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 8, 1865.

Numerous applications for the restoration of captured property are daily received at these headquarters, the persons applying producing certificates of having taken the oath of allegiance to the United States Government. So many of these cases have occurred as to lead to a suspicion that the desire to receive a horse or mule may have induced some unprincipled persons to profess loyalty, and take and subscribe to the oath, with no intention of being truly loyal citizens. The President of the United States, by his proclamation of December 8, 1863, was pleased to pardon (with certain exceptions) such persons who have been engaged in rebellion as should take and subscribe to a certain oath. It is not understood that the expression, restoration of rights of property, in the proclamation referred to, means the restoration of property. Persons engaged in rebellion lost all rights of property. By taking the oath prescribed their right to hold property is restored to them, but no claim is given them by that act to property which has already passed into the hands of the Government, either by process of law, or as a military necessity. It is, therefore, announced that citizens of the United States applying for the restoration of property taken for the use of the Government must be prepared to prove that they have remained loyal to the United States Government during the present rebellion, or that they held, at the time of the seizure, a certificate that they had already complied with the terms of the proclamation.

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 44.

HDQRS. NORTHERN DISTRICT,
DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 8, 1865.

I. The Thirty-third U. S. Colored Troops is hereby relieved in this district, and will immediately report to Brevet Major-General Grover, commanding U. S. forces at Savannah. The quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation.

* * * * *

By command of Brig. Gen. John P. Hatch:

LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF SAVANNAH,
Savannah, Ga., March 8, 1865.

ASST. ADJT. GEN., HDQRS. DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH:

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of yesterday, ordering another brigade north, and in reply to state that the brigade is in readiness, and will embark as soon as transportation is ready. General Easton has left this district not to return, and at present we have no transportation. I would respectfully urge the importance of the arrival of the colored brigade before the bulk of the remaining brigade which is under orders embarks. Its non-arrival in time would greatly embarrass us.

C. GROVER,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 57.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Randalsville, N. C., March 9, 1865.

The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move to-morrow and cross Rockfish Creek, and the head of column, if possible, across Little Rockfish Creek. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will move by the Fayetteville southern plank road, crossing, if possible, with the head of column, Little Rockfish Creek. A section of the pontoon train will move near the head of column of the Fifteenth Army Corps. These headquarters will follow the Fourth Division, Seventeenth Army Corps.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
March 9, 1865—10.05 p. m.

Captain VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to inform you that the roads have been rendered almost impassable by the rain of this afternoon and evening, and that we have been unable to move the divisions as far as was contemplated. General Hazen has two brigades in camp about five miles from Lumber River, on the main road to Fayetteville, with his supply train and advance train in park about three miles back. He cannot move forward his wagons until the road is corduroyed almost the entire way. Night overtook him struggling through the swamp. General Smith is now crossing Lumber River, and General Logan is back at the river urging him across.

The First and Fourth Divisions, I presume, are in camp on the other side of Lumber River, and cannot cross till daylight. I think it will take all day to-morrow to close the corps up on the line of Randalsville. If it is found that the road via that village is better than this one, the general may send the Third, First, and Fourth Divisions by that route to Fayetteville. This road is wretched, and is becoming worse at almost every moment.

I am, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Near Shoe Heel Creek, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Major WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I respectfully report that leaving my camp at 12 m. to-day, I crossed Jordan's Creek after General John E. Smith, and continued in his rear toward Gilchrist's Bridge over low swampy roads, made much worse by the heavy rains that came on during the afternoon. At dark my head of column was at Mr. Banks' plantation, four miles from the bridge. Here I found the greater part of the Third Division train just ahead of me in the timber, with roads such as I knew would detain them most of the night, and my own column being much stretched out over the road, I concluded to go into camp, selecting the best ground for my purpose near Shoe Heel Creek.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Laurel Hill, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to request you to leave two regiments in your present camp to wait until the pontoon train shall have come up, to act as guard for the same.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
March 9, 1865.

Major-General HAZEN, U. S. Army,

Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The pontoon train is three or four miles back on the road from this point. It was ordered forward at light this morning. Owing to the condition of the roads it is impossible to say when it can be up to and across Jordan's Creek, hence my note of this morning requesting that you would leave two regiments in your present camp to await its arrival.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Bethel Church, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command marched at 6.30 a. m. on the Fayetteville road, crossing Shoe Heel Creek and reaching Lumber River at Gilchrist's Bridge at 11.30 a. m., where halted half an hour, then crossed on pontoon bridge and moved forward to Bethel Church, near Raft Swamp, where camped, having marched fourteen miles. The trains were left along the road this evening, the roads being impassable.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Laurel Hill, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this division moved from camp near Crooked Creek at 9 a. m. yesterday, the 8th instant, and marched, following the Second Division, to Laurel Hill; distance, thirteen miles. The roads (three miles and a half of which had to be corduroyed) were in very bad condition. One brigade (the First) is encamped parallel with the Rockingham road, its right resting upon the Fayetteville road. The other (Second) covers the Rockingham road. The artillery and trains are in rear of the First Brigade. The rear of the command arrived at camp at 3:30 o'clock this a. m. Headquarters are on the right of and near the First Brigade.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

SPECIAL } HDQRS. 4TH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS,
FIELD ORDERS, } In the Field, Lumber Creek, N. C.,
No. 38. } March 9, 1865.

I. The troops will move to-morrow, the 10th instant, on the Fayetteville road, crossing Lumber Creek. The trains will concentrate near the camp of the Third Brigade. Upon moving from that point the First Brigade will have the advance, the Second Brigade the center, and the Third Brigade the rear. At daybreak General Rice will move forward with all trains parked in the vicinity of his command, and will put his whole force at work to hurry them forward to the mill. Colonel Adams will operate with General Rice's brigade. Colonel Hurlbut will at daybreak move one regiment back to the mill, armed with axes, and repair the roads from that point toward the river, in conjunction with the pioneer corps.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Randalsville, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,

Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: The general commanding directs me to inform you that there is a road leading from the cross-roads beyond Raft Swamp to Lumber bridge, which he will direct Giles Smith's division to move on. There is also a road from Donderach to the same point, but it is not as good as the other.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 62. } On Raft Swamp, N. C., March 9, 1865.

The movement to-morrow will be to Rockfish Creek. The Third Division will move forward at 8 a. m.: the First Division will move forward at daylight, following the route of the Third Division; the Fourth Division will move forward at 7 o'clock, taking the first good cross-road striking across the lower road. The First Michigan Engineers will follow the Fourth Division. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move forward at 7.30 a. m.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Raft Swamp, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Brig. Gen. M. F. FORCE,
Commanding Third Division:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding instructs me to direct you to move forward on the direct Fayetteville road at 8 a. m. to-morrow. He wishes that, if you can obtain harness, you put eight mules on your ordnance train.

Very respectfully,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

SPECIAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 56. } Lumberton Cross-Roads, N. C., March 9, 1865.

This command will move at 8 a. m. to-morrow. The First Brigade, Col. C. Fairchild commanding, will have the advance, moving troops on the right of the road. The Second Brigade, Col. G. F. Wiles commanding, will follow the First Brigade, detailing one regiment for rear guard. Artillery and trains in usual order.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Twenty-Mile Post, March 9, 1865—9 p. m.

Captain DECHERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report, for the information of the general commanding, that Carlin's division is going into camp at this place; Morgan's, two miles and a half in rear. Prisoners report Hardee moving on a road to our left for Fayetteville. He is force-marching, and has probably passed to our front. I have no report from Kilpatrick to-day. The rain has made the roads very bad.

Yours, &c.,

JEF. C. DAVIS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
March 9, 1865—9 p. m.

Lieutenant-Colonel MCCLURG,
Chief of Staff, Fourteenth Army Corps:

COLONEL: The excessive rains have destroyed what little of the road was left, and it will be with the greatest difficulty to get the trains into park before daylight. From present indications the whole road will have to be corduroyed. Every effort will be made to overcome the difficulty.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES D. MORGAN,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near McFarland's Bridge, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: In compliance with directions from Major-General Slocum, I have the honor to report that I reached McFarland's Bridge last night. I found the bridge badly destroyed. It will take me all day to-day to repair it, and the road on this side, which for three miles is bad. I shall make every effort to get my corps across the river to-day. We are very short of tools for bridge-building. The bridge was burned three days ago.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Lore's Bridge, S. C., March 9, 1865.

Brevet Major-General WILLIAMS,
Commanding Twentieth Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the major-general commanding to say that he will push on with this column to-day as far as Rockfish Creek, and perhaps a short distance beyond. There is a large cavalry force of the enemy in this vicinity, near Solemn Grove. General Slocum directs that when you get across the river you move on without further orders. He wishes you to report to him to-night your progress. The pontoon train has been ordered to you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Buffalo Creek, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Capt. R. P. DECHERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, Left Wing:

CAPTAIN: We completed the bridge across the Lumber Creek at 3.30 p. m. and have been crossing troops since. We had a bridge to make across a creek west. The road on both sides we were obliged to corduroy. The road so far this side of Lumber Creek is of the worst character. I shall get over all I can to-night and move at daylight in the morning. The heavy rains are delaying everything; there is scarcely a foot of road passable. Major Nichols, of General Sherman's staff, was here this afternoon. The Fifteenth Corps was to encamp to-night at Randalsville Post-Office. I will make all progress I can to-morrow and report in the evening. Please let me know by bearer your probable headquarters to-morrow night.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,

Buffalo Creek, N. C., March 9, 1865.

This command will move to-morrow toward Fayetteville, N. C., as follows: First Division will march at 6 o'clock in the morning on the Fayetteville road, unencumbered. General Jackson will use two brigades to corduroy the road, holding the other as an advance guard. Every point of the road liable to give way will be thoroughly put in order for passage of the trains. General Ward will cover the trains of the First and Third Divisions, moving out as soon as the road is made practicable. General Geary will move with his own train, in the rear, with one brigade as a rear guard. The pontoon train will be moved to the front of the leading division train as soon as practicable. Each division commander will use all possible means to bring forward the trains under his charge. The artillery and its train, and the corps supply train, will move in the same order as to-day. The tool wagons of each division will march at the head of the brigade to which they belong.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,

Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,

New Berne, March 9, 1865.

Lieut. Gen. U. S. GRANT,

Commanding Armies of the United States, City Point, Va.:

GENERAL: Yesterday the enemy assumed the offensive; recrossed Southwest Creek some distance to the left of General Cox's position, and drove back a brigade which was reconnoitering for a crossing of the creek, but did not succeed in disturbing the main line. The enemy maintained his ground on this side of the creek and is now intrenching in Cox's immediate front. The loss was not very large on either side. Hoke has been re-enforced by troops from Johnston's army, one division probably, and I think more are expected. We can make no further progress until General Couch arrives, which should be within two or three days. Meanwhile Colonel Wright will have all he can do to complete the road to where the troops now are. I inclose a letter just received from General Terry giving the latest information of General Sherman.* Mr. Richardson is a very reliable man, and derived his information from a source he fully credits. I fear General Sherman is finding very bad roads. I sent to-day a dispatch in cipher, to be forwarded from Wilmington, giving him the situation here, and stating that I did not think it at all certain that I would be able to get Goldsborough before he arrives. My belief is that all of Johnston's force will be concentrated here, now that Sherman has turned toward the coast. In that case I will hardly be able to do more than hold my own with my present force. I cannot reduce Terry's command unless I give up the idea of opening the road from Wilmington—at least, until I know where General Sherman is going. If he moves for Goldsborough, Hardee, who appears to have been left in rear, will have nothing better to do than to interfere with Terry's operations. One steamer load of troops have arrived from Savannah, but I have not learned what others may be expected, nor when. These detachments do not amount to much. Palmer's command, including the fragments brought here by Meagher, are little better than militia. I think more troops could be used here to advantage if, in view of your general plan, they are not more needed elsewhere. As soon as Couch gets up I will test the question as to what can be done. It is raining almost constantly and the country is nearly covered with water. Fortunately, the effect is not so bad here as in a clay soil, but it makes some of the swamps and streams impassable.

* See Terry to Schofield, March 7, p. 726.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

_____
Major-General.

P. S.—Major-General Schofield left for the front this morning without signing the above, and has since directed me to forward it with this explanation.

Very respectfully,

G. W. SCHOFIELD,
Brevet Brigadier-General.

[Indorsement.]

HEADQUARTERS ARMIES OF THE UNITED STATES,
City Point, Va., March 13, 1865.

Respectfully forwarded for the information of the Secretary of War.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

_____
NEW BERNE, March 9, 1865.

Major-General SHERMAN:

The enemy has checked our advance at Southwest Creek, this side of Kinston. A portion of Johnston's force is here, and I presume the rest will be concentrated in my front, now that you are understood to have turned toward the coast. This makes it probable that I will not be able to take Goldsborough or even Kinston before you come up. I will work as far forward as I can and put the railroad in order as far as I go.

SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

_____
NEW BERNE, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Lieutenant-Colonel CAMPBELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Wilmington:

Move your office to this place without delay.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

_____
NEW BERNE, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Brig. Gen. L. C. EASTON,
Quartermaster, Morehead City:

Will you now assume the direction of all quartermaster's business on this line? If so, I will leave my chief quartermaster at Wilmington, where he now is.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

I stopped in at Wilmington on my way here and conferred with General Dodge, and I would be very glad to have him left at that place to carry out my views. In fact, it is very important that he should remain there. I will attend to all matters in this vicinity. Can I depend on General Dodge remaining at Wilmington?

L. C. EASTON,
Chief Quartermaster.

---

MOREHEAD CITY, March 9, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD

Commanding Department of North Carolina:

We are at Morehead City, establishing a grand depot of supplies for all the armies operating under General Sherman, and desire that you direct 1,500 men to report to General Easton, chief quartermaster, for guards and working parties. It is important that the troops report in regiments, with their organizations complete.

L. C. EASTON,
Brigadier-General.
A. BECKWITH,
Brevet Brigadier-General.

---

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Generals EASTON and BECKWITH,

Morehead City, N. C.:

I have received your dispatch asking for 1,500 troops for guards and working parties for the depot at Morehead. It will hardly be possible to furnish so many men at present, but I will order the commanding officer at Morehead to furnish all the men he can, and will give you all you want as soon as possible. I would, however, suggest the employment of citizens and contraband laborers, so as to lighten the demand for troops.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

Your telegram received. We have employed every citizen and contraband we can get hold of, and shall continue to do so, but cannot get a sufficient number to do the work. We shall call on the troops for labor only when it is absolutely necessary to do so.

L. C. EASTON,
Brigadier-General and Chief Quartermaster.

---

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Brigadier-General DODGE, Wilmington:

General Easton is here and will attend to all matters on this line. You will remain at Wilmington and carry out his views there.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 9, 1865.

General EASTON,
Morehead City:

I have telegraphed General Dodge to remain at Wilmington and carry out your views there.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

There has just arrived in the harbor a steam-boat load of troops from Savannah. I should prefer to have these troops to any others, if you can let them remain as a part of those asked for this morning.

L. C. EASTON,
Brigadier-General.

---

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 9, 1865.

General EASTON,
Morehead City:

You may have the troops which arrive from Savannah, but I may need them here for a short time. Please have them ready to come up by rail if called for.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 9, 1865.

COMMANDING OFFICER MOREHEAD CITY:

You will please report to Brigadier-General Easton, chief quartermaster, at Morehead, and furnish him for guards and laborers such numbers of men as he may require, to the extent of the force under your command.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Brig. Gen. L. C. EASTON,
Morehead City:

I have not yet heard from General Sherman. It would be well to have both here and at Wilmington supplies enough to last his army for a few days, but I would not unload the bulk of the supplies until we learn what point he will strike.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

NEW BERNE, March 9, 1865.

Colonel MCCHESENEY,
Morehead:

Send Captain Atwill with his two companies to this place by rail. Send them this evening, if practicable.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

NEW BERNE, March 9, 1865.

Major-General Cox,

In the Field :

I have not yet heard from General Couch, and fear he has not made the progress that was expected. I must get in communication with him as soon as possible and make arrangements to get him across Trent River without delay. I will not go to the front to-day unless you have serious work. Please keep me advised.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

WISE'S FORKS, March 9, 1865—11 a. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,

New Berne :

No serious work along my line this morning, though the enemy have a line of works where they were yesterday and the skirmishing has been lively. They have not made any demonstration beyond my left that I have discovered, but General Palmer reported about an hour ago that some force was reported moving across his front toward the Neuse road. His position is not as near the creek as we supposed yesterday, and he does not command the crossing at the Neuse road, but only observes it. I have sent two regiments over to re-enforce him and await further reports. We are having the greatest difficulty in getting up supplies and ammunition. Will you please have Colonel Stewart, the commandant at New Berne, take precautions to have some vedettes well out on the Neuse road and to keep his command in as much readiness for any contingency as practicable. I have sent him no warning on the subject as yet.

J. D. COX,
Major-General.

---

NEW BERNE, March 9, 1865—1.40 p. m.

Major-General Cox,

Wise's Forks :

I have your dispatch of 11 a. m. General Palmer telegraphed to Colonel Stewart this morning the report of the enemy's movement on the Neuse road, and added, as understood, that the enemy had put a pontoon bridge over Neuse River. Do you know anything of such a report? Colonel Stewart has sent scouts on the Neuse road. Some wagons were sent up this morning, and I will have more sent as soon as possible. I hear nothing from General Couch yet.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

MARCH 9, 1865—5.30 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,

New Berne :

I do not credit the pontoon-bridge story. General Palmer expects definite information shortly and will send it to you. Our right has been threatened by demonstrations, but nothing serious has been attempted. Stovall's brigade of Hardee's troops is with Hoke, besides Whitford's brigade. The information on which the attack was made yesterday was given by three deserting bounty jumpers. A hundred rebels are reported to be prowling somewhere between the railroad and the Neuse in our rear. I have a party in chase.

J. D. COX,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
New Berne, March 9, 1865.

Major-General COX:

I have just seen a dispatch from General Palmer to the naval commander saying the enemy has a pontoon bridge over Neuse River eleven miles below Kinston, and asking him to send boats up to destroy it. What is the foundation for this report? How is it that General Palmer is arranging such matters with the naval officer without reference to you or me? Your cavalry can certainly learn the fact whether the enemy is on the Neuse road in a few hours at most. You are much nearer the point where the enemy is said to be crossing than this place is, and there is but a small squad of cavalry here. It would be well to have your cavalry patrol the river some miles below where you are.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

WISE'S FORKS, March 9, 1865—12 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,
New Berne:

I have tried to get reliable information as to the rumored pontoon bridge. I put no faith in the story. General Palmer has been directed to get immediate and explicit information from the cavalry patrols on his flank on Neuse road and forward it to you. He telegraphed the naval officer on the first report, supposing haste to be necessary. It was an unintentional mistake on his part. Rebel skirmishers very active to-night, but no appearance of serious movement as yet.

J. D. COX,
Major-General.

MERRITT'S HOUSE, March 9, 1865—3 p. m.

Maj. THEODORE COX,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

MAJOR: A scouting party sent out by me on the road leading from McDaniel's to the upper Trent road met a force of cavalry numbering about seventy-five on the Cob road. They mounted and charged my force, which consisted of twenty men, but followed them only a short distance. One brass piece was seen in the same position it occupied yesterday. We were unable to take any prisoners.

Respectfully,

JAS. W. SAVAGE,
Twelfth New York Cavalry.

P. S.—Since writing the above a party sent down the Trent road has returned. It went to Nethercutt's Forks and returned without seeing any indications of the enemy.

JAS. W. SAVAGE.

WISE'S FORKS, March 9, 1865.

Col. W. W. WRIGHT,
Chief Engineer, New Berne:

Cannot your construction corps put a causeway in a bad place in the Biddle road this morning? I cannot send back for the purpose, and yet am very desirous of having that cross-road so that I can use it and save the distance.

J. D. COX,
Major-General.

---

WISE'S FORKS, March 9, 1865—Noon.

Captain KIMBALL,
Assistant Quartermaster, New Berne:

Some ammunition was to have come up last night in special train. I cannot learn that it came. Two hundred and fifty thousand rounds should be at the Biddle road station for us. Please see the ordnance officer at once, and if it has not gone, send it with least possible delay. Commissary stores should also be there, so that there may be no delay whenever our teams go there, as we can hardly exist by keeping every wagon going. Watch the forage also. Answer.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
Wise's Forks, March 9, 1865—6.15 a. m.

Brigadier-General PALMER,
Commanding First Division:

There is as yet no apparent change of position in the front of this wing. I am anxious to get an early report from you. Did you push a picket up the railroad, and if so how near to the creek? Also what did you send over to the Neuse road, and have you any intelligence from there? If the enemy's force is not greatly increased we can easily maintain our position. But please remember what I urged last evening as to the imperative necessity of watching and, if possible, guarding the Neuse road crossing of the creek. Let me know also if your wagons have come up and what your condition as to supplies is.

Very respectfully, &c.,

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

---

WISE'S FORKS, March 9, 1865—8.30 a. m.

Brigadier-General PALMER,
Commanding First Division, District of Beaufort:

GENERAL: Your note is received. I extremely regret the inconveniences of our position, but regard it our duty to maintain it till it becomes manifestly untenable. General Schofield will be up this morning again. A demonstration of some sort is now being made along this front. This makes it all the more important to watch your right. Till the wagons return you and we have no means of moving baggage, I suppose. In case of necessity we should, of course, unite all our force at Gum Swamp again. I would prefer to run the risk of sending some force from this wing to you rather than have you move from yours, though at present a lively skirmish is going on in front. Stimulate your men to great activity and courage. I wish you had mentioned precisely what your condition is as to rations.

J. D. COX,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST DIVISION, &c.,
March 9, 1865—9.20 a. m.

[Major-General Cox:]

GENERAL: Pickets report again the enemy massing at some point on our right. I will find, if possible, where the point is. The First and Third Brigades of my division have rations for to-day, except one regiment, which has none; and I will send by the orderly the state of the rations in Second Brigade. We must expect either an attack on our right soon, or that the enemy will give us the "go-by" and move on our communications.

Very respectfully, yours,

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT,
March 9, 1865—11.50 a. m.

Major-General Cox,
Commanding:

The enemy are reported to be moving a force along their lines toward our left. I send this along through my division and that of General Ruger, to you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

I. N. PALMER,
Brigadier-General.

WISE'S FORKS, March 9, 1865—11 p. m.

Brigadier-General PALMER,
Commanding First Division, &c.:

Our cavalry on my extreme left report our cavalry vedettes driven in by rebel cavalry about two miles down the Trent road. This may mean that some cavalry squad has cut through to do some mischief in our rear, or that it is a reconnaissance. Please notify by signal General Thomas' regiment, at Gum Swamp, to strengthen its pickets to its left and front (toward us), and send us word if they hear of anything. Please also have the intelligence telegraphed to the posts on the railroad and construction corps. Some of my wagons left Biddle road station at 6.30 p. m., and have come in. They heard nothing of the party of rebels reported this p. m.

J. D. COX,
Major-General.

WISE'S FORKS, March 9, 1865—12 p. m.

Brigadier-General PALMER:

The alarm about our cavalry on the left turns out to be baseless. Please have the signal officer pass the word down the line. I send a dispatch from General Schofield.* Please telegraph him, and inform me also what report you get from the Neuse road about the supposed pontoon bridge. You will see that an application to the naval commander should properly be made through district or department headquarters, as General S. suggests, but I am well aware that your idea was simply to save time. I think the rumor of the bridge must be unfounded, but we must now have definite and reliable information to give General S.

J. D. COX,
Major-General.

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Major-General COUCH,

Comdg. Second and Third Divs., Twenty-third Army Corps:

GENERAL: I have heard nothing from you yet, and fear that you may have been unable to make as rapid progress as was expected. General Cox finds the enemy in pretty strong force in his front, and will be unable to make any further progress until you arrive. It is important that you make as good time as you can, but this I know you will do. I want you to cross Trent River at or near Trenton. Do not try to head the stream, as was contemplated before you started. That would carry you too far to the left under present circumstances. I think you can easily bridge the river a short distance above Trenton, but as a further security I will send some flats up to Trenton in time to meet you there if I hear from you in time.

Very respectfully,

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

P. S.—If you do not hear from me again, after crossing Trent River take to the right Kinston road, keeping east of Beaver Creek, and march for Wise's Forks, which is near the railroad and about a mile this side of Southwest Creek. General Cox is now there.

CAMP, SEVEN MILES WEST OF ONSLOW AND THIRTEEN SOUTH OF RICHLANDS,
March 9, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

GENERAL: I arrived here this evening in good condition. The bridge over Southwest Branch having been destroyed, has given us some little trouble. I will encamp near Richlands to-morrow night, and from thence shall proceed by the shortest road as laid down on your map. One company South Carolinians has picketed around Onslow and Richlands, four of which were to-day captured by Twining. Hoke is reported as moving north via Kenansville. The heavy rain of to-night may retard my wagons somewhat.

D. N. COUCH,
Major-General.

* See p. 748.

NEW BERNE, March 9, 1865.

General TERRY:

I send a dispatch in cipher for General Sherman.* Please forward it to him as early as possible. I shall probably need a division of your command here. Please have it ready to move by land or water upon short notice.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF WILMINGTON,
Wilmington, N. C., March 9, 1865.

Major PRINCE,
Commanding Post, Fort Fisher:

Your whole battalion will go down to-morrow. If you have opportunity, notify garrisons of Caswell and Smithville that they will be relieved. Captain Beach will go to Caswell and Captain Sheppard to Smithville. Make your arrangements to give them what companies you choose.

J. R. HAWLEY,
Brigadier-General, Commanding.

---

HDQRS. NORTHERN DIST., DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH,
Charleston, S. C., March 9, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. E. POTTER,
Commanding Forces:

GENERAL: The brigadier-general commanding directs that the One Hundred and seventh Ohio Volunteers be ready to embark on a man of war at the Atlantic dock, this city, at 7 a. m. to-morrow, for Georgetown.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
LEONARD B. PERRY,
First Lieut., Fifty-fifth Mass. Vols., and Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen.

---

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10, 1865—4 p. m.

Lieutenant-General GRANT,
City Point:

Two telegraph operators who were in the rebel service at Wilmington up to its capture and who have arrived here, having left Wilmington on the 2d instant, state that it was officially reported at Wilmington on the night of February 21 that Sherman's advance had reached Chesterfield, S. C., on that day and that a body of his cavalry were at Camden. When these men left Schofield had not moved from Wilmington.

C. A. DANA,
Assistant Secretary of War.

---

* See p. 744.

CITY POINT, VA., March 10, 1865—8.20 p. m.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War, Washington:

Schofield has been apparently slow in getting started, on account of unprecedented storms and bad weather. There has been but little time when vessels could run in over the bar, and, consequently, he was without transportation and could go no farther than men could carry rations to supply them. When he wrote, however, his wagons were arriving and he was going to start without waiting for full supplies.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

CITY POINT, VA., March 10, 1865.

Hon. E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War:

The following is taken from the Richmond Examiner of to-day:

VICTORY IN NORTH CAROLINA.

One thousand five hundred prisoners captured. The following official dispatch was received yesterday, announcing a victory to our arms in North Carolina:

"Hon. JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE,
Secretary of War:

"General Bragg reports that he attacked the enemy yesterday, four miles in front of Kinston, N. C., and drove him from his position. He disputed the ground obstinately, and took a new line three miles from his first. We captured three pieces of artillery and 1,500 prisoners. The number of the enemy's dead and wounded left on the field is large; ours comparatively small. The troops behaved most handsomely, and Major-Generals Hill and Hoke exhibited their accustomed zeal and gallantry.

"R. E. LEE."

Kinston, near which place the fight occurred, is situated on the direct route from Goldsborough to New Berne, and is about twenty miles east of Goldsborough and about thirty from New Berne. It is supposed that this force of the enemy was advancing from New Berne against Goldsborough for the purpose of cutting the railroad at that point. It is not probable after this repulse that the enemy will attempt to advance, and it is likely we shall next hear of them falling back upon New Berne or changing their course to some other point of the compass. This movement of the enemy was evidently designed to be co-operative with Sherman, and in this light and at this juncture it may be of great value to us in embarrassing the movements of Sherman.

* * * * *

FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.

We saw last evening an officer from South Carolina. He reports that the enemy have completely devastated the country through which they have passed. They have not spared a single house along their track, and have wreaked their vengeance upon that State with a most savage and murderous spirit. They have shown no mercy to either sex, and have spared nothing on their march which could be devoured by fire and sword. We are told the people have no conception of the conduct of Sherman's army, and the widespread destruction and the infamous excesses they have committed. In another column will be found an account of Sherman's burning of Columbia, which we get from a Southern paper kindly furnished us by the same officer. We regret to learn that Colonel Aiken, of General Butler's (South Carolina) cavalry, was killed in a skirmish near ——— last Friday evening. Major Barker, assistant adjutant-general of General Hampton's staff, was wounded at the same time, but not dangerously.

* * * * *

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Davis' Bridge, March 10, 1865—11.20 a. m.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

GENERAL: I have reached Davis' Bridge. It is partially destroyed, but can soon be repaired. There is some water on the other side, but the bottom seems to be hard. General G. A. Smith could not find a good right-hand road, and will come up to the bridge, where he will take a good road on this side of the creek leading to the plank road. The road General Smith is moving on is pretty bad, but he is repairing it. The bridge train and my headquarters train follow General G. A. Smith, and my headquarters will be at this point to-night. It is thirteen miles from this place to Fayetteville.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,

Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,

In the Field, Bethel Church, Twenty-six Miles from Fayetteville,March 10, 1865—2 p. m.

Major-General HOWARD,

Commanding Right Wing:

GENERAL: Yours of 11.20 is just received. The heavy rain last night caught Hazen's train in a swamp, and he has had to corduroy five miles, and his train is not yet up. Corse is behind him just on this side of Lumber River. I will come on in the morning as fast as possible, but you may go on in the morning ready to support Slocum, who reports that he will be ready to go into Fayetteville to-morrow. I have no doubt Johnston will try and get some troops to oppose, and it is well for us to anticipate his preparations, and, therefore, you may push so as to threaten the town on the southwest. Let Blair take from the plank road to the river; the two divisions of the Fifteenth on the direct road, communicating with Williams on the left, but let Slocum break into town. I will send a staff officer to him at daylight with orders to shove right in and push for the bridge. I think if the enemy fights us with a bridge to his rear he commits a mistake of which we must take immediate advantage. If any cause delays me, have preparations made at once to cross over to the east bank of Cape Fear below the town, but we will pause thereabouts till we can get some real news from Wilmington. You may send any number of messengers to convey the intelligence that we are hereabouts, all well, and bound for Goldsborough, unless necessity forces us toward Wilmington. I regret that this column has lost this day, but it seems inevitable.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,

Major-General, Commanding.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

Davis' Bridge, N. C., March 10, 1865—4.30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. W. T. SHERMAN:

GENERAL: I have just heard from General Blair. He found his bridge destroyed, but thinks he can build another without the aid of the pontoons. The plank road is a very good one. I have crossed General G. A. Smith, who repaired the bridge over the creek at this point, as I found the road on this side too bad. He is not yet entirely over, but will be to-night. I expected the head of General Logan's column near here, at the fork, before this. The cannonading heard to-day is reported to be on the plank road from Rockingham to Fayetteville.

Respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

Reports from different sources say that our gun-boats have come up the Cape Fear part way to Fayetteville.

Respectfully,

O. O. H.,
Major-General.

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Bethel Church, March 10, 1865—8 p. m.

Major-General HOWARD,

Commanding Army of the Tennessee:

GENERAL: Yours of 4.30 p. m., from Davis' Bridge, has just reached here, and I am directed by the general-in-chief to acknowledge the receipt of same. The road via this point is so very bad that nearly the entire day has been spent in corduroying, and but little progress has been made in moving.

I am, with respect,

L. M. DAYTON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 58.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT AND
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Davis' Bridge, N. C., March 10, 1865.

The Fifteenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. John A. Logan commanding, will move forward to-morrow on the direct road to Fayetteville, making as much distance as possible. The Seventeenth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair commanding, will push forward on Fayetteville by the Fayetteville southern plank road. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith's division may move on the road upon which it now is until it crosses the Little Rockfish Creek. These headquarters and the bridge train will follow the Fourth Division, Seventeenth Army Corps.

By order of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard:

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

DAVIS' BRIDGE, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN,

Commanding Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Order two of your divisions, at least, this way, and make what headway you can to-day. Let General Hazen close up, and then go ahead. We will have trouble through this soil, and if you cannot reach with any portion of your main column Rockfish Creek, please send forward and have it bridged.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Antioch Church, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I respectfully report that I began pulling out of my camp on Shoe Heel Creek at 5 o'clock this morning; the roads, however, were such as to require almost continuous corduroying, and my advance was consequently very slow. Reaching the old Stage road I found the Fourth Division passing. I here built a substantial bridge over the stream that crossed the road at this point, so as to expedite my crossing. Following on in the rear of General John E. Smith, I moved over Lumber River (which occupied two hours), going into camp on Raft Swamp, some two miles beyond Randalsville at 8 p. m., having marched twelve miles, facing my troops south and southwest, covering the road on which I came in. My headquarters are at Antioch Church.

I am, major, very respectfully,

C. R. WOODS,
Brevet Major-General.

HDQRS. SECOND DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Raft Swamp, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that this command was engaged to-day in corduroying the road. The trains were moved up to west side of the swamp, the advance camping to-night six miles on the east side.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. W. B. HAZEN,
Commanding Second Division, Fifteenth Army Corps :

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to request you to move your division as far in the direction of Fayetteville to-morrow as you can, breaking camp at an early hour in the morning. The Fourth Division will be closed up upon your command. On reaching the intersection of your road with that from Randalsville, push on, unless another division has the road, when you will have to wait until it passes.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
McCann's Plantation, N. C., March 10, 1865—7 a. m.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps :

MAJOR: I have the honor to report the operations of this division for the 9th instant to be as follows: Moved from camp at Laurel Hill at 9 a. m., crossed Jordan's Creek (following Second Division), and moved on neighborhood roads via Leitch's Mills and Gilchrist's Bridge, crossing Lumber River at the latter point to near Randalsville. At Leitch's Mills the road, which before the rain commenced falling had been quite good, became impassable. Nearly all of the commissary train and First Brigade remained at this point all night, the men hauling out wagons with ropes, it being impossible to find ground sufficiently solid for animals to stand upon. Upon arriving at Gilchrist's Bridge, Major-General Logan ordered two or three regiments and pioneer corps to be sent to Randalsville. I immediately sent the Second Brigade, consisting of three regiments, and the corps. They bivouacked at 6.30 o'clock, within half a mile of Randalsville, without their transportation. The artillery and ordnance trains were parked between the hours of 8 p. m. and midnight on McCann's plantation, four miles from the river. A few of the forage and regimental wagons reached the same place between midnight and daylight. From the information received this morning, I think all of my trains will arrive during the a. m. Distance marched, fourteen miles, seven of which were corduroyed.

I am, major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. THIRD DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

Big Raft Swamp, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Maj. M. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to report that the First Brigade and supply trains having arrived at about noon, I moved forward, crossing Lowry and Big Raft Swamps, and camping at 6 p. m. upon the west side of the latter wherever I could find ground sufficiently solid to hold up the wagons. Distance marched, four miles, three of which were corduroyed.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. E. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

In the Field, McNeill's Plantation, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Maj. MAX. WOODHULL,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fifteenth Army Corps:

MAJOR: I have the honor to submit the following as a report of the movements of my division the 9th instant: Pursuant to orders from corps headquarters I broke camp at Springfield at 6 a. m. and moved to Laurel Hill, traversing two separate roads—the telegraph road and a road intersecting it from Springfield. From Laurel Hill I moved in rear of the Second Division to Johnson's plantation, in which vicinity I placed my command in bivouac at 11 p. m. Owing to the heavy rain and the bad condition of the roads, rendered so by the passing of the Second Division trains, I had commenced placing my command in bivouac at McNair's plantation at 6 p. m., when, receiving imperative orders from the major-general commanding corps, through an aide, to move across Lumber River, I again drew out my command, and feeling my way through the intense darkness, continued forward with the head of my column to Johnson's plantation, where I arrived at 9.30 p. m. At this time I received a report that the bridge across Juniper Creek had sunk, cutting off my supply and ordnance trains and two brigades infantry which could not possibly reach me before daylight. Under these circumstances I thought it expedient not to attempt to march farther, and therefore placed the advance brigade, and the trains with it, in bivouac at the last-named plantation, and the remainder of my command in camp near Juniper Creek. The labors and exposure of the men on this march were severe in the extreme, and they could not have placed less than four miles of corduroy and marched a distance of twelve miles.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JNO. M. CORSE,
Brevet Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. M. CORSE,

Commanding Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: I am directed by the general commanding to request you to move your command at an early hour to-morrow morning in rear of the Second Division, well closed up on that command. You will please move as far in the direction of Fayetteville as you can.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MAX. WOODHULL,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS, No. 39.	}	HQRS. 4TH DIV., 15TH ARMY CORPS, In the Field, McNeill's Plantation, N. C., March 10, 1865.
-------------------------------------	---	---

I. The movement of this division for to-morrow, the 11th instant, will be as follows: The First Brigade in advance, the Second Brigade in center, and the Third Brigade in the rear. Trains to move from Bethel Church in the same order as heretofore. In commencing the march to-morrow, the following directions will be observed in order that the command may be closed up upon arriving at Bethel Church, and at the same time no delay occasioned, viz: All trains and the battery at this point will move at 5 a. m. sharp on direct Fayetteville road through Bethel Church. At 5.30 a. m. Colonel Adams will move with his command or directly in rear of the trains to same point, and at 6 a. m. Colonel Hurlbut will move his command by same route, closing up the entire column. At 7.30 a. m., or as soon as the trains from this point shall arrive, General Rice will move from Bethel Church on Fayetteville road. At Bethel Church, the trains and battery will take the position assigned them in the column, and in such a manner as not to delay the movement. With exception of two regiments in advance, and two in rear, the troops will march by the side and to the right of battery and train, i. e., from Bethel Church.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. John M. Corse:

L. H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION, FIFTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
McNeill's Plantation, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Brig. Gen. E. W. RICE,
Commanding First Brigade:

GENERAL: The ordnance and supply trains of the division have been ordered to cross to Bethel Church. As soon as they shall be well drawn out, you will follow with your brigade and its train, moving to that point and taking command of all troops and trains of the division which you may find there. You will see that the trains are closely parked and securely picketed. Besides your command there will be the Twelfth and Fiftieth Illinois Infantry Volunteers. You will probably not be able to move before 9 p. m. Please ascertain when the trains shall have passed, in order that no time may be lost. The Sixty-sixth Indiana has been ordered on from the place where they were at work, and are in camp at the church.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. M. Corse:

LOUIS H. EVERTS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Davis' Bridge, March 10, 1865—1.45 p. m.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: Have just arrived at the bridge and find General Giles A. Smith across the stream with his troops, and his train will commence crossing in an hour. Just after I left General Howard to go to you, General Smith came up, and after reconnoitering the swamp half a mile from this point on cross-road, decided that it was impracticable to cross train without making a bridge several hundred feet in length, and that it would be impossible to reach the plank road to-night, and as General Hazen was a long distance in the rear, and he had the road all to himself, concluded to cross his division here. About two miles from Davis' Bridge, on the other side of the creek, there is a right-hand road that intersects plank road some three and a half or four miles from your crossing. General Smith will take this road at an early hour in the morning, and will probably swing in ahead of your other divisions. I trust this will prove satisfactory to you. It would be impossible for General Smith to get on to the plank road by the cross-road on west side of creek to-night, and by crossing at this bridge he will be able to take advance of your command to-morrow. An order has been sent to Michigan Engineers to report to you at once, as you desired.

I have the honor to be, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. E. STRONG,
Chief of Staff.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Rockfish Creek, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Capt. A. M. VAN DYKE,
Asst. Adj. Gen., Department and Army of the Tennessee:

CAPTAIN: My First and Third Divisions are in camp here. The bridge over Rockfish Creek is burned, but I shall have it rebuilt to-night.

The bridge over Little Rockfish is partly burned but can be easily repaired. I shall send forward at daylight to have it done. I shall not need the First Michigan, and will send orders for them to move with the Fourth Division.

Very respectfully,

FRANK P. BLAIR, JR.,
Major-General.

HDQRS. DEPARTMENT AND ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
Davis' Bridge, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. F. P. BLAIR,
Commanding Seventeenth Army Corps:

GENERAL: General G. A. Smith's division was entirely across with trains before 6 o'clock. The First Michigan Engineers did not arrive here until near dark, and has gone into camp near here. The general thought that as they had worked hard all day that he would not send them forward, but will do so at an early hour to-morrow morning if you need them. The general thinks that you may move General Smith's division forward to-morrow a. m. on the road on which he is now moving, beyond Little Rockfish, over which there is a bridge which needs very little repair.

Very respectfully, your obedient seryant,

A. M. VAN DYKE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL ORDERS, { HDQRS. SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
No. 63. } Near Rockfish Creek, N. C., March 10, 1865.

I. Division commanders will cause a sufficient number of good cattle to be collected in the country to have fifteen days' supply of beef continually on hand.

II. The State of North Carolina is to a great extent loyal, and as such, a marked difference should be made in the manner in which we treat the people and the manner in which those of South Carolina were treated. Nothing should be taken from them except what is absolutely necessary for the use of the army, and to this end the following regulations for foraging are made and will be strictly enforced: A foraging party for each division will be organized, to consist of sixty men and the proper number of commissioned officers. Reliable officers will be selected for these parties, officers who can and will control their men, and they will be held strictly responsible for the acts of the men. The men will not be permitted to enter dwelling houses under any circumstances. They must be kept together and at all times under the eye of a commissioned officer. If it is necessary to detach a portion of the party they will be sent under charge of a commissioned officer. These parties will take nothing but what is necessary—that is, animals, food for the command, and forage for the stock. Each division and brigade headquarters, battery, and train will be allowed a sufficient number of foragers, to be regulated by division commanders, and placed in charge of a reliable non-commissioned officer, who will keep them together and subject them to the rules prescribed for the division party. Each of these foragers will be provided with a pass. Division commanders will cause all animals to be taken from persons not authorized to be mounted. All unserviceable animals will be shot, and after filling up the batteries and train the rest will be turned over to Lieut. Col. E. M. Joel, chief quartermaster Seventeenth Army Corps, to be disposed of as the major-general commanding may direct. All led horses must be kept in their places in the column. Provost-marshals of divisions will patrol their line of march with a detachment of mounted men, and they will arrest and dismount all mounted men found away from the line of march, unless they are regularly detailed foragers with their officers and complying with this order. Where division commanders deem it necessary they may send a detachment of infantry under charge of a good officer to forage on the flank. They will not be permitted to go in advance of the column or to a greater distance than five miles to the flank. These men will not be allowed, under any circumstances, to separate or to enter houses, and the officer in charge will be held to strict accountability for their acts. Provost-marshals will arrest all men other [than] these, found away from their commands. All officers are charged with the execution of this order and will arrest any men found violating it. The inspector-general's department will see that none but persons authorized are mounted. Division commanders may retain such number of unserviceable animals as they may wish to mount their foot-sore men on.

* * * * *

IV. The movement to-morrow will be to Fayetteville. Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. Smith, commanding Fourth Division, will move forward as directed by General Howard on the road he is now on to Fayetteville, communicating with the major-general commanding when he reaches Little Rockfish Creek. Maj. Gen. J. A. Mower, commanding First Division, will move forward at 7 a. m. Brig. Gen. M. F. Force, commanding Third Division, will follow the First Division. The First Regiment Michigan Engineers, Col. J. B. Yates commanding, will follow the Fourth Division. The Ninth Illinois Mounted Infantry will move from Rockfish Factory at 7 o'clock.

By command of Maj. Gen. F. P. Blair:

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HDQRS. FIRST DIVISION, SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
In the Field, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Captain CADLE, Jr.,

Assistant Adjutant-General, Seventeenth Army Corps:

I have just heard from my supply train and I find that it will not be able to reach this point before 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, as the most of it, together with one brigade of troops, is still on the other side of creek, about seven miles back. Shall I take the advance to-morrow?

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOS. A. MOWER,
Major-General, U. S. Volunteers.

SPECIAL ORDERS, } HDQRS. THIRD DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS,
No. 57. } In the Field, N. C., March 10, 1865.

This command will move forward at 8.30 a. m. to-morrow, following the First Division. The Second Brigade, Col. G. F. Wiles commanding, will have the advance, moving troops on the right of the road. The First Brigade, Col. C. Fairchild commanding, will follow the Second Brigade, detailing one regiment for rear guard. Artillery and trains in usual order.

By order of Brig. Gen. M. F. Force:

J. C. DOUGLASS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. FOURTH DIVISION SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Rockfish Creek, March 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. O. O. HOWARD:

SIR: Bummers report that they have been within two or three miles of Fayetteville. All citizens report no force there. A factory operative, who voluntarily came in, says he left there at 11 o'clock yesterday. There were only a few hundred soldiers there then. They were moving away machinery on the Coalfield or Western Railroad. The citizens told him that Hardee's army would be there to-day, but he thinks they have left for Raleigh. The Fourteenth Corps are reported on another plank road five miles to our left. I should like to go in to-morrow.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GILES A. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

---

DAVIS' BRIDGE, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. GILES A. SMITH:

GENERAL: Your dispatch received. General Blair has been directed to push you straight on, at least as far as Little Rockfish Creek, where the roads are very near each other. General Sherman has particularly requested that I will not push my wing into Fayetteville. You will therefore halt in the suburbs of the city. The arsenal is south of the town. General Slocum is expected to march in to-morrow. If you do not get other orders from General Blair you may push on at 6.30 a. m. and repair the bridge over the next creek (Little Rockfish). I will join you there in person.

Very respectfully,

O. O. HOWARD,
Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH DIVISION,
Rockfish Creek, March 10, 1865.

Capt. C. CADLE, Jr.,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

SIR: I have the honor to report my command all snugly in camp on the northeast side of Rockfish Creek. If I am not ordered into Fayetteville in the morning I shall strike your road about two miles from your bridge. I can start at any hour you may direct, so as to get ahead of the column. Prisoners brought in report no enemy in Fayetteville. A factory operative who left there at 11 o'clock yesterday says there were not over 200 or 300 men there. They were expecting Hardee's troops there this morning, but he thinks they have all gone to Raleigh. There were no new works there but they were moving machinery away on the Coalfield or Western Railroad. Bummers report the Fourteenth Corps encamped on another plank road about five miles to our left. I should like to take Fayetteville in the morning, provided Generals Blair and Hardee were willing. I do not believe there is much force there. The Fifteenth Corps are not up.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GILES A. SMITH,
Brevet Major-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
Rockfish Creek, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. G. A. SMITH,
Commanding Fourth Division:

GENERAL: I have referred your communication of this evening to the major-general commanding, and he directs me to say that General Sherman wishes the Left Wing to enter Fayetteville first, but if we meet any resistance we can drive them and take possession. Therefore, should the enemy oppose your movement, you may take Fayetteville if you can. I think the right wing of this corps will be before you. That, however, will not prevent your inscribing "Fayetteville" on your banners. Should you find no opposition you will halt before reaching the city and await orders. You will move on the road you are now on, communicating with us at Little Rockfish and at any other place you may think proper. The information you have coincides with what prisoners that we have taken say. I send you a duplicate of the order for to-morrow.*

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. CADLE, JR.,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

---

HDQRS. MILITARY DIVISION OF THE MISSISSIPPI,
In the Field, Raft Swamp, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Maj. Gen. H. W. SLOCUM,
Commanding Left Wing:

GENERAL: The heavy rain of last night caught the column with which I am in the swamp, which is bottomless and has to be cleared and corduroyed for miles to let the trains and artillery pass. The Seventeenth Corps is now at Rockfish Creek and will have time to repair the bridges and push into Fayetteville to-morrow, Saturday. I want you to go in first. This you can do in your own way, but General Howard will have the Seventeenth Corps and two divisions of the Fifteenth near enough to support. Do all that is possible to secure the bridge across Cape Fear, but if, as I suppose will be the case, the enemy burn it, effect a lodgment at once across and make a pontoon bridge with a brigade across intrenched. We will await there some days. Destroy nothing till I meet you, unless there be special reason that you know I will approve. I will try and be near you by sunset. Should it be that Johnston has resolved to defend Fayetteville with a large force, it is to our interest, and you can engage his attention on the north and northwest, whilst General Howard closes in to the southwest. Avoid intrenchments, but make haste to prevent the making of them. I send you this message which may seem superfluous, but I am with troops delayed by the swamp and cannot afford to leave anything to chance. I have sent messengers and orders to Wilmington. I set much store on a lodgment east of Cape Fear River, and would advise your having the pontoons convenient. The weather is now clearing away, and will give us, I hope, some days of sunshine. Our roads here are swampy in the extreme, but yours, I hope, have proven better.

---

* See paragraph IV, p. 761.

Yours,

W. T. SHERMAN,
Major-General, Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS LEFT WING, ARMY OF GEORGIA,
Sixteen Miles from Fayetteville, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. DAVIS,
Commanding Fourteenth Corps:

GENERAL: The major-general commanding directs that you move your command to-day to this side of Little Rockfish Creek (at the Ten Mile Post), get your divisions and trains together, and await the arrival of the Twentieth Corps. He thinks you will not get farther than that point to-day.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBT. P. DECHERT,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

SPECIAL
FIELD ORDERS, }
No. 20.

HDQRS. FOURTEENTH ARMY CORPS,
*Thirteen Miles from Fayetteville, N. C.,
March 10, 1865.*

The advance will be resumed to-morrow as follows: General Baird (directing his quartermaster to report his trains to General Carlin) will move forward unencumbered upon the Fayetteville road at 6 a. m. General Carlin, taking charge of the transportation of the advance division, will move at 7 a. m. General Morgan, with the reserve artillery, &c., will follow General Carlin.

By order of Bvt. Maj. Gen. J. C. Davis:

A. C. McCLURG,
Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Staff.

HDQRS. SECOND BRIG., SECOND DIV., 14TH ARMY CORPS,
Near Fourteen-Mile Post, N. C., March 10, 1865—7 p. m.

Captain WISEMAN,
Assistant Adjutant-General:

CAPTAIN: I have the honor to report my command in camp. I reached General Kilpatrick's headquarters, in accordance with instructions from corps headquarters transmitted through you, at 10 this a. m. At his urgent request I remained with him until 2 this p. m. The engagement this morning was one of considerable magnitude, resulting in the discomfiture of the rebel forces after they had occupied Kilpatrick's camp. Prisoners were taken from six different brigades, whose testimony is concurrent to the effect that the whole rebel army is straining every nerve to reach Fayetteville before our forces can do so. Prisoners captured in the charge this morning also say that two divisions of their army were still in their rear. To-night I captured a prisoner who claims to belong to Rhett's division, and that it was marching on a road to our left, and he (the prisoner) thought it was less than a mile off. If this is true Kilpatrick will strike it to-night, as he is on the Chicken road, immediately on our left.

I have the honor to remain, captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN G. MITCHELL,
Brigadier-General, U. S. Volunteers.

P. S.—I tried to find the general's headquarters this evening, but failed to do so.

M.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH ARMY CORPS,
Rockfish Creek, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Maj. L. M. DAYTON,

Asst. Adj. Gen., Military Division of the Mississippi:

MAJOR: I left Buffalo Creek a mile east of Lumber Creek this morning, and after corduroying every foot of the ten miles to this point reached here at 3.30 p. m. I find this creek and overflow at least 300 feet broad, with a depth of from three to eight feet. I have the pontoon train up, and shall have a bridge ready by daylight. I have never seen so spongy and treacherous a road as to-day. If made of jelly it could not have been less firm. A dispatch from General Slocum this morning says the Fourteenth Corps expected to encamp to-night on Little Rockfish Creek. My messenger says its train was stretched out for ten miles behind the camp of last night. My train is well up. I send some newspapers. Firing was heard this morning on our left front, probably from our cavalry.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. S. WILLIAMS,
Brevet Major-General, Commanding.

ORDERS.]

HEADQUARTERS TWENTIETH CORPS,
Near Rockfish Creek, N. C., March 10, 1865.

This command will march toward Fayetteville to-morrow, as follows: Third Division, Second Division, First Division. General Ward will start at 6 a. m., and will march the troops of his division in the advance, and will repair the roads. He will send three regiments ahead to Nicholson's Creek to prepare the crossing there. General Geary will follow the Third Division, and will cover his own train and that of the Third Division. General Jackson will detail three regiments as rear guard. The tool wagons of each brigade of the Third Division will accompany their respective brigades. The artillery will have the same positions in the column as in the march of to-day. That portion of the pontoon train which is not used in the construction of the bridge at this point will march at the head of the trains of the Third Division, starting at 6 a. m. The balance of that train will follow as soon as the corps shall have passed the bridge.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. A. S. Williams:

CHAS. MOYER,
Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

WISE'S FORKS, March 10, 1865.

(Received 13th.)

Lieutenant-General GRANT:

The enemy made a heavy attack upon our center and left to-day, but was decisively repulsed and with heavy loss. His dead and badly wounded men left upon the field. We also took several hundred prisoners. Our loss is small. General Couch is only twelve miles from here to-night, and will be up early in the morning. We took prisoners from Lee's and Stewart's corps. They say two corps are here, and the rest of Johnston's are coming.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major General.

(Forwarded by General Grant to the Secretary of War 13th.)

NEW BERNE, March 10, 1865—1.40 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD:

The scout on the Neuse road found it barricaded at Core Creek, but no enemy. They then crossed to the Dover road, and are pushing forward. Am I to start the boat up the Trent River before hearing from General Couch?

G. W. SCHOFIELD,
Brevet Brigadier-General.

WISE'S FORKS, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Brigadier-General SCHOFIELD:

I want General Couch to come straight here, that he may go to Trenton in compliance with my dispatch sent yesterday. For that contingency send the boat up the river to-night, or at daylight if it cannot go in the night. Send Lieutenant Williams up here to-morrow.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
New Berne, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,

At the Front:

Party sent to meet General Couch could not cross Mill Creek. Sent horses back and goes on foot with part of his command. He had several men badly injured in attempting to cross. Could not repair bridge.

G. W. SCHOFIELD,
Brevet Brigadier-General.

WISE'S FORKS, March 10, 1865.

Brig. Gen. G. W. SCHOFIELD,

New Berne:

The enemy attacked heavily on our left and center, but was repulsed with pretty heavy loss. A large part of Johnston's army is here, and

I think the rest is coming. They will probably try it again to-morrow. Couch is heard from, and is to be at Beaver Dam Creek to-night. I hope he will get up in time. We shall try to hold here until he comes, even though the enemy may get in our rear. Bring up all the troops from Morehead to New Berne, and prepare to hold that place in any event. Use the trains to bring up supplies here and troops to New Berne. All other work may be stopped for a day or two.

J. M. SCHOFIELD,
Major-General.

---

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 10, 1865—6.40 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,
At the Front:

Dispatch received. Have ordered everything up from Morehead City. Shall arrange to put all convalescents, negroes, and citizens into the works if necessary. Lieutenant Williams, from General Couch, is here.

G. W. SCHOFIELD,
Brevet Brigadier-General.

---

HEADQUARTERS,
In the Field, March 10, 1865—7.30 p. m.

Brigadier-General SCHOFIELD:

General Couch is within a short distance of here. You need not send the boat. He will be here by daylight. All is lovely and the goose hangs high.

WM. M. WHERRY,
Major and Aide-de-Camp.

---

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 10, 1865—9 p. m.

Major-General SCHOFIELD,
At the Front:

I started the boat at 4 p. m. to-day. Williams says General Couch intended to cross the Trent at or near Beaver Dam Creek. I will send him up in the morning.

G. W. SCHOFIELD,
Brevet Brigadier-General.

---

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Brevet Brigadier-General EASTON,
Chief Quartermaster Military Dir. of the Mississippi, Morehead:

Major-General Schofield directs that all troops at Morehead come to this place at once, including the regiment now under your orders. Colonel McChesney will attend to their shipment.

G. W. SCHOFIELD,
Brevet Brigadier-General.

HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA, ARMY OF THE OHIO,
New Berne, N. C., March 10, 1865.

Brig. Gen. L. C. EASTON,
Chief Quartermaster Military Division of the Mississippi:

GENERAL: I have received a telegram from Major-General Schofield to the following effect: Use all railroad transportation for the purpose of sending stores to the front and for bringing troops from Morehead to New Berne. All other work may be stopped for a day or two. It was in compliance with instructions contained in this telegram that I telegraphed you this evening in regard to troops under your orders. Please spare the last possible man.

I am, general, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
G. W. SCHOFIELD,
Brevet Brigadier-General.

---

NEW BERNE, N. C., March 10, 1865—6 p. m.

Colonel MCCHESENEY, Morehead City:

Major-General Schofield directs that you come to this place with your whole command at once. Load the train now there and send it up to-night. The balance will come early in the morning. Report to me your effective strength.

G. W. SCHOFIELD,
Brevet Brigadier-General.

---

HDQRS. DEPT. OF NORTH CAROLINA, ARMY OF THE OHIO,
In the Field, New Berne, March 10, 1865.

Capt. J. J. McLANE,
Commanding Detachment of First North Carolina Volunteers:

